BIG SHAKE UP IN RAILROAD CIRCLES

W. T. Anderson Made Trainmaster
Freeport Division, John Travis
General Yardmaster, Will Woods Agent.

A general re-arrangement in the railroad offices becomes effective tomorrow morning, when a change in the personal of the officers and a separation of the jobs of agent and general yardmaster will be made.

Mr. W. T. Anderson, who for the past four years has held the position of agent and general yardmaster in Fulton, has been made trainmaster of the Freeport, Ill. Division. He leaves tonight for Freeport to assume his new duties. He will have charge of the division between Freeport and Chicago, one of the best of the entire system. Mr. Anderson is the present Exalted Ruler of the B. P. O. E. and is one of the most enthusiastic lodge men in Fulton. Since he has been agent and yardmaster here he has demonstrated marked ability to cope with the many complications which of necessity confronted him. His ability attracted the attention of the men "higher up" and his promotion was a natural consequence. Friends in Fulton will regret the departure of Mr. Anderson and his estimable wife but wish them continued success in their new home.

The promotion of Mr. Anderson lifts John Travis a notch higher, he being given the position of general yardmaster. He is relieved of the duties of agent, Will Woods being assigned that burden in addition to the already heavy work at the freight station.

Phillips is given entire charge of the employees at the passenger station.

LOSER OF LAKE- TON IS MISSING

Is Alleged to Have Acquired a Habit of Paying His Debts From Till.

Accused of being a fugitive as the result of embezzling federal money, J. M. Richardson, postmaster of Laketon, Carlisle county, is being sought by government officers, including Elwood Neel, United States deputy marshal, of Paducah.

Mr. Neel has returned from Carlisle county, where he went after Richardson, but learned that he was away and another was filling the job of postmaster as a side line to conducting Richardson's general store. The only trace of Richardson that Neel could find was that the absconding postmaster was in Union City, Tenn.

According to federal officers, Richardson is short $173.28, mostly through the habit of paying personal debts with government money orders. —Paducah News-Democrat.

REUNION DATE ANNOUNCED

The Confederate Veterans have decided to hold their big reunion in Fulton on Sept. 22. It was the original intention to hold the meeting on the fifteenth but as that date will conflict with the Union City fair the 22 was selected. Those who have in charge the arrangements for the monster reunion have already opened negotiations with the railroad company with a view of getting reduced rates from all points and a tremendous crowd of old rebels and their friends are expected here. Everyone in Fulton should join in an effort to promote the interests of the meeting that it may be a grand success.

LAND FOR SALE.

I want to sell 500 acres of fine land 6 miles of Fulton at $35.00 per acre on easy terms. Will trade for 50 to 100 acres on the deal. Over 300 acres in high state of cultivation.

MURDERED HIS WIFE

Phillip Ashby Surrenders and Confesses This.

Camden, Tenn., Aug. 17.—The confession of Phillip Ashby, who resides near Coxburg, this county, last night to Sheriff Woods, at the county jail, where he came and gave himself up and confessed to the brutal murder of his wife last Saturday morning at their home, reveals one of the most horrible crimes ever committed in Benton county. About 3 o'clock Saturday morning the home of Ashby was burned and his wife was also burned to a crisp, and it was reported by Ashby that when he awoke the house was completely enveloped in flames and that he called to his wife to run for her life and he would get the children out, which he did safely, and his wife answered that she would get out of the danger. As there were no eye witnesses except Ashby and his children it was taken by the neighbors as the truth, and a petition was circulated soliciting donations for his children here yesterday and about $50 was made up for them. Late last night Ashby came to the jail and gave himself up and confessed to the murder of his wife and said that he killed her with a hammer and set the house on fire to destroy the evidence of his horrible crime. He said that he was crazy at the time, and as soon as he came to himself he came to Camden and gave himself up to the sheriff. There is some excitement here about the crime, but it is thought that the law will be allowed to take its course. Mrs. Ashby would have become a mother in a few days.

KENTUCKY ELKS HOLD REUNION

Frankfort Lodge Acting As Host to Visitors From Over the State.

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 17.—The Kentucky Elks' Reunion Association met here this afternoon with an attendance of nearly two hundred. Mayor Polsgrove, of Frankfort, made the welcome address and formally turned over the keys of the city to the visitors.

