MY WIFE!

Alongside of the grounds of the Male

High School, lies an enclosed lot containing some two acres of ground, which is the picture of dreary loneliness and desolation. It was once a church-yard of the first Baptist church built in Hopkinsville. It was a little brick building, where the venerable

Doctor Keen resided for $300 a year, when he first entered the work of the ministry. It was customary at that time, to bury the dead in the immediate vicinity of the churches, so that churchyard and grave-yard commonly had the same significance. The church disappeared long ago. Its members deserted it for the present one on Main street, and as nothing is usually so neglected

and friendless as an abandoned church edifice, the house soon went to ruin and was torn down, being unavailable for any other purpose in that location.

But the saying of the grave-digger in the play, that the grave-digger builds a stronger house than any other builder,

is verified in this dismal weed and brier

over-run lot, for the narrow houses of the sexton have outlasted the old church. On the establishment of the City Cemetery many of the remains were removed from the old churchyard. There are still left undisturbed

some hundred graves, but in a ruinous and unsightly condition. A few box tombs remain entire. Others have tum-bled down, and lie sprawling in all directions. Head-stones are leaning at all angles and their fragments are scattered about in the weeds. The ordinary memorial of a cemetery do not last long. It is the basement of the secton's house which is enduring; the por-

ty story soon cracks and crumbles away. Rose-bushes, evergreens and memorial plants are wholly wanting;

but alders, burdocks, bamboo-vines and brambles abound, while poison-oak twines its snaky branches over the mossy and half-defaced inscriptions. Many of the stones bear well known and honored names.

A tomb in the northeast corner bears

the name of Dr. Moses Steele, born 1772; died 1817. Another in the southeast corner is in memory of Mrs. Amanda

GOLD BRICK.

A Scheme to Victimize the Innocent Unmasked.

Readers of newspapers have become familiar with the famous "gold brick" swindle. It is an old trick, and many an honest man has experienced the truth of the saying that "all is not gold that glitters," who opened his heart and his purse to well dressed strangers claiming to have a "big thing" on hand.

Last week at Madison, Ind., an old farmer was induced to invest in a gold brick by a sharper, and, when investigation was made, he found he had paid

$7,000 for a lump of valueless metal.

The same old game is played time and again, and the festive angel always finds a sucker to bite at his gilded bait.

There is one instance on record, however, when the swindle was downed in the first round. The story was told us by Mr. Livingston Buckner yesterday. He says that about two months ago two well dressed, shabby gentlemen called at his lively stable to hire a horse and buggy. They said they intended to go through the country selling dry goods to the people at their residences. They told a colored employe at the stable that they would go out one road, and told Mr. Buckner they would take another. They had with them two large and heavy valises, which they placed in the buggy, refusing to permit the colored man to assist them. All of this excited Mr. Buckner's suspicion, and, thinking they intended to steal his team, he mounted his horse intent on shadowing them. They started out the Nashville road, a route different from either of those previously mentioned,

and drove straight on toward Casky.

Mr. Buckner kept within sight and far enough away to be beyond recognition.

When they reached Mr. Ed. Casky's

they turned into a lane on the right and drove up into the woods. Mr. Buckner followed and stationed himself on his horse behind a clump of trees where he could watch their movements. In a few minutes the buggy stopped, and one of the men got out and walked into the woods. In a minute or two he

THE TRI-WEEKLY NEW ERA.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1885.

GEN. TOOMBS.

Gen. John B. Gordon Relates Interesting Incidents Characteristic of His Peculiar Nature.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The death of Gen. "Bob" Toombs in Washington, D. C., yesterday, has led to some gossip here about the late Confederate leader. Gen. John B. Gordon, of Georgia, who is here on some railroad matter, was saying today: "I guess I know Toombs almost as long as I have known myself. Probably the most striking thing in his personal endowment was his exceeding vigor and energy. He appears to be a singularly erratic mode of thought; yet he was a man conservative in action."

