DeMyer to Seek Another Term As Mayor

First Vote Period to End Saturday Night

Subscriptions to Lose 20 Percent Voting Strength

PERSONAL RIVALRY ENTERING; AT NO OTHER TIME DURING RACE WILL SUBSCRIPTIONS BE WORTH AS MUCH.

Note the first vote reduction of the campaign which takes place next Saturday, when all subscriptions lose a certain part of their prize winning value. One year subscriptions will lose 400 votes; two year subscription, 1,000; 3 year subscriptions will lose 10,000 if held over until the following week. Friends of the various workers are warned that this position is the highest vote offer of the race and never again during the campaign will subscriptions have the same value.

Votes and not number of subscriptions nor the amount of money collected will decide the winners of the prizes. If you have promised a subscription give it now, it will earn the greatest number of votes.

Remember that subscriptions show a sharp decline in the race for the auto after 10 p. m. Saturday night July 1st. Each candidate will make a supreme effort to secure every possible subscription between now and the time the clock strikes 10 next Saturday night. The live candidates will make every effort to build up a lead no matter how small, before the first big vote reduction goes into effect and well can it be said that now is the time for candidates to increase their vote totals and get their standing up on the list. Friends if the various candidates are fast rallying to their support and we anticipate some marked changes in the next count.

In all affairs of this kind you usually find there will be big changes in the standings of the workers. One will forge to the front, then another. Such changes are common in any game of competition, the prizes so to speak will change hands often during the campaign. The first prize is invariably won by the candidate who can smile at what other folks might term defeat working just a little harder and winning out on the last lap just as so many races are won. THE COMPARATIVE STANDING NEXT WEEK WILL TELL YOU HOW HARD YOU ARE GOING TO HAVE TO WORK.

Enter Personal Rivalry
Intense personal rivalry has begun to play a leading role in The News "Weekly Payroll" subscription campaign, as the race for the prizes progresses. Popular candidates are on the warpath in earnest now for the car and County Honors in the present contest which will long be remembered.

It takes cooperation to put any project through and it will take cooperation to make this campaign a success.

We are putting this campaign on for just one reason, which is to enable us to build a bigger and better paper. We fully realize that to hold our readers. We must give them the

Cattleman and Farmer Here Ends Own Life With Shot Gun

Placing the barrel of a shot gun against his abdomen, resting the butt of the gun against a tree, crouching over and releasing the trigger, Joe Hendley Duncan, 52, met instant death in the yard of his home a mile east of Fulton at an early hour last Friday morning. Voluntary suicide was the verdict of the coroner's jury which deliberated over the body at an inquest held in a parlor at the Winston-Jones mortuary.

All health is given as a probable cause for this rash act. Those closest to Mr. Duncan aver that he has suffered more than most people were aware and that he had been unable to enjoy a meal for several

Laundry Help May Get Raise in Their Pay

R. C. Peoples of the Parisian Laundry and V. R. Owen and J. J. Owen of the O. K. Laundry were in Louisville yesterday where they attended a state meeting of the Laundrymen's Association.

The object of the meeting was to confer with government officials for the purpose of working out a code of working conditions and prices for all laundry work. It is understood that the scale to be worked out is for more salary for the employed and fewer hours of labor. It is thought that a week's work will be arranged to consist of from 36 to 40 hours. This is the first of the reconstruction program policy that has come directly to Fulton and is being watched with expectancy.

Scouts Making Big Plans For Summer Camp

Scout hatchets are being sharpened up, regulation knives are being polished, clothing and camp equipment of the boys are being checked, while the boys themselves are all agog as the time for the summer camp of Fulton's Boy Scouts creeps closer and closer as the days move along.

July 9 to 14 is the time set for the camp this year and Duck river is going to get an awful splashing as the Fulton lads yell "Rock Bottom" and leave their cares behind them. L. B. Weeks is taking an active interest in the initial preparation, and will spend the entire camp period with the boys from four Fulton troops who attend Camp Burwath. Graham Wilkins, Harold and Windall Binkley, Leon Langston, Harold Howard, and R. Q. Moss also are working hard for the success of the summer trip and will be constant company with the future presidents and governors and merchants during the exciting days.

Fulton Scouts are preparing to go. It is thought that the attendance this year will be wonderful. It seems that the boys get a bigger kick out of a camp where they have to sleep in a tent, build their own nest as it were, than they sometimes do in permanent camps. However that may be, the boys can't be worried about that. What they want to do is to get going and they can scarcely hold themselves in until the arrival of the day.

