YBMC LAYS PLANS FOR OLD CAR DERBY

The Young Business Men's Club held their regular dinner meeting at the Rainbow Room Tuesday night, with fine attendance of the membership, and Paul DeMyer, mayor of Fulton, and C. P. Mabry, mayor of Hickman, as guests. In absence of Lynn Phipps, the president, the meeting was presided over by Bob Binford. Mayors DeMyer and Mabry were guests of the club and told of the merits of T. V. A. and municipal ownership of light and power plants as revealed by surveys made by city officials of Fulton and Hickman. The Young Business Men's Club is supporting the city administration in its efforts to obtain T. V. A. service in Fulton. Mayor DeMyer and Councilman Lowe discussed figures taken from the city records and stated that the city of Fulton is in the best financila condition of any town of equal size in this area. They explained that the question of securing municipal ownership of the electric distribution system and T. V. A., will be submitted to the vote of the people on November 8, and that the $110,000 revenue bonds will be against the revenue of the plant and will not increase taxes. In addition to this amount, which is to be loaned by the federal government, they pointed out, that an outright grant of $85,000 would be given through the WPA project.

Vernon Owen, TVA chairman for the Young Business Men's Club, held an open discussion of the question, and assisted by DeMyer and Mabry, disclosed information on the subject.

Plans were announced for a dance to be sponsored by the club on Friday night, October 28 at the Woman's Club, with Pat Doran and His Orchestra furnishing the music.

CASEY JONES MARKER UNVEILED SUNDAY

Almost 40 years after Casey Jones drove the crack Cannon Ball fast train through freight cars at Vaughn, Miss., a monument to the storied engineer was dedicated Sunday afternoon at Cayce from which Casey got his nickname.

Senator Alben W. Barkley led 2,000 persons in the unveiling of a marker to the memory of the man who died in the crash and who told his negro fireman, "Jump, Sim, jump; there's two locomotives agoing to bump." Sim Webb, that fireman, stood before the marker Sunday with tear-filled eyes.

John Luther Jones, who as a lad 50 years ago romped over the fields near this little hamlet of Cayce, became Casey Jones at a boarding house in Jackson, Tenn. Casey had been transferred there after serving at Cayce a few years as an assistant telegraph operator.

On the simple stone marker is a brass plate which pictures the famous Cannon Ball driven by the ace engineer of the Illinois Central System when he met his death on April 30, 1900. Under the engine is the following tribute:

"In this community the famous locomotive engineer, John Luther Jones (alias Casey Jones), spent his boyhood days. Casey's many record feats as locomotive engineer engrossed him deeply in the hearts of his fellow workers. On the morning of April 30, 1900, while running the I. C. fast mail train

CITIZENS OF SMALL TOWNS

There are about 3,000 county seats and 10,000 towns in the United States with eleven or twelve thousand weekly newspapers. There are approximately 2,000 daily newspapers. Cities of 100,000 inhabitants or more have a population of 36 million people.

The rural population is 53 million, together with an additional 10 million living in small cities, plus additional millions living in towns and villages.

Census statistics leave one with the impression that most places under 25 thousand inhabitants are connected with rural and small town regions, and so closely tied together in their human relations and trade that they constitute that great indistinguishable class of our people so often referred to as "small towns." Perhaps nearly two-thirds of the United States is outside the influence of the greater cities. In 13 or more States there are no cities in the big population league.

Politicians have known this for years. Advertisers are becoming aware fo it.

WAR AGAINST DEPRESSION

The United States has had a lot of experience in waging wars against depressions and post-war conditions in recent years. The Government is employing the same measures at this time that proved effective the last time.

The method is more direct than that which falls to the responsibility of big and little business and that immense part of the American public, to whom it concerns. By way of illustration, it is evident that if an automobile manufacturer is prevented from producing cars that he will not need tires from the great rubber industry, or trainloads of steel, or the greater part of cotton that goes into any one manufacturing industry; not to overlook the fact that glass, upholstery fabrics, copper, wood, brass and other products of agriculture, the mines and factories are supplied from every State in the Union—to go into automobiles.

Dealers and merchants in all lines are calling for more goods. To fill these orders the manufacturers are buying raw materials.

