LAFFOON MAY AGAIN URGE THE SALES TAX

STILL BELIEVES THAT TO BE BEST PLAN FOR RAISING NEEDED CASH

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 22.—Gov. Ruby Laffoon is scheduled to appear before a joint session of the House and Senate tomorrow to deliver his second message of the year. It will be his first public utterance on the complicated crisis that has developed.

He will declare, it is predicted here, in favor of a general sales tax plan as opposed to the various plans that have been advanced from time to time in an effort to meet the financial deficit that is threatening the state.

The proposal for a general sales tax first was advanced as an administration measure several weeks ago. Opposition developed and subsequently various tax plans were advanced. Persons in the governor's confidence, however, always knew that he believed a general sales tax would be the better plan, but was willing for the various elements in the House and Senate to try out their various suggestions.

Weeks have passed and all hope of agreement among leaders has disappeared. This was evidenced last week when the House Democrats refused to meet with the Senate Democrats in caucus over the tax proposal.

Now, with only twenty-one days of the session remaining, the time is short to put through a tax program, even if it had been agreed on, but with no agreed program the administration has decided that some positive stand is needed, and the governor in his message will put the financial plight of the state squarely up to the assembly.

What is needed is some form of taxation to raise approximately $4,000,000 more than the present tax now produce. With this amount of new revenue, the governor would be able to balance the budget, something that five preceding governors have not succeeded in doing.

If the new revenue is not provided, the governor has two alternatives. He can cut drastically at the appropriation acts, or he can leave them as they are passed, and let the state debt grow by leaps and bounds.

Daughter Born to Irving Berlins

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (AP).—Irving Berlin, the tunesmith, has two "wows" now.

One is his "Face the Music" which opened on Broadway last week.

The other is a seven and three-quarter pound daughter born to Mrs. Berlin (the former Miss Elinor Mackay) early today.

This is the third child born to the Berlins. A daughter was born Nov. 25, 1926. A son, Irving Jr., was born Dec. 1, 1928, and died of a heart attack twenty-four hours later.

SITUATION IN THE FAR EAST

SHANGHAI Chinese troops fire across Soochow Creek on members of 31st U. S. Infantry looking on their barbed wire defenses. Chinese officials explained it as a mistake. Editor charges Japanese soldiers are killing defenseless Chinese peasants.

KIANGWAN Chinese troops, well embedded in trench lines, have held off a furious Japanese attack from all sides. The village is thought unable to hold out much longer. Casualties will likely run into a huge scale. Japan has brought every type of warfare into the attack.

WOOSUNG FORTS The village of Woosung is in flames after a severe bombardment. The fort still holds.

TOKYO Civilian circles are much worried at continued reports from the battle fields at Shanghai and Kiangwan that Japanese are unable to penetrate the Chinese lines. War offices deny they will send more troops at once. Premier Inukai and his party swept into office with a huge majority.

Independents Are Victorious

DEFEAT BARDWELL TEAMS IN THAT CITY IN HARD GAMES

Last night the two Fulton Independent basketball teams went to Bardwell and won two hard-fought games against the teams there. The Fulton Independent girls, playing their first game of the year under boys' rules, won a hard earned game against the Bardwell team. This is the Bardwell team that once represented the First District at the Murray meet, and is a high caliber team. The Fulton misses, after a slow start, came from behind and with fine passing, floor work and accurate shooting, won by a score of 24 to 15. Possibly a return game will be played here before the week is out. The work of Palsgrove stood out for Fulton, ably assisted by all the rest, and naturally it was the Coates sisters for Bardwell who did brilliant work.

The O. K. Cleaners in a fast game beat back Bardwell boys 41 to 31. The game was tight throughout, for Bardwell has recently added two college boys to the team. The Cleaners took an early lead, and though hard pressed, managed to lead the way. The Cleaners are now getting in shape for their hardest battle of the season, on March 8, against the Midwest Ice Cream team of Jackson, Tenn. This team is led by the former Fulton star, Herbert Sadler. The contest will be sponsored by the P. T. A. and will be the biggest cage attraction of the year.

