LON ADAMS WINS IN RACE FOR JUDGE OF POLICE COURT

VOTES IN CITY ELECTION COUN-TED YESTERDAY

Lon Adams, Fulton attorney, emerged victorious in a three-cornered race for police judge in the city of Fulton in last Saturday's primary, defeating Walter Boaz and J. A. Colley. The votes were counted yesterday afternoon in this race and also for the city council race. The vote in the police judge race was as follows:

Adams 475
Boaz 348
Colley 241

Council is Named

In the race for city council only seven names were on the ballot, all winning with the exception of one. Three new names appear on the ballot. Will McDade, Albert Smith and W. P. Murrell. The others were holdovers from the present council, as follows: T. T. Boaz, L. S. Phillips, T. H. Irby, Clint Reeds. The vote was as follows:

T. T. Boaz 852
Albert Smith 843
W. P. Murrell 811
L. S. Phillips 781
T. H. Irby 721
Clint Reeds 692
Will McDade 674

Both of the new men named have served on previous city councils and are thoroughly familiar with the work to be done. Paul DeMeyer, present mayor, had no opposition, and therefore was not voted on in the primary.

NEW NEWSPAPER BEING PLANNED AT CLINTON

A. E. Stein former publisher of the Hickman County Gazette at Clinton, is planning the publication of a new paper in that town. Mr. Stein and his son were in the Leader office today, and stated that they had come back to Clinton to make their home, after spending the past year in Illinois, and they are desirous of getting into the newspaper business again. Publishers of Western Kentucky will welcome them back into the fold, as it is well known that when a man once gets the smell of ink into his nostrils, he is never satisfied in any other business.

Harpole, local salesman for Swift & Company, announced that his company has signed a Labor Code under the National Recovery Act, and he believes that under the terms of the Code worked out with the Government the meat packing industry will be able to cooperate fully with the N. R. A. Recovery Program and that Swift & Company is proud of the fact that they can display the Blue Eagle.

Local consumers and dealers, when they purchase Swift & Company products, are obtaining products manufactured and processed in accordance with the N. R. A. Recovery Program."

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENT

THE LISTENING POST

BOB TAYLOR, who always takes up things in a big way, has gone in for golf during the past few weeks. As yet Bob has not kindled any fires on the local course, but he is setting a record in one way. He claims that he can play more holes uniformly bad than anybody and he is proceeding to defend his record against any and all comers. At the end of nine holes he paused long enough to check his total, get a drink of water, and then is ready to start off Number One again. Several afternoons he has played as many as three rounds, and with an earlier start, he is hoping to get in as many as four and possibly five rounds. He plays with his brother, Lynn, quite a lot and it is believed that has determined to play Lynn so much that he will finally wear him down and thus beat him. Yesterday the brothers were going around and around and finally this writer joined them at the beginning of a round. This was the third round for them, and the second for the writer. At the end of the first three Lynn suggested that we cut off about three holes, but Bob argued that we play straight along and if darkness overtook us we could omit the last two holes. So away we went into the gathering darkness, and Bob was showing improved form on these holes. He put his tee shot on Number Five, and in general began to play improved golf. The rest of us were tired, and when we reached Number Seven Bob was the only one who wanted to go on. But we outvoted him, and so the match was stopped. This writer will say in passing that Bob is the best long distance, continuous golfer now playing the local course, and the best naturer when bad shots come to vex his soul.

THE LISTENING POST cannot promise or announce that a new bridge is to be built at the lower end of Lake street—but it can be said that prospects were never more favorable. During the past few weeks engineers from the state highway department have been surveying the site and making soundings for the proposed bridge. They profess to believe that the bridge is to be built, but as to when and how they did not state. According to one person who saw the tentative plans, the new bridge will go straight across from Lake Street to the highway on State Line, and will be forty feet in width. It will have a U-shaped turn at the end leading into Carr street, and the same arrangement on the other side to let traffic flow naturally in either direction. It is believed that the new bridge is embraced in the plans of the highway department when new funds begin to flow in from the big federal allowance. The bridge is badly needed, and when and if built, will be a great convenience to the traveling public.

AS ONLY the good die young and cats have nine lives, the Listening Post got well, and is today on the job of "listening" again after a short illness.