No statement could be more important than that General Motors, Chrysler and Ford expect an improvement in business for 1939. The automobile industry "pulled the country out of the last depression."

With all the natural advantages that the Nation enjoys there is reason for encouragement in this month's outlook, confirmed by official and unofficial statistics, that there is an upward turn for the better in these affairs of the Nation that are of most concern to our people.—Hardin County Enterprise.

A 10-FIGURE GAMBLING BILL

According to a recent estimate, Americans each year spend $7,000,000,000 on games of chance. This is almost as much as the total annual expenditure of the National Government. Even if doubting statisticians were to divide it by two, the estimate, still would represent a staggering sum of money.

But the estimate is not to be divided. Seven billion dollars can be accepted as a fair approximation of America's yearly gambling bill, a bill amounting to more than one-tenth of the entire national income. This is made up of the bets laid on horses, of the money passed across gaming tables, of the pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters aggregately lavished on such things as the furtive "numbers" racket, and back-room crap game, the candy-store slot machine and the popular church bingo.

• THIS AND THAT

The Czechoslovakian government has launched a determined program to build a more unified republic by binding together Czechs and Slovaks remaining within its narrowed area.

The Munich settlement of Chechoslavakia's minority problem, has raised the question of the existent partition of Ireland. Prime Minister De Valera has indicated that the time was opportune for a plebiscite in parts of Northern Ireland's six counties which are under the jurisdiction of the Belfast Parliament and a governor, appointed by the King.

The British pick-a-back seaplane Mercury took off from the back of the mothership Maia last week for a 6,370-mile flight to Capetown, South Africa, in a try for a nonstop long-distance record.

In an apparent attempt to strengthen the New Deal's fight against acute agricultural conditions and quiet mounting criticism of Administration farm legislation, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has ordered sweeping personal and administrative changes in his department.

Italy cracks down on Jews, may send them to Ethopia. Italian men and women are forbidden "from marrying "peoples of Semitic, Hamatic, negro or other non-Arayan races." Discrimination against American Jews in Italy may jeopardize the status of Italian citizens living in the United States.

A cross-section survey conducted by the American Institute of Public Opinion among the voting population indicates that 78 per cent favor Green over 22 per cent for Lewis and his C. I. O. organization.

"$30 every Thursday" plan is enriching promoters, and it is estimated that old people are contributing $2,400 daily to promoters of the project. The plan proposes a constitutional amendment to have the state pay $30 a week in scrip to all unemployed over 50. It is estimated that under the amendment $780,000,000 in scrip would have to be paid out to 500,000 persons in one year.

Business Generally Showing Renewal

With the dissipation of the European war scare, business generally throughout the country entered the first week of October with renewed vigor, according to reports to the Department of Commerce from 36 key cities, just received by its Louisville District Office. One of the most significant features of the reports was the larger number of cities showing substantial increases in building permits issued in September as compared with the same month last year. New York City led in this respect, with an increase of almost $10,000,000 in plans filed. Scattered reports gave evidence of increasing employment. Wholesale volume as a whole was better last than at this time last year. Retail trade, however, continued to lag behind last year's comparatives, and the month of September, as a whole, did not come up to expectations.

Louisville reported that sharp gain in retail trade over preceding week failed to raise volume to level of last year. Decline from last year ranged between 10 and 15 per cent. Wholesale activity reported steady. Industry continued to advance operating rates cautiously.

Strike of 700 employees of automobile assembly plant at Evansville, Ind., stopped work of 1,500 other workers.

Kentucky Employment Services reported placements, 589, increase of 5.3 per cent over preceding week.

Louisville bank clearings decreased 3.2 per cent from year ago, Louisville showing least decline of 22 major cities.

116-acre farm in Nelson county, Ky., sold at $75 an acre, making a total of $8,816.

Successful drilling of a flowing oil well in Clinton county, Ky., reported; also two new oil wells drilled in Johnson County, Ky.

Sunday School Convention Oct. 20-21

Final preparations are being made for the great Convention of Kentucky Sunday Schools to be held in Warren Memorial Presbyterian Church, Fourth and Broadway, Louisville, Ky., on Thursday and Friday, October 20-21, 1938.

This is the first convention to be held in eight years and no pains are being spared to make it the greatest convention of its kind ever held in Kentucky. From this time on it is the purpose of the State Association to have a great convention each year.