SOME OF HIS SAYINGS.

"As illustrative of his peculiar method of saying things, it is said that he declared before the beginning of the war, while trying to induce the States to secede, that no blood would be spilt, and added: 'I will drink the blood spilt on both sides.' It was very much like him, and it is probable he might have made use of the remark."

Speaking in bitter criticism of the general conduct of the war on our side, he ridiculed the idea of having so much cavalry, and with a strength of utterance that I shall not repeat, he said: "If I was the commander of a great army in a great war I would have but one man on horseback. I would have one fellow for a vidette." Of course Gen. Toombs did not mean this literally, but it is a fair sample of his extraordinary way of putting things. Another of his blunders was a great contempt for West Point. He believed thoroughly in civilian soldiers. One of his favorite expressions on this subject was, during the war, that if the Confederacy failed its epithet ought to be, 'Died of West Point.'

HIS BRILLIANT REPUTATION.

"Another peculiarity of Gen. Toombs was the extreme pliancy and brilliancy of his reputation. I remember a few years ago, at the Greenbrier White Sulphur springs, in Virginia, he became involved in a rather disagreeable controversy with a man who was defending the Northern side of the controversy in his late war. This gentleman finally said to Gen. Toombs, 'Well, General, we liked you, anyhow.' 'Liked us,' said the old General, as he straightened himself up, 'no, sir, no such thing. We were ourselves out whipping you.'"

HIS TENDENCY OF HEART.

"I wish to add that with all the peculiarities of this brilliant man he had great benevolence and a warm heart. He was a man of great tenderness and affection for his family. Although up in arms against all men, he was gentle and courteous in his intercourse with ladies. Said an old Southern lady only: 'I regard "Bob" Toombs as we used to call him, and I might add Gen. "Jube" Early, as two of the most singular men this country has ever produced. Ever since I have known him, he has been to me a man of wonderful learning.' He has said many times since the war that he never surrendered, and he never did."

"No more hospitable man ever lived than Gen. Toombs. The citizens of his town, Washington, once circulated a petition for subscriptions for the purpose of building a hotel. 'What do you want a hotel for?' asked the General. 'Why, General, replied the circulator of the petition, 'our town is growing, and when strangers come here we ought to have some decent place for them to stop at.' 'I shall not subscribe. You know when any gentleman or ladies come to town they can always come to my hotel. I have a house, and any other kind of people we don't want.'"

HIS LIFE IN THE CHURCH.

"In his latter years Gen. Toombs took no part in politics. In former years he was a great seceder, but a few years ago he joined the church, and has been an exemplary man since. One thing is certain, a character has passed away that can not be replaced, and the South has lost one of her ablest men and typical gentlemen."

GEN. FRYER'S TRIBUTE.

Gen. Roger A. Pryor said this morning: "I have always regarded Mr. Toombs as decidedly the ablest man in the country. His judgment, however, was not trustworthy. He was as often carried away by impulse as directed by reason. He was an orator of great power, and in my judgment unsurpassed, and he was a most formidable debater. Although he affected a slovenly, rustic manner and a contempt for grammar, he was nevertheless an intense student and a man of great miscellaneous reading. No speech in the Senate in my day read better than his. He was a brilliant and striking conversationalist, and has said more paradoxical, epigrammatic things than any man I have ever heard of."

HIS PRIVATE LIFE.

"In private life, Gen. Toombs was irreproachable. He was the most tender and devoted of husbands and the most affectionate of fathers. Probably as striking an illustration of the esteem in which he was held by his friends as can be given is the fact that when the Confederate cause began to collapse the policy of making Toombs a sort of General-in-Chief, or Dictator, was seriously discussed. Since the war I have seen nothing of him whatever. The reckless and absurd deliverances imputed to him since the war were the ebullitions of his restless, fiery and impatient spirit, which, had he held office or found any other vent for it, would not have so displayed itself."

