Fulton County Fair A Brilliant Success

Big Crowds In Attendance--Good Races
A Feature--Exhibitions In Every Department Are Attractive.

Large crowds are in daily attendance at the fourteenth annual meeting of the Fulton County Fair.

The fair opened last Tuesday at which time all ladies were admitted free and the usual large opening day crowd was in attendance.

Children's day brought out another great crowd and today (Thursday) is expected to be the biggest day of the week.

The racing has been unusually good this year, some of the best horses ever seen on the local track being here. The balance of the week will see some fine horses in action.

The exhibits in the floral hall are the best we have seen in several years. The west side is literally filled with needle and art work, preserves, canned fruits, cakes, etc. To attempt a description of these articles is impossible.

The east side of the hall is filled with a variety of exhibits, many of the booths being used by the merchants of Fulton to demonstrate their wares.

Only two community exhibits were offered this year, one by the Welch Community club and the other by the 17th District Club, from Weakley county. Both were of exceptional merit and at the time this was written, the judges had not decided upon the winner.

The exhibit entered by the Triangle Farm, located in Weakley county, had no rivals and the prize was awarded to them for the best and largest variety of farm produce raised on a single farm.

Messrs. Horton Brann and Claude Williams were in charge of the agricultural department where is to be seen the finest field products ever exhibited here. The corn, pumpkins, watermelons, beets, tomatoes, beans, peas, etc., were there in abundance and the judges will have to "know their stuff" to hang the blue and red ribbons where they properly belong.

Leaving the agricultural and floral hall, we headed for the poultry house, where we found Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Watkins in charge of the best exhibit on the grounds. Mr. Watkins is secretary of the Fulton County Poultry Association. He is a railroad man, whose hobby is fine chickens. Recently, he attended a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce and told the members if he could obtain a little cooperation, he would put on the best chicken show ever seen at a Fulton Fair. He must have gotten this aid for the show far surpasses anything before shown here. Fifty chicken fanciers entered their finest coops in the show. Wild geese, tame geese and all kinds of ducks were there in abundance.

Leaving the poultry show, we saw two other "chickens." They appeared to be about sixteen years old, but it was not their age that attracted the attention of the men. It was their beautifully arranged hair upon which no barber's snips had left their imprint. The men turned and looked in open admiration at the young ladies, sighed and passed on with the bobbed hair brigade.

The stock exhibit is not quite up to the standard this year. The dry weather ruined the pastures and but few cows are being shown. Jim Ethridge has seven fine Jersey animals in the show; Clyde Burnett has a five and Charles Taylor has a number of short-horns.

Fairview Farms, operated by Coyle Wade, Union City, has a large number of Hampshire hogs in the pens.

G. H. Shanklin & Sons sent over some fine Duroc hogs from their place, Woodland Farms, located near Dresden.

In the saddle ring, horses of George Burford and Ed Gates won the ribbons.

The Fulton Fair Association was organized in 1911 and has only missed showing two years, this being due to the stress of war times.

President J. W. Gordon, Secretary R. H. Wade, Treasurer W. P. Murrell and the board of directors are good business men and they know how to please the people who desire entertainment. A big carnival company is on the ground and both day and night a variety of amusement is to be had.

Don't miss the remaining days of the fair.

A. Huddleston & Co.

The firm of A. Huddleston & Company, is one of the oldest and best known of all the business enterprises in Fulton. This store was established in 1893 and since 1895 it has occupied the same building on Main street.

Mr. Arch Huddleston, in addition to managing this store, is president of the Farmers Bank and is one of the most substantial business men in Fulton.

In addition to carrying a large stock of hardware and queensware, this firm sells Vulcan plows, American Field Fence, Round Oak Furnaces and the best oil stoves made—the New Perfection.

They also do all sorts of tin and sheet iron work and their expert workmen are kept busy in this and neighboring towns. Realizing that service counts when dealing with the public this old reliable house constantly strives to improve the service rendered to its many patrons.

When in need of anything in their line, A. Huddleston & Co. will appreciate your patronage and take this means of inviting you to visit their place of business.

LIONS CLUB IS BOOSTING CROP DIVERSIFICATION

A meeting of the Lions club which proved to be unusually interesting, was held at the Usoma hotel, when valuable data on farm diversification and other subjects were discussed. If there is any one thing needed more than another in Fulton county, it is crop diversification, and at this meeting, Lion H. H. Murphy produced some records of neighboring counties sustaining his talk with the following:

Gibson county, Tenn.—Products shipped from Milan in 1924, consisting of berries, beans, tomatoes, potatoes, 251 carloads, receipts $364,302. From Sitka, tomatoes and potatoes, 91 cars, receipts $118,133. From Cades, potatoes, beans and tomatoes, 52 cars, receipts, $73,710. From Gibson, tomatoes, beans and potatoes, 155 cars, receipts $213,435. From Bradford, berries, beans, okra, tomatoes, receipts $58,878.10. In addition to the above products, cotton to the value of $258,750.

Humboldt, located in Gibson county, Tenn., is considered the largest shipping point in West Tennessee and the amount of money paid from the various products at that station during 1924, was more than $450,000.

The facts and figures given above relating to the diversification of crops in Gibson county is sufficient to convince any man that cotton, corn and tobacco are not dependable, and with the climate we enjoy and the splendid double track railroad system penetrating the richest country in the world, giving the people living in it a direct communication north and south, should convince any man that he should produce the character of produce that can be accomplished the quickest, and receive the earliest compensation for same, because the whole development of the country is between the railroads and the shipper at one end and the seller at the other.

Fulton county can produce any character of produce, vegetables or grain.

Some of our progressive farmers believe solely in diversification, while the great majority continue to drag out an existence by growing tobacco, a little corn, etc.

Fulton county farmers cannot fail because they have the land which produces abundantly, and with good markets and the best of transportation facilities.