The out of State speakers include the Rev. Mark A. Dawber, D.D., Executive Secretary of the National Home Missions Council and expert in rural Church affairs, with headquarters in New York City; Charles J. Truck, LL.D., of Philadelphia, Pa., former President of Center Colloge, now Director of the Department of Social Education and Action, Presbyterian Church, U.S.A.; Miss Mary Alice Jones, Chicago, Ill., Director of Children's Work and Radio Education of the International Council of Religious Eucation; Miss Elizabeth Brown, Nashville, Tenn., Director of the Intermediate Department, Board of Christian Education of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South; and the Rev. J. Ambrose Dunkle, D.D., Pastor of the Tabernacle Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., in Indianapolis, Ind. Many of the outstanding religious leaders of the State are included in the program personnel.

One of the attractions of the Convention will be a quartet of mountain girls from a section of Bell County known as "South America" where is located the Henderson Settlement which in the last thirteen years has come to a very conspicuous school and settlement in the interests of the Christian religion.

The State Association insists that there is a place in some Sunday School for every Kentuckian whose age is between birth and one hundred years plus—babies on the Cradle Roll; those too feeble to attend in the Home Department; regular classes for all others. The Kentucky Sunday School Association holds aloft its banner inscribed: "Every Kentuckian enrolled and present in Sunday School for the study of the Work of God."

Laughing Around the World

A Condensed Question, Too

By IRVIN S. COBB

THIS one has at least one merit—I can vouch for its truthfulness. In a Southwestern city is stationed a bishop of the Episcopal church. He is a scholarly gentleman and one of the kindest men on earth. He has a little granddaughter, to whom naturally he is devoted. At the time when this incident occurred she was seven years old—the age when the average child asks more questions in one day than five average adults can answer.

On a Sunday morning the Reverend gentleman sat in his study reviewing the sermon he had prepared for the forenoon service. His granddaughter entered.

"Grandpa," she said, "I want to ask you something."

"Honey," he answered, "grandfather's terribly busy right now. You run along and play until after dinner. Then, when I come back from church I'll satisfy your curiosity. Won't that do?"

"No, it won't," she said. "This is very important."

"But the trouble is, my dear, that I'm afraid that if I answer one question you'll ask many others I'll forget the things I'm trying now to remember."

"No, I won't," she protested. "I just want to ask one simple question. And when you've told me that I'll go away and not bother you any more. That's a promise, grandpa."

"All right, then. It's understood between us that there is to be only one question. No then, my dear, what is it you want to know?"

"Tell me about condensed milk and the Westminster Confession."

When There's a Boy in the Family. By PERCY CROSBY

THE CLANCY KIDS Driving a Sharp Bargin. By PERCY L. CROSBY

No Progress Is Made In Sharing The Wealth

Efforts to share the wealth have made practically no progress, according to a survey of business released today by the American Federation of Labor.

Nearly half the non-relief families, 42 per cent, the survey says, receive less than $1,000 a year; nearly four-fifths, 79 per cent, live on incomes less than $2,000 a year. The lowest group, numbering 12,250,000 families, receive an average income of $605 a year. The next group, 10,980,000 families, receive between $1,000 and $2,000, or an average of $1,411.

The next group, those who receive from $2,000 to $3,000, is the first group nearly all of whom could buy a minimum health and efficiency living standard. Only 8 per cent if American families, the report states, receive more than $3,000 a year, but they receive nearly a third of the Nation's entire income. Five per cent receive between $3,000 and $5,000 and their average income is $3,664. Three per cent receive mroe than $5,000, with an average of $12,510.

"The 3 per cent of our families," the survey states, "who receive more than $5,000 have 21 per cent of our entire income. This group includes 75 families who have more than $1,000,000, but most of the group receives less than $30,000. Other important facts brought out by the National Resources Committee are: Large numbers at starvation levels; one third of all families receive less than $760 a year; one-tenth receive less than $410.

"The highest tenth of our families receive 36 per cent of our entire national income, while the lowest tenth receives less than 2 per cent. Nearly 5,000 families receive more than $100,000 a year while nearly 8,000,000 receive less than $750 a year."

