Fulton's Steady Growth Is Evenly Balanced

Nothing happens. Fulton's steady growth is evident. It is evident in the number of new homes, the expansion of existing ones, the increase in population, and the general improvement of the community. The population of Fulton is increasing at a steady rate, and the per capita wealth is on the rise. The community is growing in size, and the number of new homes and the number of people is increasing. Fulton Water

Unsurpassed

Speckled With a Black White of Exceptional Quality

The water of a city is one of its most important contributions. In this respect Fulton is certainly favored. Not only is it well supplied with water, but the future needs of the city have been anticipated. The supply is unlimited, there is a vast area of waterworks property along the Kentucky River, and the waterworks is operated on a strict system. The water is unsurpassed, and the city's future needs for drinking purposes are adequately cared for.

The Fulton Water Works is the pride of the city and the present superintendent, J. E. Rankin, is the architect of its excellent water works. The city's water was turned on in 1880, and since that time the demand has increased to such an extent that today the city has an average capacity of 1,400 gallons per day, with a consumption of 1.1 million gallons daily. The city pumps and does many other odd and end jobs, saving the city hundreds and thousands of dollars, including a very efficient motor, which a combination of the two can render.

John Thompson, who makes the race this year rather than the thoroughfare, primary election, final notice, Mrs. Jane Smith.

The Advertiser is pleased to announce that Mrs. Jane Smith has won the primary election for the office of Sheriff of Fulton County. She will make an early start.

The race for the office of Sheriff of Fulton County has been a close one. The two candidates have made a strong campaign, and the election was decided by a narrow margin.

T. H. Wilson, the Democratic nominee, has made a strong bid for the office, but the Republican candidate, Mrs. Jane Smith, has carried the day.

It was reported that the Democratic candidates for the various county offices were also successful.

The Advertiser will keep its readers informed of all the latest developments in the election contest.

Labor

The labor situation in Fulton County has been a matter of much concern to the people of the county. The Federation of Labor has been active in organizing the workers of the county, and has secured many concessions from the employers.

The labor situation is likely to become more acute in the near future, as the employers are expected to cut wages and reduce hours of labor.
