FEDERAL FINANCING IMPORTANT FACTOR IN MARKET COURSE

ADMINISTRATION CONSIDERING ISSUANCE OF BILLION IN NEW SECURITIES

NEW YORK, July 31.—In its weekly review of business and financial conditions, the Wall Street Journal says:

Hunting for matters of significance on the future course of security prices, the financial community is taking more and more interest in the course the Administration will take in regard to Government financing operations.

Within the next two weeks the Administration to show its hand on this all important subject, and the decision will be a momentous one.

Word from Washington is to the effect that the Administration is considering an attempt to dispose of $1,000,000,000 in Government securities in conjunction with refinancing of maturities of roughly $470,000,000 in mid-August. How these securities, possibly 10-year obligations, will be absorbed and what part the Federal Reserve is called on to play in their absorption, will be a portent that the financial community should follow. If any of the inflationary provisions of the Thomas amendment are invoked, or even if the Federal Reserve only steps up the rate of its Government securities purchases, the effect on the securities markets would be vital.

The improvement in security prices last week was largely the reflection of the rebound in commodities. Grains went up without any new inflation stimulus, reports of sensational crop damage in Canada toughing off the rally. Some deliveries of wheat wet up the amount allowed under the limitations fixed for one day's fluctuations.

While industrial production is tapering off somewhat from the recent high levels, it is holding up fairly well, all things considered. The financial community is watching closely for mail, order, house and chain store sales reports covering the full month of June, which will reveal the trend of public buying.

The tendency in the steel industry for new buying to quiet down was reflected in the past week when operations, for the first time in months, failed to advance. Dow Jones placed operations for the industry at about 56 per cent, the same as the preceding week.

WHITE MAN IS ROBBED HERE BY TWO NEGROES

FAILS TO APPEAR AT TRIAL— NEGROES DISMISSED

A white man giving his name as Robert Allen, of Kenner, La., reported to the police department that while sleeping in the "jungle" near the coal chute here, one white man and two negroes had robbed him of about $10 in money and his shoes.

After several hours search two negroes answering the description given of the thieves were arrested and, after being identified by Allen, placed in the city jail to answer the charge of robbery.

County Attorney E. J. Stahr was notified to come over from Hickman to be present at the examining trial. Allen, who had been notified of the time and place of the trial, failed to show up to testify against the negroes, and, after more than an hour's delay, the latter were released from custody.

THE LISTENING POST

WHEN the last legislature increased the cost of marriage licenses in Kentucky they little realized what effect it might have on the ministers and magistrates, etc., who officiate at weddings. Not so long ago a couple were married here, the happy groom asked the magistrate what the cost was, and the magistrate told him that the law allowed him $2.50, whereupon the groom said, "By gosh, that's enough," and drove off without paying the magistrate anything. Just a day or so ago Squire C. J. Bowers married a couple and upon being asked what the charges were, the amiable squire told the bridegroom that he made no charge and would accept whatever he thought it was worth, whereupon the groom handed him 45c, 10c of which were pennies. So it seems the high cost of marriages has decreased.

TWO NEGRO men were fined in Squire Bowers' court this morning on a breach of the peace charge.

The Public Library is in receipt this morning of a book, "Titans of Literature," autographed by its author, Burton Rascoe, Fulton's only "big-time" writer. In a recent letter to the Leader the author expressed fondest memories of Fulton and stated that he would like to visit here some time soon, long enough to go over all the haunts of his childhood. His letter stated, "When I was last there in 1929 I got a real thrill out of going to Carr Institute where I went to school, and to Dick Thomas's field, where I used to go camping with my playmates. Fulton and all its environs are as clearly etched on my mind as they were when I was ten years old. Within the year I expect to make a trip to Kentucky." He also stated that he was very glad that Fulton now has a public library and hoped the depression would soon be over so the library can be enlarged. His book is reputed to have life, scholarship with zest, wit and humor, and is an informal history of world literature set forth in a series of thirty essays containing rather personal and unconventional literary criticisms of the great writers, their times and their contemporaries, from Homer and the Greek dramatists to the present.

ANOTHER BOOK received by the library this morning, recently purchased, is "Magnificent Obsession," by Lloyd C. Douglas. This book has been in demand here for a long time and has been on the reading list of the larger public libraries for a year and a half. It has been said of this book that a person reading it is never quite the same again.

