NUMBER 47.

Santa Will Arrive In Fulton By Special I. C. Passenger

Holiday Business Shows Increase

With the coming of the holiday season business has taken a sudden upward turn. Christmas trade is on the increase, and the volume has expanded noticeably. One element of trade that is highly encouraging to local merchants is the extent of out-of-town shopping. Due to its central location, Fulton has always enjoyed a substantial amount of this character of business, and this season is proving no exception. Merchants here have prepared for the holidays with a bigger and more varied assortment of merchandise, and shoppers from the surrounding territory are taking advantage of shopping opportunities offered here.

In this issue of The News many Fulton merchants are inviting you Christmas shoppers to visit their stores and it will be well worth your while to go over these shopping grounds extensively and regularly, for you will find economy and thrift in these advertisements.

The Civil Works payroll is proving to be a Godsend to the unemployed and the community, and it is pregnant to know that it will continue until February. Nearby counties and towns have their programs organized also and are enjoying the increased circulation of money.

Reports from the country generally are very encouraging to those who watch the business barometers. Excursions are again noticeable in heavy industries, steel particularly, and there is an increase in the building trades, the two industries that are lagging more than others in the recovery. Rail traffic is holding up surprisingly well and earnings are stimulated by it.

As we enter the final lap of the journey through 1933, every sign indicates that 1934 will be a twelve month of continuing, substantial expansion in almost every line of business activity. The only cloud on the horizon is the coming session of Congress, when there is likely to be dissension and lost motion, something the country could well afford to dispense with just now.

ONE KILLED, ONE FLEES AFTER FATAL SHOOTING

The roadhouse slaying, which occurred at the highway inn of Bubble Walker, near Buda Switch, Saturday night, rocked this community by its suddenness. Earl Renfro is alleged by witnesses to have slain William Cloy, twenty-five year old Clinton county farmer.

Both young men were said to have been intoxicated at the time, and as they went into the roadhouse they were quarreling according to a report circulated after the shooting. One accused the other of double-crossing him. As they entered the roadhouse Renfro is said to have drawn a pistol and fired one shot which caused instant death to Cloy. Renfro then ran to his car, and failing to get in started, fled about. Officers in Fulton, Ohio and other nearby counties are on the lookout for Renfro, but he has not been seen since the shooting.

Funeral services for Cloy were held Monday afternoon by Rev. J. J. Owen, with burial following in the Chapel Hill cemetery. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Wheeler Cloy, two brothers, Charles and Jesse, two sisters, Mrs. Herman and Mrs. Robert Peterson, all of whom reside near Fulton.

CUT THE RED TAPE

Several weeks ago the Public Works Administration was relegated because of the tremendous red tape created by its administrators which nullified the good intention of the program. The Civil Works Administration was set up to take the place of the PWA, in order that the unemployed might be put to work immediately to avoid suffering and hunger through the winter months.

But it seems that in this state, at least, the CWA has fallen into the same evil ways because of the incompetency and selfishness of the state civil works board. This board was charged with the job of selecting and approving projects to put over 70,000 men to work at once.

After floundering around in its own self-created red tape, the state board has managed to get a little better than half that number of men to work.

Fulton County, like a number of other counties in the state, was late in getting projects approved and work started, despite the fact that local committees rushed projects to the state board for approval. One delay followed another, with local committees working constantly in an effort to push through approval of these projects. Then, after so long a time men were put to work this week on two different projects in the end of the county. But others are waiting and needing work.

Naturally, the problem of taking men from a dole to a job where they can earn their own living is essentially social. But, on the other hand, the big problem of creating jobs and the pacing of workers in them must be done by men experienced in such things.

In the opinion of several officials and business men of this section, members of the state civil works board are all at sea about the whole thing. In the opinion of these officials, the board is composed of social workers, and even Henry L. Hopkins himself has long been active in social work. The present task of the board emphatically is not social in nature. Rather the proposition is to put men to work on practical projects at once—and that is strictly a business man's job.

