TAXPAYERS REMEMBER

Good-naturedly, but piquantly, Clyde B. Howard, of Fulton, inquires what it is in the air of Frankfort that "changes a legislator's point of view so completely."

Candidates talk retrenchment and reform on the stump, promise the taxpayer everything he wants then devote their time to inventing new forms of taxation after they reach the capital. Mr. Howard refers specifically to a scolding a delegation of taxpayers received from a member of the House Committee on Revenue and Taxation for protesting against a tax, instead of "telling us what we can tax."

The legislator in question doubtless was taking out on the protesting delegation his exasperation at the Governor for not telling them what to tax and holding up the budget report which was due more than a month ago. The Governor, Auditor and Chairman of the Tax Commission had two years in which to prepare the report and knew that the law required them to submit it on or before the third Monday of the session.

As Mr. Howard remarks, "The budget hasn't been balanced since Cripps Beckham was Governor and probably wouldn't stay balanced thirty days regardless of the amount of taxes collected." The point's well taken. Legislatures can appropriate money and tax the people; but the same public servants who have run the State two or three million dollars in debt since 1932 will continue in charge the next two years. Whether or not the budget of income and expenditures balances depends upon their behavior after the Legislature adjourns; but the legislators are to blame for taxation and appropriations. They can cut appropriations as well as increase taxes. Their constituents wintering in the same realistic environment in which the election campaign took place, remember in February what the Senators and Representatives said in October.

YOUR COMMUNITY PAPER

Take any community in which there exists a newspaper and print shop. If every business or professional man who sells the owner and operatives in such a plant anything during any given year would set aside what he earned from this little group as the basis of his printing and advertising appropriations, it would enormously enhance the community newspaper's capacity to serve that community in promotional work—not only promoting purely business progress but likewise civic work of all descriptions.

Practically every kind of local activity, business, social, church and school depends for its success very greatly upon publicity. And the newspaper is the community's instrument of publicity. It would be an undoubted advantage to any town: if its newspaper plant were able to set aside out of its annual earnings yearly a definite fund, much as banks set aside surplus funds, to fight any community tendency toward stagnation—have the means at hand to take up the cudgels, aggressively, in behalf of those things and activities which require intelligent publicity to enable a progressive community to express itself by effective, united action in any given direction.

The average community newspaper plant meets this need, not out of a maintained community fund of its own to cover the cost of spreading information throughout its pages, to print promotion placards, to sponsor public meetings and encourage church and educational activities but meets the community's requirements out of its own bare and woefully insufficient earnings. "Free Publicity" is the rock upon which many an ambitious newspaper has founded. It is almost universally, the heavy drag which prevents this useful and potentially powerful institution from carrying on the promotional community work which it is so admirably fitted to do. And which no other individual and no other single business institution can successfully achieve.

Publicity is most effectively and economically achieved by the community's newspaper. It is the newspaper's primary function. But the successful carrying out of this function must necessarily be limited by the newspaper's financial resources. It would surprise people to discover what a difference it would make both to the newspaper and to the community if, in some way, it should be possible for the paper to create a community promotional fund of its own, out of which to defray its expenditures classified under the heading of "Free Publicity." In our own case, such expenditures have ranged all the way from $200 to $500 annually, and still we haven't done what we would wish to do, under favorable circumstances. The suggestion made at the beginning of this editorial is only one way in which much could be accomplished.

"Free Publicity" is a function of a truly community newspaper which we believe to be entirely legitimate under the stated circumstances. It is not curtailment of this practice for which we are now appealing, but rather an expansion of it, by bestowing upon your community newspaper patronage and support by means of which, and by no other means, it can hope to spread community publicity as the community has a right to expect.

Last year the publishers of The Fulton County News spent many hundreds of dollars to build up an extensive subscription list—with this paper going into hundreds of homes in the surrounding rural districts as well as inside the twin-cities of Fulton and South Fulton. Realizing the value of a large family of readers in publicizing the community and business firms advertising in the columns of The News, intensive efforts are constantly being made to cover even a larger territory.

BULLPUPS CONTINUE WINNING STREAK

The fast coying Bullpups added another victory to their fast growing list Friday night when they completely swamped the Arlington Juniors by the score of 27 to 9.

Allowing Arlington to draw first blood the Bullpups ran a total of 12 points to five for the visitors in the first period. Inserting the entire second team which also played a mighty good game, they themselves showed that they could play ball held Arlington in tow for a short time. The half ended Fulton 15, Arlington 5.

INFANT SON OF MR. AND MRS. McNEILLY PASSES

Little Dicky, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard McNeilly, died in the Mayfield hospital Sunday afternoon, living only about eight hours. The remains were brought to Fulton in charge of Winstead-Jones & Co. and laid to rest in the Fairview cemetery Monday afternoon at two o'clock.

BULLDOGS TRIUMPH OVER ARLINGTON 29-21

Trailing until late in the third period the Bulldogs snapped out of a slum that was spelling defeat Friday night and arose to smite their opponents the Arlington five 29 to 21 in a thrilling last minute battle.

The game opened with "Stretchberry" Weaver scoring all Fulton points in the first period which was only three as against 10 for Arlington. The second period saw Weaver again on the warpath scoring five of Fulton's nine while Arlington totaled four ending the half 16 to 12 in favor of Arlington.