There are scores of persons who are suffering from some form of blood disorder or skin disease, such as scrofula, boils, etc., etc. After a practical test we assert Acker's Blood Elixir will certainly cure all such diseases, including Syphilis and Rheumatism. It is not a patent nostrum, but a scientific preparation. H. B. Garner guarantees it.

Beware of the Incompetents.

Louisville Democrat.
A party in the care of its writers, editors, and leaders is not unlike an army in the care of its officers. The line of promotion must be kept freely open to all the aspiring faithful, and capable; long and faithful service, if rendered by those that show ability and discretion, must be carefully provided for. The vigor, numbers, intelligence, discipline, and success of any party depends on a wise and impartial observation of the principle here set forth. It calls for more skill and care than almost anything else in maintaining a healthy party organization. There is so much room for impostors. So many impostors, or incompetents, come always to the front, and beg for the positions of profit, honor, and trust. Poverty, misfortune in business, or loss by death, or what not, is made the impudent plea for positions in the public service, where special fitness, capacity, and long service alone should be pleaded, or considered. In the face of this, really able and meritorious men are put to the blush, and retire too often clear out of sight in distrust or disgust. A few years of this sort of thing brings the party that is the victim of it to a general defeat at the polls. The long line of incompetents, in and out of office, are dumfounded at the disaster they themselves and their friends and accomplices have brought to pass.

There is little pleasure in the world that is true and sincere beside the pleasure of doing our duty and doing good. I am sure no other is comparable to this. (—Tillotson.)

An Explanation.

DETROIT, Dec. 15, 1885.

Editor New Era:
In reference to a most cruel attack upon me appearing in a Chicago daily on Sunday, the 14th inst., I beg you will give me an opportunity to reply with a statement of exact truth. I went to places in Chicago last August, broken down in mind and body completely and left there in a half-sensory condition, with the bare clothes on my back, less than $10 in my pocket and with every resource in the world swept from me. Until three days since, when I was enabled to get to the East, I have been not "lurking around Chicago," but—at three different times—Missions in northern Wisconsin and northern Minnesota, in the Superior region. With the rest of a fortune came a stroke of paralysis that has nearly taken my life from me, and I have suffered enough to protect any man from newspaper assassination.

To save others who should have helped themselves and a desperate hope to make a noble, clean and safe publication in Chicago, I became personally involved to the extent of $17,000, besides losing the entire earnings of my life. Without a home, in a condition, helpless, and without a tangible hope in any direction on this earth, I did appeal to men I knew, in each case, publication in Chicago, I became a beggar, supply bitter actual necessities of any human being in my condition. I would not have done this, and would have begged $100,000, had I been in Chicago as a common laborer, as I have done in years past, had I not been a physical wreck. Because I did not know where to turn, I begged from day to day. I asked some of my old employees to get me a box at the Chicago post-office, box 289, being secured so that my mail from all sources—comprising letters of inquiry on former matters connected with The Current, and hundreds of letters of regret and sympathy from journalists and literary men—could be held safely, and forwarded. This and other thankless tasks have generously been done for me by persons occupying responsible positions in Chicago, who themselves suffered from my ruin, and whose sympathy for me grew out of the relations for years of loyal employees to struggling employer, and deserves credit rather than censure. Several weeks since an old college friend, a Brooklyn physician, sent word to me if I could come there he would keep me at his home and endeavor to restore my health; and I am now thus far towards that kind of help, having for my supreme aspiration the longing and hope to get well, so that I can work as no other man ever worked to pay every creditor I owe, and show a man's true gratitude to them and those who have recently aided me. From the latter I have received $125, which has kept me alive and is assisting me in getting where I pray God my health may be regained so that I may yet be of some good in the world, and I shall, although a few seem determined that I shall not.

