Millions of Dollars In Cash For Fulton

Nineteen hundred and twenty-five will see greater activities in Fulton business circles than ever before. Old business firms will put forth every effort to expand to the limit while new businesses will open up to share their lot with us. The dawning of the New Year carries with it a silver lining that shines with untold prosperity for all who take advantage of their opportunities. Blessed as we are with every environment for good, surrounded by as fertile soil as can be found anywhere and the most hospitable people on the face of the globe, why shouldn't we prosper?

The money side of the question is easy to account for. Cash coming in from various sources in every direction—more and more of it every day. The poultry dealers are paying out thousands and thousands of dollars. Stock dealers are doing the same thing. The Browder Milling Company are paying out thousands and thousands of dollars. The Swain-Karmire Lumber Company and the Cigar factory the same thing, to say nothing about the millions and millions of dollars to be paid out in Fulton this year by the Illinois Central Railroad Company. All cash money, well distributed and circulated among the business firms of our city. We have so many good things in Fulton until it would be hard to enumerate all of them at one time, but if our readers will be patient we will tell you of many real good things we have here that perhaps you do not know.

Prosperity of Fulton Banks

TELL INTERESTING STORY
IN THEIR STATEMENTS

Industries Feel Effects of National Business Revival

A BETTER YEAR IN 1925

The story of the prosperity of the Fulton banks is told in the financial statements that have just been issued by them. The trade and industrial conditions of a community are reflected in the banks' deposits and in the accounts of money earned by them upon the funds that have been loaned out to strengthen the various lines and keep clear the various channels of business, and the reflection at the close of what was once and by some considered a slow year, is everything but discreditable. The usual dividends have been distributed among the stockholders, reflecting the substantial business done in the past, and equally the confidence in the prospects for the future, and banking confidence in the future means bright prospects for general business.

Proud of their records for 1924, business men and bankers of Fulton told the Advertiser editor today that they look forward to conditions in business during the year just beginning that will mean greater prosperity for this country in the future.

ASSOCIATIONAL TOBACCO ADVANCES FIGURE ABOUT 40%

Tobacco advances in the Dark Fired grades have been announced and are based on 60 per cent of the loan value of crops.

In explanation of the list published, the association has only given the loan value on each grade. The advance is 60 per cent of the loan value. This means the loan value the association is able to secure on each grade. For instance the loan value on B2F 26 is $25.00 per 100. The advance is based on this loan value and is 60 per cent of the loan value. However, the loan value is not the full price of the tobacco. For instance, B2F 26 has $25.00 loan value to the association, but the selling price would be around $30.00, but this has not been announced. Hence, the advance is about 40 per cent of the selling price, and 60 per cent of the associational loan value. It has been erroneously stated that the advance is 60 per cent. But as explained above, it is 60 per cent of the loan value and about 40 per cent of the selling price. In speaking of loan values, they mean the amount of money that the association can borrow on the tobacco and does not mean that there is any loan value to the farmer. The price of tobacco this year is higher than last year, as is evidenced by taking B2F 26 at $25.00 loan value and taking 60 per cent of this equals $15.00 advance. Last year this same B2F 26 grade only had an advance of $10.00.

The local station opened Monday.

LIKES THE ADVERTISER

Our old friend, G. W. Tegethow, of route 2, was a pleasant caller at The Advertiser office last week and after telling us how much the home folks enjoyed the paper, handed us the cash with his subscription.

BRIEF SHOTS

When a man has forgotten that he has a stomach and is feeling like a 2-year-old, he isn't happy until he goes out for a "good time" that knocks his whole system out of gear.

Any old married woman can tell you that man has no business asking a woman to share his lot with him unless he has a house of his own on the lot.

The only thing a girl dislikes about having swell silk underwear is the fact that nobody can see it.

No matter how much a man suffers from insomnia it is a cinch that you can catch him napping every now and then.

Every time a man tries to start the furnace fire with damp kindling his wife realizes that it doesn't do a man much good to go to church.

A man is mighty careless about his Future Life when he is feeling well. But it takes a pain in his stomach to scare him and make him wonder where he put his religion the last time he used it.

