NUMBER 48.

Obion Youth Kills Friend

Officers of Obion County are searching for Newman McClain, 17 of near Harris, Tenn., about six miles south of Fulton, who is alleged to have shot and killed Joe Blakemore, 19, in culmination of an argument which started last Saturday. Tuesday morning while Blakemore was stripping tobacco in a barn near his home, the McClain youth is reported to have come near the barn to get a mail box. When he entered the barn, it is said, the argument was resumed from Saturday, and the fatal shot took effect almost instantly.

Immediately after the shooting Deputy Sheriff John Smith of Obion County, and Raymond Roach, chief of police of South Fulton, were called to the scene, but after combing the Obion river bottoms into which the McClain lad is believed to have fled, no trace could be found of the boy. Nor could the exact nature of their trouble be learned.

The McClain youth is the son of Will McClain, and dead youth is the son of Oscar Blakemore. They were neighbors and had been good friends up until the time of the disagreement. Since that time both boys, police investigation revealed, had evidently been armed with the expectation of trouble.

Funeral services for Blakemore were held Thursday morning at 11 o'clock at the Chapel Hill church. Burial followed in the church cemetery with the Fulton Undertaking Company in charge. He is survived by his mother and father, three sisters and three brothers all of near Harris.

Merry Christmas is an old, old greeting—yet it is so new! and it will soon be heard on every side of this community. It is fitting that Christmas carry with it the fine spirit of good fellowship and brotherly love that it does. We'll hear greetings between individuals, between friends and business associates; in our civic organizations, in our clubs and our societies, in our churches and our schools.

All these institutions have a definite place in our community life, and as such we gladly give our loyalty and our support. Because all of us cannot belong to a lot of them, there may be some who will not have the feeling of sharing in the Christmas greeting which comes from them.

But there is one institution whose interests are the interests of the whole community, of every man, woman and child in it. That is the home town newspaper, devoted to serving the interests of all.

The Fulton County News is dedicated to community service when it was established. Anything that benefits the community and the people that live in it is always of prime importance to the publishers. Civic progress and community welfare come first in the category of this newspaper.

A welcome visitor into the homes of this section; a messenger bearing news of community interest; a chronicler of the joys and sorrows and of the trials and triumphs of its people; a medium striving for community betterment—all these are reflected in the home town newspaper.

The home town newspaper is welcomed in the homes of the people, not only in the city proper, but in adjacent communities and the rural districts, because it carries vital news interest touching the homes of the various neighborhoods. The Fulton County News is proud of its large family of readers, and extends greetings of the season to everybody!

What more appropriate medium than through the home town newspaper should there come a greeting to all the people of our community at this season of the year? So, we are proud to have the privilege of saying to you and all your friends: "A MERRY CHRISTMAS!"

Drysdale, Fulton County farmer, who has been active in farming circles in this section for a number of years, attended a state wide meeting of delegates at Louisville this week, when the farm loan situation was discussed and many problems explained. Approximately 400 invited guests were in attendance. Mr. Drysdale reports a most interesting session during which many important matters regarding farm loans were discussed.

He has data that explains in detail the functions of the Louisville Bank for Cooperatives and also give an explanation of the Production Credit Association of Louisville and the function of the local Production Credit Associations that are to be established in various counties. It has been set out that there are two types of loans to be obtained, known as the Federal Land Bank loan and the Commissioners' loan.

An organization has been established in Fulton County known as the Second Fulton County National Farm Loan Association, to assist the farmers in refinancing their farms to lift mortgages and make necessary improvements. Smith Atkins is secretary-treasurer of the local association with offices at the West Kentucky Finance Corporation in Fulton. The board of directors of the farm loan association in this county is composed of J. P. Williams, R. B. Mobley, T. H. McMurtry and B. E. Browder.

Mr. Drysdale has acted in co-operation with the government in former years to secure seed loans in this county, and his interest in the farming situation in Fulton county is always manifest.

Deputy sheriffs of Fulton county spirited away two negroes from the Hickman jail Wednesday night to McCracken county for safe keeping, after an enraged mob had threatened to lynch them for the brutal and probably fatal injury of Walter Harris, 70 year old East Hickman grocer, Monroe Irvine, 53, negro, is accused of attacking the aged grocer, inflicting critical skull fractures and other injuries which will probably cause his death.

Freeman, the other negro, is alleged to have sheltered Irvine in his home, where the latter barricaded himself when the sheriff went to arrest him.