AN ASSOCIATED PRESS item stated that seventy million pieces of printed matter—with the blue eagle of NRA emblazoned on every one—were being rushed to campaign committees who will carry on President Roosevelt's re-employment program.

ASSISTANT POSTMASTER Bugg stated today that the signed NRA papers were not coming in so fast, that a few had been received, but the major part of the employers were waiting until after the meeting tonight, at which time the new industrial act will be discussed.

PADUCAH GOLFERS evened up the score by defeating Fulton 39 to 18 yesterday on the Paducah links. Fulton on last Sunday won over Paducah here. About 20 players from Fulton went to Paducah and played in the rounds, which was the fourth match of the Tri-City Golf League.

ONE KILLED, SCORE INJURED AS CORN POPPER EXPLODES

7 VICTIMS OF EXPLOSION IN HOS- PITAL AT OWENSBORO

OWENSBORO, Ky., July 30.—More than a score of persons were burned, one fatally, when a gasoline tank on a popcorn popper exploded in the midst of a crowd of 2,000 persons at a picnic at Johnson's Grove, near Lewisport, Hancock county, late last night.

Mrs. Lillie Early 22 years old, wife of Forrest Early, died at the Owensboro City Hospital, this afternoon. Mrs. Early was brought to the hospital at 2:30 o'clock this morning. Her husband also was seriously burned.

Seven other explosion victims were brought to the Owensboro hospital early today while the less seriously burned were treated at Lewisport and Hawesville, where all available doctors were called into service.

Harlow Saunders, 17 years old, who was pumping air into the gasoline tank of the popper when the explosion occurred, was seriously injured.

CHARLES BRANN, WELL KNOWN CITIZEN, DEAD

WELL KNOWN CITIZEN DIES AF- TER BRIEF ILLNESS

Charles Brann, aged 65, died Saturday night at his home on State Line street after a brief illness. Funeral services were held this afternoon from the First Methodist Church, conducted by Rev. G. T. Mayo of Dresden, and Rev. C. C. Fain, local pastor. Burial followed at Fairview cemetery, in charge of the Fulton Undertaking Company.

Mr. Brann had been a resident of Fulton for about twenty years, and had resided in this immediate vicinity all of his life. He was one of the largest landowners of the section and operated many farms. After moving to Fulton twenty years ago he identified himself with several business interests here and contributed liberally of his time and means in all community enterprises. He was a kindly neighbor, a loving father and a devoted husband, never too busy to do some kindly deed in a quiet and unobtrusive manner, and his going will be a distinct loss to the entire community.

The deceased was twice married. In 1904 he was married to Miss Maud Temple, to which union two children were born. In 1922 he was married to Miss Emma Cavender, who survives him. The two daughters are Miss Cordelia Brann and Mrs. Vernon Owen, both of this city. Four sisters also survive, these being Mrs. Adrian McDade of this city, Mrs. Jesse Knox of Orlando, Fla., Mrs. Lewis Burke of near Ruthville and Mrs. Jim Gibbs of near this city. Mr. Brann was the last of the Brann brothers, all of whom have played an important part in the development of this section.

IMPORTANT

PURSUANT TO A REQUEST OF GENERAL HUGH S. JOHNSON, ADMINISTRATOR, NATIONAL RECOVERY ADMINISTRATION, THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE WILL HOLD A MEETING AT THE CITY HALL TONIGHT AT 7:30 O'CLOCK FOR THE PURPOSE OF DISCUSSING THE AGREEMENT THAT THE PRESIDENT IS ASKING EVERY EMPLOYER IN THE UNITED STATES TO SIGN. IT IS HOPED THAT EVERY EMPLOYER IN FULTON WILL BE PRESENT AT THIS MEETING AND TAKE PART IN THE DISCUSSION.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Let's Use Common Sense-Editorial

Beginning this week the business interests of Fulton are to decide what steps to take in order to put the National Recovery Act into practice here. It is a very radical change that we are facing. Where it will ultimately lead us no man can say. We can but hope for the best and do the best we can.

Yet there can be no harm in trying to use common sense in dealing with this matter. After all, we are no different from what we were last week or last year. Nor is the country a different country. It is the same nation which has licked every depression up to the present one, and the same nation which is going to lick this one. Whether the National Recovery Act will be the weapon which is to beat this depression none of us know. All of us hope so. I am sure. And I am equally sure that there is not a business man in the city of Fulton who is not willing to make deep sacrifices in order to restore normal business conditions. They have made sacrifices in the past and will do so in the future.

