Electric Bills Bring Surprises

When consumers received their August electric bills many faces reflected surprise—some were pleasant, some were displeasing. In the residential sections of the city users of electricity found that their electric bills were lower under the new franchise recently granted the Kentucky Utilities Company. But, in many instances, it was a different story in the downtown districts, where commercial users were shocked to find their bills higher than for the previous month of July.

Mayor Paul DeMyer has received many complaints from commercial consumers in which which dissatisfaction has been expressed. It was Mayor DeMyer who led the fight against the new franchise, and his contentions all along were to the effect that the commercial rates were not equitable. In a survey made of the downtown districts the following facts were revealed, with comparative figures taken from the July and August bills of a number of consumers:

Example 1—July bill 17.12, August bill 16.27; with 32 less k.w. used in August than in July, and the bill 86c more, it was reported.

Example 2—Used just five more k. w. during August than in July, with bill $3.43 more, or at an average of 68c for each additional k. w. consumed above July bill, it was reported.

Example 3—Used 16 more k. w. in August than in July, with bill $3.36 more, or at average rate of 21c for each additional k. w. consumed above July bill, it was reported.

These figures show how the new rates operate in some instances, and investigation indicated commercial consumers paid more during August than during July for electric accounts. But there were a few exceptions where some bills were lower.

It is rumored that several contemplate installation of equipment for producing their own electricity. One plant is already manufacturing its own power, and a special meeting is being planned, according to reports, to take definite steps along this line by other interests.

SOUTH FULTON SCHOOLS HAVE LARGE ENROLLMENT

The South Fulton School opened Monday morning with the largest enrollment in history. In spite of a downpour of rain a large crowd filled the gymnasium to capacity. Bro. C. B. Cloyd opened the meeting with prayer and Bro. C. H. Warren made the principal speech.

Bro. Warren stressed cooperation and laboring together. In this there is the greatest strength. The speaker also related the history of the school for the past fifteen years and told of the great changes in the city of Fulton and its people since his acquaintance here.

Mr. C. A. Stephens represented the School Board in a talk concerning the efforts of the Board in selecting the best available material for the work needed in the various positions of the faculty. He asked for a concerted effort in getting behind the school.

Supr. Priestley introduced the teachers and discussed the growth of the school from an enrollment of 203 to 431 in the elementary school since 1932, and an increase from 77 in 1926 to 131 last session in the high school. When the main building was opened it was considered too large for any needs that might arise, since at that time two grades have been removed to the gymnasium building and the main building is seriously overcrowded while the enrollment continues to increase rapidly. The benediction was pronounced by Bro. L. E. McCoy.

The faculty is composed of the following: Prof. George Alley, Mathematics; Prof. Lloyd Thomas, coach and science; Miss Alma Whitaker, Home Economics; Mrs. H. J. Priestley, languages.

The elementary school Prof. Orvin Moore is Principal and Teacher of seventh and eighth grades; Miss Lena

Good Crowds Are Attending Fair

Singing and Concert Here Sunday-Monday

The regular monthly singing to be held at the court house here next Sunday afternoon at 1:30 is expected to attract hundreds of people. These periodic singings were first started here in the little brick church on West State Line street, and the crowds grew so large that the place of meeting was moved to the more spacious quarters at the court house.

Many singers and quartets will be here Sunday, and a representative of Vaughan will present the new 1934 song books of this company.

Plans for a concert were announced today by H. C. Cashion, local singing director, with a varied program of musical entertainment in store for the crowds who will attend from every community in this vicinity. This concert will begin Monday night at eight o'clock in the main auditorium of the court house.

Lovers of good music, both vocal and instrumental will have an opportunity of hearing some of the best singers and musicians in West Kentucky and West Tennessee.

The program will be comprised of many entertaining numbers. The Fulton string band, the ladies' quartet, a trio, and other singers are scheduled to participate. The Hickman quartet, the Mayfield quartet, Dunn quartet and others will render various numbers. The Water Valley orchestra, special readings and a large group of singers will provide a variety of entertainment on the concert program.

A negro comedy and minstrel will put additional sparkle and pep in the evening's program of entertainment. A negro comedy team of Crutcherfield will crack jokes, sing some Southern melodies and give an imitation of a colored preaching service.

A small admission charge will be made, and receipts will go to pay for the piano being used for the monthly community singings held at the court house here. The piano was purchased from the Exchange Furniture Co., with Mr. Robert Graham of this company contributing $12.50 as an initial payment. You'll enjoy the concert and will be helping out a good cause, so be there Monday night.

RAILROAD TRANSFORMATION

Railways are transforming themselves. For fifty years they have remained essentially unchanged, and during that period they busied themselves in building up this country. Locomotives and rolling stock became heavier to meet the public demand for more transportation facilities and greater safety.