CHINESE ARMY IS STILL HOLDING AS JAPS FIGHT HARD

JAP TROOPS MOWED DOWN BY MACHINE GUN FIRE OF CHINESE

SHANGHAI, ReB. 23 (Copyright by Associated Press).—Rebuffed in every onslaught they have made on the center of the Chinese line at Kiangwan, the Japanese today flung their full strength at the Chinese positions on both sides of the village in an attempt to complete a surrounding movement and starve out the handful of defenders still stationed in Kiangwan's blasted ruins.

The Japanese launched vicious attacks—one to the northwest of the village and the other to the south—just as dawn broke. They used tanks, armored cars, infantry, airplanes and field artillery. The base for this operation was the Kiangwan racetrack and golf course, where weatherbeaten signs, put there to keep hunters away, warned in English and Chinese: "No shooting allowed."

The Japanese command explained that the purpose of the surrounding movement was to avoid casualties among their own troops as well as among the Chinese manning the machine guns behind Kiangwan walls. But the thoroughness of the Japanese artillery preparation and the intense machine gun fire laid down by the Chinese when the assault line appeared, indicated that casualties would be enormous.

The first objective of the assault apparently was the village of Mo Han, two miles northwest of Kiangwan, where, according to the Chinese version of Monday's action, a Japanese attacking unit was led into ambush and cut down by machine gunners and riflemen.

While the major action was going on in the vicinity of Kiangwan, the ruins of Chapel were turned over by another heavy bombardment, during which numerous fires started.

Roosters in the International Settlement were crowded with fascinated foreigners and natives all during the night as the Chinese, displaying an artillery strength nobody suspected they had, rained shells into the strong Japanese positions in Hongkew and bombarded the Japanese consulate on the Shanghai Bund.

During Monday's fighting the Chinese took the offensive first by sending over an assault line against the enemy's Hongkew lines, later by attempting to storm the Japanese positions at Woosung, which had been weakened to provide manpower for the still unsuccessful Japanese push against Kiangwan.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY IN MONTHLY MEETING

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church held the general monthly meeting yesterday afternoon at the church, Mrs. Fall presiding. The meeting was opened by singing America and Mrs. Owen led in prayer. The room was artistically decorated in commemoration of Washington's birthday. The reports were very gratifying and a number of new members have been added to the roll since last meeting.

Mrs. Eunice Robinson had charge of the program and presented Mrs. George Doyle, who gave a very interesting paper on Woman's Citizenship Responsibility. Mrs. Robinson gave the devotional, the subject of which was The Courage of Jesus.

After singing hymn No. 49 the meeting adjourned.

Fulton To Have Business School

MODERN BUSINESS COLLEGE TO BEGIN INSTRUCTION SOON

Fulton is to have a new enterprise in the form of a modern and up to date business college, which will open in the city within a short time. Mr. W. M. Hudson, representing the Modern Business School, has been here for several days in conference with local people, unquoting over the field. He has fully decided that this is the logical place for such a school, and final plans are now being made for its establishment. Mr. Hudson is staying at the Kentuckian Hotel, and those interested can call him there, or at Mrs. A. J. Kirkland's.

Capable instructors will be in charge of the school and full courses will be given in both day and night sessions. Some charter scholars are being offered, which will interest many who wish to take the course.

The home offices of the company are in Washington Court House, O., and investigation indicates that the company is a reliable one in every way.

T. M. Franklin Off to Market

T. M. Franklin of the Franklin Dry Goods and Clothing Company received a wire from his New York resident buyer announcing the second grand showing of ladies' ready to wear for the week beginning on Feb. 24. She stated that this was the greatest opportunity of the season to buy East and spring dresses. The buyer is in the city tonight for New York and assures the ladies of this vicinity that they may anticipate the grandest showing of Easter apparel ever shown in Fulton, and at prices the lowest in many years.

