Trip Around The World

The ladies of the First Baptist Church gave a very unique party Tuesday evening when they gave a "trip around the world." The City National Bank was the place to buy tickets for this delightful voyage. Steamers (cars) were leaving every few minutes for the different countries.

Ireland was the first stopping place. The home of Mrs. C. B. Roach was artistically decorated with Irish colors and an interesting contest was enjoyed and little Irish potatoes were given as souvenirs.

Africa was the next land in place. Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Allen's home was just filled with "Africans." Here you heard them in their native songs and dances, and was served 'all day suckers.' Then came Japan at the home of Dr. and Mrs. L. V. Brady with the house decorated in all kinds of artistic and dainty Japanese decorations, and the ladies dressed in their pretty Japanese costumes. After listening to an entertaining program of music by some of Fulton's best musical talent and being served tea and wafers in real Japanese china, the tourists departed for China, which was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Cheek. This home was elaborately decorated with all kinds of curios from China; handsome luncheon sets, bedspreads and all kinds of fancy work, paintings and gorgeous kimono were displayed. Mr. M. C. Cheek, of Shanghai, China, who is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Cheek, explained quite a bit of their customs. After leaving this place all "sailed" for America, which was at the home of Dr. and Mrs. R. T. Rudd, with flags flying and all of the assistants dressed as "Miss America" and the band playing, one really felt after being served iced lemonade and wafers that it is good to live in America.

South Fulton Will Vote On

$40,000 Bond Issue July 25—Sewerage System at Stake

On the vote to be taken July 25, in South Fulton, hinges one of the most gigantic civic improvements the "Twin City" has ever undertaken. The issue is not what it means in dollars and cents, but the health and comfort of the community, not only to South Fulton, Tennessee, but to Fulton, Kentucky as well.

In the city limits of South Fulton live as progressive people as you will find anywhere and we believe on July 25, the $40,000 bond issue will be voted by a handsome majority. This money will be used to build a sewerage system to connect with Fulton's system, bonds for which have already been voted.

Vote for County Attorney

In Democratic Primary Elections Since 1908

The following is a line up of the candidates and votes they received in the race for County Attorney in the Democratic primary the past four elections:

For County Attorney, 1908
Allison Tyler 516
T. N. Smith 623
J. W. RONEY 751

For County Attorney, 1913
J. W. RONEY 942
H. F. Remley 679

For County Attorney, 1917
J. W. Roney 390
Lon Adams 345
Sam Elliott 273
DEE L. McNEILL 693
W. J. McMurtry 414

For County Attorney, 1921
LON ADAMS 1,951
DEE L. McNeill 1,838

The 1913 campaign in the county attorney's race was lively and ended in a horrible accident when H. F. Remley who ran against J. W. Roney, while returning from a political speaking in West Hickman, drove a horse over an embankment at Hickman and was instantly killed. It is presumed that in the darkness Remley thought he had reached the turn in the road leading to his home when instead he drove the horse over the embankment.

LEGION CARNIVAL A SUCCESS

From all appearances and the general impression given the public, the Carnival held last week by the Legion was a big success, and the fact of its being run an extra night seems to bear out that impression.

It also shows that when the Fulton people get really interested in any project that they will go the limit to make it a success, and if we could just find the scheme for getting the citizens to take more interest in some of the other worth while projects of the community, Fulton would be the very best town in the south.

The feature event of the carnival was the queen of the carnival contest in which a handsome diamond ring was given to the winner. This contest resulted in much rivalry of the numerous candidates entered, the number being about 50, but Miss Katherine Reid was the final winner, receiving a total of 11,000 votes. Miss Reid was the honor guest at the ball given in her honor at the Elks Club.

BILL BOOSTER SAYS

"ALWAYS GO DEAF IN BOTH EARS WHEN A BIT OF GOSSIP FLOATS MY WAY! MOST LIKELY IT ISN'T TRUE, AND ANYWAY, I NEVER COULD GET ANY ENJOYMENT OUT OF THE MISFORTUNES OF MY FRIENDS."

Lon Adams

Candidate for Re-election for County Attorney

To the Ladies of Fulton County:

As you doubtless remember, I sent a personal letter to every lady voter in the county in the early part of the campaign, soliciting her support in my behalf as a candidate for County Attorney. As there are a considerable number of candidates for the various offices in the county making a house to house canvass, and as I have already by means of a letter laid before you my claims as a candidate, I have decided, out of respect for the rights and feelings of the ladies, to refrain from making a house to house canvass, especially in the towns; however, let me say that this is not written in criticism of any candidate who is making or who desires to make a house to house canvass to lay his claims before the ladies, and the probabilities are that had I not written the ladies regarding my candidacy I too would have made a personal canvass.

In offering this explanation of my failure to make a house to house canvass, I do so, believing that I have adopted the course of least annoyance and inconvenience to the ladies. So, if on election day you see proper to vote for me, I will be more than grateful for your support.

LON ADAMS.

WHY IS IT?

"Yes, We Have No Bananas Today" could have been sung on Lake street for some time past, but last Saturday Chief Ed must have taken a day off, for the banana vendors were again stationed at the "old stand" selling the "Good-a-Banan" just as of old.

Just why the city authorities allow vendors to "put it over" on them every little while is a mystery, but Fulton does not seem to have any monopoly on that mystery.

Out-of-town canvassers, fruit vendors, chicken and dog owners, and auto drivers all seem to be immune from the police. Even cars without either head or tail lights may be seen on the streets almost any evening, and children under age drive cars at all hours, and seemingly on any and all streets.

GREAT LIVE STOCK SHOW AT FULTON COUNTY FAIR

Indications are that the one feature of the 1925 Fulton county fair, August 25-29, that will overshadow all others will be the live stock show. The growth of the interest in purebred live stock has been one of the prominent phases of recent Southern agricultural development. Particularly has this interest shown remarkable development in the Fulton territory and this development has followed closely the growth of the livestock show at the Fulton County Fair.

Every breeder has something of the showman in his make-up and just as the showman likes to play a large and enthusiastic house, so the exhibitor likes to show where the merits of his exhibits are recognized and appreciated.

Poultry Show to Be a Big Success

Probably no county fair poultry show in the country has back of it the live, active interest that lines up behind the Fulton County Show. While the fair association furnishes the stage of the show and pays a large part of the premiums, the actual conduct of the show this year is backed by the Fulton County Poultry Association, the liveliest, most wide awake and unselfish bunch of enthusiasts that ever got behind a poultry show.

The prize list is distinguished by the unusually large number and amount of money offered in special prizes.

City Ticket

In political circles the friends of W. O. Shankle are urging him to make the race for Mayor of Fulton, fully realizing that a number of good men have been mentioned for the office.

City Council

It is understood that a complete ticket has been slated for councilmen—men who have the interest of Fulton at heart; men who are progressive, yet conservative; men who will serve as councilmen, we believe to the satisfaction of the people.

The editor of this paper has always been with the people and they are seldom wrong. The ticket slated is a good one in our judgment and we hope it will go through. We believe it will save factionalism and unite the town more closely than it has ever been.