MESDAMES L. O. Bradford, I. W. Dobbin, of Louisville, and Mrs. W. S. McClov, of Bardwell, attended a beautifully planned luncheon given by Mrs. Voris Gregory at her home in Mayfield Monday.

SOME PEOPLE believe the NRA worse than the depression, others believe it to be the means of pulling us out of the depression. But anyway, most of the business houses have signed up and are trying out this untried method of bringing the industrial world back into its own. The plan, about 8 days old now, has been adopted by local merchants as being about the only thing to do, as business conditions could not become much worse, and this may make them improve.

MR. B. A. MICHAEL, local salesman for the St. Louis Independent Packing Company, announces that

RAILROADS SHOW STEADY GROWTH IN EMPLOYMENT

EASTMAN ORDER POSTPON-
MENT OF ECONOMY AT EX-PENSE OF LABOR

Washington, Aug. 9.—(AP).—The railroads were told today by Joseph B. Eastman, Federal Transportation Coordinator, to postpone all "projects for economy at the expense of labor."

Eastman said that reports to him from all of the Class 1 railroads of the Nation except one showed a net gain in employment on the carriers of 65,268 since June 1.

The co-ordinator's words to the railroads assumed the form of a notice that they must work out their general economy programs through the three regional committees, created by law and not through independent groups of their own.

Should Not Endanger Recovery

In a statement addressed to the three co-ordinating committees of the East, West and South Eastman said maintenance by the railroads of separate committees to do the same work had the " earmarks of a device to avoid" the labor restriction provisions of the law.

Similar contentions were made last week by railroad labor executives meeting in Cleveland.

His company has signed a labor code under the National Recovery Act. He believes that under the terms of the code worked out with the Government, the meat packing industry will be able to co-operate fully with the NRA Recovery Program. He states that the St. Louis Independent Packing Company are proud of the fact that they can display the blue emblem.

THE KENTUCKY Utilities team are up against a tough proposition tonight when they tackle the Swift and the O. K. teams in an evening. This is the first attempt of a single team to play two games in the same night since the opening of the league, and the reason is that the K. U.'s swapped games with the D. X. team last week so that they could play in Paducah.

The K. U. team's double-header will give them four games in three nights, having defeated the Iceles Tuesday night and the league-leading Daltons last night. If they win the two games tonight it will put them in first place in the league.

THE SMOKEHOUSE has lots of business these days, whether or not it is profitable business, the Listening Post does not know, but rather suspects it is not, but anyway, crowds of men sit around and smoke and watch the big blackboard from hour to hour as election returns come in. They make drink a bottle of beer or buy a package of cigarettes from time to time, but at least, Mr. Nugent, is having a nice volume of customers.

BETTER hang out a red lantern for Justin Attebery and Clardy Holland to let them know that the county ends somewhere down below Hickman—else they might go on picking up votes in Missouri and other states. Attebery took 795 votes in Fulton and Riceville; 157 in Crutchfield, 104 in Palestine, got 366 (all of 'em, perhaps) in Cayce; and 78 in Jordan, Holland, not doing so well in Fulton, got 115 in Crutchfield, 252 in Cayce and 105 in State Line, and then took 744 in four out of seven precincts in Hickman. Yes, we'd better let these two candidates know that the county ends down there somewhere.

THE ONCE famous Old Moose Hall will come back into the limelight again Friday night when Lee Cannon and his ten Cannon Balls direct from College Inn will play for a dance, hours 10 to 2.

NAMES COMMITTEE TO ORGANIZE WHEAT PLAN

County Agent O. R. Wheeler announces the appointment of a committee to help organize the wheat reduction campaign in Fulton county. The men who have volunteered their service for this work are:

Ernest Hancock, Fulton; William Beard, Fulton; Poyner DeMyer, Fulton; Ed Thompson, Fulton R. No. 1; A. M. Browder, Fulton R. No. 1; C. L. Drysdale, Fulton R. No. 1; H. M. Hewitt, Fulton R. No. 1; A. G. Campbell, Fulton R. No. 1; Tom Alexander, Cayce; Henry Sanger, Hickman; M. E. Shaw, Hickman R. No. 3; and J. A. Latture, Hickman R. No. 2.

This committee will assist in putting the provisions of the government's wheat reduction plan before all wheat farmers of the county. It also will help district the county into committees for the purpose of administering the plan. These committees may each elect a representative for the board of directors of the county control association, and also a local or community committee of three.

