SCHOOL

We must hurry back to school.

To spend our teacher in a ride,

Our play is finished for a while.

Do not start each with a smile.

The holidays have passed away

And school is right at hand.

But lest we all get away

And learn our lessons all at once.

Yes, indeed, everyone will

And the teacher's praise, justly.

For our mother's love children

So much in truth for our night.

THE VALUE OF AN EDUCATION

An education is the most valuable possession of the day. It is a possession, which it is said, cannot be sold in dollars and cents.

A person who is not educated is not fit for the world. The higher position he occupies the more education he requires to save him.

Our children are paying a great price to educate us, and when we will have done this, there are the parents who meditate so much to give you what you need.

Schools not only develop the mind, but also prepare for life in the larger schools of life, and the world of to-day.

The undoubted millennium of man will come when the ignorant give up their positions for the educated man and woman.

It was a mighty effort when they were able to say, "A man and his wife." And now we should be glad that we can say, "A man and woman," and should take advantage of this.

Grace A. Hill

AUTO DRIVERS, "WATCH YOUR STEP!"

Auto drivers should "Watch your step" if they are to be forewarned.

According to the Globe Democrat, General Manager of the Auto Drivers Union has the following to say:

"In other words, stop your engine before putting off of the outer body."

Ladue, lad frame now in, not lad from, and "Watch your step!"

Little Lofton, Jr., Passes Away

The funeral of Little Lofton, Jr., who passed away at his home in Fulton, Ky., took place at three o'clock. Rev. C. B. Warren, pastor of the First Baptist Church, conducted the services and made the sermon in connection with funeral exercises.

The processions of the Auto Laundry system go out to the cemetery for the burial of the little child.

The Old Folks

Somewhere they are sitting—thinking. Romantic is some quiet place, off the main road of life—thinking of the good old days—thinking of you—wondering what you are doing. Waiting to hear from you. Wondering how you look now. Wishing they could see you. Have they a good portrait of you? But when was it taken? Not recently, I hope. Imagine them with trembling hands examining a big flat package and taking out a splendid Alumni of you.

To such a little muddle, and it would mean so much to them.
