A Tempting Offer.

Rev. G. T. Sullivan, D. D., the popular and efficient pastor of the First Methodist Church, has been offered the general agency for the Southern States of the National Bureau of Education at a salary of $3,000. This is a high compliment to Dr. Sullivan, who is well equipped for the work, but who prefers the pastoral work in which he has spent so many years of his life.

The association making this offer has its headquarters in New York City, and is one of the strongest in the world. John D. Rockefeller having just added $2,000,000 to its capital, the largest individual gift ever made for any purpose in modern times. —Paris Post.

Reward Offered.

Upon the request of the county judge of Graves county, Gov. Beckham has offered a reward of $250 for the arrest and conviction of the party or parties guilty of the murder of the unknown man who was burned in the Parker boarding house.

It is supposed that detectives will be here in a few days and will take the matter up and if possible arrest and convict the parties, if there be any, who are guilty of the murder of this strange man. —Mayfield Messenger.

Same Thing in Calloway.

The postoffice department has sent out warnings that if the public highways are not kept in a passable condition the rural free mail service may have to be abandoned in certain localities, and Hickman county is one of the localities the department has its eye on. Our methods of making roads will certainly have to be improved on, and no greater incentive to good roads can now be offered than the boon of rural mail delivery. No man in the country who is on a rural mail route would like to have that convenience taken away from him, and yet many men seem to think that it is none of their business to see that the roads are kept in good condition. The obligation to keep up the roads rests on all the people. The county may tax us to pay for road making and we may pay that tax cheerfully or grudgingly, according to our natures, but the matter does not end there. If the roads get bad, as they nearly always do in the winter time, the postal department is not going to inquire if you pay a road tax, but it tells you that unless you give it good roads it will not send your mail to your doors. If there is a madhouse in your road that a vehicle cannot get through and your carrier refuses to risk his own and his horses' necks in trying to go through it, the department is very sure to know it. It has to be reported. Better fix that place yourself than lose the mail service you are getting free. This is no idle dream of the editor's; the order has come to the postoffice here that unless the roads are made passable, and that very soon, the rural mail service may be discontinued. —Clinton Gazette.

Murder in First Degree.

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 16. —The jury in the Peist murder trial brought in a verdict this afternoon of "Guilty of murder in the first degree."

The public is entirely familiar with the facts in the case Mrs. Rosa Mangrum, who had been Dr. Peist's patient and with whom, it was established, he had been intimate, left her home in Nashville on the night of December 14, 1905, supposedly for Chicago. It was never established by anyone that she took the train she told her husband and brother she was going to take, and on January 25, 1907, following, her lifeless body was found floating in the waters of the Ohio river, some 254 miles from Nashville. The $1,400 she had drawn out of bank on December 14 and the $1,200 worth of jewels she wore were missing. The supporter on the stocking in which she carried large sums of money had been cut, and the glove of the hand on which she carried her jewelry had been rolled back and the jewels removed.

The autopsy followed, in which it was developed the woman had not drowned and had not died from any ascertained natural cause and had not died from violence. Poison was the theory of the two physicians who held the autopsy. Then Mrs. Trousdale, sister of the dead woman; J. O. Mangrum, her husband, capably assisted by Chief of Detectives Sidebottom, Detectives Irwin and Dowd and other interested ones, went to work and ferreted out a chain of circumstances which will make this case unique in the annals of circumstantial evidence in criminal cases.

Sheep Claims Filed.

Under the Crone dog tax law persons who have sheep killed by dogs may file claims against the state for damages. The claims are filed with the county clerk and are passed upon and allowed by the fiscal courts and paid out of the funds collected by tax upon dogs.

So far only four claims have been filed with Clerk Williams. R. N. Harris claims damages to extent of $5.00 for one sheep killed last July. E. C. Sherman, of Harris Grove, has filed two claims, one Aug. 21, 1906, for $28.00 for four sheep and another Sept. 4 for one valued at $9.00. John Marine has a claim of $6.00 for one head killed.

REMOVED.

Louis P. Head, Clerk at Prison Short in His Accounts. Amount Missing $513.51

Frankfort, Feb. 15. —An order was entered upon the records of the State Prison Commission today removing Louis P. Head, of Paducah, as clerk of the Eddyville branch penitentiary, it being apparent that Mr. Head is short in his accounts with reference to the prisoners' fund of that institution. The shortage is given in a report filed with the commission by its secretary, J. P. Barlow, as being $543.51 with a credit of money returned amounting to $30, leaving yet due from Head and his bondsmen, the sum of $513.51. The order by the commission in the matter reads as follows:

The account of Mr. Louis P. Head, clerk of the Eddyville penitentiary, having been investigated upon the order of the Board of Prison Commissioners, and it being apparent that Mr. Head is short in his accounts with reference to the prisoners' fund, L. P. Head is hereby removed as clerk of the Eddyville penitentiary for neglect of duty, this February 14, 1907. The secretary of the board is hereby directed to transmit a copy of this order of removal to the Warden of the Eddyville penitentiary and to Mr. L. P. Head.

Mr. Head, the deposed clerk, is a well-known labor leader in his section of Kentucky. He was elected from McCracken county to a seat in the lower house of the last General Assembly and was prominent in its deliberations. The prisoners' fund referred to in the order of dismissal entered by the commission, is a fund representing money left at the office of the branch prison by inmates of the institution or their friends for the purchase of small comforts. It is kept by the clerk of the prison and paid out by him for the articles purchased by the prisoners, they not being allowed to have money inside the walls.

According to the report filed with the commission by Secretary Barlow, the sum total of the fund is $1,220.60, and he found it a cash balance of only $577.09, leaving a deficit of $643.51. Mr. Head explained the deficit by saying that he had the money kept with his personal account and just overchecked it inadvertently.

He has always borne an excellent reputation at Paducah, so his friends here say, and the small shortage will be met almost immediately.

Safe, Sure and Speedy.

No external remedy ever yet devised has so fully and unquestionably met these prime conditions as successfully as Allcock's Plasters. They are safe because they contain no deleterious drugs and are manufactured upon scientific principles of medicine. They are sure because nothing goes into them except ingredients which are exactly adapted to the purposes for which a plaster is required. They are speedy in their action because their medicinal qualities go right to their work of relieving pain and restoring the natural and healthy performance of the functions of muscles, nerves and skin.

Allcock's Plasters are the original and genuine porous plasters and like most meritorious articles have been extensively imitated, therefore always make sure and get the genuine Allcock's.

DOOMED.

Bill Removing Tax on Leaf Tobacco Before Congress Will Not Become Law.

Washington, Feb. 18. —Senator Aldrich, the particular representative of the trusts in Congress, today sounded the doom of the bill removing the tax of 6 cents from leaf tobacco. At the close of a red-hot session of the subcommittee having the bill in charge Aldrich said:

"I will say to you, gentlemen, frankly, that I do not think there is any possibility of the bill being acted upon favorably at this session."

"If the bill is taken up in the Senate, will you promise not to delay?" asked Senator Daniel.

"I am not answering any questions of that kind," said the spokesman of the trusts.

Aldrich's manner during the hearing was impudent in the extreme. He asked questions of the spokesman of the independent growers which showed his bias in favor of the trusts and against the people. Charles B. Fort, President of the Dark Tobacco Association of Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia; James B. Fort, of Tennessee, and Col. John Allen, of Clarksville, Tenn., spoke in favor of the bill. Representatives Ollie James and Owsley Stanley were present, but Aldrich refused, with characteristic impudence, to allow them to ask questions.

"If you will permit us to question these gentlemen," said James, referring to a number of alleged independent tobacco manufacturers, who were present, "I think we can establish the fact that the stock income, at least of these so-called independent concerns, is owned by the Tobacco Trust, which is oppressing the people."

The "Independent" Merchants and Senator Aldrich never uttered a "cheep" when James made this scorching accusation.

Aldrich announced that there was a long list of men who want to be heard in opposition to the bill and that the hearings will be continued next week.

Senator Daniel ventured to suggest that this means the death of the bill.

"I don't know about that," said the father and friend of trusts.

Representative Stanley charged that some of the men who applied to be heard are acting in bad faith, simply for the purpose of delay. Aldrich called him to order sharply and directed that the stenographer strike Stanley's remarks out of the record.

Aldrich, in conversation with a Senator today, said that he was against anything that John W. Yerkes is for. The Senator had suggested that Yerkes prepared the bill to remove the tax from leaf tobacco.