Meetings will be held and other means taken by the committee to see that each wheat grower in the county is fully acquainted with the government's plan of reducing wheat acreages and making benefit payments to all farmers who cut their wheat production. Every wheat grower will be given an opportunity to participate in the plan. To do so he must sign an agreement to reduce production not more than 20 percent of his average acreage for the years 1930, 1931, and 1932. He then will receive a payment on his 1932 crop and benefit payments on his 1934 and 1935 crops.

The wheat reduction campaign, which is a part of a national recovery program of the Federal Government, is being organized by the agricultural extension division of the College of Agriculture through county farm agents and local committees.

STATE OF WAR IN CUBA DECLARED BY PRESIDENT MACHADO

PRESIDENT CALLS OUT ARMY TO TAKE OVER HAVANA FOR SECOND TIME

Havana, Aug. 9.—President Gerardo Machado, central figure in Cuba's volcanic political life, declared a state of war throughout the republic late today while Sumner Wells, United States Ambassador, and leaders of various parties awaited a reply to their demand that the President retire from his office.

The general strike existing in Cuba, the Presidential decree asserted, has given "enemies of the public peace" an opportunity "to create a revolutionary state in the country."

The state of war was declared to come into effect at 6 o'clock tonight and military units, which retired from Havana Monday night after disturbances in which twenty-one persons were killed, were ordered to return to the city to make the decree operative.

The decree was signed under authority granted the President by Congress Monday when it voted the suspension of constitutional guarantees throughout the island for thirty days.

Learning of this sensational development, Ambassador Wells, who has conducted mediation conferences with Government and opposition chiefs here for several weeks, demanded an immediate interview with Orestes Ferrara, Cuban Secretary of State, who returned today after a long absence at the London Economic Conference.

Under the plan of settlement sponsored by the American Ambassador and approved by the heads of various political groups, President Machado would retire from his post by taking a leave of absence and would appoint another Secretary of State in place of his supporter, Senor Ferrara. Upon the withdrawal of Machado and Ferrara, the newly designated Secretary of State, the joint choice of opposing political factions would assume office as Acting President.

THOMPSON-ATTEBERY-HOLLAND WALKER SEEM SURE WINNERS

LANE WINS DISTRICT RACE—HINDMAN PILES UP BIG LEAD FOR JUDGE—FULTON ENTRIES FALL BACK

LANE SWEEPS TO VICTORY IN BOTH COUNTIES

At 1 o'clock today Glenn Lane, candidate for representative from the First District, had a lead of 1685 in the two counties over his opponent, Steve Wiley of Fulton. Lane held a lead in both counties, having passed ahead in Fulton county late yesterday and adding to his total in all precincts counted today. With five precincts yet to be reported in each county, the total vote was as follows:

Lane 4,057
Wiley 2,390

Lane's lead in Fulton county was 461 and in Hickman county 1197. The other ten precincts will probably add to his lead and he states his lead will run well over 2,000 votes in the two counties.

K U BATTERS WAY TO VICTORY OVER DALTONS

Dalton Cleaners went down under the pressure of the powerful K. U. team 8 to 3 and Swift defeated D. X. 15 to 3 last night.

Swift scored in every frame after the first. The fourth inning was their big one when they ran in 7 runs after having scored 1 in the second and 2 in the third. Sullivan knocked 2 home runs and Gippinger one. Douglas came out of his battering slump last night and hit 3 times out of 4 times at bat. Hall allowed the D. X. boys 4 hits and Brownline allowed 10 hits. If the D. X. boys had hit earlier in the game like they did in the 7th inning the score would have been much different. They got 3 hits and scored 2 runs in the 7th.

In the second game K. U. started out like a cyclone and before Dalton cleaners could settle down and quiet the K. U. three innings had gone by and K. U. had scored 8 runs; after the third Holland settled down and allowed 3 hits in the remaining 4 innings. The D. C. boys could not do so well at the bat against Langston, getting only 5 hits and scoring 3 runs. However, Killebrew got 3 hits out of 4 times at bat. Langston allowed 5 hits, struck out 2 and walked 2. Holland allowed 9 hits, struck out 4 and walked 2.