I have led a life of sacrifice and labor and economy for no bad purpose; it is a matter of record that I have been worth something in Chicago progress, years before I established The Current; I have done as much as I could in my life for my fellow-men; and it is true that, to the extent of my ability, I have been generous and helpful to those of my profession. These things entitle me, in my present pitiable condition, to the kindly sympathy of, or merciful silence from, the press, until I have committed crime—or attempted to create another literary publication, which, God helping me, I shall never do.

EDGAR L. WAREMAN.

A Monster Cabbage Farm.

Buffalo Courier.
The most extensive cabbage farm in the world is near Chicago. It consists of 100 acres in the "cabbage district," as it is called, which comprises 2,500 acres of rich, heavy soil, especially adapted to cabbage culture. It requires 1,114,000 plants to set the 100 acres, and counting those used for the seedling, 30,000,000 for the whole district under cultivation. The bulk of the crop is sent south in box cars, to supply a demand which exists after the consumption of the cabbage crop, which, owing to the climate, can not be stored for future use.

Changing the Climate of Continents.

According to a very eminent engineer, the building of a great canal above the Straits of Belle Isle, would make a marvelous change in the climate of the United States and Europe. It is known that the Gulf Stream, which issues from the Caribbean Sea, pours its current of warm water north and east and impinges upon the western coast of Europe, raising the temperature of that continent and modifying more especially the naturally cold climate of the British Islands. The influence is felt as far as Norway, to such an extent that there is one harbor on that ice-bound coast which is open all winter long. Not only does our coast get much benefit from the depth waters of the Gulf Stream, but we are subject to the refrigerating influence of enormous currents of icy water coming from the Arctic regions, which now flow through the Straits of Belle Isle into the Gulf of St. Lawrence. It contains its southern course along the Cape Breton Islands, Nova Scotia, and toward Nantucket Island. South of this point it forms what is called the cold wall of the Gulf Stream, which lowers the temperature of our Atlantic coast as far south as Cape Hatteras. The problem would be to deflect the polar current of ice water away from the Straits of Belle Isle, so that it would intercept the Gulf Stream and force the latter back to the eastern shore of the North American continent. In that case Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, and our whole coast north of Cape Hatteras would get the benefit of the warm waters which issue in such surprising quantities from the Gulf of Mexico.

Our winters would become milder, our spring earlier, and our autumns later, while Nova Scotia and Newfoundland would have the climate of Jersey and Long Island. This change, if effected, would be a great calamity to Europe. For the winters would become more severe, and there would be far shorter springs and falls. To accomplish this wonderful transformation would cost some $40,000,000. Wild as this scheme may seem, it is advocated by Prof. C. W. Redfield, and has been called attention to by scientific journals as being entirely practical. No doubt in the fulfiling of time great works like this will be undertaken, and man will gain a better control over the planet he inhabits. If some half the sums were spent in improving the face of the globe that are now wasted on armies and wars, what marvelous improvements might be accomplished.

A Hopeless Case.

DENVER, Col., Dec. 19.—While seven men were being hoisted to the surface in the Solterino mine, near Nevada, a rock fell from above and struck Archibald Warren on the head, knocking him out of the bucket. The men tried to catch him, but failed. The bucket was about 450 feet from the surface at the time. An exploring party found a piece of his jaw bone at the 1,200-foot level and a piece of his skull at the 1,300-foot level, where his coat was also found. His body fell about 1,200 feet, and is now in the water at the bottom of the shaft.

Over one million boxes of Acker's Dyspepsia Tablets sold in the past twelve months, purely upon their merits. Why suffer with Chronic Constipation, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Sick Headache, Heartburn, and Female Troubles, when we offer you relief and positive cure in the Dyspepsia Tablets. H. B. Garner sells them on a guarantee.

The Downfall of Trespass Johnson.

"I can't see that Prof. Trespass Johnson was in the hall to-night," said Broiler Gardner, as he looked up and down. "De factum, I didn't 'sactly' expect he would be. Sartin events have occurred to render his absence a necessity. The secretary will turn to his name on the roll an 'scrutiny' of it, and write across it in red ink the word 'expelled.'"