Two Games On Card Tonight

BARDWELL BOYS AND GIRLS TO PLAY HERE

Fulton High meets the strong Bardwell boys and girls at Science Hall tonight, beginning at 7:30. The local team suffered defeat in both games of the previous meeting with Bardwell, but has been rapidly improving since that time and will present a stronger front tonight than in the first engagement. The Bardwell boys have a strong outfit, and the girls are among the four best teams in the state.

After tonight only two games remain on the home schedule. Friday night Fulton meets Water Valley in a double header, and on Tuesday night the strong Heath team comes here.

IN WASHINGTON

By the Associated Press

President Hoover opened the nine-month celebration of the 200th anniversary of George Washington's birth by addressing a joint session of the Senate and House and afterward attended Alexandria and Mount Vernon, Va., observances.

House wet bloc decided to seek bar against using prohibition enforcement fund for wire tapping by federal agents.

Chairman Hale of the Senate naval committee and Reed of military affairs committee cited China-Japanese hostilities as reason for United States preparedness.

Representative Tinkham, Republican, Massachusetts, challenged Bishop James Cannon, Jr., to proceed with court trial of clergyman's $500,000 libel suit against him.

UNITED STATES IN PROPOSAL FOR CUT IN WAR EQUIPMENT

TREATY OF ST. GERMAIN IS URGED AS PATTERN FOR PEACE

GENEVA, Feb. 22 (AP).—The Treaty of St. Germain which disarmed Austria after the World War was suggested to the World Disarmament Conference today by the American delegation as a yardstick to measure armaments necessary as national police forces.

The American delegation presented its formal proposals for disarmament as requested by President Arthur Henderson. The St. Germain Treaty was advanced by the Americans as point No. 7 of nine propositions, and was the only suggestion among the nine not covered in Ambassador Hugh Gibson's speech before the conference recently. Point No. 7 asked for computation of the numbers of armed forces on a basis of effective internal order, plus some suitable contingent for defense.

Forces necessary for maintenance of internal order, said the Americans, are incapable of reduction. Reduction in the defense force is a matter of relative. The St. Germain Treaty gave Austria an army of 30,000 and was more liberal in proportion to Austria's 6,000,000 population than was the Versailles Treaty which gave Germany an army of 100,000 in a country of 60,000,000.

SCOUT ACTIVITIES

The Scouts of Fulton met last night at 7 o'clock with 38 members present. The meeting opened with the Scout oath and laws, with a ceremony of lighting a candle for each law. The ceremony was performed by Harold Binkley, Wendell Binkley and William Henry Edwards.

The roll was called and quite a few tests were reported, showing that some work had been done by most of the Scouts present.

Mr. C. M. Whalen's talk on astronomy was enjoyed by everyone present.

After Mr. Whalen's talk some badges were awarded. Clovis Burns, Miller Burgess, and William Scott were given first class awards. Three second class badges were awarded to C. H. Warren, Harold Peoples and Luther Allen. All the above badges were awarded by Harold Binkley, Wendell Binkley and William Henry Edwards.

The Scout Master then gave William Henry Edwards a Star badge signifying that he had been in the Scout organization for five years. William Henry was praised very highly for the excellent work that he had done during this period.

One new member, Dane Lovelace, was admitted into the troop. The troop has entered into the inter-troop contest this year again and the Scout Master stated that we were behind the record of last year.

The meeting was dismissed with the Scout Benediction, given by Harold Binkley.

The Scout Master met the Senior Patrol leaders after the regular meeting. The patrols were rearranged so that the boys could be equally divided among the patrols. Plans were discussed for a program at the next meeting. He told something of his plans for the Camparall to be held in Paducah early in the summer. He said that it was quite probable that the whole troop would get to attend.

