"WHAT MONEY WILL NOT BUY"

Subject of President W. O. Shankle's Talk
At the Next Meeting of the Chamber of Commerce

The next meeting of the Chamber of Commerce should be of intense interest to every member in attendance. President W. O. Shankle announced at the recent banquet that he would tell us "What Money Wouldn't Buy."

The subject of money is always interesting.

Money is a medium of exchange which passes from hand to hand and evaporates faster than high-test gasoline in a six-lunger motor car. Although money is made of a hard, metallic substance, it cannot be held in front of spring pattern hat or a new type of puncture-proof tire without evaporating from the human hand with sickening celerity. If some way could be devised to prevent money from jumping out of an alligator purse and leaving the owner with nothing but taxi fare, the average husband would not object to his wife attending the bargain sales six days a week.

Money was invented immediately following the stone age, and nobody ever had enough of it since. There was more happiness before we had money lying around in irresponsible hands than there is now. During the stone age it was not necessary to make last wills and testaments, for there was nothing to will anybody except love and affection and a flint hatchet. Wealth in the stone age consisted of children and long-haired sheep and there were no merchants whose temples were adorned with gray hair because of the size of their book accounts. The human pest who is always borrowing $2 and forgetting the street address of the lender was not with us, and the depressing accents of the monthly statement were hushed and still. Those were happy days.

The Bible describes the love of money as the root of all evil, but man continues to root for the root with his back bowed like a circular saw. As a rule, men make money and women spend it, which is entirely proper, for man is the grub and his wife the butterfly. If an arrangement can be made whereby the wife does not spend the money before it is made, the result is a happy home, unmarred by wordy conflicts, due bills or chattel mortgages.

Money is a convenient thing to have, but it can't take the place of a tractable stomach, or an easy mind. It will purchase almost every luxury in the world except honest affection, loyal friendship and the kind of health which doesn't have to be bolstered up with patent medicine and electric belts. The closer a man gets to eternity, the less he thinks about money, but if he has spent a little along the road to help a needy brother, he will rest easier in his narrow bed.

UP-TO-DATE HOSPITAL FOR FULTON

One of the most urgent of the matters to be considered by the new officers of the Chamber of Commerce for the ensuing year will be the procuring of a hospital for Fulton, and the appointment of Rev. C. H. Warren, as chairman of that committee augurs well for its becoming a success.

It is practically impossible to ascertain the exact number of Fulton people that have gone to hospitals during the past year, but undoubtedly a reference to the files of the papers covering that time would show that there had been a sufficient number to make a hospital in Fulton a paying institution. Also there are undoubtedly many cases that have been treated at home because of the inability of the families of the sufferers to meet the expense of sending the patient away from town to a hospital.

Should such an institution be located here it is certain that a large number of patients would be obtained from families that belong to the above class. Also, many persons who are now treated at home, particularly on the farms, would be brought to town where they could have proper treatment and at the same time allow the families to visit the patient and avoid the expense of railway fares, hotel bills and other minor expenditures that would be inevitable should the patient be sent out of town.

Almost every citizen of Fulton knows of one or more cases where their friends have gone to Paducah, Mayfield, Memphis or other places for treatment, that have never been mentioned in the Fulton papers. It is to be hoped that the hospital committee of the Chamber of Commerce will make the stock in the proposition sufficiently low in price as to allow the very greatest number of the people of Fulton and vicinity to become stockholders thus adding very materially to the potential users of the institution.

That Fulton can and will support heartily a properly equipped and managed hospital is beyond doubt, and the help and good will of every person interested in the future of the city should be enlisted in this good work.

LIONS CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

At a recent meeting of the Lions Club in which the election of officers for the ensuing year was held, two directors of the Chamber of Commerce were among the number elected.

Vodie Hardin, president; George Roberts, vice-president; Ben Evans, second vice-president; Harvyl Boaz, third vice-president; Smith Atkins, secretary; Dudley Smith, treasurer; Heber Finch, tail twister; Philip Warren, lion tamer.

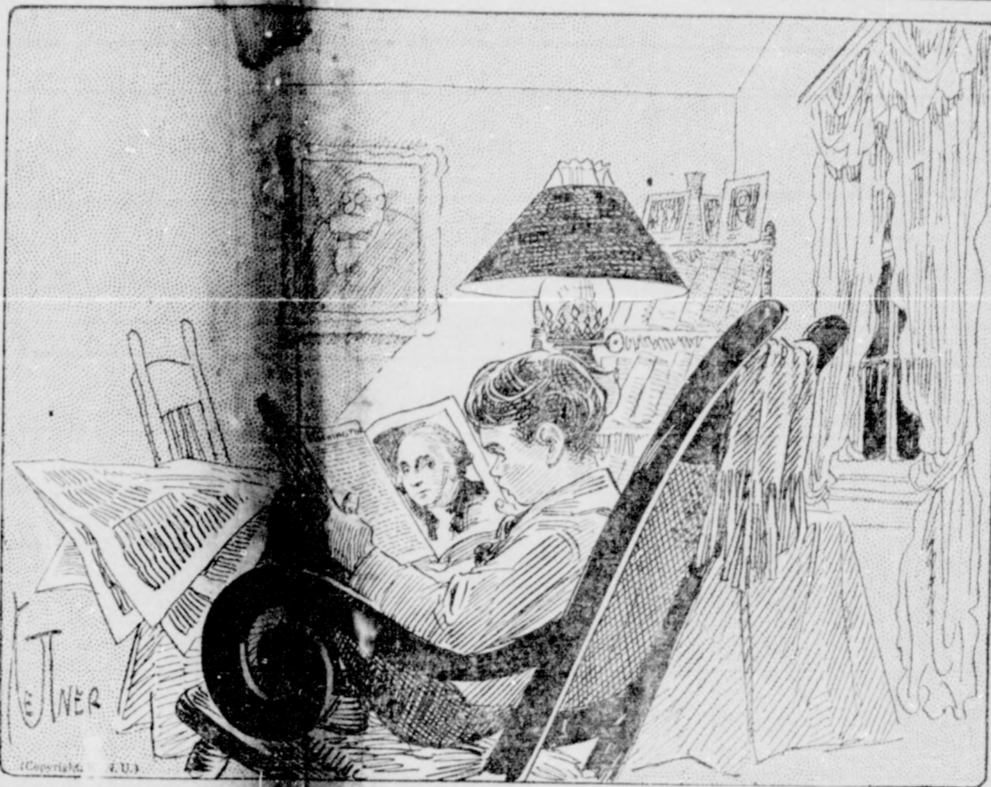

The outgoing officers turned over the affairs of the club to the new officers in splendid condition with many achievements to their credit.

Perhaps no organization in the city has a better set of officials than the Lions Club—men who have high ideals for the advancement and betterment of Fulton—men who will be found in the front rank of every good movement—men who will cooperate with the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary and Woman's Club in putting big things over—men who are workers in a live wire organization and men who are leaders and stand at the top notch of community building. Men of whom Fulton are proud.

SID S. SCOTT

Well Known Printer and Newspaper Man Passes Away; Result of Paralysis

Friday morning, Feb. 13, at the home of his sister, Mrs. Lillian Martin, in Normal, Tenn., Sidney S. Scott, well known citizen of Fulton, passed away. Death was due to a stroke of paralysis he suffered some days before leaving Fulton for Normal.

Mr. Scott was a man of excellent habits and fine moral character, and continued to be active in his accustomed pursuits till he was stricken down. He met most of the conditions and situations of life with a joke. He had a sunny disposition, and was a practical, matter-of-fact man, but had his own peculiar way of extracting merriment from life as it went along, and was not disposed to worry about matters that could be bettered in other ways. The people of Fulton will miss him in his daily rounds. He had a large circle of friends and was liked by all who knew him. His best monument will be the good report that he left behind him in the community he has lived for many years.

The deceased is survived by his sister, Mrs. Martin of Normal, Tenn., and two brothers, Jas. Scott, of Ridgeley, Tenn., and Lucian Scott, of Pueblo, Colo.

J. T. WILLEY BUYS INTEREST IN BARBER SHOP

J. T. Willey, the well known barber, has purchased half interest in the J. E. Hannephin Lake street barber shop. Mr. Willey is classed as a first class tonsorial artist. He is not a stranger in Fulton. For the past eleven years he has worked at the trade in this city. For the past four years he has been employed at the first chair in Mr. Hannephin's shop.

The shop maintains five chairs and several baths. Ladies find this shop a pleasant place to visit when wanting their hair bobbed in the very latest style. The premises are neat and sanitary. All fixtures and appliances are of the very latest models. At this shop courteous treatment and every attention are given patrons to make their visits pleasant.

The firm is new only in name—Hannephin & Willey. This is one of the oldest shops in Fulton and enjoys a nice business.