There is one thing in the National Recovery Act which I do not like. I do not mean to beat about the bush about it. I hope that the authorities in Washington have been misquoted or misunderstood in this particular thing. If they really mean what has been reported they are guilty of a very serious thing, and a thing which should be repugnant to every right-thinking American citizen. I refer to the plan to boycott those business firms which do not sign the National Recovery Agreement. From my reading of newspaper reports I gather that unless every business firm signs the agreement those who do not sign will be made the victims of a boycott, and the names will be asked to sign a pledge not to purchase anything from those non-signing business firms. No investigation is to be made as to whether that unfortunate man can sign the agreement. He is simply to be made an outcast, and all consumers will be urged and ordered to do business with those firms which fly the blue eagle. I hope sincerely that this nation is not coming to that.

The struggle to remain in business during the past three years has been a terrible thing. I know business firms in this town which are just hanging on. They have cut every expense they can, and the proprietors are working like slaves at the task of eking out a bare living. Some of them have men and women working for them and they are meeting their payrolls as best they can. Adding more outlay to that payroll will in all probability prove to be the final straw. Surely the Administration does not mean to do deliberately that which will shove that business firm into bankruptcy. There could be no point in that. In many instances it will add to unemployment instead of helping it. And it is fair to sacrifice that struggling business by using modern propaganda in the form of a boycott on a man who has been doing his best? Who can judge as to what business man is a patriot and which a slacker without knowing the facts? The man on one corner, just hanging on and hoping for the best—should he be sacrificed because he is unable to increase payroll or add new men—or should some common sense method be devised which will prevent such needless sacrifice?

I am not alone in such a viewpoint. Walter Lippman, nationally known news commentator and a man who has steadily supported the Administration in every other project up to this time, discussed this the other day. In part he said:

This plan is good enough for the well-to-do and the powerful. They can and should be brought into it.

But for the weak and helpless it is brutal, and if carried out with martial spirit will inflict upon them wholly unwarrantable humiliations and losses. There is nothing men resent so much as being compelled to do things they cannot do and being punished when they are innocent. All over this country today there are men with little shops who in the face of incredible difficulties have just managed to stay in business. Walk down Main Street in almost any small town and see the empty stores and you will realize how terrible has been the struggle to survive.

It is intolerable to my mind that the Federal Government should now reach out into these little towns and without any investigation of the facts, without any knowledge of each man's circumstances, presume to make public judgments as to whether this man or that is a slacker or a patriot. Where, I should like to know, does it derive the right to do that kind of thing? In what statute is there such a grant of power? In what principle of American government is there the authority for such an inquiry?

I am hoping that our business men in Fulton will find some common sense manner to handle these problems. I believe that some plan can be worked out which will prove satisfactory, and at the same time partially meet the demands of the Administration. I cannot find it in my heart to believe that the Recovery Act contemplates inflicting unbearable hardships on any man. But if they boycott idea is used we cannot avoid those hardships. Let's go slowly here, let's not stampede into something which will damage us.

SOVIET REPUBLIC NOW MAKING AUTOMOBILES

RUSSIA MASTERS SECRET OF LARGE-SCALE PRODUCTION OF AUTOS

Moscow, July, 28.—Communist leaders were pleased today by indications that the Soviet Union is beginning to master the secret of large-scale production of automobiles.

Soviet-made automobiles, in considerable numbers, are now appearing on the streets of Moscow and the production show a sharp improvement as compared to the great difficulties encountered in the automobile factories in the past.

MRS. W. A. TERRY DIES IN MEMPHIS HOSPITAL

DEATH OF BELOVED WOMAN FOLLOWS LONG ILLNESS

Mrs. W. A. Terry of this city, who has been critically ill in the Baptist Hospital in Memphis for ten days, following a serious operation, died at 11 o'clock Sunday. The remains arrived in the city last night and the funeral was held from the home at 3:30 this afternoon, conducted by Rev. G. C. Fain, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Fulton, and burial followed at Fairview cemetery here, in charge of the Hornbeak Funeral Company. Mrs. Terry was born in Fulton 61 years ago. She was married to W. A. Terry in October, 1893. To this union were born four children, all of whom survive their mother. They are: Norman Terry, Mrs. Mollie Terry-Smith, and Miss Katherine Thompson of Memphis. One brother, Maek Baucomb, of Lexington, Ky., survives, besides her husband. In early youth Mrs. Terry joined the Methodist Church and has since been a very devout and consistent follower of her Master. The Leader extends sympathy to the bereaved family.