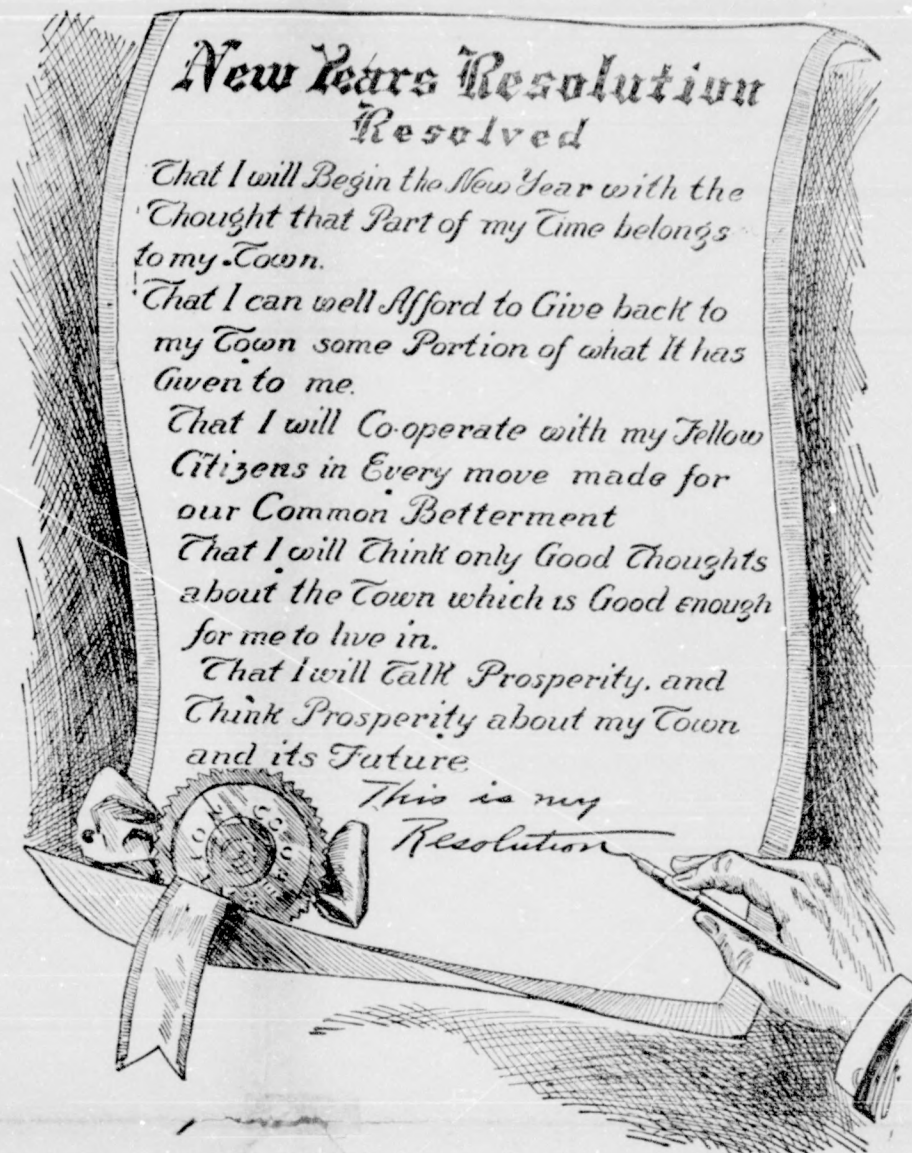

We do not know much. But we do know that it isn't an interest in Palmistry that makes a young man hold a girl's hand for hours at a time.

A woman's idea of a Model Husband is one who has sense enough to wash the dish towel and hang it up to dry after he has finished wiping the dishes.

A CLEAN TOWN IS A BLESSING TO ITS INHABITANTS

A word of encouragement to the street cleaning force will do wonders. And a small fine imposed upon those who make a specialty of ignoring city ordinances will do wonders too. It will create a big noise if nothing else.

Just here we want to say that Tom Tribble and Joe Lynn, colored, who are cleaning up the west side, and Fleet Wood and Buddie Reed, colored, who are cleaning up the east side of town, are all faithful workers, and doing their work well.

Work and Ideals Of Woman's Club

During a spare moment while lounging in our big arm chair reviewing in our minds the many good things we are blessed with in Fulton, wife handed us the Woman's Club book. The first page at once attracted our attention, and what a wonderful page it is. Below we reproduce it. Read every word carefully and slowly. Let it soak in so deeply that it will remain with you throughout 1925 and the years to come.

A Collect for Club Women

"Keep us, O God, from pettiness; let us be large in thought, in word and deed.

"Let us be done with fault-finding, and leave off self-seeking.

"May we put away all pretense and meet each other face to face without self-pity and without prejudice.

"May we be never hasty in judgment and always generous.

"Teach us to put into action our better impulses, straightforward and unafraid.

"Let us take time for all things; make us grow calm, serene, gentle.

"Grant that we may realize it is the little things that create differences; that in the big things of life we are as one.

"And may we strive to touch and to know the great common heart of us all, and, O God, let us not forget to be kind."

The following pages of the Club book contained the executive board, programs for various departments, constitution and by-laws, and roster of the club.

In 1922 the Woman's Club which was organized in 1921 federated with State and National clubs.

Nothing emphasizes more strongly the fact that the Women's Clubs of Kentucky are organized for service, than the civic work done by these clubs and nothing more clearly points to the general trend of club thought as does this same line of work. The mind which formerly sought culture and pleasure alone in the exclusive literary or musical club, and knew no other social obligations besides her church, has developed a civic conscience which gives her family, her city, or herself no peace, while the younger generation seems to have been to this conscience born.

In the days of Rome, when a soldier saved the life of a civilian, the civic crown was placed upon his head. When woman has made a cleaner land of ours, better wives, mothers and fathers of our citizens, and saved the child from degradation and crime, arousing the people to a higher conception of municipal art and nature's beauties, throwing the protecting mantle of health and safety around humanity, then she too, should have the civic crown of laurels entwined about her brow.

In nearly every town and village where a federated club exists, some kind of civic work has been accomplished, influence has been used to obtain the enforcement of city ordinances an annual cleaning day has been established, and arbor day observed.

With an innate love for that which is cleanly and beautiful, with high ideals both as to house and home, it is easy for these noble Kentucky women to consecrate themselves to the task of working for better sanitation, for cleaner streets, for play grounds and in every part a city beautiful.

Any man who is unlucky is superstitious. That is the reason why so many married men are superstitious.

THE EDITOR APPRECIATES YOUR SUBSTANTIAL ENCOURAGEMENT

We have been engaged in newspaper work many years, but never have we written so many subscription receipts within a month's time. We want our friends to know that we appreciate the splendid encouragement given us in our latest newspaper venture, and assure you that our best efforts will be exerted to always bring sunshine in the home and never a tear. We are glad to know you like The Advertiser and your dollars will greatly assist us in making it a real paper.

A WORD OF WARNING TO ROSE GROWERS

While some rose plants are perfectly hardy at zero temperature, there are some which cannot survive zero weather, therefore, to be on the safe side you had better pull the dirt up around each plant at least 6 or 8 inches and dress the dirt over with well-rotted manure. Cow manure is desirable, but not essential, and ordinary stable manure, if it is thoroughly decomposed, is satisfactory. If you have not already protected your rose plants for the winter do so at once. In the early spring when the bud shoots begin to swell, gradually pull the dirt away from the bush and work in the manure. Also prune the plants severely and you will have longer stems and larger blossoms.

Each week we will attempt to give our flower lovers valuable information regarding the culture of flowers best adapted to grow in Fulton and vicinity. If you will get an old book and clip out the articles and paste them in it you will probably have some valuable information on flower culture when you need it. But let us remind you again to protect your rose bushes for the winter, lest you neglect it until it is too late. Remember, you should first pull the dirt to the bush and then put on the manure.

Hickman News

For the first time this winter, ice floes in the Mississippi river handicapped traffic. At Hickman the ferry boat suspended operations and crossing the river has been difficult and risky in shifts only. As soon as conditions permit, the ferry boat will continue to make daily trips across the river from Hickman to Dorena.

