The famous Boston Bloomer Girls' base ball club will be here tomorrow, Wednesday, afternoon to play against a team of local boys. The Bloomers have a phenomenal girl pitcher who is said to make monkeys of the batters facing her. The catcher and shortstop are men and the other seven players are women.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC.

The children of the Baptist Sunday school, accompanied by the officers, teachers and many of the church members, are today enjoying a picnic in Will Board's grove, about one mile northeast of town. The grove is an ideal place for the young people to play games and the large pond provides them with a nice place to fish. Several wagon loads of the jolly youngsters are out there and reports from the picnic grounds this afternoon indicate that they are having the time of their lives.

The dinner spread on the grass at the noon hour was a veritable feast and the picnickers did ample justice to it.

OH, YOU WRETCH!

New York, Aug. 16.—Wives in Brooklyn are tear-stained, husbands are angry and mothers-in-law are furious. Herman Druck, once of New York, now of the Nevada bar, is responsible.

According to the best reports, the scene that started all the trouble was much the same in all the homes. When the husband came to breakfast he found his wife crying, but angry, and she waved an envelope and a little brown paper-covered booklet in his face.

"How dare you?" she remanded, as she sank into her chair and buried her face in her arms. "Go to Reno, right away. I always knew you meant to treat me like this."

The bewildered husband glanced at the booklet, tried to swear he knew nothing about it, then swore other swears and rushed away, angry and hungry, from the untouched breakfast.

After that came words over the telephone, return home, more scenes, interviews with "my mother" and some still worse scenes. It will be days yet before harmony is entirely restored in Brooklyn and the houses again become homes.

What caused all the trouble was a little booklet with the title, "Divorce Laws of the State of Nevada." That little pamphlet lay on the breakfast table of every home in Brooklyn possessing a telephone. They had been mailed from Reno, Nev., apparently by their author, Herman Druck, former New York lawyer, who, according to a dispatch, has been accused at Reno of "seeking" divorce business. Seemingly the telephone directory had been used as the mailing list.

In the City of Homes it is the rule for the wives to open their husband's mail. What inference was more natural than that this booklet meant the husband had sent to Nevada to inquire as to the necessary steps, the causes and the cost of divorce there.

A TALENTED MAN.
Mr. F. H. Green, father of our estimable, accomplished and popular friend, Mrs. Lillie Tyler, died at the residence of the latter in this city at 11:15 o'clock last Sabbath morning.

Up to within the last few months Mr. Green was remarkably well preserved for one of his age, having departed this life on the 80th anniversary of his birth. During the past few months his decline had been most patent and his physical condition refused to respond to the skillful medical treatment and the loving attentions of his devoted family and friends; a proof of what Sophocles said of man's ingenuity. "He had not yet discovered an antidote for death."

The death of this good citizen will sadden many hearts in his native State, Kentucky, where he spent the "hey day" of his life as an active and exemplary citizen, even as it has caused universal grief with us, who learned to admire and respect him by contact and associations with him in the declining years of life.

Further details of the sad particulars appear in another column of The Herald, which extends heartfelt sympathy to his bereaved family. Bradenton (Fla.) Herald.

A Torpid Liver is a fine field for the Malarial Germ and it thrives wonderfully. The certain result in such cases is a spell of Chills.

HERBINE

Is a Powerful Chills Tonic and Liver Regulator.

It puts the liver in healthy, vigorous condition and cures the chills by destroying the disease germs which infest the system. Herbine is a fine antiperiodic medicine, more effective than the syrupy mixtures that sicken the stomach; because it not only kills the disease germs, but acts effectively in the liver, stomach and bowels, thus putting the system in condition to successfully resist the usual third or seventh day return of the chills. Herbine is a cleansing and invigorating medicine for the whole body.

JUST A WOMAN

"Why do you look at me like that, Ken? I'm only flesh and blood, you know, just like any other girl."

"Oh, no, you are more beautiful than any other girl," replied Kenneth Mayes impetuously—"far more beautiful!"

They were standing together in front of the fireplace, and now that they were once more alone, after long days of absence, they felt that they must unburden their minds to one another, come what might.