William Neal, of Louisville, president of the association, responded to Mayor Polsgrove, and made a speech that was most gratifying to the Frankfort Elks. The election of officers for the ensuing year will be held some time this afternoon.

Grand Exalted Ruler, Garry Herrmann, of Cincinnati, has wired that he will spend the day here tomorrow and over a hundred more Elks from different parts of the state will come in tonight.

A reception will be given the visitors tonight by Col. E. H. Taylor, Jr., at "Thistleton" his beautiful residence near Frankfort and tomorrow they will be taken on a boat trip up the Kentucky river.

STILL PERSECUTING HIM

Eddyville, Ky., Aug. 17.—Milton Oliver, who was recently shot by unidentified persons and is now being guarded by soldiers in this county until he takes the witness stand in the so-called "night-rider" cases at Hopkinsville, is still unable to get his wheat crop threshed. County Judge Gray is interested in a threshing outfit, and has been appealed to, but it is said that he is afraid to permit his machine to handle the business. Some fear is entertained that the wheat is "loaded" with dynamite.

BEN W. HOOPER

Is Republican Nominee for Governor Defeated By Him Before the Convention.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 17.—Ben W. Hooper, of Newport, is the Republican nominee for governor of Tennessee.

B. A. Enloe, independent Democratic candidate for railroad commissioner for West Tennessee, gets the Republican endorsement for that office. The Republicans make no nominations for commissioners.

The platform adopted comes out strong for enforcement of the present liquor legislation, indorses the Taylor administration, and is otherwise not different from the conventional Republican platforms of this state in times past.

Those three matters constitute the sum total of the performance of the state Republican convention here Tuesday.

It was the most pretentious convention the Republicans of Tennessee have held since back in 1894 when H. Clay Evans gave Peter Turney such a race for the office of governor that it required legislative action to place the Democratic candidate in the chair.

Newell Sanders was the predominating figure in today's proceedings, but though he had his slate all worked out to a nicety, he got the scare of his life during the afternoon when it appeared that the convention would stampede, smash the slate and nominate Alf Taylor over the favorite, Hooper. The temper of the convention was strongly favorable to Taylor, if ocular demonstration counts for anything. But the leaders were well schooled, and when the vote began to pile in it showed that Sanders had his forces well in hand and the unexpected did not happen.

TEDDY TASTES DEFEAT.

New York, Aug. 17.—Col Theodore Roosevelt suffered a sharp defeat in his home state, Tuesday, when the Republican state committee by a vote of 20 to 15, rejected a resolution naming him as temporary chairman of the Republican state convention, to be held at Saratoga on Sept. 27.

Vice-President Sherman was unanimously chosen to act as temporary presiding officer of the convention.

"The old guard," led by State Chairman Woodruff and Wm. Barnes, Jr., of Albany, encompassed the defeat of Col. Roosevelt, whom several of the state leaders charged with attempting to dictate the fortunes of the Republican party in the state.

Col. Roosevelt could not be seen this afternoon, as he left his office at an early hour.

YOUNG SELLS AGENCY

Bob Young, who has for many months been proprietor of the agency having exclusive rights to sell metropolitan papers in Fulton, yesterday sold his agency to Ben Rogers, the change in ownership becoming effective at once.

Mr. Young will likely return to work for the Illinois Central railroad. Mr. Rogers is a hustling young man and will no doubt make a success of the business.

TAYLOR ASSUMES HIS NEW DUTIES

Now In Charge of Eddyville Penitentiary as Deputy Warden.
Left Fulton Today.

State Senator E. M. Taylor left Fulton today for Eddyville where he goes to assume his duties as deputy warden. He has virtually been in office since August 1st but, having important business matters to adjust before leaving Fulton, he did not assume active control of the place until today.

Mr. Taylor was instrumental in getting several important prison reform bills passed by the senate. These bills mean a great deal to the poor unfortunates harbored within the grim walls of the prisons.

Mrs. Taylor will remain in Fulton until cooler weather when she will join her husband in Eddyville.

ED TRANSON AND HARRIS ACQUITTED

Huntville Men Exonerated at Preliminary Hearing in Jackson on Infanticide.