Many communities have felt the sting of those delays in getting the civil works programs started to the dismay and the public in general. Let the criticism fall where it may, red tape and selfishness must be swept aside in order that the full intention of the program may be carried out effectively.

Either the PWA or CWA plan could be operated efficiently, and is economically practicable. But the state officials given the tasks of making them operate have confused themselves and everybody else in the line of such trying conditions. Some counties in the state have thousands of unemployed at work, while others have only a few hundred or just a handful. Something is wrong, and immediate action is necessary to adjust existing conditions.

And another thing. In the selection of men to work, in the hiring of equipment and directing of other expenditures, care should be exercised to spend this money with those in the greatest need. For, after all, the civil works program should be carried out in a business like manner, with a truly social and economic purpose in view.

Politics or favoritism have no place in this work, and unfair practices deserve exposure.

STATE FINANCES.

With the recent defeat of the amendment to the state constitution which proposed to give the legislature the right to remove all taxes for state purposes from real estate and to enact a sales tax, the next legislature faces the problem of balancing the state budget.

In the past two years the income of the state has declined sharply, the decrease resulting from the lowering of the assessed valuation placed on property for tax purposes. Reduced assessments were necessary to conform with the lower market values of real estate. So now the next legislature must enact new revenue measures which will supplement the depleted state income.

A study of the state financial reports show that state expenditures have been cut, and in many cases drastic reductions have occurred. It is estimated that had expenses of the state government continued at the same rate during the past two years as it did during the eight preceding years, the total debt of the state would now be between 25 and 30 millions of dollars. But despite sharp reductions in expenditures, the decrease has not been enough to balance with the state's revenues.

The next legislature faces the problem of balancing the state budget. The situation demands enactment of supplemental revenue to replace, at least partially, the huge loss in state income that has occurred in the last two years. But Kentucky is not by herself along this line. Forty-three other state legislatures in session this year have had to resort to new tax levies.

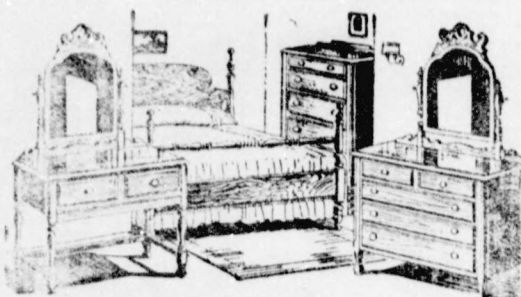

During the period of the depression Kentucky has not enacted new levies. But now, in order to insure the maintenance of a sound fiscal policy, the next legislature will be compelled to enact restorative measures to increase revenue, and to slash expenses in every department where such action is feasible.

WHAT IS WALL STREET DOING TO OR FOR US?

A Senate committee is now investigating the operations of the New York Stock Exchange, and other exchanges, with an eye on the question, "What is Wall Street Doing To or For Us?" Is the stock exchange really serving any useful purpose in economic lives? Do we need a stock exchange at all? How can we find out what is good and what is bad in this stock exchange business, and get rid of what is bad without losing what is good?"

After an investigation a complete outline and forecast of what the next session of Congress proposes to do in the matter of regulating stock exchanges will be made. Doubtless comprehensive legislation will be proposed to deal in a large way with the whole problem of speculation.

It is predicted that federal regulation of the exchanges is an inevitable step. It is impossible for a state to regulate an exchange. The exchange can move away. Federal regulation is the only kind which can be effective. In order to bring this about the provisions of the Inter-

Already the national government exercises immense powers over state Commerce law and the postal regulations will be invoked. speculation in grain and the exchanges where it takes place. Now it is proposed that the federal government have authority to go into the books and private accounts of any stock broker to investigate his affairs.

It is a well known fact that in the field of high finance stupendous swindles are often effected. Worthless or practically worthless, stocks are sometimes sold to a gullible public. Operations of some brokers have brought ruin to hundreds of trusting people participating in these stock exchange deals. Many of these transactions have been "strictly inside the law," but nevertheless they were in fact nothing more than robbery. It is very doubtful whether the stock exchange is as valuable to this country as it has commonly been supposed.