Man's Identity.

Mayfield, Ky., Feb. 19. —There are no conclusive new developments in the burning of the Parker House and the murder and partial cremation of the unknown man found in the debris of the house, though a week has passed since the occurrence. There are, however, many hushed whisperings as to the manner of the fire and the death of the man previous to the burning of the house.

Letters of inquiry as to the identity of the murdered stranger are coming to the town authorities. Chief McNutt has a letter from Mrs. C. D. Wilson, of Youngstown, O., R. F. D. No. 3, in which she states that she has a brother living in Indiana, whom she has not seen for several years. His name is given as Albert L. Doyle. The description she gives of this brother is as follows: Aged 44 years; brown eyes and hair; 5 feet 7 or 8 inches high and weighed, when last seen, about 160 pounds.

This description tallies almost exactly with the man who is alleged to have stopped at the Parker boarding house on the night that the house burned. Mrs. Wilson in her letter went on to state about reading in the paper of the man being en route to visit his sister, but did not state whether or not she had a sister living in this county. Chief McNutt and all who have seen the letter believe that the cremated man was the one mentioned in the letter.

Chief McNutt received another letter making inquiry about the man whose name is supposed to be Doyle. It was from Mrs. Lida Barr, of 2310 Hanna street, Fort Wayne, Ind., in which she says she has a friend named Doyle, who is missing from Indiana and asks that a description of the unknown man be sent to her.

It is believed from the statements of these two letters that the identity of the missing man may yet be established if not the exact manner of his death and the perpetrators of what all believe was a foul murder.

HEAD CAMP.

Woodmen of the World for State of Kentucky Will Meet in Paducah March 5th.

The Paducah Sun of recent date says:

"On Tuesday, March 5, the Head camp, Woodmen of the World, of Kentucky, will convene in Paducah for three or four days. This week Jersey and Olive camps, W. O. W., met and completed arrangements and details for entertaining the 290 delegates. No program has been made out because the meeting will be more in the nature of a convention.

"Last year the Head camp, composed of Tennessee and Kentucky, was dissolved and each state organized separately. Paducah was selected as the place of meeting by the Kentucky lodge men and every effort to make the visitors' stay pleasant will be put forth.

"Magistrate C. W. Emery is a hard worker in the lodge and outlined the purposes of the meeting. On Tuesday morning the delegates will assemble at the old Elks hall on North Fourth street and the meeting will be called to order by the member of the Sovereign camp of Omaha, Neb., to be named by the Sovereign camp. The work of organizing the Head camp will then proceed. Officers will be elected for temporary organization and later permanently for two years to come. Three delegates are to be elected to represent the Head camp at the Sovereign camp meeting in Norfolk, Va., in May. By-laws will have to be drawn and adopted and this will require a day or two.

"We expect from 150 to 200 delegates, 25 from Louisville alone," Justice Emery stated. "We will try to have a good show at The Kentucky one night during our meeting, and the Paducah camps will give tickets to all visiting delegates. We will also have receptions and other forms of entertainments." "The camps have been preparing for the organization of the state Head camp last summer, and will work together to make the meeting most pleasant in the history of the order."

The Murray camp No. 50 met in special session last Wednesday night and elected R. T. Wells and O. J. Jennings as delegates to this meeting. Each camp is entitled to one delegate and the Ledger wants to urge the camps of this county to elect a delegate at once. We would be glad to hear from the camps in the county and arrange for all the delegates from Calloway to attend in a body.

All Had Some Dream.

Several Kansas exchanges are reprinting with prayerful sympathy the following "dream" by Homer Hotch.

"We had an editorial dream the other evening. Thought we went down to the P. O. the other morning to get the mail, and found our box full of letters—check full—and a note from the postmaster asking us to call for more letters—too many for the box. And what do you think? when we began to open those letters, we found that every one of them contained a check or money order and every one of them started out 'I believe my subscription is out and I enclose' etc. And all day long we were kept busy making proper credits and writing receipts—and wearing the smile that cometh not off. And then the next morning fellows who hadn't mailed remittances, began to come in and flank down the coin—my, what music all day long. They just kept a 'comin'.' The assault on our delinquent list was something terrible, but we never flinched. Stood our ground doggedly, determined that we would see the thing through if it brought every name on the list up to date or even put them in advance. It took nerve to stand such a financial onslaught but we stood it all right, all right. And when the cannonading was over we couldn't have found a name on the list to whom we could have sent a statement. It was an awful dream! Makes us shudder yet! But if such a terrible thing should come true there is no better time than right now for it to happen. It's the close of the year you know. So if you want to test our nerve, sail in gentlemen."

Rising From the Grave.

AN EXECUTION IN INDIA.

How a Sentence of Death Was Carried Out on Streets of Hyderabad.

The decision as to whether the murderer should be executed or imprisoned for life was given the civil and military governor in describing an execution at Hyderabad of a Pathan who had shot his brother-in-law, as is usual, left to the murdered man's relatives, and his wife the sister of the murderer, voted for death.

On the day for the execution there appeared in the streets a band of sweepers armed with leafy twigs, followed by a squad of the city Arab police with fixed bayonets. Then came the criminal, dressed in new white garments, with a new halter around his neck and new ropes attached to his arms. The ends of these ropes were held by policemen. The ordinary time for the execution is at noon, but in this case he was executed at five o'clock in the afternoon.

On arriving at the fatal spot the murderer was made to kneel down, while the policemen handed over change of the coin to the executioner's attendants one of whom, sitting the end of the halter stood in front of the felon, while others held the cords pinning his arms behind. The executioner, brandishing a broad, heavy sword, keen as a razor, in a suggestive fashion, and placing it towards his victim asked three times in a loud voice: "Who authorizes the execution?" The chief of the city police on duty three replied: "The Amin."

Then an attendant armed with a long needle pricked the condemned man in the back, causing him to start forward. At the same instant those holding the cords laid themselves back in opposite directions as in a tug-of-war contest, with the result that the wretched man was stretched out, following the reply of the chief of police, the executioner's blade descended fair and true on the neck, severing the head completely.

Consumption in the Navy.
When a man enters the United States navy he is subjected for his physical fitness as well as mental ability. For the reason and because the seaman's life is healthful there are few cases of chronic disease among them. There are particularly few consumptions among the sailors. But the navy department has made arrangements for treating these according to the most scientific methods.

"When a lunger, as the sailors call him, is discovered he is given instructions to proceed to Pensacola, Fla., where the sanitarium for consumptives is located," says Gay F. O'Donnell of the West Side, who was formerly in charge of the sanitarium. "This sanitarium is nothing more than an outdoor camp. It consists of rows of heavy canvas tents built on light wooden frames. The sides can be raised and lowered, as weather conditions permit. Here the patients are given the freedom of the camp. They live out of doors, taking long walks in the warm southern sunshine, and at night they sleep in the open air. Milk and eggs form the principal articles of diet. Very little medicine is given."

Grapes Grow Under Glass.
The grape of grapes for the table is grown in Belgium, and under glass. It is in no Arcadian rustic spot that this ideal culture flourishes, but in the wide awake metropolitan suburb of Hoezlaert, near Brussels. Here there is a whole region of glass—nothing but glass over a wide stretch. The spectacle is one of the shows of the country for amateurs and sightseers alike.

A good many lovers of table fruit whose interest in the subject extends no farther than the dinner stand, will probably be surprised to learn that it is from no native hot-house, but from Hoezlaert, that the great fructifiers of London, Paris, the Riviera, Vienna, Berlin, St. Petersburg, and, innumerable other cities, derive their supply of fruit. The price at Hoezlaert is a minimum of 15 cents a pound on the vine, with 15 cents added for packing. The choicest bunches are those that weigh about two pounds.

Professional Antics.
The late James T. Maher, a well-known business man of Taunton, Mass., had the misfortune to break his leg. He was attended by Dr. Thomas Palmer, who had Dr. Joseph Hayward to assist him in setting the limb.

John Gaffney, an undertaker and a personal friend of Mr. Maher, made a contribution for him to rest the leg and carried it to the Maher residence in his undertaking wagon. Dr. Hayward was there, and a few minutes later Dr. Paige came in.

"Good morning, gentlemen," he said. "I hesitated about coming in this morning. I never like to enter my patients' homes when I see an undertaker's team at the door. How is it with you, Dr. Hayward?"

SERVED UNDER HERO

DEATH OF ENGLISHMAN WHO FOUGHT WITH GARIBOLDI.

