Sports Afield

By TED KESTING

I have spent a good many days this summer fishing with "purists" whorown at the mere suggestion of fishing with live bait. And, too, I have had a lot of fun "dunking" live bait with the minnow frog grasshopper: cian trying to outwit finny gamesters.

Frankly (hold the brickbats, I happen to belong to the school of fishermen who like variety both in fishing methods and species of fish. And I can see no need for the heated arguments that often develop between the purists and the bait dunkers.

Its every man to his own liking with no suggestions asked as far as I'm concerned.

This subject, however, has led to numerous discussions recently of zoning certain streams or lakes, with a part for the purist, and a part for the bait fishermen. In some states certain streams, I believe, are closed to all types of fishing except fly fishing with artificial flies. I have never fished one of these spots.

But I do think the idea of zoning certain waters has merit -- if for no other reason than to keep the purists and live bait fishermen out of arguing distance at least while they are fishing.

In checking the recent winners of national fishing contest with 17 classifications, 13 prize fish ranging from bass to trout were taken on artificial lures while four winners caught their fish with live bait. So I see no reason for the purists to get alarmed; they're taking more than their share of the glory--and big fish.

Maybe all this arguing is what makes fishing such an interesting sport. If everyone liked the same species of fish, the same method and used the same type of equipment it would create a serious problem. So don't worry about the current variety of styles and customs. It's all grand sport.

the prettiest suit
we show this season
wears a traditionally fine label

ROTHMOOR

Beautiful, dainty gabardine suit with a little shawl collar that's positively divine. Tabbed three times on either shoulder to give a shrug the most flirtatious look of all. Smoothly hiped for the narrow look. Hand-tailored for a precious look.

You'll Find the Fine
Priced Right
At
The Vanity Shoppe

Here's The Versatile Tweed
ROTHMOOR

As seen in Life magazine -- tweed to be worn two entirely different ways. Casually flung out as we show it here or whipped in with a belt for the new future look. No wonder it rated an ad in Life. Pure wool tweed in a broken box weave. Warm enough to go well into winter. Autumn hillside colors. Sizes 98-18.

The Most Versatile Zip-Coat We've Ever Had is This Handsome
ROTHMOOR

Here's the coat ROTHMOOR advertised in Life -- the coat that can lead a number of lives. Now it's a fall coat; later, a winter coat by the simple addition of a pure wool zip lining. Truly, a superb design, done in ROTHMOOR's traditionally meticulous way. Sizes 10 to 20.

Here's One Suit That Can Look Like
Two -- Naturally It's ROTHMOOR

If you are feeling sophisticated, wear this suit, belted, give it your best accessories. Then, when you want to be casually correct remove the belt, exchange pearls for a scarf. Faultless either way you wear it. Right for every occasion. Carefully hand tailored in the finest fabric in ROTHMOOR's own Hill and Dale colors. Sizes 18-18.

Observations

Vacation is over and we're back in the saddle again. Boy oh boy, it's grand to just do nothing for awhile. The rest period was fine, but the go back to work was what A. A. Cross used to say—"excruciating."

I have often wondered who invented work anyway, and why. If it had not been for old Adam and Eve all we would have to do would be to lie down under a banana tree, open our mouth and let a banana drop in. Not much work to peeling a banana.

If it hadn't been for Adam and Eve we could have had our barbecued ribs simply by placing a goat, sheep, or goat out in the sun, and pronto, a big brown sandwich with gravy on it would have been served in bed. A tube of spring from the tops of the Rocky mountains would have served as a chaser, and if we lived like the first man and woman did there wouldn't be a wash day.

Come to think of it, Adam and Eve sure did cause their cousins a lot of grief. Back in their day vacations were six months or twice each year and with all the trimmings thrown in. Some say we are headed toward this kind of vacation now and would probably reach it by 1972 if there weren't so many Eves along the route.

Anyway, whether Adam or Eve or the snake invented work, we enjoyed our few days away from words and black machinery. Did make one or two short trips to Missouri and Illinois, visiting old Cairo for the first time in many years, then on up to Sikeston and Charleston in the big cotton and watermelon country. They have good crops out there. Lots of good corn, alfalfa, and soybeans.

Land in that section is as black as printers' ink and I'd guess there are mosquitoes as big as a jaybird. One fellow said they were so big they packed off his chickens and several watermelons. Passed through a little town named "Wyatt" Mo., and I wondered if some of my ancestors owned it. If they do, one good thing about it—they don't need any parking meters there. Some of the folks looked as if they had been on vacation since the days of Adam.

