MAYOR GAYNOR WILL SURVIVE.

Assassin's Bullet Struck Him In Neck Wound Not Necessarily Fatal.

The shooting of Mayor Gaynor, of New York, which was told briefly and exclusively in the Tuesday's issue of this paper, occurred as follows:

New York, Aug. 9.—Mayor William J. Gaynor of New York was shot in his neck and badly wounded this morning by James J. Gallagher, a discharged employee of the city dock department. The shooting took place on the deck of the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse lying at her pier in Hoboken, N. J., on which the mayor was on the point of sailing for a month's vacation abroad. Gallagher was at once arrested.

The bullet entered just below the right ear, passing through the mastoid bone and traveling from right to left and slightly downward.

The mayor was removed to St. Mary's hospital, Hoboken.

At noon he fell asleep. At 20 minutes past one he awoke and was seen by his wife and daughter, Mrs. Vincent, who had been summoned to the hospital. At this hour Dr. Federle, health commissioner of New York, said the patient was "resting comfortably."

Fancied Grievance.

Gallagher evidently has a fancied grievance against Mayor Gaynor. He declared after the shooting that the mayor had deprived him of his "bread and butter."

Gallagher was mobbed and his life threatened before the police could lodge him in jail.

Murray, Ky., Aug. 9.—As the result of a conversation between L. Robertson, charged with bootlegging, and Levi Scarborough, a customer, concerning which both Scarborough and Deputy Marshal Ed Brooks, who overheard it, testified that Robertson offered Scarborough a bribe to swear falsely in the bootlegging case. Texan Convicted of Atrocious Crime. Given the Death Penalty.

Marlin, Texas, Aug. 9.—Ben B. Myatt was tonight convicted of the most atrocious murder ever committed in Texas, and was given the death penalty. His victim was his wife. The testimony showed that he began beating, poisoning, and stamping the poor woman at 10 o'clock in the morning and continued for several hours, using a hoe, bed slat, a plow hame, crockery, his fists, feet and a butcher knife before he finally killed her.

Several men were appealed to by the woman for protection, but not one lifted a hand in her defense, fearing Myatt.

SHERIFF'S SAFE IS BURGLARIZED

Bold Thieves at Salem, Ark., Get $7,000 of Sheriff Cunningham's Cash.

Mammoth Spring, Ark., Aug. 9.—Some time during last night the office of John A. Cunningham, sheriff of Fulton county, was broken into, the safe blown and about $7,000 in cash taken.

The sheriff's office is in the courthouse at Salem, 22 miles southwest of here. It stands in the center of a large square, 500 feet from other buildings, hence no one knew of the robbery until this morning.

Sheriff Cunningham was the first to discover the fact that his office had been robbed. There is no clue, and unless the thieves and the money can be secured, both Cunningham and his bondsmen will be out of pocket.

Sheriff Cunningham has kept everybody away from his office awaiting the arrival of bloodhounds that are being secured by wire.

CHILD DRANK POISON

The bright little two year old child of Mr. and Mrs. John Swiggart had a narrow escape from death Tuesday when she drank a solution of chloral hydrate.

The poison had been used about the house and had been set down where the child, in it's play found it.

Physicians were hurriedly summoned and heroic treatment was resorted to. The poison was extracted from the child's stomach and today she shows no bad effects as a result of drinking the deadly drug.

KNIGHT TEMPLARS CAPTURE WINDY CITY

Thousands of Masons Are Having Great Times.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—A trumpet blared, a thousand orders were shouted as one, and out from acres of waving, glistening white plumes, a steady, broad ribbon of gleaming white poured itself out into Michigan boulevard with banners bearing heraldic devices and with cross-hilted swords at shoulder and there began in Chicago today the greatest parade of Knight Templars witnessed in the history of the order. Every knight attending the thirty-first triennial conclave who could get into line was there, a part of the seemingly endless stream of white bonnetted, sombrely attired knights. Nor did the stream stop at a given point for three hours.