Work of building Hickman's paved streets has been suspended until spring only. About two-thirds of the contract has been completed.

All of the Yuletide spirit vanished from the heart of little Johnnie Pearson when he had the misfortune to be run down by auto driven by E. J. Cooper just before Christmas. Both bones of his left leg was broken just above the ankle. Johnnie is the bright little 7-year-old son of W. F. Pearson, and was playing in the Hickman streets when the accident happened.

Hickman vicinity has experienced one of the best cotton seasons this year it has had in a long time and with good prices paid for the fleecy staple, thousands of dollars have been in circulation. This is an ideal cotton growing country, to say nothing about corn and alfalfa which grow to perfection.

The crop of candidates in Hickman to enter the race for county offices is growing fast. Three or four have expressed themselves as sure winners in the sheriff's race, one or two for county attorney, several for clerk and others to cover the field. Some of the women don't think the "pretty man" will enter the race this time for any office, but only time will tell.

BANQUET TO THE LEARNED AT HICKMAN

To Honor Charles King Davis, B. E., Vanderbilt University, 1925.

One of the most delightful social events of the season was the Banquet to the Learned, being graduates of the Hickman High School, now continuing their studies, and others, at the LaCade Hotel, Monday evening, December 29, at 6 p. m., to honor Charles King Davis, B. E., Vanderbilt University, 1925.

About sixty-five enjoyed the occasion which will be long remembered by all who were fortunate enough to be present. Charles King is a son of Senator B. F. Davis, and has a very bright future before him.

THANKS TO MANAGER McGINNIS

Of all the nice gifts showered on the editor during the holiday season, none was more appreciated than a large box of our favorite cigars, "Chancellor," from the American Cigar Co. Mr. McGinnis, the clever manager, hit the spot exactly. Chancellor cigars are not only favorites with us but with the large majority of smokers who enjoy a real smoke from the best product.

The most of Christmas gifts in the way of cigars have proven a joke when it comes to a real smoke, but the Chancellor is a real pleasure.

Mac said the girl who rolled my box of Chancellors had sweetening on the tips of her fingers, but he didn't know I had smoked Chancellors for many years and all had the same delightful flavor and fragrant aroma, characteristic of this special brand manufactured by the Fulton branch of the American Cigar Company.

Once in a while two good listeners meet and have a lonesome time. But neither of them is wearing skirts.

PLANS FOR THE LORENZO S. COFFIN MEMORIAL

A resolution adopted by the steam railroad section of a National Safety Council, at its recent convention at Louisville, Ky., directed the Chairman, Charles E. Hill, general safety agent, New York Central lines, to appoint a committee to develop plans for a memorial to Lorenzo S. Coffin, formerly railroad commissioner of Iowa. Among other distinguished services to the railroad industry which the memorial is to recognize, is his part in drafting the safety appliance act, and securing its enactment into law.

Mr. Hill has not appointed the memorial committee, which is made up as follows: H. A. Adams, assistant to the General Manager, Union Pacific R. R., Chairman; L. G. Bentley, general safety agent of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway; T. P. Brennan, supervisor of safety, Long Island Railroad, and Charles Frederick Carter, special representative, New York Central Lines. The first meeting of the committee will be held in New York City, this month, to consider ways and means to further the "Father" Coffin Memorial movement.

The movement has aroused the liveliest interest among railroad men. W. G. Lee, President of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen; L. E. Shepard, President of the Order of Railway Conductors, and R. H. Aishton, president of the American Railway Association, have assured Chairman Adams of their hearty approval of the movement and their readiness to support it.

The idea of the safety appliance act was original with Mr. Coffin; he drafted the act himself; he devoted his time and money for years to arouse public interest in it, and he personally led the fight in Washington for four years to get the bill through congress. Mr. Coffin had remarked that he never could have preserved until success was won if he had not felt he was commissioned by Divine Providence for the task.

His proposals for safety appliances not yet invented to be applied to all railroad equipment under compulsion of law was opposed by the railroads with one exception. In a signed article in "Annals of Iowa," series III, Vol. 5, he refers to this exception in the following words:

"The Vanderbilt roads (i. e., the New York Central Lines) never opposed me in the least; but, on the other hand, privately encouraged me to keep at the work, as they felt it was a measure that all the roads in the end would adopt."

After President Harrison had signed the Act March 3, 1893, Coffin did not consider his work in behalf of the railroad men finished. Stimulated by the conditions then existing and to supplement the safety appliance act, Coffin originated the Railroad Temperance Association, the badge of which was a white button with the initials "R. R. T. A." Coffin spent $5,000 of his own money for these buttons, 250,000 of which he distributed to railroad men who would pledge themselves not to use intoxicating liquors.

His next move in behalf of railroad men was to found the Home for Aged and Disabled Railroad Men at Highland Park, Ill., some 25 miles from Chicago. For 23 years he was president of the home, which is supported by the four big brotherhoods and by private contributions.

Father Coffin's efforts were not confined to railroad men. He established at his own expense on a portion of his own farm near Fort Dodge, Iowa, the third "Hope Hall" as originated by Maude Balington Booth of the Salvation Army, for discharged convicts, where they might get straightened out physically and mentally before making a new start in life.

Father Coffin died in January, 1915, at the ripe old age of 92 years and is buried in the family cemetery on his old place, River Edge farm, three miles from Fort Dodge. He left but one child, Mrs. Carrie Coffin Rutledge, who, with her husband, lives on the old homestead.

To pay for every two-cent stamp which they use, the railroads of this country must haul a ton of freight 1.7 miles. To get the money to buy a paper of pins they must haul a ton of freight about 4 1-2 miles. To buy a pint of fountain pen ink they have to haul a ton of freight 68 miles. One cypress crosstie, like those used by some of our railroads, takes all the earnings from hauling a ton of freight more than 100 miles; and there are about 2,900 crossties to every mile of track. What other business has to work so hard for so little. Yet these are only a bare handful of the great variety of articles which the railroads, in order to do business at all, must buy in tremendous quantities and for which they must pay the same prices as other big consumers. But whereas most other big consumers can fix their own prices high enough to yield a substantial profit, the price of transportation, which is the railroads' only product, is fixed by public agencies.—Timely Railroad Topics, Atlantic Coast Line.

