Invaded by Night Prowlers.

The Cadiz Record of last week has the following account of night prowling in Trigg county: Considerable speculation has been caused throughout this section as to what was the motive of the crowd that was seen pass through here last Saturday night, the only thing that they did, so far as we can learn, being to cut the wires of the Cumberland Telephone Company in several places between here and Golden Pond.

Some time between eight and nine o'clock on that night eight or ten men are reported to have been seen a short distance up the hill from the lower bridge leading out the Canton pike by a party who was coming into town walking. This party says they were all masked and one of them was climbing down a telephone pole about the time he passed them, but as soon as he saw they were masked he did not lose any time in making further investigations. All four of the wires of the Cumberland company were cut at this place. About a half-mile farther on all the wires were again cut. No further evidence was seen of them until after the Cumberland river is crossed at Canton, and just beyond the ferry all the wires were again cut. One of the wires across Tennessee river nine miles beyond Canton, was also down the next morning, but there seems to be some question as to whether it was cut or had broken down the same night. We have not heard of any other damage to anything or anybody being done that night.

Late that night eight persons, on horse-back, were seen on one of our back streets going in the direction of Hopkinsville, but no one seems to have noticed whether they were masked or not.

The entire circumstances are a mystery to every one, and it is likely that their real motive will never be known.

Independents Form Organization

Princeton, Ky., March 25.—At a meeting of the independent tobacco growers of Caldwell county at this place today a stemmy association branch of the American Society of Equity was organized by the appointment of a soliciting committee, composed of prominent Caldwell county farmers. The object of the stemmy association is to organize the independent tobacco growers for the purpose of pooling the tobacco of 1907 not pledged to the Dark Tobacco Protective Association.

The organization of the stemmy association of equity will not affect the Dark Tobacco Protective Association and as a result a general good feeling among the farmers seems to exist, and it is now predicted that the entire crop of 1907 tobacco will be controlled by the Society of Equity and Dark Tobacco Protective Association. Already there is talk of a large joint storage pricing and stemmy house being erected here before fall. The Dark Protective Association members will hold a meeting in this city next Saturday, and another meeting of the stemmy association will be held Saturday, April 6.

Night Riders in Stewart.

Dover, Tenn., March 27.—The night riders have made their appearance in this (Stewart) county and are doing a great deal of damage to farmers. On Scott branch, about 15 miles from this place where a large percentage of the tobacco of this county is raised, about half of the plantbeds have either been sown in grass seed, or burned.

The farmers are not blaming the association for the night depredations, as both the members of the association and the "Hill Billies" have had their plant beds destroyed. Last night G. W. Wallace and his son, both of whom are members of the association, had four plant beds destroyed by burning. It is a very easy matter to burn them, as the beds are still canvassed, and all the night rider has to do is to stick a match to the canvas, and this kills the plants.

Kirksey.

Ed. Ledger, a few items from this place may interest your many readers.

Easter Sunday passed off quietly a little cool but a nice clear day, but a balmy wind from the east made everything look lovely for the spring time.

Wheat and grass are looking green in the fields, the farmers are plowing and preparing for a large crop, some have planted corn others have not plowed any yet, on account of spring work.

Tobacco plants are looking fine in this section and will do to set out by the 10th of May.

It is rumored that Prof. Riley Miller has secured the school at the Calloway Normal college for this fall and winter. We are glad to have such a teacher as Prof. Miller at the head of our school because it's a sure success then.

Glen Sanders has completed his new home and has moved into it.

Prof. Wells opened up the last two months of his free school last Monday with a good attendance. Mr. Wells is a fine instructor and has given general satisfaction in the district as teacher.

Road working is the order of the day that is filling up the holes in the road, we trust the graders will be here again this year and our road beds be graveled, the most important roads at least.

McBryd and Sam Jones made a flying trip to Mayfield last week on business.

Amos Turnbow has completed his new barn.

Frank McCullen made a business trip to Paducah last week.

Prof. Bud Dollison will teach a singing school at Mt. Carmel commencing first Sunday in April.

A problem for your many readers: two men started on a walk, A could walk 5 miles an hour, and B 4 miles an hour, A went North, and B went East, and they walked 5 hours until 12 o'clock, when they rested one hour and took dinner. They then changed their course and walked in a straight line toward each other. At what time of day did they meet, and what was the distance of their meeting point from the original starting place?