For years some of the roads southwest of Charleston have only been half-finished. On one side there is a concrete slab and on the other is a swamp weed, mud and bushes. They have side-racks like a railroad hand car and if you fall to meet someone near the side tracks, it is back up for somebody. We backed up one time so long I kept looking for St. Louis.

Hot? It was so hot down in that flat land all meals were cooked on a plank. Maybe I am a purebred ridge runner and just thought it was hot, but I can tell you now that I'd rather be a ridge runner than one of those Missouri coons. If there was one little breeze out there it was so slight it could not be reached with a ten foot pole. If you want a vacation with plenty of heat go to Southeast Missouri, for there it can be found. When you get out there and climb that hill at Wickliffe, you'll know the difference right off the bat—There is air above them there hills.

Cotton and colored boys—all working hard to keep in the shade or working their jaws on a big slice of watermelon. Big, fat, juicy watermelons for a quarter apiece. Lots of melons, but no cool place to eat them down in that Mississippi valley. It is a rich land country, but I choose to be a ridge runner and stay where there's less cotton and more big wind.

Cairo is another hot hole. The only cool places found were atop one of the big bridges or in a place where they serve that tuff in glasses with a foam on top of it—there they say it is very pleasant. I think they must have made it that way purposely—if you ducked out on the streets a few seconds you'd duck right back in. The trouble is, this causes too much ducking, and if you have to walk as much as five blocks a feller is liable to walk right on through a glass door, which is caused by the excessive heat in Cairo.

If you like yours hot and sultry visit Cairo during July or August, and it won't be long until you'll be ducking out of the hole between the rivers.

God's Map for Me

Lesson for August 28, 1949

How did the writers of the Bible think about the Bible? We can get part of the answer by looking at our Psalms for this week. These poets already possessed a part of our Bible, the Law, some historical books, perhaps some of the Prophets. It was an incomplete Bible they had—but they loved it.

They did not think of it or use it in some of the mistaken ways you may find some people thinking of the Bible today. They did not think it was enough to read a line or two before going to bed every night. They did not think that having a copy of it around would bring good luck, or scare off demons. They said nothing about the Bible's being a great literature. Dr. Foreman

They were not at all bothered by miracle stories in Scripture; they believed them, and took them as evidences of the mighty power of God (see Psalm 105). They did not look on the Bible as chiefly a dictionary of Doct. They did not think of it as a Sabbath book, but rather as an everyday one. It did not strike them as a book of mystery.

The Psalmists' Bible
In reading Psalm 107:14, it is interesting to see how many different things the Psalmist says about the Word of God. He calls it by various names, but that is only because, being a poet, he likes to use several words for the same thing. As for Psalm 105, where else but in his Bible would the poet have learned that story of Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Joseph and the deliverance from Egypt?

The reader of this Psalm will observe that the subject of the verses is GOD. As the poet reviews his people's history, he shows that it is not simply the doings of the Israelites, but it is God who brings things to pass.
"Man proposes but God disposes" is a proverb which the writer of Psalm 105 would approve. Psalm 119 is known as an "alphabetical" or "acrostic" poem. It is divided into 22 sections, each one exactly eight verses long. There are 22 letters in the Hebrew alphabet, and in the Hebrew original of this Psalm each verse of the first section begins with the first letter of the Hebrew alphabet, Aleph; in the next section, Beth, and so on down to the last letter, Tav.

The Book of God
WHAT the writers of these Psalms said about the partly-done Bible of their times is of course even more true of the completed Bible which is our heritage as Christians. One thing they make clear is that this is first of all God's book. They knew as well as we do that different human minds had a part of it, but for all that it is always God whose message comes through what they wrote. The Bible, properly understood, reveals the mind of God and the will of God. The Bible reveals also the doings of God. His story is the weaving of God's eternal decrees on the loom of time. Again, these poets see that the Bible is for man and about man.

None of them thought of it as a guide to heaven, but rather as a road map or to guide us through the mazes of this world. Psalm 119 stresses this world, and no other, as the world on which God's light shines.

The Bible in The Heart
THE SENTENCE: "Thy word I have hid in my heart" (Psalm 119:11) is the clue to the right use of the Bible. When a Hebrew writer says "heart" he means something more than mere emotion. The word means character, what a man really is. A young Korean was learning the Sermon on the Mount, but making slow work of it.

