School Board In Big Slash

At a meeting of the Board of Education Monday night, April 10, sharp reductions were made in salaries and in tax rates. The tax rate reduced from $1.20 to $1.00, 16c being designated for a sinking fund and 84c for current expenses. This reduction in rate with a nine and a half per cent reduction in property valuation, forces the board to make drastic cuts in salaries for next year.

Home Economics in the high school were discontinued, while the music department was placed on part-time basis, in order to balance the budget. Mrs. Louise Buckingham did not apply for re-election, and the board will not elect any one to take her place. Teachers will be shifted and grades combined to take care of her work.

During 1933-34 the Fulton schools will operate on $31,183 which is sharply below the budget of $66,040 for 1930-31—a reduction of 52.8 percent. Despite reductions the administration will endeavor to maintain the same high standard of efficiency.

Salaries of teachers have been chiefly affected by the reductions.

The following teachers were elected: High School: W. L. Holland, principal; Ual Killebrew, Mrs. Martin, Mary Roster, Mrs. Trevor Whyte, Mrs. Ethel Butterworth, Sara Catr-was Smith.

Terry Norman school: Mrs. Jessie Lee Fleming, principal; Elizabeth Cooke, Dulcie Buckingham.

Milton school: D. G. Rose principal; Mrs. Juanita Tucker, Margaret Wheeler.

HJACKERS REMOVE BEER FROM TRUCKS

According to reports from Mayfield upstate "hijackers" have been waylaying Mayfield, Fulton and Bowling Green 32 beer laden trucks. Virgil Cronch, employee of the Brown transfer company, which contract for hauling beer from Louisville breweries to Mayfield, told of being stopped by hijackers while enroute to Mayfield Tuesday with 200 cases of bottled beer.

Cronch said that he was driving the truck up Muldraugh Hill, five miles from Fort Knox and 25 miles south of Louisville. He was driving at a slow rate of speed uphill when several men climbed on the back of the truck and started unloading beer filled cases. Jim Bruce, Cronch's helper, got out of the truck cab and climbed on the back of the truck and tried to force the highwaymen off. Flourishing weapons the men ordered Bruce back into the cab with instructions for the "driver to keep moving." Check-up of the consignment revealed eight cases (192 bottles) were missing.

Brown McClain stated today that the Read Transfer company, Fulton, and a Bowling Green transfer company were robbed of beer at the same spot about the same time. But when The News talked with Mr. Read here about the alleged hijacking, the rumor was denied.

Choose Fulton As Camp Site

But Place of Meeting Has Not Been Arranged: Two Tentative Sites Sought.

The Homemakers' Camp conference was held at Hotel Hail in Mayfield, Monday, when Fulton county was selected as first choice as the site of the annual Homemakers' camp to be held July 7-14. Graves county was chosen as second place; provided arrangements could not be made for holding the camp in this county. Miss Zelma Monroe, state leader of home demonstration agents and representatives from McCracken, Callaway, Graves, Hickman and Fulton counties were present.

Reservations for the annual camp are to be sent in before July 5 to Miss Anna Culton, home demonstration agent for this county. Ballard and Marshall county homemakers are to be invited to attend the camp. The following program has been suggested:

Colored clubs of Fulton county are to give program of their own folk songs.

Beautification Demonstration.

Foods Demonstration by a commercial concern.

Trip to Reelfoot Lake (if camp is held in Fulton county).

Music by Mr. Beale (if in Graves county).

Night Programs

Monday—Community party.

Tuesday—Folk games.

Wednesday—Reelfoot lake.

Thursday—Camp fire.

Visitors' day program will be Friday.

This year homemakers who attend the camp will specialize in handicraft—stenciling oval trays, with Miss Sadie Wilgus in charge. Hickman county homemakers will have charge of the cooking, with Misses Alda Henning and Florence Cobb kitchen supervisors.

If the camp is held in Fulton county Miss Culton will be hostess, and will direct recreation. Miss Wilgus will act as treasurer.

An effort is being made to hold the camp on the farm of Mrs. Wes Batts east of Fulton, or at the Tyler farm, west of Cayce. But no definite camp site has yet been obtained.