W. M. Hill & Sons

One of Fulton's Substantial Business Firms

One of the busiest firms in Fulton today, is W. M. Hill & Sons, contractors and brick manufacturers. This firm has about seventy-five men on their payroll drawing wages from $2.50 to $12.00 per day, or a total of more than $1,000 per week.

They operate one of the largest brick plants in this territory with a capacity of 28,000 per day. We took a look over the plant recently where forty men were hard at work. The yards and kilns are erected just north of the ice factory and occupies a number of acres. More than a million bricks have been made this year and another kiln is being filled for burning. It takes 150 tons of coal to burn a kiln of brick and a motor is used to force the air through the kiln during the firing period. The drying racks on the yards have a capacity of 170,000 bricks. A 40-horse power motor is used to run the machinery of making the brick which is manufactured from good clay dirt.

The bricks manufactured by Hill & Sons are of good quality and in large demand. Car after car is shipped to various points in this territory.

W. M. Hill is one of the oldest brick contractors in Western Kentucky, having built nearly every brick building in Fulton. One of the handsome structures just completed is the new Baptist church.

The firm is now at work on a $50,000 building in Martin, Tenn., to be occupied by the Martin Bank & Trust Co.

One of the handsomest homes contracted by the firm in Fulton, is now in course of erection for Mayor R. H. Wade, on Carr street. This is a stone building of beautiful architecture and all modern conveniences.

It is pleasing to note that practically every dollar paid out by this firm for labor is spent with the business firms in Fulton. While they don't demand it of their employees, they encourage it.

Roberts Clothing Co.

One of the most attractive stores in Fulton is to be found on Main street where the Roberts Clothing Company at all times carries a complete line of high grade clothing for men and boys.

These young men use exceptionally good taste in the selection of their stock and the most fastidious customer readily finds the shoes, clothing or hat that suits "his peculiar style of beauty." Mr. George Roberts, the senior member of this firm, was for many years associated with one of the leading mercantile establishments of Fulton and it was here that he acquired the knowledge and experience that is so valuable to his firm.

Mr. Homer Roberts, the junior member of the firm, was employed in France for a period of several months, but was discharged when Uncle Sam had fulfilled an important contract he had assumed over there.

During the three years the Roberts brothers have been engaged in business here, they have enjoyed success and today they are rated high in commercial circles.

ALLEN-COLLINS

Mr. Charles Allen and Miss Julia Collins of Clinton, Ky., were united in marriage Sunday afternoon in the Methodist church in this city. Rev. J. V. Freeman, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony. Immediately after the ceremony they returned to Clinton where they will make their home.

Guy Gingles and son, Guy, Jr., are visiting in Louisville, this week.

Read & Little

Read & Little, successors to Olcott & Read, are the agents for Dodge Bros. cars and trucks.

They have supervision over all sales made in the counties of Fulton, Hickman, Obion and part of Weakley and Lake.

Those who have used the Dodge car know there is no better car to be found in its price class. A recent reduction in the price and a few minor changes should further increase sales in this territory.

This firm is fortunate in having for several years, availed themselves of the services of Mr. R. V. Putman, who is recognized as the best automobile salesman in Western Kentucky. "Put" is a real salesman and if you don't intend to buy a car, don't let him get your name on his prospect list.

Just at the present time tires are advancing in price, but Read & Little are still selling them at the old prices, due to the fact that they just bought a large quantity before the advance came.

Dr. I. H. Read, the senior member of this firm, was for several years a dentist with an office in the flat iron building. He is among the first men in Fulton who owned an automobile and when he discovered a fellow had a chance to ride to Hickman and back without having engine trouble, he immediately wanted to sell them to his neighbors. He has been doing this for years and thinks the Dodge has no equal.

Mr. Little, the junior member of the firm, was for many years a dry goods merchant, but a few years ago he bought into the automobile game and success has followed him in the new line of endeavor. He is a good trader, which is very essential in the automobile business.

Besides selling Dodge Cars, tires and auto accessories, they maintain an up-to-date repair department, and employ only skilled mechanics to do the work.

INVEST IN FULTON PROPERTY AND GROW WITH THE TOWN

Fulton, Kentucky, is one of the most progressive, healthful small cities to be found anywhere, and property values are the lowest. It has a population of about 6,500 and is growing steadily; more than one hundred homes having been built within the past year with extensive railroad improvements in course of construction which will make Fulton the hub of the great Illinois Central, destined to be one of the large terminal points on its system.

Having two main lines of railroad, Fulton has direct through service to and from Cincinnati, Louisville, St. Louis and Chicago on the North; New Orleans, Birmingham, Memphis, Nashville, Atlanta and Jacksonville on the South, making it one of the most accessible cities in the "Jackson Purchase." Being the largest city between Cairo, Ill., and Jackson, Tenn., it is the distributing center of Western Kentucky and Northwestern Tennessee. It is a city of business enterprise and progressive ideas; a city of thrifty, intelligent, cultured, hospitable people, a city of churches and Christian homes. "The Square Deal" characterizes its municipal life, and integrity is a distinguishing feature of its business life; the atmosphere of its social life is pure and wholesome, while the tone of its moral and religious life is high and refreshing.

Its banking institutions are safe and accommodating; its capitalists are ever ready to assist in establishing and maintaining manufacturing enterprises, its real estate men are always in position to offer inducements in building sites for homes, business houses, or factories, and the city government will do its part to encourage the newcomer on every hand, and only "Fair Play" is asked of all who become citizens of our city.

The public schools of Fulton are unsurpassed. The eight churches of Fulton represent the leading denominations.

A splendid water system, pure and refreshing.

Her climate not only makes Fulton a pleasant place all seasons, but is such as to be conducive to healthfulness, and the country surrounding is such as to insure the future of Fulton.

