The Local Option League.

Matter in this department published under auspices of the committee having the conduct of the Local Option campaign in charge.

LOCAL OPTION CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE:

We, the undersigned committee forty men, acting upon the solicitation of the friends of the temperance cause, hereby consent to act as the campaign committee for the city of Fulton, in the campaign against the return of the open saloon to this city, the election to be held July 21, '10.

In assuming this task we are actuated by no other motive except to see the cause of temperance prevail, believing it is for the best interests of our city and country to keep the saloons out.

We, therefore, call upon all home-loving, God-fearing, law-abiding citizens, regardless of politics, religion, or color, to stand with us in this crusade.

We have opened up headquarters on the second floor of the City National Bank Building, where we shall be glad to have all of the friends of the temperance cause call at any time, and advise with us concerning any phase of the campaign.

Phipps, Horace Luten, M. P. McDowell, U. H. Scott, I. H. Reed, R. H. Wade, Ed Webb, M. F. Demyer, J. A. Underwood, M. L. Farmer, H. F. Huddleston, A. J. Burrow, Ely Byrum, George C. Hall, R. L. Dacas, R. E. Goldsby, J. W. Sellers, M. L. Whitesides, W. T. Hamlett, Charles Fowler, J. R. Graham.

For You to Decide, Mr. Voter

In an article under the caption above, the "rum ring" ask the voter of this city to decide a few things, among them whether they want a fire department, light plant, sewerage system, privilege tax taken off, taxes reduced, street improvements, whiskey sold here with the city as a partner in the business, whether we want saloons or bootleggers, and the like.

We noticed in the little article above referred to that the whiskey set forgot to ask us also if we did not want a flying machine, two automobiles apiece, and a beer pail.

Bless your life, according to the lovely little boys all we will have to do when we have saloons here is to keep the flying machine and automobiles busy "rushing the can."

The days of rest and recreation will be at hand. No work will we have to do. No money will we have to furnish. The "model saloon" will do all the work and furnish all the money.

Boys, you will have to talk to your fathers and mothers. They will even listen to you. Your promises are too numerous and insincere for the good people of this city to even suspect that you have the slightest idea of trying to fulfill them.

Real Facts.

The issue is whether we will have saloons or no saloons. The bootlegger has nothing to do with the question. The law will have to deal with him, saloon or no saloon.

The issue is whether you will soil your hands by voting for the establishment of the greatest crime breeder on earth in this city, or refuse to do it.

The issue is whether you will go in partnership with saloon keepers or decline to do so.

The issue is whether we will saddle some of our taxes on the weak and defenseless or be man enough to pay our own taxes.

The issue is whether we will pay four or five saloon keepers $200,000 to collect $5,000.

The issue is whether the manhood of this city will be bribed by the liquor set to let them set up to enrich themselves.

The issue here is whether we want to send $250,000 a year of our hard earned money out of this city to maintain millionaire brewers and distillers.

The issue here is whether your family will have the ordinary comforts of life or that the whiskey interests of this country roll in money supplied to them by the poor and weak.

The issue here is whether the people of Fulton will gain a victory over the allied interests of this country that are trying with all their might to fasten the saloon on us, or that these interests will conquer.

The issue here is whether God and Christ and right will triumph, or go down in defeat before wrong and evil and sin.

The real issue here is whether you will sell out for a few promises made by the liquor people, promises they cannot and will not redeem (wouldn't if they could), or stand by right and principle and truth.

And in the meantime God looks on.

City Revenues.

We hear it on every hand that the people of this city believe the revenues of this city are more than ample to provide for all needed effort to keep the city clean and comfortable, and to provide some few improvements here and there. And we believe that to be true.

What is needed in the care of the city revenues is that the people of the city should demand an exact accounting of the receipts and expenditures of the city. No honest set of men will object to that. Let those items be carefully examined by a committee appointed by the people, with vouchers attached, and it won't be long until things begin to come to pass in reducing debt, etc.

Nobody is going to howl about such a procedure but the man who don't want the people to know what is going on, and that man ought to be "side-tracked" at once.

Anybody ought to know that the revenues of this city are amply sufficient to take care of its expenses.

Short Range.

So they tell us again that we are not going to vote on the 21st of the month as to whether whiskey shall or shall not be sold in this city. We would like to ask the versatile editor of the "rum ring" what he thinks we are going to vote on—just what the issue is?