Best Ball Game of the Season

Chancellor Team of Girls Will Play Here Saturday

FULTON vs. MILAN, TENN.

The ball game Saturday by the Chancellor Girls promises to outclass any of the season. A big bunch of Milan ball fans will accompany their team and all of them are professional rooters. Therefore, it behooves every lover of the sport of Fulton to attend the game Saturday and root for the home team.

The game Saturday at three o'clock will be under the auspices of the Fulton City Health Department and all the net proceeds will be used for the benefit of this splendid work. The admission is only 20c and 25c. Go and enjoy one of the best games of the season and encourage the girls in one of the cleanest sports of National pastime.

The Chancellor League of ball players is made up from the various American Cigar factories of this territory and named after the celebrated Chancellor cigars which they manufacture.

SAFETY AGENT ILLINOIS CENTRAL SYSTEM WILL HOLD MEETING

The Illinois Central Railroad company has arranged to have a joint safety meeting with employees of the Illinois Central and the public at the City Hall, Fulton, 8 p. m., Friday, June 26.

The safety campaign that is being conducted by the Illinois Central Railroad company, in conjunction with the American Railway Association, during period June 1 to September 30, is a movement of vital interest to our employees and the public. The campaign is being conducted with a view of promoting safety measures, decreasing accidents of every character, particularly accidents at highway grade crossings.

The Railroad Company's System Safety Agent will be present and will show moving pictures of interest in connection with safety matters, and address the meeting. It is hoped that the public will take advantage of this opportunity to hear what the Safety Agent of Illinois Central has to say with reference to safety matters and take advantage of the very interesting moving pictures that will be displayed at the meeting. There will, of course, be no charge for admission, and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance.

BOB IS RESTING ON VERDANT HILLSIDE

STURDY OAK STANDS SENTINEL AT UNMARKED GRAVE

FUNERAL SERVICE SIMPLE

Dead Leader Called "Prophet of New Democracy" by Pastor - Great Crowd Sees Last Rites. Widow Bears Up Bravely

Madison, Wis.—In an unmarked plot on a verdant hillside the body of Robert Marlon LaFollette found rest eternal. A sturdy oak stands sentinel at his grave.

The tender hands of friends of years laid it there after funeral services in the state house that were as simple as the life that he had led.

A plea that that life should not have been in vain formed the text of the funeral oration, delivered by Dr. A. E. Hayden of Chicago, former pastor of the First Unitarian Church of Madison.

Picturing Senator LaFollette as "the embattled prophet of a new democracy," Dr. Hayden said that to remember him truly would be to be true to the vision of that democracy as he was true.

"And here in his presence still," he added, "we may dedicate ourselves to that task."

Again at the grave, Dr. Hayden renewed his plea and promised in the final prayer that the senator's people would carry forward the fight where he had in death left it off.

Although the funeral was one of state, the service was as simple as might have been that for the humblest children. It was opened by the singing of the familiar hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee," and was closed with "America," after the funeral oration and a choir in a balcony overhead had sung "Abide With Me."

During the service, the plain steel-gray casket, covered with an American flag, rested in a semi-circle of flowers and palms. At the right sat the members of the senator's family and at the left were the senators and representatives forming the Congressional Committee of Honor. Behind these in places around the well of the rotunda were members of the supreme court, the state Legislature, honorary pallbearers, and members of the Dane County Bar Association of which Mr. LaFollette had been a member.

Hearing up bravely under her sorrow, Mrs. LaFollette entered the rotunda with her sons, Robert, Jr., and Philip, on either side, and maintained her composure throughout the service. Besides her boys, she was accompanied by her two daughters and their husbands and a sister of the senator.

When the service had ended the casket was borne along the corridor and down the long stairway to the east entrance between thousands who stood uncovered as the chiming in Grace Episcopal Church nearby rang out the strains of "Lead Kindly Light."

NOTE TO MEXICO MAY BE CAMPAIGN THUNDER

Washington.—Democratic leaders here assert the Kellogg note to Mexico will be used in the next campaign to show the weakness of the Coolidge administration. They consider it an insult to the government and the people of that nation.

"Big business is protected as Kellogg sends mystery note, the National Democrat, published here, said in its issue. 'The unprecedented act of the state's secretary baffles the public.'

Washington is still speculating on the cause of the startling communication made public by Mr. Kellogg. They have not been able to grasp its full meaning.

"It may be that American interests are being placed in jeopardy in Mexico, or that the lives of American citizens are in peril there, but if so they are only vaguely hinted by the secretary of state. The National Democrat says, 'Certainly if such conditions exist the American people are entitled to know of them.'"

Double Still Found at Savannah. Savannah.—Sheriff Williams and deputies report the finding of one of the largest illicit liquor stilleries ever taken in this section. No arrests were made.

40 Injured as Pier Collapses. Cape May, N. Y.—Forty persons, all of them members of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad Veterans' association, were injured here when a section of the municipal pier collapsed. The pier was crowded with people watching a life-saving exhibition being staged for the entertainment of the veterans gathering.

Edinburgh.—Unable to save her 13 cows, trapped in a burning stable, Mrs. Elizabeth Kidd shot them at so put them out of their agony.

POULTRY

HATCH CHICKS EARLY FOR WINTER LAYERS

Early hatched chicks are the ones that make the early and consistent winter layers. However, this does not mean that earlier than around March 15 is desirable. Neither does it mean that late April and May hatched chicks are the desirable kinds. The problem is to have the chicks hatched sufficiently early to have winter laying pullets and yet not have them so early that they will molt in the late fall. Again, the quieter-maturing, smaller breeds like the Anconas may be safely hatched later than the larger breeds like the Wyandottes. Yet, all in all, it appears to me that in far too many cases, the hatching of chicks on farms is too late and that few are they who have their chicks coming off too early, writes A. C. Hartenbove in the Oklahoma Farmer.

Whether to incubate the eggs on the farm or to buy baby chicks must be governed to no small extent by the equipment on the farm, by the prices of eggs when compared with that of baby chicks, and by the breeding stock available. In many cases, it will be a paying proposition to purchase baby chicks from reliable breeders to the end, especially, that good stock may be had to replace the mixed stock now on the farm, while in still other cases, where the farmer makes consistent improvement in his flock of pure bred chickens by culling, using high-class males or keeping a breeding pen, it would be folly to send away for baby chicks. I know there are thousands of dollars practically thrown away each year in purchasing baby chicks for the simple reason that the equipment at hand for caring for the chicks is not suitable, and the result is a good per cent of the young chicks never reach maturity. In other words, the cost of those raised is away out of reason when compared with what they will bring when sold either as breeding stock or on the market.

Incubation of Eggs of Various Fowls on Farm

The eggs from all but Muscovy ducks will hatch in twenty-six to twenty-eight days. Muscovy duck eggs require from thirty-three to thirty-six days. Guinea eggs take from twenty-six to twenty-eight days to hatch. Turkey eggs hatch on the twenty-eighth day, but it varies on an egg hatch on the twenty-seventh day and the hatchlings are fit to brood until the twenty-ninth or thirtieth day.