HICKMAN, Feb. 22.—The Hickman high school debaters were defeated by the Wingo high school team in a debate at the local auditorium Saturday night. The local team was composed of Elvia Stahl, Dorothy Tibbs and Leloa Stewart.

MY TOBACCO CROP

By MRS. W. A. FISHER
Elberfeld, Ind.

I stripped my tobacco the other day,
I loaded it up and hauled it away.
I went through the rain, wind and sleet,
And pulled through mud that was half belly deep.

My feet got wet and I frosted my toes,
I shook and I shivered till I darned near froze.
But finally I got to the Tri-county floor,
I threw on my brakes and drove through the door.

I took off my best, the good and the bad,
And filled up about all the baskets they had.
I had different lengths and different bodies and shades.
I had 14 baskets and 16 grades.

Then the buyer came by and pulled out a hand,
He jerked out a pencil and the fun began.

He graded it B and in C and in D,
He graded it H and in X Y and Z.

He used all the letters in the alphabet,
If he'd had more letters he'd be grading yet.
But finally he gave me my check and weights,
And it looked like the map of the United States.

I thought I was rich, till I got to the bank,
When they shelled out the cash my heart quickly sank.
For I couldn't pay interest, I couldn't pay debt,
If I owed anything I'm owing yet.

This tobacco was raised on Indiana soil,
It cost the grower much sweat and toil.

Herbert Hoover is blamed for the prices, and yet
I doubt if Hoover ever smoked a cigarette.

Well, I bought a few groceries,
And stowed with some gentles.
When I got home I had a dollar and fifty-five cents.

It sounds mighty bad, and looks like a shame,
But what is the mater, and who is to blame?

The grower is first with his graft and his crave,
He is using the market to dig his own grave.

The poolers are next, with their growls and kicks,
They are getting us in a deuce of a fix.

Over production is the next fault in line,
It brings about trouble just any old time.

Some good tobaccos, and a whole lot of stuff,
Makes market a failure, and selling a bluff.

Now let's let get together and cut out the crocks,
Remove all the blunders and stubborn flocks.

For now is the time for that work to begin,
If we all stick together, we are certain to win.

Let's cut down the acreage and cultivate well,
Raise more good tobacco and a little less hell.

Hazard Man Is Held on Charge

HITLER TO RUN AGAINST HINDENBERG IN GERMANY

NATIONAL SOCIALISTS FAIL TO AGREE WITH OTHER PARTIES OPPOSING PRESIDENT

BERLIN, Feb. 22 (AP).—Adolf Hitler, leader of Germany's Fascist Nazis, will be the presidential candidate of this National Socialist Party in the coming election, a party meeting was told tonight by his lieutenant, Joseph Goebbels.

His aid's announcement, made to a gathering of the fiery fascist followers in the Sports Palace, set the political party alignments for the campaign in clear-cut array.

President Paul von Hindenburg, as a result, is faced with three opposition candidates, in his campaign for re-election, but the failure of the Rightists to agree on a joint campaign may prove their undoing.

The certain runners in the race against the veteran of the World War who is the incumbent are Hitler, Ernst Thaelmann, Communist nominee, and Theodore Duesterberg, the Nationalist candidate who is vice president of the "steel helmet" organization of war veterans.

Before Duesterberg and Hitler were brought out as candidates, the Nationalists and the Nazis, whose interests heretofore have been very closely linked, held long conferences looking to a joint candidate to put in the running against von Hindenburg. At the end of the conference it was apparent that the Nazis had decided to put up a Simon-pure Hitler.

Herr Goebbels' announcement that Hitler himself would be the nominee was greeted with a storm of cheers and thunderous shouts of "Hail" that lasted many minutes. Hitler was not at the meeting.

Alfred Hugenburg's Nationalists and the steel helmets had fixed on Duesterberg as their own joint candidate only a short while before.