APPRECIATE THE ADVERTISER IN CHINA

Monday we received a card from H. L. Carter, brother-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hannephin, who is manager of the China Baptist Publication Society's Publishing House, at Canton, China. In part, Mr. Carter writes: "I just want to congratulate you on the good sheet you are giving Fulton. May The Advertiser live long and prosper."

We have received many words of encouragement and best wishes for our success in newspaper work, but none that we appreciate more than from H. L. Carter in far away China.

After completing his schooling at Union University in Jackson, Tenn., for the ministry, he was sent to China to take charge of the Baptist Publication Society's Publishing House at Canton. This is one of the largest foreign publication houses the Baptists control. It is an important position, and we congratulate the Baptists in securing Mr. Carter's services as he is not only endowed with a ministerial education, but understands the printing and publication business from A to Z.

Among the Christmas gifts sent to Mr. and Mrs. Carter in China by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hannephin, was a year's subscription to The Advertiser.

Carr Institute Notes

Examinations are over and we are all glad, especially pupils who have worked gently and have been rewarded by the knowledge thus gained which is shown by good marks on their report cards. Report cards should be examined fully by parents, and all below C should be investigated.

An examination properly graded and graded is always worth while. It not only shows how the child ranks in his class, but serves as a review which he will not so easily forget, since it forces him to think and concentrate on a question and then write the results.

Miss Rooker has been out on account of the illness of her mother. We hope it is not serious and she may be back with us soon. Miss Madge Taylor, the substitute teacher for the grades, is teaching her class. This is Miss Taylor's first year in this work and she does exceedingly well.

Miss Horan, the primary teacher, and Miss Davidson, one of the sixth grade teachers, who came in at the beginning of the second semester, are both doing very fine work and have gained much popularity among teachers and pupils as well as parents. We hope that they will enjoy their work in the Fulton schools.

We have been having some very interesting chapel programs. These programs are composed of readings, songs, jokes, piano solos by the pupils, and talks by members of the faculty, the ministers of the town, and business and professional men. Some of our most interesting speakers have been Bro. Warren, Mr. A. M. Nugent, Rev. Sowell, Mr. Joe Davis, Dr. Boyd, Mr. John Culver, Dr. Hughes, Mr. J. C. Cheek, and Chief Roberts, of the fire department. These men always make worthwhile talks, and we invite the public to our exercises which are at 8:30 every morning.

DR. M. E. DODD TO HOLD REVIVAL MEETING AT JACKSON, TENN.

It has been announced that the Rev. M. E. Dodd, pastor of the First Baptist church, of Shreveport, La., and former Fulton pastor will engage in a series of meetings at Jackson, Tenn., in the spring. No doubt many will attend the services from Fulton as he has many friends and admirers in this city. He was in a glorious meeting here last year.

WE TIP OUR HAT TO THE BOY SCOUTS

Boy Scout week and the display of the many evidences in the shop windows of the stores in Fulton last week brought to the mind of the writer a story told him last winter of the activities of two scouts, by Scoutmaster Hughes.

In the neighborhood where these boys live there was an elderly couple who were not any too well provided with this world's goods, and when the elderly wife became seriously ill, it took about all the time of the husband to wait on her and see that medicine was given at the proper times.

This prevented the man from being able to run the necessary errands, bring in water and coal, split the kindling and attend to the numerous chores that must be done. Then, too, his advanced age made it hard for him to get about as rapidly as he should.

In his quandary, a small boy appeared and was asked if he could not help do some of the many chores, and the boy promptly replied that he could, and would, and so far about two weeks, he, with the assistance of another scout living in the neighborhood, attended to all the little errands, chores and so forth, making things much easier for the two old people.

After the wife had recovered sufficiently to allow the husband to do things for himself, he called the boys and asked what he owed them for their work, and was astonished to receive the reply that "We are Boy Scouts and are not allowed to receive money for aiding people or doing good to our fellowmen."

The writer often wonders if the people of Fulton fully realize what the Boy Scouts stand for in a community, and if, when they pass one on the streets, let their hearts go out to them in the feeling that "there goes one of our coming citizens who is being trained to do the work of the community in an earnest and competent manner."

Every citizen of Fulton, and in fact, the country at large, should, at least mentally, take off their hats to the Scout uniform, and speak pleasantly and encouragingly to every wearer of it. Boys like to be noticed, particularly when they are doing something worth while.

W. C. T. U.

W. C. T. U. held its regular meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Stockdale on Norman street.

Announcement

To the Voters of Fulton County:

I have, this week, formally announced as a candidate for the office of County Court Clerk, of Fulton county, subject to the action of the Democratic primary election to be held August 1.

Before doing this, I have given due regard to the duties and responsibilities of the office and fully realize that I am asking the voters to entrust to my care a very responsible position. Notwithstanding the fact that the place I ask is one never yet, in this county, entrusted to a woman, with the amount of experience I have had in the courthouse and with county records, I feel that I am qualified and that I thoroughly understand the duties that would be incumbent upon me. For eight years I was deputy circuit court clerk under Mr. J. W. Morris and for nearly two years under Mr. W. L. Hampton, the present clerk. I have, since that time, been abstracting titles of land, which has kept me constantly in touch with the county clerk's office in the examination of records and one would need thus to deal with the records to realize the responsibility of writing and recording deeds, mortgages, etc. This must be done with accuracy or it will very likely cause irreparable damage. I promise, if elected, to give my undivided attention to the office and to do my very best to make a good clerk for the county and I also promise that no instrument shall leave the office, when left there for record, until it has first been compared with the record to be certain that no error has been made in recording it exactly as it was written. Every one owning real estate will at once realize the importance of this. I expect to do this for my own satisfaction, for it is not required by law, because I want my work to be done accurately and right.

I have lived in Fulton county practically all my life and believe I am known by a majority of the citizens of the county. I believe, therefore, that I do not need to go into detail to tell you my qualifications. I shall appreciate every good word spoken in my behalf and every vote cast for me and I believe if I am elected to this office, your faith will not be misplaced.

IF I ONLY HAD CAPITAL

The above words were recently uttered in our hearing by a worthy boy and undoubtedly they are often reiterated by many who have no employment, or have little or nothing to do. To all such we say, you have home capital, you have hands, feet, bone, muscle, health and are not these capital?
What more capital has God given anybody? "But if I only had a few thousands in cash capital," says the young man. But these are better than cash capital, for no one can take them from you, and with these you can earn cash.

Our men of wealth and influence did not start with any cash capital. They went to work with their plow, the hoe, the jack plane or ax, and in time their capital brought them a rich harvest. Ah! but there's a rub; you don't want to work.
You want money on credit so you can play the gentleman, speculate and end your career by playing vagabond. You want to marry a rich girl who will support you, while you wear fine clothes, smoke cigars and be a gentleman of leisure.

Shame on you, young man!
Go to work with the capital you have and you will soon make interest enough upon it to give you as much money as you need. If you cannot make money upon what capital you have, you could not if you had a larger amount in cash. If you waste your present capital you would waste money if you had it. So don't stand around, a great helpless fellow, waiting for something to turn up, but go to work. Take the first work you can get to do and do it well. Always do your best, and if you manage your capital that God has given you, well, you will soon have plenty more to manage.

The world will be happier if people were a little more generous with their praise. There is too much flattery but a word of just appreciation would cheer the heart and strengthen the hands of many a discouraged worker in the home, in the school, in the church, and in the world.

CRASH OF FRANC
ALARMS FRANCE

HERRIOT APPEALS TO COUNTRY
TO HOLD STEADY

IS AGAINST INFLATION

France Faced With Crisis When It Becomes Necessary to Raise Thirty-four Billion Francs To Balance the Budget

Paris—The shadow of the fall of the franc across the darkening financial horizon of France hung heavily over the budget debate in the Chamber of Deputies. M. Violette, reporter for the financial commission of the Chamber; Finance Minister Clementel and Premier Herriot, however, all spoke words of optimism in an effort to dispel the fast gathering clouds and the figures of the unprecedented amount of 34,200,000,000 francs which must be found to balance the 1925 budget, also were eloquent.

The chamber was stirred when Premier Herriot said:
"I appeal once more to the sacred union of all Frenchmen, regardless of party politics, for the defense of our national currency."

In introducing the finance bill, as the revenue side of the budget is called, Deputy Violette served notice that 3,000,000,000 francs—an increase of nearly 6,500,000,000 francs over last year's expenditures—was the extreme limit the country could stand. As a matter of fact, he said, instead of applying new taxes, Parliament must decrease the taxpayers' burden and a great consolidation loan must be float.

"Under no circumstances," the report declared, "must France look to inflation as a remedy."

The exodus of capital abroad was given by M. Violette as the cause of the "lack of confidence crisis" and the consequent depreciation of the anc.

"Frenchmen who send their capital abroad," he asserted emphatically, are guilty of theft toward those countrymen who maintain theirs in France or have nothing to send away.
The exodus of capital must be stopped at all costs."

Asking the government to pledge it self not to resort to inflation, he concluded: "The entire world must know France is unwilling to resort to inflation or a capital levy."