The true facts in the case should be known, and the great mass of potential investors deserve the protection and assurance that their securities are worthy of purchase.

BUSINESS IMPROVES AS HOLIDAYS APPROACH

With the approach of the holidays there are signs of slowly improving business conditions and increased public buying power, in the opinion of A. A. Larsen, agent of the Railway Express Agency in this city. "We are preparing for increased shipping," said Mr. Larsen "not only during the next few weeks before Christmas, but very definitely in 1934. In fact, we are now engaged in a business building campaign we call 'A new deal in Express Business' and are confident that it will help speed along President Roosevelt's recovery plans."

Evidence that holiday shipping is expected to be better than last year is given in the fact that two million special Christmas package address labels have been distributed through the express system for the convenience of holiday shippers. A supply is available at the local express office.

The Express Agency representative offers some timely suggestions on the packing and addressing of gift shipments to insure prompt and safe arrival at this very busy period in the transportation business. These are important because much of the holiday traffic comes from infrequent shippers.

Use plenty of good wrapping paper and twine and if the contents are fragile, so indicate on the package. Special "fragile" and "glass" labels are obtainable for shipments with contents of that nature.

The complete and legible addressing of packages is of vital importance as illegible or incorrect marks often cause delays in transit. Owing to the growth of so many small towns which have become sizeable cities, express people urge that the complete street address of the receiver of the package be indicated in the address.

THIS AND THAT

Another new letter combination was developed Sunday by a Memphis minister during the course of his sermon. He suggested this country needs an SRA, or Spiritual Recovery Act, in religion by closing of churches for a time until people realized their spiritual needs and hungers. The code would emphasize the essential and minimize the non-essential in church doctrine, banish bigotry, divisions and self-seeking and would make the spirit of Christ the necessary possession of the church, he said. Claiming that closing of the churches would mean many would never reopen for the country is overhauled as it is, and that towns of less than ten thousand population would possibly be limited to one immersionist church and one church with a liturgy. He stated that there can be no economic recovery until we have had spiritual recovery, pointing out that the code would show the economical foolishness of denominational split-up and would suggest the reunifying of the 12 Presbyterian denominations, of the 17 Methodist and of the 15 Baptist denominations.

Gee-whilkens! That's a pile of money. The monthly report of the RFC shows that more $3,500,000,000 has been poured into the nation's credit arteries by this corporation. Is any wonder that when this began turning over that business got better? Day by day things are getting better and better, they say.

Age-old traditions and customs were swept away in a recent election in Spain, when thousands of women voted for the first time, swinging the nation back to conservative rule. Again, equal rights for the women gains favor—abroad.

Then why not surprise them this holiday season with a telephone visit instead? You can reach them anywhere by telephone. Distance doesn't matter.

A voice visit by telephone, you will find, has the personal charm of a face-to-face visit, is convenient and costs little wherever you call. For example, by using Station-to-Station service you can talk with folks fifty miles away for about 55c, and a hundred miles for around 55c, and greater or less distances at correspondingly low cost.

If you can't go in person, go by telephone.

All was quiet on Capitol Hill in Washington this Monday, when all had been hustle and bustle every first Monday in December since 1788. That was due to the new 20th or "Lame Duck" amendment to the Constitution. Congress does not meet now until Jan. 3, when it will hold sway in one continuous session. Under the old amendment, during those "familiar" short sessions, many members defeated for reelection in the previous November, sat for three months and voted on important measures. They were the "lame ducks."

"Knights of the road," or in other words hoboes, have flatfootedly told the federal government that they will not be limited to one of "those transient camps." In a letter sent to federal relief administrator Hopkins, they pointed out that the hobo has a right, based on years of habit and experience, to move over the country as he pleases. Mr. Hopkins explained that the government will not attempt to force either hoboes or anyone else to go to the transient camps, but it is merely a matter of offering civilized care to persons entitled to it.

