BENTON, KY., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1891. NO. 2.

Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Defended No. 2 again to the

I have been baffled and puzzled, as often, by the editor of the New York Times, but I do not think that I have ever written any letter to his paper expressing the views of a young man that is so naive and full of the spirit of kindness. I was not writing to him, but to him, in the spirit of truth and justice, and in the spirit of the American people, who are the real authors of the Constitution.

I have no wish to give offense, but I am determined to be frank and honest, and to speak the truth, even if it be disagreeable to some. I am not afraid of criticism, nor do I care for it, for I know that I am doing right.

I have been asked to write a letter to the editor of the New York Times, and I am glad to do so, for I think that it is my duty to speak the truth, even if it be disagreeable to some.