But Fulton can boast of something greater than a city of material prosperity in the midst of a fertile region; more promising than a city producing only wares and merchandise; grander than a city made of factories, banks and stock exchanges; more to be lauded than a city of much extended traffic; more to be desired than any other products of civilization—for she can boast her homes. These are her pride; in them is her happiness; on them her hopes center; from them radiate that influence which has made the city promise better things.

For the professional man, the business man, the laing man and the capitalist, it has a welcome.

"Come, and if you go, you will then return to it."

Culver's Bakery

Several years ago Paul and Alf Hornbeak opened a bakery shop and confectionery store in Fulton. They fitted up one of the most elegant places of the kind in Western Kentucky and enjoyed a splendid business until they got the "Florida Fever." When they offered their business for sale, Mr. Batsell and sons bought it, but before the inventory was completed, Mr. John Culver and Mr. J. M. Chambers, Jr., offered the prospective purchasers a nice profit and became the owners of the place.

Thus the Culver Bakery Co. enters into the business life of Fulton.

That the new owners will make a success of their new business venture goes without saying as they are both enterprising, hustling young men. Both, though young in years, have had considerable business experience.

The bread and cakes made in this bakery are unsurpassed by any and the clean, sanitary methods used in the shop appeal to all. The drinks and cream served in their ice cream parlor are exceptionally good. All in all, it is a mighty nice place to visit.

L. Kasnow

No commercial business in Fulton has enjoyed greater success than has the establishment of L. Kasnow during the years it has been located in Fulton.

Mr. Kasnow is descended from a long line of successful merchants who have invariably won the esteem of the community in which they have lived.

Fair and honorable in his dealings with the public, it has been no task to make friends and friends mean customers.

If an article bought at Kasnow's fails to do what he says it will, he makes it do it, either by refunding the purchase price or replacing the goods.

At this store there are generally to be found some extra bargains and it will pay you to visit Kasnow's when in Fulton.

Fulton Hardware Co.

The Fulton Hardware Company opened for business in Fulton eleven years ago. It was originally a branch of another organization in which Mr. George T. Beadles owned an interest, but for the past several years it has been owned by Mr. Beadles and his sons, Larry and Frank. In addition to these well known gentlemen, Mr. Willie Campbell is connected with the firm.

Mr. George Beadles is one of the oldest and best known business men in Fulton. He was here when Fulton was just a village and still he looks and acts like a young man. He is one of those wide-awake fellows who keeps abreast with the times and will never grow old. He is a progressive citizen and has done much to help build up the town in which he has lived and prospered. His sons are following in his footsteps and in the years to come, they will continue to help Fulton in its forward progress.

The Beadles family has long been identified with the social and business interests of Fulton.

A. P. Estes

The Estes Motor Co., Incorporated, is the style of a new automobile business launched in Fulton.

This company was formed by Mr. A. P. Estes, who is president and in active management of its affairs.

At their place of business, 210 State street, near the laundry, they have new Hudson and Essex cars; also Willys-Knight and Overland, for the inspection of prospective buyers. Another big price reduction has just been made in Hudson-Essex cars and if you are tired of your old car you should drop in and talk "trade" with Mr. Estes.

The writer traded cars with Mr. Estes two years ago and if anybody got stung, it was well, it wasn't the writer.

Second-hand cars of several well known makes, in good condition, are now ready for buyers and you should look them over, if you want a used car worth the money.

A friend of ours bought one the other day. Said he had but little notion of buying, but Estes offered him such a bargain that he just had to buy it.

Fulton Route Seven

Every one welcomed the refreshing rain last week which cooled the atmosphere of the intense heat. Crops and vegetables are doing well.

School days are almost here. The new consolidated school near Chapel Hill is being constructed. The boys and girls should be very proud of their advantages which are much better than a decade ago.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Shelton and family, of Louisville, Ky., are spending his vacation with relatives and friends in and around Fulton.

Mrs. Clara Ledbetter and children of Granite City, Ill., are visiting her sister, Mrs. M. E. Roach.

Miss Mabel Daugherty of Bowling Green, Ky., is the guest of Mrs. T. D. McKinney.

Mrs. McFall is entertaining Mrs. Pace and daughter, Mrs. Bob White, also Mrs. Sammie Bennett of Memphis. They will probably be here for the Fair.

Miss Laura Hazelrigg, who is in training at Dyersburg hospital, is spending her vacation at home.

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Reeves, ex-teachers of South Fulton, arrived last Saturday to spend a few days with home folk and attend the Fair.

Miss Lydia Kinney opened her school at Pleasant Valley near Union City, Aug. 17. Miss Kinney is a very deserving young lady. She is a graduate of South Fulton and has had normal training at Memphis. We wish her a prosperous year.

Quite a number of people of route 7 have been attending the Tucker revival at the tabernacle. They report good services.

Kentucky Light & Power Co.

The Kentucky Light & Power Company is one of the largest and most indispensable business enterprises in Fulton.

For the past four years Mr. E. C. Hardesty has been in active management of this concern with the following assistants: Mrs. J. K. Wood, cashier; B. E. Cunningham, Gregory Davis, Abe Thompson and Bartle Osgood, linemen; R. M. Wheelis, chief engineer; John Ferguson and Hayes Bryan, assistant engineers.

Many improvements have been made under Mr. Hardesty's management. A high tension 11,000 volt transmission line has been built from Fulton to Hickman and another of the same sort from Fulton to Clinton and the local plant now furnishes power and light with twenty-four hour service to both the neighboring towns.

Just recently a 33,000 volt line has been built from Fulton to Martin to connect with the lines of the Tennessee Power Company. In case of a break down in the plant here or the one in Tennessee the other can take care of the situation until repairs can be made. Thus patrons of the company may rest assured their interests and conveniences will be well served at all times. Among other improvements recently made was the installation of an entire new switchboard and a complete new unit carrying more load than both the old units. Also a new smokestack 7 1-2 feet in diameter and 150 feet high has been put up at the plant.