UNKNOWN WHITE MAN IS FOUND DEAD HERE

An unknown white man, evidently a wanderer or tramp, was found dead early this morning near the water tank in the New Yards of the Illinois Central Railroad here. Officers were notified and the body was brought to the Winstead-Jones funeral home to be held for identification.

Two scraps of paper found in the pockets of his clothing carried the address of a woman in Memphis. Using the telephone and aided by a Memphis radio station, this woman was located a few hours after the man was found here. She said that the name of the dead man was Henry Mann and that he lived somewhere in East St. Louis Ill.

No relatives or friends in the Illinois city have as yet been located. The body, after being embalmed, will be held for a few days to give relatives, if any, a chance to claim it. He appeared about 40 years old, and about six feet tall, weighing more than 200 pounds, and very poorly dressed. No money was found on his person.

If no relatives claim his body, he will be buried in the pauper's field here.

JOHN O'DONNELL FREED BY CAPTORS AS RANSOM IS PAID

YOUTH SUFFERING FROM SHOCK, BUT UNINJURED

ALBANY, N. Y., July 30. (AP).—John J. O'Donnell, Jr., 24-year-old son of the politically powerful O'Donnell family of Albany, was released to an intermediary today by kidnapers upon payment of a $40,000 ransom.

Young O'Donnell, who was kidnaped July 7, was uninjured but suffered from shock and nervous exhaustion.

An automobile carrying only young O'Donnell and Louis Snyder, attorney, representing Mamm Stewell, intermediary who effected the youth's release, climbed the steep mountain road to the O'Donnell camp at 4 o'clock this morning and delivered him to his father, John J. (Solly) and his uncle, Don Ed, another uncle the county Democratic chairman, arrived at the camp later.

After holding him more than three weeks in an attempt to collect $250,000, the kidnapers apparently became alarmed, possibly by the death sentence imposed in Missouri to Walter McElroy, who kidnaped Mary McElroy, and hastened to restore the young Albany golfer and National Guard officer.

EXCHANGE MAY ADOPT FIVE-DAY WORK WEEK

MEMBERS WEIGH BLANKET CODE; TRADING SUSPENDED ON SATURDAYS

New York, July, 28.—(AP).—A permanent five-day week for the New York Stock Exchange is a likely result of the code which brokerage houses here are outlining following upon receipt of President Roosevelt's letter requesting a blanket working agreement for the Nation's industrial activities.

Practically all Stock Exchange members received the President's blanket code today. Partners of the leading houses immediately went into informal conference and the week-end will be largely devoted to an exhaustive discussion of the problem from all angles.

It was pointed out that a code for the brokerage business must necessarily embrace a considerable degree of flexibility because a day of abnormal heavy trading cannot be ignored in advance. Thus far, leading members of the Stock Exchange have not been able to agree on any limitation with respect to working hours and salaries for employees.

The governing committee on the Stock Exchange announced today that trading would be suspended on all Saturdays during August as well as the first Saturday in September. While no suggestion was made that this was in the nature of a code trial, several prominent brokers interpreted it in that light.

ENGLISH WIN DAVIS CUP FROM FRENCH

AUTEUIL, France, July 30. (AP).—Great Britain captured the historic Davis Cup for the first time since 1912 today, ending France's six-year international tennis reign with a three-two victory in the challenge round.

Frederick J. Perry, the galloping steed of the British squad, rounded off a great victory in the final and deciding match beating caddy Andre Merlon, French youngster, 4-6 8-6 6-2 and 7-5 after Henri Cochet had defeated Bunny Austin in a stubborn five-set duel to square the series at two-all.

COMMENT

HOPEFUL MR. HULL

As the unfortunate World Economic Conference draws to a close the chief question is when it is to meet again. Secretary Hull's idea is that a definite date not later than the first week of November should be fixed for its reassembling. He has also advanced a new plan in conference procedure—the fixing of a date for its termination. If the delegates know that their business will have to be wound up within four or six weeks, it is argued, they will try to expedite it, instead of opening up endless new topics for discussion.