Lets go fishing these fine spring days.

O. W. Phelps has closed out his business in old Calloway and has gone near Mayfield to work.

Lauson Sanders will work at Cooce Cola plant in Paducah this summer.

With best wishes for the Old Reliable editor I will ring off.

Lesson for Merchants.

There is a lesson for every merchant in the experience told by a representative of a Chicago mail order house to a gathering of newspaper men up in Iowa. He said that the mail order business depended entirely upon advertising. He made one remark that merchants should heed. He says they take the local papers and directed their special efforts to communities where the merchants were not up-to-date advertisers. If the mail order man finds that any line of business in any town or city is not well advertised, as for instance furniture, he said they flood that territory with their literature and always with satisfactory results. He believed it true. He said that country merchants could greatly cripple the mail order houses if they would advertise freely and in the right manner. He said that every advertisement should describe the articles to be sold and state the price. Here is food for thought by merchants who fear the effect of mail order houses.

Sued for Killing Dogs.

Montie McCuiston, one of the east side's leading citizens, was sued in Judge Wells' court here last Monday for $150. The suit was instituted by Will and Quit Jackson and Ben Coleman, colorado, to recover damages on the loss of three dogs killed by Mr. McCuiston. The evidence showed that the dogs were attacking sheep belonging to McCuiston and that he killed them at the time. The suit was dismissed.

LEVY FOR ROAD

Calloway Fiscal Court Makes a Levy of Twenty-five Cents for Highways.

The regular April term of the Calloway Fiscal Court was convened Tuesday morning with all the members present. The court entered into the disposition of work readily and no halt accrued until the question of a levy for road and bridge purposes was reached. This matter consumed considerable time for discussion, but on motion of T. M. Jones, which was seconded by A. B. Perry, a levy of 25 cents for this purpose was ordered.

The question of a $35,000 bond issue for building a court house was also ordered submitted to the voters at the next regular election.

These two items are regarded of the greatest importance to the people. Following is business transacted up to this time:

The following persons were exempted from poll tax: W. H. Barton, M. L. McCuiston, J. B. Daniel, T. C. Linn, E. Cunningham, P. M. McCuiston, Henry Stille, L. D. Brite, Harvey King, Sonny Booker.

The order making the levy for roads and bridge purposes, provides that one grader be assigned to each district and that the revenues be equally divided between the seven districts, and that one assistant supervisor be selected from each district and from a list of names to be submitted by the respective magistrates.

Ordered that 300 copies of Hendersons field notes of Calloway county be printed. Contract given to the Ledger.

Appropriation of $100 was made to the board of health for the purpose of conducting a campaign of education toward the prevention of consumption.

Appropriation of $100 ordered to build hitch-racks around and upon the jail lot.

The order for an election to issue bonds to build a court house provides that the amount shall be $35,000 and same not to bear a greater rate of interest than 5 per cent which shall be paid annually. The bonds to be paid in not less than two years nor more than twenty.

Allen is Acquitted.

Clarksville, Tenn., March 29.—In the criminal court the case of George Allen, charged with trespass, or more specifically, with being concerned in the scrapping of Jos. Rosson's plant bed, in the Sixth district, last spring, was heard, resulting in an acquittal. The two Rosson boys, M. R. and Thurman, testified that as they watched one of their plant beds one night last April, they heard some twenty-five shots fired at a nearby bed, which they supposed to have been fired by the raiders who were scrapping the bed. They waited quietly and a little later a man whom they claim to have recognized as George Allen appeared from the direction of the other bed, and they shot at him several times, and that he ran away. Allen is the son of John Allen, the well-known association speaker. He testified in his own behalf that he was at home all night on the occasion of the alleged offense, and his council offered to corroborate this statement by the testimony of his wife. The jury was out only twenty minutes.

Colorado, Texas.

Friend Jennings, perhaps a few items from this far western land

We delayed our paper one day this week in order to secure the proceedings of the fiscal court, which we know are of interest to every citizen in the county.

would interest you and your many readers.