And now the editor of the "boozecratie boys" tells us that he is willing to be persecuted for "whiskey's sake." Noble sacrifices he is making. We were of the opinion that he was making these sacrifices for the "doe" involved and not for the cause. Perhaps we were mistaken.

When "pertinent points" has the time and disposition he might point out to us just why it is that these grand moral enterprises, called saloons, that his set are trying to fasten on Fulton, according to the platform of the thing, are to be segregated—kept bunched, so the police can keep them under close supervision? If they are so good why not scatter them over the city, and let the colored "voter" have two or three?

It does seem to us that no effort on our part or on the part of the citizen or the farmer or anybody else will bring out the Lord Mayor in his own defense. It is a well known thing in this city that the mayor has acted in such a manner that he cannot defend his own character and actions in this controversy.

We are sorry for the man who cannot defend himself, nor can get any one else to do it.

So now the dear whiskey boys do not even know where the whiskey sheet is. We knew they were "boozing" pretty heavily, but we did not know they were gone so far. It is the last page of the Fulton Daily Leader, boys. Search around and see if you can find one, and smell the last page and it will give you an old time "jag" free of cost. If a fellow would boil that sheet for a couple of hours he would have enough "rot gut" to run ten saloons in Fulton three years at least.

We thought the editor of the "boozecratie league" was going to refer us to another Sidney from New Orleans, but he didn't.

Yes, we agree with the editor of the "Boozecratie league" that the "eyes" of the colored voter are wide open. It occurred to us that they got propped open some last night when the Irish orator spoke to them, and from the way the colored voter talked, we think they are now wide open.

"Knocking" again. Now, "little ones," do be good and tell us about the wonderful condition of Cairo, Illinois, the paradise of the saloon.

Jameson says he would give most anything to get a whack at the liquor champions. Boys, do let us have one chance to see some of it. If you will furnish the "hide" we will furnish the "hide splitter," and we will hang it up and try it too.

When we get hard up for matter to publish in these columns we will have to go to "Ten Nights in a Bar Room," but will produce in these columns the platform of the liquor set. It is getting to be the laughing stock of the city. Jameson says the low that wrote it ought to advertise "rooms for rent in the upper story, unfurnished."

Of course we have to have the police at this time. The law has long been trying to over-run the city with "boozers" to create a sentiment against the bootlegger in favor of the saloon. It occurs to us that if we have to have three police to keep the peace here with a bootlegger on hand we would have an indefinite number with saloons.

So they again sneer at the we and children. But this is the habit of the thing. It sneers at everything good, even the revival. Fact is, they don't like anything decent because everything decent despises the saloon business.

No, friends, we are the friends of the colored voter. We want him to retain his franchise, and that is the reason we warn him. If he follows the saloon element he will not be a citizen, but a saloon slave. We want him to vote as he sees fit, and the colored voter say they are going to do that very thing.

A woman in favor of a saloon. Surely, Mr. Editor, there is not one in Fulton. For her sake in this community keep her name forever secret.

Boys, why don't you move to Cairo?

Queer, Isn't It?

The liquor presses are complaining because the students and professors of the University of Nebraska took an active part in the Lincoln local option campaign, which resulted in the capitol city of Nebraska again voting "dry." The liquor men intimate that this "great educational institution" should have kept out of the fight.

What an argument! Did the brewers of Nebraska stay out of the fight? Did the gamblers remain inactive? Did the thugs and toughs keep hands off? Hardly. But the decent intelligent citizens are censured for opposing the saloons.

And this is the way they do in this city. Whenever the preachers and the good people go to opposing the saloon they have nothing but censure for them. It does not matter who the fellow is who favors the saloon—thug, a gambler, a drunkard, etc., the whiskey set he is all right.

Labor's Greatest Curse.

"If seems strange that, after trading so much poverty and crime direct to the saloon, the American people do not rise en masse and obliterate it from the face of the earth. The man who keeps pace with the saloon can deny that the saloon is responsible, either directly or indirectly, for nine-tenths of this poverty and crime. No one can deny that it is what has made the coward a demon, who took the life of his fellow man. No one can deny that in nearly every walk of life its baneful influence can be traced from the United States to the almshouse and the penitentiary. No well-advised trades unionists can deny that a greater part of the infernal quarrels and bickerings among trades unionists have been concocted in the back rooms of saloons. The greatest curse to the labor movement has been the saloon, and it is high time that the labor leaders get together and forever divorce the saloon movement and the saloon influence."—President National Federation of Blacksmiths.