All work for the redemption of the franc on the foreign exchange market."

M. Clementel explained that for the past six months the franc, as regards the dollar, had not changed. He said it must be considered that sterling had nearly resumed its par value, and thus the franc had been unfavorably impressed, but that so far as the dollar was concerned, it had held its own.

M. Bokanowski, budget reporter under the Poincare government, interjected that if the 1925 budget was balanced, it would be due to the efforts of the former government in pushing through additional tax amounting to six billion francs.

The remarks of Premier Herriot took the form of an appeal.

"Nothing must be said here," he urged, "which might increase the grave financial difficulties the country is encountering. It is bad policy to repeat everywhere and at all times that the country is suffering from a lack of confidence crisis. At the present hour, when the fate of the country is at stake, our debate here must remain above party politics."

Our financial policy has been safe and sane. I ask you all to join me in a patriotic appeal which I address to all Frenchmen to save the franc."

ENEMIES OF SHOALS
BILL PLANNING FIGHT

Washington—A point of order against the conference report on the Underwood Muscle Shoals leasing bill will be relied upon by opponents of the measure to kill the legislation. Several clauses of the report will be attacked on the ground that it is new legislation and that the conference exceeded their authority.
Supporters of the measure will refute the charges but if the point of order is sustained and the report is ordered back to conference, they are prepared to bring it out promptly with the disputed clauses deleted.

This would place the measure again before the Senate and its advocates contend sufficient time would remain for final action by both the Senate and House at this session.

Since House leaders claim that body is ready to adopt the report after only one day's deliberation,

Descendant of Washington Line Dwells in This Austrian Castle

The castle of George Baron von Washington, of Austria, the descendant of the Washington line and the bearer of the same name as his illustrious American relative.

Washington

Through seven slow years of unadorned war. Equal when fields were lost or held were won. With breath of popular applause or blame. Nor fanned nor damped, unquenchably the same. Too inward to be reached by flaws of idle fame.

Soldier and statesman, rarest union; High-poled example of great duties done. Simply as breathing, a world's honors worn. As life's indifferent gifts to all men born.

Dumb for himself, unless it were to God. But for his barefoot soldiers eloquent. Tramping the snow to coral where held by his awe in hollow-eyed content.

Modest, yet firm as Nature's self; unblinded Save by the men his nobler inner shamed. Not honored then or now like he be wooed.

The popular voice, but that still withheld. Broad-minded, higher-souled these is but one Who was all this, and ours and all WASHINGTON!

—James Russell Lowell

Old Chronicle Tells

Washington a Fireman

George Washington was once a fireman, says the Detroit News. At least he presented the volunteer company of Alexandria, Va., with a fire engine. M. B. Levick, writing in St. Nicholas, describes this incident in the life of the father of our country as follows:

"Washington presented the engine in 1775 to the Friendship fire company. That was almost a hundred years before there were paid firemen. In those days the fire fighting was done by volunteers, who belonged to different companies. Just as it is today in small towns. When a fire was discovered a big bell was rung and at the signal the members of the volunteer company came running from wherever they were; they hauled out the engine and dragged it, with a score of men tugging at a long rope, to the fire, and then fell to work for all they were worth, making the pump handles go up and down like a seesaw. The Friendship fire company was organized on August 13, 1774, the year before Washington bought the engine for it, and is still in existence, although now Alexandria has a paid fire department. The engine is there yet, and on special occasions it is brought out by the Friendship Veterans' Fire association."

SAID BY WASHINGTON

A good moral character is the first essential in a man.

I feel everything that hurts the sensibility of a gentleman.

I hope, some day, we shall become a storehouse and granary for the world. We do not wish to be the only people to taste the sweets of an equal and good government.

Would to God the harmony of nations were an object that lay nearest to the hearts of sovereigns! I hold the maxim no less applicable to public than to private affairs, that "honesty is the best policy."

It appears to me that little more than common sense and common honesty would be necessary to make us a great and happy nation.

I am resolved that no misrepresentations, falsehoods, or calumny shall make me swerve from what I conceive to be the strict line of duty.

The very idea of the power and the right of the people to establish government presupposes the duty of every individual to obey the established government.

Old Pohick Church

Not far from Alexandria, Va., is a church of which one hears less than of some of the other churches in which the first President worshipped. This is the old Pohick church, of which it is claimed, Washington was the designer. He also was a vestryman of this church, and it is known that he had a great and peculiar affection for it. It is a church having much to do with the spiritual life of Washington.

Blood Relative of First President

George Baron von Washington Is Distinguished Austrian Citizen.

The most distinguished kinsman and namesake of George Washington, our first President, lives in Europe. He is George Baron von Washington, of Poos, who was a captain of Austrian cavalry and fought against America in the World war. The Baron is sixty-seven years old and lives alone with his seven dogs, in an enormous shabby castle in Styria, southern Austria.

Nine hundred years ago, the Baron says, there was a Tordin, lord of Ravensworth, England, from whom the Washingtons descended. From Tordin to Robert Washington, lord of Millbourne, in 1480, the family trees of George and the Baron were the same. Robert Washington married the daughter of Lord Kerneford and had several sons. One was Robert, Jr., whose sons' sons emigrated to America. One of those great-grandsons of Robert was the great-grandfather of George Washington who became first President of the United States.

John, another son of Robert Washington, and his descendants lived in England until the end of the Eighteenth century when they emigrated, but not to America. James Washington, descendant of John, went to The Hague and sold his services where he could as an officer. In 1790 he learned that a Washington had become President of the American republic, and after investigating found that George was his true blood cousin. James then tried to get a job in America and letters were exchanged between the two. The Baron has no copy of his great-grandfather's letter but he does have the original of the answer our President sent refusing James a military post in the new republic. George's reason for the refusal and plain dealing as stated in the letter was that "it was not in accord with the policy of the American government to bestow offices of any kind on foreigners to the exclusion of her own citizens." However, he admitted his blood relationship to James.

Later we learn that James Washington also made a name and position in life for himself, and his son Jacob an even greater one. Jacob sold his services to the Bavarian government under King Ludwig I, and finally became marshal of the court. He became a baron and lord of the estate at Northing, Upper Bavaria. Jacob's only son, Maximilian, the present Baron's father, carried the family career still further by marrying a royal duchess—a cousin to Queen Mary of England. Now the Baron is the last of his line, his brother having died. —Pathfinder Magazine.

$7,700 IS DESCRIBEDSpurious Deed of Trust Given
St. Louis Banks by Motorman

St. Louis, Feb. 11.—A "get-rich-quick" story of how he obtained $7,700 from 4 St. Louis banks on presentation of a spurious $20,000 deed of trust, purporting to represent ownership of a valuable tract of land in Graves county, Kentucky, was unfolded last night by Jerome L. Wootan, 33 years old, a street car motorman, who had been questioned since his arrest Monday.

Arrested as a "general suspect," Wootan was held while an investigation was made of a suspicious looking deed and a number of certificates, which purported to be promissory note. Wootan admitted forging all of them, police said.

Officials of four St. Louis banks identified Wootan as the man who had defrauded them. The banks are the Mound City Trust company, the Tower Grove bank, the Broadway Savings Trust company, and the West St. Louis Trust company.

On Wootan's person the police found letters of recommendation, which Wootan admitted writing himself. In his confession, Wootan insisted that he had led an exemplary life.

"I never smoke or gamble and never associate with women," Wootan told police.

Officials were of the opinion that further inquiries today would reveal frauds totaling between $15,000 and $20,000, but Wootan denied that he had perpetrated other frauds.

A Dull
Fellow

By FRANK WALL

EVERY one smiled when Johnson returned to the office this morning from his vacation. Two weeks ago he walked out at five o'clock as quietly as if he were only going for the evening, and this morning he came back just as quietly. What does a man like that want with a vacation anyway?

"He's such a dull fellow," murmured Billy Deane languidly. "If ever I want to die of ennui I'll make him fall in love with me."

Johnson didn't hear her, and it wouldn't have made any difference if he had. He was trying to concentrate his attention on his job and that was taking all his energy.

This dull fellow was shaken to the soul. He had gone away as part of the routine of life. There had been a time when the thought of a vacation would have conjured up wonderful pictures in his mind, but nothing now seemed able to give him a thrill. Perhaps he lived too much in a groove. Where the others looked on life as a series of gay adventures to be sought deliberately as one seeks entertainment in a theater, he took his adventures on paper. He found his romance in the short stories he wrote so untrillingly in all his spare time. Sometimes he wondered if he was chasing the shadow and missing the substance of life; yet he must have known that romance and passion are always round the corner, and time is liable to run into them at any time.

And that indeed was what happened to this dull fellow, and perhaps that was what made him take his experience so seriously. He had lived in a world of illusions, you see, creating people to suit himself, playing with the imaginary passions of imaginary men and women, and now fate was playing with him.