Gen John Dunne Rendered Distinguished Service to the Cause of United Italy—Celebrated for His Acts of Daring.

Gen John Dunne died recently at the Victoria Memorial Hospital, Nice, at the age of nearly 80. He began his career in the English army, and in the Crimean war distinguished himself as an officer of British Buzonki. He left the English service with the rank of captain, and in 1849 began his romantic career under Garibaldi.

At the request of La Farina (who was acting under Garibaldi's orders) he took with him to Sicily a Scottish patriot named Giuseppe Scelzi, who went disguised as his servant. Scelzi was compromised in the patriotic movement in Sicily in 1848, and probably would have been shot if taken. The two landed at Messina, and then took a small boat to a village on the coast, where they were well received and soon gathered volunteers, of whom Dunne became leader.

Marching and fighting their way across the mountains, the little band reached Palermo in time to take part in the last day of the struggle before the capitulation of the Bourbon commander-in-chief. Dunne took Scelzi to Garibaldi, to whom he also delivered a secret message written on a small piece of paper which he had been ordered to deliver if captured.

At Palermo Dunne raised and disciplined what henceforth went by the name of the Reggimento Dunne or Regimento Inglese, but the men were almost all Sicilians, chiefly Palermitans. They fought valiantly on the critical occasion of the battle of Milazzo, where their timely arrival saved the fortunes of the day.

Later, on the mainland, they were incorporated in the brigade "valch Dunne" commanded at the battle of Volturno, where he was so severely wounded that his life was thought to be in danger. He was celebrated for acts of great daring, and at the same time he always preserved the quiet, gentle manner of a rich bred English gentleman. Garibaldi trusted him entirely, and no officer who served under the Italian hero had a more loyal devotion to his chief.

He often said that Garibaldi's military ability had never been done justice to. He rated him as a regular Italian general. Garibaldi trusted him entirely, and no officer who served under the Italian hero had a more loyal devotion to his chief.

Dr. Capen Was Ready.
Dr. Samuel B. Capen, while president of the Yale College, once delivered the diplomas to the grammar school graduates in Malden, and in his address to the scholars used the word "neither" with the letter "T" silent, but giving some quotations pronounced the same word with an apparent accent on the letter "T."

A gentleman who was present asked the learned doctor later whether the word was "neither" or "neither." Suspecting a little quizzing from the twinkle in his questioner's eye, the president replied: "that query was answered long ago in this way:

An inexperienced young woman asked an older matron what she should use for a fruit pudding. "Raisins or dried grapes," the matron answered quickly, "either or them."

Where He Rubbed It.
Smith, a free, the comit of Mr. Woodhouse and near its base lies the pretty little village of Warren, N. H. Here lives the town's genius, whom everyone calls "Pat," one who is ever ready with his good nature and his wit.

One cold, rainy day the Methodist minister of the town met "Pat" on the street in his shirt sleeves and said: "Pat, you ought to have on your coat. You will catch your death of cold."

"Sure I won't," replied Pat. "When I get a good soaking, I use a little whiskey and always come out all right."

EUGENIE AND NAPOLEON.

How She Won the Heart of That World-Monarch.

At Compiègne, one afternoon, when the flower of the court was sitting round his vint-et-un table, Mlle de Montijo, seated at the emperor's right, consulted him from time to time as to her play.

She found two picture cards in her hand, counting 29 out of 31 best points.

"Stand on that," advised Napoleon. "It is very high."

"No," answered Mlle de Montijo, "I want all or nothing."

The court ladies were in full splendor of her when Napoleon had made up his mind to marriage. They had extraordinary manners, those first ladies of the Second Empire court. One evening at Compiègne, when Eugenie was invited to dinner on the arm of Colonel de Toulougeon, a slight confusion permitted him to whisk her ahead of Mme. Fortoul, wife of the minister.

"How!" she exclaimed audibly to her cavalier, "do you permit that—creature to push past me?"

The next morning Mlle de Montijo, with tears in her eyes, stood sadly on the terrace, apart from the others. Napoleon, who had sought her, asked her the cause of her sorrow. "I must leave him long time to take part in the last day of the struggle before the capitulation of the Bourbon commander-in-chief. Dunne took Scelzi to Garibaldi, to whom he also delivered a secret message written on a small piece of paper which he had been ordered to deliver if captured."

At Palermo Dunne raised and disciplined what henceforth went by the name of the Reggimento Dunne or Regimento Inglese, but the men were almost all Sicilians, chiefly Palermitans. Obituary.

John H. Williams was born June 14th 1825, was married to Elizabeth Falwell, Feb. 17th 1851. This union was blessed with nine children, five boys and four girls, all living but one boy who died in his infancy. The youngest child was 21 years old the day his father died. He departed this life Jan. 1st 1907, age 81 years, 6 months, 1 day. He professed faith in Christ at Pottertown, Ky. in Sept. 1855 and united with the Baptist church at Sugartree in 1881 and lived a consistent member until death. He was a kind and affectionate father and a devoted christian, he leaves several brothers, two sisters, a heart broken wife, and several children and relatives to mourn his death. He lived out his three score and ten and was perfectly willing to go. After services by Rev. D. W. Outland the remains were laid to rest until the resurrection morn in the Outland grave yard. Weep not for him but strive to be prepared to meet him in the great beyond where there will be no parting.

A precious one from us is gone, A voice we loved is still; A place is vacant in the home, That never can be filled.

A Valuable Lesson.
"Six years ago I learned a learned a valuable lesson," writes John Pleasant, of Meadonia, Ind. "I then began taking Dr. King's New Life Pills, and the longer I take them the better I find them." They please everybody. Guaranteed at H. D. Thornton & Co., druggists, 202

The Republican state central committee has called a state convention to be held in Louisville on June 26 to nominate candidates for governor and all other state offices. The delegates to the convention will be selected in mass conventions to be held in each county on June 22, with the exception of Louisville, where legislative district conventions will be held.

Neighbors Got Fooled.
"I was literally coughing myself to death, and had become so weak to leave my bed; and neighbors predicted that I would never leave it alive; but they got fooled, for thanks be to God, I was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery. It took just four one dollar bottles to completely cure the cough and restore me to good sound health," writes Mrs. Eva Unapher, of Grovetown, Stark Co., Ind. This King of cough and cold cures, the healer of throat and lungs, is guaranteed by H. D. Thornton & Co. Druggists, 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

LAND FOR SALE.
I have several good farms for sale and possession can be given when trade is made if taken in a month or two. They are well located and can now be bought for less money than will get them next fall.

I also have some choice improved and unimproved lots in Murray for sale. Now is a good time to quit paying high rent and buy a home. Come to see me and I'll show you some real bargains. Office in Citizens Bank building over postoffice Murray, Ky.

Odd Things in Animals.
Unlike most animals, horses have no eyebrows and have no eyelids. Consequently the eyes of the latter can not be shut and a thin membranous substance covers them when asleep. The eye of the ox is also peculiar seeing that it is immovably fixed in its socket and can not stir in any direction. To compensate for this seeming disadvantage it can turn its head almost completely around without moving its body.

If you were to keep a frog's mouth open many minutes it would soon die, owing to its peculiar construction. It can breathe only with the mouth closed. On the other hand, fishes are compelled to keep opening and closing their mouths in order to give their respiration organs full play.

A curious fact about the eel is that it has less life in its head than in its tail, consequently, when killing an eel the fisherman smashes its tail. It also has two hearts. Snakes usually have their teeth in the back, but one variety in Africa, whose principal food is eggs, is provided with a substitute for them in its stomach.

Wrong.
This story is told of a college professor who was asked for his comment on a mind.

The professor was returning home one night from a scientific meeting, still pondering over the subject. He had reached his room in safety, when he heard a noise which seemed to come from under the bed.

"Is some one there?" he asked.

"No, professor," answered the intruder, who knew the professor's peculiarities.

"That's strange. I was positive some one was under my bed," commented the learned man—Judge.

The Woman's Way.
"Many a married man who might make a fortune is handicapped because he demands too much of his attention."

"That's right. Just as soon as for two weeks to flirt with him his wife gets jealous."

The Best Guaranty of Merit Is Open Publicity.

Every bottle of Dr. Pierce's world-famous medicine leaving the great laboratory at Buffalo, N. Y., has printed upon its wrapper all the ingredients entering into its composition. This fact alone places Dr. Pierce's Family Medicine in a class all by themselves. They cannot be classed with patent or secret medicines because they are public. This is why so many unprejudiced physicians prescribe them and recommend them to their patients. They know what they are composed of, and that the ingredients are those endorsed by the most eminent medical authorities.