Colorado is a growing little city of about four thousand inhabitants on the Colorado river, about two hundred and seventy miles west of Ft. Worth. It was once the metropolis of west Texas, and the gathering place of the cowboys from the Rio Grand to the Indian Territory. Was full of saloons, gambling dens and other places of vice, but the continued drouths in the early eighties drove the cattlemen from the country and the town died as dead as Murray's famous creamery. Magnificent theaters and residences were torn down and carried out to build farm houses, the street car lines were torn up and the city government went bankrupt, but with the return of rains the small farmer took the place of the ranchmen, and the town began to rebuild and is growing very fast now. Houses to live in can hardly be had farms near the railroad have advanced in price the past two years from four or five dollars per acre to twenty five to thirty. Where the cowboy, in the olden time, rode his horse up to the bar and ordered drinks and shot out the lights for past time, there is prosperous business houses. There is not a saloon in the town or in a hundred miles of it. It cost you a dollar to expectorate on the sidewalks and you can't get a cigar or even a glass of soda water on Sunday, and a more law-abiding, generous, big hearted people never lived out of Kentucky. We have to big cotton gins, one compress one oil mill laundry, ice plant, two wholesale groceries, water works, electric lights, and they are all paying investments. For fear you think am advertising a boom town and want me to pay for space will close for this time with best wishes for the "Old Reliable" and the good people who read it.

T. SHIPLEY.

Mr. Shipley informs us that he has charge of the shipping department of the McCord Collins Co., wholesale grocers, of the above place, and that he is doing well. His many friends will be glad to read his letter.

One to the lady answering a list of questions, the answers being derived from the word Violet. This was won by Mrs. T. P. Cook. Another to the guest forming the largest number of words with letters appearing in the word Violet. This went to Mrs. O. J. Jennings. Light refreshments were served. Those present were Mrs. J. H. ANNOUNCEMENT.

REPRESENTATIVE.

We are authorized to announce the candidacy of J. B. SWAN, for representative in the lower house of the state legislature, subject to the action of the democratic party.

The Times made mention last week of a Philadelphia woman who danced herself to death. She fell dead on the ball room floor, having danced every one of the twenty-four dances on the program. That would have been nothing for a Georgetown girl. At every hop the Georgetown girls all dance the entire program of twenty-four dances through and in addition dance twelve extras. Then they beg the band to play more.—Georgetown Times.

We believe that stockmen, in referring to the ability of a horse to travel a great distance, say that he is possessed of a good bottom. We prefer not to express our opinion of the Georgetown girl's ability to dance.

It is made unlawful by an ordinance passed by the City Council Monday night for women of ill-repute to parade the streets between the hours of six o'clock, p. m., and six o'clock, a. m., unless escorted by a near male relation.—Mayfield Monitor.

We gather from the above item that these putrid sores, these soot doves of hell, are by the same ordinance permitted to ply their hellish practice of pimping only by the light of day. In other words they are forced to come out upon the streets at the same hour decent women are shopping. Why a town the size of Mayfield must submit to the outrage of being infested by this character of women, either by night or by day, is a puzzle to us. In the large cities of our country the question of how to reduce this evil to a minimum, and the corralling of these characters in well-defined quarters, is a demanding serious thought. But Mayfield, beautiful and progressive little city, legislating for protection against such, when a few cow-hides in the hands of outraged and indignant, decent citizens could rid that town of such putrefaction in a few hours time.

Hazel R. F. D. 1.

We are enjoying the spring like weather, though the cold snap just past did some damage.

Gardening is in full blast.

The recent frost killed some tobacco plants. Fruit is also damaged.

A FEW LETTERS

His young woman with the heavy brows and finely compressed lips sat in front of her desk staring at the photograph of a good-looking young man. It was in a gold frame and stood up before her. She bit the end of her pen fiercely every now and then suddenly she made a dash at the inkwell and stabbed the sheet of pale-blue letter paper before her with a blurred capital. Then she wrote rapidly:

"My Dear Mr. Ferguson: After the occurrence of last evening, which so effectually opened my eyes to your true character and the instability of your affections, it is almost unnecessary for me to take the trouble to tell you that everything is over between us. You, of course, will have realized that before this letter reaches you. There will be not the slightest use in your begging to be forgiven, because when a person once deceives me my confidence is killed. So completely has my fancy that I ever cared for you been blotted out that I remember with scorn and pity the foolish girl who thought you were her ideal man. I am almost moved to thank you for revealing yourself to me and saving me a lifetime of misery."

"I wish you much happiness in your second choice, Miss Gaylord. She is certainly more your type of a girl than I am. Many persons call her loud and vulgar, but they probably have not your discriminating understanding of her."

