Highest Vote In Many Years Cast Here Saturday

Clements, Stewart Are Victorious

GOVERNMENT OF KENTUCKY
COUNTY OF MARSHALL
ELECTIONS

Of the lightest votes in years was cast in Saturday's election when less than 100 voters took time out to go to the polls and vote. The old political observers do not think when so few citizens vote in both parties and the total vote for the county is so low.

Glenn Hatcher, chief clerk of the county, carried the Governor's race for the Republican candidate, James W. Brown, over the Democratic candidate, James L. Delk, by a margin of 185 to 135. Hatcher also carried the race for the county clerk, James W. Brown, over the Democratic candidate, James L. Delk, by a margin of 185 to 135.

Stewart won the race for the county clerk, James W. Brown, over the Democratic candidate, James L. Delk, by a margin of 185 to 135.

BRIDGE TO CITY PARK ON POPLAR NEARS COMPLETION

A new bridge connecting Poplar street with the City Park is rapidly nearing completion. The new structure will open up a completely new avenue for Benton residents to reach the park without traveling the busy Murray highway.

The project is one of the many improvements undertaken by the city of Benton.

New gravel approaches to the bridge have been built and when the bridge is completed a complete circular drive can be made from the city to the park.

Mayor Jim Kinney said that he hoped the bridge would be ready in time for use during the Marshall County Fair.

FISH AND WHALE TALKES

Ye fishy editor has heard several comments on last week's fish story as told by Game Warden J. D. Woods, and to the shouting of names, we again say, "it was all true," except of course, that part about the tail feathers and the Negro throwing in the towel.

Mr. Trevaathan reports two strippers biting again. Friday he got the limit of 15 and Monday morning he went back and got 11—Tuesday it was zero. They hadn't come home from road.

Super duper for these days! John and Walker Strow got up before break-dance Monday and went South from the Nash head docks, returned home about 9:00 A. M., with seven nice small and big mouth bass, the biggest one would have weighed about 3 1/2 pounds and on down to 1 1/2. They were all nice ones. Only one small one. They hit a hula popper and were caught casting.

Doctor-esses Joseph R. Miller and Geo. C. McClain tried the crappie route this week and reports are the ladies brought in 45 or 50 nice ones.

Reports from Big Bear Creek also show big improvement and visiting fishermen have been having fair to good luck for the past week or 10 days.

Better get out the old rod and reel while they're jumping at hula and poppers—no last long.

Observations

(Old Kodger's Column)

"THE ROAD TO HELL WILL be paved with people of good intentions and good motives," so said Gabriel Heatter, in a recent broadcast. Wonder what road will be paved with people of bad motives and intentions?

THE COMMENTATOR WAS

speaking concerning hoarding, appeasement to Russia, and other problems concerning the war in Korea. Gabriel blows his horn (not at midnight), but at 6:30 week-days over station WK YB—22 miles North of here.

THERE WAS A LOT OF KICK

in another newspaper article a few days ago when an editor tried to define the word "capitalist," and quoted from another newspaper as his proof. He seemed to want to impress everyone that any person who owned a hammer, a saw, a plow, or any thing, that he was a capitalist. It is true this owner is a capitalist, but . . .

IS HE THE TYPE OF

a capitalist that tries control everything within his power? If he bought up all of the hammers and saws in the country and then forced those who want that which he has, to pay an exorbitant price, then he would be altogether a different type of capitalist. It is true that if we own anything, we are capitalists, and we know some small later size capitalists who can be just as cruel as the king-sized ones.

NO DOUBT BUT WHAT THERE are communistic and socialist capitalists that are as powerful as dollar dizzies as anyone. It is this greed and lust for power that has caused nations to rise and to fall for thousands of years. The big monopolist has no patents or copyrights upon the "lust for power"—it lurks within the minds of the communist as it does in the fascist. This puzzling thing is, very few realize where it may be leading to.

ENOUGH OF THIS LUST FOR

praise, power, and the lust to rule, can lead to a total or partial depravity of the mind. Just a few days ago I was talking to a world war 2 G. I., and we discussed the atrocities of the North Koreans who shot our captured and wounded. He said, "oh well, some of our own get just as bad," and then he told of an U. S. Lieutenant who found a badly wounded German boy who was begging for help and mercy, and gritting his teeth the U. S. soldier shot the boy through the head.

OF COURSE WAR IS WHAT

General Sherman defined it to be. Soldiers do not rush up to an enemy, tap him on the shoulder and say: "I'm going to shoot you, turn around." A big amount of depravity has been instilled into his mind at home by both types of capitalists, and by training before reaching the battle or slaughter lines. Then as an after effect, he brines some of a partially or wholly depraved feeling for use upon others or for the beginnings of another bloody war.

