YMBA Completes Its Organization

The newly organized Young Men's Business Association completed final organization in a meeting Tuesday night with election of officers, directors and committees. The meeting was opened in the mayor's office at the City Hall, but the crowd was so large that the meeting was moved to the Elks club in order that ample accommodations could be provided. There is much interest and enthusiasm in the plans of this organization to carry forward a concerted drive to induce new enterprises to locate in Fulton. The following officers and directors were elected:

E. N. DeMyer, president; R. C. Peoples, vice president; W. S. Atkins, secretary; besides these officers, the board of directors is composed of Steve Willy, Frank Beards, J. E. Fall and L. Kasnow.

Every effort was made to get out as many Fulton citizens to the first two meetings as possible, as it is necessary that the entire community line up behind a forward Fulton movement. Any one is eligible for membership, and whether you are a business man, property owner or a citizen, the efforts of this organization to bring about community betterment is of vital interest to every person in this vicinity. It has been announced that a membership drive will be started soon, after which a next together meeting will probably be held to get the entire community to support and co-operate in an effort to secure new industries for Fulton. It has been pointed out that the opportunity was never better, because of revolutionary changes occurring in the industrial world, and concentrated efforts are expected to bring favorable results.

RED CROSS CONFERENCE HELD HERE WEDNESDAY

Mrs. H. D. Alexander and Joe Davis called a hurried meeting of the leading men and women of Fulton for a conference at the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday afternoon. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the work of the Red Cross, Joe Davis, chairman of the local Red Cross chapter in introduced Mrs. Valisika Foster of Washington, D. C., field representative of Kentucky and Tennessee, who made an interesting talk.

Mrs. H. D. Alexander, official field representative of Social Service Work in Fulton was also called upon. Fred A. Wallace, U. S. Commissioner of Immigration, Police Commissioner of New York City, state chairman of NRA and Red Cross, a native of Kentucky, gave an address. He gave an enthusiastic report of the Red Cross campaign in the state of Kentucky. He presented the need of help from every community from Big Sandy to Mills Point, and the generous response of the people throughout the state. All places where meetings are held, except houses, church or any public place cannot hold the crowds that are going to the meetings. Everywhere a sacrifice is being made to distribute clothing to the needy and destitute, but there is danger of carrying the relief work too far in certain instances, he said. There are specific cases where investigations are not made, and families are furnished where aid is not needed. Efforts are being made to thrust out cases where people rely entirely on the Red Cross and yet are able to work. In his last state, Mr. Wallace said, give not to the Red Cross or for the Red Cross, give through the Red Cross, and Fulton and Hickman counties will go over the top with their drive.

DAYFIELD CARDINALS SWAMP FULTON 32-0 LAST FRIDAY

The Fulton Bulldogs lost their third conference game to the Mayfield Cardinals last Friday by the one-sided score of 32-0. The game was played at Mayfield. The Bulldogs, in a passing attack during the second quarter, carried ball to Mayfield's one-yard line, but could not muster enough power to cross the line for a touchdown.

Civil Works Program Starts Here Soon

Fulton County plans to take the unemployed off the relief rolls and put them to work on city and county projects. This step is part of the national work program inaugurated by the Civil Works Administration and 1000 men at work by December 15 is the aim of the CWA plan for Fulton county.

This county had two committees one for the west end and one for the east end. Registration by unemployed has been going on for the past few days with the following clerks force in the local relief office: Herman Snow, Guy Lawrence, J. L. Fuzzell, Virgil Brown, Henry Ford, E. W. Stevenson, Misses Martha Kendall, Fern Taylor, Muriel Stockdale, and Mrs. Wren Coulter.

There is no element of charity in the re-employment setup. As a public work projects are approved by their proper bureaus, men employed will receive cash in payment for their service. All unemployed persons who are residents of this county and above the age of 16 are qualified to register. There will be no distinction in color or class.