"A package of the trides which you have bestowed on me, including an engagement ring, will reach you shortly. Truly yours,

"ISABEL M'WHATTON."

She read it over triumphantly, considered a while and then read it again. Then she frowned. She read it a third time. Then she looked at the picture. Then she tore the letter in two slowly and began again to write:

"Dear Mr. Ferguson: The little incident of last evening, which in itself was nothing, supplied the finishing touch which decided a question that has troubled me for some time. I feel that I do not care enough for you to marry you. Myriah's experience has taught me where my heart lies. I am relieved in telling you this to feel that it will not be a blow to you, as, no doubt, your consolation even now is in your mind. With best wishes, sincerely yours,

"ISABEL M'WHATTON."

She studied in a satisfied way. That phrase about experience teaching me where my heart lies is really clever," she murmured. "He will think that I mean Clifford Gray. He was always jealous of Clifford."

She stared at the photograph and the letter faded. A gleam flashed into her eyes. "I'd like to show her mine," she said, under her breath. "She has tried to get him away from me over and over."

She laid the letter aside and began another. "No doubt she simply made him do it," she murmured. "But that doesn't excuse him at all." She wrote:

"Dear Mr. Ferguson: I am glad to find that you have enough good sense not to approach me since an accident caused me to witness the little scene in the law's conservatory. I fancy you have some explanation as to why you kissed Gladys Gaylord, but I would not be interested in hearing it. I prefer the very obvious explanation that you did it because you wanted to. She is perfectly horrid and boasts of her flirtations with engaged men, but I suppose that makes no difference to you. You are probably proud of being numbered among her victims."

"You needn't tell me you weren't kissing her. If you were not at the instant I saw you, at least you had done so just before that, because there was no other reason for your face being so close to hers. In justice to you, I will listen to any explanation you care to offer, though I warn you that it will make no difference in my resolution to have nothing more to do with you. Sincerely,

"I. M. H."

For a long time she stared at the photograph. It returned her gaze candidly. She reread the last two letters. Then she bit the pen and thought deeply. Finally she took up a fresh sheet and wrote:

"Dear George: If you have an explanation to make, you may do so. Please write instead of coming to see me. Needless to say, I am very much amazed and hurt."

A tear dropped on the paper and blotted it. Alone tears failed her, but I suppose that makes no difference to you. You are probably proud of being numbered among her victims."

To All the Women Who Suffer Per-na Is Earnestly Commended

Mrs. Geo. C. Worstell, 11 River Road, Clarksburg, W. Va., writes:

"I trust that no one will think from this that I want my name in public for any cause only to let sufferers know where they may find relief from many ailments."

"I can truly say I have been much benefited by the use of Per-na. I feel better than I have for two years. It is the best medicine that I know for pelvic troubles."

"I have taken medicine from the doctors and found no relief; but when I began taking Per-na I could see that before I had finished taking the first bottle it was doing me good."

Cold Developed into Catarrh.

Mrs. N. P. Lawler, 424 N. Broadway, Pittsburg, Kas., writes:

"Per-na is a sovereign remedy for catarrh. Last spring I caught a severe cold which developed into a serious case of catarrh. I felt weak and sick and could neither eat nor sleep well."

"A friend who had been cured of catarrh through the use of Per-na advised me to try it and I did so at once. I expected help, but nothing like the wonderful change for the better I observed almost as soon as I started taking it."

"In three days I felt much better and within a week I was well. I continued taking the entire bottle and within two weeks I was in fine health. Per-na is a wonderful medicine."

Catarrh of the Bowels.

Mrs. Maggie Durbin, 142 North St., Little Rock, Ark., writes:

"I was troubled for five years with a chronic disease. I tried everything I heard of, but nothing did me any good. Some doctors said my trouble was catarrh of the bowels, and some said consumption of the bowels. One doctor said he could cure me; I took his medicine two months, but it did me no good."

"A friend of mine advised me to try Per-na and I did so. After I had taken two bottles I found it was helping me, so I continued its use, and it has cured me sound and well."

"If anyone wants to know what Per-na did for me if they will write to me I will answer promptly."

Pains in the Side.

Mrs. Julia Braxton, Apollo, Pa., writes:

"Per-na has cured me of heart trouble and pains in the side."