IF WE CONTINUE IN A SEMI

or partially depraved condition of lust for power and dollars, and we eventually succeed in destroying nearly all of our race, will we then exert the last ounce of our depravity by claiming that the Master of man brought a curse upon us? Surely, there must be something else besides communist or socialist or any type of capitalists that could save us from confusion and bloody wars every few years. Are the material things of life all that count? If so, then total depravity is not many jumps ahead of us.

IS THERE A WAY OUT OR

around it? There must be, but who is going to find and accept it? We are too busy seeking the material things of life; too busy to study the causes and effects. We seek peace and contentment but mostly through the dollar or material value sign. There once was a time when our country was honored because of what it stood for. If we needed help others came to assist because of the principles we advocated.

Now, the dollar sign takes precedence. Where? Over there And where else? Let's look around our own back yard and then in depravity by claiming that the

Looking At Life

By Wrey Woodson Cross

Now that the rolling pin has become an antique, the blowtorch (an even more dangerous weapon for husbands) is being added to the ever increasing list of kitchen gadgets.

The Chicago firm that manufactures the new kitchen-size blowtorch reports that the women can use the new appliance on such useful tasks as singing the pin feathers from poultry, removing paint, lighting the wood in the fireplace and removing putty from around window glass. One resourceful woman was said to have used the blowtorch to brown the meringue on a lemon pie.

And the manufacturer didn't say so, but the torch could be used to give the hot-foot to some of us guys that like to spend a lot of time in an easy chair with a good mystery yarn.

Soil Conservation Notes By Herbert Anderson

How many grass land farmers are there in the Calvert City community?

The number there has been increased by Luther Draffen, the owner and Tommie Smith, the operators of a 114 acre farm three miles west of Calvert City.

In May 1947, Smith and Draffen requested assistance from the Marshall County Soil Conservation District. A complete soil and water conservation farm plan based on the capability of the land was made for the farm with the help of Soil Conservation Service technicians working for the district.

Forty-eight acres of land was planned for row crop at that time as most of the farm could be cropped successfully after proper drainage work was done.

Now after seeding all but 24 acres of the farm to grasses and legumes Tommie Smith says, "I don't see any need for row crop on the farm, we are going to sow the rest of it down this fall after harvesting the seed."

Ky. 31 Fescue and ladino clover has been the permanent pasture mixture used on most of the farm. One field of this is extra good. The reason — a crop of beans was turned under just before seeding time in the fall. This loosened the wet, tight soil and gave the grass roots a better chance to grow.

Mr. Draffen tells us, "We started with 5 acres of fescue and five Whiteface heifers in 1947; now there are 23 in our herd."

Hay is cut from 8 acres of alfalfa and bluegrass and two acres of alfalfa and orchard grass. Very little land round Calvert City is well adapted to alfalfa. This on the Draffen farm is doing well on deep, well drained, sandy river terrace soil.

Lloyd Collie, Fairdealing, is turning under knee high lespedeza on ten acres which will then be seeded to rye and vetch or crimson clover for a winter pasture. What his sheep fails to eat will be turned under next spring.

I helped him stake off a contour line for breaking and seeding one field. Another field will be broken with the terraces and seeded.

Teen-Talk-

By John Batzel

Dear Readers,

Once again I find myself at the typewriter trying to think of something to say. I thought!

I took a counting on the most popular songs of the teenagers of Benton, and this is the way they rate in popularity. Mona Lisa; Third Man Theme and Bonaparte Retreat tied; Bewitched; Bothered and Bewildered; Sentimental M; Goodnight Irene. "That Goodnight Irene is one of the new folk songs, and it will soon be one of the favorites of many. Another song that is coming up fast in the sentimental line is Count Every Star. Low down on the Poll were I wanna Be Loved, and Sometime, which are holding their own on the road to popularity.

Here's the old calendar again. It's only twenty-six days until school starts. While I'm on the calendar subject, I'll let you know whose birthday is Friday 11th of August 1959. Joanne Lee Hiatt will be 19 years old. She's almost out of our class now. We sorta hate to see people leave the teens.

Last Friday, Joe Coulter saw me, and asked that I get a few boys to help sweep out the community building, and I did. Out of the ten I asked, five agreed to come, and when 1:30 rolled around, only Luther, Tommy and myself were there. Of course, there were some older men there. When we got that place cleaned out, it was looking pretty good. They can remember us when they walk on our clean floor. By the by, it isn't very long until the Community Center will be open. Here's one boy who will be glad, and I know of several others who will be glad, too.