After Irvine had been secretly removed from the jail, the mob then threatened to lynch Freeman unless the former was returned. Sheriff Goulder Johnson resorted the ruse of driving away from the jail in a closed car while escape was made from the mob with the other prisoner in another automobile.

DON'T BE MISLED

Oppositionists may set up their hue and cry that the federal administration is accomplishing little toward national recovery but the real business and industrial leaders of the country are expressing firm reasons why we are definitely out of the trough of the depression.
There is no longer doubt in the efficiency of the plans for competing economic improvement, and today there is an ever-growing confidence in the general outlook.

General W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and a keen business analyst, said recently:

"I do not believe it is time for boom. And this sentiment is not whistling to keep up any course.

Business is improving. More men are being employed. Goods are moving into commerce. The purchasing power of the farmer is already vastly improved. The whole attitude of the people is changing. I am confident that next year is going to be a better business year than the one we are now completing."

The opinion of General Atterbury isn't to be taken lightly. He is neither economist or politician. Rather a plain, "hard-headed" business man.
He has no axe to grind, and has freely expressed his honest, frank opinion based on facts as he sees them.

It is better that the people heed the opinions of business leaders at this time when self interests and jealous politicians are deriding the efforts of the administration to bring about national recovery. The opinion of an Atterbury is worth infinitely more than that of a dozen Al Smiths or other no-contents.
Senator Reed of Missouri contends that the Roosevelt administration is "piling up" the national debt to a point where it will ultimately break down the national credit. Maybe it is all right for this country to go to the rescue of other countries, loan them millions on top of millions to arm themselves to fly at each other's throats (and maybe our own).
Then these debts are never paid back so the American taxpayer must bear the brunt of the burden. Are we to make more war, bring poverty, and suffering upon our people so that Europe may carry on at our expense, but when we need assistance at home our government is to turn a deaf ear upon its moral obligations? That seems to be general mental attitude of some self-centered oppositionists to the recovery program.

What is our national credit anyway? What would be necessary to break it down? How much national debt is the Roosevelt administration "piling up?"

It is estimated that the federal government will need five or six billion dollars for emergency and general operating expenses next year.
In prosperous times this country had a net income of ninety billion dollars a year. If a man had an annual income of $20,000 a year and incurred a debt of $5,000 or $6,000 to help his "own children" in time of distress, would you call that breaking down his credit? Even if he spent his total income for one year in order to help his children to recover their fees, couldn't it be made up in future years?

There is no use trying to avoid problems of the day. Some kind of drastic action and responsibility had to be taken by the government in working out a well-rounded plan for bringing recovery to this nation. If this government should "pile up" much more than five or six billion dollars in obligations, preferably by reasonable currency inflation, would that be too big a price to pay for breaking the depression and restoring prosperity?

If European nations not as rich as the United States can spend two hundred and fifty billion dollars cutting each other's throats, destroying each other's industries and fields and murdering young men, this nation would probably recover much easier from spending one hundred billions devoted to construction, employment and recovery.

This country has seen enough of the power of money changers, who are ready to loan billions to foreign nations if they stand to gain in the deal. Too, private capital invested in foreign enterprises, often result in capitalism calling upon the United States to protect their interests abroad at the expense of the dear old American public.

It is high time that more attention be given to needs at home and the development of our own country for the general welfare of all the people.

A LAUDABLE STEP

A survey under the direction of Roosevelt Magill, tax advisor of the United States Treasury Department, to gather data for use in an attack on the problem of double taxation which has baffled federal and state officials for many years, is a most laudable step in the right direction.
Simplification of the nation's complex taxation system is highly desirable.

The survey will eventually lead to the enlistment of the states in a co-operative attack upon the intricate and controversial problem of double taxation. At present the federal government is without any authority to institute a uniform system of taxes, and the only solution lies in bringing state authorities into an agreement on methods of eliminating the duplication of levies.
In general, double taxation falls into four classifications in which both the federal government and the states impose taxes on income, inheritance, special articles or conditions and require license fees for certain occupations or businesses. Overlapping of federal and state license fees were comparatively few until the repeal, when the government and states started assessing distillers, wholesalers and retailers of liquors.

Overlapping taxation is a serious problem and a costly one for the taxpayers. Anything to correct this double taxation will surely be appreciated by the people.

