TRADE IN FULTON

Merchants Have A Big Feast of Bargains For You.

HAVE YOU MADE UP YOUR GIFT LIST?

Christmas is just four weeks away. And experience teaches that the weeks immediately before Christmas are seemingly the shortest weeks of the whole year. Therefore, it behooves all who expect to give Christmas gifts—and that includes practically everyone—to make up their Christmas list immediately and begin making the desired purchases.

Christmas buying can be done with much greater ease and satisfaction by making selections early. Merchants are already displaying their holiday goods and will welcome those who buy before the rush begins.

If possible, make an early visit to the stores whose advertisements appear in this newspaper and let the many gift suggestions be your guide.

The merchants of Fulton have made elaborate preparations for the Christmas trade, and they are anxious to supply your holiday wants in every way possible.

METHODIST CHURCH

Sunday was the first Sunday in the new conference year and a large audience was present and heard an unusually good sermon by our pastor, Rev. Freeman. The church, as a whole, welcomed him and his wife back and proved by their presence they were glad. The Sunday night service was also especially good. The choir gave all a special treat with good music at both services.

The Warner Blackards met Monday at the home of Mrs. Ed Heywood, with Mrs. Jolly and Heywood as hostesses. Mrs. Scruggs as president, presided over a short business session, after which she turned the program over to Mrs. Louis Weeks as leader for the afternoon.

Mrs. Chas. Payne had charge of the devotions. Mrs. R. A. Brady and Mrs. Weeks gave interesting leaflets. Mrs. Joe Davis gave the bulletin, after the program the hostesses served delicious refreshments to a good attendance of members and several visitors.

The Missionary Girls will meet Monday afternoon at 4 p. m., place of meeting to be announced later.

The Warner Blackards are giving a tea Thanksgiving afternoon and evening from 4 to 9, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bennett. Every one is invited to come and enjoy the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Bennett. The society as a whole extend an invitation to all. This is given for the benefit of the new church fund. Mrs. Lloyd C. Emery of Paducah and other musicians will render a program of music throughout the entire time.

Miss Camelia Latta has returned home after a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Bennett.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Bennett, Paul and Anna Bell visited relatives in the city Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Felix Bright are spending a few days this week with relatives in Nashville.

Mrs. Roy Brady and daughter, Martha, will spend this week end with relatives in Clinton.

Miss Mayme Bennett is spending the Thanksgiving holidays in Nashville visiting Misses Sara Cotron and Martha Smith.

Good Tobacco Market in Fulton

Loose Leaf Floor Will Open About December 10

Tobacco growers of the Fulton district are now assured of a market for their crop without having to make a long haul to dispose of it.

Realizing that unless something was done, and done quickly, the farmers of this vicinity would be obliged to carry their crop to Union City or Mayfield in order to dispose of it, three public spirited men, Enoch Browder, Ed Williamson and "Johnnie" Stuart, have organized a company to carry on a loose leaf floor in Fulton and have secured the large barn built last year by the Cooperative Association, which will be opened about the tenth or twelfth of December, prepared to handle all tobacco offered.

Arrangements have been completed to have the association tobacco now stored in the barn removed at once, and every effort will be made to open on the above date, so as to make it possible for the farmers to sell their crops as soon as possible.

Prices here will be the same as paid at either Hopkinsville or Mayfield, and assurances have been made by buyers at both these points to have buyers on hand at least twice each week during the season, so that the crop may be moved rapidly and thereby avoid any congestion on the floor.

The men behind this movement are a guarantee to the farmers that they will be dealt with in an honest manner, and that the best prices compatible with the market will be paid.

With the facilities of the new barn, consisting of its large floor and the big hydraulic press, will make it possible to move larger quantities of tobacco than was possible before this barn was built, and the tobacco raising public may be assured that no time will be lost in taking care of the incoming crop.

Emphasis should be put on the fact that the prices to be paid here will be the same, grade for grade, as will be paid at the two above named big markets, and that there will be an ample number of outside buyers on hand each week to buy up the supply delivered here.

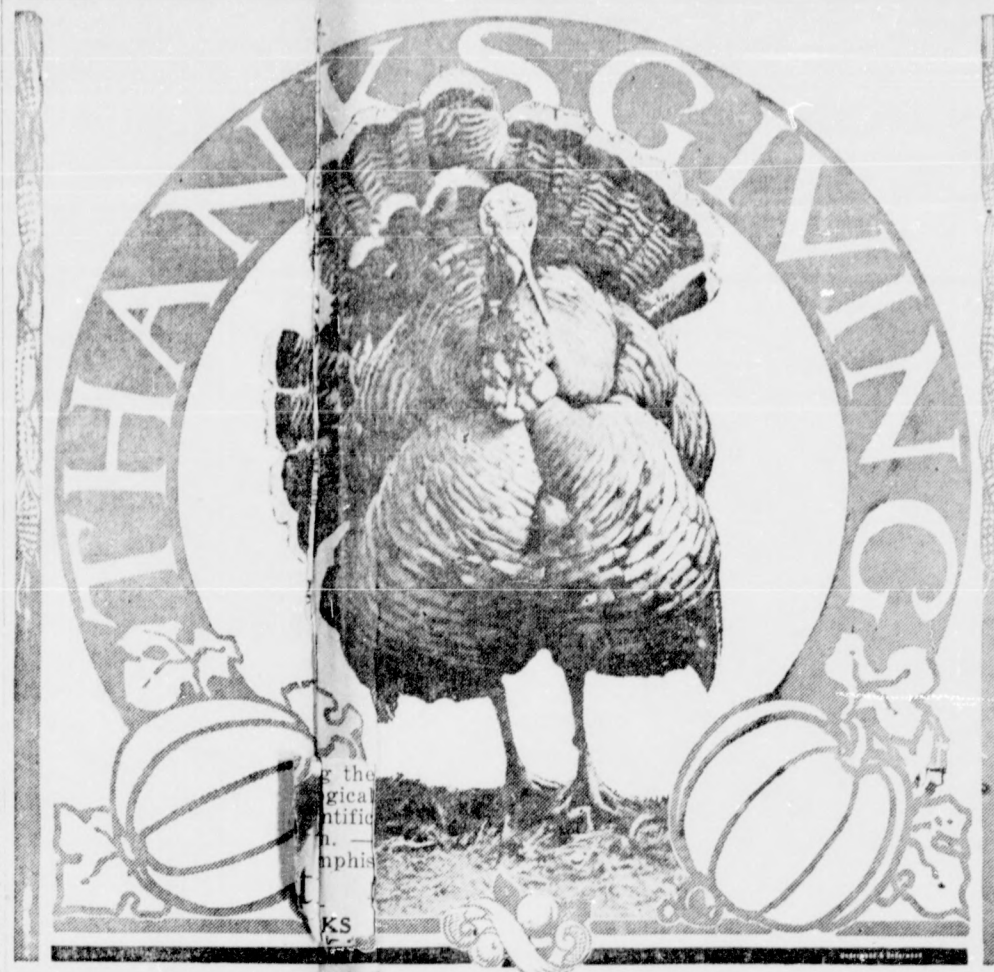

Tobacco growers are advised to watch the papers for the advertisements which will be published later and be prepared to deliver promptly, so as to assist in the rapid handling of the deliveries and avoid any congestion in its movement.

COMMUNITY SERVICE DEPT.

An interesting lesson on the American Government was had Friday afternoon by the Community Service department of the Woman's Club when it met with Mrs. R. A. Brady and Mrs. W. C. Valentine at the home of Mrs. Brady on Park avenue.

Mrs. Eli Bynum was the leader of the afternoon, taking up the first two chapters of the book, American Government.

The hostesses served delicious refreshments at the close of the afternoon.

The department will meet December 18, when Mrs. Jake Huddleston will have charge of the program.