IS BUTCHER ENTICES YOUNG GIRL

Uses to Obtain Employment For But Directed Her to House of Ill Fame.

Lebanon, July 12.—J. E. Collins, 19 years, who is alleged to have seduced 18-year old Letitia Wright, Louisville, on the pretense that she was to be given congenial employment, and then directed her to the room of Leah Bell, 926 West Walnut street, was arrested at Eighth and Broadway. Collins arrived in Lebanon over the Illinois Central from Louisville. He is charged with enticing a female under 21 years of age with disorderly conduct. The woman also was arrested. The Wright girl, who says that her home is at Barbourville, was found wandering about Tenth and Ninth streets Thursday night looking for "Bell's hotel." The people in the neighborhood to whom she made inquiries had never heard of such a place, and under the circumstances, they thought it best to question her further. She said that Collins had told her that she could get a good job in Louisville after she had been in this city. He told her, she said, that he would notify her as soon as he heard of a place.

ARMON REMOVES MAYOR OF NEWARK

Armon Says Lynching of Detective Could Have Been Prevented.

Newark, O., July 12.—Before he had been in office an hour Monday evening J. N. Armon, vice mayor, elected to the office of chief executive of Newark following the suspension of Mayor Herbert Atherton by Gov. Harmon, had summarily removed Chief of Police Zerbe and Police Captain Robert Bell.

He gave as grounds for these removals the non-enforcement of the city option law which resulted in the lynching of Carl Etherington Friday night.

The new police officials caused the arrest of a negro, Vance Moore, who was held in connection with the Friday night lynching.

Levy Valentine, a negro mute, was arrested in the afternoon.

BIG SLUMP IN RAIL ROAD BUSINESS

Switch Engine in New Yards Now Works But Half Time And Many Men Are Out of Employment Along the Line.

The bottom seems to have fallen out of business on the Illinois Central and as a result of this many are thrown out of work.

The New Yards switch engine is now working half and shift, that is, from 7 o'clock noon to midnight. As a result of this one entire crew is thrown out of employment. On yesterday afternoon Yardmaster Travis was pulled out and given charge of the engine. Night Yardmaster Newhouse will now work from midnight until midday instead of from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m. as formerly. This results in one more switchman being thrown on the extra board.

It is rumored that other cuts will be made in a few days and additional men will be allowed an enforced leave of absence.

PROMINENT CITIZEN DEAD.

One of Fulton's most prominent citizens passed over the dark veil yesterday when death claimed James Kennedy, a pioneer resident of this section. The end came as a welcome relief from long suffering.

For several months past he had been confined to his bed with some form of stomach or liver trouble. He suffered acute agony but bore it all with great Christian fortitude.

The deceased was the owner of the Kennedy block on the hill and possessed other valuable property interests in Fulton and in South Fulton. He is survived by his aged and faithful wife.

The funeral services were conducted this afternoon at four o'clock and interment followed at Fairview cemetery.

"The Don't Need To" Theory.

In a recent debate at Reno Mr. James Jeffries failed to convince Mr. Jack Johnson.

Some seven or eight years ago Mr. Jeffries was the leading man in his line of work. Business was good and his profits were big.

Having all the money he could handle at the time, he concluded to take a rest. To be sure, he planned to get into the field again at the proper time. But everything was rosy and there really seemed no good and sufficient reason why he should spend so many hours a day keeping his muscle lithe and strong and his wind good and his heart and nerves in trim.

Eventually the meeting with Mr. Johnson was arranged. Mr. Jeffries was still tolerably content with what he had done. (Brother, a has-done is about as been.)

Mr. Jeffries did not care to stand up in the training ring and punch and take punches. He did not see any necessity of practicing side-steps and feints and rushes.

He knew all about them. Why, seven years ago he had done all of that he ever needed to do.

Johnson did not overlook the boxing and the wrestling and the clinching and the side-stepping, etc.

As a result, Mr. Jeffries received Mr. Johnson's compliments on the point of the jaw and his business career closed.