"A year ago I was expected to die at any time, and the doctor was sometimes called at two o'clock in the morning. But I am thankful to say that I do not now have to send for a doctor now."

"Since I have used your Per-na as you advised me, I am well and able to do all my household work."

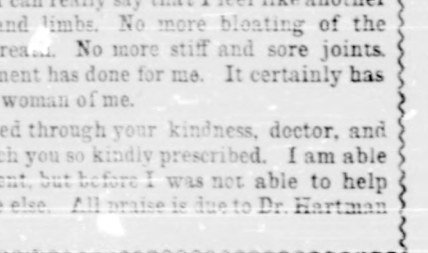

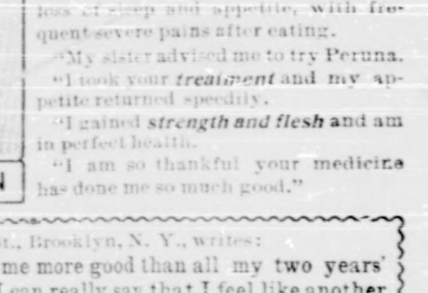

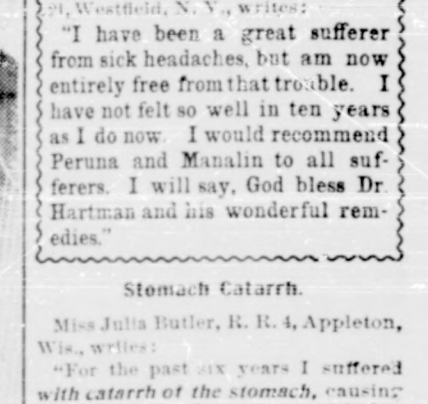

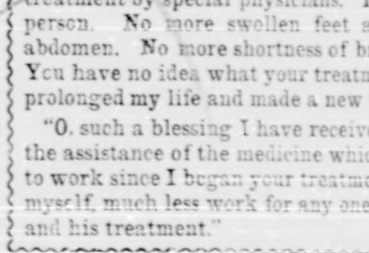

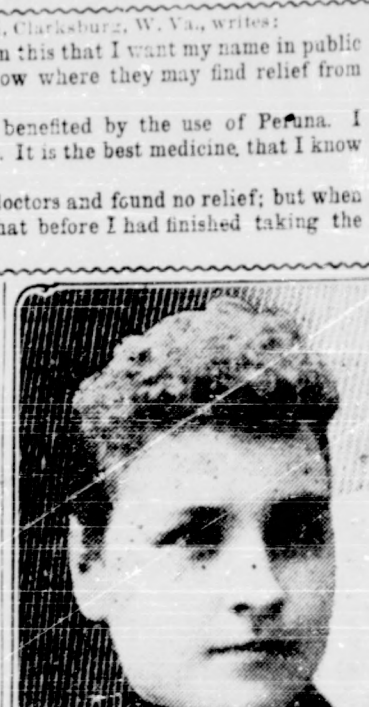

"I have all the faith in the world in Per-na as it cured me and I know that it will cure others."

"I cannot praise Per-na enough for what it has done for me."

Stomach Trouble.

Miss Anna Carsten, Clayton, Ill., writes:

"Your Per-na did me so much good. I am feeling so well now and have no trouble with my stomach."

GROUND-HOG CHILLED PLOW Has Come To Stay.

WELL, WELL, this "GROUND HOG" has come out and has lain in the shade all other plows that has ever been made, it is the STRONGEST Chilled Plow on the market today. Are you looking for the best? Our forefathers used the old wooden mould-board, and called it a dandy, and it was good for that day and time, but in this age of progress and enlightenment we are all looking for something better, not only something better but the best, and now in offering you the

we can show you improvements that are unknown to any other plow on the market. Upon investigation you will find that the interlocking device and the circular ribs on the mould-board double its strength. The frog where the point is bolted on has double the strength of any other. Also the land-side has no long sharp point to break off. Now with all these strong points we offer you a plow that is far superior to any yet introduced. Look at this plow before you buy, it is fully guaranteed.

Come In And See This Plow, You Will Buy One.

Also we carry a Good Stock of most all kinds of Plow Repairs.