He went to the coast prepared to enjoy himself in his own quiet fashion, and on his first day there he met Daphne Russell, whom he had known years ago. He would have walked past her in his absent-minded way, but she came up and greeted him; and even then he didn't know her at first. There was some excuse for him, too, for in the intervening years since their last meeting, she had changed almost beyond recognition.

That is the feminine equivalent for a dull fellow? Whatever it was, that was the way Daphne had been heading as inexorably as rivers head to the sea. Then she went to live in Canada, and Johnson had not seen her for seven years, and now, when he met her he could only stare at her in amazement.

For this piece of lovely wistfulness was not the Daphne he had known. Her profile had taken on an exquisite delicacy. Her mouth trembled to a thousand moods. Passion stirred wistfully in her dark eyes. Her hair looked as if painted by moonlight.

Something leaped in Johnson's heart, something that flamed passionately and throbbled and hurt.

"Oh, I'm so glad to see you," she cried. "I came back from Canada and I couldn't find any one I knew. It seemed as though all my friends had gone. And then I came here for a lonely vacation and I met you."

"Your vacation isn't going to be lonely at all," said Johnson firmly. "I am the Committee of Welcome appointed to meet you. After you've been through our program you'll never want to leave home again."

"You talk in just your old lovely way," she murmured contentedly. "I never knew whether you were in earnest or not."

And he looked at her quietly. "Yes," he said. "I never was so much in earnest."

And after that a new life began for Johnson and perhaps for Daphne also. They had long evenings of the most perfect comradeship, evenings when the whole world seemed to be drenched with shen beauty. That was the way he saw it anyway. It brought him out of his shell amazingly. He became gay, brilliant, tender, all in turn, until it seemed that Daphne must have transferred to him some of her own secret of living vividity. Life danced ahead of him, beckoning, leading him on, whispering all kinds of wonderful promises; and he believed them all.

And so the vacation went by, each day sinking in turn into that strange, bottomless pit men call the past, and leaving in its place one still more wonderful. And to both Daphne and Johnson, as the last day approached, there came a resolution which they guarded resolutely from each other until the time should come.

They sat together staring at the sea on that last evening. The beauty of the night was all about them, enfolding them in its strange glamour. Johnson turned slowly and looked into the wistful loveliness of Daphne's eyes. He leaned towards her, and she turned.

"I've something to tell you," she said. There was a queer dryness in his throat. He couldn't speak.

"I was married in Canada. Five years of perfect love and comradeship—and then he died. I think my heart died with him." A little sigh broke the silence. She turned to him again. "You were going to say something?" she said, quietly.

Johnson shook his head. All his new world had tumbled about his ears. He was just a dull fellow again. They noticed it as soon as he entered the office this morning.

POULTRY

COMFORTABLE HOUSE
ENCOURAGES FOWLS

The poultry house is both the home of the hen and the factory where winter eggs are produced, and unless it provides suitable living and working conditions the hen cannot be expected to lay well. To be comfortable the house must be dry, well ventilated, well lighted and have sufficient floor space to provide exercise by scratching. Dryness is insured by having a good roof, keeping the floor of the house higher than the surrounding ground, and by providing good ventilation. Ventilation must supply plenty of fresh air without drafts. This is secured by having the south side relatively open and the other three sides absolutely tight. The importance of light in the poultry house has not been properly emphasized in the past. Recent experiments with artificial lights show that by furnishing more light so that the working period for the birds is lengthened the egg production can be materially increased. In many farm poultry houses no windows are provided and the house is in constant twilight on cloudy days even when the door is left open. Needless to say, this condition does not favor activity on the part of the hen. To insure good natural light in a poultry house the openings in the walls should equal about one-fourth of the floor space of the house. At least half of these openings should be for open-front ventilation, and the windows should be so arranged that the maximum amount of sunlight will be available to the birds. Wherever possible windows should be placed in the east and west ends of the building so that the early morning and late afternoon light will be secured. To insure room for scratching not only must sufficient floor space be provided but the droppings must be kept off the floor and a deep litter of straw or similar material be supplied so that the birds can be made to scratch for their feed. To keep the droppings off the floor every poultry house should be provided with a droppings platform arranged underneath the roosts to catch the manure.

Dried Buttermilk Found Profitable for Poultry

At the Indiana experiment station several tests have also been made with dried buttermilk for laying hens. In one of its bulletins on this subject, A. C. Phillips, who conducted the tests in which dried buttermilk was compared with liquid buttermilk, says: "The income from the liquid buttermilk-fed pen was $7.13; from the dried buttermilk-fed pen, $8.21; and from the no-milk-fed pen, $2.39." Stating the same facts in different words, Mr. Phillips continues: "The profit over feed cost from the liquid buttermilk-fed pen was $4.92; from the dried buttermilk-fed pen, $5.02; and from the no-milk-fed pen, 78 cents."

Thus we see that the pen fed dried buttermilk as a protein carrier, made the largest profit per bird per year. The pen that received no milk of any kind netted less than $1 per hen per year. In addition to getting more eggs from the dried buttermilk than from the liquid buttermilk, that institution also obtained greater hatchability in the eggs from the dried buttermilk pen than from the one fed liquid buttermilk.

Emden Geese Popular

The Emden breed of geese is one of the best known and most popular of all the varieties known. Individuals of this breed are large, and beautifully formed. The back is fairly straight while the under part of the body is canoe shaped, or, almost crescent. They have blue eyes, orange bill, shanks and toes and pure white plumage. Size and vigor are the principal features to be considered when making these birds. It is quite common for the females to develop a "dewlap" or loose pouch of skin under the body.

Poultry Facts

Keep strong, healthy, vigorous stock and care for it properly.

Know the preferences of your market and strive to meet them.

Never wash eggs unless they are to be used immediately by local trade.

Don't wash dirty eggs. Washed eggs spoil quickly and are of lower market value.

The first essential in marketing quality eggs as required by the new egg law is quality production. When proper methods are employed it is easy to produce and market quality eggs.

Keep the hens off the droppings boards by putting three-fourths inch wire netting immediately under the roosts.

Watch for cracks and do not have strong drafts in the roosting rooms. If you neglect this, you will have to fight colds and roup later on.

Confine the hens to the poultry house when the yards are muddy until the middle of the afternoon when most of the eggs have been laid. This will mean fewer dirty eggs.

V. L. Broyles Resigns as Superintendent of City Schools.

The announcement of the resignation of V. L. Broyles, superintendent of city schools, effective June 30, 1925, brought general regret to the citizens of Fulton and vicinity.

Four years ago Mr. Broyles took charge of the Fulton city schools. During this time all of his planning and the chief end he had in view was the welfare of the children. We have seen many changes in school affairs during Mr. Broyles' administration, and today Fulton has an excellent system of schools, well organized and abreast of the times.

We can hardly blame a man of his caliber for seeking larger opportunities in a new field, where financial conditions will not be a handicap to his highest ideals of endeavor.

Mr. Broyles has made many friends in Fulton; he has been loyal to the city schools, and his place will be hard to fill.

POPULAR WOMAN ANNOUNCES FOR CO. CLERK

We are pleased to present in this issue of The Advertiser the announcement of Miss Effie Bruer, one of the best-trained deputy Circuit Court Clerks in Western Kentucky, and a candidate for the office of County Court Clerk of Fulton County.

Miss Bruer needs no introduction from us to the people of Fulton County. She has lived in the County practically all of her life and is one of the outstanding figures in Circuit court circles. For eight years she was deputy circuit court clerk under J. W. Morris and for nearly two years under W. L. Hampton, the present circuit court clerk, and now we find her abstracting titles of land, which keeps her in constant touch with the county clerk's office. Any one who understands the work she is now engaged in, fully realizes how capable Miss Bruer would be to take up the duties of county court clerk should she be elected to that important office.

Anyone who had business with the circuit court during the time she served as deputy under Messrs. Morris and Hampton will tell you of the neatness and accuracy in which she kept the records and how accommodating she was in giving out data to those seeking information regarding court affairs.

The position of deputy circuit court clerk is not an easy job. There is a great deal of hard work connected with the duties performed. She was master of said duties at all times, and is now asking the people of Fulton county to elect her county court clerk, with the assurance that she will give the office her undivided attention.

We believe Miss Bruer is in every way qualified to fill the office with credit to herself and the pleasure of the people. She will appreciate your vote and support in the Democratic primary election, August 1, 1925.

SEBRA EVANS BAND NO. 45 ENTERTAINED

Tuesday evening, Sebra Evans Bands No. 45, was royally entertained with a banquet in the home of Herman Grymes on Third street, with the very able assistance of Mesdames Sebra Evans, O. J. Sowell, H. A. Butler, L. C. Williams, S. C. DeMyer, W. R. Butt, Miss Elizabeth and W. R. Butt, Jr.