The Kentucky Light & Power Company is an enterprise Fulton is justly proud of.

Thirty-one years is a pretty terms both by the townspeople and the traveling public.

Albert Smith established this business more than twenty years ago and for that period of time, day nor night, the doors have never been locked. Thousands of hungry people have entered this place and left, satisfied with the food, the service and the price. If you have watched this place this week, or if you have eaten there, at the counter or in the dining room, you will entertain no doubt as to the writer's veracity.

If you have never eaten there just give Smith a chance to show you what real service and real cooking can be had in a small city, even during the rush times of Fair week.

Pierce-Cequin Co.

Twenty-six years ago, in 1899, Messrs. Devro Pierce and J. B. Cequin established a planing mill on the Tennessee side of Fulton. For many years it was spoken of as "the planing mill," but in recent years people have learned that this concern should be referred to as the Pierce-Cequin Lumber Co., one of the largest enterprises we have here. For many years Messrs. Pierce and Cequin devoted their time to logging interests and other mills, leaving the Fulton enterprise to the capable management of Mr. W. P. Murrell, who became financially interested in the business.

Upon the death of Mr. Pierce Mr. Cequin became president of the concern. Mr. Murrell became secretary-treasurer as well as manager, and Mr. Clarence Stephens became Mr. Murrell's assistant.

This firm sells all kinds of building material and roofing, paint, builders' hardware, etc.

Just at present they are introducing a new asbestos shingle which the manufacturers are pleased to call "Eternit." Evidently it is expected to last eternally or until the purchaser is in eternity and won't know any difference. Anyway, it looks like a good buy, if your house leaks. Suppose you try them on a new house or just on your old dwelling.

When you need any kind of building material, let Mr. Murrell figure on the job and he will show you how to save some money.

Owl Drug Co.

If you are hot and thirsty one of the most inviting places in Fulton is the store of the Owl Drug Company, located on Main street. Here you will find all the latest drinks served in faultless style and from the latest improved iceless fountain. Purity and sanitation insure you the best if you want either drugs or fountain service.

The Owl Drug Company owned and personally operated by Messrs. J. W. Gord and J. B. Snow. These enterprising young men established this business in 1911 and have enjoyed a large measure of success.

During the late war, J. B. Snow left his business interests in the hands of his partner while, like many other patriotic young men, he offered his services to his country.

Upon his return, he found the Owl Drug Company in Mr. Gordon were still doing business at the old stand.

You will find a full and complete line of drugs and explosives at the Owl.

Harry Evans

Harry Evans and Bill Levey are running about the shoe shop and pressing shop in Fulton.

Harry is the "High Mog" of the entire establishment, is in charge of the pressing establishment while Willie Verry is the chief shoe cobbler. Willie don't have much to do but he is right there when comes to repairing your shoes.

These gentlemen have been in business here for the last two years and they are busy the time. People want good work and they get it at Evans Shoe Shop, where every job guaranteed to give satisfaction.

If you want any work done this week (or any other week) give these boys a chance demonstrate their ability.

Twin City Service

The Twin City Service Station is the title of a new filling station located on the Tennessee side of State street, opposite the O. K. Laundry.

It is so called because it is located right on the Kentucky-Tennessee line and you can get gasoline and oil in Tennessee and water and air in Kentucky.

Mr. Herman Pickle is the owner of this enterprise and he handles "That Good Gulf" gas and oil. He also handles tires and automobile accessories and sells lots of both. For the period of time he has been in business Mr. Pickle has outsold all competitors in the gas and oil business.

One of the reasons for this is that he sees to it that you get the only free things an auto uses—water and air—without having to ask for it. His is a real service station and not just a gas station.

When "Lizzie" needs supplies, show her the way to the Twin City Service Station where her visit will be appreciated.

ways spoken of in the highest long time to be engaged in one business and in the same town. It speaks well, both for the town and the business enterprise, each of which has contributed to the other's success.

In 1893, M. Homra and his brother, K. Homra, opened a dry goods and clothing store in Fulton. They operated at first on a small scale but always carried a good line of goods with prices in keeping with the quality. As the city grew larger, this enterprising firm expanded and prospered until today it is one of the leading dry goods stores in Fulton.

Much of the success enjoyed by Homra Brothers is due to the fact that they have for many years been assisted by such excellent salespeople as Mrs. Fannie Price, Mrs. Beulah Neely and Mr. U. H. Scott.

McDowell's

Since 1871 the name "McDowell" has been a familiar one in the business life of Fulton. It was in this year that Mr. J. B. McDowell opened his first store in Fulton. It was a little one room box shanty. The stock was, of course, small, as there were not many people here to need dry goods and clothing and there happened to be some two or three other stores here at that time.

As people came to hear about what a good place Fulton was, and the population of the town began to grow, Mr. McDowell enlarged his store space and kept abreast of the times. He continued this practice throughout his lifetime and his business policies have since been carried out by his son, M. P. McDowell, who for many years was associated with his father in the conduct of this enterprise.

The picture of McDowell's first store, made in 1871, now hangs on the wall in the commodious brick building in which the present store is located. The contrast in the appearance of Lake street then and now is interesting to notice and when you next go to McDowell's, ask for a look at this old picture.

McDowell's now handles an up-to-date line of ready made clothes and hats for ladies and children with the same honest prices that have characterized the business for more than half a century.

J. Kelly Wood

No write-up of the business interests of Fulton would be complete if the name of J. Kelly Wood was omitted from it. This is true because of the fact that he has perhaps been engaged in business here longer than any other man. He left here a few years ago and went to Washington, D. C., but like most every one else who leaves Fulton, he found he couldn't stay away. So he came back, and is again engaged in business in a room adjoining McDowell's.

Dowdell's.

Mr. Wood will be best remembered as manager and part owner of the Globe, a dry goods and clothing store which, until a few years ago, was located where the Culver Ice Cream Company now is.