The Right Hon. Henry James, earl of Euston, cousin of King George of England, and most eminent supreme pro-grand master of the great priory of England and Wales, awaited beside the line, attired in his full regalia as head of the British templary, to review the followers of the red cross. Farther on, Mayor Fred Busse was saluted, and still further Gov. Chas. S. Deneer acknowledged the tribute of flashing steel.

First Accident.

The first accident of sufficient consequence to mar the conclave occurred this morning, Herman Gressman, a member of Apollo commandery of Chicago, was struck by a State street car as he was crossing "Templar Way."

Gressman died at the hospital. An angry crowd threatened violence to the street car crew but a squad of police restored order. Gressman, a wealthy contractor, recently returned from a European pleasure trip with his wife and family. He was in full regalia when the accident occurred.

SHOULD PREACH AS REPORTERS WRITE

Pastor Believes Biblical Stories, Written By Newspaper Men, Would Be Attractive.

St. Louis, Aug. 8.—This novel combination in the pulpit of a newspaper man's training with the equipment of a minister is the up-to-date idea of the Rev. W. H. Jordan, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Jerseyville, Ill., a suburb. Yesterday he visited a newspaper office here to see how a daily is gotten out.

"The bright and breezy way in which city reporters write up an event," he said, "people read the story through with interest from start to finish. I have often thought that if ministers in their sermon writing, would try to adopt newspaper methods to the extent of turning out more interesting and vivid 'copy' they would make more impression upon their congregations and attract more to the services."

"In certain events related in the Bible had been covered by newspaper men how eagerly we would read them. I believe many persons now repelled by the style of the King James version would read such an account, if it existed, with the keenest interest and pleasure."

HELP THE EDUCATIONAL MOVEMENT IN KENTUCKY

An effort is being made to have the Kentucky state fair a model school building, modern in style and furnishing, yet within the reach of any community, as the cost is to be but $1,600. If accomplished, this will mean much for the cause of education all over the state. Consequently the Federated Women Clubs are asking the people from all sections of the state to share in raising this fund. The list of those contributing will be bound in book form and shown in the building during the fair.

Help obliterate from Kentucky the old log school houses, for of the 8,500 country school houses which our state has, 10 per cent. of them are the old log houses. Send contributions to Mr. J. W. Newman, Secretary Kentucky State Fair.

He was riding horseback on his way home, and some unknown party emptied the contents of a double barreled shotgun into his body death resulting almost instantly.

In his dying words he mentioned a neighbor, Abe Martin, as his assassin, and Martin, was arrested but it is thought he will successfully prove an alibi. Mr. Green was about 50 years old and leaves a wife and thirteen children.

Deputy Sheriff Rich Collins and Esquire T. A. This is the second hole found in this part of the country this year.

FULTON'S GREATEST ADVERTISING MEDIUM

Is the Fulton Commercial & Farm Journal That Circulates Throughout This Entire Section.

Only those who advertise in the Fulton Commercial & Farm Journal know its real worth as an advertising medium. Why? Because it goes into nearly every home in a radius of twenty-five miles of Fulton and is read by at least 5,000 people every week. Therefore quick results follow. The Commercial is doing more to bring trade to Fulton than all other combined sources. The Commercial is recognized by the people of the surrounding country as the best paper ever published in Fulton. It contains not only all the home news, but gives a summary of the news of the nation.

The majority of people who live in Fulton do not realize what such a paper is to the town, but if they place an advertisement in its columns they can readily see the results. Go out in the country and see for yourself how the Commercial stands in the rural districts. Call at the Commercial office on Lake street and ask for a copy of the paper and you will get twelve pages brimful of news and advertisements of Fulton's progressive merchants who have learned long ago that it was an uphill business to get the cream of trade unless they advertised their wares and let the people know when they have bargains for them.