SUNDAY FIRE

Fire Sunday morning practically destroyed the two-story frame dwelling of Mr. and Mrs. Lum Williams on Arch street.

The loss is partly covered by insurance. The friends of the family regret their misfortune and hope they will be comfortably located again in new home. To be driven from home in zero weather is not very pleasant.

THE FURNACE

By George Fitch

At this time of the year the furnace begins to come bitterly to our attention. It is a peevish ruin which makes its lair in the cellars of plain people and contributes to the horror of winter by declining to give forth heat in a blizzard because the chimney wasn't manicured inside during the autumn.

The furnace is composed of a large cracked fire-box surrounded by a sheet iron hog's head. It is operated by a system of checks and drafts, although one may, of course, pay cash and get just as good results. It is connected with the various rooms in the house by large tin pipes, which serve to transmit cuss words from the cellar to the upstairs, and it is connected with the chimney by a pipe which serves to transmit heat into yon high heaven. When a furnace is working vigorously a stratum of warm air a mile high over the house is sometimes produced. Thus the furnace is the sparrow's friend but until some means of locating the living room directly over the house is devised it will not be doing its full duty toward humanity.

The hot-air furnace is so named from the manner in which it is sold. We are led to believe, when buying a No. 13 furnace on an E last, that it will readily heat a 9-room house so thoroughly that a coat and vest will be entirely superfluous, even on the front porch. This is only partially true. The furnace will not heat the house by means of pipes and registers, but if sufficiently flattered and encouraged, it will eventually ignite the floors and make everything lovely and warm until the fire department arrives.

A furnace can be readily operated during the winter months by one man if he makes arrangements to have his meals brought down cellar to him. By shoveling your spring overcoat, your club dues, your summer vacation, and your winter's theater tickets into your furnace you can keep it burning all winter except on zero nights. A furnace is quite hardy and by wrapping an old carpet around on very cold days, you can keep it from becoming dangerously chilled.

Some people claim that they can run a furnace all winter on $20 worth of coal, and that by putting in two shovels full in the morning they can maintain a fierce heat until evening. Do not worry about these statements, however. Go ahead and discount them with claims of your own. This is a free country and everybody can lie in it.

LEE PARADES AGAIN THROUGH SAN ANTONIO

J. Barney Sherry, in Cast of "The Warrens of Virginia" Impersonates Confederate Hero

Ten thousand persons, lining the streets of San Antonio, Texas, on Armistice Day, cheered and applauded as an apparition of Gen. Robert E. Lee, in his uniform of the Confederate Army and mounted on his famous white horse, Traveler, marched majestically at the head of several thousand veterans of the World War. Flanked by General Beaumont Buck, possessor of one of the most enviable war records in the American Army, the shade of the greatest commander the Southland has ever produced, led the troops to Alamo Plaza, where he took his place with General Preston Brown and his staff, to receive the salutes of the troops.

In reality, what might have been thought to be the ghost of Lee, was J. Barney Sherry, a member of the cast of "The Warrens of Virginia," which William Fox made in Texas. Sherry essays the part of the beloved Confederate commander in the screen version of Belasco's stage play. So authentic was Mr. Sherry's character that old men and women, who could remember General Lee, rubbed their eyes in amazement.

Old timers said that it was the first time within their memory that a man, without official or military rank, had reviewed troops in Texas and received their enthusiastic salute. But, as General Brown commented when he modestly relinquished his honor to the actor:

"It is you that they want to see, not me."

"The Warrens of Virginia" comes to the Orpheum theatre for two days, Jan. 5th and 6th.

Miss Ethel Fisher has returned from Leland, Miss., after spending the holidays with her parents. Miss Fisher has charge of the Commercial Department of Fulton High School, and is a talented young woman of unusual executive ability.

Long Worn One of Most Popular Garments

This warm and delightfully luxurious mink wrap is the essence of the style and is one of the most popular of winter garments.

Importance of Buying Properly Dyed Material

"Dyed in the wool," whether applied to women's hatters or woollens, is a phrase which has come to stand for genuine qualities which cannot fade or be erased, but which are fixed and unchangeable. So it is easy to see that "dyed in the wool" cloth is much to be desired, and be looked for when you go shopping.

Now, wool may be piece-dyed, cross-dyed or yarn-dyed—"dyed in the wool." Piece dyeing is just what the name implies—the coloring of the goods after it is completely woven in the piece. Cross dyeing is a form of piece dyeing—the material is woven with colored or black cotton warp, and wool or worsted filling, and afterwards dyed in the piece; while yarn dyeing is, of course, dyeing the yarn in the dye vat skeins or while it is wound on spools.

The important thing to remember as you shop for woollens is that you can tell the piece-dyed cloth from yarn-dyed cloth by unraveling a bit of their thread. The fabrics in which you can see that the dye is spread evenly all over the yarn's surface, and has penetrated into a greater or less extent, are yarn-dyed. "Dyed in the wool." But if the dyestuff has not penetrated the yarn you can conclude that the fabric was piece-dyed.

Further, there are three different processes for yarn dyeing woolls. Wool may be, first of all, dyed in the raw state, or "fleece-dyed." Fleece-dyed wool is best of all in goods designed for extremely hard wear, for it is the surest of all kinds to retain its color. Second, wool may be "subbing-dyed," that is, pieces of the raw fiber are twisted loosely together and dyed in that form. Although this method is not quite so sure to mean thorough penetration as is the fleece-dyeing, yet the dyestuff penetrates the loosely twisted material fairly readily, and the result is quite satisfactory.

Brief Fashion Notes of Interest to All Women

Red enamel is exceedingly smart for quantities, cuffs and powder boxes, and the chances are that there's a wee bit of black decoration on it, too.

Silpovers of unbrushed mohair come many of them, in lovely colors with basted-in linen collars.

A very new effect in trimming the shoe is the basket weave. This consists of a narrow strip of contrasting leather woven through the shoe like a braid.

Carved ivory bracelets are fitted with brown to give an antique air. Copper tones are good for nearly every detail of apparel.

A medallion of kingfisher feathers is both Chinese and chic worn suspended from a long black silk cord.