MAMMOTH ARBOR TO SEAT

600 AT MT. MORIAH MEET
A giant arbor calculated to seat 600 persons comfortably has been erected at Mt. Moriah Methodist church where Rev. G. A. Klein will begin revival services July 4th. Rev. Klein is well known in Fulton where he once conducted a meeting lasting eight weeks. The meeting July 4th will be an all day dinner on the ground affair. Following that three services a day will be held.

"Lone Wolf of Devil Dogs" at Clinton Camp

BOYS AT EROSION CAMP NEAR HERE ARE UNDER ABLE ARMY GUIDANCE.

Although military discipline is not to be observed in the strictest sense, the 209 boys encamped at Clinton under Regular United States Army and Marine officers in the Erosion Division of President Roosevelt's Reforestation Act are fast taking on military manners as they hustle and bustle about in building the camp which is to be their home during the next several months.

A thing that possibly unconsciously lends impetus to the boys' interest in the work is that they have as their commander the only officer in service of the United States, either Army, Navy or Marines, who has received two congressional medals for deeds of valor from Uncle Sam. Capt. Louis Cukela, in command of the camp, is known to the Army and the Navy as "The Lone Wolf of the Devil Dogs" and while he is reticent, as all great heroes are reticent, yet stories of his prowess leak out and the Cincinnati lads who comprise this battery, are proud to be in his company and possibly many of them already are nourishing dreams of when they, too, will receive the plaudits of their native land.

Capt. Cukela of the Marines has as his first officer Capt. C. H. Cotts of the Second Infantry, U. S. A. Capt. Cotts also is a likable young man who apparently is taking as much enthusiastic interest in fighting land losses through erosion as he would take in fighting land losses at the cannon's mouth of an invading enemy. Then there is Lieut. M. P. Hooper of to Engineers Corps who acts as finance officer and quartermaster. Lieut. F. M. Rogers of the Medical Corps will keep the boys in the best of health during the term of their enlistment in the work. Acting First Sergeant Wood of the 10th Infantry and Acting Supply Officer is Corporal Brooks of the 10th Infantry. Corporal Schaffner of the 10th Infantry is acting mess sergeant at the camp and First Class Private Sauter as his highness the cook.

The boys comprising the personnel of the camp are a fine specimen of young American manhood. Many of them are just out of high school and many have had a year or two at college. They are just the type of boys as those supplied by Fulton county that are now in other camps in other localities. Just boys out of work who have the American backbone to take a job with Uncle Sam and go where he sends them. The pay is small but the education is great. The life may grow monotonous, but the experience is invaluable and these boys are entering into the spirit of the thing as an army with banners.

While this group of boys are under a commander so picturesque, Uncle Sam has placed his most competent men in command of each and every camp in the project. The boys in this camp will be given the benefit of the training Capt. Cukela has received in Germany, France, Haiti, Philippine Islands, Santo Domingo, Panama and China. The spirit he shows in going where he is sent with all that is in him is probably one big reason why he is a Cavalier in the Legion of Honor of France, why he wears a Croix de Guerre with three palms—why he is known as the Lone Wolf of the Devil Dogs of the U. S. Marines. He is putting out as much energy to save the land from the ravages of erosion as he ever put out in saving it from a relentless foe and this is why folks say his foreign decorations are well placed.

Those Fulton parents who have boys in the army of reclamation need have no fear for their welfare if the camp at Clinton is criterion.

Women Folks As City Builders

(AN EDITORIAL)

THE OLD STORY of the diamond mine still has its punch. The mule who trampled good clover beneath his feet while he reached over a barbed-wire fence to nip the weeds in an adjacent field still has his reasons. The man who spent his life traveling from coast to coast in search of a diamond mine came home after many years and found the mine in his own back yard when he was too old and feeble to enjoy the fruits thereof. The mule finally ate all the weeds he could reach, turned and began to nibble his own clover waxed fat and died in peace and plenty.

People are like that! The siren song of the big city ad writer beckons them on until, finally, broken and disheartened, they return to Fulton and find the bargains they sought.

The publishers of The News would give everything they have in the world if they could find some means of inducing every housewife in Fulton to come "up town" at least once every week. Just come up town, window shop, that's all. They do it in the large cities. Never a week goes by but what some feminine member of each and every household makes a personal shopping trip "to town."

Of course the newspaper advertising supplies the incentive for the city sister to shop. Fulton merchants should keep shopping suggestions before the ladies constantly. Perhaps they doubt the pulling power of Fulton newspapers. We do not know as to that. We are not writing this editorial about that. We do think, in fairness, however, that many of the fair and lovely daughters of Fulton have been reading the so-called "big city ads," too.