The Sales Tax

(EDITORIAL)

On several occasions The News has been asked to comment on the sales tax, but we have hesitated to do so until a thorough study of the measure could be made. The sales tax controversy is one of the paramount questions that will come up in the 1934 session of the General Assembly. The fight over this proposed legislation will not be waged between the two dominant political parties as a distinct party issue. There will be differences within both parties.

Just what effect would the sales tax have on the people? Advocates of this proposed legislation tell you that we must enact the measure into law in order to balance the budget. They tell you that we need money to run the various departments of our state government, and for other public institutions dependent upon the state. They declare that the only way by which this needed revenue may be raised is by the passage of a sales tax law. They contend it will be "painless;" one that the people will not notice nor mind. As a bait to the farmers of the state, they are clamoring for the removal of real estate tax, and telling them that they will remove this real estate or farm tax (which amounts to only 30c per hundred dollars valuation) in exchange for the sales tax that they propose. It is claimed by this group that their desire is to "help the great common people" and that the sales tax program is the proper way.

In our opinion the only way to balance the budget is by reducing the cost of government. Certainly this is no time to add more taxes to overburdened taxpayers, who can't eke a living from his labors. For years taxes have continued to grow larger and larger. Now's the time to about-face and reduce government expenses. Real economy can be practiced if those in charge will practice it. Worse than foolish is the proposal to levy more taxes at a time like this.

The budget will not be balanced with the present sources of state revenue, as long as the "powers that be" continue to create two offices where they abolish one. Nor will the budget be balanced as long as those in power attempt to hoodwink the people by cutting salaries of a few little men, while they increase the salaries of those who are "higher up." But if the program of abolition and consolidation of state and county offices as proposed by Hon. Steve Wiley—be adhered to and followed—then the budget will be balanced and the taxpayers will soon feel relief that such a system will bring to them.

The sales tax proposal is for a two per cent levy on all merchandise. It may be that all merchandise will not be included in the final reckoning, but

Trade Day Move Made

At a meeting of merchants and business men at the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night, it was decided to start a trade day drive in Fulton, with the business interests co-operating in campaign to bring more business here.

Fulton needs some concerted effort in a drive to bring more people and more business here. It is to the interest of individual in this community to get behind any movement that will stimulate new business.

The trade days will be handled along the customary line as heretofore, with the exception trade tickets used by merchants will come cheaper. The more who join hands in this trade drive the easier it will be to put over and the greater the results. Handsome prizes are to be given at periodic times as inducement to people everywhere to come to Fulton to trade.

Local grocers are especially urged to cooperate in this trade drive, and this co-operation backed by good, carefully planned publicity and advertising will bring the crowds to Fulton, where they may buy merchandise at savings, and participate in the big trade day events. ## Ministers Stop Sunday Shows Pastors of the various churches in the city led a fight against Sunday shows in Fulton, at a special council meeting held Wednesday afternoon. The controversy is said to be based on the state law regulating business operations and later on the Sabbath.

For the past nine weeks, Warner Orpheum theater, in co-operation with the Elks charity committee, has been having Sunday shows with part of the net proceeds going for charity. Raymond Peoples and Bob White representing the Elks club, and "Buster" Shuck, manager of the Orpheum theater, were present at the council meeting to present their side of the case along with the various ministers of the town.

Sunday shows here are a bone of contention, and the outcome is indefinite. The last Sunday show is set for this Sunday. Some business interests here favor Sunday shows because they believe they draw out-of-town people to Fulton. The Elks have used funds raised thru Sunday shows for charitable purposes.

YOUR COUNTY NEWSPAPER

On quality alone, we believe the present day newspaper justifies the money spent with them. It is hard to speak in terms of accurate appraisal regarding the value of a newspaper since papers have been marketed on a self-sustaining basis circulation alone being considered.

We have found by long experience and by the number of recent additions to the subscription list of The Fulton County News, that a paper must give the people what they want, and community news with a personal touch for the good of all the people. Over 300 names have been added as paid subscribers to this paper since March 1, proving that we are going to the hearts of the people. We want and appreciate your cooperation and constructive criticism, and invite you to visit our plant on Walnut-st.