This store enjoyed a large patronage for a period of time and many of the old customers will be glad to know that Mr. Wood has returned to Fulton to re-enter business. Drop into this store and renew old acquaintanceships or become acquainted with one of the most affable gentlemen in the business life of Fulton.

A. G. Baldrige

Fifteen years ago A. G. Baldrige came to Fulton and opened a variety store. At that time he carried a comparatively small stock of goods, but from year to year this stock has been enlarged until today he has a store that is surpassed by none in Western Kentucky. While he carries some things that sell for more, his huge stock is largely composed of ten and twenty-five cent articles that the housewives need every day. Every day is sale day at Baldrige's but once in a great while he advertises a big sale that really means something to the people of this vicinity. When this is done, it is interesting to see the great throng of people packed and jammed together on the sidewalk and street in front of his store, waiting for the doors to open.

Mrs. T. J. Griggs, assistant manager, has charge of the sales force and is assisted by Misses Ruth Coulter, Ruth Rankin and Reul Flippo.

While you are attending the Fulton County Fair, it will pay you to visit this Variety Store, and supply your needs for the next few weeks.

Holloway Motor Co.

One of the newest business enterprises launched in Fulton is that of the Holloway Motor Company, agents for the celebrated Star and Durant line of cars.

This firm is composed of C. E. Holloway and P. C. Warren, two of the best known young business men in Fulton.

It was established here only a few months ago but their contract, to sell a certain number of cars, has been greatly exceeded already and the dull months in the automobile business are yet a long way off.

For the use of the Holloway Motor Company, Dr. S. Cohn has just erected a handsome brick building. It is two story building with a full basement below. The office and battery rooms are on the ground floor, the work shop above and car washing and storage in the basement.

At night the interior is attractively lighted and many have commented upon the "city like" appearance of the place. Mr. Holloway, the senior member of the firm, was for more than eleven years the representative or agent of the Ford Motor Company. He has been instrumental in obtaining the erection of at least two large garage buildings in Fulton. He has, himself, built a two story brick business house and several nice residences in Fulton which are quite an addition to the town. He is, at present, in Florida, where he is making some investments. Mr. Warren, junior member of the firm, was for many years associated with Mr. Holloway in the automobile business and understands the business thoroughly. He has general supervision over the office and workshop and knows how to get results that keep the old customers satisfied and makes the new ones happy.

Messrs. Will Stubblefield and Ernest Heithcock, two high power salesmen, keep the new cars moving and peddle the old ones. Byron Utley, one of the best mechanics in the Purchase, is shop foreman, assisted by Ben Payne.

The battery department is in charge of Virgil (Sweetie) Walker, who knows his business thoroughly.

This is one of the live wire organizations in Fulton.

Jones & Freeman

Many years ago Lon Jones and Marshall Chambers, doing business as Jones & Chambers, opened a "Gents' Furnishing Store" in Fulton.

Later, Mr. Jones became sole owner of the business and Mr. Chambers went elsewhere to make his home. A few years ago Mr. Claude Freeman acquired an interest in Mr. Jones' store and since that time they have operated under the firm name of Jones & Freeman.

Since this partnership was formed the firm has established a second store, located in the good town of Hickman, in the western end of Fulton county. Both of these carry good clean stocks of fashionable clothing, etc., and their reputation as "Outfitters of Men," has spread over this entire section.

Much of their success is due to their ability to buy goods suitable to all classes of patrons. The old and the young, the fat and the lean can find what they desire at these stores and the prices are reasonable, which is a very important item. They are also very expert in the art of measuring for tailor-made goods, when desired. Give them a trial next time.

Culver Ice Cream Co.

The only business of the kind in Fulton is to be found on Main street where the Culver Ice Cream Company makes the delicious frozen dainties you have eaten so often.

Culver's Sweet Cream Ice Cream is shipped to nearly every town in this vicinity and served in most ice cream parlors in Fulton. This cream is made in six different flavors and it is just a matter of individual taste as to which is the better.

Mr. John M. Culver and Mr. Maurice Chowning own the plant here and have a similar place in Dyersburg. Both of these places have been in operation for a long period of years and the quality of their product is improved from time to time as some new way of making ice cream is discovered or developed.

Next time you buy a cream cone or sundae, ask for Culver's Sweet Cream Ice Cream and get the best at's made.

Kramer Lumber Co.

The Kramer Lumber Company, successors to the K. Wall Company, is one of Fulton's large and important business concerns.

Mr. Theodore Kramer and his most excellent family here some eighteen months ago and already have more ends here than some people could acquire in a life time.

Having been engaged in the lumber business for many years in Ridgway, Ill., Mr. Kramer is thoroughly acquainted with every phase of the trade and his advice is a valuable thing for a home built to have before he lets the craft for a new dwelling.

At the present time, Kramer is vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce and when Mayor-elect Shan resigns the presidency it is very likely Kramer will be elected to the office of president.

The Kramer Lumber Company sells all kinds of building material and will appreciate your patronage.

Small Income Goes Far In Fulton

So Many Things Conspire to Make Living
Cheap and Easy.

One can live economically with more grace in Fulton than in any city of the same class we know of. And one can certainly be passing rich on a smaller income than would be possible elsewhere.

So many things conspire to make living cheap and easy in Fulton.

House rents are happily cheap compared with other cities, notwithstanding vacant dwellings are at a premium and no vacant store buildings at all.

As for the daily household commodities, prices compare favorably with all the other cities. Staple articles are much the same all over the country. But here again, we are blessed with wholesale establishments and many first-class retail groceries that hold prices down to the minimum.

Fuel, electric light, water and telephone compare favorably with the cheapest services in the country.

Clothes, shoes and all kinds of wearing apparel are cheap in Fulton stores, especially for the careful housewife, with an eye on the special sales. This, because in their enterprising up-to-date business, they will never hold any stock over to the next season, so that the spring, summer, fall and winter see amazing clearance sales at incredible prices.