However that may be, they are seeking the diamond mine at the wrong location. The weeds are getting shorter in the adjoining fields. Those ladies who make regular shopping trips to Fulton emporiums are finding out that identical merchandise is on sale in Fulton stores much cheaper than that merchandise is on sale in the big city. Lower rents here account for that. Lower taxes and much less overhead generally in Fulton proves the logic of that.

The thing is that many Fulton ladies do not know of the shopping opportunity that is theirs in Fulton every day of every week and the only way under the sun for them to find it out is for every lady in Fulton to come "up town" at least once every week. If they come, they'll buy. There need be no worry as to that. The thing is to get them here and so we say, we would give everything in the world we possess if we could devise some means of inducing every housewife in Fulton to come "up town" at least once every week.

Horses Brought Here to Train On Best Half Mile in South

OTHER PLANS FOR FULTON COUNTY FAIR TAKE ON IMPETUS AS DATE OF SHOW DRAWS NEAR.

Enquiries already are coming in as to exhibits at the Fulton county fair, and the Fair Committee is working overtime preparing the premium list for publication in the Fair Catalog which will come from the press of The Fulton County News in ample time for all to inform themselves along this line. The committee is planning on a much wider range of exhibits this year than before and the problem is that the awards be made so that the winners will be amply repaid for their achievements and so that at the same time there will be plenty of awards for all.

Races at the fair to be just a little better and faster this year than ever before. The fair association members are determined that this feature shall be an outstanding one. Race horse owners and trainers are taking them seriously and already are bringing their stables to the fair grounds for first hand training on the local track.

Ben T. Frank has a string of five harness horses which are already in prime shape to make the circuit. J. O. Cassett is to bring four horses here shortly after the Fourth of July while Marshall Howard of Dresden, Tenn., will bring his horses here for training immediately.

Frank's horses each and every one have many wins to their credit. It will be remembered that he won four races and took two second places here last year. He says that this is the best half mile track in the South with the exception of the state fair track at Louisville and the track at Huntsville, Alabama, and has moved here to do his training on that account.

Dr. George (2:06) was making his heats in the boiling sun last Tuesday with the ease and grace of the fastest horse. Zarrine Guy (2:15 trot) also was being worked out and certainly is a beautiful animal either on or off the track. Worthy Bell (2:08 1/2), a last year winner, Jim Dixon (2:08 1/2), Lucy Lee Scott, a green pacer of a lot of promise and Mildred Axworthy, a two year old pacer also is in training here by Mr. Frank. While Zarrine Guy's record of 2:15 is as a trotter, he is pacing now and gives promise of breaking a lot of records and all because of the training he received on the Fulton race track.

Mr. J. H. Kramer of Fairfield, Ill., is the guest of her son T. F. Kramer and family.

Hannepphin Will Not Be in Race For Councilman

COLLEY ENTERS CITY JUDGE RACE CAUSING ANOTHER GUESS AS TO WHO WILL BE ON CITY COUNCIL.

With candidates for county offices digging with tooth and nail the elusive ballot of their friends, and with candidates in neighboring cities already scrapping for support for city offices, people of Fulton are beginning to glance at the calendar and cup their ears in anticipation of the first gun in the Fulton City Primary which is necessary to fill the berth of Mayor and the several chairs of the city councilmen. Up to this writing no definite official statement has been published except for the office of City Police Judge, and time is flying with the rising of each scorching sun every day. For the uninformed, let it be stated that a candidate must file for office 30 days before the date of the primary and in this case that means July 6 because the primary this year is to be held August 5th.

Asked outright if he intended to run for mayor for another term Mayor Paul DeMyer did not bat an eye. His answer was emphatically "yes" and straight from the shoulder it came. While no other name has come to the attention of The News as a probable candidate for mayor, it must be admitted that it would take a mighty strong man to defeat DeMyer. His administration has been outstanding rather for the things it did NOT do, than for those it did do. In other words, the DeMyer administration just closing did not run hog-wild and spurge the city in debt, but rather it entrenched, took up another knoth in its belt, braced itself against the solid post of economy and kept the city on even keel during the worst financial storm this or any other city ever experienced. It did more than that, it paid a lot of debts and saved a lot of money on the operation of the city water department. But "politics" is a funny thing and you never can tell till the votes are counted.