The survey shows that wage increases and shorter hours have not increased income of workers. The average hourly wage rate in 1937 was 17 per cent higher than it was in 1929, the survey states, which was enough to give the worker a 1929 weekly wage if he works a full 40-hour week, but at today's part time week, he earns less than in 1929. In 1936 and 1937, when business was close to normal levels, so great was the efficiency introduced, that labor cost per unit of production was 6 per cent less than in 1929.

The survey indicates that business in general will be in better position to operate profitably this fall, as prices are no longer declining and inventory losses will not cut away profits. Due to efficiency, it is stated, labor costs will be lower than last fall.

DEPARTMENT OF CONSERVATION

1. Shoot carefully and respect the farmer's property.
2. Take only your share of the game. Your license does not permit you to shoot and fish for another.
3. Leave a goodly number for replenishment. Don't always take the limit.
4. Stamp out all fires.
5. Do not burn over any lands unnecessarily. Wildlife needs both food and cover.
6. Feed the birds in the winter.
7. Drive with care. The wild life cannot cope with our speed nor with the brightness of our car lights.

Fulton County Named After Robert Fulton

Fulton county, which was formed out of southwestern part of Hickman county in 1845, was named in honor of the great steamboat inventor, Robert Fulton. The established of the new county was caused by the desire of Moscow to become the county seat of Hickman county instead of Clinton. The people of Clinton, and notably Judges James determined at all hazards, to defeat the aspirations of Moscow, and for that purpose united with the citizens of Hickman, who were ambitious of having a county seat. Thus Fulton county, with her 184 square miles of territory, the garden spot of the Purchase, was formed.

The records of the county clerk's office contain the following: "Be it remembered, that at the Tavern House of Greenburg Watson, in the town of Hickman, on Tuesday, April 1, 1845, pursuant to an act of the General Assembly of Kentucky entitled an Act to Establish the County of Fulton, approved January 15, 1845, Robert Brown, James P. Tyler, Jesse Edmonston, Ralph McFadden, Sherdick BBoaz, Asa W. Clark, Hugh B. French and Thomas M. Smith, severally produced commissions form his excellency, the govern of this commonwealth, appointing them justices of the peace in and for Fulton county, and Thomas James a justice of pece for Hickman county, having administered to said Brown et al, all the oaths required by law to be taken by justices of peace, a county court was begun and held for the said county of Fulton."

The first court was held in the southwest corner of the building owned then by the Planters Bank of Tennessee, which stood on Clinton-st owned then by the Planters Bank of Tennessee, which stood on Clinton-st in Hickman. The first transaction recorded is the transfer of 100 acres of land, being the northwest quarter of Section 18, Town 1, Range 5 west, by Goodrich and othres to Greenbury Watson, dated February 13, 1845, the consideration being $500. The first mortgage dated March 1845, was made by Bruce M. Hughes to Matthew Watson, and transferred 160 acres of land in county, and one town lot in Hickman, the consideration being $2,000.

At the May term of court, 1845, the site of the first court house was selected, and the sum of $4,000 authorized to be expended in the erection of a suitable building. The structure, a two-story brick, was not raised, however, until 1847-48. The location of the court house can not be excelled for picturesque beauty. The yard is thoroughly supplied with rich shade, and the outlook along and across te majestic Mississippi is perfectly enchanting.

The first jail, a double log structure, was erected and received in 1846. It was torn down and replaced by a second in 1860. Falling down, it was supplanted by a third, a brick structure, in 1872, at a cost of several thousand dollars.

The first permanent settlement of the county was made at Hickman, then called Mills' Point, in 1819, by Mr. Mills. Daniel Baldridge, was born on a boat at Mills' Point about the same time, and is supposed to have been the first child born in this county. He subsequently lived on Mud Creek, from which place he removed to Arkansas about 1882.

"Famous for bravery and courage, the name of Casey Jones lives deeply set in the hearts of American people in both tradition and song. It can be truthfully said of him, "greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

Sim told the folks at the dedication Sunday how the engine ploughed through a freight train caboose, two carloads of grain and stopped in a carload of lumber. Although Casey died the passengers in the 12 cars behind him were saved. Casey's widow and two granddaughters removed the American flag which covered the marker.