Jackson, Tenn., Aug. 17.—Ed Transon and Transon Harris, the young farmers from Huntville, who were arrested Friday on the charge of burying alive an infant child, were acquitted at their preliminary trial yesterday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock by magistrate J. T. Rushing, J. G. Carter and W. M. Jones.

The case attracted tremendous interest and one of the largest crowds that ever packed the court room heard the evidence. The case was opened at 10:30 in the morning. The state relied chiefly on one witness to establish its case. This was a negro woman. She was introduced first.

After her testimony had been heard attorney Traggins, representing the defendants moved that the case against Transon Harris be dismissed. After a short consultation the court dismissed the case against Harris. The trial of Transon then proceeded, the court first taking the precaution to exclude all boys from the room.

Transon took the stand in his own behalf and recited the whole story. He declared that the child was dead when he buried it. Other witnesses were introduced to discredit the testimony of the woman. The justices consulted on the case two minutes. They then announced that the state had failed to make out its case and dismissed the defendants.

DEATH AT COLUMBUS.

Mr. Isaac R. Cook died at his home in Columbus Monday afternoon, Aug. 15, at 3:05 o'clock, after an illness of six weeks with typhoid fever with complications. The funeral and burial took place this morning, the services being conducted by Rev. A. J. Hess and Rev. J. T. Bagby.

Mr. Cook was born in Columbus on Dec. 23, 1849, which would make his age 60 years, 7 months and 22 days. He always lived at Columbus and was identified with the history of that town for more than half a century. At the time of his death he was president of the Bank of Columbus and was engaged in the mercantile business.

WILL MARRY SOON

We are reliably informed that there is soon to be a wedding in the home of Mr. William McCloy, who lives near Enon on the Water Valley road.

Mr. John Eliot paid this office a visit Wednesday and in the course of conversation remarked that his grand daughter, Miss Lola McCoy and a Mr. Caldwell, of Graves county, had made up their minds to get married in the near future. He says the young people have not taken him into their confidence as to the date of the nuptials.

PERSONAL AND LOCAL.

Finis Garrett has been declared the nominee for congress in the ninth district of Tennessee. He had no opposition for re-election.

CLINTON NEWS.

(Gazette.)

Dr. J. H. Anderson, D. D. of Jackson, Tenn., has accepted the chair of Biblical Instruction in Clinton college and will move his family here in a few days.

When Mr. C. A. Green pulled his machine under the shed Saturday he had rounded out fifty years of wheat threshing, a record, we imagine, equaled by few men. During that half-century he bought eight or ten machines, and he is now looking for the man who said he would give a new machine or $1,000 to the thresherman who had been at the business for 50 years. Mr. Green looks hale and hearty and when he starts in on his hundredth year stretch next season the odds will be on his reaching the century mark.

Miss Virginia Thomas, of this county after spending 16 months at the St. Louis Children's hospital training for the profession of a nurse, has entered the American hospital in St. Louis for a two years' course in adult training. Miss Thomas' many friends here predict for her a successful career as a professional nurse.

Mr. J. R. Graham of this county has been tendered and has accepted a position in the Kentucky State Fair, which is to be held at Louisville Sept. 12 to 17. Mr. Graham has always shown a lively interest in the State Fair, and his presence at the fair this fall in an official capacity will be a guarantee to those persons who attend from this section of the State that they will be able to "do" the fair with the least possible waste of time in looking up those features they most desire to see.

DETECTIVE REPORT

Mar. Who Was With Detective Wray When Latter Was Killed, Dies At Ansel, Tenn.

W. F. Baker, a member of the Nashville detective agency, and the companion of Detective Ernest Wray, who was killed in the office of the Meadows Hotel several months ago, is reported to have died last Friday at his home in Ansel, Tenn.

News of Baker's death reached here today and is said to be authentic. Baker is one of the two men brought here by the city officials to unearth bootleggers and was an eye witness to the killing of Wray at the hands of L. W. Burton. He has been back here on two occasions to appear in court and would have been here next term of court had he lived. His evidence was secured by the commonwealth's attorneys.

DON'T EXPERIMENT.

You Will Make No Mistake if You Follow This Advice.

Never neglect your kidneys. If you have a pain in the back, urinary disorders, dizziness and nervousness, it's time to act and no time to experiment. These are all symptoms of kidney trouble, and you should seek a remedy which is known to cure the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use. No need to experiment. It has cured many stubborn cases in this vicinity.