When the secretary had carried out the request, the president continued: "Up to a year ago Prof. Johnson was an active, respected member of this club. He was not only a worker in our cause, but he was industrious as a man. If he couldn't get work at $1.50 a day he got it for $1. If he couldn't have roast duck for Sunday he put up with a beef soup. His family had plenty to eat and to wear, and when rent day came around he had cash ready for his landlord."

"Just about twelve months back some white man told professor that he had just as good a right to a planer, gold watch, an 'span of horses as a rich man. He was told that de aristocracy was in 'm' money out of his labor. He was made to believe that de kussen cellin' wouldn't pay $2 to hev a kussen cellin' white washed was an oppressor. It was pounded into him that if he sot on de fence all summer an' talked again de blue blood of his kentry somebody would furnish him roast turkey all winter."

Miss Annie Lee Hord, of Calvert City, is visiting the family of Mr. Henry Morris.

Henry C. Bauer, formerly engineer at the Asylum, now of Louisville, is visiting friends in the city.

G. Grey Lewis and Joe Feland Jr. went over to Nashville Saturday on business and returned Sunday morning.

Messrs. J. M. Courtney and John Moayan returned from a protracted stay at Hot Springs last Friday. Mr. Courtney is much improved. We regret to hear that Mr. Moayan is still afflicted.

A fifteen-year-old boy broke the skull of a twelve-year-old boy with a stone, in a fight at Henderson last Saturday. The injury is fatal.

Mr. William Page, of this county, has killed 647 partridges since Nov. 25th, 1885. He hunted three days one week, killing 43 the first day, 41 the second, and 42 the third. This record is hard to beat, and if any hunter in Kentucky can show up bigger figures, let him speak out.

There is an ordinance prohibiting the shooting of fire crackers, roman candles, sky rockets or any kind of fire works on any of the streets. The police have been somewhat annoyed by the discharge of these Christmas explosives during the past week, and while it is fun for the boys, if one of them should by chance be caught he will have to pay the fiddler.

"All that glitters is not gold," and the Gold-Brick man is badly sold. Besides, the trick is very old; and, confidentially, the two travelers' mothers don't know that they are out so they had better run in out of the cold. They might go to Clarksville and exchange their gold brick for stock in the I. A. & T. Railroad.

Time is money. Time flies. The money flies too, especially if the time referred to be Christmas time, which will soon be present. The household announces that the true orthodox meaning of present time is "the time for making presents," from Caesar, the boot-polisher, to Angeline, the Flower of the family.

Time is represented as a bald-headed scythe-bearer with only a single lock of hair on his polished skull. This doubtless signifies that the youngsters are ready to snatch their rich uncles bald-headed, if they are not ready to ornament the cloud of life with a silver lining. Dickens said that Christmas was a forgiving time. Dickens was a careless writer, however, and probably meant to say a time for giving.

Bank of Hopkinsville Stock for sale.

On the first Monday in Jan. 1886 County Court day about 12 o'clock noon, I will offer for sale 40 shares in Bank of Hopkinsville for a division of the heirs of S. A. Means.

D. R. BEARD, Executor.

The Rarest of Combinations.

True delicacy of flavor with true efficacy of action, has been attained in the famous California liquid fruit remedy, Syrup of Figs. Its pleasant taste and beneficial effects have rendered it immensely popular. Sample bottles free, and large bottles for sale by H. B. Garner.

Rumored Railroad Disaster.

A rumor was in circulation just as the paper was going to press that a freight train on the I. A. & T. railroad, en route to Clarksville, was knocked off the track and badly damaged, Sunday night, by a poultry wagon. The humanity of the poultry man in refusing to aid in hitting the cars back on the track is sharply criticised. The company will probably sue him for damages.

Christmas Beef.