The Casey Jones monument is set back about 20 yards from the intersection of Highway 94 on the southeast corner of the Cayce school grounds. A flight of concrete steps leads up to it from the parkway, which has been graded for automobiles. The stone is gray granite, six feet high, 14 inches thick and 3 1-2 feet wide. It is mounted on a concrete base making the total height seven feet.

ONE QUESTION LEADS TO ANOTHER

Your affairs are rarely so simple, whether they are business or social in nature, that a brief communication is adequate to settle them fully when the other party is in another city.

One question leads to another—and that is why a three-minute long distance telephone call is not only effective, but truly economical.

It is a two-way exchange of ideas. It saves time. It allows the warm tones of your voice to express your personality. It enables you to use a surprisingly large number of words. Best of all, it is low in cost.

Look in the front pages of your telephone directory, or ask the "Long Distance" operator, for the rates on the call you would like to make.

Long distance telephone rates on most calls are even lower after 7 P. M. every night, and all day Sundays. But any time, to anywhere, telephone to get results.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK!

What Will You Do To Help?

FACE the fact that you yourself, either through carelessness or indifference are partially responsible for America's annual Fire bill: thousands of lives, thousands of injuries and more than half a billion dollars in property damage! Face the further fact that you have paid your share of that bill in taxes and insurance premiums. Finally, consider the possibility that next year your life, or the life of a dear one, may be numbered among the thousands; that your property may be listed in next year's toll. What are you going to do about it?

Certainly there are numberless things you can do. Much progress has been made in the knowledge of Fire, its causes, and its prevention. Science has contributed no end of equipment both for preventing and fighting fire.

Modern building materials and methods of construction, modern heating systems, fire extinguishers, warehouses, safety deposit vaults and professional garment cleaners all offer means for doing your bit to conquer man's most terrifying enemy. Take advantage of these agencies for your protection. Adopt the precautionary measures suggested at the right. Do everything in your power to lessen the tragic waste of Fire. You owe it to yourself, your family and your neighbor.

1. Make sure that your match is out before throwing it away.
2. Extinguish the last spark of your cigar or cigarette.
3. Take care lest dry waste or oily rags accumulate in some out-of-the-way corner of your house.
4. Build your rubbish bon-fire where there is no danger of spreading and watch it carefully.
5. Have your electric wiring inspected regularly and repaired when necessary.
6. Avoid using kerosene, benzine or naptha for cleaning purposes.
7. Watch your heating system and chimney They should be kept clean and in perfect working condition.
8. Keep matches beyond the reach of your children and your children beyond the reach of any kind of fire.
9. Do not leave your forest camp fire before it is totally extinguished.

PERSONALITIES IN MUSIC

From Dairy to Music—and Back

By Daniel I. McNamara

DON'T try to "understand" music . . . enjoy it!

Dr. Frank J. Black, A.S.C.A.P., musical director, composer, conductor, and business executive extraordinary, believes that in music as in other things one man's meat is another man's poison.

Black says that regardless of its technical structure, all music resolves itself into two classes—the music one likes, the music one does not like. And he believes its prime function is to be enjoyed.

Thus, in the vast stream of music flowing daily through the channels which he supervises, is to be found music that appeals to every variety of music lover. Black himself, a brilliant artist, writes and orchestrates in virtually every idiom. He spends an average of more than 12 hours a day in his office or in the various broadcasting studios of NBC.

Black's Quaker parents mistakenly hailed him as successor to his father's successful dairy business when he was born in Philadelphia, November 28th, 1894. He was graduated from Haverford College as a chemist, but from early childhood had displayed talent in music. At 6 he had mastered the piano, and at 9 he stole away to a neighborhood motion picture house to play piano until his father hauled him home. At 12 he was a church singer and organist, and while he was completing his high school studies he commuted to become the favorite pupil of Rafael Joseffy, famous Hungarian pianist in New York.

He forsook chemistry to become an orchestra leader, first in Harrisburg, then in New York and Philadelphia. A pioneer in radio he achieved such prestige that in 1932 he was selected to be NBC's musical director. He has been honored with musical degrees in America and abroad, and is an officer with palms of the French Academy. He eschews the title of "Dr." Black, for modesty an outstanding characteristic.