Of course, DeMyer and his council had a little luck. When the gas franchise was defaulted, the administration stood adamant and collected the $6,000 forfeit that had been posted. This enabled them to pay some outstanding debts, keep a little cash on hand for an emergency (Continued on Page 3)

FOURTH OF JULY TO BE QUIET IN FULTON

There will be no special community observation of the Fourth of July in Fulton. People here will spend the day motoring to other places while those in other places will motor here. Private picnics, family home-comings, hunting and fishing will be the order of the day. No ball game is scheduled for the Fourth so that the players and the fans will be free to go and do what they had planned to do on that day.

PHILLIPS TO RUN AGAIN

City Councilman Phillips was very gracious to The News reporter when asked if he would again be a candidate. Told of the nice things being said about him Mr. Phillips smiled as he said: "Well, if they want me, I will run again."

Burly Black Brute Batters White Boy Unmercifully

Luring a young white boy to a lonely spot in Whitsell wood where his brutal design would not be interrupted, a negro giving his name as Frank Haywood, Saturday beat his victim into unconsciousness, robbed him of his watch and left him there to die. The white boy, Claude Wheatley of Schlatter, Miss., finally regained consciousness and staggered to the Fulton-Union City highway near the scene of the attack and was picked up by E. E. Heathcott of Fulton who rushed him to this city and to Dr. Rudd where he was given first aid. White & Mahon later took the 14 year old boy to a Union City hospital where he is recuperating.

The beating he received at the hands of the negro is said by the officers to have been unmerciful. His face was but a pulp of its former lines and his body was covered by bruises.

Deputy Sheriff Smith of Obion County, Chief of Police Roach and Constable Stubblefield of South Fulton immediately went in search of the negro and had no trouble in finding him and obtaining a confession that he was the guilty negro. Wheatley's watch on the person of the assailant confirmed the confession.

Deputy Sheriff Smith says that the negro was the most case-hardened criminal he has met in a long time.

HATS OFF TO LABOR

While it is but natural that people of any walk of life view with suspicion any drastic change from time honored practices of their respective environment and while it is especially true that this suspicious attitude attaches to the rank and file of labor, probably more than to any other group, it is pleasing to note the willingness of labor to accept the changes proposed by (and enter into the spirit of) the Industrial Control Act with possibly less criticism on their part than any other body of men affected by the legislation.

About the only criticism we have noted, in fact, is the fear that organized labor will be given an even greater control of available jobs than it has heretofore enjoyed because of the conditions of the bill which virtually make all jobs "closed" jobs.

We see no cause for fear from this source. While all jobs will be "closed jobs" the President of the United States, through his emissaries, will be the walking delegate, and living conditions will form the basis of the pay envelope among all laborers as it heretofore has formed the basis of working conditions among union men almost exclusively. In other words, the government will see to it that every laborer's family is well provided, and that working conditions are sanitary, whereas, heretofore, it was the union contract that made these things obligatory.

While on the subject, The News arises to lift its hat to the working man generally and wherever he may be found. If anybody had told us that the working man would ever have stood for what he has stood for to the statement. We would not have believed it. A few years ago it was the general trend of thought that labor would have raised the very dickens should any change occur in industrial conditions. Union men were regarded as fire eaters. It was thought that riots would sweep the country and that bloodshed would obtain should anything or anybody "mess with their jobs."

Nothing has proved more erroneous than this belief. Nobody has been more conservative than the man who toils. Never in history has a group of men taken it on the chin with greater stamina. Patiently have they stood and seen their jobs swept away. Resignedly have they bowed their heads and watched their families suffer. The laboring men have stood 60 per cent of the losses occasioned by the depression and this newspaper wants to be among the first to arise and give them credit, to laud them as heroes, and to bid them God speed in the recovery which is certain to be theirs.

The Industrial control act is revolutionary in scope. In fact all of the Rooseveltian proposals have been proposals that have been revolutionary. No thinking person can deny that this country is right now in the midst of a revolution greater in principle than many that have swept kingdoms from thrones, more far reaching than others that have caused canons to boom, yet this revolution is taking place where by right it ought to take place, in the legislative halls, and the laboring man standing by is the Minute Man whose name will go down in history.

IDLE LAND AND HIGH TAXES

Did you ever hear of a person who purchased an annual ticket to a theatre, carried it around in his pocket and never used it? We never did! What about the man who ordered a T-bone steak delivered to his residence every day and yet never thought of cooking and eating it? Foolish, wasn't he? Men who would be guilty of such practice would be regarded as spendthrifts and their credit standing would diminish and flicker out altogether at the bank. Don't you think?