If your advertisement is not in the Commercial that accounts for dull times around your place. Perhaps you do not have an opportunity to get up your advertisements. If that is the case let us get them up for you. Twenty years experience along that line and the constant study of advertising places us in a position to shape your advertising in an attractive way. Ballard's Snow Liniment

Is a Healing Remedy for All Ailments of the Flesh of Man and Beast.

The speed with which this splendid liniment heals up a bad wound or sore has surprised and pleased those who were accustomed to the slower and uncertain effect of less powerful remedies. It mends the lacerated flesh so quickly that there is but little time lost from work. In relieving rheumatic pains, neuralgia, sciatica, it has done and is doing a wonderful work. Many chronic victims of these diseases have found to their great satisfaction that it cures an attack in a fraction of the time required by the ordinary treatment.

It is equally effective in the flesh ailments of animals. Owners of blooded stock value it highly for two reasons: It heals sores and wounds quickly, and leaves no disfiguring scars.

This remedy is needed in every home. If its great power and efficacy was generally known, no family would be without it.

RED CLOVER

A field of red clover.
Where bumblebees tumble
And slip and turn over
And mumble and grumble
The blossoms drip sweetness
The dew is distilling
Who to all completeness
Their petals are filling.

The morning light dances
From clover to clover;
In shimmering glances
The field it runs over.
And sweeter and cleaner
It seems to grow daily,
Its leaves flashing greener
And nodding all gaily.

The breeze runs about it
Andephyra float after
To toss it and love it
With mystical laughter.
A field of red clover—
The richest and rarest,
And all the world over
Of pictures the fairest.

And isn't it bent in
A marvelous pity
That children are pent in
The streets of the city!
Whose blame is the blunder
That no child runs over
This scent-tangled wonder
A field of red clover?

The blossoms are sighing
For children all sunny
To come to them flying
And suck out their honey.
The city is yonder
And here the red clover,
And thus do we blunder
Things, over and over.

A Winter's Work

We need a great many things in this life, but at the time we need it, we need more than anything else a chunk of ice off which we may pick and remove a piece of the right size for the water pitcher. Of course, the immensely rich never cut their own ice; and sometimes they don't own any ice at all, but that is beside the question.

Suppose the maid is having her evening out and you go to the refrigerator to get a chunk of ice to put in a pitcher of water—or in anything.

You swing the ice-pick and crack off a chunk. You reach for it. It watches you, and just as your fingers touch it, it slides off the main chunk and down to the bottom of the ice chamber. You reach for it, and it skips and slips and dances and dodges about, wickedly evading your fingers. Times you clutch it, when with malevolent agility it wriggles from your grasp. In the end you bring it up standing in a corner, but your sleeve is damp and soggy, your cuff is wilted and the things you have been saying are such as no self-respecting person should have said.

Ice that will not have such an icy disposition will aid much in bettering the world.

Let some of our great minds work this out this winter.

Millinerized Allison.

There is a garden on her hat.
Where roses with green lilies grow,
And cerise daisies, as to that,
With cherries of a ruddy glow—
And oft I sit and sadly sigh
That all this garden I must buy.

Flowers of such amazing hue
Flourish about her bonnet brim,
And fruits Pomona never knew
(Unless she had a crazy whim.)
I gasp because the price is high
Upon this garden I must buy.

Her eyes sought first the big price-mark:
Her voice then called the hat a
"dream"—
She could have bought it in the dark
And given it the more esteem.
Mine is the patient husbandry.
Since all this garden I must buy.

The Serpent's Cunning.

Observing that Adam maintained an optimistic disposition in spite of all the misfortunes that befell him, the serpent cogitated for a few days and then dropped around one afternoon while Adam was at work.

"Your fig leaf shirt waist," the serpent said to Eve, "is very becoming, but don't you think it would be better if it were made to fasten up the back?"

It was after this conversation that Adam began to have a heavy heart, sore fingers, and to develop a grouch.
