Vets May Apply For Dental Treatment

Veterans of World War II who believe their dental disabilities were caused by military or naval service are reminded they may apply for treatment at any time through the Veterans Administration. All applications are judged on the basis of official service records and treatment will be authorized for any dental condition determined to be service-connected.

Conditions regarded as service-connected are those which developed during war service. Those may be established by service records or by dental examinations dated prior to July 25, 1948, and made within one year after discharge. However, VA usually denies service-connection for teeth treated or extracted during the first sixty days of active duty on the presumption that such teeth would have become defective regardless of war service.

That has all been changed in recent months and now we have pictures of our most recent treks after fish and game. And re-living the hunting, fishing and camping experiences through pictures is a sport second only to actual participation in these wonderful outdoor hobbies.

Since being bitten by the camera bug, we did a little checking and found many sportsmen have discovered that it's fun taking pictures. Having a camera along is almost as important as a rod or gun. In fact, we know several sportsmen who now are hunting with a camera alone, leaving their guns and other equipment at home.

That's okay with us, but we still like to do both - fish or hunt and shoot pictures on the side. So it was interesting to note the recent announcement of a new pocket-size camera that does an amazing job of taking pictures that can be enlarged without losing the detail.

Lugging a big camera along on a stream or into the field after game frequently creates a weight problem. This new "Pet-al" camera solves that for it is only about the size of a fifty-cent piece and can be carried easily in a pocket, on a watch chain or fastened in a coat button hole.

Marketed by Mycro Camera Co., Inc. of New York City, this new camera takes six pictures from a role that sells for a dollar. The film price includes the developing and making prints for the owner.

ed to the office of Sheriff, I will have associated with me in that office as my Deputy, a man who will help me in every way in carrying out the duties of the office.

I have made no deal with anybody to be my Deputy, if elected and I am under no obligation to any man for that place, but I shall be my purpose to select a veteran of World War II who possesses the necessary qualifications for Sheriff and whose ideas of the duties of Sheriff are similar to mine.

Thus far in my campaign, I appreciate the encouragement and the advice and good wishes of my friends and of my father's friends. They have offered me good advice and have pledged me their support because, as I believe, they have faith and confidence in me making a good officer; because knowing the type of people who have been my advisers and who have offered me their help, I must say that they are the kind of people who are interested in electing a faithful and conscientious Sheriff who will endeavor to enforce the law without fear or favor, and to treat all citizens alike as it is possible to do. And if elected to this office, I shall expect my friends to continue to advise me and I shall counsel with them in carrying out the duties of the office.

Since I decided to make the race for Sheriff this year, I also decided to not make a crop, as I expect to see as many voters in Marshall County as it is humanly possible, between this and election day, and present my claims to them face to face, and from now on I will be out among the voters in all sections of the County, pressing my claims and presenting my program to the voters of this County.

I am, as you know, a Democrat, as my father was before me, and I am making this race subject to the action of and to the will of the Democratic voters on the August 6th Primary. Hoping to see all the voters possible, I am, Most sincerely yours, Sherman Lents

Visit the State's Biggest Attraction... TVA'S Olympic Kentucky Dam

Fishing Is One Of The Great OF TVA Lakes... Especially

The Tennessee Valley Authority's great dams and lakes on the Tennessee river have produced a wealth to sportsmen and a wealth to the nation's economy, according to Gordon R. Clapp, chairman of the board of TVA.

In an address recently to the Tennessee Conservation League, Clapp pointed out that the lake sport fish catch probably is in excess of 5,000,000 pounds a year.

When TVA was getting under way some sportsmen viewed the prospect of dams on the Tennessee river with apprehension. They feared that the man-made lakes would not be habitable for fish.

But, said Mr. Clapp, "now that the early fears about the effect of dams upon fish have been remedied by the facts of experience, a new attitude confronts us. We are frequently besieged with well-intended suggestions to operate the TVA reservoirs for the primary purpose of beautifying the fish and those who like to catch them. It is necessary for us to remind these legions sportsmen that the taxpayers of the United States did not invest three quarters of a billion dollars in the control of the Tennessee river to make a fisherman's paradise. Flood control, navigation, and power will continue to be the purposes for which the unified system of 27 dams on the Tennessee river system is operated. But within the limits of these operating requirements, the fisherman's interest will find rather abundant satisfaction.

TVA has built 17 dams for flood control, navigation, and power production. These dams have created incidentally half a million acres of new water surface on the Great Lakes of the south. These waters are forms of beauty by them.

"Fishing is one of the great pleasures of life and about 20 million Americans are built. The TVA reservoirs are a half-million year old. The catch from a lake in a pond is a year's supply of fish for a family of four. Thousands of people now winter in the land in the West.