Pleasures, too, are cheap, and there is good evidence of the cheapness of food in the remarkably fine meals the hotels and restaurants serve for prices that even free trade England would not believe possible and New York would shudder to mention.

And the spirit of friendliness that great-hearted Kentucky good nature, which is no myth, the sense of cooperation, consideration, sympathy that pervade the atmosphere, are no small factors in making life pleasant and livable.

SOUND REASONING

Communities grow only in proportion to the support they receive from the people who make up the community.

Fulton has no chance to improve in quality and size by the inhabitants investing their money or buying the necessities of life in other localities.

People who cling to the misguided policy of "doing better" away from home often lose dollars in trying to save pennies. The home merchant is honest and offers honest values. He can't afford to be otherwise, though he might be inclined to. He depends for his living from the community which he serves and he must give the community what it wants at a fair price.

When you are tempted to trade outside and buy something "just as good" at lower prices you should think twice before acting. If you are disappointed in merchandise bought at home, you can always get an adjustment. The merchant himself may have been cheated and he is generally willing to take the loss rather than have a dissatisfied customer.

But the out-of-town merchant is not personally interested in you. His only hope is to sell you once and he does not have to take precautions to preserve your good will.

More than owing it to your community to trade at home, thus keeping your money in circulation at home, you should give the home merchant the first opportunity to serve you, from a sound economic viewpoint.

Home Owner Always Makes Good Citizen

Home ownership is a big factor in the making of a good citizen. A man who owns his own home, or has started to pay for one, is a much more stable and dependable person than the one who rents his living quarters, because he feels himself a member of the community, writes Allene Lyle in the Chicago Evening Post. He expects to make it his permanent home and he is interested in improving it. The man who lives in a rented house or apartment can always move on short notice if there is something in the community which is not to his liking, and he is quite apt to do so, but the man who lives in a house which he owns himself is much more apt to try to bring the community up to his standards and ideals.

A home owner feels that he belongs to the community and it belongs to him. He pays taxes and he is concerned about how this public money is spent. He wants good streets and highways; he is interested in transportation facilities, lighting and improvements in sanitation; he demands good laws and their enforcement for the protection of his property and his family; he is vitally concerned in his community's schools and churches.

Overlook Chances to Redeem Blighted Spots

While they are centering their attention on the conservation, protection and improvement of Illinois' beauty spots nature lovers and others interested in the state's natural beauty should not lose sight of the many blighted spots that have almost unlimited possibilities for improvement. In the opinion of Karl B. Lohmann, in charge of landscape gardening at the college of agriculture, University of Illinois.

Many of the farm building groups in the state, hundreds of school grounds and miles of so-called improved roads unfortunately come within this class of blighted features, he said.

"Despite the luxurious acreage which they command," he explained, "thousands of farm building groups in Illinois are desolate because they are not in good order; they are not arranged efficiently for maximum convenience, they are not compactly and well disposed about agreeably shaped and effectively paved courts and they lose the picturesqueness that is possible with suitably placed trees, shrubs and lawns, hedges and fences.

"Stretches of grass should front the school structures and trees should be introduced."

POULTRY FACTS

RHODE ISLAND REDS NEW POPULAR BREED

The Rhode Island Reds are the newest of the popular breeds of general-purpose fowls. The breed originated in Rhode Island, where it was developed by farmers engaged in poultry raising. The Melay, Buff Cochins, Buff Leghorns and Wyandottes are said to have been used in its development. In type the Rhode Island Red has a rather long, rectangular body, and is somewhat rarer in appearance than the Plymouth Rock or Wyandotte. The hens are good layers and the breed makes a good table fowl. There are two varieties, the rose and single comb. The Rhode Island Whites are a more recent breed developed with similar type.

The Wyandotte is a rose-combed breed and is characterized as a breed of curves. The body is somewhat round and is set lower on the legs than the Plymouth Rock. The feathers are less compact than the Rhode Island Red and its general shape and feathering gives it the appearance of being short backed and short bodied. The Wyandotte was developed in the United States and the blood of the Dark Brahma, the Silver-Spangled Hamburg and the Buff Cochins played a part in its origin. The varieties are white, buff, silver, golden, partridge, silver penciled, Columbian and black. The Plymouth Rock has for many years been the most popular breed of general-purpose fowls. It is a breed which originated in the United States, and it is probable that the blood of the Dominique, Black Cochins, Black Java, Brahma and Pitt Game was used in its development. The breed is good sized, rather long bodied, with fairly prominent breast and good depth, showing a well-rounded carcass when dressed. The varieties of the Plymouth Rock are barred, white, buff, silver penciled, partridge and Columbian.

Way to Raise Chicks

Purdue university gives the following points for the proper raising and brooding of chicks:

Hatching only from mature, selected, brood-tested males and females.

Brooding chicks with a hard coal stove in a portable brooder house on new disease free soil.

Reducing brooder temperature from 100 degrees (at edge of house) after the first week as rapidly as the comfort of chicks permits.

Getting chicks out on the ground when a week old even though weather is chilly.

Giving nothing to drink but skim milk, buttermilk or condensed milk for at least the first month.

Giving no feed or drink till chicks are 48 hours old. For the first few days it is safest to feed only the finely cracked chick grains giving only what is cleaned up in about twenty minutes.

Giving no mash the first five days. After this start gradually on mash, always preceding the mash with a grain feed to prevent overfeeding on the mash.

Placing chicks on full mash feed after the second week and reducing at same time grain feeds to only two or three times per day.

Sand Supplies Grit

Cover the brooder floor with sand and then several inches of chaff from the clover mow. Do not have dust in the chaff, but the fine particles of the clover heads and straws. This gives the chicks something to scratch in to hunt for their grain feed. Do not use sawdust on the brooder floor, as the chicks are apt to eat this and cause trouble. The sand is good for them, as it supplies grit so necessary in digesting their feed.