Wage schedules had not been received up to press time, but they will be 30c an hour or more with the maximum number of hours being 30 per week except in stipulated cases. It is hoped that projects calling for a large number of men may be submitted and approved by early next week.

By "Me"

Frank Wiggins draws the first blood this week. Frank played a mean trick on Ward Bushart the other night. As I was standing in Kelly Lowe's cafe, Frank rushed in as though he was being pursued by a gang of bandits or something. He grabbed up the telephone and called States & DeMyer Drug store and asked if Ward was in. When told that he was, Frank informed the voice on the opposite end of the wire that some big man wanted to see Ward down at Floyd Bowens. I stepped to the front door and as I did so a gigantic gush of wind passed by. I was told later that it was Ward hurrying to fulfill an appointment. Naughty boy, Frank! Believe it or not, our own state boasts a football team that, it is rumored, will bid for the Tournament of Roses at the Rose Bowl in California this New Year's. Whether this is authentic or not I don't know, but it came to me through a well known drug clerk here.

My possum hunt turned out to be a flunk last Sunday afternoon but even at that I had the pleasure of knocking a fine Fox Squirrel out of the top of a tall cypress tree with a brick bat. No, it was not due to good marksmanship but purely an accidental hit.

It now looks like Fulton is to see the bright side of life. The newly organized Young Men's Business Association seems to be full of pep. Eugene DeMyer is the president, and he's a hard worker, and a fine man for the place. Onward Fulton is the motto of this civic club and with "Butch" at the helm there is sure to be action, is the message that comes to us.

Road Fund 'Raid' Hurts State Towns

"With all the progress that has been made in road building in Kentucky there remain many important communities untouched by any state highway. Until this condition is remedied--until every village, town and city in the state has been placed on a state highway--it would be quite unfair to divert to any other purpose one cent of the taxes paid by motor vehicle owners into the state road fund."

Thus vigorously did Judge J. D. Shain of Madisonville, county judge of Hopkins county, express the sentiment perhaps of more than half a million Kentucky motor car owners at a recent mass meeting of the Kentucky Highway Users League in Hopkinsville.

This organization is conducting a statewide campaign against interests which propose to coerce the coming Legislature into using a large part of the already insufficient state road fund for other activities.

"If any program or policy put into effect should reduce the usefulness or safety of the state roads or close them to constant free travel," Judge Shain continued, "an uncounted number of us who would be handicapped and hundreds of communities would all but perish. Not only would it gravely disturb communication between cities, towns and villages. Indeed it would almost halt the march of progress in our beloved commonwealth and seriously affect our relations with other states of the union."

"I sincerely and earnestly hope," Judge Shain concluded, "that the citizens of Kentucky can fully appreciate the vital importance of our highway system and the indispensability of constant maintenance and extension."

"I commend the plan of the Kentucky Highway Users League to impress so well this idea in the minds of our people that any indication of a legislative purpose to divert any part of the road fund will meet with such instant and strong opposition as to defeat the scheme."

LOCAL RELIEF WORKERS IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Mrs. H. D. Alexander, county relief investigator and executive secretary of the local chapter of Red Cross, and R. B. Kemp, disbursing officer for the KRC here, were injured Tuesday in an automobile accident while en route home from attending a meeting of the Kentucky Civil Works program leaders in Louisville. The accident occurred near Elizabethtown, Ky.

Mrs. Alexander sustained injuries on the neck and head, and a severely wrenched back. Mr. Kemp, Pat Henry who was driving the car, Mrs. Gilliam and Miss Corum received only minor injuries. Mr. Henry said he lost control of the car as it skidded on the wet road, left the road suddenly to swerve into a ditch.

NEGRO GIRL EXPERT CARVER

Patience Hodge, a 19-year-old negro girl, seemed to be quite a bit impatient when she set out to do a good carving job on Jim Russell, a local negro. But now she'll have to be patient while she cools her heels in the local housewife because she was unable to pay her fine.

THE ROTARY CLUB

The Rotary Club met in regular session Tuesday. Professor J. G. Cheek gave a most interesting talk on the Rotary Club As Viewed by an Outsider. Two visitors from the Martin club were present.