Batteries for D. X. Browning and Lassiter, for Swift, Hall and Valentine, for K. U. Langston and Owen for D. C. Holland and Conner.

Now is a good time to renew your subscription.

With counting of votes being pushed as swiftly as possible at Hickman today, and with only a few precincts to hear from, definite pictures began to appear in the county primary results today. All of the strictly Fulton entries faded in the race as the Hickman vote was counted with the exception of John Thompson, candidate for sheriff. Thompson continued to add to his lead, although Tom Prather crept up on him. Hubbard fell back sharply under the late results. Thompson is considered the winner of the race, with a vote that will run well past 2,000.

Hagler dropped back as the Walker vote began to come in, and the Hickman man took the lead and is considered the most probable next county judge.

Crocie and Roper are fighting a hard battle for jaller, with odds favoring Crocie.

Attebery made a runaway out of the circuit clerk's race, and Holland seems to have done the same with the county clerk's race.

Hamby seems to have won the tax commissioner's race, with Dick Bard as runner up.

Lane ran away from Wiley in the race for representative, and will apparently carry both counties.

Hindman piled up a huge lead over Warren in the county for circuit judge, and district reports indicate that he will win. Graves county's vote might make the race closer.

The vote is as follows:

	Sheriff
Thompson	2,035
Prather	1,449
Hunbard	1,100
	Jailer
Crocie	939
Roper	917
	County Judge
Walker	1,991
Hagler	1,252
McMurray	1,284

NEGRO GETS MONEY ON U. S. CHECK, IS JAILED

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 9.—(AP).—Into Fort Davis, Ala., a few weeks ago came Ed Wright, negro to cash a government check just arrived from Washington.

Money in his jeans he returned home. A few days later a letter from Uncle Sam arrived containing a photostatic copy of the check and a request that the signature be verified.

Back to town went Ed where an obliging merchant cashed the photostatic check.

A federal grand jury here today indicted Ed for presenting a false claim against the government. He's in the jail house now.

COMMENT

A LETTER FROM AN OLD FULTONIAN

Today we have a letter from Henry F. Oliver, a former Fulton citizen, who is now living in Santiago, Dominican Republic. Mr. Oliver writes on a letter head of a motor company handling Ford cars and Goodrich tires in that city and the business is owned and operated by his eldest two sons. Many people in Fulton will enjoy reading his letter.

July 28, 1933.

Moore Brothers:—

A friend of mine, that does not live in Kentucky, sends me every now and then, copies of "The Fulton Daily Leader" and I certainly enjoy getting them, although there are very few names mentioned in it that are familiar to me, as most of the friends that I knew when I lived there have passed on.

I note in the last paper, that my old friend H. F. Taylor had just died, and I read with a great deal of interest, what you said about him, and all you said of him was true and yet the half was not told, for Fulton never had a better citizen, or one that had more friends, or that had the interest of Fulton more at heart.

I left Raymond, Washington, the 9th of Jan. last, and went to New York, took a boat to this place, and arrived here the 21st of the same month. It was my first ocean voyage, yet I never got the least bit sick and enjoyed the sensation of the rocking and rolling of the ship.

Puerto Plata was my port, city of some 1500 on the north side of the Island San Domingo. It has a beautiful bay, and is one of the most picturesque places I ever beheld. It was founded in 1505, and a few years later was ordered destroyed by the King of Spain (for this country was at that time a possession of Spain). The reason of its destruction, here was too much contraband goods coming through that port; but it was rebuilt in 1750 and now is one of the most important ports of the Island.

My oldest son, Pierson, met me at the boat, and we drove over to Santiago, a distance of 50 miles, over roads that they called good here, but in the west we would call them all but impassable. The country was unlike any that I had ever seen; while the lay of the land was not unlike a great many other country or states in America, yet the vegetation (which stays green all the year) was different from any in the states. Along the road I saw Bananas, oranges, coconuts, lemons, cacao (that from which we get our chocolate), Litchos (a melon-like the muskmelon that grows with a short stem right out of the body of the tree very high up), the nut palm that grows a nut fine for hogs, the coffee tree and many others that I don't now call to mind.

Along the road we encountered hundreds of burros, loaded with every thing that you would want to the way of fruits and vegetables, coke, wood, green cane, for horse feed in the cities, and the way they have here is on either side of the road, a moving a large basket made by them of some kind of stuff like split baskets are made of. They come in this way every day of the year, at the rate of about 1500 a day to the city of Santiago.