Stationery in large single sheets comes in saffron, lavender, gray, buff and white, with lined envelopes, and is very popular at present.

Clever combed in lipstick look like cold pencils!

Tans and browns are very good for street shoes, and the "weave" toe is to be adopted for sports wear.

Novelty umbrellas conceal vanities in the handles.

Another style of vanity of cobra leather, fitted with five pieces of ivory toilet ware, has a spring that makes the cover with the mirror lining stay propped up in place when mildly wants to use both hands.

Verbena is a delightful clean fragrance for bath salts.

The tall high-crowned hat with its narrow brim turned up at a piquant angle, the choker collar inspired by the coats worn by the gallants of that period, the wide revers and slightly raised waistline, and the coat with its three little capes, all these show plainly whence came the inspiration for their fashioning.

Work for Increase of Reindeer Herds

Agricultural Department Is Conducting Investigation.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Although only about ninety tons of reindeer meat were shipped from Alaska to this country in 1923, indications on July 1, 1924, were that there would soon be a rapid increase in the quantity shipped. In 1923 the entire number of reindeer in the territory totaled about 241,000, according to estimates made in 93 herds. The increase in the number of reindeer in Alaska each year runs from 35 to 45 per cent of the total number of animals in the herd. This percentage can be raised by a better understanding of herd management on the part of the Eskimos and other owners, and better business methods in marketing the meat will result in a higher output. The biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture conducts important investigation work in Alaska in the interests of the reindeer industry, including studies of diseases and parasites, feeding experiments to determine the nutritive values of different types of native forage, poison-plant problems, herd management, and breed improvement.

Through the establishment of corrals, herd owners are improving conditions in their herds. Co-operative handling and management of some of the herds has been practiced with good results. An additional impetus has been given to the industry by two American companies which are now operating refrigerating plants to receive reindeer carcasses for the purpose of shipping them to markets in the United States through Seattle. One of these companies operates refrigerating barges which can move from one point to another, mainly in the rivers, and the other company has several small cold-storage plants along the coast.

How Producer Can Get More Than Market Price

Start today! Now is the time to start making a market for your products. Start by getting individual customers to buy your products and build up a trade that will last. You may not think that this can be done, but others have done it and there is no reason why you cannot. Put your eggs on the market in individual packages. Soon you will see that everybody will want your eggs, and then, when the demand is great enough, your price will also go higher. You cannot expect more than the market price unless you do create this demand for your eggs, thinks D. H. Hall, extension poultry husbandman at Clemson college.

When eggs are 60 cents per dozen, Mr. Hall adds, we never receive calls to find a market—but when they are 25 and 30 cents—we are always called upon to find markets. The law of supply and demand governs the market to a certain extent, but when a person has his own individual market already established he need not worry about a flooded or low market.

Dairy Calves Do Well on Dried Milk Ration

"Raising the Dairy Calf When Whole Milk Is Sold" is the title of Bulletin 215, which was prepared from studies at the University of Minnesota agricultural experiment station, by Dr. C. H. Eckles and T. W. Gallikson of the division of dairy husbandry.

Two plans of experiments were adopted, the first to raise calves on the minimum amount of whole milk or skim milk and the second to raise calves on dried milk, using powdered skim milk, powdered or semi-solid buttermilk, or malted milk. The results clearly showed that good calves can be raised on a very small amount of whole milk and that the manufactured material mentioned can be substituted after the calf has got a start. All the calves used in the experiment were never off feed and were kept unusually free from sickness or digestive troubles.

Dairymen everywhere will be interested in the findings reported in this new bulletin. Copies may be had by addressing the Division of Publications, University Farm, St. Paul.

FARM FACTS

The best corn in 1924 was on fall plowing.

Seed properly selected is good corn insurance.

Nix on the burning of leaves; save them for the hungry soil.

Is farm labor scarce? The hogs will harvest your corn and pay you for the privilege.

Don't forget that the poultry needs green feed all winter long, caution poultry workers.

No, time isn't much to a hog, but a warm, dry place in the winter is, and he'll gain faster for it.

A cow in these good days must be more than just a cow; she must be a proved and profitable producer.

What is the Chamber of Commerce?

The Chamber of Commerce is the voice of the city. It reflects the ideals of the community. It expresses the aspirations of the people. It gives direction to the aims of the citizenship. It combines the efforts of those who think in terms of helpfulness. It reduces unorganized elements to an organized unit. It speaks in defense of the good name of the city. It defends the city against the traducer. It is the spotlight that reveals activities that are worthy. It pleads in behalf of the voiceless. It is the center of worth while enterprise. It is the magnet that draws the outside world to your midst. It is the clearing house of civic pride. It is the power house of progress. It is a composite picture of a city as its citizenship would have it.

THERE IS NO COMPETITOR TO THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Who has not heard someone say, "Oh, I can't join the Chamber of Commerce; I belong to too many organizations now?" The last part of that popular saying is in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred correct. There are few men who do not belong to too many organizations. But why take revenge on the Chamber of Commerce? We will admit that there are too many organizations in this city and every other city. Many of them, or perhaps most of them, have their place, but their objects are specialized. The object of the Chamber of Commerce is the broadest of any voluntary organization in America. The Chamber of Commerce is the great American business men's all-inclusive institution.

The Chamber of Commerce is the only club or organization where every creed and religion meet, where the owner of the small business in the city can work side by side with the biggest manufacturer, where men are known for what they do and not for what they have, where membership is not limited to any number or group, where there is but one major object—to make a better city.

You can think of no other organization where you have a greater opportunity to do public work and see bigger results as in the Chamber of Commerce. Consider these things and then settle in your own mind whether you should put your greater efforts in the Chamber of Commerce or in some other organization. There is no competitor to the Chamber of Commerce. You either belong to it or don't; you can't belong to something just as good.

The foregoing from the Sioux City Spirit of Progress is a straight-from-the-shoulder drive at the many business men who think that they cannot help support the Chamber of Commerce in their home town, and applies to the Fulton business men as well as to those of Sioux City and almost any other town or city in the United States.

the attention and respect of every one interested in the good of the community, and by its inherent force overcomes the obstacle against which it is directed.