Bulletin From Benton: Curtiss Lee Grace, that well known Magistrate let it be known that he was plumb downright peeved because he had to do the same thing Tuesday night, that he did Saturday night. — I wish I could have helped you, Curley!

Johnny Linn, the whachumacallit of Benton, says he's no Homb! Another statement for the press (luckily was there) when Bill Cums uttered the famous and immortal words, "I'm tired."

Poor Bill was sick the other day. He carried a cue nine miles around a billiard table and pushed a lawn mower once across his thirty by twenty yard. Then he collapsed. Doctor said it was overwork, and put him to bed. Someone asked 'Pont' the other day how many people worked at his fountain. Pont said "O, about two-thirds of them." The other one is B. C. and he's not a headache powder, either! There's one good thing I can say for Bill, though—He has plenty of ambition. The other day, he told me that he wanted to be a lipman for a wireless telegraph company.

O, me I'd better quit on that one! Adios.

He Loved Teaching

Lesson for August 13, 1959

WHAT WOULD you do if you had a million dollars? Several thousand school teachers were asked that question a few years ago. Seventy-five per cent of them gave the same answer: "I'd resign." They weren't real teachers, they were only hired help. The other twenty-five per cent were the real teachers. A great university teacher, Palmer of Harvard, wrote that he had the perfect job. Believe it or not, he said, "Harvard actually pays me for doing what—if I could afford it—I would gladly pay Harvard to let me do."

Dr. Foreman wrote that he had the perfect job. Believe it or not, he said, "Harvard actually pays me for doing what—if I could afford it—I would gladly pay Harvard to let me do."

No Finished Product

THE REAL thing about teaching is that you are dealing with people, young people, growing people. In every other line of business, whatever you turn out begins to depreciate almost as soon as it leaves the factory.

It doesn't take long for butter to get rancid, or bread stale. A cold-storage egg is a feeble imitation of a fresh one. A car that has changed hands once, even if it has run less than 1,000 miles, is already a "used" car on its way to the junk-pile.

But the products of the teacher's classroom are by no means "finished" products when they leave it, even if it is a finishing school. If the teacher's work has been done well, the product will go on improving for years. Instead of running down.

Three Aims

PROFESSOR EZRA, of Babylon and Jerusalem, was one of history's most famous teachers. We note (Ezra 7:10) the same three aims in Ezra's life that you would expect to find in all good teachers. First of all, he "prepared his heart" to do what he did. The "heart" is the Bible expression for character, for life as a whole. No one can be a truly good teacher who has a bad character.

Now Ezra prepared his heart to do three things. The first was to "seek the law of the Lord." What a teacher teaches may be as important as who his pupils are; and Ezra's "subject" was the law which God had given his people—part of what we now call the Old Testament. Nowadays this is called research, but a simple word for it is just study. A lazy teacher is a poor one. A good teacher will spend more time studying than any of the pupils do—and will learn more, too. In fact, the best way to learn anything, including the Bible, is to try to teach it for a while.

Second, Ezra prepared his heart to do the law. The old sneer, "He who can, does; he who cannot, teaches," is true of poor teachers, not of the good ones. Particularly not true of Bible teachers. The aim of Bible teaching, from Moses' time till now, is always practical, "Faith is in order to goodness," as the Presbyterians say. One who has not tried out the Bible ideals in daily living will never do for a Bible teacher.

And third, Ezra set out to "teach in Israel." Your research scholar may or may not make a good teacher. The good teacher is not bored by teaching as some researchers are. He loves it. He is happiest at it.

Take Yourself, for Example

NOW LET US see how this comes out in your own home Sunday school. If yours is like most Sunday schools, the main trouble with it is that they can't find enough good teachers, enough people who really want to know about God's word themselves, who live and love to help others know it.

The Rev. H. M. Lewis of Texas has said in his essay, The Dividends of Teaching:

"When you begin to teach you will realize that at last you have found a purpose for your religion. . . . Teaching gives a motive, the highest motive, for all acts of religion and for all pursuit of knowledge—"For their sakes." Every Christian has the missionary obligation and is by virtue of his profession of faith, a missionary—"Go, teach all nations." Make your particular nation young America and your special opportunity, systematic work in the Church school. Once you believe that you must be a teacher because you are a Christian . . . you will have heard your life's call."

