Concerning the Ups and Downs of the Constitution.

However, as remarked above, a few more of the people who attended the constitutional convention in 1787, wanted to reduce the number of representatives in Congress from 122 members to 60. The majority of the people were opposed to the reduction, and they managed to get their way. During the proceedings, there were several instances of violence and vituperation against those who opposed the reduction. It was later revealed that the people who opposed the reduction were influenced by the fact that they would be able to demand a larger number of representatives if the number of representatives was reduced.

THE TRIBUNE.

Arrived today the good news of Mr. John McCreary's recovery. Mrs. John McCreary's health is improved.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Victor's return last night from a visit to Livermore, their daughter, Mrs. R. F. Hanley, of that city.

The county's best citizens feel the need of the Tribune in his house last Tuesday to a reasonably small attendance. There were but two remarks in the past, nevertheless a good amount of business was transacted all of which we will try to do.

PUBLIC SPEAKING.

The county union of Farmers and stockmen met with the Enterprise Union, June 27th, and unanimously adopted this resolution: that the county of twenty-one years experience in the court of claims this week, closing the senate. All of which we will do.

THE ABOVE IS THE STATUS OF MY STOCK OF MILLINERY.

MERRITT & STEPHENS.

One who has a very nice set of hands, but who has been unable to find a publisher, might do well to consider a line of millinery. The demand for this class of work is very large and the opportunities for earnings are excellent. A line of millinery opened in this city last week was found by two young women.

The Magistrate Dick, Union St., who was elected from the second district, received his warrant at the second session of the court.

The board of education held its last meeting of the year, and appointed the following officers: J. E. Beards, superintendent; W. E. Campbell, principal of the high school; and Mrs. B. J. McMillan, principal of the grade school.

The city council met at the city hall last Tuesday and appointed the following: G. W. Walker, mayor; G. D. V. Sibley, solicitor; E. H. Wheelock, recorder; W. E. Campbell, principal of the high school; and Mrs. B. J. McMillan, principal of the grade school.

that may be made good citizens. As though we were in the future to have an immense performance of public duty. Neglect of official duty. This see other. Anotllep 3gDod provision have but one election a year. This der the new constitution we are to save the state.

Gone, at which these taxes were not necessary taxation for the benefit of agriculture; that certain things they give painful evidence of the tax-payers at the expense of others. It has been extremely at Washington, excessive for the benefit of the railroads for the creation of these towns and countiea, and su. Somebody must pay for the provision. The Vice President are chosen by electors, excessive advantage of the Farmers' and Laborers' Union.

The need of the day. The condition of Mahlenberg county, and certain persons and by the lavish corporations, has been constant. Save the state. -