Duck eggs in an incubator require a temperature of 102 degrees. This is also satisfactory for turkey eggs. The guinea eggs will hatch at 102 to 103 degrees. Incubators are very satisfactory for duck eggs. Turkey eggs are seldom hatched in incubators. Neither are guineas.

A mixture of equal parts of bread crumbs and rolled oats, and a sprinkling of about 3 per cent sand is a good starting feed for ducklings. Bread and milk is also satisfactory. Stale bread soaked in milk and squeezed nearly dry is a good first feed for pullets. When three weeks old they can be worked over to rolled oats and fine chicks' scratch feed, and larger grains added as the birds develop. There are many good rations for turkey poulters, but do not use sloppy mash. Guineas like bread crumbs and rolled oats and can soon eat fine chick feed. They are great foragers and insect eaters and will soon gather most of their ration.

Iowa Ration No. 11

Here is Ration No. 11, recommended by the Iowa experiment station. The mash is as follows: Two hundred pounds ground oats, 100 pounds ground corn, and 100 pounds of 60 per cent tankage. This is fed with scratch feed composed of 200 pounds shelled corn and 100 pounds oats. It is considered one of the lowest priced and one of the most practical rations, the college states, that can be recommended for farm conditions.

Poultry Hints

- Gather eggs twice a day.
- Keep the eggs in a cool, fairly dry place.
- Remember quality is essential for best prices.
- Know the shipping requirements of express or railroad companies when you use their service.
- Market eggs at least twice a week. Delay in marketing means selling stale and deteriorated eggs.
- Keep an abundance of clean litter on the poultry house floor. Clean floors mean fewer dirty eggs.
- Don't crowd the winter layers. Each hen should have at least three square feet of floor space, where the flock is confined in the house, for maximum egg production.
- Provide one nest for every four or five hens and make the nests of clean material. Plenty of clean nests reduce the number of stolen nests and the number of cracked and dirty eggs.

STATE GETS DEED TO OLD FORT HILL

WAS PRESENTED TO VANCE PRATHER, FORT THOMAS, AT HARRODSBURG

Site Was Stockade For Lewis And Clarke Expedition in 1774-1775—Two Other Deeds Also Accepted Near Pineville and Elkton.

Ft. Thomas, Ky.—Kentucky at last has joined a large list of states that have beauty spots worth remembering and worth saving, in the words of Vance Prather, Fort Thomas, secretary of the Kentucky State Park Commission.

Mr. Prather at Harrodsburg received a deed to the first strip of the Pioneer Memorial State Park, Old Fort Hill.

"Out of this stockade went the Lewis and Clarke expedition to the Northwest, in 1774-1775," Mr. Prather said. "Within this stockade the early Kentucky pioneers fought and lived and laughed awhile. Some went on to other states and there cast their lives and their fortunes."

The Harrodsburg Chamber of Commerce invited members of the commission, Dr. Willard Rouse Jilison, chairman, and State geologist; Dean Thomas P. Cooper of the University of Kentucky, and Mr. Prather, to dinner when the first section of the Pioneer Park was deeded and presented to the state through the commission. Judge Samuel Wilson, Lexington, made the presentation address.

Two deeds have been accepted by the commission, deed to 2,000 acres near Pineville and deed to eighty-three and three-quarter acres near Elkton in Todd county. Formal ratification of the Todd county tract has been made by Dr. Jilison and Dean Cooper, following Mr. Prather's announcement of the gift at the national conference on state parks at Skyland recently, when the park was officially credited to Kentucky's record.

The tract will provide a large camping and resting place and afford tourists the opportunity of seeing the Lincoln shrine and Jefferson Davis monument in one day, Mr. Prather said.

"Kentucky has remembered the leader of the Blue with the magnificent Lincoln shrine near Hodgenville, and has remembered the leader of the Gray, only a few miles away at Fairview, in the Jefferson Davis shaft, rearing its obelisk 353 feet high, the tallest single concrete pile in all America," he said.

"Kentucky wishes its children, its boys and girls, to know and love and enjoy the things of the outdoors, and to call them all by name—not the botanical, Greek or Latin names, but the common names."

Stone's Bail Fixed at $7,500—Also Faces Charge of Shooting Policeman.

Smithland—W. D. Stone, brother of County Attorney Ed Stone of Crittenden County, was held to the Livingston grand jury under bond of $7,500 by County Judge L. F. Roberts for alleged complicity in the robbery of $10,300 in cash and Liberty bonds from the Bank of Carrsville. Sheriff G. B. Dunn announced that a warrant would be taken out for Stone, charging him with shooting with intent to kill. It is alleged that he shot Bradley Chittenden, 26 years old, of Joy, a member of the posse that wounded Stone twice in the leg, effected his capture and recovered the bank loot.

Paving Held Up in Madisonville

Madisonville, Ky.—The city council's permanent street paving programme has been halted for the second time this year by the issuance of a restraining order, pending a decision of Circuit Judge Ruby Laffoon on an application for an injunction, which was filed by several citizens against Mayor James D. Sory, Councilman E. B. Hamblitt, E. B. Hardin, James D. Overall, R. E. Moore and James A. Franceway, restraining them from accepting bids or awarding a contract. When the bids were opened for the construction of about six miles of streets in the residential sections of the city, the White Construction Company, Chicago, had the lowest bid. No award was made.

Warren Man Is Electrocuted

Bowling Green—James Russell, 28 years old, was electrocuted here when he came in contact with a high tension power wire while going to visit a neighbor about a block away. It is believed the wire was blown down during the heavy storm. Russell was burned severely on the right arm, shoulder, back and neck. From the burns on his right hand, it is believed that he found the wire dangling across his path and attempted to remove it.

Bracken Mill Destroyed by Fire

Augusta—The flour mill at Germantown, this county, was struck by lightning and destroyed by the blaze which followed. About 100 barrels of flour and considerable wheat was stored in the mill. The mill, a three-story frame structure, belonged to and was operated by the Germantown Milling Company. The loss is estimated at $20,000 with $12,500 insurance.

The Brooksville Fire department, six miles away, responded to the alarm and helped save adjoining property.

WHICH LIMB?

Uncle Sol threw aside the letter he was reading and uttered an exclamation of impatience.

"Doggone!" he cried. "Why don't people be more explicit?"

"What's the matter, pa?" asked Aunt Sue.

"This letter from home," Uncle Sol answered, "says father fell out of the apple tree and broke a limb."

A Marked Improvement in Mowers

You who have used the ordinary mowing machine will truly appreciate the high, easy lift on the John Deere. It is so easy to operate that any boy old enough to drive a team can run the John Deere and do it just as easily and as thoroughly as you can.

John Deere High-Lift Mower

With the foot lift the bar is quickly and easily raised from 25 to 35 inches at the cutter end. And with the foot lift and hand lift combined the bar is raised 44 inches. Ordinary or unusual obstructions are easily cleared.

A great feature, particularly in rough uneven fields or on roadsides, is the great flexibility of the cutter bar. It hugs the ground and operates perfectly with the outer end several inches above or below the inner end.

Before you buy a mower we want you to see the John Deere. You want a good machine. We think we have the best. Give us a chance to show you.