No More Damp Cellars, Dusty Drives

Summer is almost here, and with all its easy outdoor living which homeowners look forward to, it also brings some discomforts. High on this list of discomforts is the damp, clammy cellar, that encourages rust, mildew and rot. Another is the dust from driveways and unpaved streets, that makes housecleaning constant and breathing distasteful. This is the story of a homeowner who decided to do something about these two summer bugaboos, and found an easy, economical way to keep his cellar moisture-free all summer. In doing so he made the cellar a more pleasant place to work, and saved the loss of rusting tools, mildewing cloth materials and rotting window and door frames.

As calcium chloride draws moisture out of the air it liquefies. To catch this liquid Troha placed containers under each bag. In experimenting with the liquid he discovered by putting it on his gravel driveway with a sprinkling can, it held down all the driveway dust, even on the hottest, driest day. For larger driveways, roads or playgrounds it may be applied as shown below.

In addition to the dust binding qualities of the liquid, Troha further found that if properly applied it would kill weeds. And if that isn't enough to qualify calcium chloride as a cure-all for the homeowner, this same solution came up with an amazingly simple solution for both. A thirty-year veteran with Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's Chemical Division, Frank Troha experimented with some of their calcium chloride to keep his basement dry. This chemical draws moisture from the air. He rigged up two or three containers for the chemical using burlap sacks supported by a broomstick rack, similar to the one shown in the sketch. He then placed them around his basement and waited. In a matter of hours the cellar was noticeably drier. He had spread on walks and driveways in the winter will prevent ice from forming.

BELLS RING IN CHICAGO

The ancient art of carillon playing is spreading from its cradle in the Low countries to America this year.

A Dutch bell founder is shipping one of his finest carillons to Chicago for the First United States International Trade Fair which will be held next August 7-20.

The carillon has 25 bells which weigh up to 17 tons and a 50 foot steel frame of special design to support them. In addition there is a keyboard and electrical machinery for automatic operation.

The difference between a carillon and an ordinary set of bells is not too well known in this country. Briefly, a carillon is a set of bells that cover at least two octaves (23 bells) in chromatic series. They are perfectly tuned and harmonies are produced by playing two or more bells together. Just like on a piano or organ, any musical composition can be played on the carillon.

An expert carillonneur can give an infinite variety of expression to the bells, imparting a personal "touch" even to the mighty "bourbon" bell of the carillon which weighs probably a hundred times more than he does.

Tradition is the backbone of bell-founding. One of these traditions has been to inscribe the bells with mottoes and songs.

A Netherlands bell which was carried off by the Nazis during the war to be melted into cannon metal and to demoralize the Dutch had been inscribed, "Bells away—Country astray." When a new bell was installed after the war, it said, "Jerries down, Bells back in town."

Bells in many European countries have sounded the death knell of a people, but they have also been the voices when the people were most joyous.

Scientific Squeeze Play

To check the freshness of Kroger bread, Food Foundation scientists test its "crumb compressibility." That's scientific talk for squeezing the loaf to see how fresh it is. As a result of their scientific squeezing, Kroger scientists have come up with a bread that's softer and better tasting than ever before. Through constant research and practical tests continued progress is made on the quality of Kroger products.

Next To Godliness

Safety first is the precept wise mothers put into practice when summer heats down. Before it's a real holiday for Mother, she'll want to assure herself she has done all she can to make her child reasonably safe from the threat of such seasonal terrors as polio.

Frequent hand washing by the children serves as a good precaution against contagion—particularly when the hands are scrubbed thoroughly—and to this end Katherine Foster of Frontier & Gamble advises the use of a gentle, abrasive, special action soap like Lava. Since children are apt to whisk through washing motions haphazardly, they'll need a fast, thoroughly cleansing soap that can do the job in a matter of seconds.

Suggestions from National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis

A series of preventive suggestions is offered by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. They stress frequent washing of the hands, plenty of rest, avoiding crowds, unnecessary trips and extreme temperature changes. They also emphasize avoiding panic, when trouble is suspected. Rather, summon a physician immediately.

In emphasizing the need for frequent hand washing, the Foundation urges special attention before meals, after the toilet, and whenever hands have become soiled by oral or nasal discharge.

This training may pay dividends of many happy healthy hours of play for the child—as well as peace of mind for the parents.

To protect against polio and other communicable diseases, Mother must make the youngster his own guardian against germs—by teaching him the value of cleanliness.