The third period saw Fulton run the score within two points of a tie before Arlington registered. After Arlington scored a free throw Fulton did also which was quickly followed by a beautiful field goal by Edwards which put Fulton in front for the first time in the game and there they remained ending the 3rd period 19 to 18 for Fulton.

In the final quarter of the Bulldogs displayed their ability by holding Arlington to three markers while amassing a total of ten themselves to carry off the honors 29 to 21.

Earl Willey is reported ill at his home on Eddings-st.

The service of the Illinois Central System is not a mere matter of transporting freight and passengers. It is personal service individualized to each traveler and shipper.

For passengers, trips are planned, hotel reservations are made, baggage is checked, escorts are provided for aged, ill or inexperienced travelers, and so on.

For shippers, shipments are expedited, diverted or reconsigned, perishables are iced or heated, livestock is fed and watered, market information is obtained, and so on.

Experienced patrons of the Illinois Central System are accustomed to personal service. Members of the Illinois Central organization are eager to render it.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

If only one form of transportation was available, which would you choose?

Which form of transportation is most faithful and dependable throughout the year in handling passengers, freight, express, and mails?

Which form of transportation contributes most to the upbuilding and permanency of the community?

Which form of transportation contributes most to the prosperity of the community as an employer of local workers, also local purchaser directly and through its employees?

Which form of transportation contributes most in taxes in support of local government and schools?

Which form of transportation is the greatest permanent asset to the community?

Which form of transportation will you support? Weigh these questions and act for the betterment and upbuilding of the community.

SEEK INFORMATION FROM ALL FARMERS

All farmers raising two litters or more of hogs or growing 10 acres or more of corn will be asked to furnish the Agricultural Adjustment Administration with information about their production in the past two years, it is announced from the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky. This information will be asked of all farmers whether they sign a reduction contract or not. Before the corn-hog adjustment program can be completed and payments made to cooperating farmers, the county adjustment committee must obtain a work sheet of every farm producing hogs or corn.

Information to be obtained includes the production of corn in 1932 and 1933, the hog production and sale during the two-year base period, and a report of the utilization of the corn crop during that period.

It is important, therefore, says the statement, that every farmer producing corn or hogs attend the educational meetings in his community. Work sheets will be explained and distributed at these meetings.

CROP LOANS FOR AAA COOPERATORS

Farmers seeking government emergency crop or seed loans this year must furnish proof that they are not planning to increase production, says a statement from Governor W. L. Myers of the Farm Credit Administration.

Applicants for loans must obtain clearance through or furnish a certificate of co-operation from the county production control committee of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. Production control associations will have lists of farmers who have signed crop reduction contracts. Those who have not signed contracts must furnish, through the control committee, proof that they will not increase production.

Farmers desiring to obtain emergency loans this spring should apply first to their local production credit association.

RECORD BOOKS FOR ADJUSTMENT SIGNERS

Farmers who sign crop reduction contracts are to be furnished with record books for keeping information required by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

The book provides for complete records of acreages of various crops planted, yields per acre, the total amounts produced, amounts sold and prices, amounts used on the farm, use of contracted or rented acreages net income, and a map of the farm showing the various fields.

The book is not intended to take the place of any system of accounting now in use by farmers, but rather to record information required in carrying out the provisions of a reduction contract.

HOMEMAKERS PLAN BUSY WEEK

Members of the Homemakers clubs are going to have a busy week on March 5 to 10, according to Miss Anno Culton, Home Demonstration Agent, Monday, Feb. 5th Miss Iris Davenport, Extension Specialist in Millinery and Clothing will conduct a lesson on millinery renovation. The meeting will begin at 10 a. m. methods of cleaning, blocking and repairing old hats and making of berets and other soft hats will be included in the lesson. Colors and trimming ideas will be discussed.

On Tuesday, Feb. 6th Miss Davenport will give a similar lesson at the home of Mrs. Charlie Clarke in Hickman for members of Fulton County group. Leaders that will attend this meeting and their clubs are: Mrs. Pauline Mayfield, Mrs. Virginia Jones, Cayce; Mrs. C. V. Heaslet, Mrs. J. H. Lawrence, Clinton; Mrs. M. E. Weatherford, Mrs. Grover Weatt, Croley; Mrs. Bertha Nugent, Mrs. C. N. Clark, Hickman; Mrs. Annie Kelly, Miss Alice Sowell, Jordan; Mrs. Clyde Burnett, Mrs. Milton Browder, Palestine; Mrs. Alma Williams, Mrs. Homer Campbell, Oakton; Mrs. R. B. McKimmons, Mrs. Lee Page, Sassafras Ridge; Mrs. Dean Collier, Mrs. Ernest Carver, McFadden; Mrs. Rachel Jewell, Mrs. Anna Mae Brazzel, Shiloh.

On Wednesday, Feb. 7th Miss Culton with Miss Florence Inlay, who is having charge of Child Care and Training groups in the counties will visit the homes of members of the Child Care and Training groups.

On Thursday, Feb. 8th Miss Inlay Extension Specialist in Foods and Nutrition will conduct a training school at the home of Mrs. W. H. Magruder in Clinton for food leaders for the major project. The lesson is Vegetables and Fruits and will include a discussion of their preparation and place in the diet. This will be the second of the series of four lessons to be given on Plain Patterns in Cookery.