"Do you know, you frighten me sometimes," said the girl slowly, after a pause, "because you're so dreadfully in earnest. Do you mean it?"

"Of course I mean it."

"Oh, Ken, you silly boy! Why, how long have you known me, sir? About thirteen weeks, isn't it? And, of course, I've been on my best behavior all the time. You've only seen one side of me—the amiable side. You haven't seen me just as I am—at home, with the mater and sister."

"But I hope to. You will introduce me?"

"Oh, of course. I've no horrid crimes to confess. Just a few little peccadilloes, that's all. Now, instead of hugging a delusion to your heart" and waking up one day crying you've been deceived, I should like you to have to forgive me for something beforehand, and yet to love the woman while you deplored the fault."

"H'm! Tennyson," He Said.

Presently she found him picking up a book she had been reading which had fallen to the floor.

"H'm! Tennyson," he said, and opened it. His eye fell on a photograph.

"Price Carew!"—looking at her. "You knew him?"

"Yes," she said, simply, wondering at the change in his tone. "Did you?"

"He was the dearest friend I ever had. A man I would have laid down my life for." He spoke sternly, evidently striving to suppress his emotion. "Where did you get his photo?"

"It was given to me." Her face was crimson, and her eyelids drooped low over her eyes.

"By him?"

"Yes."

He groaned. "To think it should be you, Madge—to think it should be you! You broke his heart—one of the truest that ever beat. And I've been deluding myself—"

"Kenneth!" she broke in. "Wait—don't blame me till you've heard the story."

"Do you know that he practically committed suicide—exposing himself recklessly to the Boer marksmen till at last a bullet found him. I know now what it was that made your face so familiar. He carried your photo next his heart, and when he was dying, he put it into my hand. 'Bury it with me, Ken,' he said. And I did. He had told me the story a few months before, without blaming you, and without mentioning names. But you killed him, and he was one of the best."

"I deny it," she cried sharply. "I deny it. His death brought sorrow to me. The story is a very unhappy one. If a girl finds she has made a mistake—"

THEN AND NOW.

An old letter written in May, 1843, by a Boone county (Indiana) farmer, gives some prices of current commodities which will probably interest our readers: "Corn is now selling at 25 cents a bushel; wheat 50 cents a bushel; bacon two and one half cents a pound; plenty of deer, turkeys, badgers and Indians."

Deer and turkeys were so cheap that he did not regard them as worth quoting. (Neither was there any quotation on Indians). It will be noted that there has been considerable advance in the price of bacon since those good old days.

SID BROACH PAROLED.

Sid Broach, sent to the penitentiary from Graves county for life for murder, has been paroled. He has served seventeen years but is now only 40 years old.

Broach has an unusual record. He has been in the penitentiary nearly half of his life, being only 23 years old when he was admitted seventeen years ago, to serve a life sentence. The commission thought he had been in the prison long enough as he has made a good prisoner and is said to have shown signs of reformation. —Murray Gazette.

FULTON'S GREATEST ADVERTISING MEDIUM

Is the Fulton Commercial & Farm
Journal That Circulates
Throughout This Entire Section.

Only those who advertise in the Fulton Commercial & Farm Journal know its real worth as an advertising medium. Why? Because it goes into nearly every home in a radius of twenty-five miles of Fulton and is read by at least 5,000 people every week. Therefore quick results follow. The Commercial is doing more to bring trade to Fulton than all other combined sources. The Commercial is recognized by the people of the surrounding country as the best paper ever published in Fulton. It contains not only all the home news, but gives a summary of the news of the nation.

The majority of people who live in Fulton do not realize what such a paper is to the town, but if they place an advertisement in its columns they can readily see the results. Go out in the country and see for yourself how the Commercial stands in the rural districts. Call at the Commercial office on Lake street and ask for a copy of the paper and you will get twelve pages brimful of news and advertisements of Fulton's progressive merchants who have learned long ago that it was an uphill business to get the cream of trade unless they advertised their wares and let the people know when they have bargains for them.

If your advertisement is not in the Commercial that accounts for dull times around your place. Perhaps you do not have an opportunity to get up your advertisements. If that is the case let us get them up for you. Twenty years experience along that line and the constant study of advertising places us in a position to shape your advertising in an attractive way. NOTES
FROM MEADOWBROOK
FARM

By William Pitt

The rapid milker is not apt to strip clean.