The following members of the band were present: Sebra Evans, H. A. Butler, Robert DeMyer, C. H. Morris, R. Q. Moss, Jr., Wrenn W. Coulter, Virgil Brown, Paul Workman, Seldon King, Sam Steele, L. A. Pewitt, S. C. DeMyer, H. M. Patmon, James Shuck, Brent Robertson, Hardy Roberts, P. A. Barnes, T. J. Wild, Frank LaCost, C. C. Shelby, Paul Kendall, L. C. Williams and Paul Moore.

Messrs. W. R. Butt, Rufus Kemp, Jr., and Rev. O. J. Sowell were also guests of the evening.

Several beautiful selections were rendered by the band and then dinner was announced, and the entire assembly were served a most delicious dinner course. A beautiful cake, with the inscription "Sebra Evans Band No. 45," baked by Mrs. J. F. LaCost was then brought forth, causing many exclamations of ecstasy. During the delightful dinner, instrumental music was furnished by Miss Elizabeth and W. R. Butt, Jr., which was certainly one of the treats of the evening.

After the dinner, the band again rendered several very beautiful selections. A short address of encouragement to the members of the band was given by Mr. Kemp, followed by a wonderful tribute to the band, its leader and our most gracious host, by the Reverend Sowell.

A very appropriate little song was rendered by Mrs. Sebra Evans, accompanied by Mrs. O. J. Sowell, which were highly appreciated.

Several short addresses were made by various ones, a few remarks were made by Mr. W. R. Butt, which was followed by an address by our host. The bandmaster expressed the deep appreciation for the entire band for the wonderful treat accorded them, and the entire assembly then sang, "America," and were dismissed by a word of prayer by Rev. Sowell.

Everyone present extended their sincere thanks to the most gracious host in Fulton, and his very able assistants, assuring him that they would not refuse the same hospitality again.

The leader, as well as all the members of this band, deserve considerable credit for the wonderful progress they have made in the last few months, and too much cannot be said in appreciation and praise for the things they are doing, as there are few towns the size of Fulton who have such a collection of men who will make the sacrifices as they have to render the community something worth while. To make it a success requires practice, practice, not to mention the study, the time consumed which could be spent doing other less worthy things, and the monetary expenditures for instruments, music, etc. They are a credit to the community, and should receive every encouragement and kind word that can be said to help them over the rough places.

Boaz-Winston

Mr. Sam Winston, an employee of the I. C., was happily united in marriage Tuesday to Mrs. Lillie Boaz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hutchens, the Rev. O. J. Sowell officiating. Following the ceremony the happy couple left on their bridal tour for New Orleans and other Southern points. Fulton will be their future home.

Pulls Light and Makes a Good Seed-Bed

Light draft, ease of handling, and good work are as much a part of a Syracuse No. 110 Sulky Plow as are its wheels, moldboard or levers.

JOHN DEERE
SYRACUSE NO. 110 SULKY PLOW

The big reason for its light draft is its roll-glands. This feature supports the rear of the plow. It forms the third leg of the triangular rolling support—permits all body and frame weight to be carried on three oiled bearings. It keeps the bottom from "sledding" or running on its nose, thus saving shares.

We've never seen this plow's equal for ease of handling. The lever that controls the front furrow wheel is right at the operator's hand. When you reach the end of the field, all you have to do is release the lever latch. The front furrow wheel casters on the turn—guides the plow perfectly. Then as the plow settles on the straight-away, the lever seeks the proper position and locks automatically.

Here are other features you are sure to appreciate: The close-fitting shares are quick detachable. The two-axle front furrow wheel support prevents binding or clamping. The bearings are sand proof. The plow is simply made and strong in every part.

We can furnish this plow with the type of bottom adapted for best results in your soil.

Be sure to see this light running plow. Drop in the next time you are in town.

First Christian Church

O. J. Sowell, Pastor

Large crowd attended the services last Sunday morning and evening. The topic of the morning sermon was: "When a Man Repents." The pastor gave a clear definition on the subject of repentance, saying, that every time a man is in sorrow because of a wicked deed, does not mean that he is a repentent man, for it takes Godly sorrow to work repentance.
In other words, repentance is an offspring of sorrow.

Mrs. Schra Evans gave a beautiful solo which was very much enjoyed.

The topic of the evening sermon was, "What Will You Do With Jesus?" This message was thoroughly evangelistic and one of the very best ever given here by Brother Sowell.
This is indeed a personal question that every individual must answer for self. The pastor went further to say, that there are three classes of people in the world, namely "Those who refuse Christ; those who accept him intellectually, and those who surrender all to him."

Mrs. Tressa Hertzler Sowell gave a beautiful musical reading, and Mrs. Paul Hornbeak inspired the congregation with the pipe organ.

The church is to have new lights installed some time this week, which will add much to the comfort and beauty of the church.

The Sara Dean Bible classes

ried women of the church, gave

Mrs. J. M. Culver. A fine crowd enjoyed the beauty of the occasion.

Film Star Pays All Hospital
Expenses of Canine Victim of Traffic

When a reckless motorist ran over and severely injured a stray dog in Hollywood recently and failed to stop to even ascertain what had happened, Tom Mix, the famous western film star, driving his car close behind, hastened to the rescue. Upon discovering the canine still retained a spark of life, the actor placed it in his machine and rushed with all possible speed to the nearest hospital, where emergency treatment was given.

Later Mix took the animal to a dog hospital, where he agreed to defray all the expenses of restoring it to its normal health.
One newspaper, commenting upon this incident declared that Tom is a citation for a medal or at least a citation from the society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Dumb Animals. It is interesting to note that in his newest starring vehicle,

"Teeth," which will be shown at the Orpheum Theatre on Feb. 26 and 27, a dog plays one of the principal parts.

ABOUT ROSES

PRUNING

If you have two-year-old plants, cut them back rather severely—to three or four buds on the Hybrid Perpetuals and about six on the Teas and Hybrid Teas. Always cut the stem just above a bud that points out, never above on that points toward the center of the plant. The term bud or eye is used to define the places on the stem where leaves will be produced. They are easily distinguished, as they look like small pointed warts on the stems. If the plants are in leaf the above does not apply. The crop of flowers on the rose plants is largely governed by the kind of pruning the plants receive. In fact, other conditions being ideal, the pruning determines the quantity and size of the flowers.

The Hybrid Perpetuals and most other hardy roses should be pruned in March; if weather permits, by the middle of the month. The tender roses, the Teas and Hybrid Teas, need not be pruned until the sap begins to flow and the buds begin to swell; for, at this time, dead and weak wood may be much more easily distinguished and cut out than earlier in the season. Besides, it is an advantage to leave the mulch undisturbed until settled weather has arrived. At the time of pruning, one must decide upon the kind of crop wanted. If the very biggest and best flowers are wanted, severe pruning is necessary (six to eight inches above the ground); if a large crop of average flowers, only moderate pruning (ten to twelve inches above the ground); but where a little pruning is necessary.

Evidence accepted by the jury was that the city was negligent in permitting the public passageway to remain in a condition which would be dangerous to pedestrians.

NAVY "DOCTORED" PERSHING REPORT

ADM. SHOEMAKER ACCUSED OF USING BLUE PENCIL

TO UPHOLD BATTLESHIPS

Pershing's Report on Bombing Showing Battleships Doomed From the Air, Changed House Committee Hears.

Washington.—A charge that the navy "doctored" the official Pershing statement on the results of a bombing test to prevent disclosure of the ease with which airplanes can sink battleships, was sprung in the session of the House aircraft committee, recently.

Lieut.-Col. Schauffler, a reserve officer of the army air service and a supporter of Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, accused Rear Admiral William B. Shoemaker of blue penciling the official statement to remove confession that battleships are doomed by the development of bombing aircraft.

When the statement of the results of the test of bombing the old battleship Virginia was laid before him, Admiral Shoemaker, according to Col. Schauffler, exclaimed:

"It's true, every bit of it, but my God! We can't let this get out or it will ruin the navy."

The witness also read into the record a letter received by him, an Feb. 10 from Lester B. Gardner, a New York magazine writer, charging that newspaper men on the bombing trip were practically prevented by the navy from seeing their accounts of the experiment until after the Pershing statement "doctored" by Shoemaker had been wirelessly by the navy.

Admiral Shoemaker branded Col. Schauffler's story as "ridiculous," and announced he will ask to be permitted to go before the committee, if an invitation to testify does not reach him in the meantime. He doesn't recall ever having had a conversation with Schauffler about ship on the way to the maneuvers during which, as Schauffler testified, Admiral Shoemaker was alleged to have remarked:

"Well, anyway, these ships have their water-tight compartments and they can't be sunk."

"Such a statement," Admiral Shoemaker said, "is on a par with the rest of his testimony. The water-tight compartments may not have been removed, but the doors had been removed by the bureau of construction and repaired before they knew the army was to use the ships for bombing tests and, of course, they were bound to sink with the water rushing from one part to another."