And when a business man wishes to reach the people with their advertising, it is a matter of good business policy to consider the coverage and reader interest of the medium they use. The Fulton County News guarantees the largest coverage possible, backed by community news that interests everybody; at the least investment in the long run. The more people an advertisement reaches, the better satisfied these merchants should be. It will pay you to think this over, and investigate The Fulton County News when you consider advertising.

Our policy is to appeal to the whole public, not a party or faction, and it takes universal appeal to make a newspaper. Anything that

THE NEW PROSPERITY

SOME THINGS ARE MADE TO GO, but a mule, a clock and a man are of little use unless they go ahead. The new prosperity is here. Start from where you are. If you are a farmer, don't sit around all spring reading essays on how to put in a crop—go ahead, put in the crop. If you are a business man it is not wise to close up the store while you attend a lecture on how to run your business—get busy with your present stock of brains and merchandise and take advantage of this new prosperity. If you are a working man or a working woman, go ahead and work; go ahead and save a little and spend a little; go ahead and learn from past experiences that if you KEEP ON THE JOB you will get the most out of life.

The achievement of this new prosperity need not wait on any "cycle" or the accomplishment of any superhuman miracle. Let every individual wherever we are placed, make a searching analysis of that part of the economics structure of which we are a part, and for which we are responsible, and do our part in this dawn of a new day for the American people. We must eliminate waste and loss motion, and we must utilize distribution that modern inventive genius has put at our command. When we have accomplished this, we have gone a long way on the road to normal times, and to the return of prosperity for all.

Reports from all over the country say that business is improving steadily. All large stores in the South report better sales than in several years, and right here in Fulton, any man or woman who will take the time to investigate, will find that the business and morale of our citizens are higher than they were two months ago. Good times are here by the acts of the people, with the help of the leaders. If you continually think hard times, you really are marking hard times for yourself and your neighbor.

If you think good times you improve your own frame of mind, and assist your neighbor to a better understanding, that the new prosperity is here.

MAN CAN ACCOMPLISH

Human beings, ordinary matter-of-fact people, constructed this great country out of a wilderness. Brains, hands and willing hearts were the tools with which they worked their wonders. Failure can offer no excuse in this hour when we may look back at our Watts of the steam engine, an idea from his mother's teakettle; Stephenson and his locomotive; and Edison who learned his wizardry from the hard knocks of life; and Wilbur Wright who sprouted wings from his little bicycle shop.

Failure can offer no excuse. We have created railroads that span the continent, steamship lines, moving and talking pictures, radio, submarines, airplanes and artificial illumination. Doesn't all this tingle in your veins? A nation that can produce these wonders and give birth to men who can conceive all these wonderful ideas, cannot and will not let anything grind them under. The depression is now becoming a bad dream of the past with the wonder workings of the GREAT AMERICAN CITIZEN THAT WILL NOT BE DOWNED.

No legislature or Congress is going to vote us into prosperity. Each man who gets there will travel on his own feet, and no one finds safety in shaping his course with the crowd. The first man to quit work is usually the last one to be promoted.

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKERS FOR SCHOOLS ARE NAMED

A list of commencement speakers for high schools of West Kentucky has been released by Prof. E. H. Smith, director of extension at Murray State College.

The office has been busy mailing out letters to principals and superintendents of the First District of the Second District, giving available speakers for commencement addresses.

We realize that schools are hard pressed for finances the same as this institution, and we suggest that the principals desiring commencement speakers give some indication as to what amount will be available for the purpose, and we shall do our best to send a suitable speaker."

The list of speakers following: Dr. J. W. Carr, president; Prof. E. H. Smith, director of extension; Prof. G. B. Pennbaker, instructor in the science department; Dr. George C. Poret, education instructor; Prof. C. P. Poole, psychology and philosophy; Prof. G. C. Ashcraft, social sciences; A. B. Austin, history department; Dr. Charles Hise, physical sciences; Prof. J. S. Pullen, agriculture; Dr. R. E. Branch, business manager; Dr. Herbert Dennon, English department; Dr. G. Turner Hicks, education.

A BLOODY STORY.