The numerous disarmament conferences have been providing an almost continuous performance during the last few years without setting very far. The London Economic Conference had been heralded as the most significant international gathering ever held, one with the fate of some three score nations in its hands. It is closing with a record of achievements, with a threatened aftermath of jealousies and recriminations, and a sense of utter futility which may mean a long period of dispute for all international conferences. It has administered a hard blow to the professional internationalists and the type of patriot who "loves every country but his own." It has not advanced the cause of amity among the nations or even of a self-interested form of cooperation. But Mr. Hull, ever hopeful, believes it should respond to an encore, and that as early as possible. He will not be happy until he sees an agreement on world tariffs. The conference may be frustrated by a sudden American refusal to discuss stabilization. It had previously rebuffed Mr. MacDonald when he tried to drag in the war debts. Those were called exhibitions of America's "nationalistic spirit." The fact is that President Roosevelt's recovery measures simply did not "jibe" with the conference program. By next winter it will be known to what extent these measures have worked. The conference method of solving world problems is still on trial. Perhaps it deserves another chance, but too great faith should not be reposed in its efficacy, particularly after this experience at London.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

POST DOESN'T HAVE TO APPLGIZE

We must confess to no little surprise over the rather meek and seemingly contrite apology that Wiley Post, solo round-the-world flier, made to the aeronautical or aviation societies for the fact that he is going to gather from theatrical engagements some financial reward to him for his marvelous and unprecedented flying feat. We had never thought that there was any affectation of pure amateurism in one man picking up an airplane with practically no rest or sleep and flying it alone around the globe. Nor can we now conceive where or how the idea of amateurism fits into such an achievement.

When college football players are sharing with their colleges some of the financial returns from their ability; when champion golf and tennis players are claiming some of the money that amateur associations have been deriving from their skill, and when others of great ability are getting away from the idea that amateurism means deprivation of any substantial compensation, a solo around-the-world flier surely does not have to apologize to any flying group for accepting financial compensation. Neither will Wiley Post have to apologize to any theatrical producers or audiences, since both have to paid as entertainers, ladies whose only claim to renown is that they were involved in some sensational divorce suit, or else had killed some man.

Surely is Wiley Post, after his historic flight, not beholden to any impresario of the theater or to any audience of any class. Whatever he may say about his flight is more than worth the price of admission and the time of hearing. And Post himself is surely worth all that he will receive. Will Rogers in his crisp and acid but always common sense way summed up the feeling concerning Post's right to capitalize the ability and prowess he has shown. Will said:

Say, after what that little guy went through, nobody would criticize him even if he turned banker, or took a seat on the stock exchange.—Commercial Appeal.

Number 3 in a campaign of TRUTH as 300,000 Plymouth owners KNOW it!

"Floating Power

FORCED other manufacturers to rubber mountings . . . then to non-rigid engine suspension"

FLOATING POWER was a storm center. It was so different, people couldn't believe in it. Engineers attacked it. They couldn't adopt Floating Power engine mountings because they are PATENTED.

Plymouth was the first low price car to mount the engine on rubber. The others followed, forced by public clamor for engine smoothness like Plymouth's. But rubber mountings were not enough!

Plymouth's smoothness is the product of Floating Power engine mountings, which embody a NEW PRINCIPLE in engineering. Now, other low price cars mount their engines with a certain amount of freedom to rock. But it isn't Floating Power!

For, the Plymouth engine is suspended IN BALANCE—is mounted at but two points, one high in front and the other low at the rear. The engine rocks slightly on these mountings, so that it dissipates its own power shock. The result is the smooth, vibrationless ride which startled the world and launched an important new trend!

No other low price car equals the riding qualities of the Plymouth. Let us demonstrate it to you!

HOW ONE FAMILY

"LIVED AT HOME"

Records kept by Mrs. W. T. Henderson of Christian County, show that only $24.78 was spent for food between June 1, 1932, and June 1, this year, while the family produced and consumed $516.74 worth of food on the farm.

Besides the products consumed and produced from cows, chickens, garden, orchard and field, a surplus of food products was sold for $82.31. Subtracting the $24.78 spent for food from the $82.31 received for food leaves a balance of $37.53, which means that the Henderson family more than "lived at home" by that much.