Carr Talks On State Problems

ROTARY CLUB HAS THREE VISITORS FROM MARTIN

Judge Herbert Carr gave a very thoughtful address to the Rotary Club today on the financial problems that face Kentucky. He was introduced by Robert H. Wade, who was in charge of the program. Mr. Carr stated that he had just returned from the capital, where he had had opportunity to see the difficulties under which the general assembly is laboring. He counseled moderation in judging of their action and gave a brief resume of the conditions confronting them. He said that his personal opinion inclined to a reasonable sales tax to meet the deficit, and said also that in his opinion the assembly should not try to raise enough revenue to take care of the accumulated deficit, but rather to avoid any increase in this deficit for the next biennial period. By that time, he thought, revenues might become more nearly normal.

Messrs. Duke, Taylor and Parker of Martin were present and Taylor and Parker each made a short talk.

JUDGE ASSAULTS WORKER FOR "REDS"

PINEVILLE, Ky., Feb. 22 (AP).—An attack on Communism was delivered here today by Judge D. C. Jones in charging the grand jury at the opening of Bell circuit court today.

"Washington's birthday is a good time to start cleaning up the Reds, who are seeking to tear down the foundations of our government laid by Washington," the jurist said.

He asked the grand jury to investigate charges of criminal syndicalism pending against eleven persons in Bell county.

COMMENT

By the Commentator

ALWAYS ASK A MAN WHO KNOWS

I have always had a deep curiosity about the things of which I know very little. A strange machine, operating in a manner of which I know little, and doing something for a purpose of which I am not aware, always attracts my attention and I know no rest until I find out why and what for.

Living here on the edge of the railroad tracks, and railroad equipment, I imagine I know as little of the details as any man who ever lived. Almost daily I see things that are completely baffling to me, but a lot of times I ask questions and find out. Not long ago, for example, I noticed a freight train come into town from the Jackson run, with white flags flying at the front of the locomotive. As it neared the crossing here I noticed that a man climbed out of the cab and walking the catwalk to the front of the locomotive, removed the white flags. (By the way, I wouldn't walk along the side of an engine that way for a lot of money.) It puzzled me, and finally I asked Albert Smith why this was. He said that was the only thing he happened to know, and informed me that the flags signified the train was running as an extra, and removal of the flags indicated that it was no longer an extra. Now if that information is wrong, blame Albert for it. I took his word for it.

A little later I got to wondering what made the curious noises that came from the dispatcher's office when the windows were open. I kept hearing strange voices emanating from that place, voices that I knew didn't belong to Tom Allen, Foxy Grandpa Godfrey, Glenn Robertson, S. L. Brown, Bob Alford, or any of the other dispatchers. I even knew it wasn't Walter Maves talking, and finally I wandered in there one day and found out they had loudspeakers there which carried the voices of all the folks who work up and down the line. Foxy Godfrey showed me the works and gratified my curiosity.

Well, the other day I got to wondering about the tall semaphore signal that stands out in front of the dispatchers' office. It's almost in front of the Grand Theatre, and carries a long arm and a cluster of lights. I'd been watching it for about nine years, and never had seen the long arm move. One day, however, for no apparent reason that I could see, I caught the arm in motion. It dropped down about a quarter of the way, and stopped. I looked around for a train and could see none. Nor did I hear one. I went on, but was puzzled. Later, I asked Albert Smith about it. He'd given me some information once before, but he fell down on this item. He confessed that he didn't know whether it was automatic, or was operated from the dispatcher's office. Several fellows in the restaurant ventured the opinion that it was operated from the office, but I was not satisfied.

A few days later I happened to be in the restaurant and Foxy Godfrey, my old standby, came in. I took up my troubles with him, and asked him when and why the semaphore operated. He told me it was automatic, and then, glancing at his watch, said:

"Keep your eye on that arm, count sixty very slowly, and you'll see it move a quarter of the way down."

I must have counted more rapidly than he ordered, for I reached sixty-five before the arm moved. It swung slowly down a quarter of the way, and he then remarked that before I could count thirty it would be down another quarter of the way. By this time I could hear the train that he knew was coming. Sure enough, the arm dropped down another quarter, and a train steamed around the curve. As soon as it passed, the arm swung back upward.