Can Fulton residents demand further proof than that contained in the following testimonial?

D. F. Looney, E. Third St., Mayfield, Ky., says: "I think just as highly of Doan's Kidney Pills today as when I gave a public statement in 1903, recommending them. Kidney complaint clung to me for years. The passages of the kidney secretions were too frequent and accompanied by a scalding sensation. My back ached so badly at times that I could hardly get about and to stoop or bend in any way caused sharp, shooting pains to dart through my loins and kidneys. I doctored and tried many remedies, but Doan's Kidney Pill brought the first relief I had received. I noticed an improvement after taking a few doses and continued use did me a world of good. I have told many people of the great benefit I have received from Doan's Kidney Pills."

LOCATES IN PADUCAH

Jamie C. Cheek, Jr., son of Prof. J. C. Cheek, principal of the Fulton public schools, who recently graduated from the law department of the Central University at Danville, Ky., has decided to hang out his shingle and enter the practice of law at Paducah, the metropolis of McCracken county.

Attorney Cheek is a bright young man and there is no reason why he should fail to achieve fame and fortune in the practice of his chosen profession. He is an orator of no mean ability and as a student has always ranked first in his classes.

Although he has not said so he will likely enter the office of some big Paducah lawyer for a time to familiarize himself with the workings of the courts.

His many friends wish him unbounded and unlimited success.

ANOTHER SOUL CALLED FROM THE FIELD OF LABOR

Death's gavel has again with imperious rap called silence in our midst, that the Master's summons might be delivered to our most worthy and highly esteemed brother, F. H. Green, who departed this life at the home his daughter, Mrs. Lillie Tyler, of Brantown, the 7th day of August, Anno Domini, 1910, being the anniversary of his 80th birthday; hence the remainder of this anniversary day of our grand octogenarian brother was spent in company with loved ones in the great and momentous beyond.

We stood over our brother as he was whispering his last farewell utterances to the world, not a sad mutterings and agonizing death groans, but rather breath by breath, sweetly dreaming and sleeping life away, turning loose its coil gently and almost silently, and soon the last end of the frail old cable tow that was holding an immortal soul to earth was broken, and thus unfettered it took the flight which it had longed for.

Brother Masons, of whom our brother for years had been prominent, claimed his remain from the tender loving and keeping of their devoted custodians, his daughter, Mrs. Lillie Tyler, and her most dutiful daughters, Misses Julia and Carrie, who yielded up the charge to a most noble brotherhood, which has circled around deathbed scenes like the rainbow of promise, ever since the days of King Solomon and his craftsmen, who built the temple and dedicated it to God, in whose trust alone it can be approached.

The remains of our departed brother, exalted in death and enshrined in love, was embalmed, and amid sorrowing and loving hands with tender and gentle hands were strewn with flowers and kisses and laid in a substantial metallic casket, and the Masons at high twelve, under the solemn forms and the draped and drooping folds of the order and the insignia of love, respect and honor for the dead, performed and said funeral rites, and then expressed the casket to the family in Fulton, Kentucky, his old home, where his body will be interred in the family graveyard, side by side with the loved ones who have long since departed this life, by his children and hordes of sympathizing friends who will be there in waiting to perform the last sacred rites, and like Socrates, we feel that his soul before his body shall be buried, will be numbered among the blest, where forever more our good brother will enjoy the blessed realization of Masonic aspirations and aims, More Light.

Her Capable Management

"Mrs. Jones and I had just a lovely time to-day," said Mrs. Deeson, coming in with a happy smile and rosy cheeks. "I know I'm a little late, dear, but you don't mind, do you?"

Deeson assured his wife that waiting an hour for his dinner was a mere bagatelle compared to her enjoyment. Deeson had not been married long enough to see the seriousness of establishing a domestic precedent.

"Found some extra bargains, eh?" said her husband, patting her on the cheek.

"You always take things for granted. How do you know we were shopping?"

"Deduction, my dear. First, you asked me for money this morning which I cheerfully gave you with the cheerless remark that it was all I had, because I had loaned some to a friend. Secondly—"

"Papa used to say that it took moral courage to refuse to loan money to a friend. You ought to have refused. I can't see what men are always wanting to borrow money for."