Black acclaims America as the land of musical promise, the home of composers of extraordinary talent. Himself a prolific composer as well as arranger of thousands of musical works, he is a leading member of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers. He has done much to promote the interests of native music and musicians. Dairy farming, at Doylestown, Pa., is one of his hobbies, indicating the grip of his father's early training. Black's other hobby is flying.

SLICKERS

Not many will recognize the title of today's essay as applying to anything to eat. More refined people called them, even in my time and place, dumplings. If I can keep my mouth from watering for a while I want to talk about them, call them whatever you desire.

Fried chicken is good· baked chicken with dressing is one of our standard foods, but stewed chicken with dumplings is, to my way of thinking, the best of the whole lot. Since it is nearly impossible to eat such things without making noises that are now forbidden in civilized society· one seldom sees this old delicacy. Again I do not know how to cook them, except to say that the bony parts of the frying-sized chicken are stewed in some salted water; and strips or gobs of ordinary bread dough are added to the water at the appropriate time, so that the whole concoction gets done together. What Mrs. Post would do with such a [illegible] how to tackle it, though with or without manners. Get a spoon and a fork and wade in; use your fingers freely; make as many noises as you please; pile your bones on a plate or the edge of your bowl. That is sufficient, but what a thrill awaits one who has never tried slickers!

Please do not mistake this for chicken pie. That is well enough in its place, but it is a refined dish· capable of being served as food, with napkins and table manners. Chicken pie is baked; slickers are stewed. Some people regard them as food for semi-invalids, but a full-grown man with an appetite equally grown has found them in recent moths as good as they were when he was a small child.

Chicken soup or squirrel soup fay be invalid food. The only objection I used to have to this kind of food was its watery nature; it seemed a bit too thin to maintain life. It is true that after a few hard chills and the accompanying fever even this watery stuff tasted pretty good. But for a well person· good old chicken and dumplings! The next time you hear the old ballad that has been revived, "She'll Be Comin' 'Round the Mountain," make a resolution to taste chicken and dumplings before you sing it again; then you will know how welcome she was, whoever she may have been.

Plans Made In Obion For Federal Project

Tentative plans have been formulated in meetings of state, Federal and county educational authorities at Union City to make Obion County one of four counties in the United States that will be laboratories for a Government Better Home Living project.

This project, according to Miss Marie White of Washington, Federal Home Economics Supervisor for 12 Southern states, will take from five to eight years for completion in Obion county, and, if successful will be extended on a national scale.

Four states, Kansas, Ohio, Utah and Tennessee, were chosen by the Federal Government for this project and Obion County was selected by the Tennessee Department of Education. The selection of Obion County, Halbert Harvell, state commissioner of education states, was due to the fact that it has the best organized educational system of any rural county in the state, being second only to Shelby.

The project, as explained will aim to co-rodinate the entire county—its educational system, its religious organizations nad its social and recreational facilities—in a program to teach more complete living in the home and community. "It will teach people to take advantage of the things they have for a fuller living program," Miss White stated, adding that it will attempt to reach "the root of all permanent community improvement," the individual home.

No new organization in the county will be created to carry out the program; it will be done through present organizations in the county, such as the Extension Service, the Health Department, Parent-Teachers units, the schools, 4-H Clubs, Future Farmers, etc., co-ordinating their individual aims into the greater aim of individual and general improvement.

A committee to be in charge of carrying out this work in Obion county, under the supervision of Federal experts has been appointed. C. F. Fowler, county superintendent of schools; C. D. Hilliard, county elementary schools superviser; W. T. Latimer, chairman of the Obion County Board of Education, and principals and teachers of home economics and vocational agriculture in the county were present at a recent meeting. This committee consists of Supt. Fowler, Prof. Hilliard, Mrs. E. T. Jones, county P.-T. A. Council president; M. E. Whitson, principal of Obion schools; Miss Erin Tice, county home demonstration agent; E. L. Clark, vocational agriculture teacher at Woodland Mills High School; Miss Ernestine Diggs, home economics teacher at Rives High School, and Miss Martha Jones of the Obion County Health Department.

WHY CHIROPRACTIC?

Poise and posture stand for health or disease. Indigestion, colds, tuberculosis, melancholia and many other diseases, according to latest authorities, may be traced to bad posture, both in sitting and standing. This leads to distortion of the spine.