Santa Claus In Fulton Dec. 1

All the little kiddies in this vicinity have been looking forward to the coming of Santa Claus for several weeks now. Well, Old Santa has announced his intention of making his first visit to Fulton on Friday, December 1st, between 2:00 and 3:00 p. m. He will be at Baldridge's store on Lake-st.

He has requested children under ten years of age to bring along their Santa Claus letters and give them to him personally when he visits Baldridge's store. Or, if you want to have them published bring them to The Fulton County News office located on Fourth-st just across from Bob White Motor Co.

Santa has many surprises in store for you kiddies, and every one who visits him at Baldridge's store on Friday, December 1st, will receive a nice gift.

THIS AND THAT

Uncle Sam certainly is spending lots of money these days. A million and a half dollars have been "allotted" to build a squadron landing and flying station for airplanes 500 miles out in the Atlantic ocean. It is a smaller one than was at first contemplated, but a bigger one will be built later, to be followed by a series of them, all across the ocean, allowing planes to hop from one to the other.

But aviation is up and coming. Long flights, covering great distances, should awaken the United States to the new day that is dawning in the air. But if they don't one of these fleets of the clouds may awaken some day with unexpected suddenness that will be unpleasant in results. We are not keeping up with the progress of foreign nations in this new and faster method of travel and potential method of warfare.

Down in Tennessee, there is one Methodist preacher who walks his circuit. In these days of good roads and automobiles, at least one pastor knows the trials and tribulations of the pioneer preacher. Besides being pastor of six churches, he is father of nine children.

I notice where they have closed the doors and appointed a receiver for the "religious" tabernacle in Jonesboro, Ark., where factional differences in the church caused untold trouble and brought about murder even. Seem to us that it should be closed for good.

The United States and Russia have agreed to "play ball" together. They have got off to a great start but we are wondering who is going to furnish the ball. Both countries have signed their names to a string of agreements that could mean a lot--but will they. If the occasion should ever arise when Russia would lose by standing by these diplomatic agreements or profit by disregarding them. We are told that it will mean millions in trade to us, but dear old Uncle Samuel will have to loan her the money with which to make purchases.

France is facing a treasury crisis. The French Finance Commissioner believes that unless something is done to stop the outpour and restore confidence, the treasury will be empty before the end of the year. So, we are not the only nation that is having its monetary troubles.

The race to build battle cruisers is on. Now the British government plans to join the contest. Great Britain does not want the U. S. to build bigger cruisers, but this country contends we need larger cruisers because our ships need greater cruising radius than the ships of England. Four cruisers are planned to be built under an allotment of funds to the Navy from the Public Works Administration.

The proposal to organize a Federal government corporation that would establish a monopoly in liquor similar to those in operation in other countries has come to the foreground. It is meeting with strong opposition in some quarters but it has just as strong backing as well. The plan contemplates federal licensing of distillers with a limitation of their profits.

The number of owners of American telephone and telegraph stock equals the combined population of Nashville, Dallas and Atlanta, or of Denver, Akron and Salt Lake City.

ANSWERING MR. HANNA

Recently Phil S. Hanna, editor of the Chicago Daily Journal of Commerce made a general attack upon the NRA during the course of which he stressed two principal serious charges. One was that the NRA had created a dictatorship over business and industry and the other was threatening the freedom of the press.

In his first accusation we believe Mr. Hanna had confused the setting up of the rules of the game with dictatorship and in the latter we believe he has failed to distinguish between what a newspaper owes its country in times of a crisis as compared with times of normalcy. We would like to take up these two charges separately in answering Mr. Hanna with the dictatorship question first on the list.

Whether we like to admit it or not we know, and Mr. Hanna knows, that competition in the fields of industry and commerce in these United States had just about reached the rock bottom of inappropriateness during the course of the current depression, cut-throat business methods, through chains, through starvation payrolls and variations in state laws affecting interstate competition vitally had brought business levels to a pretty low ebb. By this we do not mean that most industrialists and business men were unethical, but we do contend ruthless activities of a minority shook the very foundations of ethical competition and good business. As a result, there were many evils that are too numerous to mention. But the worst of all was the sweat shop.