A splendid thoroughbred, short-horn barren cow belonging to Mr. C. F. Jarrett was sold at the Court-house yesterday, at public auction to Parker & Wiley, for $5.00 per cwt. The cow weighed 1,500 pounds, and would have brought a much higher price had not Mr. Jarrett with a very praise-worthy consideration for the appetites of his fellow citizens during Christmas week, positively refused to sell the animal for shipment, but on the sole condition that it should be slaughtered and served up for the Hopkinsville market. The beef will accordingly be on sale Thursday morning next. There will be a rare combination of substance and succulence, the blended aroma of blue-grass and red clover in the remains of the lamented dead who cost her owner $175.

I. A. & T. Railroad.

A meeting of the subscribers to the first mortgage bonds of this railroad was held in Clarksville last Friday. Major Gordon, president of the road, made a statement of its troubles and concluded by asking the subscribers to surrender the bonds for face value, payable in preferred stock and 50 per cent. additional of common stock, the transfer not to take effect until Maj. Gordon, on his part, places in the hands of the trustees $50,000, in addition to the unpaid subscription of $50,000, making $100,000 to guarantee the completion of the road to Princeton. A general change of directors was also promised, giving Clarksville the controlling interest in the road. A Clarksville dispatch says that most of the subscribers are willing to give every dollar of the subscription to have the road completed to Princeton. They argue that the subscriptions are all lost at this, and the road unfinished.

Around Town.

See the elegant display of Christmas goods at Howe's.

The "Mother Goose" exhibition at the Opera House Friday night was a grand spectacular success.

Have you seen the display of Christmas goods in the show window of Howe's Jewelry Palace? "It takes the cake."

We were pained to learn of the sudden death of Mr. J. P. McKnight at his residence near Pee Dee Sunday night.

FOR RENT.—The store room lately occupied by Mr. W. T. Cooper, deceased. Apply to W. T. Cooper, Phoenix Hotel, or J. S. Summers, Longview.

The Japanese jugglers in connection with the Sunday school children of the Cumberland Presbyterian church will give an entertainment Thursday evening Jan. 31st.

"Oh! How the shoe pinches!" We are selling our New Toys at cost. Holland & Rodgers.

Mr. Robert McKee, who lives near Casey, while at work on a barn Saturday fell from the roof and was considerably hurt. He made a narrow escape, but will be out in a few days.

Don't buy anything for Christmas presents until you have seen the attractions at Howe's Jewelry Palace. His stock surpasses anything in town.

The ladies of Grace Episcopal church realized handsomely from their candy pulling last night. A big crowd attended and everybody enjoyed the evening's entertainment.

Remember, that the most reliable and finest watch-work, and at more reasonable prices than anywhere else, is done at M. D. Kelley's.

Judge D. M. Woodruff, who was once a prominent citizen of this county but of late president of Stockton, Mo., died of heart disease at his home in that place on the 16th, inst.

Have you seen the magnificent new stock of diamonds, gold and silver watches, clocks, jewelry, spectacles, Holland's gold pens, engagement rings &c. now open at M. D. Kelley's jewelry emporium.

Mr. John Green, of the Bellevue neighborhood, butchered two hogs last week that weighed 1000 pounds net. One was a Poland china and the other an improved chester white.

$5,000 00 worth of diamonds on exhibition at Howe's Jewelry Palace; also the largest and most attractive stock of ladies' and gentlemen's gold watches and chains, rings, charms, lace pins, bracelets, gold pens, tooth-picks, silver spoons, knives, carving sets, etc., all to be sold very low for Christmas presents.

Mr. J. B. Richards will be married to Miss Sallie McDaniel at the Methodist church Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, by Rev. E. W. Bottomly. Ushers, Messrs. John Ellis, Bailey Waller, Hanson Dulin and Palmer Graves. No cards.

It is a rare treat to go into Howe's Jewelry Palace and see the elegant line of Christmas goods. Mr. Howe has just returned from the Eastern markets, and has brought with him hundreds of beautiful and rare attractions. Many of which have never been seen in Hopkinsville before.

