WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, March 16.

FREEDOM.

By J. W. Wintu.

On several occasions high lights in its nature and near earth's surface, and that light, which is visible to the eye, can be either bright or dim. Therefore, if they should be able to do so, they would shine forth with bright lights, as if to announce the coming of a new day. It is interesting to note that these lights are of a different nature than what we are accustomed to see.

One of the most interesting phenomena observed in the atmosphere of that world, is the presence of a bright light, which seems to emanate from the earth itself. This light is not always visible, but when it does appear, it is usually accompanied by a feeling of warmth and comfort.