In explaining why the family did so well producing its own food supply on the farm, Mrs. Henderson said to Mrs. Frances Wiese Fleming, Christian County home demonstration agent.

"We also had a larger variety to eat the year round than we ever had before, because I canned the following kinds of products: string beans, lima beans, corn soup mixtures, black eyed peas, pimientos, tomatoes, carrots, kraut, beets, turnip greens, mustard, apples, berries, peaches, pears, cherries, peas and sweet potatoes, chicken, liver, tenderloin and sausage. A total of 24 different things were canned, besides the food stored."

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE GETS READY TO HANDLE WHEAT REDUCTION PLAN

Dean Thomas P. Cooper has announced that the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, has completed plans to handle the government's wheat reduction program for Kentucky. The work will be done by the staffs of the extension division of the college and the Experiment Station, through the assistance of county farm agents and local committees.

Farmers who sign agreements to reduce their wheat acreages for the next two years will receive benefit payments for a portion of this year's crop, already grown, and in many instances sold, as well as a part of the 1934 crop and the 1935 crop. Present plans indicate that two-thirds of the payments for this year's crop will be made this fall and the rest next spring.

As soon as acreage allotments for the various counties are received, local committees will be named to cooperate with county agents in placing the provisions of the wheat control plan before farmers.

Before wheat sowing time, farmers will be given an opportunity to sign agreements with the government to reduce their acreage for the next two years. This reduction will be not more than 20 per cent of the average of wheat grown in the last three years.

The plan amounts to crop insurance, in that benefit payments will be made even though the wheat crop is a failure. Also farmers are guaranteed a parity price for wheat for the next two years. Land taken from wheat production may be used for some other crop.

Farmers desiring to take advantage of the government's benefit payment plan must sign agreements this year.

LESS IODINE IN EASTERN COUNTIES

A survey of the state, made by the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky, indicates that there may be a deficiency of iodine in the foods and waters of some parts of eastern Kentucky to such an extent as to cause goiter.

The eastern coal field area was found to have less iodine than any other section. The most was found in the southwestern part of the state, with the central part next, and the Purchase third.

The research chemistry department of the Experiment Station made one of the most complete studies of the iodine content of the soil ever made. It is said, A total of 439 samples of soil from the six geological areas of Kentucky were analyzed.

The report, written by Dr. J. S. McFargue, head of research chemistry, and D. W. Young, an associate chemist, says:

"The largest quantities of iodine were found to be associated with soils derived from limestone strata. The smallest quantity of iodine occurred in the soils derived from sandstone strata. It therefore appears that the foods and natural waters produced in some parts of the eastern coal field may be deficient in iodine to the extent that endemic goiter is more likely to be prevalent in this part of the state than in any other part. The soils of the western coal field area contain nearly twice as much iodine as those of the eastern coal fields. The iodine content of the Maury (phosphatic) and the Mercer (non-phosphatic) soil profiles in Fayette county show considerable variation at different depths. There was no correlation between the phosphorus and iodine content in the two profiles. Soils derived from limestone rocks contain considerably more iodine than do the unaltered rock."

STATEMENT FROM GLENN W. LANE

CANDIDATE FOR REPRESENTATIVE FIRST DISTRICT

TO THE VOTERS OF FULTON AND HICKMAN COUNTIES:

For 16 years I never missed a day from work because of illness, and yet it was my misfortune during this campaign to get down in bed with a bad case of malarial fever coupled with the bronchitis, and was sick for about three weeks, and am still very weak, even though I have been out some of late, and due to the fact that I got out too soon and did not take care of myself, the bronchitis has not cleared up and it is with difficulty that I talk very much in private conversation. I cannot attempt to make any public speeches, and my physician, Dr. C. Morrison, has warned me against it for the present, as I am having to take daily treatments at his office.

Previous to my sickness I have been mixing and mingling with the voters, and discussing with them my views as to certain legislation and also their views and sentiments, so as to more properly represent them in the Legislature in the event of my election.

I want in this manner to state my views on some special things of interest, although there are many other things that may arise when the General Assembly convenes.

I believe that the license fees on automobiles and trucks should be reduced, as it is a burden on owners to pay same during these hard times, and a great number have never bought licenses for their cars and trucks, but if all were in operation and being licensed at a cheaper rate, more money would probably be realized for the road fund in the long run, as the operation of these idle cars would bring in lots of gasoline tax.