Scientists have determined that the heart pumps four quarts of blood thru its valves every minute. Just think of the many pulsations necessary to force one gallon of blood into the body. But let us figure a little. If one gallon goes thru every minute that means 60 gallons every hour, and that would mean 1440 gallons every day, and that would mean 10,080 gallons every week, 400,320 gallons every month, and in a year it would amount to 4,803,840 gallons. In my life to date my heart has passed thru its muscular walls the enormous total of 187,349,760 gallons of blood. And one little drop of poison in that vast quantity of blood would have meant a changed life. The failure of the heart to function even for a few seconds would have meant a stopping of every bodily activity. Can we afford to put into our bodies anything that would make the work of our heart any more difficult? Alcohol is a poison. It affects the heart. Makes its burden heavier. Lessens your chances for long life and happiness. Think it over.

Yours for a pure blood stream.
Carroll Cloyd.

OBEYING THE LAW

I confess I am not much of a stidder for the theory that "we must obey the law, no matter how we feel towards that law," a doctrine promulgated by some people. I am inclined to think, as I recall some historical instance where the people refused to obey a law were praised for their "patriotism" and time has brought justification of their acts, that disobedience is justified.

"Blind obedience" is not advisable. True, we sometimes admire a man who has the courage to break away from a theory, who takes the bit in his mouth and fights his way thru public opinion and emerges from the cloud. But don't we put entirely too much stress on obedience in the whole?

Why should we admire the men who refused to obey the Stamp Act; denounce those who refused to obey the bigamy law? We glorify the men who refused to obey the law when they heaved the tea over board, but were they any the less lawbreakers than he who violated the 18th amendment? The men who refused to obey the provisions of the Fugitive Slave law are held in high esteem by a class, and at the time they were breaking that law there were those who glorified them.

"Blind obedience" isn't a tree that always bears good fruit. There was Casabianca whose plaintiff said, "my father, must I stay?" still rings out on the air. He sacrificed himself, lost his life, and what for? Is the world any better off for his sacrifice?

My mind goes back to the famous Six Hundred at Balaklava where "someone had blundered," yet "there is not to reason why, their's but to obey."

About the funniest thing is a fat woman trying to look indignant," remarks a parapsychist. How about a fat man trying to look important?

The modern girl would be a wonderful cook if—she could have a kitchen that could be run with a steering wheel.

do or die." And so, though they were aware of the fact that they were walking into the jaws of death, knew it was a hopeless task, they went forward and to death. I'm not sure they acted wisely. They had their orders and blind fools, as they were, they obeyed the orders.

Again, just what made a hero out of the man who "carried the message to Garcia," and what effect did his act have on the result of the Spanish war?

So I say, obedience is all right, when it is mixed with reason. But history makes heroes out of some men who refused to obey the laws of the land because such laws were not in accord with their conscience or their views. Why it should do so with one class of lawbreakers and condemn another class, I do not know. Think it over.

WE DO NOT UNDERSTAND

An acquaintance of mine once remarked to me that "religion required too much of a man." As a clincher he cited two commandments he claimed no man could live up to—take no thought for tomorrow and forgive your enemies. Of the first he said the idea of letting tomorrow take care of itself would land a man and his family in the poorhouse, and the last one was a physical impossibility.

The trouble with my friend is the same trouble with a great many men who read and criticize the Bible—they read into its teachings much more than they contain. They perceive difficulties that are not there. According to the teachings of the Christian religion, the sinner can have forgiveness, but he must first repent of his sins and is not forgiven until he confesses and asks for forgiveness of God. Does God require of man a degree of kindness greater than God himself? If he requires of the sinner repentance and a request for forgiveness, isn't it fair to suppose that the Christian is free to make the same conditions? The command is not unreasonable when looked at reasonably.

Think not of tomorrow as easily achieved. The difficulties are easily explained. The people lived in a climate where food was easily obtained and where there was not the necessity for gathering in barns, much concern for temporal matters and not enough in the spiritual. Their anxious thought for tomorrow was an indication of greed and avarice, and lack of faith in God—too. Think it over.

the principle of the operation of the tax remains the same. It is claimed that two cents on every dollar's worth purchased will not amount to much. The public is told that the merchants will pay the tax, but the public will not be fooled by such statements. Even if the merchant did have to pay the tax, would it be right to force such an imposition on him? But the truth is, the tax will pass on to the consumer.