Poultry Notes

When chicks are penned keep grits, oyster shell and sand before them all the time. Pulverized charcoal, too, should be in easy access, as it aids digestion.

A runway covered with fencing wire is a lot cheaper for chicks than to lose them to attacks of cats and other enemies of chicks.

Many breeders will not undertake to raise chicks without sour milk as the first feed and continued right along with the grain feeds.

Do you know how much net profit your hens are returning? Farmers all over the country are learning it is worth the time they spend to keep a close count on the eggs their hens produce and the cost per dozen.

Geese should not be used for breeding purposes until they are two years old. A gander may be used the first season. Geese eggs may be hatched in an incubator, but better results are obtained by setting the eggs under geese or hens. The eggs hatch in from 27 to 30 days.

Improper Feeds Cause Big Loss

Many Ailments of Sheep Flocks Due to Digestive Troubles of Animals.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Feeding troubles are at the bottom of three-fourths of the troubles affecting range sheep, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Many sheepmen have failed to recognize the real cause of the ailments of their flocks and have resorted to medicinal remedies and vaccination to cure and prevent sickness which in many cases was due to digestive troubles brought about by improper feeding conditions.

Feeding Methods.

Progressive sheepmen, however, are recognizing the importance of feeding methods. They make the change gradually from range feeding to lot feeding to give the sheep time to become accustomed to new feeds. Sheep are more sensitive to feed changes than other classes of live stock. A novel means adopted by one sheep feeder was to place bales of hay in the feed lot for lambs just brought in from the range. The lambs were able only to nibble at the hay and satisfied their appetite so gradually that no losses or trouble from digestive derangement occurred.

Officials of the bureau of animal industry who have been co-operating with the Idaho board of sheep commissioners in a study of the causes of mortality among sheep point out that proper diagnosis of sheep diseases is essential in all cases. They also are confident that greater attention to feeding, management and sanitation will greatly reduce the loss both from diseases and other causes.

Preventable Loss.

Dr. F. E. Murray, in charge of the bureau's office at Salt Lake City, estimates the preventable losses, which are well within the control of sheepmen themselves, at about a quarter of a million dollars annually in the intermountain region. This is a conservative appraisal of the annual toll aside from the hazards that are difficult to prevent, such as those caused by predatory animals and exposure.

In the opinion of department specialists, fully 75 per cent of the preventable losses are due to improper feed or feeding conditions. The remaining 25 per cent of the losses are accounted for by diseases, parasites, poisonous plants, and miscellaneous causes.

Raising Chicks on Clean Soil to Prevent Gapes

Gapes in chicks is a trouble due to the presence of parasitic worms in the windpipe causing labored breathing. The worms are coughed up by infected chicks, eggs are laid in the soil and the worms are often hatched there. Other chicks pick up the eggs or worms from the soil and become affected.

Purdue university states that the best way to prevent gapes is to raise the chicks on clean ground, free from gape infection. If the soil is infected with the gape worms it should be plowed and a crop raised on it. If the chicks are kept off the ground for a year it will usually be clean and can be used the following year.

The West Virginia experiment station has recommended three drops of creolin to a pint of drinking water for affected chicks. Under normal circumstances it is useless to try curing gapey chicks. The easiest thing is prevention.

Save Wheat by Burning Grasshoppers at Night

On many farms grasshoppers will be found roosting nights on tall weeds and grass along fence rows at the edge of wheat fields. When this vegetation is dry, burning at night will destroy immense numbers of the hoppers. This is much quicker, less expensive and more effective than poison. Where burning is not possible the newly sown wheat fields should be watched and if the hoppers start on the wheat, poison should be applied at once, advises the department of entomology, Kansas State Agricultural college.

When the young wheat plant has only one leaf, grasshoppers may eat it off once, and sometimes twice, and it will come up again. More than that will kill it. If they can be held until after the second leaf starts, there is little danger of the wheat being killed, according to entomologists.

Cause of Bowel Trouble

Bowel trouble in hens is usually caused by some digestive disorder due to the feed. If the hens do not have a dry mash this may be a cause. A hopper of bran is often useful in stopping bowel trouble. White diarrhea is a disease of chicks although it is often carried by old birds and transmitted to the chicks without the old birds showing any outward sign of the trouble. Perform a post mortem on the hens that die and note any unusual condition.

Fowls Eat Grain Seed

Farmers can prevent practically all interference of fowls with their newly planted grain crops simply by seeing to it that the birds are well fed. Hungry hens soon learn to follow the rows across a cornfield, for example, and will dig up the seed in a most thoroughgoing way. A good morning feed of shelled corn, however, will promptly put a stop to this. Hens will not scratch for grain when they can get all they want without effort.

PAUL AND THE PHILIPPIAN JAILER

LESSON TEXT—Acts 16:16-40.

GOLDEN TEXT—Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved.—Acts 16:31.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Story of an Earthquake.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Conversion of the Jailer.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Conversion of the Jailer.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Gospel in Philippi.

I. Paul and Silas in Jail (vv. 16-24).

1. The Occasion (vv. 16-24).

As the missionaries went out from day to day to the place of prayer they were accosted by a young woman possessed by a spirit of divination. She was owned by a syndicate of men who derived large gains from her soothsaying. This act of the woman became a great annoyance to Paul, who in the name of Jesus Christ commanded the evil spirit to come out. The evil spirit immediately obeyed. When the demon was cast out of the maid, her supernatural power was gone, therefore, the source of revenue was dried up. This was so exasperating to her owners that they had Paul and Silas arraigned before the magistrates on the false charge of changing their customs. This was playing the hypocrite for it was not custom, but illicit gains that had been interfered with. There is always trouble ahead when you interfere with wrong business. Without any chance to defend themselves Paul and Silas were stripped and beaten by the angry mob and then remanded to jail, and were made fast by stocks in the inner prison.