While the comparison is somewhat far-fetched yet many farmers of Fulton county are doing this very thing if the statement of County Agent H. C. Brown is true. Mr. Brown points out in a recent press release that practically every farm in Fulton county has considerable acreage of unplanted or idle land. Flooded cotton and corn land is not included in Mr. Brown's statement so much as is the large areas of waste land lying in weeds and bushes.

And yet the farmer pays just as much tax on this idle land as he pays on the land that is productive. That is what helps a lot to make taxes high. One acre of productive land is thus compelled to pay the tax on itself and also to pay the tax on other acres that are not in cultivation. Thus the sturdy farmer, skimping and saving, struggling with rust-worn and broken machinery, is in reality paying for a theater ticket he never sees; buying costly steaks he never eats; paying taxes on land he never uses.

County Agent Brown goes on to show the farmer how he may yet, this very year, reclaim some of this unused acreage and collect a bountiful fee for his trouble. Soybeans, Brown says, may be planted as late as July 10. Likewise cowpeas may be sown this late although July 1st is the better date. Forage sorghum, Sudan grass, German Millet, velvet peas, Cowpeas and rape—all of these feeds can be raised with profit yet this year and the farmer will thus be getting what he pays for when he exchanges a check for his tax receipt.

In no better way can the farmer reduce his taxes and in no better way can the farmer raise his credit standing at the bank. It is not the ground that is valuable as a credit basis, it is the products thereof. A bank takes slight chance of loss when it loans money on acreage that is fruitful and multiplies. The old, hard ground is a hazard when not in use, a hazard that no banker cares to assume. With prices going up, the money crops will take care of themselves this year. It is the idle acres that can fill the barn with feed stuff, put meat in the smoke house and meal in the barrel.

Fulton's Plaster Cast Industry Offers Many New And Beautiful Artistic Decorations

Among the many little known but highly entertaining and altogether artistic occupations at which one may earn a livelihood in Fulton attention is directed to the plaster cast enterprise conducted by Clarence Weatherspoon at the rear of his residence at 835 Fairview avenue. While this man is an adept at the sculptor's art, yet "plaster cast" is far from descriptive of his finished product as he casts his statuary in hard concrete, calculated to outlive the coming ages.

While Weatherspoon has on display in his front yard a few choice bits of exterior decorating, yet a visit to his workshop is required to realize the scope of his enterprise and the artistry of his ideas. Here one finds a veritable menagerie of concrete animals for yard decoration, a bower of beauty of the more subtle studies for door weights, book end blocks and wall plaques. For the outside there are rubicons, lions, dogs, cats and rabbits made so like to nature that one can almost see them breathe. Elephants that will bear the greatest load; camels whose perfect lines might deceive the shrine novice into the belief that the temperature might be lowered on the burning sands.

Lifelike figures there are many, milady fair in all her loveliness the willowly blonde and the enchanting brunette. Many studies in the nude, others gracefully draped in suitable evening attire. And bathing girls—in viewing this work one gets the idea that Mack Sennette must have seen this group ere he gave the stage the Bathing Beauty Show. Bullfrogs, ugly green, pop-eyed, grotesque little creatures for the lily pond and the aquarium. Then, too there are the flat plaques depicting scenes in history an odd studies that might grace the interior decorating of the most stately building.

Mr. Weatherspoon has been at this business for quite a long time and had previously prepared himself for this work by study at Memphis and Ft. Worth, Texas, under the most technical masters. The work in tedious, requires a lot of time and the remuneration is not anything to get excited about, but the work is interesting and the enterprise constitutes one of the most artistic occupations at which one may earn a livelihood in Fulton.

Political Pot Is Getting Hot

The political pot is beginning to boil. In fact she's sizzling. Whether influenced by the "stuck up" thermometer which has peeled the coat from the back of the most fastidious, or whether the speed comes from its own momentum, people in the country are coming to Fulton with the word "she's getting hot."

Down here on the state line, Fulton people are getting a double dose. Residents of this city listen with bated breath to the tale of the Fulton county candidate, Hickman bound, then turn a patient head to the Sons of Obion who are anxious and ready to engage apartments at Union City.

Everybody knows his voting place, but the candidate must tackle them "mixt" as he chances to encounter them on Fulton streets.

Yes, she's getting hot. One of these days a right lively candidate is going to bring on a little rain and when he does—well chances are that he will be elected in both counties.

New Business Opens In Fulton

A new business has opened in Fulton. No flaring headlines in the newspapers announced the opening. No banners in red and blue heralded the event. No bands played nor costly souvenirs presented to first customers—

But the prettiest little saleslady you ever did see looked up and smiled to the passers by and by the faintest glance at the ice bucket indicated that she had cold drinks to sell to all who would buy.