Today engineers see clearly that locomotives and rolling stock are far too massive for this new age of transportation. Weights must be reduced by substitution of aluminum alloys and other light metals for steel. Streamline effects must be inroduced to replace the old type of equipment to bring about less resistance to the air and to speed up movement.

Five or six years ago early experiments were made in weight reduction and streamlining with what are called railcars. This was the beginning of the railroad's slow adaption to changing conditions in the transportation world. Then, later, this car was mounted on pneumatic tires to reduce vibration and make higher speeds possible, with the result that cost of operation was reduced 50 and 70 percent compared with the steam train. Recently an Austrian railcar was tested in New York, which spurred 70 miles an hour with a top speed of 90. The highway motor coach has nothing like this to offer.

For long distance trips, steps are swiftly being taken which mean faster time for railroads. A Union Pacific train is to average 70 miles an hour between Chicago and Los Angeles and to travel long stretches at 110. A complete transformation is to take place in these cross-country trains.

Stop a minute to contrast this train with one of three Pullman cars hauled by steam locomotive: 110 passengers in the streamlined flyer; 100 in the steam train. And weight is a big item: 80 tons for the whole streamlined structure—not more than the weight of a single Pullman—563 tons for the steam train. Fewer cars and aluminum alloys are the reasons for the enormous difference.

While the cost of running a steam passenger train is about twice that of a bus for a mile, the streamlined train, powered by a 12-cylinder automobile engine which spins an electric generator supplying current to motors on the axles, is not only faster than the bus but it costs a little less to run.

Although all indications point to replacement of steam locomotives by electric, streamlined trains for faster passenger service, the steam locomotive will survive for a long time as a hauler of freight.

PUBLIC OFFICIALS

Now that the elections are over citizens are watching holders of public offices, and hoping they will uphold the true cause of the community and the people themselves. In selecting these officials we must be careful that we select men of character and who have the welfare of Fulton and Fulton county at heart. These men should always be well qualified and willing for the mutual advantage of every citizen.

Politicians and self-seeking office

This and That

Noticed by the papers where William Brackebush, German actor, who played the role of Pete in The Passion play, dramatically ended his life by plunging a dagger into his head. Almost destitute since the decline of the German theater in New York, where he lived as caretaker, he played his last role when he took the suicide path like Judas of old.

Up in New York the other day a new record was established. An old-time, all-nonsense, all-dizzing kissing record. Three couples kept kissing for hours after all the rest of 22 staring entries in an international "kissing marathon" at Coney Island. Referee and timekeeper fainted, after an exhaustive experience as officials. George Newcomb, aged 75, and Mrs. Newcomb, 70 quit the contest 19 minutes after it started, when she remarked "anything gets tiresome." They had been married 52 years.

Thieves stole 152 eggs from a chicken farm up in Illinois a few days ago, but were badly put out when they learned later that all were made of wax.

The principle of "equal pay for equal work" is obviously just, as between men and women, if women are regarded as people equal to men in political, social and economic status. What has sex to do with the question, Recovery Administrator Johnson asks.

The prolonged controversy between Gov. Laffoon and Johnson-Talbot forces at Frankfort over the sales tax has reached a climax, temporarily at least. That political game was extremely ridiculous. Controversies that develop result from the fact that the state government structure is not properly centralized. More power should be holders deserve no place in public office. We should continually strive for the forces of better government and a saner administration of our city and county affairs, undisturbed by dissolution and decay. Nothing that is good or the common people is ever lost.

We should have men in our city and county offices who are highly in accord with the idea of lowering the costs without impairing our government. Above all we must have men who weigh community problems well, and ARE HONEST AND SINCERE, with themselves and with the people they represent. Dirty politics and grafters, selfish politicians have no place in our governments. No man "can serve two masters"—he must either serve the people who placed their trust in him when they elected him, or turn a deaf ear to his people and fall in line with ring leaders who always seek to trample the weak, gain power and material wealth for themselves.

The people should not stand back when their rights are imposed upon. If an occasion arises when a man is undeserving of the place he holds, action should be taken to impeach and throw him out of office. THE PEOPLE SHOULD BE SERVED REGARDLESS.

VALUE OF PURE WATER

President Roosevelt in giving priority to sewerage projects and to water supplies in the $3,300,000,000 public works program, made an intelligent move when he considered these of paramount importance to the welfare of this country. No community need fail to take steps now to safeguard public health, if it has any reason to doubt the safety of its water supply, with such generous federal assistance available.

Water seems to be such a commonplace thing in this day and time, placed in the hands of the governor as chief executive, and then if he does not act according to the people's pleasure they can always give him a swift kick where it will do him the most good.