It is also probable that Secretary of the Navy Wilbur will be called before the committee and asked if he has changed his mind concerning the damage which a 2,000-pound aerial bomb may inflict upon a battleship since the recent version which he gave before the naval appropriations committee. Repeated testimony before the committee has been given to the effect that the navy "was trying to cover up" the real story of the bombing tests and it was not until Brig. Gen. William A. Mitchell, assistant chief of the army air service, took the stand that the actual results of the bombing were aired before the public.

Col. Schauffler began his testimony by reading into the record a letter, which he sent on Feb. 5, to Representative John C. McKenzie (Republican, Ill.), chairman of the House military affairs committee, stating that after the Virginia had been sunk within a few minutes time off Cape Hatteras, Lester B. Gardner had written a description of the test to be signed by Gen. Pershing and broadcast from New York at the request of the Radio Corporation of America, of which Gen. Harbord is president.

Secress Got Nothing
Los Angeles.—Mrs. Margaret S. Rowen, Hollywood secress, made no financial profit out of her "end of the world" prophecy which failed to materialize last Friday, the city prosecutor's office was assured yesterday by Dr. B. E. Fullmer, her chief adviser.

Dr. Fullmer called on the prosecutor in response to the latter's request for information concerning alleged donations made to Mrs. Rowen by believers in her prediction that Feb. 6, 1925, would see the end of the world. The doctor explained that Mrs. Rowen preferred to remain in seclusion for the present due to "dozens of threatening letters."

The most valuable item in the collection of 3,000 is a first folio of Shakespeare. Several years ago Dr. Rosenbach paid $43,000 for a first folio of Shakespeare.

F. W. UPHAM, 64, DIES SUDDENLY

SUCCUMBS IN FLORIDA FROM CEREBRAL HEMORRHAGE.

LONG ACTIVE IN POLITICS

For Twenty Years Before His Retirement, He Was the Guiding Financial Genius of the Republican Party.

Palm Beach, Fla.—Frederick W. Upham, 64, of Chicago, formerly treasurer of the Republican national committee, died from cerebral hemorrhage.

Since his arrival Mr. Upham had been under the care of Dr. Frank Exerhart, of Ripon, Wis., and Lake Worth. Mrs. Exerhart is the sister of Mr. Upham.

The body will be accompanied to Chicago probably next Friday. Mr. Upham went to Chicago from Marshfield, Wis., in 1894, and engaged in the lumber business and at his death was president of the Consumers Company, a director of the Peabody Coal Company and former president of the Illinois Manufacturers Association.

Chicago.—Frederick William Upham, whose death has been announced from Palm Beach, before his retirement as treasurer of the Republican national committee last June, was for 20 years the financial genius of the G. O. P. national conventions, by reason of his chairmanship of the Chicago convention committee which made arrangements for five national conventions.

Mr. Upham, who was 64 years old, came to Chicago in 1894 and entered the lumber business. Besides his interests in politics, he was president of the Consumers Company, one of the large corporations of Chicago, and director of a large coal company. He was president of the Illinois Manufacturers Association in 1908-09. His interest in national politics had not waned in 32 years, but he has held elective office only as a member of the Cook County board of tax collectors and as an alderman. He held the former office for 14 years, but resigned during his first term of the latter.

He was a delegate to the Republican national convention four times after his first selection in 1902 for the Eighth Wisconsin district. Since 1904, as chairman of the local organization committee he had organized and financed four national conventions, each year his task becoming more difficult and immense. He saw the national convention expenses grow from $70,000 in 1904 to $150,000 in 1920. He was treasurer of the national committee for seven years.

He had been in rather poor health for some months before his retirement from the treasurership last June at the urging of his wife. He desired, despite his poor health, to serve through the Coolidge campaign. Last winter he spent a lengthy period in the northwest and on the Pacific Coast and returned feeling much benefited.

Mr. Upham was a close political friend of the late President Harding and a room in the White House was permanently reserved for him. He was intimate, with outstanding political leaders in Europe, Lord Birkhead and the prince of Wales being among his friends in England. While he was an important Republican leader, he was associated in large business ventures with men prominent in the Democratic party.

FISK TRUSTEES TO MEET.

Dr. McKenzie Calls Conference Locking Out Reporters.

Nashville, Tenn.—The Greater-Fisk University committee, a commission appointed by the board of trustees last fall to promote the welfare of the institution, is to meet here for the first time since its creation. The session has been called by Dr. F. A. McKenzie, white president of the school, who has been under fire from striking students and a group of alumni of the university.

Dr. McKenzie declared that he has not called the meeting because of the student walkout, but he further issued orders that "no newspaper men shall be allowed to attend the conference."

Meanwhile the "strike" by a large group of the 400 registered negroes at the institution continues, although classes are being maintained there for those men and women who have remained.

Chicago.—A petition asking for the appointment of a receiver for the firm of Boone Woolen Mills Company was filed in the superior court by Harry Hurwich, a stockholder, who alleges that a deficit of $3,000,000 had been incurred during the last three years through mismanagement by officers and directors.

Albion, N. Y.—Lewis E. Sands, "world bean king," was acquitted of grand larceny by a jury which deliberated 12 hours.

FARM POULTRY

GATHER EGGS OFTEN IN SEVERE WEATHER

Success in selling hatching eggs or in getting good hatching eggs for your own incubators to supply you with chicks for the baby chick trade is dependent a great deal upon gathering the eggs during the winter months at frequent intervals; but even market eggs require the same attention in order to get the best results.

In freezing weather the eggs may be in the nest three or four hours before freezing, but there is no reason for subjecting them to such a temperature for any length of time. If they are to be used for hatching purposes, or sold for hatching eggs, you owe it to yourself or your customer to gather them as soon as laid, if possible. Any unnecessary exposure to the temperature will affect, more or less, the hatching quality and the vigor of the chick.

Where it is at all possible, especially in severe weather, it is advisable to visit the nests every 30 minutes and gather such eggs as can be gathered without disturbing hens on nests. So long as there is a hen on a given nest, the eggs under her are in no danger. Those who are fortunate enough to have double-walled and frost-proof houses are not in as much danger of loss as those whose hens are indifferently housed.

The ideal way to handle winter hatching eggs is to put them in the incubator the same day they are laid, says a writer in Successful Farming. However, this is not often possible, unless one has a large flock laying enough to fill the incubators. Some hatcheries remedy the situation by having small incubators and setting them every day or two during the season; or, where large machines are used, setting separate compartments.

Where this is impossible and the eggs must be stored a few days before placing in the machines or shipped to customers, it is best to place them in a clean and dry, but well-ventilated place, where an average temperature of about 40 to 45 degrees is maintained. A regular incubator cellar is good for this purpose, but do not place the eggs in a damp, poorly ventilated or musty vegetable cellar. If you do not have a clean cellar, it is better to place them on a ground floor where the room is heated sufficiently to keep it from freezing.

In storing eggs for hatching purposes, it is best to place them in wooden trays. Incubator trays make use of good for this purpose, or trays may be made along that style. A cabinet may be made of a number of these trays nailed together which will be handy and serviceable.

Turn the eggs every day from the time they are taken from the nest until they are placed in the machine. This is to prevent the germ sticking to the shell and rendering the egg worthless for incubation purposes.

Get the eggs into the machine or under hens or off to the customer at the earliest possible moment. Every day that passes lessens the chances of the utmost success. Evaporation is the constant enemy of the hatching egg, and the longer this progresses the less the chance of getting a strong, viable chick.

Scientist Finds Goiter in Minnesota Chickens

Two cases of that rarest of poultry diseases, goiter, have recently been diagnosed by Dr. H. C. H. Kernkamp, assistant professor of veterinary medicine, University of Minnesota. Both were in White Orpington hens which came from the same farm in Ramsey county.

In one of the specimens the thyroid gland had become so enlarged that it pressed against the trachea and inferior larynx and caused the former to become flattened. The heart had also become slightly displaced by the growth and the lungs were pressed against the walls of the thorax.

Records of the veterinary medicine division at university farm show that of 2,400 autopsies on poultry sent in from all parts of Minnesota for investigation and study the last six years, these two cases were the only ones of goiter observed in birds. Carpenter, a veterinary scientist of California, did not find a single case of goiter in 1,000 autopsies on chickens.

Height for Perches

Dropping boards should be level, and the perches arranged about six inches above them. The perches should be on a level, and of 2-by-2 material. They should be fastened to 2-by-4 supports that are hinged at the back end of the house so that the roosts can be raised out of the way while scraping the dropping boards.

Damp Sawdust Is Bad

Damp sawdust is not very desirable to use as insulation in a wooden-walled poultry house, not only because the dampness is likely to increase rather than decrease, and is bad for poultry, but because damp sawdust has only a small part of the insulating value of dry sawdust. If the coal cinders were crushed into fairly uniform small pieces, it probably would work very well for insulation, but the ordinary cinders are too coarse to have much value for insulation.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL Sunday School 'Lesson'

BY REV. E. D. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean of the Eastern Baptist Ministry, Chicago, Ill. (Copyright, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for February 22

GOOD CITIZENSHIP (Temperance Lesson.)