Advertising a business is the training of that business. Advertising keeps a business healthy. It tones up its liver, strengthens its biceps, steadies its heart and its nerves in order.

Once in a while a man decides that he is doing so much business that he can stop advertising for a while and run on momentum. The Momentum is the gradual process toward a full stop.

The Momentum business is usually prematurely full-stopped by the straight left jab of the well-trained competitor who finds his opening in the fifteenth round.

If you want to stay in business stay in the advertising field. No matter how much business you are doing, keep up the energy that makes it.

You might as well cut off your legs because you are running well in a foot race as to cut off your advertising because your business is too good.

You might as well tell the insurance man that you are so healthy that you will drop the policy for a few years as to stop advertising because the orders are piling up.

"Don't need to" is the eventual preliminary to "Can't do it." The only man who doesn't need to advertise is the man who has retired from business.

The only policy holder who doesn't need to pay his premiums is dead. Mr. Jeffries doesn't need to train any more. He is licked.

BUSINESS MEN'S LEAGUE

OF FULTON.

Matter in this department published under auspices of the committee having the conduct of the High License campaign in charge.

Throughout the campaign, which until July 21st will be conducted by the Business Men's League for the purpose of bettering the conditions prevailing in Fulton, both morally and financially, this space will each day be devoted, to our cause, with due respect to the feelings of all and with the intention of placing before the citizens of this city facts and figures which hold wonderful possibilities for the advancement of our common interests.

Art and Some Other Things.

Mr. Voter during the present give some thought to the future. Give some thought to the future which depends upon the present.

Orators may be brought to your midst, men whose tongues are smooth, whose language is flowing, whose words pictures delight the minds eye and who thrill you by their art, even as the music masters may carry you to the heights by the charm of their wondrous harmonies. The magnetic influence which the master of words exerts is much the same in its effect upon men as music, which, quelling the time worn phrase, "Hath charms to soothe the savage breast," under the hypnotic spell or well chosen words, arranged in perfect rhythm, in flowing sentences of beauty and eloquence, theories bloom into fancied fact, promises are golden and the future is a happy vista of peace and calm prosperity. The orator's power is a wonderful one. He may sway vast gatherings of men and women to hysteria, play upon their every emotion as were the strings of a responsive violin, swamp their sane intelligence in a delightful swirl of sentimental delirium.

But the orator is here today and he is gone tomorrow. The orator has his work to do just as an opera singer, a great band master, have their work to do. The orator is paid or his work as the band master or the opera singer is paid. The latter class of persons are paid to charm an audience of men and women by the power of his art, no less a cultivated and important one than music.

But the difference is this: man would be regarded as weak in deed who would be prevailed upon by the compelling and charming strains of a fascinating and entrancing song to abandon his sane ideas of the stern responsibilities of life. A man would be regarded as crazy who would carry out of the building where he was charmed by music a head full of sentiment which would govern his actions afterward in the walks of business a sentiment which would make him regard a dollar as a dime, a binding debt and obligation as a dreamer's party engagement. This is the difference. The musician sways an audience by his art, but his audience recognizes his art only for entertainment and the satisfying of the inner longings which are foreign to the material appetites of the five senses of physiology. The orator and his art should be regarded in the same same light; but unfortunately most frequently he is not. He charms the mind with happy word combinations and delights the ear with the passion of his voice, no more than this, yet some men carry away with them from his presence a lingering sentimentality which is prone to exert a dangerous influence in their actions of real material matter.

The orator is of today. Your business conditions are of all the time. Your debts may be dissipated while under the spell of his eloquence, but in the times to come when the orator is a memory the debts are cold, hard facts, and must be paid with dollars, not pleading words. The orator is of today; but taxes are eternal. The oratorical artist is gone hence with your hard earned money and you are holding the bag when your debt falls due.

Mr. Voter, you may find your sentiment upon the eloquence of oratory, but you must feed your stomach upon bread and meat. Orators cannot orate away the conditions which face you in Fulton day, and which will face you in Fulton more sternly this time next year if you do not apply the only remedy at hand. The orator is of but a few days in Fulton; you are here forever.

The Voice of Dodd.

The voice of M. E. Dodd is heard from Paducah. And what does Dodd say?