The engraving on the N R A stamps depicts a farmer, businessman, laborer and housewife marching in step apparently around the corner toward prosperity.

Given a lift, and a $100 bill by a kindly motorists who picked him up at Petaluma, Cal., while hitch-hiking to San Francisco, John W. Gordon of Memphis, was astonished to learn his benefactor was former President Hoover.

Prof. W. S. Webb, head of the Department of Physics, University of Ky., and one of the leading archaeologists of the U. Don't imagine that N R A or anything else in the New Deal is going to make it easier to get on in the world—to earn advancement or to earn profits. Laziness, indifference, inefficiency will continue to reap their merited reward. The prizes will still go to those who study and sweat who are intelligent and diligent, who are enthusiastic and radiate enthusiasm, who subordinate self-indulgence to serving.

We seldom think about how grave a danger contaminated water supplies expose American communities to appalling distress, destruction and expense. Often failure to provide adequate purification facilities expose the entire community to disease-laden water.

Fulton and Fulton people should be thankful for the splendid supply of good, pure water that we have here. We go on day after day using it, giving little thought to its wholesomeness and purity. But occasionally some stranger in town will remark, now excellent is the Fulton water.

Although the equipment at our city water works is old and outmoded, we have managed to get along. It is possible that Fulton might benefit from this federal public works program. Never was the opportunity better to make much needed improvements, and the time-worn machinery at our city water works are liable to mishaps or disability.

City officials and citizens should think it over.

MACHINE TUNES IN ON BODY VIBRATIONS SCIENTISTS CLAIM

Some fifteen years ago, after scientists had already determined that the human body gives off vibrations of various frequencies, Dr. J. G. Miller of Tiffin, Ohio, converted the idea of a radio frequency machine for testing these vibrations. Experiment proved that he was on the right track, and after experimentation with over 10,000 cases, he perfected the Auto Electronic Radioclast, which it is said, picks up body Experiment has shown, according to Dr. Miller, that every disease to which the human flesh is heir as a given number or type of vibration, and a chart has been worked out by which examinations and treatments may be given patients.

Dr. A. C. Wade of this city was one of the first to bring this radio frequency machine to the middle west, it being introduced when a clinic was held here. Much interest has been shown in this apparatus, and hundreds attended the clinic.

New Variety Of Cotton Arouses Much Interest Around Fulton

Fulton Man Has Only Plants Of This Type In Existence In This Section.

A new variety of cotton has cropped up in this section which may put a new light on the cotton acreage production plan now being fostered by the federal government. Cotton growers may be able to reduce their acreage and yet improve and increase the yield of staple. This new kind of cotton is remarkable in the size of the stalk, the length of the staple, with productivity and texture of the lint superior, and the formation of blossoms and bolls distinctly different. Will Holman, who resides in South Fulton, who operates a grocery and service station, devotes his spare time in experimenting with this new cotton to determine just how it will react to the soil and climate of this section.

Mr. Holman has a small plot of ground planted in this new kind of cotton. Seed that produced this cotton have an usual history, in that they were found in an Indian cave in Colorado. They were well preserved, and when planted they developed this giant of the cotton world. No name has yet been given to the cotton, unless it could be called "Indian Cotton" because the first seed known to white man were found in the Indian cave, and the Indians are believed to have grown this kind of cotton hundreds of years ago. Early this spring there were only about seventy-five pounds of this Indian cotton seed in existence. Mr. Holman obtained a small quantity from a friend in Colorado, and on May 20th he planted them. Today his small patch of cotton is all blossomed out with many bolls already formed, and hundreds of squares on each stalk.

Examination of one of the stalks proved that it stood eight and one-half feet high, with a horizontal spread of seven feet. On this stalk were found over four hundred squares and bolls, which is a remarkable record of productivity. An average plant of two hundred bolls will produce around 300 seed. Other stalks are alike in growth and conformity.

Bolls on this type of cotton are distinctly different, because they have only three locks to a boll, while the ordinary cotton has four or sometimes five. Too, the blossoms are different in color from common cotton, being a deep pinkish yellow, and they are multiple-petaled like a rose, which makes them extremely beautiful in design and floral combinations. A field of this cotton is a veritable flower garden during the blossoming stage which occurs between the formation periods of the squares and the bolls. The texture of the lint is much finer in quality, having a glossy, silk-like appearance that shows up its "coarser relative," common cotton, and the yield seems to be much greater.

Mr. Holman and many of his friends who are cotton growers are watching the reaction of this new cotton plant to the climate conditions of this section. A number of cotton plantation owners from West Tennessee counties have visited the patch of "Indian Cotton" owned by Mr. Holman, with an eye on the possibilities of this new variety when grown on an extensive scale for marketing purposes.