"Their wives, my dear. Secondly, breakfast was on time—"

"Yes, Mrs. Jones and I wanted to get downtown ahead of the crowd. But we had to stand all the way. I don't believe all those women on the car had finished washing their breakfast dishes. It's awful the way some women do."

Deeson gave a wistful glance at the dinnerless dining-room table. Then he said, since his wife seemed to expect him to go on talking: "To continue my deductions: thirdly, Jones told me his wife had been reading the alluring advertisements and wanted to take advantage of the unparalleled bargains. Fourthly, he wanted—"

"Bargains! I should say so," interrupted his wife. "You could almost get things for nothing. Mrs. Jones certainly knows how to shop. I don't see how she can afford to spend so much money. She always acts as if she had a lot. I wish she wouldn't insist upon paying the car fare—implying that Mr. Jones gets more salary than you. I just told her that it wasn't likely the employer of both of you would pay one man more than another—right in the same office. So we both held out the car fare and when the conductor came for it she reached over me and made me drop mine on the floor and then every one had to move. The conductor was impatient and took her fare—"

"How about the joy of shopping?"

"Oh, the start doesn't count. I wanted her to go with me to Martin's to look at suits, but she said she must go to another place first and get some knowledge of the prices. Such knowledge—"

"We had to elbow our way through the crowd, we were determined not to wait for another car. Somebody stepped on my dress and tore it off the band, so we had to go back to the notion-counter and buy some pins to hold me together. I discovered then that I had forgotten to bring the money you gave me this morning. Now, don't look so anxious—I'll show you what a financier I am."

"When we got to the suit department, there was a perfect love of a gown—entirely too small for Mrs. Jones. I put it on to show her how it would look if it hadn't been too small. She said I looked so nice that I really ought to have it—and it was only $17.49."

"Well, what did you do?"

"Of course she couldn't take it without first going to the store where I wanted to go. Jack, dear, the suits in that other store were ever so much more—not a thing under $18. Having seen the one for $17.49 at the first store, we went back for it. Would you believe it? That suit was sold. A woman had it on and wouldn't take it off, though Mrs. Jones explained that it was really my dress. So we went back to the other store and I bought the expensive—Don't laugh. It always seems a lot more where the price is marked in even figures. Mrs. Jones was going to get one for herself, but I explained that I had forgotten the money you gave me and asked her to lend me her money. I think I'll run over there now and pay her and get it off my mind."

"Never mind that twenty you borrowed of her. It will keep. Let's have some dinner."

"You clever thing! How did you know it was twenty that I borrowed?"

"I loaned it to Jones last night."

Mrs. Appleton Sniffs.

"The lure of a dab of rouge and a puff of chiffon is as nothing to a man's heart compared with a bowl of onion soup," was a decision handed down by the New Wifehood guild of New York and, when Mrs. Lysander John Appleton read of it she sniffed so hard she fell down in it. "I know the men," said Mrs. Appleton. "A man likes a good cook before dinner, but after he has eaten his onion soup and all that goes with it he doesn't want a hardworking woman to come around him, tired out, with her hair uncurled and her eyes still red from peeling the onions; he wants some light, fluffy creature, with the rouge and the chiffon, and who doesn't know an egg beater from a carpet sweeper. These women's clubs can't tell me anything; I know the men." Then she sniffed so hard she burst all her corset strings. And, when a woman sniffs so hard she bursts her corset strings, the sniff is the climax of con-

FULTON'S GREATEST ADVERTISING MEDIUM

Is the Fulton Commercial & Farm Journal That Circulates Throughout This Entire Section.

Only those who advertise in the Fulton Commercial & Farm Journal know its real worth as an advertising medium. Why? Because it goes into nearly every home in a radius of twenty-five miles of Fulton and is read by at least 5,000 people every week. Therefore quick results follow. The Commercial is doing more to bring trade to Fulton than all other combined sources. The Commercial is recognized by the people of the surrounding country as the best paper ever published in Fulton. It contains not only all the home news, but gives a summary of the news of the nation.

The majority of people who live in Fulton do not realize what such a paper is to the town, but if they place an advertisement in its columns they can readily see the results. Go out in the country and see for yourself how the Commercial stands in the rural districts. Call at the Commercial office on Lake street and ask for a copy of the paper and you will get twelve pages brimful of news and advertisements of Fulton's progressive merchants who have learned long ago that it was an uphill business to get the cream of trade unless they advertised their wares and let the people know when they have bargains for them.