Little deeds of kindness, like chickens, come home to roost.

Butter to be of a prime quality must not be subject to too rapid or too slow churning.

Get that set of low wheels for the wagon this year. They will save you much heavy lifting.

The idea that the setting of posts the small end down will make them last longer is fallacious.

Elbow grease and a good stiff broom used daily in the dairy barn will help a long way toward sanitary milk.

The best breed of cows for the dairy is that breed which will most nearly meet the special purposes and needs of the owner.

Three trees which are peculiarly adapted for fence posts are the catalpa speciosa, the osage orange and the Russian mulberry.

Keep your plans ahead of your work. It is the farmer who thinks out his work in advance who raises the biggest crops and has the easiest time.

Sunlight is essential to success in chicken raising. See that the henhouse is constructed with a view to admitting as much air and sunshine as possible.

Vermis on the hens will keep them from laying. With the coming of warm weather, clean and whitewash the henhouse, and provide a good dust bath, if hens are kept confined in a yard.

The time to wash out the butter-milk from butter is when it has reached that granular state. Dairymen has this advantage over other branches of farming in that the farmer has a continuous income.

When fresh whole milk is not available the little pigs you have to raise by hand will thrive on boiled milk which has been thickened with a cup of flaxseed to each gallon. Add half a pound of brown sugar and a little salt.

A farmer in central Michigan faces the problem of making four-cent pork and three-cent beef out of 60-cent corn, with common farm labor $30 a month with board; hay $16, and $20 a ton and corn stalks five cents a bundle. Can you figure out his profit?

It may be very interesting speculation as to why weeds came to be, but the practical question for the farmer is how quickest and most effectively to be rid of them. The farmer is not interested in any scientific discussions which will not serve any practical purpose.

The producing capacity of the farm is measured by the humus and nitrogen content of the surface soil, and if these cannot be fully supplied by the manure made on the farm, then legumes should be grown to supplement the manure, and for this purpose and a profitable seed crop mammoth clover, over a large part of our country, heads the list.

A good way to char cobs for the hogs is to dig a round hole, say three feet across, build a good fire with wood in the bottom of this, fill in with corn cobs, and when they are properly charred through but not burned to ashes, put on a lid of some kind to exclude the air. Then add any wood ashes that may be convenient, and salt. When the mass is cool put it in a box with a self-feed, where the hogs can reach it, and let them eat what they want.

Go slow in double cropping the orchard land. A good crop of apples or other fruit removes about as much plant food as a crop of wheat. It is poor policy to try to get both. The orchard should be cultivated if possible up to bearing age. If the site is so hilly that cultivation is liable to cause serious washing of the soil, the young trees should be mulched. A good mulch of straw or grass serves much the same purpose as clean cultivation, in keeping the ground moist. There is danger from mice, which are liable to shelter in such a mulch, however, unless measures are taken to protect the trees. For this purpose, wire netting is very satisfactory or tree-protectors of veneer. If the orchard is on comparatively level ground, the raising of some low-growing hoed crops is often of advantage. Hay or grain, however, are out of place in the orchard, and young trees especially suffer from their presence.

PAYING THE FIDDLER

At the door of her schoolroom Miss Heath, the teacher, was met by a breathless little girl.

"George did it!" she cried. "He just grabbed it and chased around the room with it and—"

"I did not!" shouted George. "It wasn't me any more'n anybody else. Anyhow, it was broke. And if Jimmie hadn't chased me—"

"Be quiet, George," said the bewildered teacher. "What's broken, Margaret?"

"Why the—the—you know, the—" "It was broke all the time," interrupted George.

"George, leave the room. Now, Margaret, what's it?"

Margaret pointed, unable to speak, to the bracket which contained the statue of the Flying Mercury.

"What's the matter with it?" asked the teacher, whose rapid glance failed to discover anything amiss.

Robert jumped nimbly on the steam pipes and with a swift movement decapitated the statue, holding the head dramatically toward the teacher.

"That's what's the matter," said he. "Them kids needn't say they didn't do it because everybody in the room saw them."