They haul gravel and rocks out of the creek beds, with them; a box is placed on either side of the burro, and they are filled with rock or gravel, and taken to the point of delivery on the road, dumped and return for another trip, two men and twenty burros will haul in one day a distance from one to two miles about 20 yards.

Burros can be bought from 25 cents to $2.50. They never feed them any thing only the wild grass that grows every where, and at night they turn them out on this wild grass.

The towns and cities were strange looking to me; the streets are all narrow, and in the heart of the city, all houses and stores are built right out to the side walks, and the windows and doors have two big shutters each, and run from the top to the bottom, that is the doors; but the windows come a little below half way. These shutters open right out on the streets, or walks, and they take up about half the walks as they are not more than 4 feet wide at the most.

Dwelling houses are interspersed all through the business part of the city, and most of them two stories high, with ceilings that run from 10 to 18 feet, and these doors within a foot of the ceiling, as also the windows.

The houses are painted all the colors of the rainbow, and then some, and all of them are covered with varnished iron, a shingle either wood or patent, here.

When the houses and stores are all closed the town has the appearance of some back street in a city, or a row of factories and warehouses.

When you get out of the business center you will find some homes that have a better appearance, some have small yards in front and set back a little from the street.

But in all these houses, no matter how the front may appear, when you enter it you find it very different. You will see nearly in all of them beautiful mahogany furniture and nicely fixed up, and would do credit to a wealthy home in the states, and as you pass through the house, you will see a beautiful flower garden in the back yard. It seems that they do not care what the front appearance is, so the inside and back are pretty.

The suburban homes are as lovely as any in the states, and are all well kept, I wish that I could describe them to you, but it would be impossible to do so—they would have to be seen to be appreciated.

Santiago is a city of 25,000 people. It is located in a valley (though on high ground) and is surrounded by immense hills, they call mountains, they stay green all the year and vegetation grows to the top of them. This city was founded in the year 1500, and was first built about 5 miles from the present site.

It was destroyed by an earthquake in the year 1564, and was then rebuilt on the present site, which is a much prettier and a better location, being on all small water course and a very lovely site for a city.

Last Sunday, my two oldest boys and their wives, with myself drove out to the site of the old town, and it is located in the middle of a woodland portion of a farm. We had to walk about one half mile to get to it, and all that is left now of the ruins, is an old church ruins, the front part of the building and the side walls; they are built of brick, much thinner than the brick of today, and yet larger the other way; there is an old fashioned hinge that the door hung on that looks as though it had not been there more than a year; it was not rusty, only blackened. It sure makes one stop and think, to think I was looking at a building that was destroyed 369 years ago. It was unbelievable, yet the next thing we saw was still more unbelievable; it was a spring house that had been built for the purpose (it looked like) of a swimming pool and the water was piped from some place unknown (so the old citizens say) with an iron pipe 3-4 in. and water they claim had been running ever since the quake as it was to day, and the pipe was in a fine state of preservation, and looked like it might last that much longer. The strange part of it is that no one has ever taken enough interest in it to find where this water comes from.

You might show this letter to some of my friends there, and if any of them want to know more about this country, I would take a delight in telling them all I know and I could tell them some interesting things about the habits and customs of the people, of the way it is ruled, and the traffic laws; of the churches and the schools; the price of food and food stuff, of the traffic laws govern the roads and the cities.

How that a man is never seen on the streets without his coat, of how they all take a shower bath daily and put on clean clothes from skin out. And what would be interesting to any one in the states is the labor question and living conditions.

Now a little about myself and family, I don't know whether you remember my boys, I have three and they are all married and live here on this land. My two oldest are the owners of this business at the head of the letter. The oldest (Pierson) has a Dominican wife and three boys, the next one, Wallace, has also a Dominican wife and no children by her. The other and youngest lives on the other side of the island from us and has a wife (American) and one baby boy 2 years old. They are all doing well and getting on fine.

The climate here is as fine as one can wish to nights are cool but the days are hot; yet it don't get as hot as does in Ky., but it is warm here a year round and a fire is never needed. If it was needed it would be bad, bad, as there is not a fire place or a chimney in the whole island.