If your advertisement is not in the Commercial that accounts for dull times around your place. Perhaps you do not have an opportunity to get up your advertisements. If that is the case let us get them up for you. Twenty years experience along that line and the constant study of advertising places us in a position to shape your advertising in an attractive way. Try us.

JEP MOORE'S COURTSHIP

By W. J. Lampton

Jep Moore was in love with the girl. That was as plain as the nose on his face, which was about the plainest that ever a man stuck into a handkerchief. But he was not to the manner born, and, although he feared no man, he had been mortally afraid of women as far back as he could remember.

That was the reason he had been courting Mollie Stewart for nearly two years and had arrived nowhere much. But a girl, and a pretty one at that, won't stand for everlasting procrastination, whatever she may think of the man, and Jep began to observe that Mollie was having more gentlemen company than he liked to see around so often. He didn't dare say anything, but he proposed to do something, and that immediately.

Which was why he hitched his horse at her gate that evening and pounded up the walk to the porch where she sat all alone waiting for him. He had informed her by telephone that he was due to arrive at that hour, and there he was, prompt. It was the first time he had ever been so definite, and Mollie was feeling hopeful. She admired Jep, not because he was beautiful, but because he was good. Some girls don't think that way about men, but Mollie Stewart had sense.

She welcomed Jep cheerfully and told him to come in and take a chair. Jep had his courage screwed up till he was feeling frisky, and he declined the chair. An empty hammock swung across the porch-end and he thought he would try that. He had seen pictures of summer girls and young men and hammocks, but he had never tried one. This seemed to be the very time, so into it he went. Mollie didn't laugh when he tumbled out of it backward. She helped him to his feet and Jep's courage all oozed away. He sat down in a chair as meek as Moses. Mollie changed the subject.

Jep spoke of the weather. Mollie was just as much interested in the weather as she was in telephones. But Jep was uneasy.

The hour was purple twilight, and twilight and two are a powerful combination when the man knows how to work it. The silver moon was rising over the hills, and it caught Jep's eye.

"Say, Mollie," he said with sudden energy, "what would you do if you were the moon and I was the sun?"

It was not quite the flattering way to put it, but Jep was awkward and all he thought of was the moon was mighty pretty just then, and so was Mollie.

"Really, I don't know, Jep," she replied, perplexed by the unexpected inquiry.

"Can't you guess?"

"Of course I can't. I couldn't be the moon, could I?"

"You could be the moon as easy as I could be the sun, couldn't you?"

"I suppose so."

"Well, just let's suppose we was them; then what?"

Mollie studied a moment and the feminine in her asserted itself.

"Well, I suppose, Jep," she said, laughing lightly, "if I was the moon and you were the sun I'd go away when you come."

Jep hadn't thought where the conversation would lead, and he was wholly upset by her answer. He sat speechless.

"But I'm not the moon, Jep," she added quickly, "because you see I didn't go away when you come."

Jep gulped and pulled himself together. He got up and came over to her side.

"Dern the sun and the moon, Mollie," he said, hitching his neck up through his collar so he could get more air; "I didn't come over here to talk astronomy. What I come fer was to know why the dickens you don't marry me!"

Mollie was not agitated. It was not her first proposal, though it was different. She looked up at him and smiled. Jep began to feel wobbly in the knees.

"Well, Jep," she replied, "if I can give you one good reason will you forgive me?"

This sounded like Sunday school talk, and Jep felt the seriousness of it. "Of course, I will, Mollie, but"—he hesitated.

"The reason is, Jep," she interrupted, "that you never asked me."

After that it was so plain that even Jep could grasp the situation, which he did, including Mollie.—Home Life.

Game of Graft.

When a foreign-born domestic maid was recently engaged by Mrs. Smith of Lexington avenue, the servant explained that her former mistress had frequently paid her premium money for holding her peace in the matter of reporting to the matron's hubby certain goings on in the home during his absence.

A short time afterward Mrs. Smith's brother chanced to be his sister's guest on a certain afternoon. After he had gone the maid asked Mrs. Smith: "How much will you give me not to tell your husband about that man calling?"