HOME OWNER'S LOAN CORPORATION A STATEMENT OF POLICY

"In order that the public may understand that the greatest relief may be brought to the owners of small homes now in distress with their mortgages indebtedness; and that home owners may receive the greatest benefit from the recovery program, Home Owner's Loan Corporation makes this statement of policy:

"1. Home Owner's Corporation will treat as eligible for refunding by its home mortgage indebtedness where the owner is in distress on account of unemployed or other conditions beyond control, and will not deal with cases where the borrower is able to carry out his mortgage arrangement on any adjusted basis which the lender is willing to make.

"2. The Corporation will refund, as provided in Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, where possible and when necessary to prevent foreclosure and to the extent of its resources. At the same time, it will assist other home owners in need of funds to the extent of its ability to obtain such funds in ordinary channels.

"3. The Corporation will make every effort to conduct its business so as not only to protect the home owners whose mortgages are refunded but also to protect other home owners. To this end it will advise home owners able to do so to continue all possible mortgage payments and encourage mortgage lenders thereby supporting the value of homes."

Under terms of the loan act, the $2,000,000,000 in bonds available are not issued to the public, but are used to exchange for mortgages. The original holder of the mortgage thus receives an obligation issued by a federal agency and with government guaranteed interest only.

However, it is obviously necessary to establish a market for such bonds as a means of facilitating co-operation of mortgage holders with the government. Preliminary plans of the home loan board and its subsidiary corporation call for establishment of an adequate reserve fund for interest payment on the bonds and also a sinking fund for eventual redemption.

Swift Had Game In Sack Until 6th When O K Scored 8

Well folks it's all over now. Yes, the Twilight League ended Friday night with O K taking the third and deciding game of the series and three straight over Swift who tied them for the winner of the second half of the season.

Swift had the O K boys eating out of their hands for the first four innings by holding them to no hits no runs while they amassed 3 runs on four hits. In the fourth O K spurted up and scored 2 and then Swift, not satisfied with a 1 run lead, scored another to lead 4 to 2. But the fire works started anew in the sixth, and O K scored 8 times on five hits, three bases on balls and three errors.

No more games will be played in the Twilight until next year. But games between various teams will be on this year until it is too cool.

A picked team from the fats and leans went to Clinton Friday night and defeated them 15 to 13 in a hard fought battle. For five innings Fulton held Clinton 9 to 2 but Clinton inserted regulars and made the fight more interesting. Clinton will come to Fulton soon for a game.

News From The Police

Officers were called to the rooming house of Miss Willie Crow, located corner Fourth and Carr-st, last Friday afternoon, where thieves snatched away with money and a diamond ring, while several people were in the house. But nobody saw the thief.

The afternoon Mrs. George Payne, who resides on Cedar-st, reported a watch, iadeo pin and some clothing stolen from her home. Also Robert DeMyer reported a stolen pistol taken from a dresser drawer in his room at the New Century Hotel. But no clues of value in tracing the robberies could be ascertained.

Hobo jungles near the New Yards received a surprise attack one night last week, when a resident of Riceville got on a "spreck", gathered up his "pistoleries" and proceeded to scatter hoboes right and left. But a tie picking over a gang of tin cans, firing a round of wild shots, and falling over a cross-tie dragged up for a seat, he came to himself and found the camp deserted. When officers arrived at the jungle everything was "all quiet on the western front."

A shooting scrap broke out unexpectedly Saturday night on Bimman Hill, a colored residential section near the ice plant. Results: two injured, one missing. John Henry Martin and Albert Hunter alias Stinger, both colored wa shot in the shoulders and Hunter in the right arm, when they drew guns and began firing. Only poor marksmanship prevented more serious consequence.

Neighbors of Martin became frightened and called in the officers after it was all over. Hunter escaped, and Martin fled, to return later and report to the police. Hunter was traced to the home of his brother near Clinton, where he received medical attention, but made good escape the second time before the arrival of officers.

Raymond Roach, erstwhile chief of police in South Fulton, is stampeded. In a cornfield just south of town he found bloody shirt and cap, and evidence that a terrific struggle had occurred nearby. But that's as far as he got—bodies and clues were conspicuous by their absence. Just what took place there, nobody has been able to find out.

FOR Speed, Safety, Quiet!

★The new Ford V-8 sets the pace in modern automobile transportation with the ALL STEEL WELDED BODY. For all steel is best! If steel alone cannot do the job then the engineers who built the great steel bridges of the country are all wrong. And those who designed the battleships have been misled. If steel must be reinforced with wood then all the country's steel bridges and battleships should be junked.

We know . . . and you know that all steel is best. It can be welded into a strong one-piece whole. But wood and steel can never be joined into one. That is why wood and steel loosen . . . become noisy. Wood warps and rots . . . crushes under strain. Steel remains intact. Steel is SAFE!