Few people know how to sit. They sit on the end of their spinal column in a slouchy way instead of placing their weight on the fleshy part of their thighs. Sit, stand and walk erect to promote good health.

The Electric Sewing Machine Is a Real Household Necessity

By IRA MILLER
Rural Electrification Bureau

IN THESE days of universal ready-to-wear clothing, it may surprise many farm wives to learn that the sewing machine still is considered almost a household necessity by practically three out of every four families living in rural areas.

According to preliminary results of a nation-wide study of consumer purchases being conducted by the U. S. Bureau of Home Economics and the Bureau of Labor Statistics, from 65 to 70 per cent of village families own sewing machines, the proportion differing little in various sections of the country.

The reasons for the continued popularity of this century-old household appliance are not difficult to determine. Both from the need for economy and because of a desire for individual styling and design, many farm women still do a large part of the family sewing.

The Government study previously mentioned also showed that, of the sewing machines owned, 41 to 56 per cent were foot powered and 10 to 30 per cent were electrically driven. A foot-operated machine is tiresome to run and this reduces the amount of sewing which can be done in a given time. Also, because of its necessarily irregular operation, such a machine seldom produces articles as perfectly finished as does one driven by electricity.

Although the majority of new sewing machines may be purchased with motor drive, the farm wife need not wait until her present machine is worn out to enjoy the advantages of electric power. A small motor can be added with very little trouble and expense, and will give entirely satisfactory service.

Power requirements are so small that energy consumption seldom will exceed one kw.-hr. per month (usually less) even when much sewing is done. At the average domestic rate, this is less than five cents—surely a small sum to pay for so much ease and convenience.

A Lesson For All the World

—By RAYMOND PITCAIRN—

Recently the civilized world has emerged from the black shadow of a great Fear.

It was the fear of war—a war which could have plunged both men and nations into new and terrible agonies of body and of spirit.

What has the ordeal taught them?

No one can say. But many will hope that as a result of the experience, both nations and their leaders may look more searchingly into the motives and actions which led them so close to the brink of catastrophe.

Many will hope that out of it may develop a different idea of statesmanship than that which, in recent years, has been tolerated by so much of the world.

They will hope for a cessation of attempts to unleash the twin demons of passion and hatred. They will hope for surcease from the vast and ugly chorus of disparagement which has crowded the air-waves; from efforts to keep whole populaces in a mood of irrational anger and hysteria; from endeavors to create bitter antagonisms not only between nation and nation, but between class and class, group and group, within the same borders.

And the people of every land will share that hope. For they know that the average man and worker still prefers the plowshare to the sword, the measured word to the violent phrase. They know that long after today's most provocative wise-crack has been forgotten, the world will remember the words of him who spoke with malice toward none, with charity for all.

For today the people of all lands have seen the grave dangers to which the constant preaching of hatreds, the modern obsession for violent phrase-making, can lead. And they have seen what calm thinking and sincere statement can do to save humanity from the catastrophe that constitutes an inevitable climax to all hymns of hate. They have been reminded anew that "peace begins just where ambition ends."

If the world, and its statesmen, have learned this lesson—then the cloud through which we have just passed will show a silver lining.

World-Wide Tobacco And Commerce News

Imports of American tobaccos at the port of Bremen during August 1938 amounted to 163,340 pounds, a heavy decrease (70 per cent) as compared with 542,300 in the preceding month, and a drop of 69 per cent in comparison with 532,290 in August 1937.

Tobacco imports into Bremen from all countries during August 1938, of 5,944,125 pounds, increased considerably (52 per cent) over 3,907,574 pounds in August 1937.

Imports of leaf tobacco into Japan during the first half of 1938 totaled 3,533,85 pounds, as compared with 8,619,711 in the first half of 1937, and 12,172,545 in the first half of 1936.

It is understood that the Tobacco Monopoly of Japan now holds enough American tobacco to last for about 15 months at the present rate of consumption.

During the first half of 1938, Japan's tobacco exports were in excess of imports for the first time in the history of the industry.

Statistics show that in the past three years there has been a decided upward trend in the consumption of cigarettes, cigars and cigarillos in Denmark, while consumption of smoking tobacco changed very little, the use of snuff increased slightly, and chewing tobacco decreased only by a small extent.

During the first 6 months of 1938, Greek tobacco exports stood at a new high, 20,997 metric tons, an advance of 14 per cent in volume over the first half of 1937.