To find out for a certainty whether or not your heart is affected. One person in four has a weak heart; it may be you. If so, you should know it now, and save serious consequences. If you have short breath, fluttering, palpitation, hungry spells, hot flashes; if you cannot lie on left side; if you have fainting or smothering spells, pain around heart, in side and arms, your heart is weak, and perhaps diseased. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure will relieve you. Try a bottle, and see how quickly your condition will improve.

"About a year ago I wrote to the Miles Medical Co. asking advice, as I was suffering with heart trouble and had been for two years. I had pain in my heart, back and left side, and had not been able to draw a deep breath for two years. Any little exertion would cause palpitation, and I could not lie on my left side without suffering. They advised me to try Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine, which I did with the result that I am in better health than I ever was before, having gained 14 pounds since I commenced taking it. I took about thirty-two bottles of the two medicines and haven't been bothered with my heart since." MISS LILLIAN J. THOMAS, Upper Sandusky, Ohio.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails to will refund your money.

DISASTROUS SHOWING OFF.

Oreille Wright was talking with a newspaper correspondent in Washington.

"A hundred times," said Mr. Wright, "I have explained why my brother and I refuse to give a public exhibition of flying, but still reproaches continue to fall on us."

"After all, what good would an exhibition do? We would just show off a little and afterward, 10 to 1, some of our secrets would be stolen from us."

He smiled and said:

"You know the story of the amateur conjurer? At dinner in a hotel one night he leaned forward and, very proud of his skill, said to the man opposite him:

"Excuse me—there is something there."

"And separating the leaves of the man's salad he disclosed a diamond ring."

"Dear, dear, how careless!" the man exclaimed. "I am always leaving things about like that."

"And he took the ring up and handed it over his shoulder to the waitress."

"A little present for you," he said.

"Our showing off," Mr. Wright ended, "would have, I'm sure, some such result as that."

TRUE.

"I was surprised to learn that young DeBinger was so much in debt. He was such a general favorite."

"That's the trouble. There's lots of money lost on favorites."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

TRYING TO PLEASE.

"At last my picture, 'Day,' is finished."

"Here is my latest creation, called 'Day.'"

"Very good! But there ought to be some resting point for the eye. You ought to make the hair black. It would be much more effective!"

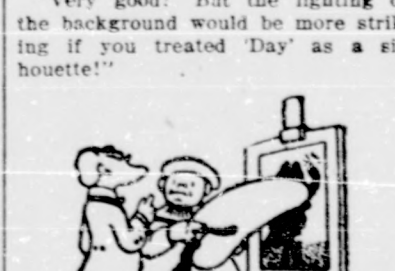

"My latest creation, called 'Day.'"

"Very good! But the single dash of black disturbs me! You ought to give the lady some black stockings. That would be quite original!"

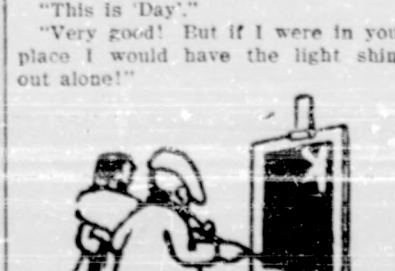

"My latest, 'Day.'"

"Very good! But the lighting of the background would be more striking if you treated 'Day' as a silhouette!"

"This is 'Day.'"

"Very good! But if I were in your place I would have the light shine out alone!"

"Day!"

"Nonsense! Call the picture 'Night,' and probably you can sell it!"

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because it is so insidious. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidneys themselves break down and waste away, and the blood is poisoned. Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys, and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make a mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. It corrects inability to hold urine and seething pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery sent you free of charge. Just fill out this coupon and mail it to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

An important conference was held at the White House last week at which a plan was outlined for the Federal control of the railroads of the country to be presented to the next Congress. A number of manufacturers also called on the President and asked him to make an address at the earliest possible moment which would serve to allay the uneasiness in commercial circles over the present situation.

Doing Business Again.

"When my friends thought I was about to take leave of this world, on account of indigestion, nervousness and general debility," writes A. A. Christolm, Treadwell, N. Y., "and when it looked as if there was no hope left, I was persuaded to try Electric Bitters, and I rejoice to say that they are curing me. I am now doing business again as of old, and am still gaining daily." Best of all tonic medicines. Guaranteed by H. D. Thornton & Co., druggists, 30c.

THE SINGER

No doubt she had sung the song many times before, but Sheldon had never noticed it.