THE TOWN BEAUTIFUL MOVEMENT

Some one remarked the other day, when a certain proposal of local improvement was being discussed, that "Beauty is a luxury. We can't afford it." Was he right?

Here is one plain fact, and any experienced real estate man can verify it from his own observation. Take a street of plain simple houses, with no attempt whatever at ornamentation of any kind, just naked wood, bricks and cement. Suppose some morning this spring the residents should get together and decide that the street looked too bare and commonplace.

Suppose they all agree to spend $50 in planting shrubs and trees, grading, and sowing grass seed. Let them also agree to spend a few hours a week in keeping the place neat and in planting and tending flowers.

What would be the effect? Complete results of course would not show the first year. The second season the hard angles between earth and walls would be softened by a nest of flowering shrubbery. In a few years more, the young trees, particularly if well selected with some quick growers, would provide some shade and screen.

The selling price of those places would pick up as soon as the shrubs got started. When the trees got a little bigger, the whole character of that street would have changed. It would suggest culture, care, refinement. People from other districts would look at it longingly and would snap up empty houses. Eventually a place that cost $3,000 would be likely to sell for $3,500 to $4,000, because of the reputation and desirability of the neighborhood for residence.

People who say that beauty is a luxury know very little about human nature or business. A beautified neighborhood is accepted as a sign of a higher scale of living. People feel that in moving into it they are improving their social station, not to speak of the pleasure to the eye which beauty always gives.

COMMUNITY LOYALTY

Have you ever stopped to consider the fact that loyalty to community interests is the highest type of patriotism? Show us the man who is loyal and true to every interest of his own community and we will show you in that same individual a man in whom his country can repose absolute confidence in any emergency that calls for his allegiance.

On the other hand, the man who is careless and unconcerned for the interests of his community is more apt to display the same spirit of indifference toward his government or his state should any serious danger threaten either.

One of the most commendable traits the old Scotch highlanders was their loyalty to their own clan. Good or bad, right or wrong, the clan had their first allegiance. The life and services of each member were always cheerfully placed at the disposal of the clan.

Try to imagine an entire state composed of innumerable communities welded and cemented into a symmetrical whole, each striving to excel the others, but each, from its own local loyalty, developing a broader and deeper loyalty that reaches out and embraces the whole.

Utopia, you say? By no means. Merely what could and would be the result if we could only be brought to see that we owe allegiance to our own people, but that the prosperity of others is in no wise a detriment to us, but rather a help, that is if each community could develop itself to the utmost—physically, mentally and morally—none would need be envious of others, neither would any need do aught to detract from another's interests.

Let us develop community loyalty to the full—the highest possible form of patriotism. Here in Fulton we have several institutions deserving of your support, owned by home people, who have thousands of dollars invested in said enterprises. The products are the very best and superior in quality to many others.

Take for instance the products of the Browder Milling Company. This firm manufactures flour recognized by hundreds of customers throughout the southland as superior quality.

There shouldn't be a sack of flour shipped into Fulton.

Another institution whose products are classed as superior quality is the Culver Ice Cream Company. This firm manufactures ice cream and sends out daily shipments to customers all around us for a radius of 75 miles. There shouldn't be a pint of ice cream shipped into Fulton.

WHEN YOU GO TO CHURCH YOU BENEFIT MATERIALLY AS WELL AS SPIRITUALLY

One can see at a glance that going to church is a material as well as a spiritual benefit.

If you wish to be successful in your employment, in your business, in your profession, there is no better way to attain that end than by going to church. The young man who goes to church has the confidence of his employer. The employer knows that a young man who is a regular church attendant cannot go wrong very far. The beneficial influence of the church is ever present.

What is true of the young man is true of the older business man. Observing persons are apt to patronize the man who goes to church. They feel that they are assured of honest and square dealing. Of course there are some hypocrites, but they are the exception rather than the rule. The professional man, the lawyer, the doctor, who goes to church is an immediate material gainer.

Therefore it is plain that the young man who wishes to rise in the estimation of his employer, the business man and the professional man who wish to be successful, must go to church. The biggest men in the United States go to church. President Coolidge is a regular church attendant. So are the leaders in every line of endeavor.

You'll meet the right sort of people in church. They are the people whose hand clasps are sincere. They are the people who will look you in the eye. If you have not already joined the go to church throng make up your mind to do so next Sunday. Don't procrastinate. Delays are dangerous. Perhaps you already have delayed too long.

Go to church at once and keep going to church.

THE SCIENCE of LOANING MONEY

—afford protection to borrowers as well as depositors.

A bank receives hundreds of requests for money. These requests come from every source, with every kind of collateral and for every kind of purpose. It is not an easy thing to turn down some of these requests for money, but as a matter of safety in banking practice, it is absolutely necessary on occasions to say "no."

Positive safety for the funds intrusted to the care of this institution is our first consideration. We are eager to loan notes to business men and farmers in our territory, for we are anxious to assist in the development of the business in Fulton. Yet, sometimes when we are asked to make a loan, we are forced to say "no."

When we do say "no," we do it because our financial judgment indicates that that is not the way to loan money which has been placed on deposit in this bank, when the safety of our depositors' money is the first and primary consideration.

And so before we loan money we always insist upon sufficient security, we always ask for a financial statement from the borrower and we protect in every way possible, money intrusted to our care.

These facts are given in this advertisement to show how safe your money is when it is on deposit at the City National Bank in Fulton.

Jefferson Davis' Grandson Joins Stone Mountain Founders.

Atlanta, Ga. — While workers in the campaign for the distribution of Confederate Memorial coins are reporting steady progress toward the goal in all Southern states, unexpected support toward the great monument being erected at Stone Mountain, Ga., has been received in the form of a Founders' Roll subscription of $1,000 to the memory of Jefferson Davis, made by his grandson Jefferson Hayes-Davis, a banker of Colorado Springs. In a letter to Mr. Hollins N. Randolph, making the subscription, Mr. Hayes-Davis said:

"On occasion when the whole South is about to do honor to its great Confederate chieftains by the distribution of Confederate Memorial Half-Dollars, I desire to take part through the subscription of the Founders' Roll of the Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial in memory of my grandfather, Jefferson Davis. To those of us to whom the Confederate cause has been through all the years almost a sacred as well as a glorious tradition, the fact that the National Government should thus commemorate our great leaders and especially the valor of the Southern soldiers is a deep and significant event."

"It marks the end of that sectionalism and the obliteration of those scars of prejudice which for so many years made progress toward a new national unity so difficult. Through these Memorial coins and through subscriptions to the Stone Mountain Memorial, such as that of the Founders' Roll, herewith made, we advance the date when the valor and heroism of our Southern heroes will be universally recognized as a common heritage."

A Dull Fellow

By FRANK WALL

EVERY one smiled when Johnson returned to the office this morning from his vacation. Two weeks ago he walked out at five o'clock as quietly as if he were only going for the evening, and this morning he came back just as quietly. What does a man like that want with a vacation anyway?

"He's such a dull fellow," murmured "Gilly" Delaine languidly. "If ever I want to die of ennui I'll make him fall in love with me."