U. S. LOANS OVER MILLION TO KENTUCKY FARMERS

Louisville. — Kentucky farmers were granted 556 loans aggregating $1,436,770 by The Federal Land Bank of Louisville during the month of November, according to an announcement by Ernest Rice, President of the Land Bank. This represents a new record in number of loans closed in Tennessee during one month and is more than half the number of loans which were closed in the state during the first eleven months of 1933, when 1088 loans for $2,746,100 were closed. These loans are being used chiefly to refinance farm mortgages and notes, most of which have been held by commercial banks.

During November, 1710 new applications for loans totaling $5,815,- 700 were received from Tennessee, more applications have been received in November than in any previous month of Land Bank history.

Loans made by the Federal Land Bank in Kentucky are of two types the Land Bank Loan and the Commissioner's Loan. The Land Bank Loan is always a first mortgage loan and may be used for buying or improving a farm, for purchasing livestock, equipment, or fertilizer and for refinancing farm mortgages, notes, or other indebtedness.
The loans may be made up to 50 per cent of the appraised normal value of the land and twenty per cent of the appraised, insured value of the permanent improvements.

Commissioner's Loans may be either first or second mortgages and can be used only for refinancing old indebtedness, to provide working capital for farming operations or to reacquire farm property lost by foreclosure after July 1, 1931. The commissioner's loan together with other evidences of indebtedness secured by the farm property may not exceed 65 per cent of its appraised value.

The railroads placed 1,838 new freight cars in service in the first eight months of 1933.

The original Illinois Central railroad in Illinois was built of iron (not steel) rails manufactured in England, there being no rail mills of importance in this country at that time. More than 100 sailing vessels were required to transport these rails across the Atlantic Ocean.

Bounce back to normal

She might even trump her partner's ace. All because the game has gone too long without refreshment. It doesn't happen when you serve ice-cold bottles of Coca-Cola. You help your guests rebound from drowsiness to normal. Really delicious, Coca-Cola invites a pause—the pause that refreshes. Keep it ready ice-cold in your refrigerator. It's a natural partner of good things to eat.

Spread the Glad Tidings

This year the coming of the jolly holiday season and the new year has special significance. Behind us lie the dark years of depression. In the past year we have come up from the valley of gloom and started once more to scale the heights toward the light.

HOPE

Back in the ages—twenty centuries ago—a brightly-shining star led the shepherds on the hills of the Holy Land to a stable in Bethlehem and to realization of a new spiritual power that had come into the world. The Christ Child had been born in humble setting—a lowly manger, which significantly stamped disapproval of all that is false pride and vanity. And that same star which guided the shepherds still sheds its light over the world, and at this time of the year man lifts his eyes to it and the glow from it kindles in his heart that fire which we know as the Christmas spirit.

This year the Christmas star shines more brightly than ever before—for it is a star of hope. We have left behind us the years of depression and defeat, of fear and foreboding, of economic disaster and social disorder. During the past year we have come up from the valley of gloom and started once more to scale the heights toward the light of a new day. Under the leadership of our president new hope and confidence have replaced fear. The star of hope is leading us on to a richer life, richer in spiritual values as well as material values.

Let us keep our eyes firmly fixed on that star. May the glow from it warm our hearts with the true spirit of Christmas—with charity, with kindness, with friendliness, with forgiveness, with forgetfulness for the past and hope for the future.

Let us join together in keeping the spirit of Christmas alive in our community—not only for Christmas day, but on every day of the year. Let us support community enterprises, promote a stronger community spirit and good fellowship and make our community a better place in which to live.

To that endeavor the encouragement, the aid and the leadership of your Home Town Paper is pledged by the Publishers of The Fulton County News.

THIS AND THAT

The rest of the world owes the United States one billion dollars each year in interest charges on loans. This in consequence has reduced the world's purchases of our products. Farmers have felt the decline of foreign purchasing much more than industry, according to a report of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

During normal periods the U. S. sold to other countries over half of its cotton, nearly half of its tobacco one-fifth of its wheat, one-third to one-half of its hog products. With the many millions of dollars loaned abroad by this country, and those spent by American tourists in foreign countries, these nations bought from us. Loaning money from our own pockets for others to buy from us "boosted" business in this country. But now we are suffering from the breaking down of the credit of these debt-ridden nations.

This country faces the problem of either reducing tariffs sufficient to permit other nations to sell their products to the U. S. A., or maintain high tariffs and lost a big portion in agricultural exports. A most painful decision to make.