Since the growth of the humane society movement, there is hardly a place in this nation where cruelty to animals is not taboo. If a man were caught cruelly whipping his horse, he would be arrested and fined and sometimes sent to jail. Yet under the same regime it was perfectly legal for some grasping sweat-shop owner to gradually kill women and children by cracking an economic whip as his pale-faced, gaunt check slaves quivered under the lash of "If you don't like it, I can get thousands to take your place."

That was the first evil eliminated and many others have gone by the boards since. The situation was something like coming upon a mauling rioting, fighting mob of children on a playground, some fighting with baseball bats and other unfair weapons while many were unsuccessfully trying to hold their own by fighting with fists and according to Marquis of Queensbury rules. As was the case in business—even though the majority of employers were the fair, honest kind who thought of the welfare of their employees—the weapons of their unfair competitors were too much for them. Supervision and regulation soon quell them on playgrounds by putting everybody on an even basis under the rule of the game—laws of the game should and will do the same thing for business.

Yet Mr. Hanna would call this dictatorship. For an analogy let us for the moment, go back to the frontier days of any pioneer community. There the man who was the quickest on the draw and could shoot the straightest did as he pleased and ruled the roost regardless of his character until the community started growing up and crisis arrived. Then the people got together, elected a sheriff and started enforcing the rules of the game. Is that dictatorship? Congress, consisting of your representatives and your United States Senators had a similar get-together at Washington and adopted provisions of the NRA as the rules of the game for business. That is regulation, not dictatorship.

Now as to Mr. Hanna's worries about freedom of the press. His complaint is that General Johnson criticized a Wall Street publication for attacking the NRA. Our only criticism of General Johnson is for bothering to answer a Wall Street publication after considering what Wall Street has done to the nation in the past. However, that is not the issue. The issue is that this nation is facing an emergency, and the favors asked of a newspaper in a crisis are not to be confused with threats to freedom of the press. Mr. Hanna, as a newspaper man, certainly recalls how the newspapers of this nation co-operated during the World War. A crisis almost as great as the war is here now, and the only distinction is that it is economic.

The least that Mr. Hanna should be willing to do is admit that the newspapers ought to be willing to withhold criticism and curb dissension until the plans for recovery have been given a chance to work. The present administration has only been in power a little less than eight months, and the NRA has only been working a short time and thus far on a limited scale. If the administration and the NRA fail after they've been tried out adequately, Mr. Hanna can have all the freedom of the press he wants to complain. He has his freedom of the press now for that matter but it is a question of judgment whether it is advisable to claim failure or criticize before a fair trial has been granted.

The NRA is the ship of state which we have been transferred to in an effort to get out of the perilous waters of the depression. This is no time for mutiny or the whole ship may go down. Then it wouldn't make much difference who was right and who was wrong. (C. E. Broughton, Sheborgan, Wis., Press).

WHY DRIVE BUSINESS AWAY

Why drive business away?

It may sound peculiar to some when we point out that business is going away from Fulton every railroad pay-day, with apparently no good reason for such a condition existing.

No—it is not because merchandise can't be bought as cheaply here as elsewhere. But because these railroad employees are unable to get their checks cashed.

Local merchants are always ready to cash these checks when they can regardless of whether the railroad men make immediate purchases. But after cashing one or two of these checks which run up into quite a bit of money from one pay-day to another, most merchants are stripped of the cash they have on hand. So they must turn down the next man with a check even if he wants to make a purchase.

This is a serious condition, and works many hardships on Fulton people and local merchants.

But worst of all, it drives business away and sends hundreds of dollars out of town every pay-day.

Think it over! Then, if something can be done about it, do it.