Johnson didn't hear her, and it wouldn't have made any difference if he had. He was trying to concentrate his attention on his job and that was taking all his energy.

This dull fellow was shaken to the soul. He had gone away as part of the routine of life. There had been a time when the thought of a vacation would have conjured up wonderful pictures in his mind, but nothing now seemed able to give him a thrill. Perhaps he lived too much in a groove. Where the others looked on life as a series of gay adventures to be sought deliberately as one seeks entertainment in a theater, he took his adventures on paper. He found his romance in the short stories he wrote so untiringly in all his spare time. Sometimes he wondered if he was chasing the shadow and missing the substance of life; yet he must have known that romance and passion are always round the corner. One is liable to run into them at any time.

and that indeed was what happened to this dull fellow, and perhaps that was what made him take his experience so seriously. He had lived in a world of illusions, you see, creating people to suit himself, playing with the imaginary passions of imaginary men and women, and now fate was playing with him.

He went to the coast prepared to enjoy himself in his own quiet fashion, and on his first day there he met Daphne Russell, whom he had known years ago. He would have walked past her in his absent-minded way, but she came up and greeted him; and even then he didn't know her at first. There was some excuse for him, too, for in the intervening years since their last meeting, she had changed almost beyond recognition.

What is the feminine equivalent for a dull fellow? Whatever it was, that was the way Daphne had been heading as inexorably as rivers head to the sea. Then she went to live in Canada, and Johnson had not seen her for seven years, and now, when he met her he could only stare at her in amazement.

For this piece of lovely wistfulness was not the Daphne he had known. Her profile had taken on an exquisite delicacy. Her mouth trembled to a thousand moods. Passion stirred wistfully in her dark eyes. Her hair looked as if painted by moonlight.

Something leaped in Johnson's heart, something that flamed passionately and throbbled and hurt.

"Oh, I'm so glad to see you," she cried. "I came back from Canada and I couldn't find any one I knew. It seemed as though all my friends had gone. And then I came here for a lonely vacation and I met you."

"Your vacation isn't going to be lonely at all," said Johnson firmly. "I am the Committee of Welcome appointed to meet you. After you've been through our program you'll never want to leave home again."

"You talk in just your old lovely way," she murmured contentedly. "I never knew whether you were in earnest or not."

And he looked at her quietly. "Yes," he said. "I never was so much in earnest."

And after that a new life began for Johnson and perhaps for Daphne also. They had long evenings of the most perfect comradeship, evenings when the whole world seemed to be drenched with sheer beauty. That was the way he saw it anyway. It brought him out of his shell amazingly. He became gay, brilliant, tender, all in turn, until it seemed that Daphne must have transferred to him some of her own secret of living vitality. Life danced ahead of him, beckoning, leading him on, whispering all kinds of wonderful promises; and he believed them all.

And so the vacation went by, each day sinking in turn into that strange, bottomless pit men call the past, and leaving in its place one still more wonderful. And to both Daphne and Johnson, as the last day approached, there came a resolution which they guarded resolutely from each other until the time should come.

They sat together staring at the sea on that last evening. The beauty of the night was all about them, enfolding them in its strange glamour. Johnson turned slowly and looked into the wistful loveliness of Daphne's eyes. He leaned towards her, and she turned.

"I've something to tell you," she said.

There was a queer dryness in his throat. He couldn't speak.

"I was married in Canada. Five years of perfect love and comradeship—and then he died. I think my heart died with him." A little sigh broke the silence. She turned to him again. "You were going to say something?" she said, quietly.

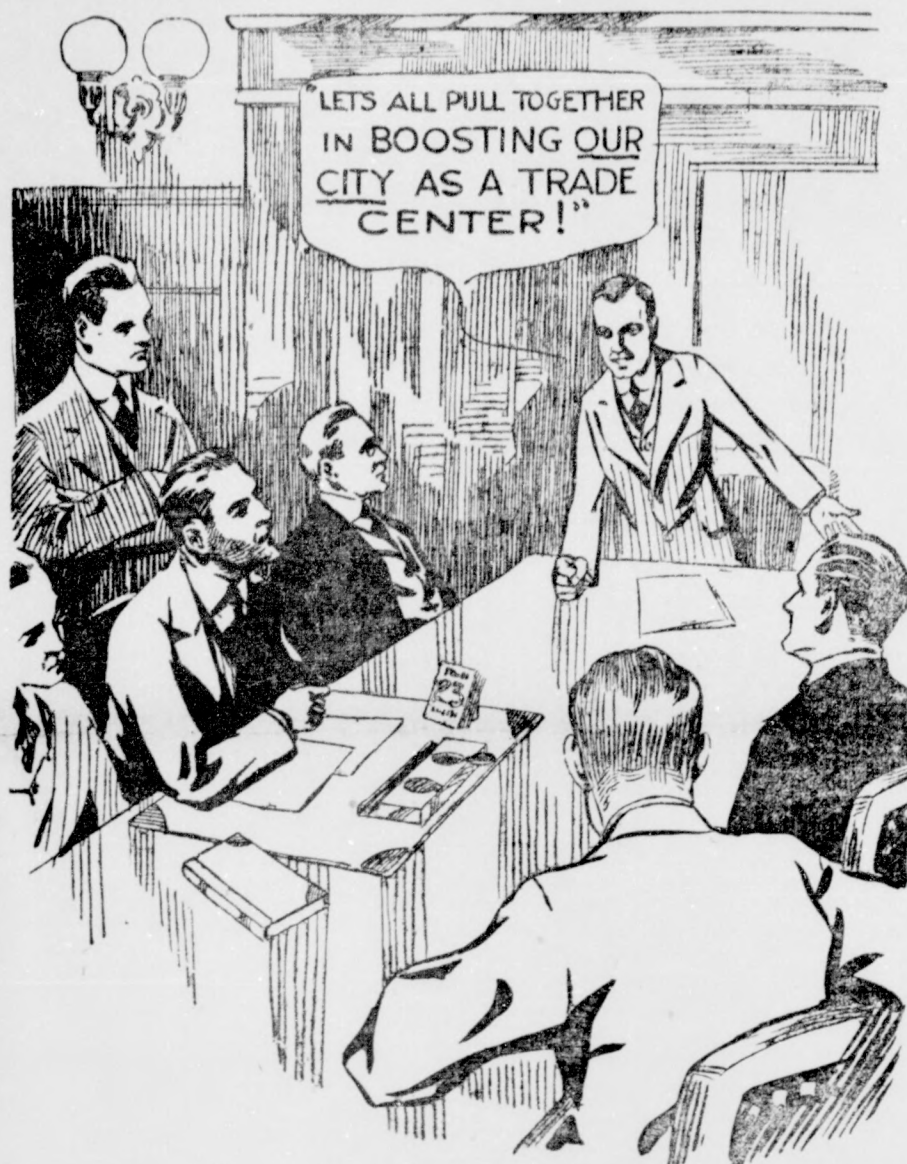

Johnson shook his head. All his new world had toppled about his ears. He was just a dull fellow again. They noticed it as soon as he entered the office this morning.