Little Peggy Scott, selling drinks on the street in a little fenced-off enclosure in front of the flower shop was the new merchant and if she continued, well, it will be just another reason for people, when they are pleased, to exclaim "Great Scott!"

What's the difference 'ow bold you are if you don't look it?

You can always tell the wise man from the foolish man simply by noticing which one of them is doing all the talking.

Maybe it's all right to give the devil his dews, but some folks seem to owe him about everything they've got.

Religion does not consist in being good; that is only a result.

Religion consists in WANTING to be good.

We suggest that the following words be put on a large sign and placed at the city limits on every road that comes into Fulton. "IF YOU LIVED HERE YOU WOULD BE HOME NOW."

That English funny book JUDGE remarks, "You can fool some of the people all the time, and all the people some of the time, but the rest of the time they will make fools of themselves."

Speaking of mosquitoes, we can think of evenings more enjoyable than those we spend applauding them. And this leads us to suggest a practical way of preventing them from eating us. Have at hand the following: a small pair of tweezers a small pair of fine pointed scissors and small bottle of ether and a small piece of absorbent cotton. When a mosquito settles and is about to partake pick up the tweezers and grasp him quickly just back of where his legs join the body. Then in order to prevent suffering to dumb animals and to prevent your conscience from troubling you afterwards put a drop of ether on the cotton and hold it before the mosquito for about three minutes then take the scissors and clip the proboscis about two thousandths of an inch from the head. Then release the mosquito and he can never eat any one again. We had forgotten; if two mosquitoes co-operate and attack at the same time you will have to call for help. But we know this is most effective.

Yours mosquitoically,
THE PARSON

Main Street Is Taken To Cleaner

Some heartily to be commended citizen got started with a paint brush on Main street last week and the transformation is marvellous to behold. The idea spread with the results that almost an entire block is immaculate in its decoration and the remaining business houses are but awaiting the arrival of the paint.

Perhaps it is just as well to look on the bright side. For every dark cloud has a silver lining. The darkness is rapidly disappearing, and the silver is returning to the surface, from where it has been hidden. And after we have passed over the rough places, we will be wiser and richer in experience.

As time rolls on people still live on. One of the necessities of life is bread. Steve Wiley Delivers Inspiring Address In Crutchfield, Saturday

Mr. Steve Wiley, Fulton Attorney, opened his campaign for Representative, for the 1934 Legislature, at Crutchfield last Saturday evening, the 17th, before a gathering of approximately 300 people. He opened his remarks by thanking the ladies of the Methodist Church for their invitation extended to him by stating that it was not his policy to solicit support at religious gatherings, without express invitation.

"I do not believe," he said, "in turning a political campaign into a religious census, and I do not solicit your votes because you may happen to belong to the same religious denomination as myself, and I hope that you will not vote against me simply because I do not belong to your religious fraternity."

Mr. Wiley paid particular attention to the subject of Taxation and stated that that was the primary consideration before the people of this state. He stated further that he did not intend to support any measure where the result would be one penny increase to the tax-payers of this state; that the Government has been like individuals in the past few years, it has exceeded its revenue and expanded its credit, but the Government unlike private corporations and individuals, refused to economize except in the face of dire necessity, and until forced to by an outraged people.

"My conception of Government," he stated, "whether it be local, state or national, is that it has its existence for the benefit of the Government."

"The popular conception, now however, in certain quarters and particularly among those who hold fat jobs at the expense of the people, is that the people exist for the Government, and its benefit. The expense of Governmental operation, therefore has become a juggernaut, thrusting upon the backs of the tax-payers an unbearable burden, placing their homes upon the auction block and crushing them under its grinding wheel, and yet the expenses of the Government increase, until Legislatures have become merely tax-gathering clubs, meeting solely for the purpose of devising ingenious methods of filching more money out of the pockets of an already burdened people, and pouring it into the insatiable maw of a too highly organized governmental machine whose efficiency in public matters is somewhat doubtful, and which in turn disburses this money, wrung from the distressed people, to satisfy a political expediency of questionable value."