Many heads nodded a vigorous affirmative.

"Well, they needn't blame it all on me, if I did take it down, for Ernie and Jim did just as much," yelled George from the door.

The teacher waved him majestically back. As his tear-stained face was withdrawn from sight he shook a threatening fist at Robert, who still held the head in his hand.

"We won't take up any more time now," said the teacher, "but of course the fiddler must be paid. I suppose in this case that the fiddler will have to be paid by your fathers. I think a boy is pretty mean that has all the fun and leaves the bill for the fiddler to be paid by somebody else."

The Mercury must be replaced by Monday. Any boy who had anything whatever to do with breaking this one must be honorable enough to pay his share toward getting another."

"Would you call laughing at them when they were chasing around having anything to do with it?" asked Robert, intense anxiety in his countenance.

"Decide among yourselves at recess," replied the teacher. "Talk it over as gentlemen should."

During recess another teacher said to Miss Heath: "You'd better go and look after your boys or first thing you know you'll have a perfectly good boy charged up to your account. I couldn't decide whether it was a riot or a carnival, but George, as usual, was in it."

Miss Heath, however, found that the trouble had blown over for the time being. An noon an indignant trio stopped to talk to her.

"They say me and Ernie and Jim are the most to blame because we ran around the room," complained George. "but we wouldn't have run around so long if they hadn't jollied us and then I wouldn't have bumped against the desk and fallen down; and don't you think they ought to help pay the fiddler?"

"And, Miss Heath, don't you think that when it was George that took Merkey down he ought to pay the most?" asked Ernie.

"I have nothing to say," replied Miss Heath. "I told you to decide like gentlemen. Were you three boys most to blame?"

"They say we were," said George. "What do you think?" insisted Miss Heath.

"Well, I guess we were," said Jim. "I didn't care so much anyway. I've got ten cents and it won't cost more'n 25."

"It cost three dollars," said Miss Heath, impressively.

"Three dollars!" shrieked George. "For an old statue with no clothes on him and one leg broke off? Why didn't you make the kid that broke—"

"There, there!" said Miss Heath with dignity. "Get a new one cheaper if you can, but that's what I paid for the one you broke."

Later in the day she found this note on her desk:

"Dear Miss Heath: If we get a statue we will break off his leg just like the other. We won't give a good one for a old one; it ain't fair. Respectfully yours, GEORGE."

The teacher wrote in reply: "My Dear George: There was once a man named Shylock who wanted a pound of flesh from near the heart of a man who owed him some money but who could not pay. The judge told him to take it, but if he cut the smallest piece more than his pound he would be severely punished."

Break the leg off if you wish to do so. Affectionately,

"HELEN HEATH."

"We were only fooling," said George next day. "We couldn't cut it just exactly off. Jim said he bet he could, but me and Ernie said we wouldn't be in it. We're going to earn the money. I bet I won't have any more fiddlers to pay. And, Miss Heath, won't you please send us something about Skylark? He was fierce, wasn't he? Gee! Think of cutting a pound of meat off a man!"

The Contrary Case. "That man they have just ejected from the hall is the very opposite of a confagration."

"How?"

"He is full of fire after they put him out."—Baltimore American.

WEAK KIDNEYS MAKE WEAK BODIES.

Kidney Diseases Cause Half the Common Aches and Ills of Fulton People.

As one weak link weakens a chain so weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hasten the final breaking down.

Overwork, strains, colds and other causes injure the kidneys, and when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers from the excess of uric poison circulated in the blood.

Aches and pains and languor and urinary ills come, and there is an ever increasing tendency towards diabetes and fatal Bright's disease. There is no real help for the sufferer except kidney help.

Doan's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys and cure every kidney ill.

No need to take the statement of some one living far away as evidence.

J. F. Eddleman, barber, Pleasant Port, Ky., says: "Anyone who follows my occupation requires a good, sound back for the long hours spent at the chair, bring a strain on the muscles of the loins. I was in pretty bad shape and could not work with any degree of comfort. Doan's Kidney Pills were finally brought to my attention and willing to try anything that might check my trouble, I procured a box at Irby Bros. Drug Store. They quickly relieved the pain and corrected the trouble with the kidney secretions."