Already more than half of all imports into this country come in duty free, and another 20 per cent pay negligible duties. With this country supplying more of its own needs than any other, radical tariff reductions will be hard to put over. Even in the most prosperous times, more than 90 per cent of all American trade has been within our own borders.

Much adjustment in international trading has already taken place, and other important steps are sure to follow. The same is true of our own interstate commerce problems.

It is not surprising that Europe's "general understanding" is that the United States will never collect another cent on the majority of war debts owed by European nations. We can, at least, find some comfort in the fact that the next time European powers begin clawing at each other's throats, talking brotherly love, hands across the sea and other tommyrot, we can remind them of this "welching." Nations that repudiate their debts of honor deserve no sympathy. They do not appreciate a favor, and will turn on a friend if it is to their advantage.

So in the next European upheaval the United States will do well to keep its own billions at home, and prevent the shifting of untold tax burdens upon the shoulders of American taxpayers. Present rumblings on the Continent leads one to believe serious trouble is due to break out in Europe before we are much older. Lack of finances is all that is holding the volcano in check now.

America's last experience should be a dear lesson to us. The administration will ask Congress for appropriations of at least $5,375,000,000 at the coming session of Congress and the ultimate figure may be six billions or more. Of this amount $2,775,000,000, without figuring a cent for the RFC, will go for emergency expenditures. To that sum will be added $2,600,000,000 for ordinary governmental operating expenses during the next fiscal year.

BUSINESS REVIVAL SEEN IN MANY REPORTS

Washington.—From over the nation come indications of a business revival that can not be denied. Railroads, construction, foods and corporations all had a part in the optimistic reports. The reports by industries follows:

General Foods show an increase of 32 per cent in net for the third quarter, 1933, over the same period in 1932.

Construction contracts awarded in 37 states east of the Rocky mountains totaled $145,367,000 in October as compared with $107,272,900 in October last year.

205 industrial corporations (aggregate net worth, $7,433,000,000), show combined net profits, less losses of $129,576,000 in the third quarter of this year, as compared with a deficit of $11,583,000 in the third quarter, 1932.

A brightly-shining star led the shepherds on the hills of the Holy Land to a little house in Bethlehem and to a realization of a new spiritual power that had come into the world. That was 20 centuries ago. Yet today, that star—a star of hope—still sheds its light over the world and at this time of the year man lifts his eyes to it and the glow from it kindles in his heart that fire which we know as the Christmas spirit.

Greetings... of the Season

At this closing of the year 1933, we would not feel right if we did not express our sincere appreciation to our many loyal customers over the country for their many courtesies and the patronage extended us during the year just closing.

However feeble this attempt at expressing our gratitude, it comes from a firm that appreciates every dollar's worth of business. Words are inadequate to express our appreciation.

Wishing you all a very MERRY CHRISTMAS and a New Year full of happiness, prosperity and contentment, and hoping to be able to serve you better in 1934, we are,

Very respectfully yours,

Hectic Days Sleepless Nights

IF YOU are nervous today, you probably will not sleep well tonight. If you don't sleep well tonight, you will probably be nervous tomorrow.

Don't allow yourself to become nervous. Take Dr. Miles Nervine. It will relax your tense nerves and let you get a good night's sleep.

Irritability, Restlessness, Sleeplessness, often lead to Nervous Headache, Nervous Indigestion, Hysteria—sometimes to a nervous breakdown and organic trouble.

Some of the people, whose letters are printed below, were as nervous as you are—possibly more so—yet they have found relief.

Three years ago I was so nervous I could not bear to go out in company and could not sleep nights. A friend recommended Dr. Miles Nervine. I now enjoy myself thoroughly and sleep every night. Miss Juliette Currier, New Market, N. H.

I have used Dr. Miles Nervine in liquid form and find it the best medicine for the nerves I have ever used.

Christine Lauer, Middleton, Tennessee

Whenever I have over-indulged and feel restless I take one or two Nervine Tablets just before I retire. In the morning when I awake I feel like a new person and can go about my work as usual. Dr. Miles Nervine Tablets quiet your nerves, brace you up and are the simplest, most convenient tablets to take I have ever found.

Miss Grace Redman, St. James, Minn.

Before using your Nervine I was very nervous and irritable. Since I have started to take it I feel so much better that my family notice the difference. I still take it from time to time and the good result is wonderful. J. H. Redding, 1027 18th Ave., Rock Island, Ill.