The further fact that neither Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the great stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart regulator and blood purifier, nor his "Favorite Prescription" for weak, overworked, broken-down, nervous women, contain any alcohol, also entitles them to a place all by themselves.

Many years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that chemically pure glycerine, of proper strength, is a better solvent and preservative of the medicinal principles residing in our indigenous, or native, medicinal plants than is alcohol, and furthermore, that it possesses valuable medicinal properties of its own, being demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic, and a most efficient antitumor.

Neither of the above medicines contains alcohol, or any harmful, habit-forming drug, as will be seen from a glance at the formula printed on each bottle wrapper. They are safe to use and potent to cure.

Not only do physicians prescribe the above non-secret medicines largely, but the most intelligent people employ them. People who would not think of using the ordinary patent or secret medicines. Every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines has the strongest kind of an endorsement from leading medical authorities of the several schools of practice. No other medicines put up for the purpose have any such professional endorsement.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause, and you cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two must be cathartic. Dr. Pierce's sell them, and nothing is "just as good." Easy to take as candy.

It's a pleasure to tell our readers about a Cough Cure like Dr. Shoop's. For years Dr. Shoop has fought against the use of Opium, Chloroform, or other unsafe ingredients commonly found in Cough Remedies. Dr. Shoop, it seems, has welcomed the Pure Food and Drug Law recently enacted, for he has worked along similar lines many years. For nearly 20 years Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure contains no opium, no narcotics, no stimulants, no harmful ingredients. It is a warning printed on them against Opium and other narcotic poisons. He has made it possible for mothers to protect their children by simply insisting on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Sold by Dale & Stubblefield and H. D. Thornton & Co.

There is now only one hog-head of tobacco in the storage house at this place that is not sold, and it is expected that this one will be disposed of in a very short while, the sample of which is at Guthrie.

All the tobacco that has been sold, with the exception of one hog-head, has been shipped and the money received and sent out to the farmers. This hog-head has been sold to a Hopkinsville firm, and is expected to be ordered shipped any day.—Cadiz Record.

To stop a Cold with "Preventives" is safer than to let it run and cure it afterwards. Taken at the "sneeze stage" Preventives will head off all colds and Grippe, and perhaps save you from Pneumonia or Bronchitis. Preventives are little toothsome candy cold cure tablets selling in 5-cent and 25-cent boxes. If you are chilly, if you begin to sneeze, try Preventives. They will surely check the cold, and please you. Sold by Dale & Stubblefield and H. D. Thornton & Co.

BARS SUNDAY LABOR

ONE RAILROAD IS COMPLETELY TIED UP ON THAT DAY.

Edward J. Wilcox, Owner of Argentine Central Line, Gives Men and Women a Rest One Day in the Week.

Denver is the home of a man the courage of whose convictions has been tested to the extent of $200,000. He still holds steadfastly to his principles, in spite of the fact that his friends have warned him that the pursuance of his policy will injure him financially.

The man is Edward J. Wilcox, builder and sole owner of the Argentine Central railroad, and he has displayed his courage by not permitting a train to run over his road on Sunday. Neither will he permit the insertion of a line of advertising concerning his railroad or other business interests in the Sunday issue newspaper, although a great believer in advertising and spending a liberal allowance with the dailies of Denver every other day in the week.

The Argentine Central railway cost Mr. Wilcox more than $200,000, and he built it entirely with his own money. Yet he believes that no man should do business on Sunday, and he insists that his road will pay expenses and be a winner in due time if he strictly observes the Sabbath. And the first month's earnings seem to justify this belief.

Strict adherence to religious and business principles has marked the career of Mr. Wilcox, who went to Colorado penniless and is now reckoned a multimillionaire, his fortune being estimated at about $5,000,000. He was born in Crookston, Ont., Canada, and when 21 years of age, went to Colorado, with no advantages to place him at the top rung of the ladder of financial success beyond the possession of good health and a strong pair of arms.

Mr. Wilcox's first work was as a mine in the Cherokee property near Montezuma. He soon decided that great wealth was not to be obtained by manual labor. So he saved his money and took a course at the Colorado state school of mines, qualifying in five years as an engineer.

Then he began to hunt mines for other people to develop. A little later he sold the Wilcox mine at Idaho Springs to the Five Mining company. Success followed him until today he is the owner of or controls the Walden mine at Argentine, above Georgetown, valued at $2,000,000, the Manhattan Union Mining company, the Bankers' Land & Investment company, along with coal lands and real estate in various portions of Colorado. He is the owner of much property on Capitol hill in Denver.

The Argentine Central railway, which has made the owner famous because of his refusal to run trains over it on Sunday, is nine miles long. It extends from Silver Plume, where it connects with the Colorado & Southern, to Gray's Peak, on the summit of Mt. McClelland, an altitude of 11,000 feet.

"I don't believe in doing business on Sunday," says Mr. Wilcox. "Not an ounce of mine shall be opened on that day and none of my trains can run on Sunday. My friends tell me that I am losing money. But I don't! I believe the road will pay by sticking to the principle of six days for work and the seventh for rest from our labors. The first month's earnings of the road have demonstrated this, and I believe that it is bound to be the heaviest earning piece of railroad for its mileage in the state of Colorado."

Caribou on New Brunswick Railroad. Near Lakeland, a station this side of Rogersville, a herd of seven caribou crossing the track directly in front caused the north-bound day express, in charge of Conductor Corbett, with driver Donald at the throttle, to put on brakes, says the Chatham World.

Rounding a turn the driver deserted the herd of animals browsing the grass and bushes which skirt the track, and as the train drew nearer the caribou started to cross the track, walking in a leisurely manner. Repeated blowing of the whistle had no effect other than to cause some of the caribou to stop in the center of the track.

As the train came nearer and nearer, however, they abandoned their dangerous positions and gracefully cleared the fences which bordered the railroad vanished into the forests, but not before the passengers had had an opportunity of witnessing the rather remarkable sight.

Cost of Line of Road.

The average cost of constructing a mile of railroad in the United States, at the present time, is about $30,000.

GOING TO SLEEP

He was a small boy with very red cheeks and very sleepy eyes. He was trying desperately to keep his sleepy eyes open in the hope that his mother would forget it was his bedtime. "No, no!" he cried, mechanically, when he caught her regarding him with full intention. Then he blinched very fast to prove that it was a ridiculous idea and that no one was so wide awake as himself.

"Oh, dear me, no!" agreed his mother, with elaborate diplomacy. "You don't have to go to sleep; of course not! But don't you want to put Bill and Beulah to sleep?"

He frowned, as he looked with dislike at Bill, the tiny brown horse, who lay, hoofs stiffly in the air, beside him. On the other side lay Beulah in a tumbled heap, one arm twisted in defiance of all human structural laws, the bawling smile on her black cloth face being in no wise disturbed. He wished as he considered.

The cares of a family certainly interfered with one's personal desires to a marked degree. Motivatively he kicked Beulah over. She still smiled.

"See!" cried his mother, with light some gaiety, after a side glance at the clock, which warned her that within half an hour her guests for the informal evening at cards would arrive. "See! You can take Bill under one arm—and Beulah under the other—so! And now we will go."

"No, no!" shrieked the small boy, hysterically, as he wriggled and writhed out of her grasp. "No, no! No, no!"

The little brown horse and patient Beulah continued to smile. The small boy's mother sighed.

"I'll tell you a story," she said, stealthily unbuttoning one shoe, as she carried him upstairs. "One day Kent and his mamma went for a walk and Beulah and Bill stayed at home."

"They walked and they walked till they walked right into the grocery. And the groceryman walked up to them!" Both shoes and his dress were off by this. "What he said, 'What do you want? Just like that! And—go—go—go!'"

"I want Bill," broke out the small boy, suddenly, sitting up very straight and yawning.

Downstairs flew his mother and returned with the small boy abandoned family. "Won't you lie down in your nice little bed now like this?" she asked, ingratiatingly, as she slipped on his night gown and tried to put him under the covers.

He wiggled he resolved himself into a whirlwind of arms and legs and called out shrieks, which augured ill for the card party. It was not a night for scientific discipline.

"Rock me!" he cried, waving his mother toward the rocker. "And walk!"

She took him in her arms, sat down and began again in a monotonous sing-song the tale of the outing.