2. Their Behavior in Jail (v. 25).

They were praying and singing hymns to God. It seems quite natural that they should pray under such conditions, but to sing hymns is astonishing to all who have not come into possession of the peace of God through Christ. Even with their backs lacerated and smothering their feet fast in stocks, compelling a most painful position in the dungeon darkness of that inner prison, and with the morrow filled with extreme uncertainty, their hearts went up to God in gratitude.

3. Their Deliverance (v. 26).

The Lord wrought deliverance, sending a great earthquake which opened the prison doors and removed the chains from all hands. The earthquake was not a mere coincidence, but a miracle. Earthquakes do not throw all bolted doors open, and unlock the fetters from men's hands.

II. The Conversion of the Jailer (vv. 27-34).

The jailer's sympathy did not go out very far for the prisoners, for after they were made secure he went to sleep. The earthquake suddenly aroused him. He was about to kill himself, whereupon Paul assured him that the prisoners were all safe. This was too much for him. What he had heard of their preaching, and now what he experienced, caused him to come as a humble inquirer after salvation. He was convicted of sin and felt the need of a Saviour. Paul clearly pointed out the way to be saved. "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ." The proof that the jailer was saved is threefold:

1. Transformation From Brutality to Tenderness (v. 33).

He who a little while ago could with impunity lay on the cruel lashes is now disposed to wash and mollify the wounds of the prisoners.

2. Confession of Christ in Baptism (v. 33).

Those who have really been convicted of sin and have experienced the saving grace of God delight to confess their faith in Him under whatever circumstances.

3. He Set Meat Before Them (v. 34).

His Whole Household Baptized (v. 33).

III. The Magistrates Humbled (vv. 35-39).

1. Orders to Release the Prisoners (vv. 35-36).

The earthquake brought fear upon the magistrates which moved them to give leave for the prisoners to go.

2. Paul's Refusal to Go (v. 37).

The ground of his refusal was that their rights as Roman citizens had been violated. They demanded public vindication. The magistrates were guilty of serious offense. Paul was willing to suffer for Christ's sake, but he used the occasion to show them that persecuting men who preached the gospel was an offense against the law of God and man.

4. His Whole Household Baptized (v. 33).

III. The Magistrates Humbled (vv. 35-39).

1. Orders to Release the Prisoners (vv. 35-36).

The earthquake brought fear upon the magistrates which moved them to give leave for the prisoners to go.

2. Paul's Refusal to Go (v. 37).

The ground of his refusal was that their rights as Roman citizens had been violated. They demanded public vindication. The magistrates were guilty of serious offense. Paul was willing to suffer for Christ's sake, but he used the occasion to show them that persecuting men who preached the gospel was an offense against the law of God and man.

4. His Whole Household Baptized (v. 33).

Grace and glory differ but are both and blossom. What is grace but glory begun? What is glory but grace perfected?—John Mason.

"GRANNY, GET YOUR HAIR CUT"

Granny get your hair cut; paint your face and shine. Granny get your hair cut short like mine. If you want to kick high and have a big time, Granny, get your dress cut short like mine. Come to the club, with paint on your nose. Don't mind your dress, so silly women come, you wear silk hose. Come to the dance like the gray mule pitches. Cut a big shine in granddad's breeches. Stand on your head, Granny, kick at the moon. Like we girls do when we want to marry soon. Don't be ashamed, nor think you are fast. For modesty and virtue are things of the past. We'll go to the ball-ground, where the boys play bat. And we'll go to the park where the girls skin the cat. We'll ride the gray mule, without skirt or saddle. For now the men walk and the women ride a-straddle. Come to the bathing pool, Granny, and dive like a shad. Like we girls do, when we hide with the boys from dad. Come to the movies where all

HEHEHEH!

It is supposed to have happened in a theatrical club. An actor remarked: "I am tired of the way they are casting me lately. In my last three plays I have been a dirty scoundrel."

"That's the trouble with your American idea," observed an English actor, "of casting with types."—New York Graphic.

The Example

"What a beautiful ring, Laura." "Yes, but the engagement's broken off, dear."

"Well, aren't you going to send it back?" "... course; but I shall keep it long enough for the next one to see what he's expected to live up to."

Success

"There are some points about your writings that much resemble Shakespeare," said the editor. "Do you think so?" cried the delighted author. "Yes," the editor continued; "you employ almost the same punctuation marks."

THAT'S THAT

He—Where would you prefer to live—city or country? She—Why-er-er whichever you like best.

The airplane is a thing of worth. Save when compelled to mix. As it descends from sky to earth, In petty politics.

Lucky Aunt May

"Mummy, has Aunt Betty got a little baby?" "Yes, dear." "Has Aunt May?" "No, she has a little dog instead." "Oh, I suppose she had first pick."—Progressive Grocer.

They Come High

"This stove would suit me perfectly," said the tiresome customer, "but it is too low. I would have to stoop every time I worked over it."

"Well, madam," said the weary clerk, "what you want is a mountain range."—Good Hardware.

A Troublesome Memory

"You look annoyed tonight, professor. What is troubling you?" "Oh, it's my memory that's playing me tricks. There was something I wanted to fret about and I've forgotten what it is."

THOUGHT HE HAD MORE

Hubby—I've come to the conclusion you married me because you thought I had a little wealth! Wife—Wrong again—I thought you had a good deal.

Pure Breds Pay

Contentment shines upon the brow Of Farmer Brown. Says he, "I used to keep scrub cows, but now my pure bred cows keep me."

Why He Got the Flute

"How do you like your new room?" "All right, except that the man in the flat below is learning to play the flute."

"You ought to get a saxophone."

"I did; that's why he got the flute."

From the Ground Up

"And you say you guarantee these canaries?" "Guarantee them? Why, madam, I raised them from canary seed!"—Brown Jug.