Dodd says that Paducah is a bad, bad, village! Perhaps it is. At least Dodd has a right to think so, for was he not publicly whipped on the streets of the town by the husband of a woman of his own congregation whom he had insulted; knocked down and his eyes blacked without offering any defense by the use of the fist nature endowed him with? And did not public sentiment in Paducah approve of his just chastisement at the hands of the husband whose wife he wantonly insulted? No wonder Dodd thinks Paducah is on the bum.

But why doesn't Dodd leave Paducah? He went from this town after he assisted in voting out whiskey, to a city where whiskey was sold on nearly every corner. He did this because he was offered more money in Paducah than his good congregation could pay him here. He is having no effect whatever upon the liquor traffic in Paducah, there is nothing he can do to get whiskey voted out of Paducah for the simple reason that four out of six of Paducah's legal voters want saloons; so why doesn't Dodd leave Paducah if he doesn't? Dodd leaves Paducah if the place is so vile, as he pictures it, is the lure of the hard cash strong upon Dodd, even as you and I?

But to the issue. Dodd says some one misrepresented things deliberately when it was stated in the columns of this department of the Fulton Leader that a former Fultonian said Fulton would be the best town on the map if saloons were voted back; and that this former Fultonian now resides in Paducah.

Dodd falsifies. This statement was made. It was made by Arthur Johnson while standing just outside of the front door of B. Weille's store on Broadway in Paducah, just after the noon hour on Tuesday, July 5th, 1910. Arthur Johnson was formerly a Fulton citizen; he now works for Weille.

So much for Dodd.

Martin's She Is Wrote.

The editor of the Martin Mail states that Martin is blessed indeed because of the Blue Laws which prohibit the sale of cigars, tobacco, soda water, candy, chewing gum, fresh oysters, clean collars, and all such deadly and damaging things on Sunday in his town. He states that Martin thrives on pure Godliness alone, is happy and contented, peaceful and prosperous.

Again, we will ask you, Mr. Fulton voter, if you want a town like this? Do you want to live in a town where there are hypocrites who would prohibit the sale of such things as we mentioned above on Sunday? The same persons who, at their Sunday dinners, serve all the good things at hand, chicken and ice cream, many layered cakes, and a slice from the tenderloin of the fatted calf, would prohibit the sale of even a package of chewing gum on this same day. Do you want a town where these persons or in charge of the government of the municipality?

If this is your idea of what a town should be then vote for local option and line up with them and the Martin Editor in putting the Blue Laws into effect in our town too. But before you do this take the 3:20 train some shining afternoon and drop off the rear coach in the few minutes the train hesitates at this Tennessee way station. Drop off quietly, if possible, if it startles the citizens of that metropolis when a stranger is among them, and you are apt to provoke a fire alarm, or riot call if you are not careful. "Stroll over Martin on foot, don't make the mistake of thinking you need a vehicle of nature stroll over the town and take a casual squint at what you see there. Crease your unaccustomed neck to peer up at the skyscrapers; hold your elbows close by your side to protect yourself from being crushed in the jam of the jostling crowds, but, as a personal friend, we urge upon you not to break into a cheery whistle or commit the folly of sneezing. For if you do your "seeing Martin" tour will end in the lock-up of that close rival of Chicago and St. Louis. Just look pious as you can and inspect the town thoroughly; if it looks good to you come on back and vote for local option and the crowd who will eventually make your town as good as Martin.

Concerning Beer Drinkers

Very many men in every town are drinkers of beer to some extent. Some of them are young men, some of them are old men, some of them are local optionists, some of them believe in high license.

The beer drinkers are not deprived of their beer to any extent by the voting out of the open saloon. The majority of them continue to drink their favorite beverage and when saloons are voted out they do not seek the bootlegger for this commodity, although in Fulton beer is bootlegged with even more openness than is whiskey. The beer drinker, who, by the way, is usually the most moderate type of the drinker and regards his glass of foaming fluid, not as an alcoholic stimulant, but as a glass of refreshment of the nature of the phosphates dispensed at the soda fountain, he does not turn to the boot-legger because he saves money by thinking, by ordering beer by the case from Cairo or Evansville.