"And they walked right into the grocery and the groceryman walked up and said 'What do you want? Just like that! And they said they wanted some soap and celery and—'"

"Walk!" ordered the small tyrant, with eyes wide open.

The mother rocked on hopefully and returned to the beginning of her story, which she repeated three times. His eyes were closed. Carefully she got on her feet and moved toward his bed. Open flew the eyes and he regarded her sternly. "Walk!" he said, pleasantly. "And I want Beulah!"

Beulah was under the bed. His mother had on a tight-fitting gown, but she managed to fish out the doll, which he tucked under one arm.

"Please go to sleep, Kent," she begged, as she began rocking him again. "Aren't you tired of the walk story? Once there was a little dog—"

"Walk, walk!" he whimpered.

Hastily she resumed the inspiring tale of their peregrinations. He certainly was fast asleep and breathing quietly. Then he stirred and opened his eyes. "Drink!" he demanded.

"You lie down and mamma will bring you water," she said, in relief. When she came back with the glass he was still awake. She was listening for the door-bell. "No, no!" he threatened, when she tried to slip out of the room.

"Oh, I'm not going!" she assured him in haste and his face smoothed out, though he watched her narrowly. He was grasping Beulah upside down and he held Bill in a choking grasp about the neck.

"Once Kent and his mamma went for a walk—went for a walk," she droned under her breath. "And they walked and they walked—"

His eyelids, which had fallen of their own weight, struggled open defiantly. "And they walked and they walked till they walked right into the grocery—into the grocery—"

Her voice trailed off into nothing. The eyelids were still closed. She tiptoed toward the door, her heart in her throat. In the distance she heard the ring of the front door bell. Her foot was on the threshold when there was a rattle from the bed and she stopped, stricken.

The small boy turned over on the other side. There was an indistinct murmur of, "Bill—went for a walk—wa—wa—" and then silence and regular breathing.

"Thank goodness!" said the small boy's mother, as she flew downstairs. —Chicago Daily News.

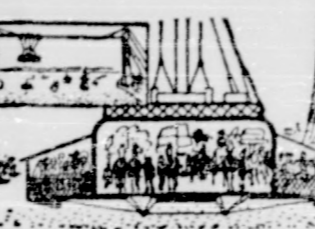

TAKES PLACE OF BRIDGE.

Overhead Ferry Used in Crossing Wide Rivers in Europe.

Instead of building bridges, overhead ferries are being adopted in some places where traffic has to be taken across a wide river.

The overhead ferry—as the smaller general view shows—consists of a large car suspended by cables from a bridge-like steel framework, and worked to and fro by electricity. Horses, vehicles and even railway coaches, are carried in the center portion of the car, whilst on either side is a division for foot passengers.

In most overhead ferries at present in use, the fare for vehicles varies according to whether there are one, two, or more horses, and whether the vehicle is empty or loaded.

It may be mentioned that the cities of Nantes and Rouen, in France, have overhead ferries, and Liverpool, England, has a splendid specimen, spanning at once the Mersey and the Clither canal.

DEPTER THAN THE SEMAPHORE.

Audible Signals Now in Use on British Railroads.

The Great Western railroad in England has successfully experimented with and has just installed on a branch line a method of audible signaling as a substitute for the familiar semaphore system, which it is believed will be entirely displaced in course of time.

The new system is electrically worked and is declared to be simpler to install. The engine as it travels along the line comes into contact with an apparatus fixed to the track, which is worked from the signal box and sets in motion a form of mechanism on the engine.

Instead of the engine driver having to look out for his signals they declare themselves to his ear unmistakably. "Line clear" is expressed by the blowing of a whistle, which continues until the engine driver with his own hand turns it off.

Both left and right hand signals inside the engine cab, close to the engine driver as he stands at his lever, and should afford a more telling means of notification than a dial on which visible signs appeared.

The substitution of audible for visible signals would relieve engine drivers of the strain of perpetually looking out for any particular signal or lamp. The apparatus is so constructed that if anything went wrong anywhere, the whistle signal would operate. The chief value of the audible signals would be found in foggy weather, and the new system is therefore of particular importance in a country so fog afflicted as England is.

Recent Railroad Statistics. The railroad statistics recently made public by the interstate commerce commission are interesting as showing how much of an increased demand the railroads of the country made upon the labor supply.

The number of persons in the employ of the railroads of the country for the year ending June 30, 1905, was 1,332,186, a vast army when one stops to consider how large a crowd a million and a third of people would make. But apart from this aggregate, the increased number over that of 1904 was 86,975 employees, still a large-sized army, and equal to 25 employees for every 100 miles of line. This was the number the railroads of the country were themselves employing, but indirectly there was a large additional force at work for them. During the year there were added to the equipment of the railroads 1,614 locomotives and 4,310 cars, and it is estimated that during the year closing June 30, 1906, all these figures were largely increased, while the present year will show the largest figures ever made public. During the first 35 weeks of the present year, the railroads of the country have placed orders for 218,258 freight cars, thus breaking all records, but the demand of traffic has increased in proportion.

A Religious Railroad. The Hedjaz railroad, which is to unite Damascus with Mecca, is being built for the purpose of carrying pilgrims to and from the latter, the holy city of the Mohammedans. It is the largest of its kind of some 1,200 miles it will pass through deserts and unfertile regions. Still, it will benefit some of the country about the Hedjaz, a district whose crops have no market on account of the want of transportation; and branch lines for commercial and industrial uses will be constructed. From Damascus to Mecca, about 400 miles, the road has been doing business for some months. Germans supervised the job. Turkish soldiers do the work; and they don't get much pay. To Mecca by rail personally conducted. The world is growing smaller every day.

Long Tunnel Projected. A 30-mile railroad tunnel under the Pacific coast straits to Newfoundland, bringing St. John's into direct communication with Quebec, is being considered.

BAD BLOOD THE SOURCE OF ALL DISEASE

Every part of the body is dependent on the blood for nourishment and strength. When this life stream is flowing through the system in a state of purity and richness we are assured of perfect and uninterrupted health; because pure blood is nature's safe-guard against disease. When, however, the body is fed on weak, impure or polluted blood, the system is deprived of its strength, disease germs collect, and the trouble is manifested in various ways. Pustular eruptions, pimples, rashes and the different skin affections show that the blood is in a feverish and diseased condition as a result of too much acid or the presence of some irritating humor. Sores and Ulcers are the result of morbid, unhealthy matter in the blood, and Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Contagious Blood Poison, etc., are all deep-seated blood disorders that will continue to grow worse as long as the poison remains. These impurities and poisons find their way into the blood in various ways. Often a sluggish, inactive condition of the system, and torpid state of the avenues of bodily waste, leaves the refuse and waste matters to sour and form uric acid and other acids, which are taken up by the blood and distributed throughout the circulation. Coming in contact with contagious diseases is another cause for the poisoning of the blood; we also breathe the germs and microbes of Malaria into our lungs, and when these get into the blood in sufficient quantity it becomes a carrier of disease instead of health. Some are so unfortunate as to inherit bad blood, perhaps the dregs of some old constitutional disease of ancestors is handed down to them and they are constantly annoyed and troubled with it. Bad blood is the source of all disease, and until this vital fluid is cleansed and purified the body is sure to suffer in some way. For blood troubles of any character S. S. S. is the best remedy ever discovered. It goes down into the circulation and removes any and all poisons, supplies the healthful properties it needs, and completely and permanently cures blood diseases of every kind. The action of S. S. S. is so thorough that hereditary taints are removed and weak, diseased blood made strong and healthy so that disease cannot remain. It cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Sores and Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Contagious Blood Poison, etc., and does not leave the slightest trace of the trouble for future outbreaks. The whole volume of blood is renewed and cleansed after a course of S. S. S. It is also nature's greatest tonic, made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, and is absolutely harmless to any part of the system. S. S. S. is for sale at all first class drug stores. Book on the blood and any medical advice free to all who write.

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work. Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood. It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

The kidneys filter and purify the blood—that is their work. Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first restoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is its real value. It stands the best test for its tonic, fullness of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar bottles. You may have a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Birmingham, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

The Murray Ledger

O. J. JENNINGS, Editor and Owner.

Published at the postoffice at Murray, Ky., for transmission through the mails as second-class matter.

We are authorized to announce
as a candidate for re-election as State Senator from the counties of Calloway, Trigg, Lyon and Livingston.