Milady replied: "Katie, I'll give you your walking papers right now, and no reference."

When Mr. Smith came home for dinner Kate was packing her trunk. He scared the girl out of a year's growth by threatening to have her arrested for attempted blackmail.

FELICITATING PA.

My pa says when he was a boy, why all he'd got was just one toy—A jumpin' jack, or pop-gun, when 'T uz Christmas-time where he live' then He never looked for any more—He didn't 'spect a whole toy store!

My pa he says 'at in those days Folks did things dif'rent, anyway. He says he never got a stack 'o candy—more 'n he could pack. Two sticks 'o candy's all he got—An' he'd think that was a lot.

My pa he says when he's a child Folks didn't all try to go wild An' make their children think they'd got Enough to run their pa's in debt. 'O course, it wasn't from their pa's But always come from Santa Claus.

He tells me that I should be glad I don't have Christmas like he had—He says there's lots he was denied But he learned to be satisfied; He never dreamed, he says, that boys Should have a whole room full of toys.

I tell my pa I'm awful sad About 'er hard times that he had, But that he's really lucky now—He's in our family, anyhow, An' that he shouldn't raise a fuss But be real glad he lives with us!

Breaking it Gently.

The patient opens his eyes. His glance takes in the white walls and white furnishings of the hospital ward. He looks down and sees the bandages that swathe him from head to foot. A white-robed nurse appears beside his bed.

"Am I badly hurt?" he asks.

"Yes," she says, "but not fatally. When the automobile struck you it broke both arms, one leg, five ribs and your jaw, besides dislocating six fingers, knocking out three teeth and blacking both eyes. Will you give me the name of your folks, so I may inform them that you will be here for a couple of months?"

"Yes," he says, "but break it to them gently. Just say that I have had to come to a sanitarium, owing to my run-down condition."

Help Wanted.

A swain who would a wooing go, To court a girl named Bertha, Asked where she lived, said: "I don't know;— I think the street is Goethe."

The car conductor smiled and said: "Is plain you do not know the Right way to say that name; instead Of Goethe it is Goethe."

Noble Woman!

"I declare!" says the new acquaintance, shaking out her skirts and settling down on a good gossip on the front piazza of the summer hotel. "You simply cannot trust the men! I've never seen the man I would put any confidence in. They all drink, and flirt, and carry on awfully. Why, I know a—"

"You must live in rather a bad neighborhood at home," says the other lady, slowly. And the chat is ended.

Disappointing.

"My husband didn't get home until two o'clock this morning," remarks the lady with the weary eyes.

"Indeed!" exclaims the other, delightedly anticipating the narration of a family tiff. And what did he say in explanation?"

"Nothing. I came home with him. We had been to the theater and to a late supper afterward."

Made an Honest Effort, Anyway.

"Yes, Gibbles is a fellow who always believes in making an effort to do the task set before him, but there are times when that policy is absurd."

"Still, it is an admirable quality in a man."

"Yes, but the other day I saw him trying to open an oyster with a nut cracker."

Ready to Change.

"Are you making any good resolutions for 1910?" asks the friend.

"Just one—with regard to smoking," answers the man with the fidgety eyebrows.

"Smoking. Why, I thought you swore off tobacco last New Year."

"So I did. I'm going to begin smoking again."

WEAK KIDNEYS MAKE WEAK BODIES.

Kidney Diseases Cause Half the Common Aches and Pains of Fulton People.

As one weak link weakens a chain so weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hasten the final breaking down.

Overwork, strains, colds and other causes injure the kidneys, and when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers from the excess of uric poison circulated in the blood.

Aches and pains and languor and urinary ills come, and there is an ever increasing tendency towards diabetes, and fatal Bright's disease. There is no real help for the sufferer except kidney help.

Doan's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys and cure every kidney ill.

No need to take the statement of some one living far away as evidence.

J. F. Eddleman, barber, Pleasant Port, Ky., says: "Anyone who follows my occupation requires a good, sound back for the long hours spent at the chair, bring a strain on the muscles of the loins. I was in pretty bad shape and could not work with any degree of comfort. Doan's Kidney Pills were finally brought to my attention and willing to try anything that might check my trouble, I procured a box at Irby Bros. Drug Store. They quickly relieved the pain and corrected the trouble with the kidney secretions."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.