BRIDGE CLUB MEETS

The home of Mrs. Clyde Williams in Fair heights was the scene of an enjoyable bridge party Thursday afternoon when she entertained the members of the Thursday club and a few intimate friends. Three tables were in play. Thanksgiving ideas prevailed in the tallies and other appointments. Trophies for club high score went to Mrs. Herman Cole, and Mrs. Floyd Irby won an embroidered towel as guest prize. Mrs. Mary Carr Johnson cut consolation, dainty hand made handkerchiefs.

The luncheon following the game was delicious, a well established characteristic of hospitalities tendered by this gracious hostess.

Lots of pretty gifts await old Santa Claus at A. Huddleston & Co.

THURSDAY BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. Guy Snow was hostess to her bridge club Thursday afternoon at her attractive home on Third street.

Three tables were in play and five games were enthusiastically played. High score favored Mrs. Jake Huddleston. At the close of the game a lovely luncheon was served.

DANCING PARTY

Miss Virginia Alexander entertained quite a number of her friends Friday evening at the home of her parents on Fourth street. The hours were spent informally at dancing. The young boys orchestra furnished the music.

BRIDGE PARTY

Mrs. Edward Heywood was the charming hostess to the members of her bridge club and several friends at her home on Green street last Thursday afternoon.

The club prize for highest score was won by Mrs. Abe Jolly, a glass fruit knife.

The visitor's high score prize, pretty hand made handkerchiefs, was obtained by Mrs. Don Taylor. Mrs. Martin Nall cut consolation. A tempting luncheon was served at the close of the game.

TRINITY EPISCOPAL CHURCH

104 Washington Street
Dr. A. C. Boyd, Rector

The First Sunday in Advent. 9:45 a. m., Church school. H. S. Stansbury, superintendent. 11:00 a. m., Holy communion and sermon. 7:00 p. m., Evening prayer and address.

Church News

A general Thanksgiving service will be held at 10:00 a. m., to which all are most cordially invited.

Little Viola Long, who has been quite ill at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. Boyd, for the past two weeks or more, has improved sufficiently to be up and about. She is temporarily staying with Mrs. Boyd Alexander, on Walnut street.

Mrs. John Miles, who was ill last week, was again in charge of her class in the church school last Sunday.

Mrs. Chas. Karmire, president of the Woman's Guild has accepted the invitation to attend the silver tea of the Methodist church, Thanksgiving day, and assist the ladies of that church and the presidents of the other women's church organizations of the city in receiving the guests.

Mrs. Chas. Karmire will entertain Miss Virginia Clark of Ward Belmont school, Nashville, Tenn., during this week end.

Miss Marie Lewis went to Lexington this week to visit her sister, Miss Clarette, who is attending the State University. She will not return till next week.

Dr. Boyd left last Saturday for Columbus, where he held the usual Sunday service in the morning, returning to Fulton for the evening service at Trinity church.

Now that Mrs. Boyd is relieved of the voluntary care of the little girl, Viola Long, it is hoped by her friends that her health will improve and that she will devote more time to that end.

BAND CONCERT KNOCKS "HOMER" WITH BASES FULL

The Orpheum theater was packed to capacity Tuesday night, Nov. 17, and standing room was not to be obtained when the curtain went up, making it necessary to turn away at least fifty people.

The program rendered was superior to anything in the way of "home talent" that has ever been produced in Fulton, and Fulton Band No. 45 certainly deserves a lot of credit for having furnished such a wonderful program to the large and appreciative audience.

At intervals during the program, which was uniquely arranged, "between the act" novelties were introduced, which were highly entertaining, they alone being well worth the small admission fee.

The first number perfectly executed by the band was a march, "The Billboard," by J. N. Klotz; then an overture, "Mirand," by Berry; and a fox trot, "Alabama Bound," by Morbach. Following this, young Jack Foy very ably demonstrated that making sawdust was not the only thing that could be done with a hand saw, by drawing a bow across it and producing several selections of wonderful melody.

Several old time "square dance" selections were then given by a five piece string band, composed of Messrs. Adams, Covington, Wild and Foster, with Mr. Read leading. Many of the old timers couldn't keep their feet still, and felt as though they were back in the "good old days."

The band then played a march, "The Showboy," by Huff; a medley, "Songs from Old Folks," and a fox trot, "Yes Sir, That's My Baby," by Kahn, which showed that they had been doing some mighty hard work to make such a wonderful improvement since their last appearance in public, their rendition of this program being of such excellence that no city in the United States would be ashamed to claim them as its product.

Several selections were then given by Mr. Howard, with a mouth organ and a banjo, which proved to be excellent; then Mr. Howard and his eleven-year-old son played a duet with the same instruments, drawing several encores from the pleased audience.

A brass quartette, composed of Messrs. Evans, DeMyer, Barnes and Brown softly played "Sweet and Low," which also drew an encore; then came the Old Time Fiddlers' contest.

Uncle (Blind) Joe Mangrum won first prize of $5.00 by rendering several selections upon his cherished violin, from which he seemed to pour out his soul on "The Old Ragged Cross," and "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," with several others. Messrs. Brockman and Lovell were tied for second prize. Both were regular "old time fiddlers" and strutted their stuff on the fiddle, bringing happiness to the hearts of those whose memory carried them back to the days when they "swung their partner" and shimmy and jazz were unknown.

The concert closed with "Stars and Stripes Forever," by Sousa, and "America," and the happy satisfied crowd dispersed, some vowing that they were going to get there early enough to get a seat next time; and the band promises that they are going to do it again in the near future.

LAKE SANCTUARY FOR WILD OWL.

Preserving Feeding Grounds and Protecting Wild Game

Reelfoot Lake, winterquarters for millions of the wild family, this year offers protected refuge to the migratory visitors from the north and far northwest.

A sanctuary in the grassy end of the curiously shaped lake and in the deep wild grasses is wired off from the reach of the hunter's gun.

A heavy fine is provided for any person who enters the wire enclosure or drags a boat about the grasses within, which will be permitted to grow up in the wildest confusion, untouched by human.

Reelfoot Lake was formed by the great earthquake of 1811-12. It is ragged and jagged. Some parts of the marsh sections are impenetrable and it is very dangerous for hunters to attempt a trip on its vast expanse without the guidance of a "pusher."

Reelfoot's northern tip extends just over the Kentucky state line. The lake proper contains 14,160 acres and with its marshes included, 5,050 acres.

Thousands of sportsmen from all the United States and many from foreign countries have visited the lake every year. A conservative estimate of the number killed on the first day of the open season was 10,000.

The state is considering the establishment of a biological station there for scientific study and investigation. — Nashville Cor. to Memphis Commercial Appeal.

AUTOMOBILE TAXES

The decision of the house ways and means committee to reduce the federal tax on what it calls "pleasure cars" from five to three per cent will have a popular reaction among the people.

If the house as a whole will concur in this recommendation, or even reduce the per cent more, or entirely eliminate it, and the senate will follow the house's lead, then all will be well.

But the fact that the ways and means committee will report its bill with this provision is no assurance that it will be in the measure when it finally becomes a law, so that there is really no reason for celebrating yet.

Nearly every one will agree—for all who have no automobile expect to own one some day—that the tax on "pleasure cars" is an unjust tax. The term "pleasure car" is a misnomer, because there are comparatively few automobiles in this day of rush and hurry that are used strictly for pleasure purposes.

As a general rule, an automobile, although it is a means of providing pleasure, is a service vehicle that could scarcely be dispensed with. It is pressed into daily use by most owners in transacting business. It is an ever ready aid in saving valuable time going from place to place and thus becomes a very essential factor in the life of the American people.

The "pleasure car" tax is unfair for other reasons. It was levied as a manufacturer's tax. The framers of the first tax bill so intended it. But instead of absorbing the tax, the manufacturers passed it on to the consumers.

Thus it is with most excise taxes. The consumer ultimately pays the bill because the manufacturer has only to add it to his cost price, the retailer adds it to his selling price and the final purchaser is the one who bears the burden.