He warned the tax-payers to beware of a proposed constitutional amendment to take the taxes off the land and tangible personal property; that this amendment was only for the purpose of giving the Legislature power to take off the state portion of such taxes, which amounted to approximately one fifth of the total taxes on tangible property; that there was no assurance that the Legislature would pass such act, if the amendment carried; that there was no relief from local taxation in the measure, and charged that the proponents of the Sales Tax were using as a lever to blind the eyes of the people, and obtain the passage of the Sales tax measure, and that politicians would be externally glad to exchange the tangible property tax for the sales tax, in that the property tax brought in a total revenue of a little more than six million dollars, approximately one fifth of the total revenue derived by the state from all sources, whereas, the sales tax would bring in a net return of approximately ten million dollars.

He paid particular attention to the Sales Tax, charging it to be one of the most vicious pieces of legislation yet devised. "It is a tax upon the basic feature, which all agree to be the most necessary thing for the return of increased prosperity," he stated. "a tax upon consumption; and under this vicious tax the poorest class of people, and those who make up the great part of our population are forced to pay an additional tax upon their total income and worth. This tax would be added on when wages are lower than ever before and when necessities are hardest to obtain. To the proponents of this tax 'State' means its commissioned officers and job holders, and when they cry 'Save the State' they mean 'Save our jobs.'"

"I say to you that this state, if its officers decide to live within its income, can do away with the property tax, and need not levy this additional tax, or any other. The total revenue of this state derived from all sources is, in round numbers thirty-four million dollars. The amount of revenue obtained from the tax on real estate and personal property is approximately six million on real estate and personal property is approximately six million dollars, and if the State and Government will start at the top and make sensible reductions in the expenses of its boards and commissions and will use common sense methods of consolidation of the useful and elimination of the useless state departments, there is no reason why the tangible property tax could not be eliminated without any additional tax upon the people. This Sales tax is especially desired by politicians and job holders for the reason that it is cash in hand, is conveniently easy to collect and by far the most expensive, in that it would take an immense army of snoopers and spies to check up on the merchants, and we have had enough of that class of people meddling in our business already. It is a most convenient method of building up an immense political machine at the people's expense. The administration desired and now desires this tax and a cowardly legislative majority, whose only thought was to up hold every whim and desire of the Administration, was only prevented from passing this bill by the activities and protest of an outraged citizenry."

He stated further that the cost of the Government, in spite of the pre-election promises of the Governor, had increased; that he did not pose an anti-administration man, and that he intended to support the Governor if he desired to carry out his long promised economy program but that he did not intend to support him if he did not.

The school situation came in for some attention. "If it is necessary to economize in schools," he stated, "let us start at the top, with the higher up institutions of learning, but save all we can for the Elementary and High schools. Give the child an elementary education and he can, in some measure get through life, but refuse him that elementary education and he becomes a liability to the community."

DeMyer to Run Again

and otherwise keep the good ship Fulton riding the crest of the waves of depression which whipped and slashed and wrecked a lot of neighboring nearby towns.

For instance, again, the DeMyer administration saved the people $4,340 in the operation of the city water works during the very first year of its managing. A reorganization was perfected and a saving made in fuel that resulted in a big profit. And so, people everywhere admit that whoever is elected Mayor of Fulton will be the man that beats Paul DeMyer and that is—well, it's a man's sized job.

As to the intentions of the councilmen to run again little can be said. Councilman J. A. Colley, of course, is out of the running and some good man will have to take his place. Colley has announced for the position of Police Judge and thus has excluded himself from the council. He has served eight years in the council, anyhow, and that, one must admit, is doing one's bit. Colley did not say whether he would have run for councilman again had he not become a candidate for judge. He did say that he had enjoyed the past four years on the council, and if he could enjoy it as chairman of the finance committee it must have been duck soup and pie for some of the other committees because finance, or rather the lack of it, is what the depression was all about in the first place. Colley points with pride to the fact that despite the panic the DeMyer administration has paid $1000 on the water works bonded debt, the first that has been paid in more than forty years and on top of that it is fixed so that a thousand dollars will be paid every year for the next 18 years when the debt will have been wiped away.

Councilman Irby is vacationing in Oklahoma and a statement from him naturally could not be obtained. Councilman Tom Boaz, when asked if he intended to come out for reelection, would make no statement whatsoever.

Councilman Hanneppin stated that he would not again be a candidate for city councilman.

"I am now finishing my eighth year on the City Council and have enjoyed working with the other members and Mayor. I appreciate the votes of the ones who elected me, and I have voted the best I knew how on every question that came up and the records are open so that any one may see how I did vote. Now I think eight years is enough and there is plenty of good material to select a Council from without using the same one so long; so let's have a new deal and let some one else see how easy it is to run a city and make both ends meet.

"I have not been worried by great multitudes asking me to run for office, but several have, and I thank them kindly and consider it a real compliment. I have no sore toe and will do my very best the rest of my term of office to do my duty as I see it."