We see no reason why everybody shouldn't be interested in relieving this condition.

nately by three drivers and is carrying a representative of the Key Stone Automobile Club, as official observer, stopping only for gasoline oil and water. In addition to four passengers and a full load of freight the truck carries improvised tanks for sleeping. Food is carried along so no stops for it will be necessary. The truck is in every respect a stock model according to Mr. W. L. Hingham, Ford V-8 dealer in Fulton. In fact, he said, the motor was taken from a demonstration car that recently covered 700 miles in twenty-four hours locked in second gear.

NEW LOW PRICES HAVE BEEN ANNOUNCED BY I. C. R. R.

New low prices for travel on the Illinois Central System have been announced by L. A. Downs, president, to become effective December 1. On all lines of the Illinois Central System the new fares will be: In coaches and chair cars 2 cents a mile both one-way and round trip; In sleeping and parlor cars, 3 cents a mile one-way; 2 1/2 cents a mile round trip for the longer return limits; 2 cents a mile round trip for the shorter return limits.

In addition, the much-discussed "ullman surcharge" will be eliminated, resulting in a further reduction to travelers amounting to one-third in the rates of sleeping and parlor car accommodations.

The new fares are being published for a period of six months. Their extension thereafter will depend upon the response of the public during the trial period.

Compared with the present basic fare of 3 1/2 cents a mile and allowing for the "ullman surcharge," the reductions are as much as one-half in some cases. In announcing the new fares, Mr. Downs said:

"The new scale of rates will materially reduce the cost to travel to all Southern winter resorts reached by the Illinois Central System and connecting lines. We are convinced that the public generally appreciates the safety, and comfort and convenience of travel by train. We are now taking this step to make every day bargain day in the hope that more people will be induced to travel, to travel oftener and to do their traveling by train."

WESTERN DARK FIRED TOBACCO GROWERS RECEIVE STATEMENT

L. L. Veal, general manager of the Western Dark Fired Tobacco Growers Association makes the following statement: W. B. Kennedy & Son, Mayfield, Ky.; Paducah Loose Floor; A. G. Outland & Co., Murray; J. A. Crossway, Paris, Tenn., have been awarded contracts to handle the 1933 crop of tobacco for members of the Western Dark Fired Tobacco Growers Association.

Members of the Association will be allowed to sell their tobacco at their barn doors on the following terms: Buyer to make contract in triplicate, giving one the grower, sending one to the Association and retaining one for himself. Checks are to be made payable to the Western Dark Fired Tobacco Growers Association, the grower taking checks and weights to any association office and the association bookkeeper will take out two percent and any unpaid membership fees, giving the grower a check for the difference. This is the way it was handled last year.

Association members will not be allowed to sell their tobacco on any loose leaf floor except on the floors designated above. Tobacco sold on the loose floors this time by association members will not be subject to the extra two percent as has been the case in the past two seasons. Association members will only have to pay the same commission on the association floors as a non-member will have to pay on the independent floors, and this charge will be the same.

Wonder how grandmother managed to pass away the time without telephones, bridge games, automobiles or radios?

THINK IT OVER

DEPENDS ON RURAL AMERICA

In any reform movement, in any movement that has for its objective the betterment of mankind, it is in the rural districts where it finds its strongest supporters. Vice in all its hideous forms finds its best breeding beds in the congested territory of the larger cities. It seems to flourish there where it draws its nourishment more freely and more readily than in the smaller towns and rural sections. It is in the country we must look for the support for every forward movement for the good of the world. It requires no great stretch of imagination to picture that when the Saviour of the World comes again He will be found in the country before He is seen in the great city centers. When He was among us, he seems to have found his greatest inspiration while walking in the country. It is in the small town and in the country where virtue thrives most and where vice thrives the least.

Our big cities are so busy with what they regard as the "pressing business of the hour" that they are less likely to weigh the moral worth of an issue than are the smaller towns and rural districts. Therefore the moral support of a religious redress against a wrong social tendency comes from the less populated places.