One may look the country over, and it will be found that no big thing has come to a town or city that has not in at least some measure been fostered or helped by the local Chamber of Commerce or some organization functioning along kindred lines. In every case it will be found that if the locality had no such organization, a temporary one, at least was organized for the purpose.

As stated in the article quoted, no other organization can do the work for a community as well or as thoroughly as a Chamber of Commerce because of the weight of public sentiment behind it, and when a business man says that it is impossible for him to join the Chamber of Commerce of his town he is neglecting one of his most urgent duties toward his fellow citizens.

Anyone who reads the daily papers can recall dozens of instances where this organization has been of inestimable assistance to a community and has wrought miracles in making communities better places in which to live and through that very fact, made the town a better place to do business in. Fulton citizens have an opportunity to enroll in the local Chamber of Commerce, as there is at present a campaign on to increase the membership and no man who is solicited by the members of the opposing teams should hesitate in accepting the chance to become a member and of becoming a booster for the betterment of his home town. Let's make Fulton a hundred percent Chamber of Commerce city.

BLOW YOUR OWN HORN

Modesty is all right. But it may be carried too far. Have you a good article for sale? Then blow your horn. Insist that you have a good article. Then keep on insisting. If the people don't believe it at first tell it to them again. Eventually they'll give it a trial. Then, if you have the goods, you're on the highroad to success.

Drill the stuff into the public. Make the people see your ad. Give them something to think about. If you have the simon pure thing don't spare the adjectives.

AS THE EDITOR SEES IT

In the old days mothers kept their daughters almost in total ignorance of the ways of the world as regards the masculine sex. Today such a course is fraught with much danger for the girl.

It is no longer possible to keep a young girl in ignorance. There is always some one ready to impart the knowledge which she has a right to possess, and if it comes from one who is not overly scrupulous in her ways it often throws a glamour of attractiveness around unconventional acts upon which the respectable world frowns.

All that a girl should know prior to her wedding day—and there is much—should be told by her mother. The jealous solicitude of motherhood cannot be replaced by any other, nor can the responsibilities it entails be safely shifted to other shoulders.

The young girl approaching maturity has a right to know. It is the duty of the mother to tell her. Read the sporting pages of the daily papers of the big cities. You will find many glowing tributes to the prowess of prize fighters—men who earn great incomes by punching other people, just as the bull fighters of Spain earn fortune and glory by brutally inflicting wanton pain upon dumb animals for purposes of sport.

When the next war comes these prize fighters—men of prowess—would make good soldiers. But they won't—unless drafted and driven to it.

Fighting for wealth and glory is one thing. Fighting for country and a pittance is quite another. And then, in the prize ring one may get knocked out. On the battlefield he may get bumped off.

There's a difference, and it is considerable.

BRIEFLETS

A New Zealand authority asserts that Japan is planning to take Australia and then step over and annex the United States. But don't let it disturb your peace of mind. We'll have plenty of time to down a few more turkey dinners before we have to kowtow to the little brown mikado.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

When you meet a fellow on the street and his face is warped and twisted by an unholly scowl, what do you think?

When a lazy duffer hogs a whole seat on a train and lets a tried woman stand with a baby in her arms, what do you think?

When John Smith whispers in your ear that Tom Jones "is a good one to look out for," but that you must not tell anyone that he (Smith) said so, what do you think?

Crutchfield News

This was the first white Christmas we have had in years. I guess it was much easier for Santa to get around.

Miss Lillian Seat of Memphis, spent the holidays with relatives and friends.

Mr. Luby Howell and Miss Clarice Herring motored over to Fulton Sunday, December 21st and were married. Miss Ora Seat and Mr. Coise Veatch accompanied them.

Mr. Ward Seat of Greenwood, Miss, spent Christmas with home folk.

Mr. George Fortner and children of near Clinton is spending a few days with her parents Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Turner.

Miss Vava Watkins who is doing social service work for the Eastern State Hospital, is spending a few days with her parents.

Misses Inez Horner and Louise Smith of Mounds City, are visiting Mrs. Ollie Bruce.

Mr. and Mrs. Evert Forster of Chicago have come back to Kentucky. They are planning to move to Memphis, Tenn., in a few weeks.

School will open Monday, January 5th. Every one be there on time and start in with a zeal and interest that will not weaken during the remaining months of school. A number of names was on the Honor Roll last month, but make it better in the future.

Miss Augusta Little entertained a number of her friends with a party last Thursday night.

BLIND FROM BIRTH BUT NOW CAN SEE

Operation Restores Sight of Two Kentucky Girls

Two Kentucky girls, both blind from birth have received their sight as a result of successful operations, it was announced by officials of the Kentucky School for the Blind, Lillie Bryant, 13 of Decker, Butler County and Elsie Day, 14, of Cranks, Harlan County, for the first time was able to participate fully in the Yuletide celebrations.

When the girls enrolled in the school last fall they were given the customary examination to determine the nature and cause of their blindness. Lillie was a victim of trachoma. An operation was performed at the government trachoma hospital in Pikeville by Dr. W. L. Davis on Oct. 21. She returned to the school Dec. 21, but remained only one night, going to her home, where she will enter public school.

Elsie's trouble was found to be a double cataract. Her father was persuaded to consent and Dr. Claude Wolfe operated. She will be fitted with glasses within a few weeks.

THE THINGS I HAVE NOT HAD

I pray I may be glad
For the things I have not had;

Glad that somewhere they wait
And that near, or far, or late

I shall find them, lingering so,
In the dawn or even glow

With never a trace of tears
Left by the passing years.

They know no time nor space,
For they have not taken place.

Love which I never knew,
Beautiful, pure and true,

Awaits, and the distant gleams
From the hearth fires of my dreams

Which will one day come to be
Such a bright reality

Glad for the past am I,
And for today's blue sky.

But I am more than glad
For the things I have not had.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL Sunday School 'Lesson'

(By REV. V. H. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean of the Ryer School, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for January 4

CHRIST'S TRIUMPHAL ENTRY

LESSON TEXT—Luke 19:29-44.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Blessed be the King that cometh in the name of the Lord"—Luke 19:38.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Great Crowd Praising Jesus.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Triumphal Entry.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Making Christ Our King.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Kingship of Christ.