So the man who is in the habit of taking two or three glasses of beer per day at the saloon after a day's work, is not a bootlegger. It is delivered to his door by the express wagon, is placed on ice, usually at least a dozen bottles at a time. The beer drinker has been used to taking his glass at the bar and going about his business; this speaking of the average beer drinker. Now that he has his beer at home in the very first place he has to open a full bottle, or two glasses, to get a single sup or it is a rare case indeed where he does not consume the full bottle, or two glasses. But this is not the only thing; whenever he comes home after a meal time or after supper, he has an idle few minutes, perhaps at meal time or after supper, he thinks of the cold refreshing bottle in his refrigerator and doesn't attempt to resist the desire to open one.

So the beer drinker in a local option town soon comes to realize that prohibition is not only costing him more but that he is drinking less than before. In the refrigerator he has hundreds of persons in Fulton to rest sweat covered bottles of beer fluid. It is in the refrigerator of some who are taking an active part in the local option work, it is in the refrigerator whose owners know the taste of beer when saloons were openly conducted in Fulton.

Whatever the local optionists say the man who drank beer before saloons were voted out of Fulton knows this article to be true to fact. He knows prohibition is a theory, a realization.

Pertinent Points.

They are lighting their red fire their stage thunder is beginning to rumble; the incandescent lightning is flashing; the suppers are gathering for the grand assembly; the local optionists are preparing for the coming of hysteria. It will avail them nothing, the play acting, the ranting, the declaiming orators, the appeal to sentiment. Even as it was in Berlin Green a band of ah-doo-ah-doo, God fearing, alert and intelligent business men of Fulton are seeking to lead the town out of the wilderness against the stubborn will of fanatics, deluded followers of a false theory and these business men are going to win.

Down with bootlegging! As the strength of the bootlegger is bones, you men of Fulton who the high license is the salvation of the moral and business interests of your town. Eight years experience has taught you we have whiskey a beer sold all the time, crime increased greatly, police protection costing three times as much as when saloons were here, taxes increasing, population increasing not only in city plunging deeper and deeper into debt. Isn't it about time you were stepping in and putting a stop to this state of disgraceful affairs? Have the courage of your convictions when you vote on July 21st, the courage which will make you vote to make your town a live spot on the map. It's no time for orators, it's time for action.

Don't it stand to reason that if there were any means on earth of stopping bootlegging in Fulton, even for a short period of time, the local optionists would have had a stop to it during this campaign? You know it. They have employed an extra policeman, and a good one, by the way, but three men on the force can do no more than two local optionist or the high license men powerless to stop bootlegging. It is here forever, under the local option rule. Then abolish this rule and regulate the liquor traffic. It's time to act.

OUR PLATFORM

It is the sense of the Business Men's League that while recognizing and deploring the evils of intemperance, we do not believe that the use of intoxicating liquors in our city has been diminished to any appreciable extent under the Local Option laws now prevailing. We believe that it is better for the good morals of our people, both young and old, that intoxicating liquors should be sold under the high license system, and strict regulations, than that it should be dispensed illegally and indiscriminately by bootleggers. We believe also that business in our city would show a marked and steady increase under the high license system, and that our population would grow rapidly. Realizing that our city is heavily in debt, with no hope of lifting our burdens or making many needed improvements without the imposition of further taxes upon our citizens, therefore,

Be it resolved, That we favor: First. A license system for the regulation of the sale of intoxicating liquor under which no little license shall be less than one thousand dollars.

Second. The rigid regulation of the sale in the following and other respects as will insure the proper conduct of the business. That the applicant and licensee shall be of good moral character, the bona fide owner of and personally conduct the business, and give bond for the full compliance with all laws and regulations. That at the closing hour be adopted, that all screens be removed affording an unobstructed view of the entire premises. That no gaming, no minors, no women, no music shall be permitted upon the premises. That no sales be made to minors, inebriates or other persons to whom sales are prohibited by law. And that a prompt forfeiture of licenses shall be made for the failure to comply with any law or regulation. That the establishments engaged in the sale of intoxicating liquors shall be segregated and confined in such portions of the business section of the city as will permit the strictest police surveillance.

It is further the sense of this League that in case of the adoption of the high license system, and the consequent increase of the revenue of the city, that the Board of Council be immediately petitioned to repeal the burdensome privilege tax recently enacted, and that the Board be further petitioned to assume at least the payment of the force account of the recent street improvement and the intersections of the streets, which it is estimated will reduce the assessments against property owners from fifteen to twenty per cent.