The Republican state convention will be held on Wednesday, June 19, instead of June 26, as originally decided. The change was made because of the fact that the State Association of Master Plumbers will hold its annual convention in Louisville, beginning June 25, and continuing three days, and it is believed that suitable hotel accommodations could not be provided for the delegates to both bodies.

Committee Meeting.

The members of the county committee of the Planter's Protective Association are notified that a meeting is called to be held in Murray next Monday, 24th, at 10 o'clock a. m. Please be prompt as business of importance is to be transacted.

Telephone Notice.

Persons who have telephones on any of the Edgell lines are earnestly requested to bring, or send, one dollar, the rental fee on phones for this year, and all the message fees, and pay same over to C. B. Fulton or T. F. Pogue the fourth Monday in February in Murray. This rental is now all due, and must be settled.

Dr. C. C. Kemper, Owenton, rented the rooms up stairs in the C. L. Morris building while here last week, and as soon as improvements are completed will come to Murray to practice dentistry.

Fair Warning.

The notes and accounts of Phillips Brothers must be paid and the books closed up. The law impels the winding up of this business. Gentlemen this is fair warning, if you have not settled up by the first of May these matters must pass into legal channels and official hands. All notes and accounts can be settled at Shiloh, or at the law office of E. P. Phillips, Murray, Ky., in Masonic building over Wear's drug store.

MIN THIS AT HOME.

The following simple home-made mixture is said to readily relieve and overcome any form of Rheumatism by forcing the kidneys to filter from the blood and system all the uric acid and poisonous waste matter, relieving at once such symptoms as backache, weak kidneys and bladder and blood diseases.

Try it, as it doesn't cost much to make, and is said to be absolutely harmless to the stomach.

Get the following harmless ingredients from any good pharmacy: Field Extract, Bismuth, one-half ounce; Compound Sassafras, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle, and take a teaspoonful after each meal and again at bedtime.

This simple mixture is said to give prompt relief, and there are very many cases of Rheumatism and kidney troubles it will fail to cure permanently.

These are all harmless everyday drugs, and your druggist should keep them in the prescription department, if not, if not have him order them from the wholesale drug houses for you, rather than fail to use this, if you are afflicted.

Beautiful and Helpful.

The March number of Style and American Dressmaker is larger and more attractive than any previous number.

The cover design is stunning. The story, which begins on the first inside page, is amusing.

The Dry Tinting Process for coloring and shading all sorts of materials, and which has been so much asked for since it is marvellously published it last May, is again printed in the March issue.

There is more than the usual variety of designs of dresses and wraps for women and children.

As usual, there are many helpful suggestions for every woman who reads.

Per Capita Tax.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 12. A compilation just completed by Assistant Auditor C. E. Boone for the benefit of inquiring taxpayers and for information of the State Board of Equalization, now in session, shows the per capita of taxation in the various counties of the state for the year 1906, and the average amount of taxes paid by each individual in the Commonwealth to be $1.27. This is based upon the census taken in 1900, the last taken in Kentucky, and the total amount of taxes collected from individuals on the work of the several county assessors for last year.

The compilation shows that the people of Woodford county pay the largest per capita of taxation, they paying last year $4.26. The smallest per capita is paid in the county of Elliot, which shows up with an average of but forty cents per individual. The average of the county of Jefferson is $3.06.

The showing of each county in the first congressional district is as follows:

Ballard	$1.25
Caldwell	$1.01
Calloway	$1.00
Carlisle	$1.13
Crittenden	.96
Fulton	$1.79
Graves	$1.24
Hickman	$1.66
Livingston	$1.10
Lyon	.80
Marshall	.85
McCracken	$1.87
Trigg	.94

This shows that McCracken county pays the largest amount per capita and Lyon the smallest.

The Price You Get For Your Tobacco

Depends almost as much on the way it is handled by the dealer as it does on the quality of the tobacco itself.

If your tobacco is not classified and priced as it should be—if the grades are mixed in the hoghead by inexperienced workmen, you can not hope to get within two or three cents per pound of the amount it should bring.

We know how to prize tobacco; we know how to classify and prepare it for market so that it will bring every cent it is worth.

Our skill and knowledge, together with the personal attention we give each crop, is a guarantee of complete satisfaction to every farmer who places his tobacco in our care. If you need money before you can deliver, come to see us and we will help you.

If you want the Best Price for your tobacco and the most satisfactory treatment, haul it to

AT THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

Sunday, March 3, 1907 will be Foreign Missionary day. It is hoped that every member of the church will be present on that day to join in the offering which will then be made. Every one should count it a privilege to give to missions.

The prayer meetings on Wednesday evening are growing in attendance. If a member, have you been attending these mid-week services? If not, why not?

The choir meets for practice every Friday evening at 7 o'clock. All singers are urged to be present.

Regular services next Sunday at the usual hours. The public is invited. Strangers and visitors will be especially welcome.

Farmer's Club Room.

I have often wondered why we farmers of Calloway county do not maintain a farmers' club room in our town, so when the farmer, wife and daughter go to Murray shopping the one that gets through shopping sooner than the other can go to the farmers' club room and rest in a easy chair and be at home while he is in town. Let the room be located on the second floor in the business center of the city, also furnish the room with a stove, table and chairs, etc. We would find it much nicer and better to serve our lunches in the club room than in some restaurant.

The club room would be very useful to farmers' wives who would be there with small children.

The farmers' club room would be found profitable to meet in and discuss methods of farming, make bargains, etc.

Let us hear from some of the wide-awake farmers of this county on this subject through this paper.

Womans Place in the World.

It is not too much to say to-day that women in this country can get anything a majority of them really want and the individual can practice any trade or profession or art without let or hindrance. All this has come about and without decreasing the number of marriages, destroying the home—or the club; limiting masculine freedom or reducing the profits of the dressmaker and milliner.

Established things remain as they were, yet something has happened. Is it not mainly that we have utilized in active work the large number of women who heretofore, through a failure to marry—or to succeed in marriage—found themselves with no congenial occupation or interest open to them, and so doomed to lives of inaction, or profitless action, and often of dire poverty?

That large class of women who forty years ago were denominated old maids, a class whom everybody pitied or laughed at and for whom there seemed no opening but death, has largely passed away. The Delineator for March.

Mrs. Mary Reid, an aged and respected lady, died at the residence of Jesse Wallace the past week of the infirmities of old age. The remains were taken to Ozark, Ill., for burial.

Mrs. Lura Gunter, the widow of Ed Gunter, died at her home south of town last Sunday of meningitis and was buried Monday at South Pleasant Grove. She was a young woman about 26 years of age and is survived by one child. She was a sister of Wert Alderson, and was well known and popular.

R. H. Evans, of Farmington, the prize house supervisor has visited the prize houses of Calloway county and reports the prizers well equipped to do good work. They are very anxious to prize the farmers tobacco to the best advantage. He says the prospects for well handled and high priced tobacco were never better. He asks the farmers to deliver their tobacco in good condition so it will sell to the best advantage.

A son of B. H. Pittman happened to a very serious accident last week that may cost him his life. He left home in the afternoon with a 22 caliber rifle and in crossing under a fence the gun was discharged the ball passed into and penetrating the bowels. He was not found until the following morning at about 9 o'clock. Medical attention was summoned at once and every relief possible given the sufferer.

The records in the Clerk's office show that quite a number of administrators and guardians have not settled for a long term of years. The law requires that you settle every two years or oftener if required by the court. If you have not settled in the last two years this is a warning to you to make settlement at once, otherwise I shall make an order to be served on you by the Sheriff, which will be of considerable cost to you. Respectfully, A. J. G. WELLS, J. C. C. C.

Rev. L. H. Estes, who has been pastor in charge of North Murray circuit since the meeting of the last conference, will leave this week to take charge of the work at Bell station, Tenn. Rev. Estes has been in this county for some time, coming to the North Murray work from Kirksey, and is a talented and popular young preacher. We regret to see him leave.

Asher Galloway's six months old child died the past week and was buried at Sinking Spring. The child was severely burned some few weeks ago and death resulted from this cause. The child had been placed near an open fire and propped up with pillows. While the family was out of the room the little fellow toppled over with its feet near enough to the fire to bake them horribly.

Association Salesroom.

The Dark Tobacco Planters Protective Association has just closed a contract with the owner of the Ledger for the lease of the second floor of the Ledger building to be used as a sample and salesroom. All the tobacco pledged to the association will be sampled and sold from this room. The necessary improvements on the building will be made at once and we expect to be in a position to report sales by next week. Several hogheads now stored with the Peoples Tobacco Warehouse have been officially graded and the samples returned to this market for sale.