SPANISH ACCUSED OF FEARFUL DEEDS

MOROCCAN PEASANTS SHOT,
CHARGE AGAINST SOLDIERS

CONVENTIONS VIOLATED

Matter Has Grown So Serious That
British and French Have Taken
Cognizance of Situation—Disease
Ravages Refugee Camps.

The helpless Moroccan peasants are being blown to pieces by Spanish mines and aeroplane bombs and shot down by sentries.

That Spanish soldiers openly raid and loot villages in the neutral Tangier zone.

That all conventions and treaties have been violated by the Spaniards.

These grave charges are made by Lady Drummond Hay, "Daily Express"—London—special correspondent, in a message from Tangier. She states that the British and French representatives there are determined not to let the matter rest until satisfaction is obtained. Refugees are crowding into Tangier and famine and disease have been added to the horrors of the situation.

By Lady Drummond Hay.

Tangier, (via London)—"I put my hand over the baby's mouth lest his cry might attract the Spanish sentries, and when we got through the lines he was dead," sums up the tragedy of one demented little mountaineer mother.

Another woman staggers into Tangier, half her face blown away. A third falls by the roadside, shot through the breast at which she was suckling an infant, born to find death before it smiled on life. Three countrywomen, one about to become a mother, hideously maimed by a concealed mine, lie at death's door in the Tangier hospital.

"Ya Mohamed," I call to the servant, "seek to learn from the neighbors what was that big noise, greater than a hundred guns. . . ."

"Ya lady," he will say, "it is ever the same. Poor peasants of the Anjara mountains, who would come to the socco (market) in Tangier town caught in the devices of the Spaniards."

I met a procession of 5,000 or 6,000 wounded in the main street of Tangier. I inquired anxiously if there had been a battle that day. "No there had been no battle, but the Spanish had fired on a band of charcoal burners taking their charcoal to the socco to sell."

The Spanish zone begins with the Anjara Mountains on the east side of the Bay of Tangier. As, since time immemorial, the Anjerites have done their marketing and disposed of their goods in Tangier; they do not realize that death or injury now awaits him or her—and it is so often a pitiful slip of a girl—who dares the Spanish sentries at the frontiers.

So near, and yet so far! Starvation in the mountains, with no way to buy food. Even if they manage to slip down to Tangier there is the more dangerous task of getting back. Mines have been laid all along the roads, and not once, but twice, thrice a day, we hear the deadly explosions, which means more maimed for the hospital.

Spanish aeroplanes were driven on the village, dropping bombs, burning the peasants out of house and home, sending them in hundreds to Tangier, already overflowing with starving and diseased refugees. Great searchlights mercilessly sweep the mountains at night, exposing any moving creature, which, if within a radius of a mile, is blown to pieces or otherwise is riddled by the sentries' bullets.

Parents Forget Child, Find Him Dead

Minneapolis, Minn.—Forgotten by his parents, five-year-old Everett Libby was left asleep in the family automobile when the car was placed in the garage for the night. The child was found dead.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Libby returned to their home here late at night with Everett asleep in the rear seat of the car. They retired, each believing the other had taken the boy into the house. George Hunt, passing by the garage, saw the boy's head protruding from the window. Apparently in attempting to crawl out of the garage the window had fallen on him. His neck was broken.

Bobbed Hair No Bar To Teachers
Syracuse, N. Y.—Times do change. Last year it was hard for good graduates with bobbed hair to get teaching positions in some places, but that's all over now, according to Dean Albert S. Hurst of the Teachers' college, at Syracuse university.

Not a single community listing teaching vacancies with him this year has made any stipulation about the condition of woman's crowning glory on candidates applying for positions.

LACKING IN FAITH

The prisoner came before the court on a charge of murder. Many distinguished legal lights had assembled to hear the case.

The charge was read out, and the judge, as is usual, asked the man in the dock if he would like to be defended by an attorney.

"No, my lord," came the reply. "This is too serious a matter."

Good as a Scarecrow

Said a woman to her neighbor over the suburban garden wall, "I hope my daughter's singing does not annoy you."

"On the contrary," came the sweet reply, "my husband and I appreciate it very much. It keeps the birds away from our berry bushes."

Rather Curious

One of those pests known to every one met Florence Flinn hastening from rehearsal.

"You didn't know who I was when I called you up yesterday, did you?" he inquired.

"No," Miss Flinn answered, absently. "Who were you?"

Fond of Fishes

A negro was offered a job feeding sharks.

"Now, sah, boss, me and sharks ain't friends."

"Why, boy, sharks don't eat black meat."

"Ah know, but it's just mah luck to meet wid one dat's blind."

Water Called Soup

"Another helping of soup, please."

Waiter—You appear to like our soup, sir.

"Well, you see, my doctor ordered me to take the hot water cure for indigestion, so I'm obeying his orders."

TOO REALISTIC

"Did you enjoy the amateur dramatic show last night?"

"Well, I thought it was too realistic."

"Really?"

"Yes, it said on the program, 'One hour is supposed to elapse between the first and second acts,' and it actually did."—Windsor Magazine.

Language on the Loose

Good diction is of little use in work, however skilled. But when profanity turns loose, the audience is thrilled.

Less Expensive

"Jack, before we were married you always took me home from the theater in a taxi."

"True enough, my dear, but now we can do our hugging at home."

Diet and Dye It

"Now, about my obesity, doctor?"

"Diet."

"And my gray hair?"

"Dye it."

A Key to the Situation

By ANNA R. BURR

(© 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

MISS BENT felt herself remarkably lucky that her window overlooked the Jewett's back garden. When one sits in the same room sewing, day after day, winter and summer, it means much to have something pleasant to gaze upon—something, too, which is shut from the rest of the world by a high wall. The Jewett garden seemed Miss Bent's particular property, the maple trees, the grass plot with the bed of scarlet cannas, the border with daffodils to daffodils and the little summerhouse. All this was like a stage set for small, pleasant happenings; the coming to and fro of ice man and grocery boy; children at their games; the kitten capering after a bit of paper—a drama (domestic) for an audience of one. Miss Bent's spectacles would stare at it, her tired old face brightened, she felt a stitching harder than ever. It belonged to her; and when a child got its feet wet or the kitten mewed for its forgotten saucer of milk, Miss Bent almost rang the door bell. Once or twice the play had a society scene in it, such as Molly Jewett's garden party, and then the audience was rapt. A striped tent, rugs on the grass, and waiters who ran about with ice cream and strawberries! Molly herself, aged eighteen, wasn't happier than the uninvited guest. Susan Bent came (at noon, with the ice cream trolleys) and stayed until dusk and the last glimpse of departing young people. She was in an ecstasy; although she would have to sit up all night over her neglected work in order to finish it on time.

Her sense of possessing the garden she looked at, had led to an odd incident—odd, because of Susan's nature. She was honest as the day, honest in fact than many April days; but when she picked up a key on the sidewalk, which had plainly fallen out of the garden door, she kept it. She kept that key, though it unquestionably belonged to the Jewetts; and she hung it up on a nail by her lookingglass. Somehow that key confirmed her queer sense of ownership in the garden. In her twilight hour of rest she would sit and twist it between her fingers, to look dreamily out on the maples and the red cannas and sage, and always she dreamed of another party—she longed for it.