Automobiles are already too heavily taxed, with the local property tax, the registration or license plate fees, in addition to the gasoline taxes in many states. The automobile owner deserves more consideration and the attention he will get in the next session of congress indicates there will be some improvement in the situation.

The Union City Commercial says: "The largest weekly pay roll distributed to the employees of the Brown Shoe Company, we understand, was paid last week for one week's work. The total was $10,130. This is a result guaranteed by the company to be reached in a period of ten years, but the time has been cut down to less than three years, to be more accurate, in less than two and a half years."

WHAT OF THE FRIENDS WHO ARE AWAY AT CHRISTMAS?

Would it not be better to have them know you had remembered them a few days before Christmas than to have them wondering on that day and even afterwards if you had forgotten them?

Postmaster General New has issued orders that no mail be delivered Christmas Day, therefore the only way for you to be sure that your friends will have your gifts and cards on Christmas day is to Shop early and mail early.

Mail early according to a statement issued by Postmaster General New is this: "Mail for distant points should be mailed not later than December 14; for places three days travel distant not later than December 16; for two days travel distant not later than December 18; one day travel distant and local, not later than December 21.

Remember, that it is just as important that you mail Christmas cards early as it is that you mail your packages early.

THANKSGIVING
HYMNby HENRY ALFORD
in Harold's Dairyman

COME, ye thankful people, come,
Raise the song of Harvest-Home!
All is safely gathered in,
Ere the winter-storms begin;
God, our Maker, doth provide,
For our wants to be supplied,
Come to God's own temple, come,
Raise the song of Harvest-Home!

We ourselves are God's own field,
Fruit unto His praise to yield,
Wheat and tares together sown,
Lies joy or sorrow ground;
First the blade and then the ear,
Then the full corn shall appear,
Grant, O harvest Lord, that we Wholesome grains and pure may be!

For the Lord our God shall come,
And shall take his harvest home,
From his fields shall purge away
All that doth offend that day;
Give his angels charge at last,
In the fires the tares to cast,
But the fruitful ears to store
In his garner evermore.

Then the church triumphant, come,
Raise the song of Harvest-Home!
All are safely gathered in,
Free from sorrow, free from sin,
There forever purified,
In God's garner to abide,
Come, ten thousand angels, come,
Raise the glorious Harvest-Home!

Say It With
Thanksgivingby
H. Louis
Roybold

THANKSGIVING is a particularly lonesome day for a man to land in a strange city after several years overseas. At any rate, Dick Ormsby thought so as he stood on the dock surrounded by jostling baggage trucks with the words of a poem he had read somewhere ringing in his ears. "His war—his war is out of date."

Not that Dick wanted a hand to meet him nor a parade down the Avenue. He merely wished that in the whole of big New York there was a man, woman, child, or even a dog who was glad he had come home. His only relative, an aunt, had died during his absence. His pals in the army had long since returned and were scattered to their homes and occupations. Between him and his associates in the French hospital the ocean now intervened. Yes, he was singularly alone in the world.

He had said as much yesterday to the assistant purser as they had stood at the rail. The purser, a friendly young fellow going back with the steamer, had recommended a boarding place and had secretly piled so good looking a clasp with no one to welcome him.

Thanksgiving! Dick drew a lugubrious sigh and stooped for his bag. As he did so he felt a light touch on his arm and turned quickly. There stood a very slender slip of a girl whose eyes—deep blue and remarkably trusting—were lifted hopefully to his. She was no one he recalled seeing on the boat, but that signified nothing, as he had kept very much to himself.

Puzzled, he watched her open her pocketbook, take out a bit of paper and hand it to him. Still more puzzled, he saw that it bore only an address—3762 Eastern Avenue, Wiltshire.

He knew Wiltshire as a small residential town about thirty minutes' run out from the city.

"You don't know how to get there?" he asked courteously.

She smiled, then shrugged her shoulders.

Dick felt relieved. French, presumably. "Est-ce que—vous—voulez?" he began rapidly.

But still she smiled the same uncomprehending smile.

Dick wrinkled his brow. "Franklin, I'm blind—" He saw no response to that.

Struck with an idea, he pointed to the paper, then to the girl, then vaguely into the distance. Ah—that brought results! She nodded quickly and slid her arm through his. There was no mistaking the fact that she wanted his guidance to Wiltshire.

The trip across the city, the brief walk in the station, the half hour on the suburban express was without incident, beyond a brief conflict when the girl insisted on paying her elevated and train fare, silently, to be sure, but not the less successfully. Dick bought her a magazine, but she seemed content to sit and watch the flying landscape, while he himself pondered the strangeness of the situation and stole surreptitious glances at her sweet profile and a curl of chestnut hair which had escaped her veil. All too quickly he felt they would reach her destination and she would vanish completely from his ken.

Arrived at the station, she all but ran down the platform, seeming anxious to avoid a meeting with anybody. Brushing aside a taxi driver she swung down the main street, then at an intersection of roads, turned up for a block or two, and stopped before a huge old-fashioned house built in the days when large families were popular and fuel was cheaper.

Even as she shook the doorknob Dick heard voices and laughter and even fancied that he could detect a delectable aroma like a turkey—cranberry—mince pie.

Then the door was flung wide, and for a moment Dick was overwhelmed with an excited babble of voices raised in joyous greeting, and all but caught in many embracing arms. Then he awoke to a strange miracle.

"Yes, mother, this is Richard Ormsby—the Richard Ormsby I wrote you about from Neuilly before I left to visit the Lanes. I've brought him home for Thanksgiving!" The speaker was Dick's silent companion of the last few hours.

That she could likewise hear as well as talk he discovered later—when the jolly dinner was a thing of memory only and the low settle before the fire held only himself and Eula.

"Why didn't you let me know you were a friend of the Lanes while you were at the hospital?" he was asking curiously.

"Let you know! Why, at the hospital you never noticed a nurse unless she actually worked with you, which I never did. Then I left for a trip with the Lanes, and didn't see you until the day before we landed, when I happened to overhear you tell the purser your lonely condition. I knew you wouldn't accept an invitation given apparently on the spur of the moment, when even my own family were expecting me, so I cooked up my little scheme—and it worked!"

Arriving, She All but Ran Down the Platform.

She looked over at him so appealingly that Dick suddenly rose, thrust his hands in his pockets and stood looking solemnly down at her.

"I've got to start in practicing somewhere, haven't I? Well, I'm going to start here in Wiltshire. And I've got to marry some day, haven't I? Well, I'm going to marry—" he paused, aware of his extreme daring.

"Yes?" said Eula demurely. "I believe there are several girls in Wiltshire—and none of them deaf or dumb!"

Prevent Swarming
by Providing ShadeProtection Is Essential on Very Hot Days.(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Protection of the hives and supers from the direct rays of the sun during the hottest part of the day should decrease the tendency of bees to swarm, according to a bulletin of the United States Department of Agriculture. Covers made of a single thickness of lumber, if unprotected, may cause great discomfort to the bees and may compel them to leave the supers during the heat of the day, which is a condition favorable to swarming.

To prevent this, shade boards large enough to project beyond the edges of the hive may be used over the covers. These should be adjusted with one edge even with the north side of the hive so that the extra width projects on the south side. There should be a space between the hive-cover and the shade board to permit a circulation of air. The double covers, which have an air space between the inner and outer parts, afford more protection from the sun's rays than do single covers, but these do not shade the sides of the supers.

The hives, supers, and covers should be painted white. This better reflects the sun's rays. If no shade board is used, the covers should be repainted frequently. It is to be expected that the tendency to swarm will be greater when dark or weather-beaten hive covers are used than when the covers are newly painted white, unless shade boards are used over them.

Best Depth for Plowing
Various Kinds of Soils

How deep is it profitable to plow? At the Illinois experiment station, results of plowing tests carried on for several years were recently published. The tests were made in gray silt loam on tight clay in Marion and Cumberland counties and on brown silt loam in Champaign county.

Less than five inches was considered as shallow, between five and eight inches medium and more than eight inches deep plowing. When it cost $2.50 to plow an acre seven inches deep, it cost $5 an acre to subsoil and $7 an acre to deep till. It required four horses to pull a subsoil plow and six to pull the deep tillage machine. In Cumberland county a two-plow tractor was used for two years to pull the deep tillage machine, and it was overloaded.

The difference in the average yields on fields receiving the various treatments was so small as to entirely lack significance. These results check exactly with a similar Ohio experiment. The authors of that experiment state that the yields from the various fields were practically identical and in view of the expense involved, the seven-inch plowing was by far the most profitable.

The use of dynamite on soils having an impervious subsoil did not materially increase yields while the cost was high. When charges were placed at intervals of one rod each way and one-third of a stick used for each shot, the cost ran around $20 to $25 an acre with dynamite at 30 cents a pound.

Study of Cost of Farm
Power Made by Purdue

In a study of the cost of farm power made by the Purdue university agricultural experiment station in Tippecanoe county, Indiana, it was found on summarizing the records from 85 farms for three years, that on the third of the farms where horse labor was used most efficiently, each horse cared for 25.5 acres of crops; that on a second third of the farms, which had only average labor efficiency, each horse cared for 20.5 acres of crops; and that on the remaining third of the farms with less than average labor efficiency, each horse cared for only 16.8 acres of crops. Farmers, generally, who were above the average, got 50 per cent more service from their horses than did the farmers who were below the average.

FARM FACTS

Keep your garden crops in long rows so that cultivation is easier and the minimum of hoeing is required.

More than 100,000,000 chicks break through shells each year in this country, according to recent estimate.

Farmers who begin now to care for their woodlands will in a few years obtain good rewards for their trouble.

Constant tramping by live stock destroys the leaf mulch in the forest, thus exposing the ground to drying winds and to sunlight.

Soy beans for use as hay should be defoliated in at the rate of one bushel to the acre. The rows may be 36 to 42 inches apart or solid like grain.

Nearly every farm has some portion which is too rough, rocky or poor to grow field crops, but which would grow good timber. Put this idle land to work.

A check that any farmer can cash at any time and any place is a check on waste. Two important sources of waste are planting impure seeds of low vitality or planting seeds of unadapted varieties.

HORSES SOLD AT MAYFIELD FOR SLAUGHTER; HIDES TO BE MARKETED

A Messenger representative has just learned of a new industry. It is the buying of old, worn-out, broken down horses, and the marketing of their hides. It is reported that on yesterday alone, it being third Monday, one man purchased a total of forty-three of these old worn out horses, for the purpose of killing them for their hides. It is said that he paid from fifty cents to two and a half dollars for them. The hides bring much more than that. The horses, it is said, were taken to Tennessee for slaughter.—Mayfield Messenger.

SUNSHINE VS. MOONSHINE

(Written by a woman who saved her husband from the drinking evil).

My man is very good to me,
So loyal, kind and true.
He never comes home really drunk.

As other husbands do,
But sometimes, when he's "got too much."

I wish that I were dead;
For there's no sunshine in my heart,
When moonshine's in his head.

Some folks can laugh at such a plight
Of some poor drunken fool,
To me there's naught by aching heart

And pity for Satan's tool.
And, when he's had just "one too many,"

I fear that we must part;
For when there's moonshine in his head

There's no sunshine in my heart.

Within the garden of my life,
Love bloomed in every thought,

But now I fear 'tis wilting fast
And love must come to naught.

I pray before it is too late.
He'll think how oft I've said,
"There's no sunshine in my heart, dear,

When there's moonshine in your head."

The Thanksgiving Myth

by Jane Osborn

DORA LOUISE GRAYSON, in spite of caressing brown bobbed hair and starry blue eyes, found herself at twenty-five a full-fledged doctor of medicine, working in the clinic of the Children's hospital. Somehow, worn, anxious mothers looked at her with so much trust and so much confidence, she wondered how it had all come about. Sometimes she doubted her own powers of endurance to go on.

Talmadge Scott, after several false starts and several years of business, at thirty found himself in possession of his degree of doctor of medicine. He wondered sometimes how it had ever occurred to him that he could possibly be anything else besides a doctor.

For several weeks Doctor Scott had been stopping every day at the Children's hospital to speak to Doctor Grayson, who received her little patients in the room right across the corridor from the small operating room where he worked two hours every morning. In all his life he had never known a woman doctor before; he tried to imagine, but could not conclude, what sort of person she must be.

"Clinic is closed tomorrow," he remarked the Wednesday before Thanksgiving. "I suppose you will have dinner with friends."

"Thanksgiving dinner?" she queried. "I am afraid I don't feel in a very thankful mood. I'm thousands of miles from home. Do you still believe in turkey and cranberry sauce and pumpkin pie?"

"It's a pretty myth," he said. "If Dora had been a keen observer she might have noticed that a look of disappointment passed over Talmadge Scott's face, and if he had been a mind reader he might have been aware of her own disappointment. Not being so gifted they parted with a brief farewell."

Talmadge Scott knew where Dora Grayson lived. All Thanksgiving day he thought of her, in spite of efforts to put her out of his mind. Several times he found excuse to pass her apartment. At half-past six, as he left for the first time since breakfast, the need of food, he again walked by her house. It was then that he was rewarded for all his diligent waiting, for Dr. Dora Louise Grayson just then came out of the door of the apartment house.

"Are you going to dinner?" he asked, and Dora admitted that she was going out in search of something to eat. "But you don't care about the old, traditional Thanksgiving feast?" she queried. "It's funny how people have clung to the tradition."

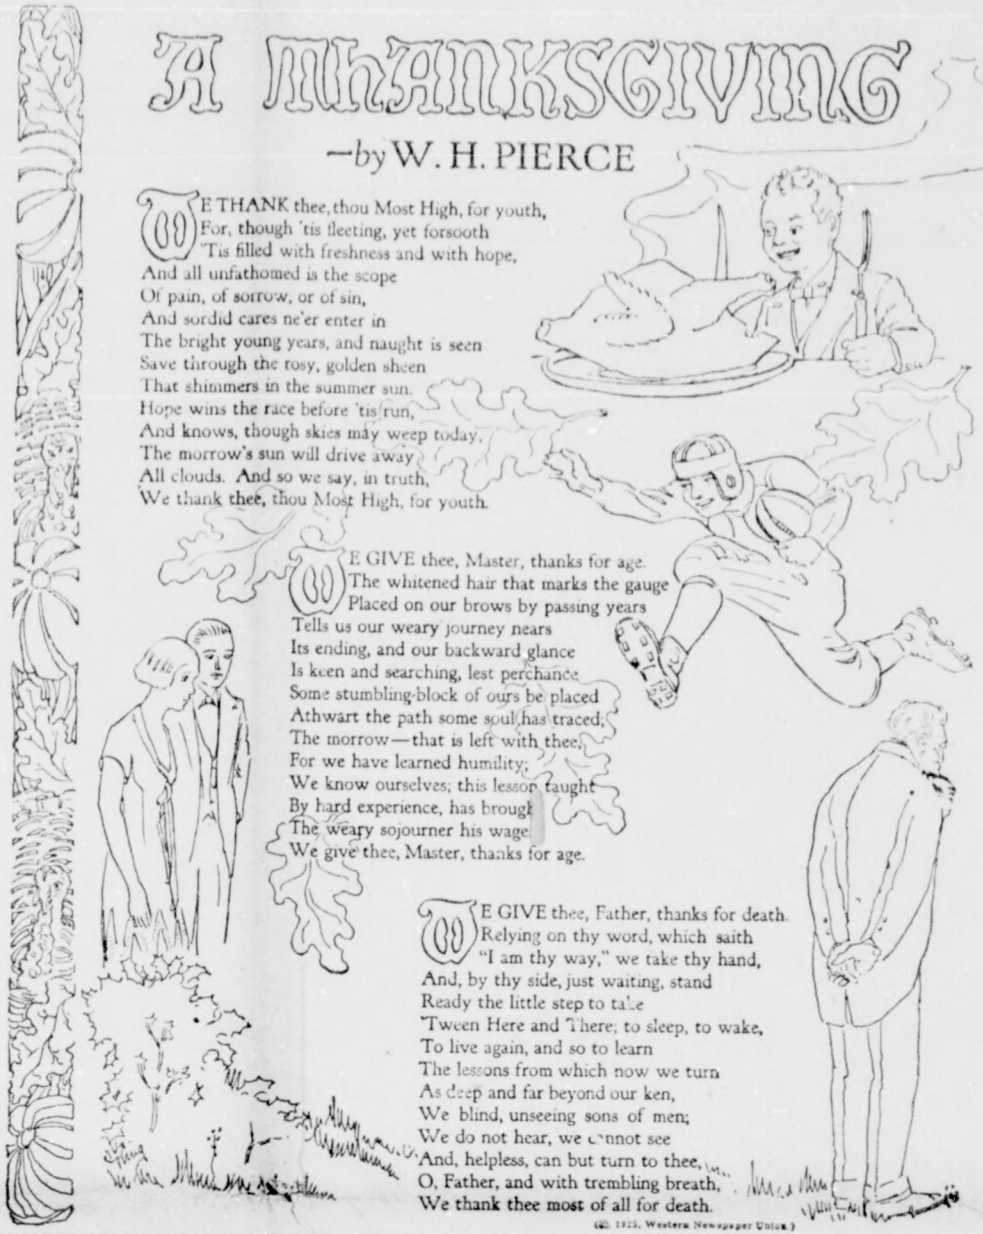

"Isn't it?" he said, and then, "As we both seem to be going out in search of nourishment, what do you say to combining forces?"

Ten minutes later they were seated opposite each other in a white-tiled eating establishment. Dora had declined Talmadge's invitation to go to a more expensive place.

"A salad is all I want," said Dora. From a tray being borne past them came whiffs of aromatic turkey and stuffing, that somehow made Talmadge's mouth water. Yet he said, looking instantly at Dora, "Yes, a salad and tea. I think that's what I shall have, too."

So they supped together, and somehow as they ate Dora felt a funny sobbing sensation—as of intense homesickness and disappointment, and Talmadge felt a curious sort of melancholy.

After it was over and Talmadge had paid the insignificant check, they

A Thanksgiving

—by W. H. PIERCE

WE THANK thee, thou Most High, for youth,
For, though 'tis fleeting, yet forsooth
'Tis filled with freshness and with hope,
And all unfathomed is the scope
Of pain, of sorrow, or of sin,
And sordid cares ne'er enter in
The bright young years, and naught is seen
Save through the rosy, golden sheen
That shimmers in the summer sun.
Hope wins the race before 'tis run,
And knows, though skies may weep today,
The morrow's sun will drive away.
All clouds. And so we say, in truth,
We thank thee, thou Most High, for youth.

WE GIVE thee, Master, thanks for age.
The whitened hair that marks the gauge
Placed on our brows by passing years
Tells us our weary journey nears
Its ending, and our backward glance
Is keen and searching, lest perchance
Some stumbling-block of ours be placed
Athwart the path some soul has traced.
The morrow—that is left with thee,
For we have learned humility.
We know ourselves; this lesson taught
By hard experience, has brought
The weary sojourner his wage.
We give thee, Master, thanks for age.

WE GIVE thee, Father, thanks for death.
Relying on thy word, which saith
"I am thy way," we take thy hand,
And, by thy side, just waiting, stand Ready the little step to take
'Tween Here and There, to sleep, to wake,
To live again, and so to learn
The lessons from which now we turn
As deep and far beyond our ken,
We blind, unseeing sons of men,
We do not hear, we cannot see
And, helpless, can but turn to thee,
O Father, and with trembling breath,
We thank thee most of all for death.

Thanksgiving

By TOM BRADSHAW,
in Chicago Herald-Examiner.

JEHOVAH, God of lands and seas,
Of winter's winds and summer breeze,
Lend ear today while from the ranks
Of millions swells a prayer of thanks
For all that hope and faith hath brought,
For summits reached, for lessons taught,
For life and health and peace and love,
Jehovah, harken from above!
Jehovah, God of years untold,
Of saint and sinner, youth and old,
Give ear today—th' people stand
With thankful hearts abroad the land.
To give Thee thanks for blessings new
That come with every morning's dew
That follow on till night is nigh,
That aid them live and help them die,
That shower on them through th' years,
That mingle happiness with tears,
That stop not till their race is run,
And centuries sing, "Thy will be done!"

Not an Ancestor

1925's turkeys are descendants of Aztec fowls, and not the wild species that the Puritans ate, explains a Field museum wizard. So long as our Thanksgiving bird is a descendant and not an ancestor, we shall accept this discovery with equanimity. One year, we remember trying to carve an original Aztec eagle, and judging by the nicks it put in the knife, his name was Itzkatzipotpec.

To the Turk

Some pray, some play,
This thanksgiving day.
Some even have to work;
But come what may,
We're here to say,
Hats off to the Turk.

FREEDOM OF THE KNEES

Get 'Em Out of Sight or Hunt New Job, is Edict Issued To Tonkawa, Okla., Teachers

A special sent out from Tonkawa, Oklahoma, says: Tonkawa school teachers are in a turmoil. They are facing a proposition of choosing between the freedom of their knees and their jobs.

An order posted Friday by Superintendent W. G. Hopkins demands that all feminine teachers appear in class rooms Monday with dresses which reach within twelve inches of the floor.

Some of the teachers have submitted to the edict gracefully. Others are indignant and term it an outrage. They claim that the order will work a hardship on them as they have already bought their winter dresses and they "are too scant to let down."

One teacher is said to have declared that she will be forced to go through the winter with one dress, the only one she has that will stand the "lengthening process."

Though the order was posted by the superintendent, the school board has declared itself heartily in favor of the move. It was discussed last year, they declare, but nothing was done and the pedagogues were allowed to make their own "dead line." This year the skirts kept getting shorter and shorter, and finally Hopkins issued the edict.

The student body was perturbed over the order Friday, though one pupil remarked that it wouldn't make much difference with one teacher, who already wore dresses below her knees.

Farewell glimpses of dimpled knees replaced study after the order became known.

RESPONSIBILITY

"Who is responsible?" When anything goes wrong or is neglected, this is generally the first question asked.

It never occurs to the questioner that it may be he or she who is responsible—that responsibility may be traced to his or her own doorstep.

It may not be a direct responsibility. The causes leading up to the trouble by due to neglect, which is often more dangerous than positive acts.

Those who ask this common question never search their own deeds or misdeeds, or even negligence. They never realize that they may be responsible because they failed to warn in advance against the danger that lay ahead.

A citizen's duty does not end with the election of public officials. Having elected them, it is incumbent upon all who are interested in the welfare of the community and its people to consult, advise and cooperate with them, to the end that they may have all the information possible as a basis for their public acts.

We may expect children to cry over spilled milk, but never people who have reached mature years. If the warning is seen and not acted on, then there is nothing to do except take the medicine in whatever size doses the directions say.

ED BENNETT PASSES AWAY

It was just after the rosy fingers of the orb of day tinted the eastern sky with a sheen of glory, Saturday morning, Nov. 14, the death angel entered the home of Ed Bennett, near Water Valley, and carried his spirit to its heavenly home. The sad news of Mr. Bennett's death cast a shadow of gloom over the whole community where he was so well known and highly esteemed by everyone.

At the time of his death, he was 68 years of age, and was reared near Water Valley. Death was due to stomach trouble.

At an early age he united with the Methodist church and lived a consistent Christian life until the end.

His cheerful, helpful life, his devotion to his wife and family and kindness to everybody will long linger as a fragrant memory in the home which his presence brightened and which death has now darkened. In his heart of hearts he carried those he loved, and his hand was never weary, his step never failing in accommodating a friend. He believed that the man who scattered flowers in the pathway of his fellowmen, who lets in the dark places of life the sunshine of human sympathy and human happiness, is following in the footsteps of his Master.

The funeral services were held at the Methodist church in Water Valley, Sunday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. R. H. Pigue, who paid a beautiful tribute to the memory of the deceased. The casket was covered with the most beautiful floral designs, all of which spoke of peace, purity and immortality. The music was soft and sweet. At the close of the service an unusual long procession followed the pallbearers with the sleeper to the silent city. May God's purest angels guard his slumbers.

Besides a devoted wife, he leaves one daughter, Mrs. Doc Nanney, and five sons, Hunter Boone, Herschel, Ethel and Jonah. Also two sisters, Mrs. John E. Latta, of near Water Valley; Mrs. Nannie Stokes, of Clovis, New Mexico; six brothers, Ben Bennett, of Water Valley; Charlie Bennett, of Dallas, Texas; Sam, Joe, Guy and Boyd Bennett, of Fulton.

Shop Early—Mail Early in Order that your presents reach their destination before Dec. 25th.

We wish to inform the patrons of this Post Office that an order issued by Postmaster General New directs that all delivery of mail be suspended from midnight Dec. 24th, until midnight Dec. 25th and that it will be necessary for this office to conform to this ruling as well as every other post office in the United States.

In view of the provisions of the above order there is only one way to be sure that your presents will reach their destination in time for Christmas and that is to mail them early. If you mail early, your gifts will not only arrive on time but in much better condition in lots of instances on account of not being caught in the last minute rush.

We would suggest that parcels and letters going any considerable distance be in the mails by Dec. 10th, and packages and letters of more local nature be mailed before Dec. 20th, and even earlier if possible.

Remember that both letters and packages may be marked "Do not open until Christmas" or with a similar inscription.

Facts Worth Knowing.

In answering the third question in the recent contest of the Kentucky Light & Power company—How many ways can electricity be used in the home so as to lessen the amount of work done by the housewife? Mrs. Neal H. Sisk, one of the prize winners, answered with the following:

Monday, a Washer we will use, Tuesday's Ironing no longer does abuse.

Wednesday for breakfast on our Grill;

Thursday, for Sewing with a thrill,

Friday we "Electric Curl" and play;

Saturday we bake and clean—Of course, all "Electrically."

All ready for the Sabbath Rested, for you see

The heavy work all through the week

Was done by "Kentucky Utility."

Every day in summer

The Fan is our delight;

In winter time the Heater makes

The cold, cold days more bright.

The whole year around, the Electric Stove

Delights the housewife's heart,

For all she needs is to turn the switch

To make the cooking start.

Day in, day out, on every hand Electricity will do our work

For otherwise, all tired and worn,

We'd be inclined to shirk.

LIMIT IS REACHED FOR 1926 TAX CUT

$304,000,000 REDUCTION IN REVENUE, ALL TREASURY CAN STAND, SAYS I. B. GREEN

MANY WANT LARGER CUTS

Possibility Of Outside Expense By Government Is Said To Require Conservation In Cutting

Washington.—The limit in tax reduction for next year has been reached by the house ways and means committee in revisions already approved for new revenue bill. Chairman Green declared the other day in announcing that the door was closed against further proposals for tax relief.

The $304,000,000 cut in revenue next year, estimated to result from revisions ordered by the committee in tax rates, he said, is all the treasury can stand.

The chairman's statement, issued recently, is believed not only to mean there will be no further alterations in the tax rate schedules by the committee, but that the threatened fight in the house for greater reductions in the automobile tax than have been voted by the committee will be opposed vigorously. Repeal of the automobile passenger car levy would cut another $50,000,000 from the annual revenue.

Chairman Green said he expected the committee, which will meet again soon, to complete the drafting of the tax bill, thus assuring early consideration by the house soon after congress convenes December 7.

As agreed upon by the committee, the bill will provide for widespread reductions in all income tax rates, increased personal exemptions, repeal of many of the excise and special levies, repeal of the gift tax and publicity of income tax returns, and modification of the inheritance tax.

Chairman Green, in his statement recently, said he believed the treasury's estimate of the probable surplus for the next fiscal year, placed at $220,000,000 by Secretary Mellon, was too "conservative."

"As a consequence," he said, "I have been asked why the reduction to be effected by the bill is not made much larger. There are many who think that it should be carried at least up to $250,000,000, and some that would advance it to $400,000,000, or even $500,000,000, although in the latter case my understanding is that it is intended to apply the payments received from European countries to ordinary expenses, instead of using them to reduce the national debt."

Air Of Jauntiness Falls Stephenson
Noblesville, Ind.—Though facing a sentence of life imprisonment following the conviction of second degree murder in connection with the death of Madge Oberholzer, D. C. Great Reduction In French Armies?
Paris.—Drastic reforms are in store for the French peace army during the present session of parliament. It is probable that measures will be voted reducing greatly the force of 440,000 land troops which France maintains under arms and cutting the length of the term of compulsory military training from 18 months to one year.

"Mercy Slayer" Is Given His Freedom
Littleton, Colo.—With the legal status of "murder for love" undetermined, Dr. Harold Elmer Blazer stands free of the charge of murder of his 24-year-old daughter, Hazel, the "human hulk." Less than an hour after the jury failed to agree on a verdict the legal stigma of murder was removed when Judge Samuel Johns granted a motion of dismissal by Prosecuting Attorney Joel E. Stone. The jury was out a little over 14 hours. The defendant received the declaration with comparative calm.

Unemployment In U. S. On Decline
Washington.—Industrial conditions at the end of October were such that no material unemployment existed anywhere in the country, the United States employment service reported, recently, and the outlook showed little danger of any appearing. Steel manufacturing and coal mining companies are reported to be expanding their labor forces while the cotton crop in the Southern states and the building industry all over the nation are mentioned as other causes for the full employment.

The House of Plenty

by William Herschel

KNOW a house where Plenty seems to practice magic arts,
Though humble is this house I know, and humble all its hearts.
Within this house a Mother dwells whom Plenty gives the skill
To make a little grow to much that all may have their fill.

I've seen her lay the table, with but two or three to fare,
But bread had not been broken when a legion came to share.

Came Mary with her prattling tribe; came John with children four,
A knock—a word of welcome—Parson Pray was at the door.

No, Parson Pray just couldn't stay—he had not time to eat—
But was there not some soup to tempt a sick man down the street?

"Come, rest a moment, Brother Pray, and have a little bite;
I'm glad you thought about the soup—I'll tend to that all right."

By magic came some steaming broth from out a magic pan;
"I saved this broth for such as he—we'll send it to the man."

Came ham from off the pantry shelf, came jam and marmalade;
A cackle at the kitchen door announced eggs freshly laid.

Ere Parson Pray could utter grace new knocks were at the door;
"Can you spare just a little bread? They've none down at the store."

"For pity's sake! That shows the way some grocery stores are run;
I've biscuits baking in the stove! Just wait—they're nearly done!"

Glad House of Plenty, glorified, you seem somehow to know
Where loaves and fishes can be found—as in the long ago.

You seem to make Thanksgiving Day abide throughout the year,
So bounteous are your feasts, so mother-blest your cheer!

The MOST POPULAR THANKSGIVING BIRD

WITH apologies to the bald eagle, it is appropriate to refer to the turkey as the great American bird. The association of this species of fowl with the Thanksgiving day festivities places it upon the highest pinnacle of fame. The few specimens taken back to Spain by Christopher Columbus aroused the greatest curiosity and interest in that country, and subsequent imports of the bird within fifty years stirred Europe to its center. The turkey—pavo or peacock in Spain, dindon in France, trutkahn in Germany, and kalkun in Scandinavian countries—was found by millions in the forests of North America, Central America and Mexico when the white men came to the western shores.