A local market for the home crop is a new departure in this county, and while the success of the venture is assured, the producers are looking forward to the opening with eager anticipation. We predict that it will prove of great benefit to our farmers.

Endorsement from Hazel.

County Judge Wells has called an extra session of the Fiscal Court to meet in Murray Feb. 24th and make provisions for the maintenance of the public roads of the county. The Judge advocates a 20 cent levy to be applied for the betterment of the roads and bridges. This is a good move and should have the hearty endorsement of the people. Let the demands of every good citizen be for the improvement of roads.—News.

Harris & Miller, association prizers at Harris Grove, agree to prize your tobacco at the regular association price 65cts, and also advance as much money on your tobacco as any other prizier will at 6 per cent, and also haul it from barns to Murray free of charge, and if you people will bring us your tobacco we will do our best to give you satisfaction, and give every man duplicate of his sales showing the number of hds and how many pounds in each hhd, whether good leaf or low leaf or lugs. Respt. HARRIS & MILLER.

Heart Weakness

The action of the heart depends upon the heart nerves and muscles. When from any cause they become weak or exhausted, and fail to furnish sufficient power, the heart flutters, palpitates, skips beats; and in its effort to keep up its work, causes pain and distress, such as smothering snells, short breath, fainting, pain around heart, arm and shoulders. The circulation is impeded, and the entire system suffers from lack of nourishment.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure makes a heart strong and vigorous by strengthening these nerves and muscles.

"I had palpitation and pain around my heart, and the doctors said it was heart disease. I don't believe it was. After taking six bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, three bottles of the Nervine and three boxes of the Syrup and Lozenges, I am entirely cured, and feel better than I have for five years. It is all due to these remedies. I want you to know that your medicine cured me. I felt right on all the tired days, and I felt right on all the tired days in my chest, and I felt right on all the tired days in my chest, and I felt right on all the tired days in my chest."

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails he will refund your money.

DRY READING FOR A CHILD.

Decidedly Grown-Up Book Little Virginia Had Perused.

Virginia is five years old, and has learned to read and write. The other day, on her return from kindergarten, she decided to call upon her neighbors in the adjoining flat. The lady was busy writing and Virginia, being a well-trained child, did not interrupt. She played awhile with the kitten and her hostess, being still absorbed with her writing, she said: "I think I'll read until you get through."

"Yes, dear, help yourself to a book," said the woman. Virginia selected one from the shelves, and spreading it open on the table, assumed a very grown-up attitude, and appeared engrossed in her reading. At regular intervals she turned the leaves for quite a long time. Growing tired of the silence she softly opened her book and coat, and as she opened the door, called back: "Good-by, Mrs. — I'll come again when you have more time."

Later the woman wondered what book Virginia had found so interesting. When she looked at the title she smiled. It was the sixty-second annual report of the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.

FEE FOR THE LAWYER.

Jury Had Reason for Adding Money to Damages Claimed.

During a term of the superior court in an Eastern county the jury awarded one cent damages in several suits, to the winning party. One morning when the jury rendered its verdict in one of these cases, Dennis A. Maher, one of the best known lawyers in the city, said it recalled a verdict he had in a case several years ago. He had sued a man for a claim of $125. The judge in the municipal court decided against his client, and Dennis appealed to the superior court. When it was tried, the jury, the foreman of which was a great friend of Attorney Maher, reversed the decision of the lower court, and brought in a verdict for $6.

The court called the foreman up to the stand and said: "Mr. Foreman, is there not some mistake; the plaintiff only sued for $125, but you have given a verdict for $6?"

"No, your honor, there is no mistake," replied the foreman. "We thought Lawyer Maher should be allowed something for his services."

"Timber for Wine Casks."

The growing scarcity of timber suitable for the manufacture of staves is a problem that confronts two continents and in which all the wine drinking world, and therefore the civilized world, is concerned," said I. H. Gold, a stave grower and shipper of Hope, Ark.

"Timber best suited for manufacture into staves comes from Arkansas and small portions of Louisiana, Texas, Alabama and Tennessee. The timber has been cut in larger amounts every year to meet the growing demand. Prices have advanced, of course, but the demand still advances, for no other wood can take the place of that produced in our section."

"Most of the staves are shipped to Barcelona, Spain, where they are used in the manufacture of wine casks. Both Europeans and Americans have tried to invent something to take the place of the stave, but so far without success. Glass and earthenware casks have been tried, but wine does not age the same in these receptacles and it has quite a different flavor."

Indian Keeps His Pledge.

Indian devotion to a pledge is a myth, it survives to this day. At the May term of the court at Vinita Charles Helling pleaded guilty before Judge Parker at Sallisaw. He was sentenced to 60 days in the federal jail and to pay a fine of $25, says the Kansas City Journal.

He asked to be permitted to stay out of jail and make a crop in order to provide for his family, and Judge Parker granted the request, releasing Helling, who is a Cherokee, on a promise to appear at Vinita on December 1 to begin his sentence. No bond of any kind was required.

Helling was waiting at the court house one morning recently when the doors were opened, and is now in jail serving his sentence. He says his crop is gathered and his family is provided for during the winter.

Women in Parliament.

Protests by women in parliament were not unknown during the Middle Ages. Stow tells us approvingly of a crowd of stout dames who had the courage in 1428 to check a great duke in open parliament. "There was one mistress 'Stokes' he proceeded with divers other stout women of London, of good reckoning, well apparelled, came openly to the upper parliament and delivered letters to the duke of Gloucester, and to the archbishops, and to other lordes there present, containing matter of rebuke and sharp reprehension of the duke of Gloucester, on account of his treatment of his wife Jacqueline. 'But what good success their labours took, my Author reporteth not.'"

It Would Depend.

"What would you say," he asked, "if I were to propose a trial marriage to you?"

"Well," she replied, "a good deal would depend on the amount of alimony you were willing to settle on me at the end of the term."

DIFFER IN HABITS

CARE OF DESKS NOT AN INDICATION OF ABILITY.

While Some Men Must Have Things Just So, Others Do Much Work Amid the Utmost Apparent Confusion.

"Curious about men's desk habits," said a man whose business takes him about more or less into various sorts of offices. "I was in an office yesterday where I had occasion to write something."

"Here, at down at my desk," says the man. "I guess you can find a place there."

"And I did find a place there after moving one or two things, but that was all I found—a place just big enough to write in, and that square in the middle of the desk."

"This was a flat top desk, and, except for that small, bare spot in the middle, it was just covered with papers and things of every description, and these not folded or stacked or set up about in any orderly manner, but all apparently in the utmost confusion."

"The desk looked as though it were a mess, when he had got through with a document or bill, just pushed it back from the bare spot on the desk. And so he had stuff piled up on his desk overlapping and lying around any way all around the top of his desk, and actually sloping down from all around to that bare spot like a little flat valley, where he wrote in the center at the front."

"And this was a business man, too, and, moreover, as I was told, a man who has accumulated a comfortable property in the pursuit of his business."

"I found him, in the dealings I had with him, not only personally amiable in all things, as indicated by his cheery call to me his desk, but fair and exact in his business."

"How he ever did business with his desk littered up in that way, how he ever found anything there that he wanted, or how he ever remembered anything I don't see; but as far as I know he never forgot anything that was important."

"It made me think of something a minister asked me once. I was saying to this minister, talking about preaching extemporaneously, that I should think when a man got up in the pulpit to preach without any notes that he ought to forget some of the things he wanted to say, and the minister said that sometimes you might forget things in that way, but then he recalled what an experienced old clergyman had said to him in reply to the same suggestion from himself, which was to the effect that the things the preacher forgot to say were usually the things not worth remembering."

"And maybe it was so about the forgotten things in the pile of papers on that desk."

"But he wasn't the only man I have met who kept his desk apparently in the greatest disorder, but was nevertheless successful; and then I have known plenty of men who went as far as the other way and who would have a fit unless they could keep everything on their desks just so."

"The inkstand must be here and the stamp box here, and the pen rack here; all just so, and kept so; and with no litter anywhere, with everything free and clear and in order. And I have known men, who couldn't write unless they had their paper squared just right, and all that; precise men, who must have everything just as it lay, they could set to work; all the very opposite of the man with his littered desk, who, at least in his favor, the fact that he doesn't worry himself over trifles, but keeps on serene through it all."