Average daily sales fo chain drug stores in August 1938 were 4.2 per cent lower than in August 1937.

The dollar volume of retail financing of new passenger automobiles showed a decrease of 58 per cent for the month of August as compared with August 1937.

Exports of lead and lead products from the United States in August were valued at $236,305 and were little changed from the $240,656 trade of July.

Foreign shipments of 9,329 barrels of white non-staining and other special cements valued at $34,217 featured the $76,629 and 32,190 barrel August export trade of the United States in cement.

Aeronautic products sold abroad from the United States during August were valued at $5,379,621 as compared with $5,158,818 in August 1937.

The value of the U. S. whale catch for 1937 is conservatively estimated as $6,500,000 and fees for whaling licenses yielded $10,250 to the Federal Government.

Exports from the United States of asbestos and asbestos products gained sharply in August.

Canadian production of leather footwear, which has decined steadily since March 1938, recorded further declines during the month of July when production totaled 1,626,772 pairs, a decrease of 5 per cent compared with the production during June 1938 and 21 per cent compared with July 1937.

Exports of linseed from Argentina during the first six months of 1938 decreased 41 per cent compared with exports during the corresponding period of 1937.

Diesel operated vehicles in Egypt will be made to pay higher tax than those in effect at the present time if the recommendations made by a commission appointed to study the question in that country are adopted.

A factory, which manufacture steel sheets of all kinds as well as tin plate, in the process of construction at a site near Athens, Greece.

All future permits granted for amateur radio transmitting stations in Argentina will be restricted to Argentine citizens.

RASHID-HOMRA

Sunday morning the St. Edwards Catholic Church of Fulton was the scene of the wedding of Miss Freida Homra of Fulton to John Rashid of Keewanee, Illinois. Rev. Father Saffer performed the single ring ceremony.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her brother, Foad Homra. She wore a gown of snow white satin, made on Princess lines, with long tight sleeves with buffs on either shoulder, a stand up collar fell in a long train at the back. Her long tulle veil was fastened at her head with tiny orange blossoms mingled with tiny sea pearls. Her bouquet was of white roses and lillies of the valley.

Her bridesmaids and matron of honor preceded her to the altar which was literally covered with white gladiolas, tall white tapers burns at intervals among the flowers.

Her bridesmaids were dressed in changeable water taffeta in shaded colors of blue. Her matron of honor, Mrs. Sam Homra of Steele, Mo., sister of the bride was also in blue with a bouquet of briarcliff roses. Each bridesmaid carried a bouquet of Talisman roses. They were Miss Lillian Homra of Fulton and Mrs. T. A. Homra of Shidler, Okla., Miss Adelle Rashid of Keewanee , and Miss Yvonne Homra of Fulton.

Little Miss Barbara Ann Homra was the flower girl dressed in pink net with a tight bodice and very full skirt. She carried sweetheart roses.

William Rashid of Keewanee attended his brother as best man. The groomsmen were: Fred Homra of Hayti, Mo., Nicholas Salloum of Detroit, Mich., George Rashid of Fort Madison, Iowa, and Tom Rashid of Keewanee.

After the ceremony a well planned dinner was given by Mr. and Mrs. Foad Homra at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mose Homra on Norman-st. The centerpiece of the table was a three-tiered wedding cake with a minature bride and groom standing under an archway of flowers.

The couple left early in the afternoon for a wedding trip to Miami, Fla. They will make their home in Kewanee, where the groom is engaged in business.

Among the out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Naj Rashid, Miss Adelle Rashid, Mrs. N. Rashid, all of Keewanee, Mrs. H. J. Homra of Bristol, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Homra of Shidlre, Okla., Frank Farria, Idol, and George Rashid, Mose Nafieh and Jacob Rashid, all of Fort Madison, Iowa, Misses Lucille, Angeline, and Estelle Rashid of Keokuk, Iowa, Mr. Eaas Rashid of Detroit, Mich., Mrs. Wade Hamro and daughter, Maxine, and Miss Handoma Homra of Caruthersville, Mo., Mrs. John Hamra of Cardwell, Mo., Mrs. Jim Nafieh and Mrs. Elex Homra of Tiptonville, Tenn.