I have felt better here than at any time in the last ten years, and I consider it a healthy place, and if I could understand the language I would like it much better. But I think I will go back to the good old U. S. A. about next spring, and I hope to be able to come by the way of Fulton. If I drive through from New York I surely will.

I would love to see what few friends that are still in the city living, and if you happen to come across any tell them hello.

I would love to have a line from you, telling me of the condition of things in Fulton.

With kindest regards to all,
I am very truly yours,
H. F. OLIVER.

Does a lifetime of looking after sick people, saving most of them and helplessly watching others die despite all their skill, destroy or harden the innate love for children and their loved ones in doctors? In other words, what is the true feeling of a doctor parent when he loses his own child?

Physicians, it is true, have learned to mask their feelings in such cases. We sort of expect it in male doctors. However, how about a woman physician? Does long medical practice entirely submerge the mother instinct that is a woman's natural heritage, when death takes a woman physician's child? There are some who may say yes, but "Mary Stevens, M.D." a Warner Bros. picture which comes to the Orpheum theatre today, with Kay Francis playing the title role presents a pretty strong case for the other side.

UNTIL WE LEARNED BETTER

Until we learned better, we used to mix wood and steel in our car bodies and wheels.

It was the best way to make bodies—then. But the state of the art has advanced.

Of course, it is more expensive to make an all-steel body than to make a wooden frame and nail steel panels on to it. The better way involves an initial expenditure of several millions of dollars for new dies, which renders a change very costly. Cars, especially large expensive cars which are produced in small volume, cannot afford this, because the dies cost as much for one car as for a million. That alone explains why all-steel bodies are not used in all cars.

But our basic policy from the beginning is to make a good car better, regardless of cost.

For example, when we discarded wood-steel body construction, it was not because we lacked wood. We still have some thousands of acres of the best hard wood in America. Economy would urge us to use up the wood first, and then adopt the better all-steel body. But we decided that quality was more important than expense.

We weighed the reasons, for and against, before we made the change. We could see only one reason for retaining a mixed wood-and-steel body—nailing the metal on, instead of welding an all-steel body into a strong one-piece whole. That reason was, it would be cheaper—for us.

Our reasons for adopting an all-steel body were these: A wood-steel body is not much stronger structurally than its wooden frame. In all American climates, wood construction weakens with age. Every used car lot gives evidence of this. Rain seeps in between joints and the wood decays. A car may have a metal surface, and yet not be of steel construction. Under extreme shock or stress the steel body remains intact—dented perhaps, but not crushed.

Steel does not need wood for strength or protection. Wood is fine for furniture, but not for the high speed vehicles of 1933.

In the Ford body there are no joints to squeak, no seams to crack or leak.

The all-steel body is more expensive—to us, but not to you.

By all odds, then, steel bodies seem preferable. Wheels also have become all-steel. No one argues that an electrically welded one-piece steel wheel, such as the Ford wheel, needs to be "strengthened" by adding wood to it.

The one-piece all-steel body is the strongest, safest, quietest, most durable body made. That is our only reason for making them.

Number 3 in a campaign of TRUTH as 300,000 Plymouth owners KNOW it!

"Floating Power

FORCED other manufacturers to rubber mountings... then to non-rigid engine suspension"

FLOATING POWER was a storm center. It was so different, people couldn't believe in it. Engineers attacked it. They couldn't adopt Floating Power engine mountings because they are PATENTED.

Plymouth was the first low price car to mount the engine on rubber. The others followed, forced by public clamor for engine smoothness like Plymouth's. But rubber mountings were not enough!

Plymouth's smoothness is the product of Floating Power engine mountings, which embody a NEW PRINCIPLE in engineering. Now, other low price cars mount their engines with a certain amount of freedom to rock. But it isn't Floating Power!

For, the Plymouth engine is suspended IN BALANCE—is mounted at but two points, one high in front and the other low at the rear. The engine rocks slightly on these mountings, so that it dissipates its own power shock. The result is the smooth, vibrationless ride which startled the world and launched an important new trend!

No other low price car equals the riding qualities of the Plymouth. Let us demonstrate it to you!

Above will be found a picture of the front portion, containing the business office, of the Pierce-Cequin & Co. lumber and building materials plant. This industry, located on McDowell street in South Fulton, has long been one of the most progressive firms in the city.