This evening the other man who shared his bachelor apartment were out. It was raining. His cigar had proved unsatisfactory and he had nothing to read that interested him. This combination of circumstances was quite sufficient to make any man blue, especially a man who was 30 and domestic by nature, but who had never had time to think about arranging for congenial home society. Through the poorly deadened wall came the muffled notes of a piano and a voice, richly, poignantly sweet, singing a foolish, old-fashioned love song with a haunting melody.

Sheldon's cigar burned his fingers before he realized that he had been sitting staring into the gas grate for a long time and—that was worse—thinking about the girl who used to sing that very song. He had been 22 and very much in love.

He was annoyed now to find that the singer in the next apartment had stopped.

After that night he listened for her. She sang many other things, but he always waited for the one song. Sometimes he got it and sometimes he didn't. On the latter occasions he felt vaguely hurt. This concentration of thought naturally led to one result—his interest in the song grew till it included the singer.

He could not find out who she was. Nobody appeared to know the tenants of that flat. This, of course, led to Sheldon's visualizing her. It was quite easy to tell what a woman looked like who had a voice like that—tender, deep and emotional. She was of medium height and slender and she had eyes that were dark and expressive. He concluded that her complexion was clear white without any color and he was certain that her mouth was beautifully curved and feminine. He hated the straight-line mouth which the majority of women to-day possess.

He was stubbornly positive that she was unmarried. He told himself that it was intuition. There was something about her voice that spoke of the hopes and visions and illusions of youth. Not that she was too young—Sheldon said it was a woman's voice, not a frivolous, unending girl's. Possibly she was 20. She had lived and no doubt had suffered, otherwise she could not sing with such feeling. She was the sort of woman who could sympathize and encourage and cheer—oh, Sheldon had it very bad by this time.

The two men who shared his quarters with him, being unenlightened, suggested three different treatments for liver complaint and said privately to each other that Sheldon was certainly getting cranky and beginning to show his years. They themselves were brisk youngsters of 25 and 26 respectively.

Sheldon had reached the point where he was chronically sorry for himself. He sentimentalized over wasted years—years died away, when he might have been a happy man with a home of his own. Yet, he assured himself, he was still young, for a man. Lots of men did not marry till they were 40. He took to staying at home more than ever, which was foolish, for the partition still stood between him and the next one. Whenever his special song came floating through to him he had the feeling that she knew he was sitting listening and looking at her—his vision of her. When at last he should meet her he felt they would really be very well acquainted. She certainly must feel his absorbing interest in her if there was anything in thought transference, for all delicately attuned women such as she had somewhat of the mystic in them. He doggedly set out to find somebody who knew her. He could scarcely believe his unshared luck when Hathlets, who had dropped in to ask him to go to the club for billiards and whom he had refused to accompany on the trumped-up excuse of a headache, said he had to stop and see a man on business.

"Lives right next to you, by the way," Hathlets mentioned. "Sanford Strong—know him?"

Sheldon was getting into his coat and wildly scrambling for his hat. "I believe I will go with you after all," he said in a voice that actually shook with excitement. "It may do my head good."

He did not talk much as they sought the Strong's flat and he barely acknowledged introductions, so intent was he in gazing with all his eyes at the back of the singer at the piano in the next room. A moment later she became aware of their presence, rose and turned toward them.

She had thin, sandy hair, a protruding jaw and wore spectacles and her waist measure was 29. She regarded him with grim dislike. It was a dislike, on general principles, of all masculine kind.

"My daughter," Sanford Strong was saying. Presently Sheldon found himself walking down the street again with Hathlets beside him. He piated his feet somewhat unsteadily.

"Don't you feel well?" asked Hathlets. "I noticed in there that you looked pale. How is your head?"

"Oh," groaned Sheldon, "this time with absolute and heartrending sincerity. 'I have an awful headache.'"—Chicago Daily News.

Our Girls With Voices.

Numerous ambitious girls throughout the country will be alternately chilled and thrilled by an article on studying singing in New York which appears in the May number of the New Idea Woman's Magazine. The writer plainly states that in the artistic metropolis of our country the profession of voice teacher is "beset by conscienceless mountebanks," quotes the opinion of Director Hinrichs of the Metropolitan School of Opera that "ex-stars make the poorest teacher. They have a natural gift of song. They don't know how they sing. Having no method, how can they teach one?" and affirms that to get really to the top of the singing world "a European debut is essential." All this is disheartening to the girl with a voice to train, but there is another side to the story. This tells of a school of opera in connection with the leading New York opera house itself, the pupils of which are given admission to all the operas, the promising ones even being allowed to "tread the boards, as members of the chorus, as flower girls in Parsifal and even in small parts." Note is made of "Madame Rappold, the Brooklyn nightingale, who burst into fame" without the European debut, and for the girl not dramatically inclined, of the excellent fields for voices in concert, oratorio and church work.