The title given this lesson is somewhat misleading. Strictly speaking, this was far from a triumphal entry. It was rather the official presentation of the King of the Jewish nation. Back of the cry, "hosanna," the awful word, "crucify," was uttered by the same persons who cried "hosanna." Though they were utterly blind to the fact, God was about to carry out His plan of hosanna, which means "save now," through the crucifixion of the Son of God.

I. The Presentation (vv. 29-34).
1. Sending the Disciples for the Ass (vv. 29-31). He told them just where to go to find it and told them how to answer the inquiry of the one who owned it. This shows how perfectly the Lord knows all our ways. He knows our whereabouts by day and night. He even knows our thoughts. He uses unlikely means and insignificant things in the accomplishment of His purpose.
2. The Fulfillment of Prophecy (Matt. 21:4, 5). Some five hundred years before Zechariah had predicted this event. Christ's entry into Jerusalem was an exact fulfillment of this prediction. This is highly instructive to those who would understand the prophecies as yet unfulfilled. Since the prediction of his first coming was literally fulfilled, we can be assured that the prophecy of His second coming will be likewise fulfilled. The first is established beyond a doubt. The second we should as heartily believe. The prediction of Zechariah 14:3-11 will be just as literally fulfilled as that of Zechariah 9:9.

3. Obedience of the Disciples (vv. 32-34). Though the request may have seemed strange, and even unreasonable, they fully obeyed. The true disciple will render glad obedience to the Lord no matter how strange his commands may seem. Obedience to that which seems reasonable is not obedience at all. May we prove that we are real disciples!

II. The Entry of the King (vv. 35-38).

1. The Disciples Set Jesus Upon the Ass (v. 35). This act of putting their garments upon the ass and setting Jesus upon it showed that they recognized Him as their King (II Kings 9:13).
2. Acclaimed as King by the Disciples (vv. 36-38). Some spread their garments in the way. Others, perhaps having no garments to spare, cut down branches of trees and strewed them in His way, which was no doubt just as acceptable to Him. They praised God for all the mighty works which they had seen and cried out, "Blessed is the King that cometh in the name of the Lord."

III. The Critical Pharisees (vv. 39, 40).
Although swept along by the demonstration of the multitude they deemed it prudent to ask the Lord to rebuke the disciples, as such behavior might be interpreted by the Roman government as an insurrection. To their demand Jesus replied that such homage was not only fitting but necessary. He declared that if the multitude were silent, the very stones would cry out in adoration of Him.

IV. The King Rejected (vv. 41-44).
Christ knew what awaited Him in Jerusalem. Though surrounded by loyal hearts, He knew that the rulers of the nations had no heart for Him. His coming trial and death loomed before Him so that He went over Jerusalem. He knew that awful days awaited it and that loyal hearts would gladly welcome Him if they only knew. He showed that their inability to see Him as their King and Savior would result in bringing upon them the awful horrors of the destruction of their city. He entered the city and rebuked the rulers for allowing the house of God to become degraded by carrying on traffic for gain. The cleansing of the temple only increased their hatred and opposition to Him.

Obey

Obey the voice of God in the Book, the voice of God in your heart, the voice of God as He speaks through circumstances, and His servants obey.—Ephesians.

In the Sight of God

The self-important are of no importance in the sight of God.—The Living Word.

Want of Self Reliance

Discontent is the want of self-reliance—it is infirmity of will.—Christian Evangelist.

Smothered Thoughts

Sometimes little thoughts are smothered to death by a lot of powder and confusion.—American Evangelist.

SCRAPS OF HUMOR

CURIOUS

"You, even the boxes of our heads are numbered!" thundered the minister.

After the sermon a small boy came up to the pulpit. "I thought I would ask you a question," he said meekly, pulling a hair from his head. "You said all the hairs of our heads are numbered, so I thought you would tell me the number of this one."

Her Answer

First Teacher—So you proposed to Nellie by letter, did you?

Second Teacher—Not exactly. You know, she runs the S to Z book. Well, after the checks were sorted I wrote her a letter on the back of a check and slipped it into her stack. Yes, I proposed to her in it—

First Teacher—What did she do?

Second Teacher—(Sighing)—She returned it marked "Insufficient funds!"—Bank Notes.

WHAT HE DIED OF

Insurance Man—You seem a good risk, Mr. Brown, but please tell me what your father died of?

Mr. Brown—I was very young when that happened, Mr. Jones, but he died of a Tuesday, they say.

How Often?

How often in this world we meet those resignation riders?

A few of them bear fruit completely. But most are only bloomers.

Universal Favorite

"Yes, my friends," said the theological lecturer, "come admire Moses, who instituted the old law; some, Paul, who spread the new. But after all, which character in the Bible has had the largest following?"

As he passed, a voice from the back bench shouted: "Ananias!"

Lady Luck

"Ah wins."

"What yuh got?"

"Three aces."

"No yuh don't. Ah wins."

"What yuh got?"

"Two nines and a razor."

"Yuh shoh do. How come you so lucky?"

That's Different

"I want to show you the famous flexible ivory comb, an absolutely unbreakable comb, ladies and gentlemen, that will stand anything. You can bend it—so, or twist it—so, or you can—"

"Can you comb your hair with it?" interrupted a practical member of the audience.

Out of That Article

"So you are going to propose to Mabel?"

"You bet! Wish me luck!"

"Oh, I wish you luck, all right, Jimmy, but it won't do you a bit of good. I know she is going to accept you."

Fired!

Cafe Manager—Say, where's the waiter you washed them potatoes in?

New Cook—Why, I threw it out, of course.

Cafe Manager—Great guns, man! You don't mean to say you washed all that potato soup?

NATURALLY

First Bug—You got the best of Mr. Worm in your little run in.

Second Bug—Yes, I made him crawl.

But He Didn't

A mile in a minute.

Thundered the lightning across.

And he said, "I can beat it!"

But he missed his guess.

A Special Occasion

Hastens—I've got a new maid coming to see me tomorrow.

Caller—How delightful! What are you going to wear?

Friendly Tip

"See, here, waiter."

"Take the hat down as they come," counseled his companion. "Don't ask for a pedigree."