Sounds like another believe it or not, but F. S. Smythe, a member of the last unsuccessful Mount Everest expedition, who has climbed 28,100, higher than anyone else in the world, once was told to be careful how he walked upstairs. His doctors told him to hang on to the banisters when he went upstairs after he had been invalided out of the Royal Air Forces. He replied by climbing Mount Kamet, the Himalayas, and Mount Blanc in the Alps.

All you football players watch out for your knees. Seventeen percent of the total disabilities of football during 1932 were due to knee injuries. Ankles and shoulders came in for a large share of injuries, too.

Clarence Allen, a Racine, Wis., broker's clerk, has constructed a machine which has run a year and a half under its own power. No, it is not "perpetual motion," but runs from hot and cold areas over the earth, by utilizing drafts running up a large circular sheet iron shaft. And the machine has enough power to drill holes through sheet metal. "Errand of Mercy Results in Lawsuit," read a headline. Out in California a constable tried to be a good Samaritan by rushing Elsie Rocha to a hospital after she had been struck on the head by a wildly thrown rolling pin at a farm picnic. Enroute to a hospital, his car and two others collided, and the injured girl was hurt additionally. She sued the constable—and collected. Some appreciation.

One fine thing about being a wife is you can have lots of fun telling your husband who else you could have married.

A FEW TIPS TO DAIRYMEN

December and cold weather brings more work to do in the dairy barn and more time in which to do it. Here are a few reminders for dairymen in December:

1. Cows bred in December will freshen in September. Get ready for the heavy breeding season if you want a heavy milk flow next fall.

2. If you have more than one bull in service, switch bulls on cows slow to get in calf.

3. Clean, well bedded calf pens provide comfortable quarters for healthy calves. Filth, rusty calves and scours, like birds of a feather, flock together.

4. Feed milk to calves at the same temperature at which it is drawn from the cow. Either feed immediately after milking or "heat it up a bit" with the hot water kettle.

5. Start grain feeding calves as soon as they'll start nibbling. They will start before you know it. May be in a week or 10 days. A good ration is equal parts corn and cob meal, ground oats and bran.

6. Feed calves lots of hay. Where can you find a better calf hay than Lespedeza?

7. Clean, comfortable cows in a well bedded milking barn look better and do better.

8. Keep breeding records, production records and feed records. This winter is a fine time to start a simple but adequate bookkeeping system on your cows.

10. Read and feed for profitable production.

For cotton farmers:—
1. Trade cotton seed for choice meal when you can obtain 1,400 lbs. of meal or better for a ton of seed.

2. With cottonseed hulls at $8 per ton their replacement feed value would be Bermuda hay at $9.73 and mixed clover hay at $11.41.

16,500 JOBS CREATED
IN TENNESSEE VALLEY

Officials of the Tennessee Valley Authority estimate that 16,500 jobs will be created for unemployed in the Tennessee Valley through the co-ordination of the TVA and the CWA.

The CWA has turned over $3,343,500 to the Authority for emergency work in the portions of seven states comprising the basin. These are Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi and Kentucky.

Labor for the various projects will be recruited from local relief rolls and re-employment lists of the CWA in the counties affected. A workman will be limited to 30 hours per week with a maximum of 130 hours per month.

Completion of the program is set for February 15, although this time may be extended by congressional action.

Principal projects included in the program are: work near the Norris and Wheeler dam sills, forestry and soil erosion control, rural sanitation county sanitary census, malaria control, and preparation for construction of rural electrification lines.

It is rather unusual that those elected to the state legislature from Western Kentucky are all comparatively young men. Glenn W. Lane, representative from Fulton and Hickman Counties, is the oldest member of the entire group from this section of Kentucky west of the Tennessee river.

JUDGE BENNETT IMPROVES
HICKMAN COUNTY CONDITION

Frankfort—Improvement in the management of the affairs of the office of county judge in Hickman county in the past year was praised by State Inspector and Examiner B. Sewell in a report to Governor Laffoon recently.

When the examination of the county judge's office was made in December, 1932," said Mr. Sewell, "the records were found to be very incomplete and the affairs of the office carelessly handled. The county judge had failed to issue executions or capias upon judgments and was delinquent in report various fees that he had collected.