For example take a five cent bar of soap. The merchant will have already paid a sales tax on that article before the consumer comes to buy. Of course the tax that he has paid was only a fraction of a cent. But the merchant to make a fair margin of profit and to stay in business, is compelled to add one cent to the cost of the soap, making it cost six cents. Under the sales tax twenty bars would cost $1.20 instead of $1. And yet, they tell us that the sales tax is painless. In a like manner will every article with a sales tax levied on it, cost more when the public buys it. There's no use whipping the devil around the stump. Old Man General Public pays in the end.

Don't be misled about this sales tax proposal. When they tell you that the removal of the state tax on farm lands is going to help the farmer, you can laugh up your sleeve. They would save the farmer 30c and take $2 out of his pocket. Isn't there a lot of satisfaction in that? Enactment of the sales tax law would place in the hands of the State Tax Commission an enormous power by which it can create thousands of jobs to hand to political "pets." With this huge amount of patronage the tax commission could control any kind of state election.

The sales tax would place excessive and uncalled for taxes upon the backs of the people who are least able to pay these taxes. It will give the income taxpayers and corporations relief from taxation. It will curb prosperity, because it is a tax levied on he who spends. It will cause the people of this commonwealth to give their support to the worst type of bureaucratic government, and it would take years to shake off this terrible monster of inequality, iniquity and power madness—the sales tax.

In the hands of the people rests the power to forever bury this vicious piece of proposed legislation. Let them do it in the coming elections. Beware of the candidate who evades this issue. Any candidate seeking state office should come out into the open and state just where they stand on the sales tax and other vital issues.

Never was the need greater for honest, sincere men in national, state, county and municipal governments. Mr. Taxpayers, you can see that you get those kind of men—investigate your man before you vote for him. Fence straddling and hedge-hopping days are past—courage and resourcefulness are needed in this period of reconstruction.

HISTORY IN THE MAKING

By J. Paul Bushart

Now we come to the pioneer period. Early settlers first came by the Wilderness Road blazed by Boone and in flatboats down the Ohio and Mississippi. For the most part the pioneers of Kentucky were from that unsurpassed race of people, the Scotch-Irish, who settled in the valley of Virginia, and then spread out into the neighboring states. Their ancestors had suffered religious persecutions in the Old World, and the pioneers brought into the rich, free land of Kentucky an intensive love of God, liberty and of education.

None but the brave desired or dared risk the perils of this untamed forest. Therefore Kentucky was founded by men of forceful qualities, remarkable as well for strength of mind as for endurance of body. Many brave officers and soldiers from New England came to this country after the war for independence with England. Today the tide of immigration has passed for the most part, and its present population consists almost exclusively of the descendants of the early settlers.

July 4, 1776, the Continental Congress adopted the Declaration of Independence, and in December of that year Kentucky County was established by Virginia. Kentucky is from the Iroquois word Kentake, meaning prairie or meadow land. Altho Indian hostilities were continuous the population slowly grew and between 500 and 600 people had settled in 1777. During the "hard winter" of 1777-78 game froze in the forest, cattle suffered and died around the stations; corn sold for $50 to $175 (Continental money) per bushel. But spring brought more men of talent and education. In 1780 the legislature of Virginia divided the county of Kentucky into three counties: Jefferson, Fayette and Lincoln.

Cut off from the East by the high Cumberland mountains, separated from neighboring regions of the North and West by a connecting system of waters, Kentucky waged a lone, conflict-unaided by Continental arms and Continental supplies—and opened the way for the conquest of the vast, rich West. Peace between the Colonies and Great Britain in 1782, at which time the population of Kentucky was less than 30,000. But now the growth became rapid, and by 1790 the population had reached better than 75,000.

The following swift events followed: District Court opened at Harrodsburg in March, 1783; Danville made capital of districts; First convention for separation from Virginia held at Danville, December 27, 1784; Congress admitted Kentucky as a state June 1, 1792; 1793 Kentucky legislature met at Frankfort, the new capital for the first time, in a large frame house of Maj. James Love on the river bank. Col. Isaac Shelby was elected first governor at Lexington, April 3, 1792.