LESSON TEXT—Rom. 13:1-4.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself"—Lev. 19:18.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Love One Another.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Rewards of Obedience.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Obeying the law.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Obeying and Enforcing the Law.

It is highly important that the disciple of Christ should realize that he is a citizen as well as a Christian. Intelligent Christians will show loyalty to the state as well as to the church. In fact, the better the Christian, the better the state. The failure to recognize this truth has brought Christianity into disrepute in many quarters.

I. The Christian's Obligation to the State (vv. 1-7).

1. Obedience to the Rulers (vv. 1-4). This obligation is upon all Christians. The reason this obligation is universal is that civil government is ordained of God and the rulers are His representatives. It is God's purpose that man should live under authority. It is His purpose because man's highest good demands it. To refuse obedience to civil authority is to resist God. This of course does not mean that a Christian at the behest of the state should do that which is morally wrong, just as parental authority does not imply that the child is under obligation to do that which is morally wrong at the command of parents, but it does demand submission as the law of the believer's life. The Christian frequently has need to call upon the rulers for help and personal protection (Acts 18:12-17; 19:35-41; 22:25).

2. The Spirit of Such Obedience (v. 5). It is to be conscientious, that is, it is to be regarded, not merely as serving a good purpose, but morally right.

3. The Nature of This Obedience (vv. 6-7).

(1) Payment of personal and property taxes. The citizens who enjoy the benefits of government are morally bound to support it.

(2) Payment of duties upon merchandise and license fees. The business exchange between nations must be regulated. For such regulations expenses incur for which benefits the citizens should pay.

(3) Veneration for magistrates—"fear to whom fear." Those who fear God should venerate His representatives, that is, civil rulers.

(4) The proper attitude—"honor to whom honor." This means that civil servants, officers of the law, should be honored because of the ministry they perform.

II. The Christian's Obligation to His Fellow Citizens (vv. 8-10).

This is summed up in the word "Love." Love is a perpetual obligation. Paying of debts is obligatory upon all Christians are judged by their promptness in paying debts. The only debt that is right to owe is that of love. Although we give love to the full each day, each succeeding day calls for it over again. Love works no ill to one's neighbor. This love forbids defrauding in matters of property; it forbids going into debt where there is no reasonable certainty of being able to meet the obligation; it forbids defrauding in matters of moral purity. Where there is real love, adultery cannot be committed, for it is a crime against one's neighbor. Love forbids murder. It forbids stealing. It forbids coveting. It forbids working ill to one's neighbor.

III. The Grand Incentive of the Christian's Life (vv. 11-14).

This is the coming of the Lord. The supreme call is to the Christian to awake out of sleep. The picture here presented is of one asleep when the sun is high in the heavens. Life's duties can only be properly executed when one is awake. The one going through life without thinking of eternity is asleep. Each day is bringing us nearer to the eternal goal and since that day is at hand, we should:

1. Cast Off the Works of Darkness (v. 12). The works of darkness are the sins of the flesh such as dishonest dealing in business, rioting and drunkenness.

2. Put on the Armor of Light (vv. 12-13). With this the Christian will (1) walk honestly, (2) not in rioting and drunkenness, (3) not in chambering and wantonness, (4) not in strife, (5) not in envying.

3. Put on the Lord Jesus Christ (v. 14). The only way to be free from the works of darkness is to put on Christ.

Fatal Prosperity

Often our trials act as a thorn-hedge to keep us in the good pasture; but our prosperity is a gap through which we go astray.—Presbyterian Record.

Our Love of God

Our love of God would be idolatry if we did not believe in His love for us—His responsive love.

His Written Word

God never leads us to do anything that is contrary to His written Word.

STATE OFFICIALS ENDORSE ORATORS

HOLLOWAY AND GODMAN OFFER
CO-OPERATION IN NATION-AL CONTEST

Noah J. Parsons, County School Superintendent, in full accord with the contest, will endeavor to have four high schools in Franklin enter.

Frankfort, Ky.—J. B. Holloway and Mark Godman, High School Superintendents of the Kentucky Department of Education, united in endorsing the National Oratorical Contest on the American Constitution, sponsored for Kentucky and Southern Indiana, and their cooperation in having Kentucky High Schools enter the competition.

They pointed out that the contest with the Constitution as a subject can be handled without interference with school routine, since it works in with three high school departments, public speaking, history and English, and can be made a part of the regular curriculum. They also emphasized the opportunity for training in citizenship a study of the Constitution gives, being especially impressed with the fact that more than 11,000 high schools and more than 1,000,000 students participated in the 1924 contest.

Are Pleased By Books.
Mr. Godman and Mr. Holloway were pleased to receive a list of books on the Constitution suggested for use by students entering the contest and distributed to teachers by the management. They are preparing a list of books for a high school library bulletin and will recommend for purchase several of the books on the Constitution. They suggested that teachers would be justified in purchasing some of the books suggested not merely for use in the contest, but for permanent additions to libraries.

Franklin County will support the contest heartily. Frankfort High School, Gladstone Koffman, principal, and the Good Shepherd High School, Father Edward G. Klosterman, principal, entered the contest last year and are making plans to have representatives again this year. J. W. Ireland, Superintendent of Frankfort City Schools and former president of the Kentucky Educational Association, has given hearty endorsement to the contest. He presided at one of the State competitions in Louisville last year.

Parsons Approves Plan.

Noah J. Parsons, County School Superintendent, expressed himself as being in full accord with the purposes of the contest and will endeavor to have the four county high schools in Franklin, Bridgeport, Bald Knob, Peaks Mill and Forks of Elk, enter. Mr. Parsons is a firm adherent of the contest. Idea of developing school spirit, saying that victories of the debating team of the Bald Knob High School several years ago in the University of Kentucky interscholastic tournament resulted in a great increase of interest among patrons of the school.

Franklin County High School boys and girls always have ranked high in the university debating, oratorical and declamatory contest and this year expect to present several keen orators on the Constitution.

PARK PROJECTS DISCUSSED

Vance Prather, Ft. Thomas, Is Made Secretary of Commission.

Frankfort, Ky.—Vance Prather, of Ft. Thomas, Ky., was elected secretary of the State Park Commission in meeting here.

Discussion turned to major projects acceptable as state parks when deeds of conveyance will have been received, Cumberland Gap, Cumberland Falls, Natural Bridge and Reelfoot Lake.

Minor projects were taken up also, at Harrodsburg, a site on the Dix River and in the Kentucky River gorge.

The Old Fort Hill project at Harrodsburg is nearing consummation, Mr. Prather reported. The Chamber of Commerce will turn over deer to that tract shortly, he said.

Cumberland Gap will be another project to be formally taken over soon, he predicted.

Attempts To Burn Jail Foiled

Newport, Ky.—Women inmates of the Newport Jail were in a near panic as a result of two attempts to burn the jail. James Wingate, a prisoner, arrested on the charge of drunkenness, first set fire to a mattress in his cell and then ignited the wood stripping on the jail window. The smoke curled up to the ceiling and caused them to scream for help.

"Quail Treat" For Clubs

Frankfort, Ky.—The Kentucky Game and Fish Commission, at its meeting, decided to purchase a limited number of Bob White quail for spring delivery. These quail will be distributed by the various clubs throughout the state affiliating with the Kentucky Game and Fish Protective Association, recently organized at Frankfort. There will not be a sufficient amount of quail purchased to supply individual applicants, but those counties in which clubs are organized will receive a liberal supply.

KENTUCKY BRIEFS

Frankfort National Guardsmen were fired on while travelling on a train from Elk Valley, Ky., to Bayles, Ky., a report from Bayles informed Adj. Gen. James A. Kehoe recently.

Hazard—Attorney General Frank Deaugherty declined to participate further in the inquiry instituted by County Judge J. A. Smith, at the request of the governor, to investigate alleged lack of law enforcement in Perry County.

Winchester—About seventy-five of the local Shriners met at the Brown, Prater Hotel and formed a Shrine Club in this city. The plans call for a club formed of Shriners and the meeting will be held once each month with a luncheon following the business session.

Ashland—Bacon B. Bishop, 27 years old, shot and killed and wounded at St. Mildred and wounded at Verdun, was sentenced to twenty years in the penitentiary by a jury in the Boyd Circuit Court at Catlettsburg for the murder of Oliver Chadwick in a killing station holding at Ashland on the evening of December 17, 1924.

Augusta—County Judge E. U. Davidson of Bracken County, has announced as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Representative from this district, composed of Bracken and Pendleton Counties. He is the Bracken's present County Judge and is a minister of the Christian Church. He is a son of Rev. R. H. Dodson.

Mr. Sterling—Ollie Sharp was killed and Stanley Gilvin, dangerously wounded in a pistol duel in a vacant storehouse at Sharpburg, Bath County. The scene of the tragedy is twelve miles north of this city. From best information obtainable the men, who are farmers, met in the store to settle a business transaction over a farm trade.