The "big" men too often think they are the "big idea" builders. That's their big mistake. It's the small towns that both make and save the big towns. It is the small towns and the farmers of the land who put across the big ideas. Think it over!

It's all right for a girl to seek a model husband, but while she is at it she should be sure he is a working model.

When mother has her suspicions, it's just the same as knowing a few things.

It's hard to believe that Noah would take into the Ark the ancestors of some of the pests we have today.

MAN—AN UNFINISHED CREATION

Of all the things created in the beginning, man stands alone as an unfinished, incomplete product. Did you ever think of that? It was a wise Providence who thus formed man. It was the Divine intention that man should GROW. Had he been completed in the beginning he would not, could not, have progressed; he would be like a fish, the fowls, the beasts of the fields. But it was intended he should expand and go on, ever onward and upward. It is the mind, the spirit, the immortal part of man that keeps going forward. Nothing can stop him, nothing can overcome him. There is no limit to the mind of man and no restrictions attempted to be imposed on him by legislative bodies, or by any power, can bind the immortal part of man. It was intended he should PROCEED, ever in the path of investigation. As well try to dam the Mississippi river with feathers as to attempt to hedge in the great universe of the human mind. Man was made to inquire why this and why that and he will ever and always keep inquiring and all the legislatures of all the states in the country cannot prevent it.

Think it over!

"FIRE BUG" MAY BE ACTIVE IN FULTON AREA

A mysterious and dangerous type of bug has apparently put in a bid for a permanent business in and around Fulton. It others words, an unknown starter of fires—a "fire bug"—has been active in this community for the past week or two. The local fire department has been kept exceedingly active, especially in putting out grass and weeds fires.

So many fires just don't happen, it is believed, but they are started purposely in some instances anyway. Officers here are given the condition careful observation.

MAYFIELD MAN HELD ON ROBBERY CHARGE

Ted Smith of Mayfield, held here on circumstantial evidence, charged with breaking into the Kozz Korner, corner Lake and Carr-sts., was tried in the police court here Saturday. Unable to make $300 bond he was taken to the county jail at Hickman to await trial by the grand jury when court convenes here in January.

The robbery was committed last Thursday night, entrance being made by shattering a glass in the front door of the Kozz Korner, which is operated by Ellis Helthott, who reports only a small quantity of merchandise missing.

George Alley Jr., witnessed the smashing of the glass door as he looked out of his window at his home across the street. He called the police, and described the robber. A short time later Officer Dalton arrested Smith near the Usona hotel on suspicion.

HISTORY in the MAKING

Fain W. King, successful business man of Paducah, has made a hobby of archaeology and as a result discoveries are being made near Wickliffe, Ky., that are attracting the interest of scientists and students of history throughout the country. Mr. King has studied and collected archaeological relics for thirty years, so that when in September, 1932, the construction crews working on U. S. Highway No. 51, cut through a mound near Wickliffe and uncovered much material of archaeological value, he took immediate action to prevent its loss or destruction and made arrangements for the continuation of the excavations along scientific lines.

Mr. King bought the mound property from the Wisconsin Chair factory who had owned it for thirty years. Mr. King started the work to unearth further relics on Oct. 2, 1932 with the assistance of the Alabama State Museum of which he is a director. The result to date has been the uncovering of a wealth of archaeological material indicating that a city of considerable size occupied the site at the confluence of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers long before Columbus discovered America.

"I have been interested in Indian lore," Mr. King said recently, "since the childhood days when my grandmother gave me the first artifact of my collection." Since that time, about thirty years ago, Mr. King has been an enthusiastic and discerning collector of stone relics and he now has the finest collection in the South and it is on display at the Mounds.

"It is natural," Mr. King continued, "that I should become interested in other phases of archaeology. I have been excavating for archaeological remains, at various times, all my life. Most of my early work was done along the Ohio and Tennessee rivers. Beginning two years ago I spent two succeeding summers in the Southwest uncovering Cliff Dweller relics. The next summer I spent in old Mexico excavating in ruins there."