Kentuckians in 1793 threatened to attack New Orleans, seat of the Spanish government, which refused navigation of the Mississippi below the 31st degree of latitude, or below Hickman. First steamboat ever successfully moved on any waters of the West was exhibited at Lexington, Spain granted by treaty the navigation of the Mississippi, 1795, government, establishment of a new constitution; purchase of Louisiana from the French on May 3, 1803, to whom it had been deeded by Spain. (This territory of Louisiana took in the country west of the Mississippi, included Missouri); 1824, heavy emigration from Kentucky to Illinois and Missouri; April 17, 1824, a line of stages established from Maysville, through Lexington and Frankfort to Louisville, trip two days; and to Washington City in six days.

1812-The war between England and the U. S. Great Britain and France at war, with American vessels caught in the blockades and captured. Kentucky furnished militia to fight the English who used Indians as allies. Capt. Hickman (for whom Hickman County was named), was killed at the second battle of Frenchtown in Jan. 1812 April 21, 1836 Texan troops, many of them Kentuckians, under Gov. Sam Houston, won victory over Mexicans at San Jacinto de-at home a temporary financial depression was on. During the European wars, and the war between America and England, gold and silver had been banished from circulation, and in their place had substituted a paper currency, which gave a high nominal value to commodities. The return of specie payment lowered this value, and the result was very general bankruptcy. Then came universal suspension of banks and payment of specie. In 1842 an attempt was made to revive the old "relief measures" but the people had at last learned that legislation does not remedy evils. Abolitionists were active, operating "the underground railroad" smuggling negro slaves out of the South and to "freedom".

Western Kentucky, or that part of the state lying below the Tennessee river, was purchased by Andrew Jackson from the Chickasaw Indians, Oct. 19, 1818. The Jackson Purchase composed about 7,000,000 acres in Kentucky and Tennessee, for which the Indians were paid an annuity of $10,000 for fifteen years. It was on December 19, 1821 Hickman County was established out of parts of Livingston and Caldwell counties by a special act of the legislature. It composed the entire Kentucky part of the Jackson Purchase. On Feb. 23, 1822, the first county and circuit courts in Kentucky, west of the Tennessee river, met at Columbus in the old block house which was erected in 1804 and used by a fort by U. S. troops during the Aaron Burr move against the government Hickman county was the 71st county erected in the state, and was named in honor of Capt. Paschall Hickman.

From what was originally Hickman county, the following counties have been created since 1821: Calloway 1822; Graves 1823; McGracken 1824; Marshall 1842; Ballard 1824; Fulton 1845; and Carlisle since 1870.

WATCH YOUR STEP

(By 'ME')

What do you think when a person gets tangled up in a matrimonial situation so deeply that they can't get out of it. Yet they never get the pleasure out of married life they want because their chosen mate passes on. This happened to a Fulton person not so long ago.

Came down Monday morning. The whale was gone. Some said it had taken to the Mississippi and struck out for the ocean. Anyway Fulton had one whaling big time over the week-end—what, with whales, beer and Sunday shows. People from every crevice of the country stormed the streets from early till late. A few drunks were reported. It is claimed they got "tead" up on bootleg which they poured down the "little red lane", before they took on a load of beer.

Saw three men riding around town with "a lonely little girl" Sunday. Wondering if she was as lonely as she looked. Maybe she was just the quiet type anyway.

Watch your step—it may be costly. Especially if you overlook the Free Flour being given away by the News. All you have to do is to hand us $1.00 for a year's subscription to the newsy little paper in this section—and we'll give you a Free Sack of Browder's Flour, made right here in Fulton.

One gentleman says students at Fulton high have tested the beer being sold here—and is tested over a per cent. Another man contends that the brewers have not gone the limit, and the present beer has less than 3 per cent.

I'm wondering how the school boys froze and analyzed the beer; and incidentally, what we may expect when the brewers go the limit.

Two little love-birds on the highway, just singing in the springtime. Motorists were amused at the free show. These "birds" were perched gently on the sideboards of a wagon parked on the Union City highway. They were happy because it was spring and love-time. But when we approached they unlocked their arms and waved a glorious hello. Then back to love-making. Who was it? Maybe if I could understand bird latin I would know—but as they were talking in a language all their own, who knows.