Proclamation

BY THE Governor OF THE Commonwealth of Kentucky

To All To Whom These Presents Shall Come:

WHEREAS, Kentucky is basically interested in the welfare of its most valuable resource, the SOIL; and,

WHEREAS, in view of the fact that our soil is being depleted by our present farming practices, a program to combat this needless waste has been inaugurated with the goal in mind of turning our fields into beautiful green pastures and meadow land; and

WHEREAS, the month of August is set aside as a period to emphasize the value and accomplishments of these efforts to improve our soil and the economic lot of Kentuckians;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Earle C. Clements, Governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, do hereby proclaim the month of August, 1950, as GREEN PASTURE MONTH IN KENTUCKY and urge that each farmer participate and every citizen closely observe the efforts and achievements of this program to make Kentucky a better place in which to live.

Done at Frankfort, Kentucky, this the sixth day of June in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and fifty, and in the year of the Commonwealth the one hundred and fifty-ninth.

Pond Fishing In Kentucky

If a single one-pound fish were taken from each farm pond in the state of Kentucky on a given day, the yield of fish for that day would weigh more than 20 tons. And this is not an impossible statement. Twenty tons of fish could very easily be hoisted from more than 100,000 farm ponds that dot the landscape of Kentucky from the mountains, down through the bluegrass section and in the flatlands along the Mississippi River in the Western part of the commonwealth. To be sure not every one of those more than 100,000 ponds contain fish, out of the great majority have been stocked and renovated by the farmers and the Division of Game and Fish and do now contain supplies of "fishable" fish.

In the past few years hundreds upon hundreds of new ponds have been constructed by the farmers in cooperation with the Soil and Water Resources Agency, Soil Conservation Districts, and the Division of Game and Fish. Most of the ponds, as well as a great number of natural ones, have come under the experienced eyes of the Fisheries Department of the division and yearly give up much fish.

Visitors to this state are invited and urged to try Kentucky pond fishing. Local conservation officers, county agents, and Conservation Department personnel may be found in each county and these representatives are happy to give information as to which ponds to visit and what type bait to use and the types of fish which may be caught. Live bait, such as crickets, worms, minnows, and artificial lures, both plugs and flies, may be used.

Most all farmers will grant permission for visitors to fish in their ponds upon request by such sportsmen. And here's another must: To fish these ponds the fisherman must have a license. Don't forget it before loading up the creel.

Books On Boating Cover Wide Range

Whether you're a fireside companion or the active skipper of your own craft, you need only drop into the local library and the chances are good that you'll find a five-fathom bookshelf covering almost every phase of recreational boating. Within the past year, the country's publisher's have introduced a number of books which range from practical boat handling to texts on navigation.

If you're thinking of buying a boat the editors of Yachting magazine have prepared a guide to selection entitled "Your New Boat," while a similar volume, written by Howard Barnes, is available under the title, "Your Boat: Its Selection and Care." A popular standby, which has gone through a number of editions, is "Piloting, Seamanship and Small Boat Handling," by Charles F. Chapman, editor of Motor Boating magazine. Carl Lane is the author of "How to Sail," an easy to follow account of the techniques of sailing. For the boating enthusiast who can handle tools William F. Crosby, editor of Motor Boat magazine has prepared "Amateur Boat Building," a how to do it guide describing all phases of building.

In the field of motor boats, W. Melvin Crook offers engine advice for cruiser and auxiliary owners with his "Power for the Small Boat," while Porter Henry has prepared the "Handbook of Outboard Motorboating," a solid reference covering the finer points of outboard operation.

For more advanced skippers, George Mixer's "Primer of Navigation" is a standard text which found wide use during the war as a training aid for Navy and Coast Guard officers. When it comes to a solid evening's entertainment, there are host of good books on cruising the world's waterways under sail and power.

A Plan For The Future

Or A

Plan Of The Present

THE BAKER is only 19 feet wide and in most cases can be built on a lot as narrow as 25 feet. The plan consists of an L-shaped combination living-dining room, kitchen with dining space, two bedrooms and full basement. If no basement is used, the space occupied by the stairs can be converted into a utility room.

Kitchen cabinets line two walls with the sink under the windows. The refrigerator is on the left and the range on the right, which still leaves ample space for a breakfast set.

Bedroom closets are large size walk-in closets. There are coat closets in the vestibule and the rear entry. A linen closet is placed conveniently in the bedroom hall.

Plans call for a finish of either cedar shakes or wide siding. The roof, with wide eaves, is asphalt shingled.

The overall dimensions of the Baker are 19 feet x 48 feet. Floor area totals 912 square feet, while the cubage of this house amounts to 17,328 cubic feet.

For further information about THE BAKER, write the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn.

We hope we can be of service to you on plans for a New Home. We Invite you to discuss your plans with us.