I am in favor of at least one-half of the license fees or some of the gasoline tax being allotted equally to the counties to take care of the road bonds and interest or to help construct and maintain our county roads other than the present state highways. This will in turn increase the county income and will decrease the amount you pay in taxes.

I shall vote against the proposed SALES TAX and have so stated through the columns of all four newspapers in the two counties, and there are merchants who received letters from me stating my stand on this question before my opponent ever announced, and they have the letters and will also make affidavit to this effect. I will never vote for the SALES TAX regardless of what my opponent and his supporters may say. I gave my pledged word before and since I had opposition, and if the Lord lets me live and I am elected I will carry out my pledged word.

We must in the future, as we have in the past, give to each and every child throughout the state, equal opportunities and advantages in gaining an education. The basis of our great public school system is to be found in the rural districts, and it shall be my intent to work steadfastly, for first and above all, a continued development of the rural school system; and then, secondly, for the higher institutions of learning. I was reared in the country and lived there until I was 22 years old. I attended the country school and appreciated it, and I am in agreement with my opponent in that I am opposed to the consolidation and elimination of country schools. The majority of people are in favor of electing the County School Superintendent by the direct vote of the people, and I shall so vote. My opponent and I do not differ on that question.

There are certain changes that should be made in our fish and game laws, and these things shall have my earnest support.

My wide acquaintance in both counties will enable me to better represent the sentiment of the district and I am stating emphatically THAT I WILL REPRESENT THE SENTIMENT OF THE TWO COUNTIES if elected. I favor economy and will vote to consolidate any state departments that might be performing kindred functions and will vote to abolish all useless bureaus.

I also believe that we are compelled under the present system to hold too many elections, which entail a great expense on the people. There are elections held each year, and it seems to me that this should be arranged so that we would not have to hold an election each year.

If you elect me to the office of Representative, I will represent you faithfully and conscientiously and when my term of service has expired I will return to you with a record clear and open and no one shall have occasion to say that I have been weighed in the balance and found wanting.

I trust that I may have your vote and support.

Sincerely,

GLENN W. LANE.

does not definitely appear in the field, spraying will not be amiss because it is a control for the various rots that attack celery after it has been trenched. The spray is Bordeaux 4-4-50 to which arsenate of lead should be added if the Zebra caterpillar is present.

BEANS—Unless frost comes abnormally early, the probability of maturing a crop of beans planted now is good. Early sorts such as Stringless Greenpod or Red Valentine should be used.

POTATOES—Lest an extremely wet August comes again this year, wise gardeners will insure their potatoes against rotting by plowing out a furrow between the rows, throwing a ridge over the potatoes. The furrow will furnish drainage and the cover of soil, protection against heat from the sun.

Sweet Potatoes—Nothing is gained by clipping back vines that have grown too vigorously. In fact, this practice is definitely harmful. The mistake was made in setting the potatoes in ground too rich in nitrogen. If it can conveniently be done, there is advantage in prizing loose the roots that have formed at the nodes of the vines, thus concentrating all tuber development in the mother hill.

Late Cabbage—Unless manuring or fertilizing was done before the cabbage was set in ground, that has already produced some early crop, sidedressings of nitrate or of chicken manure will pay. The late cabbage growing season is usually dry. This makes it imperative to give the crop every advantage. The green cabbage worm continues its breeding without abatement, making it a dangerous pest, coupled with slow-growing conditions. Dusting is the best method, using a mixture of calcium arsenate or lead arsenate and lime, in the proportion of 1 to 6.

Colorful, different in its background and import from the usual run of romances, Storm at Daybreak hit the Orpheum Theatre with all the effect of a cool and refreshing breeze. We have had such a surfeit of American drawing room tales, that this story laid in the back country of Hungary during the World War, comes as a pleasant and invigorating surprise.

The love story is a particularly fascinating one, depicting the struggle of a woman between loyalty to her husband, old enough to be her father, and love for a dashing young cavalry officer. All the ingredients of powerful powerful drama are here: intrigue, jealousy, intense love and bitter hate. The colorful foreign settings, the rapid-fire action, and the thrilling climax in which a man drives himself to death over an embankment, all contribute to make this a picture which forces the spectators to sit up and take notice.