Cheslow—Reed Kilgore, rural carrier on Route No. 3, this city, has been granted a vacation, possibly the first vacation, aside from holidays, since the route was established nineteen years ago. In the nineteen years he has served the nation of the route he has earned the reputation possibly not enjoyed by any rural carrier anywhere.

Frankfort—All owners of insurance agencies must be licensed for all the companies represented by them, Sheldon M. Sautley, State Insurance Commissioner, said, after an investigation which brought to light the fact that agents and their solicitors, licensed only one company, were soliciting business for all the companies represented in his office.

Mr. Sterling—Stanley Gilvin, of Sharpburg, Bath County, died at a Lexington hospital following gunshot wounds suffered in a pistol battle with Ollie Sharp, who was killed, in Sharpburg. Gilvin's body was brought to this city and will be taken to his home for burial. He was about 50 years old, a son of D. S. Gilvin, and is survived by his widow and three small children.

Horse Cave—Charles H. Schott, found dead in a hut in Marshall County, was known here as Schott's. H. Schott, a palmer, Schott, came here four years ago from East Tennessee. He left in December and had not been heard of until authorities here received notice of his death. Letters were found on the body bearing a Horse Cave address. Nothing is known of his relatives as he never disclosed any information concerning himself.

Mayfield—One man seriously shot and another injured by officers marks the end of a neighborhood dance held at the home of Bruce Laird in the Dukedom section of Graves County, about twenty miles south of here. Tonkey Wylie and Chester Bynum, who had been in attendance, got into an altercation as they were leaving and Bynum shot Wylie in the left shoulder and side, one of the bullets piercing his left lung. The wounded man was given prompt attention.

Hopkinsville—A trainload of flour and mill products from the Acme Mills left here with Birmingham and Montgomery, Ala., as its destination. At these points the cargo will be distributed to jobbers and dealers throughout Georgia, Alabama and Florida. The train contained sixty-four freight cars, fully loaded, and it required twin engines to pull it. The invoice value of the shipment was $85,400. This is the third and largest trainload of mill products which this mill has shipped within a year, giving it an enviable record for the sale of its output.

Hopkinsville—John B. Chilton, warden of the Eddyville penitentiary, and Mrs. Chilton were here enroute south for Mr. Chilton's health, which has not been good for some time. They will be away until the middle of March.

Lexington—The contract for the erection of a new building at the Julius Marks Tuberculosis Sanatorium, bids for which were opened was awarded to the J. T. Jackson Lumber Company, of Lexington. The bid is said to have been $95,000.

FEDERAL JUDGE M'GEE KILLS SELF

KILLS SELF IN FEDERAL BUILDING IN MINNEAPOLIS.

FEARED FAILING HEALTH

Judge McGee Became "Learned in the Law" Without Ever Having Attended a Law School or Any Kind of College.

Minneapolis, Minn.—John Franklin McGee, United States district judge for Minnesota, known as the terror of bootleggers, shot and killed himself in his chambers in the federal building.

He left a long note, reviewing his career, his work as federal fuel administrator during the war and his work on the bench. His memory had been failing and he feared his mind was waning.

Judge McGee was found by a daughter, who had gone to the federal building when he did not return home for lunch. With the aid of a watchman she forced an entrance into his locked office and discovered his body, a bullet through the heart, in a small vault. A revolver was beside him.

Since his appointment by President Harding, Judge McGee had imposed the maximum sentence on convicted bootleggers and dope peddlers, and recently had been guarded by detectives. Belief that he had been a victim of a bootlegger gang was ended with the police verdict of suicide.

His son, Hugh H. McGee, is employed at the Bankers Trust Company in New York City. Prosecuting attorney, corporation counsel, state district judge, member of the commission of public safety in Minnesota during the war and ultimately on the federal bench, Judge McGee had the distinction of becoming "learned in the law" without attending a law school or college.

He was born Jan. 1, 1861, at Ambury, Ill., and after attending primary and high schools in that town, studied in attorneys' offices at Ambury and Clinton, Ill. Despite his youth and lack of a degree from a law school, he was admitted to the Illinois bar November 19, 1882, when he was 21 years of age.

ANTHRAX CONFERENCE WILL BE HELD TODAY

Washington—Whether the House committee on appropriations will report favorably the resolution (introduced by Representative Lowrey of Mississippi) providing for the appropriation of $100,000 immediately with which to fight and resist the spread of anthrax in the states of Mississippi, Louisiana and Arkansas and other Mississippi Valley states, depends upon the result of a conference to be held at the Bureau of Animal Industry, Department of Agriculture, between the directors of that bureau and Senator Pat Harrison and Representative Lowrey.

The Lowrey resolution now is in the hands of the appropriations committee and its chairman, Representative Martin B. Madden of Illinois, stated that he felt sure his committee would execute any recommendation that officials of the bureau of animal industry might see proper to make as a means of meeting effectively the existing emergency.

Speaking for himself, Chairman Madden said that he had no objection to favorable action on the resolution that has arisen in connection with this proposed emergency appropriation. The question is as to whether the situation be handled by the federal government or left to the disposal of the states in which anthrax has made its appearance. Senator Harrison and Representative Lowrey will urge that prompt relief steps be taken by the national government to meet this emergency situation as were taken by Congress last year to check and eradicate the foot and mouth disease among cattle in certain sections of California, and also as the Department of Agriculture utilized its federal powers in combating the spread of the European chicken pest which was especially severe in the east, notably in the states of New York, Connecticut and Pennsylvania. If the authorities in the bureau of animal industry will concur in the Lowrey resolution as directing work, the department has the facilities for executing. Chairman Madden will recommend to the appropriations committee favorable action on it.

Decatur, Ill.—John Stacey of Louisville, Ky., was hanged here for the murder of Heman Rubenstein, last November.

Sofit, Bulgaria—Professor Nicola Mileff, who recently was appointed Bulgarian minister to the United States, was assassinated here.

A dispatch from Sofia said the Bulgarian foreign office had been notified from Washington that Prof. Mileff would be acceptable as Bulgarian minister to the United States. He was to have succeeded Stephan Panaretoff.

Prof. Mileff was president of the foreign relations committee of the Bulgarian Parliament.

AS THE EDITOR SEES IT

The fellow who is always criticising his own town is like the kid who hankers for a chance to pull the other kid's nose. He forgets that the condition of the town is most likely brought about by his own shortcomings and those of others of his kind. He sees only the delinquencies of others and forgets that perchance his own may be even more glaring and destructive. He weaves a halo around his own precious brow and bespatters that of his neighbor with ooze and slime. He sees evil where good exists, failure where success is assured, and poverty when prosperity is in the ascendant. If he, like the unruly kid, wants to pull anybody's nose he would confer a favor upon suffering humanity by tweaking the bump on his own face. It needs it.

All Christian Endeavorers and those in sympathy with the work of this splendid organization in Fulton and vicinity are cordially invited by the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Christian Church of Union City, Tenn., to attend a special work conference and mass meeting to be held in that city on Tuesday, March 3.

Union City is one of the four fortunate towns in the South to be honored with a visit by the Rev. Frank Linn Freet. Mr. Freet is a noted Christian Endeavor worker, lecturer and orator of national fame. And you will be highly entertained should you hear him on March 3.

The Christian Endeavor movement has from the very beginning of the organization, had definite interest in the religious development of the high school age boys and girls, those of the teen ages, usually referred to as "Intermediates."

An entertaining program has been arranged as follows:

3:30 to 5:00 p. m. Conference with workers among young people of the teen ages.

6:00 p. m. Big banquet.

7:30 p. m. Mass meeting of Christian Endeavor workers of all ages and of interested folk, with address by Mr. Freet.

9:00 p. m. Continuation of conference adjourned at 5:00 p. m.

SAFETY FIRST

The woods are full of get-rich-immediate guys who are headed for a fall to the hard surfaced streets of reality. Lucky is the man who walks not the way of the cold check artist nor sitteth in the seat of the deadbeat, but whose delight is in the confidence of his banker and in his check book doth he meditate before scattering the ink on the bottom line. There is more by in a clear title to a few acres of "cuckle bunnies" ridges and an old flea bitten "Beck" than in broad acres covered by the blighting shade of a spreading mortgage. The pursuit of the elusive medium of free commerce and the stacking of "E Pluribus Unum" chips is not to be condemned and we would not impede the progress of those who are out to legitimately annex all of life's treasures that heart may desire, but it is a wise driver who reads all the "Stop, Look and Listen" signs and slows up at the crossin's. We are leaving the wreck of the gold brick era and many are veterans of the Silk Shirt Brigade. Some of these days we ought to get in the neighborhood of "Normalcy."—Friendship (Tenn.) Tri-County News.

George Washington

While we honor Washington as our first President and often re-tell the story of the cherry tree, historians also inform us that he was a well-dressed gentleman.

To-day as we emulate his spirit of service to others, and his truthfulness, let us also accept the rest of his good example. Certainly none of us has anything to lose by taking pride in his appearance.