Manners at the Table.

Behavior at the table is a trustworthy test of early home training or the neglect of it. If one has been brought up to have careful manners at home one has them unconsciously elsewhere. All the little details of good breeding are then as familiar as the alphabet to one who has been taught that attention to small things is always the effort of intelligent minds toward success. This applies to culture as much as to work, or the study and practice of any accomplishment.

Parents cannot be too careful in teaching their children all the small details which help to form refinement of character. Children who are left too much to others are sure to acquire bad habits, for children are very quick to observe and to imitate those with whom they associate. Mothers who are really interested in the welfare of their children are very watchful over them, correcting their faults gently but firmly, and not excusing bad manners on the plea of childish ignorance, or that these faults may be overlooked now, as children will outgrow them in time. Careless faults soon become fixed habits which are difficult to eradicate, because they are followed almost mechanically, and in later life these habits may stamp the possessor as unrefined and may prove a very serious bar to social success. Manners, refinement, rules of good-breeding are much discussed in these days, and we judge people severely by the breach of traditional laws, and choose our society and even our friends by the touchstone of courtesy.—From "The Observances of Society," in the Ladies World for April.

Masked Night Riders.

Princeton, Ky., March 30.—News was brought in here this morning by a rural mail carrier of another outrage of the night riders, as the result of which tobacco and other property valued at several thousand dollars was destroyed near Lamasco, on the Lyon county line.

Night before last, about twenty-five or thirty masked men went to the home of Tom Reddick, near here, and forced him to go to his barn and point out the tobacco therein belonging to Mr. Wallace, one of the most prominent independent tobacco men in that district. The raiders then put oil on the tobacco and burned it. From Reddick's place they went to Wallace's farm, where they destroyed his barn filled with tobacco.

Wallace had refused to join the tobacco growers' association and had frequently received warning that unless he entered the organization he would be roughly handled.

The people are greatly wrought up here over the news of the latest outrage and a vigilance committee is being talked of, as the officials appear to be powerless to prevent the violence from which the non-association planters in this neighborhood have been suffering for some time past.

Arrested for Burning Barn.

A large barn, belonging to Mr. Walker Redd, was destroyed by fire near Linton last Friday night about dark. The barn contained a lot of hay and corn and a large amount of all kinds of farming machinery, and his loss is estimated, including the barn, at about $1,000, with no insurance.

G. W. McCoy, a neighbor of Mr. Redd, was arrested Sunday upon a warrant taken out by the commonwealth charging him with setting fire to the barn. His examining trial was held here yesterday, and he was held under a $100 bond to appear before the grand jury. He gave bond. The evidence against him is circumstantial, and he maintains his innocence.—Cadiz Record.

The body of Houston Wells, who died in Atlanta, Ga., 25 ult., arrived in Murray last Thursday and was buried in the City Cemetery Friday morning. The particulars of Mr. Wells' last illness are about as follows: He had been suffering with chills for a short time and soon recovered. For weeks following this sickness he gained in flesh at the rate of about ten pounds per week. This alarmed his physicians and he was bled, from which he was apparently much improved for two or three weeks. While walking down a street in Atlanta in company with a gentleman he was suddenly stricken down and expired within a few hours.

HOME-MADE CATARRH CURE.

Any one can mix right at home the best remedy of its kind known. The name "Cyclone" is given to the following prescription. It is supposed, because of its promptness in driving from the blood and system every vestige of catarrhal poison, relieving this foul and dread disease, no matter where located. To prepare the mixture: Get from any good pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon and three ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Shake well and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

This is a harmless, inexpensive mixture, which has a peculiar action upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys, assisting them to filter and strain from the blood and system all catarrhal poisons, which, if not eradicated, are absorbed by the mucous membrane, and an open sore or catarrh is the result. Prepare some and try it, as it is the prescription of an eminent catarrhal specialist of national reputation.