So, my advice is that when you want to know something the proper thing is to ask somebody who knows. Some day, when my curiosity overcomes my natural boyish shyness, I'm going to ask Foxy Godfrey why he carries such a big lunch basket. It's large enough to carry sufficient food for all the crew in the dispatchers' office, and I wonder sometimes if Foxy feeds 'em all!

AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION PROGRAMS ESTABLISHED

Farm extension meetings have recently been held at Fulton, at Crutchfield and at Hickman. These meetings were called by County Agent Brown for the purpose of building an agricultural program of work in the communities for 1932. It is the aim of the county agent to work through the cooperation of local project leaders and community groups in order that a wider and more effective extension farm program might be developed. Local leaders and demonstrators throughout the county are in a position to be of great service to their communities by encouraging their neighbors to adopt better and more effective farming practices.

Fulton Community Program
This community program consists of work on the following projects, with the following leaders:

Tobacco: E. A. Thompson will get four growers to adopt improved methods of firing their tobacco to produce a higher quality product.

Hogs: Norman Terry will demonstrate and encourage feeding of hogs on the ton litter plan, and will encourage use of sanitation program to prevent worm injury.

PASTURES AND LEGUMES: Enoch Browder and Ernest Hancock will encourage seeding of pasture mixtures and more legumes on all farms.

Dairy: C. L. Drysdale will keep complete dairy records and encourage others to test their herds once each month and feed according to production.

Poultry: Hunter Whitesell will encourage better feeding, breeding, and culling of the farm flocks.

In addition to the above program there will be two 4-H clubs in the community.

Crutchfield Community Program
This community has adopted the following program for the year:

Tobacco: J. W. McManahan will get 3 growers to use thermometers in their barns and fire their tobacco for more quality and price.

Hogs: N. B. Little will encourage feeding the ton litter plan and practice of more and greater sanitation in growing of hogs.

Sheep: Cletus Binford will stress value of docking and castrating lambs to produce higher quality lambs and more pounds; two pure bred bucks will be added to flocks in this community.

Pastures and Legumes: W. V. Little and J. R. Elliott will emphasize and demonstrate seeding of more pasture mixtures and legumes for hay and soil building.

Poultry: Letcher Watkins will demonstrate and encourage keeping of egg records and culling of flocks for larger egg production.

Orchards: Letcher Watkins will demonstrate value of spraying and caring for the orchard for improved quality fruit.

This community will in addition have a large 4-H club.

Hickman Community Program
Hickman community including bottoms has planned the following

ing program:
Hogs: Ernest Johnson will demonstrate vaccination, sanitation, and better feeding.

Beef Cattle: Roscoe Stone will assist in getting a number of beef herds started in the bottoms.

Dairy: George Helm will keep dairy records on testing, feeding and cost of production and encourage production of quality milk.

Legumes: W. B. Amberg and C. P. Mabry will demonstrate and encourage the seeding of lowlands to grasses and clovers for pasture and hay.

Gardens: Miss Helen Tyler and C. P. Mabry will emphasize the value and use of gardens for every tenant and farm family in the community.

In addition to the above program there will be five 4-H clubs in this community.

COLLEGE TO PROMOTE BIG LEGUME ACREAGE FOR KENTUCKY FARMERS

Promoting the growing of a less than 200,000 acres in Kentucky sweet clover and soybeans on Kentucky farms, is the crops program of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky. This includes a million acres of each alfalfa, sweet clover and soybeans and million acres of lespedeza.

Profitable farming in this state requires one acre of legumes to five acres of other crops, the agricultural department of the College points out. The 1924 census shows that there were only one acre of alfalfa and pasture crops to 23 acres of other cultivated crops in Kentucky.