This hope grew very high when Molly Jewett began going with the Taylor boy. He was a nice looking boy, Roddy Taylor, if rather thin; he had a turn-up nose and he whistled as he came along about five o'clock. Later on the pair took to going in and out by the garden door. Sometimes they stayed at the gate a long time, and then Miss Bent would rise hurriedly and leave the window. What she saw there once or twice made her feel uncomfortably like an eavesdropper; she realized hungrily that it had nothing to do with her.

One afternoon that spring she saw them coming but there was something different somehow. Molly was walking stiffly, very far away from the Taylor boy, and his young face looked proud and angry. When they reached the garden door it was plain that this time Susan Bent need feel no delicacy about staying at the window. So she stayed and stared; she could hear nothing, but she saw very well. She saw Molly's angry toss of the head and that she pushed open the door and ran within, slamming it behind her, and leaving Roddy Taylor on the wrong side. Once alone, the girl turned uncertainly toward the house and then paused and ran instead into the summer house in the corner. The watcher from the window could see the bright head bent on her arms.

"My land!" cried Susan Bent.

The party; the reception with the tent and the guests and the refreshments, which had seemed so certain—was it put in peril? There stood Roddy Taylor, dumb and dazed, outside the shut door in the garden wall. His miserable face looked up and down the street. If he walked away—well, there would be no reception that spring. Susan Bent wasn't sentimental; she didn't care about the silly young creatures, not she! But she did want her bright hour! With an inspiration, up she threw the window and called aloud:

"Roddy Taylor!" "Roddy Taylor!" Instinctively, the boy looked up and a heavy key clattered on the pavement at his feet. "The summer house!" Miss Bent cried wildly, and under her breath she added: "You gump!"

Then she jammed down the window and turned into the room, covering her eyes. I think probably she prayed.

She heard a rush of quick steps and then silence fell. 'Twas a long time before she went to the window again; it had grown quite dusky. But a bright light from the Jewett's hall door showed two persons on the path; that is, Miss Bent's recent experiences made her judge them to be two persons. Otherwise she would have thought they were one.

A great sigh of relief came from her as she turned to light the gas.

"After all," she said aloud, "the very nicest weather for a wedding reception is in June!"

Prove It

"You aren't superstitious?"
"No; why?"
"Then lend me thirteen dollars."

REVIEW

GOLDEN TEXT--Ye shall be witnesses unto me, both in Jerusalem, and in all Judaea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth.--Acts 1:8.

PRIMARY TOPIC--The Boy Jesus at the Temple School.
JUNIOR TOPIC--Jesus Asking and Answering Questions.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC--The Growth of the Early Church.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC--How the Gospel Spread.

As usual, the methods employed in the review largely depend upon the teacher and the class. Two methods are suggested:

First: The biographical. This is a method which can nearly always be used to advantage, since pupils of all ages are interested in the study of persons. Peter, Paul, Stephen, Philip and Barnabas are very prominent characters in the quarter's lessons. These may be assigned to members of the class the week before with a view of a brief biographical sketch being prepared and read to the class.

Second: The summary method. This method calls for the review of the principal facts of each lesson with statement of the leading teachings thereof. The following is suggested:

Lesson I.--On the Day of Pentecost, the risen and ascended Christ sent the promise of the Father causing the Holy Ghost to descend upon the disciples to qualify them to be witnesses of His death and resurrection to all the world.

Lesson II.--The healing of the lame man shows that the risen Christ is able to make strong a man who was born a cripple. The man who was healed thoroughly advertised the miracle. Those who have experienced the life of God cannot help but make it known.

Lesson III.--The church is God's dwelling place. Since it is His dwelling place it is as holy as the holy place in the sanctuary. The judgment which befell Ananias and Sapphira proves that God will not allow the hypocrite to escape His judgment.

Lesson IV.--The behavior of Stephen proves that the risen Christ is able to sustain His witnesses, even while they are sealing their testimony with their blood. His standing shows His active interest in His disciples, and that He welcomes home to heaven those who are faithful.

Lesson V.--The experiences of Daniel and his companions show that total abstinence pays.

Lesson VI.--Philip, the only man in the New Testament called evangelist, is in the energy of the Spirit preaching the Word and winning men to Christ.

Lesson VII.--The conversion of Saul, the fiercest enemy of Christ, is an illustrious example of what the revelation of Christ in His glory can do, and also illustrates the method of the conversion of Israel.

Lesson VIII.--After Saul's conversion, he straightway preached Christ as the Son of God. Those who are really saved know whom they have believed.

Lesson IX.--The stupendous miracle wrought by the risen Christ at the hands of Peter proved that the gospel lost none of its power by being preached abroad.

Lesson X.--When Christ would break down the middle wall of partition between the Jews and Gentiles, He gave to Cornelius and Peter each a vision. When the gospel was offered to the Gentiles, the Holy Ghost came upon them as at Pentecost.

Lesson XI.--Before the foreign missionary enterprise was launched, a new center of operation was established at Antioch. The Holy Spirit established this strategical center and sent out the missionaries.

Lesson XII.--The risen Christ hears the prayers of the church and sends His angels to deliver His faithful servants.

The Best Judges Us

Our attitude concerning the great value, the great reality, the great personality, is not to put pressure upon our own minds or upon the minds of others to believe in them; and not primarily either with ourselves or others to defend them or to argue for them, but simply to give them opportunity with us, and to do what we may to help others, too, to give that opportunity. This, it thus, judges us rather than we it. --Henry Churchill King

Better Than Guilt

Better it were, that all the miseries which nature owes were ours at once, than guilt. --Shakespeare

Let Us Not Lose Faith

Earl Balfour said not long ago: "Let us not fear that the future is going to be less glorious than the past. Problems of which we never dreamed multiply upon us until we are almost overwhelmed. But let us not lose faith or courage."

For Truth's Sake

To love truth for truth's sake is the principal part of human perfection in this world and the seedplot of all other virtues. --John Locke

ITALIAN DEBT BEING STUDIED

MEMBERS DELVE INTO PHASES IN PREPARATION FOR MEETING

CONFERENCE IS SECRET

Meeting With Ambassador De Martino Arranged—Secretary Kellogg, Senator Smoot and Secretary Mellon in Consultation.

Washington—Members of the American debt commission, who are in Washington, began a study of the Italian debt in its several phases in preparation for the first meeting with Ambassador de Martino. Secretary Kellogg and Senator Smoot were in conference at the treasury several hours with Secretary Mellon and Under Secretary Winston, the chairman and secretary, respectively, of the commission, but details of the talk were refused.

Some attention also was given to the Belgian debt, but it was admitted that most of the attention was directed to the debt of Italy, and the study was with a view to determining some of the basic principles for which members of the commission will hold out when the ambassador and his corps of experts begin the conversations. The utmost secrecy surrounded the meeting and there was no suggestion in any quarter whether the treasury has a funding program for use in the negotiations with Italy.

