

9-1-2016

Traditional Lyric

Bruce Elliot Alford

Follow this and additional works at: <http://digitalcommons.murraystate.edu/crsw>

Part of the Social Work Commons

Recommended Citation

Alford, Bruce Elliot (2016) "Traditional Lyric," Contemporary Rural Social Work: Vol. 8 : No. 2 , Article 19.

Available at: <http://digitalcommons.murraystate.edu/crsw/vol8/iss2/19>

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by Murray State's Digital Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in Contemporary Rural Social Work by an authorized editor of Murray State's Digital Commons. For more information, please contact msu.digitalcommons@murraystate.edu.

Traditional Lyric

Bruce Elliot Alford

The house of God, a shield and shelter served us well and all appeared in place—vermillion seats, silver coins and collection plates payed out along the row

We were tedious, clapping worshipping beauty and spirit, and did not play with fears or ask if anyone was there

Out in the field, children pick okra that pricks and stings their prayers

Wearing hats of straw, almond and amber browned boys submit to hardness and heat, stop to notice nibbled leaves—the work of rabbits

The boys are deep in worship.

Discussion questions for the poem Traditional Lyric:

1. Explain the parallel between church and working in the fields.
2. Do you think that rural people make a religion out of working hard? Explain.
3. Do you think that the religion of many rural people includes an 11th commandment related to hard work? Explain.