After completing the recent examination the examiner in submitting his report wrote as follows: "I have never seen a greater improvement shown in one year's time than of the office of County Judge E. J. Bennett. He is keeping his records complete and in excellent condition; all processes have been issued within the time specified by law; with this single exception noted elsewhere in this report, all collections have been reported promptly to the trustee of the jury fund. I certainly feel that he is entitled to strong commendation for the great improvement that has been made in the conduct of his office since last year's examination."

Hickman county's debt was given as $323,313 made up of $270,000 in road and bridge bonds and $53,313 in money borrowed on anticipated revenue. The county has $68,000 in its sinking fund and deposited in a bank.

Counties with the highest debt per capita are as follows:

DOLLARS BUYING POWER
HIGHEST IN MANY YEARS

Washington.—The index of wholesale prices compiled by the Bureau of Labor statistics of the department of labor, based on 784 commodities, reveal that a dollar today will buy more merchandise than in any of the most prosperous pre-depression years. Only 1932 was an exception, and a very slight one, due to pitifully low wages paid to sweatshop labor and because of the unprecedented number of bankrupt sales throughout the country. The index shows the present purchasing power of the dollar to be 38 per cent more than in 1925, 41 per cent more than in 1926, 36 per cent more than in 1927, 37 per cent more than in 1928, 36 per cent more than in 1929 and 23 per cent more than in 1930. Rises in prices have occurred on the sound foundation of increased demand through better wages, shorter hours, more equipment, and restriction of imports on foreign goods.

NO GARNISHEE POSSIBLE.
Relief authorities have announced that checks for payment to employees on Civil Work Administration projects are not subject to garnishment. These payments cannot be

DOLLAR BUYING POWER
NOW HIGHEST IN YEARS

Washington.—Reports of "heartening increases" in business as a result of the President's program for recovery reach NRA headquarters daily. Merchants and manufacturers from large and small cities stress as "more important still" what they sense as prospects for "gradual and steady" improvement for the coming months. For weeks business men who advocate strict adherence to the NRA program have emphasized the need for "working for the long pull."

They regard evidences of a gradual upturn, as reflected by increasing forward commitments of retailers, as being of special significance.

A New England manufacturer wrote that he has never known such "conservative, though confident, placing of orders by merchants who are sure of the trend before taking any chances."

Evidences of long-range betterment are submitted by many companies and industrial reporting agencies. The largest consumption of cotton during the first three months of the current season since the corresponding period of 1928 is typical.

An invariable barometer of expectation is said to be orders for scrap iron. Exports alone for the first 10 months of 1933 exceed the total of 1932, and November figures bring the 11 month total to 600,000 tons, as against 227,000 for all of 1932.

In its regular pre-holiday estimate of holiday employment requirements the National Retail Dry Goods Association stated that: "Minimum of 500,000 additional workers will be given employment, and approximately $4,000,000.00 will be spent over retail counters this month. Estimated extra-labor compensation, by retail stores will be $30,000,000. Merchants expect Christmas business to be the remaining element that will pull this year's figures to the black side of the ledger."

Brown Pogue died Friday night, Dec. 8th, after an injury suffered when a gravel slide caved in on him at Gravel Point. Funeral services were held Sunday at Good Spring church by Rev. A. B. Ross. Many friends and relatives were present. He is survived by his wife, two children, and a host of friends.

There will be a program at the Welch high school Friday night. No admission charge.

64,190 ARE EMPLOYED
ON CWA PROJECTS

According to a report from the state headquarters 64,190 men will have jobs in the CWA work in Kentucky in the next week as the result of approval of 1,640 projects in the 120 counties of this state. Mrs. Georgia Solomon, Louisville, field supervisor, completed the reorganization of the county's relief committee last Saturday, and the first projects from the county were approved by the Kentucky Relief commission.

This 64,190 men do not include about 3,000 engaged on or about to be engaged on federal civil works projects in the state. There were more than 200 men engaged at Fort Knox on road making, demolishing old structures and similar projects and by the end of the week a total of 600 will be engaged in the work of rehabilitating the Fort's roads and structures.