"And while I have known men who must have everything just as it lay, about their desks, I have known men, who couldn't write unless they had their paper squared just right, and all that; precise men, who must have everything just as it lay, they could set to work; all the very opposite of the man with his littered desk, who, at least in his favor, the fact that he doesn't worry himself over trifles, but keeps on serene through it all."

"As a matter of fact there is in these days less and less disorder in business methods and more and more system; this in an age of system."

Historical.

Alexander the Great paused in his weeping.

"I'm glad to hear of this man Fustion," he remarked, "I thought I had licked everything in my class."

Then they explained to him gently knowing that he was melancholy from fear of going to state, that Fustion had not happened yet.

Calling for a fresh handkerchief, Alexander resumed his weeping—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Reason.

Squiggles—I don't see why you refer to Beethoven as a tumbler. I'm sure he's not extraordinarily well dressed."

Squiggles—No, not that, but because old Snips, the tailor, made him pay for a suit of clothes, which was the first thing he has ever been known to pay for.

Rainy Day Money.

"Is your husband paying by anything for a rainy day?" asked the prudent relative.

"I think so," answered young Mrs. Torkins. "I heard him mention several horses yesterday that he said 'always run best on a muddy track.'"

BARK CLOTH NOT WANTED.

Product of Cotton Has Displaced the African Material.

The Baobab tree grows throughout Tropical Africa, and in the British East Africa, and Portuguese East Africa, usually from 35 to 50 feet in height, and when the bark is removed, which can be done once a year, and natives generally use bark trees of about two feet in diameter. The natives are not making much of the bark cloth nowadays, as they are buying cotton cloth for use in place of it. It is usually made by pounding the bark with flat stones, and pulling the fiber lengthwise at the same time. The cloth if pulled with the fiber will stand quite a strain, but if pulled diagonally, tears very easily. It is usually made in sheets, averaging about ten by six feet. Many sheets have holes, and all are patched or made of two or more smaller pieces.

The bark cloth is looked upon by the merchants in this part of the world as a curiosity only. A firm in Mombasa shipped about 2,500 sheets to New York about the end of 1905, but made no money, so far as can be found out, and they discontinued shipments to that port. The same firm a few months later on, in 1906, shipped about the same quantity to London, with the same result, and shipments to that port have stopped.

The firm has now on hand 400 sheets, which it would be glad to dispose of.

ONE FOR THE MINISTER.

Docton Divine Decidedly Scared on Would-Be Joker.

A good story is told of the Rev. Humphrey Moore, for many years a Congregational minister in Boston, who was noted for his blunt honesty and natural wit.

This characteristic was never better illustrated than at a meeting one day of the "Society with the long name," when Rev. Mr. Moore gave a long address which was an eloquent appeal for the humane treatment of horses and all other dumb animals.

In the audience was a young minister who, suddenly, thought the venerable Mr. Moore had taken up too much of the time and, thinking to have a little fun with his venerable associate, said that he thought the poor overworked horse would need his praise and every jackass, too, his approval.

At this point the Rev. Mr. Moore interrupted with the remark that he expected they would, but did not think they would begin so soon.

The roars of laughter which followed the sally were not quieted for some time.

Not at All Feminine.

An amusing story, illustrative of French ideas of chivalry is told of Prof. A. Guyon Cameron, of Princeton, who for several years was a professor of French at Yale. While in New Haven, Prof. Cameron was very much annoyed one night by the presence of a bat in his room, and appealed to his landlady for assistance.

After climbing on several chairs, and chasing the bat about the room for some time, his woman finally succeeded in bringing it to the floor with a tennis racket, and killed it.

Telling some friends of the incident afterward, Prof. Cameron described the chase, and then added condescendingly: "Of course it was a very stupid of Miss —, and I appreciate her kindness, but really it was not at all feminine."

Bread Bags on Doorknobs.

A late home-comer, walking through the uptown residential section of Philadelphia after midnight, would be surprised to see what appears to be white crabs hanging from hundreds of door and bell knobs. This is not an indication of a child's death, however, but merely a bread bag that the baker supplies his customers. For years home-bakers had to put up with uncertainty about their bread, not knowing whether some of the numerous cats that make the night less silent had investigated and pawed over their morning loaf. But now the bakers, in order that their customers might feel more secure, have provided these white bags, which the housekeeper hangs on the door knob at night and the baker picks early in the morning.

Windsor an Expensive Castle.

No royal castle has cost the nation more in hard cash than that of Windsor.

When George IV. announced his intention of making it a family residence parliament granted him $1,500,000 toward its reconstruction. For four years the work went merrily on under fresh grants, and the king then took possession of the private apartments. That did not end the expenditure, however.

By the time William IV had satisfied himself that there was nothing more to be done the castle had swallowed up close to $5,000,000—London Chronicle.

The Most Precious Gem.

An official of the National Museum at Washington gives some facts not generally known concerning the relative values of diamonds and rubies.

According to the latest figures obtainable a ruby weighing as much as five carats is worth ten to twelve times as much as a diamond of the same weight, even though the latter be of the first water. The ruby, therefore, instead of the diamond, is the material that embodies the highest money value in the smallest compass.

REAR-ADMIRAL HICHBORN PRAISES PE-RU-NA.

Peruna Drug Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Gentlemen:—After the use of Peruna for a short period, I can now cheerfully recommend your valuable remedy to any one who is in need of an invigorating tonic.

Very respectfully,
PHILIP HICHBORN.

REAR ADMIRAL HICHBORN

IF ALL the men and women who have used Peruna and found it beneficial should write testimonials giving the plain facts, we would be overwhelmed with certificates.

But only now and then one who has been benefited by Peruna stops to give any public acknowledgment of a cure.

Various considerations prevent people from writing testimonials for publication. Inordinate modesty, oversensitiveness and business considerations forbid many people from writing testimonials who otherwise would be glad to do so.

All Classes Represented.

But in spite of all these considerations, thousands of people without any solicitation whatever do write testimonials for Peruna.

We receive these from men of high degree and from all schools in the army and the navy, from the halls of congress, from the pulpits, from the military men and the civilians.

We have never put into print but a small per cent. of those actually received.

Sincere Testimony.

In presenting the testimonials of Admiral Highborn we appreciate the high rank of our testifier.

We feel sure that his testimonial will appeal to others as it does to us, that nothing but a genuine wish to do others good would have impelled a man of such honorable rank to give public testimony to any remedy, however valuable.

The Admiral is altogether too busy a man to answer letters of inquiry, but the reader can rest assured that his testimony is given in his exact words, over his signature.

Genuine Endorsements.

Our testimonials are and always have been given in the exact language of the testifier, with which we take no liberties whatever in adding or changing them.

In the use of testimonials we have always received them properly signed, in good faith, have published them in good faith, and if there has arisen a slight misunderstanding concerning them, it has been some unavoidable complication occurring after the testimonial has been furnished us.

A Captain's Letter.

Rudolph B. Schwickhardt, Capt. 29th N. Y. Vol. Inf., writes from Washington, D. C.:

"Having the fullest confidence in the efficacy of Peruna, both as a tonic and as a remedy for catarrhal trouble, I commend its use in the strongest possible terms. It should be in every household."

Pastor Uses Pe-ru-na.

Rev. W. E. Swanson, pastor, Box 225, Grout, Wis., writes:

"I feel that it is my duty as well as a pleasure to let you know that I am entirely cured. I have used Peruna according to your personal directions and I am very glad that I found a medicine which would cure me after three years of suffering."

Editor's Recommendation.

Fred M. Armstrong, city editor, Daily Gazette, Delaware, Ohio, writes:

"It gives me great pleasure to be able to recommend Peruna to everybody who is looking for a first-class tonic. Two bottles completely cured me and now I am enjoying the best of health."

Congressmen Endorse Pe-ru-na.

Hon. W. E. Andrews, Hastings, Neb., formerly vice-president of Hastings College and ex-member of the Fifty-fourth Congress, writes:

"I cheerfully recommend the preparation, Peruna, as a healthful tonic and a successful remedy for catarrh in its various forms."

Author Praises Pe-ru-na.

Mr. Robert E. Hanvey, well-known author and lecturer, writes from 11 S. Lincoln street, Chicago, Ill.:

"I was in good health until about four years ago, when my back became lame and sore. The pains kept increasing with severe twinges and slow exhaustive aches. Having read of Peruna, I decided to try it. I found relief in ten days. Within three months I was well once more. I give all thanks to Peruna."