Unprofitable yields have caused a reduction of wheat growing to less than 200,000 acres in Kentucky. Nitrogen is primarily the limiting element in the yields of wheat, corn, and it is at present determining the acreage of these crops. Experts believe that greater nitrogen in crop yields and more widespread benefit will come with adoption of new farm practices, the growing of legumes.

County agents report that approximately 500,000 acres of alfalfa and pasture crops have been added in the state in the past five years. In 28 counties, having 100,000 acres or more, alfalfa acreage was grown last year. The alfalfa acreage in 65 counties totaled 42,634. Approximately 1,000 farmers sowed 5,000 acres of alfalfa last year. Large amounts of alfalfa and grass, red clover, lespedeza and other seeds were sown in pasture mixtures.

There probably is more nitrogen in Korean lespedeza than in other legume crops combined. It is a profitable crop for pasture and seed. It will grow on poor land and often make a crop when nothing else will. It is now being grown in practically every county in the state.

SKELTON TELLS OF 96-YEAR-OLD TROGLODYTE

BENTON, Tenn., Feb. 21.—(AP)—What is believed to have been a troglodyte that occurred 96 years ago has been revealed here by the finding of a skeleton of a white man who met a violent death.

The skeleton was found beside what is known as the old Stock Road four miles west of Benton, in the yard of Emmanuel McKissick, while members of the family were digging down a tank in the trail from the house to the well. The skeleton was in a pine box, part of which was rich knots, and well preserved. A Mexican dagger was at the side of the side of the skeleton and two old coins. One coin, apparently Spanish, was dated 1500, while a Mexican dollar bore the date of 1839.

The McKissicks have lived on the place 60 years, but never before knew that a grave existed in their

COLLEGE TO PROMOTE BIG LEGUME ACREAGE FOR KENTUCKY FARMERS

Promoting the growing of a legume crop, sweet clover and soybeans on Kentucky farms, is the crops program of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky. This includes a million acres of each alfalfa, sweet clover and soybeans and 3 million acres of lespedeza.

Profitable farming in this state requires one acre of legumes to four acres of other crops, the agronomy department of the College points out. The 1924 census shows that there were only one acre of hay and pasture crops to 33 acres of other cultivated crops in Kentucky. Unprofitable yields have caused a reduction of wheat growing to less than 200,000 acres in Kentucky. Nitrogen is primarily the limiting element in the yields of wheat and corn, and is at present determining the acreage of these crops. Experts believe that greater increase in crop yields and more widespread benefit will come with the adoption of new farm practices in the growing of legumes.

County agents report that approximately 500,000 acres of hay and pasture crops have been added in the state in the past five years. In 38 counties having farm agents, 132,000 acres of soybeans were grown last year. The sweet clover acreage in 35 counties totaled 42,934. Approximately 1,000 farmers sowed 5,000 acres of alfalfa last year. Large amounts of orchard grass, redtop, lespedeza and other seeds were sown in pasture mixtures.

There probably is more interest in Korean lespedeza than in all other legume crops combined. This is a profitable crop for pasture hay and seed. It will grow on poor land and often make a crop when nothing else will. It is now being grown in practically every county in the state.

BAN AGAIN TROTSKY IS CONFIRMED

MOSCOW, Feb. 21 (AP)—Leon Trotsky and 35 other Russian emigres living abroad were formally stripped of their Soviet citizenship today and forbidden for all time to enter the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. The action was taken by the executive committee of the central executive committee.

In the case of Trotsky the action was a mere formality, for he has been banished permanently from the Soviet Union two years ago and went to Istanbul, Turkey, where he since has lived as a bitter exile.

Trotsky was banished after an even split with Josef Stalin, Russia's strong man. He became a leader of the left-wingers, who preached a doctrine of world revolution, and a necessity before Socialism could be built in one country.

Since his residence in Turkey, Trotsky has been a constant thorn in the side of the Soviet government by his bitter criticisms, both written and spoken, of the policies pursued by the Kremlin.