How to Decorate Woman's Neckline

High Collar Attracts Attention to Size of Neck—Frills and Laces.

Necklines include lines not only for blouses and dresses, but also for the collars and frills and other accessories. The principles that apply to one hold good for all, says a writer in the Kansas City Star.

The high collar is once more coming into its own, and a very becoming style it is, if used wisely. But let us think of its effects before accepting it entirely. A high collar tends to call attention to the size of the neck, and it has a way of adding fullness to the face. Since the face is more prominent than the neck, the high collar is a boon to the woman whose face is too thin.

Under its influence, or to be strictly accurate, above its influence, the cheeks seem fuller. Thus it helps to create an appearance of health and well being. But it is certainly no friend to the stout woman, for it makes her neck seem thicker and shorter, and it has a malicious way of adding roundness to her face. If she will wear a high neckline, this stout woman should at least keep her collar as low as possible.

The one place where the stout woman can stand a little height is at the back of her neck, because with obesity there frequently comes a fullness at the back of the neck that should be concealed.

In connection with neckwear, a point to remember is that the woman whose neck is too thick should in buying frills or lace select a very soft lace or frill that blends with rather than contrasts with the dress or blouse with which it is to be worn. Long straight lines are also more favorable to this type than the short lines.

Directly opposed to the large woman with a short thick neck is the thin woman with prominent collarbones. She should look gratefully on the high collar that covers her neck and hides its conformation. Also, this type should avoid as much as possible the round-necked dress or blouse that displays too prominently a neck that should be concealed. Her wiser choice is a square neck cut in close.

Neckwear accessories, such as frills and laces, must not be selected with our thought as to their color. The woman whose skin is soft and white need not fear that white at her neck will have a harmful effect on the skin, but the woman with a yellowish or brownish neck should most surely avoid pure white that will form a contrast. Pearl and cream offer greater possibilities for her.

One final point—a neckline always should be lower in the front than in the back. A low-necked dress should not be allowed to slip back.

Chic Afternoon Frock Is Made of Ciep Roma

Almond green still holds favor; the popular shade is employed in making this dainty afternoon frock. It is banded with mole and corsaged with roses.

Empire Style Bracelet Twines About Her Arm

The newest bracelets are those that twine about the upper arm and finish in an ornament lying flat against the arm. The inspiration is from the gorgeous Empire bracelets, made of linked coral or of wrought gold to form a snake.

Happy the woman who can discover one of these in the antique jewelry shops, but they are very rare. Thus the modern jeweler has set themselves to imitating the twining form of these bracelets without attempting to imitate the Empire motifs of ancient leaves which go to finish them, substituting a few more natural, more closely imitating one of the laurel, rose or artichoke leaves of today.

Fine Artistic Effects Found in Brick Facing

From an artistic point of view, brick makes strong claims to consideration. An endless variety of color tones and textures is offered for your choice which you may use in uniform shades, or, preferably, in blended shades of the most delicate and charming effects. No other building material can approach face brick in the possibility of color schemes for the wall surface, either within or without—and the colors last, for they are an integral part of the enduring brick.

But to the artistic effect of the brick texture and color must be added the artistic effects secured by the treatment of the bond and mortar joint. The manner in which the brick are made to overlap in the wall has a decided influence on the result, and the mortar joint, in color, size, and kind is so important that we strongly urge you to talk the matter over with some experienced brick salesman before building. The mortar joint may spoil or make the beauty of your wall.

The economic merits of the face brick house are striking. From the very nature of the material and its construction you save on upkeep or maintenance, on depreciation, on insurance rates, on fuel, and even on doctor's bills. Brick do not decay, they require no paint, their depreciation is practically nil, they make a tight wall that saves fuel, and a sanitary one that prevents vermin.

When it comes to sentimental reasons, your sense of satisfaction in having a substantial and attractive house, of justifiable pride and self-respect in possessing a home of distinction which your friends and neighbors admire, is a sort of intangible value really worth more than money.—Chicago Post.

Would Divorce Politics From City Government

One feature of the recent meeting in Boston of the National Municipal League was the recognition of the need in American cities of more businesslike forms of government. A fact that has been receiving much emphasis lately was given particular attention. It was that the task of running a city is primarily a business and not a political undertaking. There was reference to the enormous expenditures that have been made by practically all the leading centers of the country and to the waste and inefficiency that political control of city affairs has entailed.

Many of the speakers at the league sessions believed a remedy for this situation had been found in the manager plan of municipal government. They saw in that plan, as it has been adopted in Cleveland, one of the largest of American cities, a release from the traditional and unsatisfactory ward system, from the antiquated two-house council and from undue partisanship in the selection of council members. There was a feeling of confidence that this plan, which permitted appointment by the people's representatives of an able executive head for the city, would prove as effective in a large center as it had proved in hundreds of smaller cities of the United States.—Kansas City Star.

Home Owner Best Citizen

In most cases the man who owns a home has indolence, idleness. He finds it necessary to meet this indolence promptly and to do so he must be steadily employed. He cannot afford to be changing jobs frequently. This means that if he wishes to remain a home owner, he must be a steady worker. The conclusion is that the man who owns a home is a steady worker and to the merchant a steady worker is a safer credit risk.

All things being equal it is generally conceded that the man who owns his home, while he may not be more honest than the renter, is a more desirable credit risk.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Paint Pays Dividends

Painting serves three very fundamental purposes. It protects the woodwork, it adds cash value to the home and lot, making the home an asset to the community, and it establishes a firmer credit rating for your home.

Any banker will tell you that well-painted buildings are an indication of thrift. Appearances in many cases may make or break the business transaction.

Spread on the Paint

The fact that paint and varnish products are, first of all, preservatives should not be forgotten. We paint the exteriors of our houses because we desire that they shall endure. And in the course of endurance we find that we have beautified our homes.

Winter Work Advocated

Economy is the chief reason for doing building remodeling in the "off-season," say builders, who are urging that this type of work be done in the winter. They point out that both labor and materials are cheaper than at the summer's peak and that the home-owner can get better service on this type of work than when contractors are busy with larger jobs. Most contractors are said to be willing to take small jobs with a minimum of profits in order to keep their crews.