When a missionary asked him about it, the boy said, "I have to be slow. First I learn the verse, then I go out and live it. I can learn the words in a few minutes; but it takes longer than that to live it."

That is the right idea. One verse, translated into living, is worth more than a chapter that never gets deeper in than the edge of the brain.

More and Better Telephone Service for Kentucky

FAMILIAR SIGHTS in the cities, towns and rural sections of Kentucky are telephone folks building new facilities to make your telephone service bigger and better.

New buildings being erected... new central office facilities being installed... more poles, more cable going into use... more and more of what it takes to improve and enlarge the telephone network so vitally important to the growth and prosperity of the state.

Our postwar program of construction of new facilities is the largest in the history of the state. And it is producing abundant results—providing telephones for more and more people, improving service for all telephone users.

The demand for telephone service has been several times greater than before the war. So has our construction program to meet that demand! And all this expanding activity is focused on a single goal—to give the people of Kentucky the finest telephone service it is possible to provide.

Thursday, August 25, 1949

Joseph P. Minter was born in Benton, Kentucky, April 10 1884 and passed away at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Barbara Palmer in Washington, D. C. August 9, 1949.

His parents died while he was young and Mr. Minter grew to manhood in the Oak Level community. He worked in a store there and was later Postmaster there and at Benton. He was married to Miss Sarah Tyree in 1898. To this union seven children were born; two died in infancy. Those surviving, together with his wife, are Mrs. Fanny Palmer, Joe Minter Jr., Brooks Minter, and Mrs. Mary Adams, of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Venia McGuire, of Brookport, Ill.
Mr. Minter professed faith in Christ early in life and was active and deeply interested worker in the church all his life. He and his father worked on the erection of the Oak Level church building, a place where he never lost his pride and appreciation of the church. He later placed his membership in the Benton church, acting as an officer and was always in attendance at services of the church.

Mr. Minter had a wide acquaintance and a host of friends who deeply lament his passing and will greatly miss him. He was laid to rest in the beautiful cemetery at Colesville, Maryland.

A Plan For The Future Or A Plan for the Present

THE BRADFORD has its entrance vestibule in a location which permits this house to be placed easily with its narrow side to the street. This plan is expedient for a narrow lot.

The Bradford's plan calls for two bedrooms, a kitchen-dinette combination and a living room. All rooms in the house open into the bedroom hall, allowing privacy in circulation. Closet space is ample in the Bradford. There is a coat closet in the front vestibule. There is a linen closet and a general storage closet in the hall. And there are wardrobes in each of the two bedrooms.

The Bradford's attached breezeway and garage are optional. When present, they give width to the house. The Bradford's straight walls and low roof lines make it an economical house to frame. The Bradford is also adaptable to the use of concrete block construction.

Plans shown, call for frame construction with siding. The roof is covered with asphalt shingles.

Overall width of The Bradford is 39 feet. The main body of the house is 40 feet by 24 feet.

We hope we can be of service to you on plans for a New Home. We Invite you to discuss your plans with us.

NEW COMPRESSOR STATIONS GOING UP ON TEXAS GAS LINE

When new compressor stations on the Texas Gas pipe line are completed and landscaped they will look like this one on the Company's existing system.

Compressor stations, like the one above, are the heart of a natural gas pipe line system. Along the route of Texas Gas Transmission Corporation's new 800-mile pipe line which passes through here several stations are now being built. When completed, they will do the big job of pumping millions of cubic feet of gas daily through the Texas Gas system.

Operation of the new line will start with these stations. Next year additional installations will be built so that the movement of gas can be stepped up. Compressor stations are more than just clusters of buildings. They are part of the communities near which they are located.

And in a sense, they are small communities of their own, for each station will have its own generators for electric power and its own water supply. At most stations new homes for the station operators will be built. Operated by a full-time staff of nine to 12 men, each new station will contain the most modern gas handling equipment.

Compressor units will range up to 2,200 horsepower each. Cooling towers three stories high will process the millions of gallons of water needed for cooling gas and compressor engines.

It is these compressor stations and the engineering which goes into them that makes the difference between just a long line of pipe and a working natural gas pipe line system. When completed this winter, they will enable Texas Gas to do an even more useful job as a long-distance carrier of natural gas.

Memo to citizens of Marshall County:

Attached information from our company newspaper, PIPELINE PROGRESS, is printed to give you news about our new pipe line through your area and to inform you of activities of our natural gas transmission system. You may receive regular copies of PIPELINE PROGRESS by writing to:
