FULTON, KENTUCKY, FRIDAY JUNE 8, 1934.

NUMBER NINETEEN.

OLDTIMERS INVITED TO FULTON FOR BIG ANNIVERSARY EVENT

Mrs. Allie Edwards of Chickasha, Okla., Witnessed Arrival of First Train in Fulton.

The gala celebration to be held in Fulton on July 4th, commemorating the Eightieth Anniversary of Railway transportation in West Kentucky, will be attended by hundreds of former residents of this section, who will gather here in a big homecoming. The committee in charge of the celebration is planning to provide special inducements for these old residents to come to Fulton. It is planned to offer prizes for the oldest married couple attending, and for the person coming from the greatest distance.

This week an interesting letter was received from Duncan, Okla., from C. M. Browder, a former resident of this community. It is so unusual that it merits publication in its entirety:

Duncan, Okla., June 3, 1934.
Mr. J. Paul Bushart, Fulton County News, Fulton, Ky. Dear Sir:
Being an old Fulton boy, altho I have been away from there more than thirty years, I am always interested in Fulton, Fulton people and any news from there. I am always glad to get your paper and scan it for news or familiar names. However, the majority of names mentioned are now strangers to me. I read with interest of the unique Fourth of July celebration that you are planning in celebrating the eightieth anniversary of the first train into Fulton, and am sure that it will prove a complete success, and draw crowds from many miles around.

My aunt, Mrs. Sallie Edwards, formerly Sallie McFall, now 86 years of age and living in Chickasha, Okla., was visiting me when I received your paper giving the first account of the celebration, and when I mentioned the event to her, she said she well remembered her father taking the family in their wagon to Fulton to see its first train come in. At that time she lived with the family at the old McFall home about three miles southeast of Fulton, and if I am not mistaken, the old house and barn is still standing, and was in pretty good condition when I last saw it about ten years ago.

I was just wondering, and thought it would be very interesting to see a record of the names of any old time citizens that remember this event, and thought by giving it a little publicity through your paper, you might get a very interesting document.

Assuring you that I would very much enjoy helping to celebrate this coming event if it were possible, and wishing you success in same, I am,
Yours very truly,
C. M. BROWDER.

NEW PLAYERS FEATURE IN VICTORY OVER MARTIN

Dunn, Hagagard, and Lancaster Put New Pep In Local Club

Starting off with a rejuvenated lined the local Boosters outfit, outplayed and outfielded the Martin Shirtmakers here yesterday afternoon on the Fairgrounds diamond, and romped off with an 8 to 4 victory. Fulton collected 13 hits which were good for 23 bases while all the Shirtmakers could do was collect 9 hits for only 11 bases.

Jumping on Martin the first inning Fulton scored two runs on three hits and a base on ball. Then in the 4th round they collected two doubles, three singles and a sacrifice netted four more tallies. In the 7th inning after Sawyer had sent a single to left McKinney shot a terrific homerun deep into right field. Martin score in the 1st, 2nd, 5th and 6th innings.

Hagagard, Fulton's new second baseman who hails from Fort Smith, Ark. made his debut yesterday in rousing fashion by covering more ground than any second baseman Fulton has had in some time. His hitting was also good. The most spectacular play of the day went to Dunn, Fulton's new receiver who played the position superbly by giving Fulton fans a real taste of first class catching. The twirling of Lancaster also a new man was hard for any team to beat, letting the Martin lads down on two runs and five hits in the last seven innings. Curly in at short was a pip.

Fulton Boosters play Martin there Sunday.

FLIRTING WITH CRIME

A law is useless without the means of enforcing it. Fulton is faced with the problem of providing adequate police protection to the entire city. To us it seems that there is a very imperative need of a patrol car to be used by night officers for keeping a weathered eye upon law-breakers.

Insufficient police protection, because of the lack of equipment, is an invitation to prowlers, thieves and robbers.

Recently, following an epidemic of robberies in the city, the council voiced its intention of obtaining a patrol car so that officers might cover a wider circuit of patrol in both the downtown and residential districts. So far no results have come out of this good intention.

The territory covered by officers who are afoot is necessarily limited, and existing conditions compel night patrolmen here to give very little attention to the protection of the residential section. Even the business district cannot be properly watched. Those who plan depredations or robberies first spot the officers on one side of town, then commit the unlawful deed in another section of the city. They realize how hard it is for an officer to be in two places at once.

In this age of automobiles and swift escape from a scene of crime municipal police departments must be prepared to meet the criminals on equal terms at least. Officers on foot can deal with crooks in automobiles.

Fulton has an unusual situation. Being located on the focal point of such a large railway system as the Illinois Central, and on the crossroads of several highways, Fulton is subjected to the depredations of transient thieves and criminals. This condition, naturally, cannot be helped. But steps can be taken to have our night officers to patrol a wider area inside the city.

A patrol car is needed, and it is needed badly. Fulton has one of the poorest equipped police departments for the size and location, of any city in this entire section. We might as well face the facts. A community without adequate protection is open for invasion. And in times like the present crime needs no invitation. Another epidemic of robberies is inevitable, and a patrol car will help afford better protection. Naturally, it won't stop pillage entirely, but it will enable the department to keep a safer patrol, and assist in getting the officers to the scenes of crime much quicker.

Anyone in touch with local conditions, can readily realize the extent. It is possible to stage a policeman's ball or some other form of entertainment for the purpose of raising money to purchase a patrol car.

I. C. PUTS ON NEW TRAIN

The World's Fair Special, a new train running between Fulton and Memphis, has been placed in service to connect here with the Seminole Limited. It makes the run from Fulton to Memphis in two hours and 35 minutes, leaving here at 8:15 A. M., then starts back at 6:05 P. M. This train is composed of the engine, baggage car, day coach, chair car, pullman and diner.

It is expected that Sunday will mark another change in schedules with the Louisville trains going on through to Memphis. Hub Williams, trainmaster, has been working on the changes this week.

It is rumored the Panama Limited will be put back into service in a few months, and will be a new, and finer stream-lined type in design. Officially, however, this is only under consideration, and has not been announced as a certainty.

Mrs. Smith Fields has returned home after spending several months in Springfield, Ill., with Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Rice. Mr. and Mrs. Rice and son, Edwin Cook Jr., accompanied her home to spend several days.

Mrs. D. K. Gwaltney and children of Corinth, Miss., arrived Tuesday afternoon to be the guest of Mrs. Smith Fields on Edgings-st.

Mesdames L. O. Bradford, Walter Morris and Sara Mencham visited Mrs. C. W. Miles in Union City Monday.

Theft and robbery continue in Fulton. Frank Chandler, colored, a peeping tom caught last week and thought mentally deranged, was removed to the Hickman jail this week. Thieves entered the home of Marshall Cole on Fifth-st. Sunday night and stole an overcoat, clothing and personal belongings. Mrs. A. J. Turney who has recently returned from a visit in Huntington, reports that thieves entered her home while she was gone and took several valuables.

Lon Adams police court has been busy this week passing out fines and sentences.

"Has anybody seen my wife?" So asked Peter Lastraglio, of Long Island, N. Y., when he appeared at police headquarters here this week. He came here with his daughter in search of his wife, who he said had eloped for the second time with John Gullledge, believed to be in or around Murray.

Rev. Guess and Hon. Flavious B. Martin will speak at the Water Valley Methodist church Sunday afternoon at 2:30 on the question of prohibition.

ENGINEER SURVEYS SITE FOR NEW BRIDGE HERE

Federal money may be allotted to build a bridge on Highway 45 leading through Missionary Bottom toward Mayfield, near the city limits. A county road project is also contemplated if a bill now before Congress is approved.

This bill would provide an appropriation of $400,000.000 for construction work on federal and county highways. Twenty five percent of this amount will be available, according to this bill, for use on federal highways inside corporate limits of towns. The bridge mentioned in Missionary Bottom would be the only one eligible for an appropriation. An engineer was in Fulton last week. He stated such projects are hard to find in Western Kentucky, and expressed the opinion that the Fulton bridge would be approved if the bill becomes a law.

Mrs. Eunice Roberson, Mrs. Hoyt Moore, Miss Martha Moore and Jack Moore are spending several days in St. Louis.

"KINGFISH" LAFFOON

Huey Long of Louisiana has some real competition now that "Kingfish" Laffoon has got into the running. The Kentucky Kingfish wants to run things his way, or turning all the prisoners out of the penitentiary. Some of his assertions are so impossible that they smack of ludicrous.

Unless the revenue deadlock that has held the House in its grip almost since the special session started on May 9 is broken this week, the current meeting of the Kentucky General Assembly probably will last longer than the 1933 special session. The 1933 session lasted 43 days and was deadlocked for a long time over the controversial sales tax, which has again been the stumbling block of the present meeting.

Laffoon and legislative forces expressed the opinion when the special session was called that it would be over in twenty days. But they reckoned without the stiff opposition against their pet revenue bill, the sales tax. In the meantime, nothing has been done to balance the budget, and dissension and inaction are costing the people additional thousands of dollars.

THE SOUTH

"What is needed above all, is a better understanding by the mass of the people of the realities of economic life in the cotton area in the future," Secretary of Agriculture

Wallace recently stated "There must be greater immunity among the mass of the people from the hell-raising proclivities of the political demagogues thirsting only for power."

American exports of cotton to other nations of the world except the Orient have fallen off and the gain in the Orient has been only about 150,000 bales, while the exports to the non-Oriental countries are more than 400,000 bales less than those for the same period, a year ago.

It is believed in many quarters that reciprocal tariff arrangements with other countries offer the greatest hope of correcting the export situation which is growing worse instead of better.

IN THE OLD DAYS

In connection with the celebration of the Eightieth Anniversary of the Railroad in this section many interesting facts have developed. Going back to that period before the horseless carriage (automobile), the iron horse (train) and aeroplane were introduced into our transportation fields, much romance and history is attached to that period when America was just a youth fighting its way upward to manhood.

Many interesting incidents have been brought to our attention recently, some of them very gripping. There was that time that George Rogers Clark's expedition passed through this section and established a fortification at old Fort Jefferson on the Mississippi River just below where Wickliffe now stands. Later on came the Jackson Purchase, of which West Kentucky is a part. Old Wadesboro was the first governmental center in West Kentucky, and a laid office was set up there. A little later Columbus was made the county seat of Hickman county. Still later Fulton County and other counties in West Kentucky, were formed out of portions of the original Hickman county. Mills Point (now Hickman) was established as the county seat of Fulton county and remains such to this day.

Just this week we received a letter from C. M. Browder, who resides in Duncan, Okla., in which he states that his aunt, Mrs. Sallie Edwards, now 87 years of age, and living in Chickasha, Okla., remembers coming to Fulton with her father in an old spring wagon to see the first train come in. At that time the family resided near Fulton.

Ah, these old memories are cherished by these pioneering people! Hardly a day goes by unless some Oldtimer relates to us a story about the Olden Days, now that so much interest is being manifested in the 80th anniversary celebration of the railroad. We are always glad to hear about those incidents of the past, and shall be glad to present them to our readers.

We have a fine collection of historical data filed away about Fulton county and West Kentucky, and some day we might compile it in pamphlet form.

All the world needs is an agreement not to have any more wars until the old ones are paid for.

Try to live every day so your friends will be sorry you are not twins and you'll get along all right.

BEANS—String and Otherwise

We might make a parody on that favorite of nursery days and say, "The world is so full of a number of beans, I'm sure we should all be as happy as queens." For there are dozens of varieties of beans, you know, from the baked beans of Boston to the tender string beans that Parisians always serve as a course by themselves. And there are dozens of ways of serving them—as separate courses, in salads, in soup, combined with meats, in timbals and in souffles.

For years now we have realized that the bean was one of the more important foods because they're so rich in vitamins as well as minerals. But one of the big stumbling blocks was the cooking of these vegetables. Who wants to eat limp, brown string beans, pallid wax beans or water-logged lima beans? Nobody, of course. So here are a few rules about the cooking of beans. A good way to test the freshness of string and wax beans is to snap them. If they snap easily, they are fresh.

Research has shown that vegetables cut lengthwise do not lose so much of their precious vitamin content, so slice your green beans into tiny slivers the length of the bean. Then cook them in swiftly boiling water just until they are tender, but not a second longer. A pinch of baking soda added to the water helps to preserve that luscious, garden-green color. Treat wax beans the same way and add a drop or two of cooking oil to the water instead of soda. This brings out the flavor of the bean. Fresh lima beans should be cooked in rapidly boiling, salted water just a little longer than the fresh variety. Try them baked too.

They are delicious when combined with tiny sausages, covered with a tomato sauce and baked for 30 minutes.

Here are a few new and different recipes for the preparing of beans—string and otherwise—that we hope you'll enjoy.

FRENCH BEAN SALAD

Cook fresh green, snap beans until tender. Drain and cool. Marinate in French dressing, pile in mounds on crisp lettuce leaves and garnish with a paper-thin slice of onion and a bit of pimiento. Serve with French dressing made with onion juice.

BEAN CHOWDER

Parboil one cup of red kidney beans for five minutes. Drain and rinse. Put on fire again with plenty of water and let simmer until very tender. Add 1 cup of canned corn, 1-2 cup tomato juice and four slices of bacon cut in small pieces and browned in skillet. Add a few drops of onion juice and cook until well blended, season with salt and pepper and serve piping hot.

LIMA BEANS En Casserole

4 cups fresh lima beans, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 3 slices bacon, 1 small onion, 1 cup tomato pulp. Wash beans and put in casserole, chop bacon, add onion which has been chopped fine and browned. Add seasonings and tomato pulp. Pour over lima beans, add enough water to half cover the beans and cook in a slow (350 F) oven until beans are tender.

BAKED BEANS

Wash and pick over one pound of beans. Soak over night. In morning parboil until the skins just begin to break. (1/2 teaspoon soda may be added if desired). Drain and place 1/2 of the beans in a baking dish. (Regular bean pot is preferable) Add 2 table-spoons dark molasses, 1 table-spoon brown sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 1/2 cup chili sauce and 1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Add remainder of beans. Add enough water to just cover the beans. Lay bacon strips across the top and bake eight hours in a slow (350 F) oven.

Thomas Jefferson, the third President, and the author of the Declaration of Independence, often remarked during his lifetime, that he would be ready and willing to die if he could live to see the United States fifty years old.

He died on that very day, July 4, 1826, as did also the second president, John Adams. The third president to die on July 4th, was James Monroe, Father of the Monroe Doctrine, and the fifth president of the United States. He died on July 4th, 1831. This year July 4th falls on Wednesday. Last year it came on Tuesday and next year it will be Thursday. But the following year in 1936 it will fall on Saturday, skipping a day—Friday.

U. S. A. GOES ALONE

In declaring its monetary policy the United States has acted alone, regardless of the opinion of foreign nations. They have been left to handle their own monetary problems, while this country works out its own salvation. President Roosevelt's first thought is of the people of the United States. And this seems to be a new way of looking at things. Some have been advocating "see America first." But we advocate "save America first."

PILES OR HEMORRHOIDS

Of all the diseases to which the human flesh is heir, none is of more common occurrence, more annoying or more acutely painful than piles. Piles are met with at all times, in all climates, in all races, in both sexes, at all ages and in all walks of life. Adults are most usually affected and men more than women. Piles are most often due to some bodily condition interfering with the return flow of the venous blood

"You earn your wages"

That handy servant, the telephone, is a go-getter. He chases after groceries, runs to the drug-store, carries messages here, there and everywhere, and only asks a few cents a day as his wages.

It does not matter who you want or why, whether it be day or night, storm or sunshine. Lift the receiver to order a loaf of bread—casually call a friend for a brief chat—or speed a frantic summons to the doctor, it is all in the day's work to the telephone.

If you are trying to get along without a telephone in your home, it will pay you to investigate the small cost, and the different types, of telephone service.

You will then very likely agree with most folks, who believe it costs more to try to do without telephone service than it does to have it.

For information, just ask any of your friends with the telephone company, or call at the telephone Business Office.

For the complete and lasting relief of piles, each case should be thoroughly examined by a competent physician who is well versed in this class of work. Not only the extent and character of piles should be ascertained, but all of the associated pathological conditions. All cases of piles should be treated adequately and early, not only for the relief of the pain and annoyance but because this constant irritation predisposes, in a measure, to cancer of the rectum.

Practically all cases of piles are curable or greatly relieved if properly treated. Medicine rarely cures pile, but at times will give some relief. The non-surgical treatment, of internal piles has been greatly improved in the past few years and it is now possible to relieve or cure ninety percent of the cases by this method.

In the hands of a medical man, thoroughly trained in this work, the non-surgical treatment of piles is safe and almost painless, does not require hospitalization or loss of time from work, and there is no excuse for any sufferer of piles to continue to carry around with him this painful and at times serious condition.

REXALLS WIN THIRD GAME

Just three little words, "too much Smith," "Red" let McConnell down with three hits and, but for wobbly support by the infield, would have had a shut out. Rawls for McConnell did not pitch a bad game, allowing only three hits and was also the victim of bad support in the pinches. Weather drove in the tying and winning runs with a timely single.

The score was Rexalls 4, McConnell 3. Batteries, Rexalls, Smith and Bone; McConnell, Rawls and Vowell.