The name given to the turkey is a little obscure, but it seems to have arisen in London from an almost trivial circumstance. It appears that about the time of the birth of Queen Elizabeth a hardy navigator brought a consignment of these birds from America to the London market. Purveyors of the aristocratic houses of London found them, bought them, tried them, and then wanted more. London tradesmen were asked the name of the fowl, and because everything then was brought from Turkey those asking for the information were told that they came from Turkey, and they were known for many years in the London markets as those "Turkey birds." This is one of many tales told to account for the strange naming of the American bird, and is probably as good as any. The turkey has been domesticated, as far as it is possible, and long ago became a large factor in domestic commerce.

Once Turkey State.

Rhode Island for many years held chief prominence as the turkey-raising state.

New Tennessee, Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska and Kentucky dispute supremacy and literally send millions of these birds annually to market to be consumed largely at Thanksgiving and Christmas feasts.

The scientific name given to the turkey is Meleagris. Meleager, in an ancient Greek legend, was leader of the Calydonian hunt, who saved the beautiful Princess Atalanta from the savage attack of a wild boar, and thereby gained fame. This scientific name seems just about as applicable to the great American bird as turkey, but it has the approval of science, and that is enough. Three varieties made up the original stock of wild turkeys on this continent. They were the gallinavo of New England and the greater part of North America, the ocellata of Honduras and the mexicana of Mexico. A fourth variety is supposed to have inhabited the West India islands, from which the birds taken to Spain by Columbus were obtained. From these, in the course of 400 years, six varieties have been evolved, known as the bronze, Narragansett, buff, slate, white and black. The white and black birds are "freaks" from the three original species.

The turkey has never been more than half domesticated. It is still essentially a wild bird. It roams the fields in flocks, feeds upon insects and stray grains during the late summer and fall months and only seeks the shelter of the barnyard when the food supply fails. Young turkeys seem to distrust man and all his works, and each generation of turkeys has to be tamed. The birds do become quite docile under careful management, but the hen turkey forever seeks the wild in which to steal her nest and rear her young. Testimony is not lacking that it costs less to raise a turkey than any other fowl, and to the ultimate consumer in the Thanksgiving and Christmas period they cost more than any other fowl, so that somebody makes a good profit on the animal product.

One of the Oldest Birds.

The turkey is doubtless one of the oldest birds in America and always occupied an important place in the domestic life of the Indians. The Pilgrims at Plymouth learned the value of the turkey from the Massasoit Indians. Columbus found it in the West Indies. Cortez was feasted upon turkey in Mexico and Peru. The Maya people embodied the turkey in their oldest hieroglyphics and the scientists at the Smithsonian, delving among the ruins of Arizona, found a mummified turkey, and the remains of nearly all the cliff and cave dwellers in the Southwest give up the bones of the turkey. It was a staple food among the red men from the earliest times, as it has come to be in civilized lands around the globe.

Benjamin Franklin desired to make the turkey the national bird, but was outvoted by others, who seemed to find a truer connection between the bald eagle and the indomitable spirit of the American republic. It may be the screaming eagle better suits the ways of war and poets' dreams, but the turkey occupies a specially warm place in the affections of the American people. At Thanksgiving and Christmas time he is king of birds and will so remain to the end of time. —Washington Star.

FARM POULTRY

FIND WEED IS CAUSE OF "GRASS EGGS"

Presence of the common weed known as shepherd's purse (Capsella bursa-pastoris) in pasture of laying hens is responsible for a peculiar condition in the eggs known to the egg buyer as "grass egg," "alfalfa," or "green rot," investigations by Prof. L. E. Payne of the Kansas State Agricultural college poultry department indicate. Professor Payne's account of the investigation is contained in Poultry Science.

"Grass eggs" were especially prevalent on the market last spring, Professor Payne observed, but no explanation could be offered by buyers or flock owners.

In less than a week after the hens were given free range in the garden in the spring, eggs from the flock kept by Professor Payne at his home developed dark yolks so strong in flavor that they could not be relished. Professor Payne discovered that the birds were eating freely of shepherd's purse, which grew in profusion in the garden. Several flocks of chickens from which a large percentage of eggs offered for sale had dark or olive-colored yolks were located through a Manhattan shipper. These flocks were examined, and it was found that they were eating the same weed.

Experiments then were instituted at the college poultry farm. One pen of hens that had not received green feed in any form the previous five months was placed on wheat pasture and another pen on pasture containing shepherd's purse.

"The eggs from the hens that had had shepherd's purse ad libitum began to show dark yolks in four days, while yolks from the wheat pasture hens developed a dark color, but did not, within two weeks, develop the olive color," Professor Payne wrote. "Subsequent experiments were conducted in which three pens of hens that had not received green feed in any form for five months previous to the test were used. Pen one, two, and three were given a liberal supply daily of fresh alfalfa, penny cress (Thlaspi arvense), and shepherd's purse respectively. Other hens on the poultry farm were fed green sprouted oats daily. The yolks from the alfalfa and sprouted oats pens continued normal, but olive-colored yolks were found in both the penny cress and shepherd's purse pens."

Professor Payne suggests two preventive methods—either keep the hens confined until there is a variety of green feed available, or supply them with wheat or rye pasture or sprouted oats throughout the winter so they will have no desire to "fill up" on these particular weeds.

Use for Trap Nests

A trap nest is a laying nest so arranged that after a hen enters it she is confined until released by the attendant.

When possible it is advisable to trap-nest the layers for the following reasons:

1. To tame the birds, thereby tending toward increased egg production.
2. To furnish definite knowledge concerning traits and habits of individuals.
3. To furnish the only satisfactory basis for utility or other breeding.
4. To eliminate the nonproductive hen.
5. To add mechanical precision to judgment and experience in developing and maintaining the utility of a flock.

For further information and plans showing the construction of a trap nest, send to the Department of Agriculture at Washington, for Farmers' Bulletin 682, "A Simple Trap Nest."

Poultry Hints

Hens in the laying houses and bare yards need a lot of green feed.

Brooders permit the production of early broilers, which is one of the most profitable phases of the industry.

Late chicks are hard to raise and slow in maturing. Such chicks are easy prey to diseases and robbers of the roost in many ways.

Get the brooder in condition before putting in the chicks. Disinfect it well and start it some time before the chicks enter it. The brooder must be warm and dry, and preferably on fresh, clean location.

Thousands of worthless producers get their "start" during the hatching and brooding season.

Toe-mark the chicks soon after they are hatched. This fixes their age and classification. Do a neat job with a sharp punch and keep away from the foot bones.

Give the young chicks a chance to dry off and get their "sea legs" before putting them into the brooder, and be careful not to chill them while making the transfer.

Trade among Friends

No matter what some folks say to the contrary, there certainly is a lot of sentiment in business. Friendship, for instance, makes more satisfactory sales than all the cleverness and argument in the world.

You like to trade at a certain store—not because its counters are arranged in a scientific way, but because the folks who serve you are always friendly and helpful.

Just that very thing—FRIENDLY SERVICE—is the power that draws people together into communities like this, where everybody can enjoy the many benefits of neighborly cooperation.

And FRIENDLY SERVICE is the sentimental reason why you find it very much to your advantage to trade with our advertisers—to buy where you feel at home, where your friends will see that you are well satisfied.

5-YEAR MORATORIUM GIVEN

Interest Rate Starts At One-Eighth
Of One Per Cent And Ascends To
Maximum Of Two Per Cent

Washington.—The United States has granted Italy the most generous debt settlement terms accorded any of the debtor nations.

Although the American debt commission has retained in its agreement with Mussolini's government the principles of complete payment of the principal of the debt and the liquidation of the entire obligation within a 62-year period, the interest rate established by the two nations is far below that incorporated into previous settlements for other nations.

Through granting a five-year moratorium on interest payments, and through the establishment of an interest rate which will begin at one-eighth of 1 per cent and increase to 22 per cent, the United States has recognized Italy's poor capacity to pay. It was explained by members of the American commission.