Not quite $5,000 worth of diamonds in stock at M. D. Kelley's, but yet he has the largest number of articles (49) consisting of lace pins, ear-rings, finger rings, scarf pins, studs &c., and is worth more in real dollars and cents, without any fictitious valuation, than any similar stock in town.

The ladies of the Baptist Church will give a pound party in the vacant store room under the Opera house to-night. Every one attending is expected to bring a pound of something or pay 25 cents at the door. There will also be an auction of candy. Come at 7 o'clock.

A new jewelry firm has been organized in this city. The firm will be known as D. Galbreath & Co. They will open an establishment in the house now occupied by N. Tobin and will commence business early in January. Mr. Galbreath is well known to the trade and will make a success in his new departure.

Buy your TOYS & HOLIDAY PRESENTS this week from HOLLAND & RODGERS, they are selling them at COST.

Mr. A. P. Campbell, Jr., of this city, in a contest with five other students for Valedictorian of Vanderbilt Dental College, came out second on the list. The last vote stood Harrell 29, Campbell 19. Mr. Campbell's address is spoken of as an able, chaste and eloquent orator. He will graduate in February and locate in this city to practice his profession.

Don't forget to call at M. D. Kelley's jewelry emporium and see his elegant stock. Beats anything in town in quantity, quality, styles and low prices.

Mr. Frank Holloway died Sunday morning at his residence in this county. He suffered long, but was calm and willing when the destroyer came. Mr. Holloway was a noble man, and a host of friends are left behind to mourn his loss. He was buried near Garrettsburg Sunday evening. There were no funeral services. We sympathize with the afflicted and tender our kindest sympathies to friends and relatives.

The greatest attraction now in the city is the low prices at which our popular jeweler M. D. Kelly is selling his magnificent fine stock of everything in the jewelry line for the holidays. Don't miss the opportunity to call and examine and be convinced.

Mr. J. H. Moseley, of Russellville, will be married to Miss Sadie McCarty this afternoon at 3 o'clock, at the residence of her mother near Fairview, by Rev. Thos. Shaw. Mr. Moseley is accompanied by Messrs. Geo. Garrettsan, Sam Richards, John Harris, Geo. Beall, Fred Ryan, Geo. Clark, Lee Moseley, and Miss Lida McCarty. The young couple will go to Russellville this evening where they will reside in future. Miss McCarty is a lovely young lady and Mr. Moseley is a gentleman of high character. We wish them happiness.

If you want to buy a Christmas present, do not while away your time looking at small stocks of old-style goods, but go to Howe's Jewelry Palace and see more fine Christmas goods than you ever saw before.

NOBODY KNOWS

How the Election Went Yesterday But Brasher Probably Wins.

The election yesterday was very quiet. Little interest was manifested and numbers of people in the country precincts knew nothing about it. The returns at 8 o'clock last night were favorable to Brasher. Reliable information gives Feland 60 majority in Madisonville, though the county (Hopkins) is given to Brasher by from 150 to 200. This city gave Feland a majority of 378, 290 in the upper and 106 in the lower precinct. Returns from some of the county precincts came in last night, but we cannot vouch for their correctness. It was reported that Brasher had carried Casey by 48, Pembroke by 40, Fruit Hill by 7, Fairview by 35, also Bainbridge, Stewarts, Hamby, Garrettsburg and Scott's Mill by unknown majorities. Feland is said to have carried Crofton by 23. No estimate can be made of the returns from the other precincts but it is probable that Brasher's vote will be increased so that Feland's majority in the county will not be over 100. No one can at this time possibly predict the result. Republicans claim Feland's election by 200 and Democrats are as certain of Brasher by the same figures. Taking everything into consideration, it now seems that there will not be a difference of more than 100 votes between them. Brasher's majorities are in the country and come in late, so that his chances are constantly becoming brighter.