The debt commission will not be called together until there is an agreement between Mr. Mellon and the ambassador unless the proposals from Italy are of such a character that Mr. Mellon feels they should be submitted to the commission for approval or rejection. The first meeting between the secretary and the ambassadors will be of a preliminary character and is expected to result in nothing more than an understanding as to what should and what should not be discussed, so it was said there will be no need of a meeting of the commission at this time.

DENY APPEAL OF MARSILLIOT

Saunders Referee Told To Pay
Just a few hours after the Bank of Smithfield, Va., had enjoined C. L. Marsilliot, bankruptcy referee, from collecting his fee of $15,000 in the Clarence Saunders hearings, the court of civil appeals affirmed a chancery judgment of $10,200 awarded the bank against Marsilliot as indorser of a note for this amount.

Marsilliot carried the case to the higher court on a writ of error. However, this would not have stayed the execution of the judgment, but the action of the appellate court makes doubly strong the claim of the bank.

The bankruptcy referee indorsed the note, which was for $8,500, as secretary and treasurer of the Bloomington corporation, also of Smithfield, interest on its amounts to about $1,700.

In the application for the injunction, the bank charged Marsilliot with fraud in seeking to evade payment of the judgment. They claimed they had reason to believe that he would manipulate personal funds and property in such a manner that they could not levy on it.

This was the second appeal to the supreme court of this case, the first appeal having determined only the constitutionality of the excise tax law. On this appeal various controversies were presented with regard to the construction and application of the law.

EUROPEANS WILL SETTLE WAR DEBTS

FRANCE AND CZECHO-SLOVAKIA HAVE SWUNG INTO LINE

ANNOUNCEMENT SURPRISE

Inference Made That France Perceived Danger of Remaining Outside Ranks—Finale of Sublimated Fencing Match

Washington—Europe has decided to pay the war debts owed to the United States.

France and Czecho-Slovakia will begin negotiations for the funding of their obligations late this summer or early in the fall, according to information given out at the State Department.

Belgium, as hitherto announced, will send a funding commission to this country at once and arrangements have been made to inaugurate negotiations between this body and the American war debt refunding commission about the middle of next month.

Italy within the last few days has informed Washington officially through her ambassador that she desires to reach a settlement of terms for payment of her debt.

The total indebtedness of these nations to the United States up to date is:

France, $4,210,556,984; Italy, $2,138,543,552; Belgium, $480,503,983; Czecho-Slovakia, $117,679,095.

Coming upon the heels of the steps taken toward a debt settlement by Belgium and Italy, the intelligence that France and Czecho-Slovakia also desire to reach an understanding on the payment of their war-time obligations assumed the utmost significance. In the cases of both France and Czecho-Slovakia, as in those of Belgium and Italy, the desire to open negotiations with the American debt commission was communicated officially to the State Department.

The understanding is that France will be ready to begin the discussion of terms late in the summer, but that a postponement to fall may be made necessary by the occupation of the American commission with the Belgian and Italian settlements.

The announcement that France has abandoned its dilatory policy and decided to settle occasioned considerable surprise. It was only yesterday that Representative Green of Iowa, chairman of the House ways and means committee, returned from Europe and an interview with M. Caillaux, the French finance minister, convinced that France did not contemplate seriously any immediate settlement.

The inference from the change of front on the part of Paris is that the French government perceived the futility and danger of continued delay to a settlement with America after all the important nations of Europe had made settlements. France could not afford to remain solitary and conspicuous outside the ranks of debt paying nations.

The decision of France, Italy, Belgium and Czecho-Slovakia within the last few weeks to seek debt settlements marks the finale of a sublimated fencing match between the keenest wits of America and Europe over the question of paying of forgiving the loans, now aggregating $12,000,000,000, which the United States made to its allies to help win the war with Germany. The finish represents a victory for the United States.

Claims Foreigners Were Responsible For Riots

London—Blaming the shooting of 10 students in Shanghai by British police as responsible for the recent outrages against foreigners, the Chinese government returned a defiant reply to the six powers suggestion for negotiations, according to dispatches for Peking.

The foreign authorities were responsible for the recent riots in Shanghai, the Chinese memorandum indicated. It insisted that Chinese accounts differ from those presented by the powers.

Most incidents at Shanghai, it was said, resulted from the failure to promptly settle the case of Shanghai strikers and students. The United States, France, Great Britain, Japan and Italy and Russia, though the Italian ambassador, suggested to the Chinese government Friday that negotiations should be begun to settle the unrest in Shanghai and for discussion of conditions generally in China.

Non-Stop Hop To Hawaii Is Now Assured

Washington—Plans for the 2,000-mile non-stop navy flight from the Pacific coast to Hawaii have been announced. Three navy seaplanes will take off Sept. 2 if the weather is favorable.

Capt. S. E. Moses, commander of the battle fleet air squadron, has been placed in command of the flight. It is designed to demonstrate the feasibility of aircraft in defense of the Pacific.

MRS. MARY JANE MOONEY-HAM

Impressive funeral services for Mrs. Mary Jane Mooneyham were held at the home of Mrs. G. G. Payne on Jefferson street Sunday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. C. H. Warren, pastor of the First Baptist church, of which the deceased was a consecrated member, burial following at Boaz Chapel cemetery, where, by the side of a devoted husband, she now rests in peace.

During the days of her active life none ever entered her home without feeling the warmth of a genuine hospitality, so characteristic of the people of her ancestry. Disease did not destroy the charm of a kind indulgent disposition, nor old age diminish her unselfish solicitude for her friends and loved ones. Adhering to the faith of her fathers, she united with the Baptist church in early life and loved to attend its services when health permitted. While she has continued to enjoy the society of her friends and children, she has for several years, realized that her active life was over and with resignation, awaited the divine call from death unto life and she passed away at the ripe old age of eighty years.

The deceased was the mother of eleven children, seven of whom survive her as follows: Mrs. Nannie Winter, Mrs. G. G. Payne and Luke Mooneyham of Fulton; Bart Mooneyham of Cairo; Mrs. Dave Puckett of Mayfield; Mrs. George Puckett of Dukedom, and Mrs. King Henderson of Crutchfield.

A large circle of friends sympathize with the bereaved ones in the loss of their mother.

TOBACCO NEWS

The first days of the week at the tobacco barn failed to bring forth the expected amount of tobacco deliveries, probably due to the fact that the farmers were all too busy cultivating their crops after the recent fine rain.

Approximately only 16,600 pounds were delivered the first day, and as the average has been very much higher than that, unless the latter part of the week shows a material increase, the full crop will not be delivered.

On Wednesday, July 15, a delegation of farmers from Fulton, Obion and Hickman counties will go to Hopkinsville to attend the district meeting.

This delegation was a large one last year and the officials are anxious to have a larger number this year, and are urging members of the association to go.

In order to be properly provided for, all those wishing to attend should notify the Fulton officials as early as possible so that proper arrangements may be made.

The party will return to Fulton on Friday, and the intervening time will be filled with interest to every member, as they will be shown all of the workings of the system and receive valuable information as to the proper handling, firing and growing of their crops.