The amount agreed upon by the two commissions for settlement was $2,042,000,000. This represents the original indebtedness of $1,618,000,000, plus accrued interest at four and one-fourth per cent to December 15, 1922, the date of the British settlement, and at three per cent, the same rate as was accorded Belgium in the settlement of her post-armistice obligations, to June 15, 1925.

For the first five years of the 62-year period, Italy will be required to pay only five million dollars a year. Payments will reach eighty million dollars in the last year.

After the first five years, the interest rate is fixed at one-eighth of one per cent for ten years, and then will increase for successive ten-year periods to one-fourth of one per cent, one-half of one per cent, three-fourths of one per cent, one per cent and, during the last seven years, to two per cent.

Following are approximate yearly payments the Italian government has agreed to make to the United States in settlement of her war obligation:

Farmers Marketing Their Corn Crop

Thousands of Bushels Delivered
To Browder Milling Company Past Week

Farmers find a live market for their corn in Fulton. Thousands of bushels were brought to town during the past week, which was purchased by the Browder Milling Company at the highest market prices for spot cash. Some was in good condition and fine quality, while many loads were not so good. This has been a trying season for gathering corn, and we learn that some are making a big mistake by mixing the good with the bad when bringing it to market, not realizing that the entire load is often times judged by the bad and not the good.

Few people seem to realize what the Browder Milling Company means to Fulton. Thousands and thousands of dollars are circulated in business channels here, coming directly from this institution. They are not only circulators of cash but creators by bringing it in from other states—Mississippi, Tennessee, Arkansas, and all directions.

The Browder Milling Company's products are well known throughout the entire Southland. "Queen's Choice," "Superba," and "Peerless" flour is what the particular housewife calls for. Only the best wheat is milled in these products and every barrel and sack carry the Browder guarantee of perfect satisfaction.

The Browder Brothers are appreciative of the wide reputation gained for their products and nothing has been left undone to make their brands of flour reach the highest standard of perfection. The best of wheat, the best mill equipment and expert millers are all employed in the manufacture of products by this milling company.

Rev. Sowell Appreciates The Advertiser

University Station,
Enid, Oklahoma,
Nov. 12, 1925.

Mr. R. S. Williams,

Fulton, Ky.

Dear Mr. Williams:

I want to tell you how much I appreciate the Fulton Advertiser each week. You can't imagine the pleasure Mrs. Sowell and I have, reading the news from a town that we love. We wait for the arrival as we would an old friend that we had not seen in many years.

Our lives are being lived at a rapid speed here in Oklahoma. We are both in the university, trying to better equip ourselves for the task ahead of us. Still, we like to pause amid the rush and think of friends who have cheered us along the way. It was a rare opportunity we had in living in the very best town in that part of the country. We appreciate our friends and loved ones there, and the memory of the toil to help make Fulton a better town, will always be a great blessing. I trust that the Master's will may permit me to visit Kentucky in the near future, so that I may say, howdy, to everybody and fill my cup of life with renewed friendships.

I appreciate your personal kindness to me, you always seemed so eager to assist me in any way you could, in putting over a program for the church. I am sure your paper is helping to make Fulton a better town, it even helps me to be a better man. There are a lot of things I might tell you about our university and the country around, but time forces me to close, so I will enclose one dollar for another year's subscription to The Advertiser.

Yours most sincerely,
O. J. SOWELL.

LADY SHERIFF MAKES HER FIRST ARREST

Picks Up Young Man on Train Wanted on Petit Larceny Charge

Mrs. J. O. West, Kentucky's only lady sheriff, made her first arrest Saturday. She was notified from the lower end of the county that a young man who was aboard of a certain train, was wanted on charge of purchasing a pair of shoes. Mrs. West met the train and promptly located and placed the youth under arrest.

It required a bit of tangible evidence to convince the boy that there was such a thing as a lady sheriff in the world. He put up the required cash bond and was allowed to proceed on his journey.

Mrs. West, we might add, is serving the unexpired term of her husband and is conducting the office in a painstaking and satisfactory manner.—Hickman Courier.

Bennett's Drug Store

IS NOW READY TO MAKE EVERYONE
HAPPY IN THEIR GIFT SHOPPING

More than ever this year, Christmas shopping is best done early—No, we are not "talking" Christmas gift shopping a day too soon. November is here, and when we are into November, time fairly flies—Christmas arrives almost before we know it. There is another and more important reason, however, why your gift shopping should be done early this year. Gift merchandise isn't by any means easy to procure. Though our first stocks are fine, large and wonderfully complete, this promises to be a most trying season to replenish lines of goods that "break" under the stress of gift shopping in rush days. You'll serve Santa Claus a splendid turn now by starting your gift shopping early this year. And early selections among our fine Christmas stocks are decidedly worth having.

You'll find the store alive with new interest, new vigor and a new enthusiasm of service.

Ensemble in Green Is Brought Out for Fall

A luxurious coat of epinard green, with a frock of tashveyne, completes this rich and lovely ensemble costume designed for the fall season.

Washing and Retaining Color of Blond Hair

The changing of pretty, light blond hair into that despised "dishwater" shade can easily be avoided and without the least injury to the hair. I am —well—past thirty and still have pretty, light hair, observes a writer in the Country Gentleman.

Steep two ounces of camomile in two quarts of water until the tea is quite strong. After the last rinsing of the hair pour this tea well over and into the hair. Do not dry thoroughly with a towel, but rather let the hair dry slowly, thus gaining the full benefit of the camomile.

If the hair has been wrung well after the last rinsing the camomile solution can be bottled for use in the next washing. If you object to the faint odor which will remain for a few days, add some powderedorris root to the tea. The camomile rinse will not bleach or lighten hair—it merely gives it the original shade.

Never use tar soap if you are blond.
It will surely darken the hair. So will petrolatum, olive oil and the majority of hair tonics. I have found that a good soaking of the scalp once a month with kerosene will keep it clean and not harm the hair or its color. For the shampoo, use the same soap into a little water, let dissolve and pour onto the hair. Rinse well, being sure that no soap remains.

A little borax or soda can be used,
but if the hair is very dry and brittle after washing discontinue their use. I wash my hair once a week and have never found it injurious. The injury in frequent washings lies mostly in using the wrong soaps or hair lotions and in improper rinsing.
If possible, always wash in soft water and dry the hair in the sun.
As a general thing, blond hair looks its best when waved or curled. I roll mine up with rags, preferably cut-up old stockings, and if this is done before the hair dries after a washing,
the curl will stay much longer.
Be sure the curls and waves are large and soft; frizziness is infinitely worse than straight hair.
Really pretty, light hair on adults is rare and well worth preserving. Try the camomile for a year—you will be pleased with the result.

Neck Bows and Ties in Latest Paris Fashions

Styles in neckwear are funny and attractive. The various arrangements for the neck change almost weekly, new ideas being constantly expressed in dainty things for different costumes. The round collar of lace, embroidered batiste, or net, has brought in the bow tie. This is a quaint knot of velvet or silk ribbon with long ends.
A bow of this sort with streamers of narrow black velvet ribbon is added with charming effect to light-colored silk.

For the tailored shirts the Windsor tie has returned to favor, and is shown in all the new shades of crepe, wash silk and georgette.

Parisian designers are making lavish use of the neck bow and tie.
Cheruit has introduced them on some informal daytime frocks, placing fluttering surah bows down the front of the dress, with one to match at the neck of the coat. In another French model butterfly bows of dotted ribbon in a row of three are placed down the front of a navy blue tulle frock. The latest and quaintest collar line, rather high and round, is finished with a flat collar of lace, real or imitation, of embroidered net, or with one of the dainty frillings of batiste and lace shaped to fit a circle. This frilling is sold by the yard. Some extreme novelties in colored embroideries are shown, but white is far more popular.

On Tennis Courts

Some of the smart set are appearing at tennis wearing a variation of the ski socks which came into vogue for winter sports last year and which roll down about the ankle. Over these the ordinary tennis shoes are worn.
The socks frequently match the bandage.