Councilman Reeds was not seen and a telephonic interview is deemed unsatisfactory on such questions. So taking it "by and as" the people are not much wiser about their city council than they have been heretofore. Mayor DeMyer says he will run and Councilman Hanneppin says he will not run, and Councilman Colley can't run because he is already running for something else—and there you are.

Many other names are being used in connection with the councilmanic chairs. Most often heard among these are the names of B. B. Alexander, A. G. Balardge, Gus Bard, Joe Bennett Sr., Bert Newhouse and Albert Smith.

However that may be, there is no use to worry and wonder—Fulton always has had a city council and always will have—the only thing is that the candidates are not so eagerly grabbing for seats as they have been, and as they might be again before this thing is over. But what we started out to say was, under the law they must file their papers with the county clerk not later than July 6 or it will be just too bad.

Fulton Man Is Tennessee Valley Booster Officer

A lot of local interest is being taken in the organization of the Tennessee Valley Association, of which Joe Browder of Fulton has been chosen a director and a member of the executive committee. The purpose of the Tennessee Valley Association is to promote the Tennessee Valley. The membership is to be composed of any interested person. Authority having been granted by Congress for the operation of the Muscle Shoals project and the exploitation of any other industry in the valley, an organization looking to this end was imperative. The good must be developed and the bad weeded out in industry as in agriculture and it is to guard the better interests with a jealous care that this organization will function. Good enterprises will be promoted; bad ones will be prohibited, according to the statements appearing in the press.

There being no salary connected with the position, Mr. Browder will be to considerable personal expense in attending meetings and otherwise devoting time to the work, but there is no doubt expressed but what Fulton people will respond generously to the call for membership to the end that the Tennessee valley may finally come into its own.

State Auditor Dan Talbott, has decided to refund immediately approximately $125,000 in license fees collected from retailers of 3.2 beer.

The work of writing about 1,600 checks was begun.

Wickliffe Relics May Be State Property Soon

Fain King, Paducah, Ky., developer and owner of the burial mounds at Wickliffe, Ky., and member of the board of directors of the Alabama State Museum Board, made a provisional offer Friday, June 23, that these mounds be placed under the administration of Murray State College.

Speaking in chapel at Murray, Mr. King announced that he had already willed this property to the state of Kentucky, but that he wished Murray College to have when the college shall have developed a chair or department of archeology and related sciences.

If such a department is developed at Murray, Mr. King said, "I'd be glad that these mounds go to Murray since Murray is the nearest educational institution to Wickliffe."

"There is nowhere in the whole world, in such a small area, so complete a story of a past race," asserted Mr. King, as he explained that only three of the nine mounds had been excavated. He estimated that the area could be developed in five years at a cost of $11,000.

The Wickliffe mound area is an important center from a religious standpoint, he averred. At the confluence of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, Wickliffe evidently was the center of a religious pilgrimage by these primitive people.

Although the mound builders were Indians, they were entirely different from those on the continent in the day of Columbus. Mr. King estimated the age of the mounds at 1,000 to 5,000 years or older. The best theory of the origin of the mound builders, he said, was that they were of Tarter extraction, coming down from Bering strait.

A feature not found elsewhere, according to Mr. King, is the fact that there is a "trinity" of customs revealed: three types of burial, three types of fireplaces, and three types of temple worship none "intrusive."

"We found only one war like implement, showing that these mound builders were peaceful" asserted the speaker, in explaining that they were not nomadic, but rather were agricultural and religious.

Describing the science as "cultural", he told of finding copper from Wisconsin, flake mica from North Carolina, marine shells from the Gulf of Mexico, and fluor spar. His conclusion was that either these people came to Wickliffe on a religious pilgrimage or that they carried on much trade or commerce.

Among the interesting discoveries, besides the skeletons, were a water bottle, Buddha in type, a charred building, a piece of eagle headed pottery. Traces of influence possibly of South America, Southwestern United States, Egypt; and of Asia have been revealed in the excavation, he added.

Mr. King asserted that archeology and anthropology were not exact sciences and that many of the ideas were changing in regard to excavations of this nature.

In conclusion, Mr. King answered questions propounded to him from the students and faculty in the audience. Dr. Charles Hire, presiding in the absence of President Carr, praised the speaker for his talk and his contribution.

Mr. Cecil Burnett of the Fulton Hatchery and Mr. Basil Ross of Browder's Mill are attending Poultry and Hatchery Convention at Lexington this week.