The twenty-five acres of the Wickliffe site contain nine mounds. Up to date three have been entered. Each has yielded a world of discovery. It is conservatively estimated that these earthworks are from one to three thousands years old. It is believed that they were built by a race that inhabited this continent before the coming of the Red Man. Three large buildings cover the excavations of the present developed units.

The burial mound, which is only one-tenth excavated, presents a most spectacular exhibit. For the uncovering of this alone, it required the efforts of three archaeologists and seven trained workers for four months. Much of the work in this mound was so tedious that it had to be done with orange sticks and eyebrow tweezers. More than 140 skeletons of these pre-Columbian people have been uncovered. Every bone and their possessions, in the form of pottery and stone implements, have been left in the exact position in which they were found. Three distinct types of burials are prevalent; the prone or extended type; the bundle type in which the bones have been placed in an irregular heap after the decay of the flesh from the body; and the crematory type.

Many rare pieces of pottery were found here. Much of it was in effigy water bottle. Artifacts made of has been unearthed from any mound is the large painted white owl effigy water bottle. Artifacts made of flint spear from Rosiclare, Ill., lead from Joplin, Mo., mica from North Carolina and copper from the Great Lakes region have been found here indicating that this metropolis of prehistoric man was either a trading center or a religious Mecca. Where one body has been found buried above another, it is thought the burials took place hundreds of years apart. The longest skeleton unearthed is five feet ten inches, but the average is five feet six inches. Only one warlike implement has been found. This is a Tennessee black flint ceremonial spear.

The excavation in another mound revealed the complete outline of a building. This building was obviously a council house. In it are three fire places. It measures twenty-one by twenty-five feet and is said to be the first instance in which the complete outline of a building has ever been uncovered.

The largest mound of the group is the so-called Temple Mound. The excavations here revealed the charred remains of two temple buildings with thatched grass roofs. The lower Temple is separated from the second by three feet of made dirt. In association with the upper Temple, have been found three sacrificial altars, being the first instances in North America mound excavation that more than one altar in such association has been uncovered.

Because many objects have been found which are made of materials that obviously did not come from that territory; because of the strategic waterway location; of the presence of various cultural influences; and of the elaborate religious layout of the Temple Mound, it is thought that the Ancient City was either a religious or trading center and was of much importance in the social and commercial life of the primitive people.

TOT'S TELEPHONE CALL

SAVES HER MOTHER'S LIFE

Because she had been taught how to use the telephone, a little six-year-old girl of Washington, D. C., probably saved her mother's life the other day.

The mother had fainted, and did not respond to the child's attempt to awaken her. When she noticed a gash on her mother's arm, the little girl ran to the telephone and screamed, "I want a cop. Mother's been hurt."

The operator connected her with a police station, and a policeman took the message. The child could not tell where she was, except that she was there at the telephone. So the policeman kept her talking while the call was being traced, and help reached the mother in time to save her life.

Time Lost is Money Lost

It costs money to be sick. You see it directly if your pay envelope is short. You lose out on some important work if you live on a farm or if you are one of the few who are not docked for lost time. You can't afford to show up on the job unless you are feeling fit. The boss wants results—not excuses.

How many times do Gas on Stomach, Headache, Sour Stomach, "That Tired Feeling," "That Morning After" Feeling, Neuralgia, Rheumatic, Sciatic, Muscular or Periodic Pains keep you at home or interfere with your doing a full day's work?

All these troubles are caused or made worse by too much acid in your body. To correct this condition take

ALKA-SELTZER

The New Pain Relieving, Alkalizing, Effervescent Tablet.

It is called Alka-Seltzer because it makes a sparkling alkaline drink, and as it contains an analgesic (Acetyl-Salicylate) it first relieves the pain of everyday ailments and then by restoring the alkaline balance corrects the cause when due to excess acid. Alka-Seltzer is pleasant to take, harmless, non-laxative.

Why don't you try it? Get a drink at your drug store soda fountain for a nickel. Buy a package for home use.
