MURRAY DEBATERS WILL OPEN SEASON IN EARLY AUTUMN

M. S. T. C. Has Record of Eleven Victories In Eight-teen Contests

TO MEET CAMBRIDGE
ORATORS NEXT YEAR

With a record of 11 victories out of 18 encounters, the return of four lettermen and much probable material in college and from high schools, the varsity debating teams of Murray State Teachers College, under the coaching of Prof. L. J. Hortin will swing into action in the early fall against some of the best colleges in the south and against Cambridge, England.

Probable opponents of the Murray College orators are: McKendree College, Lebanon, Ill.; West Tennessee Teachers College, Memphis, Tenn.; St. Louis Law University and Washington University, St. Louis, Mo.; Abilene Christian College, Abilene, Tex.; Middle Tennessee Teachers College, Murfreesboro, Tenn.; and M. College, Starksville, Tenn., and Cambridge, Eng.

The Cambridge-Murray debate, which will probably be held in October, will be a meeting to which debaters, coaches and students interested in debating in West Kentucky schools are invited. This is the first event of the kind that Murray has sponsored.

Prof. L. J. Hortin, journalism instructor, who organized the Henry Clay debating club and varsity debating team in the college, will coach the forensics in the college for the third consecutive year.

The team will be chosen in the early part of the fall, according to Professor Hortin. Lettermen expected back are: Forrest C. Pogue, Jr., Clay Copeland, Reanos Newton, and Miss Onetta Weldon. Other debaters who are expected to try out are: Holman Jones, Dorothy Wymann, Miss L. Phelps, Paducah high school debater, Miss Lorraine Wyatt, Sheila Mitchell, Mayfield debater, Marie Mitchell, Tighman debater, and Mr. Pemberton, representative of McKendree College, Lebanon, Ill., in the Pi Kappa Delta contest at Wichita, Kan., last year.

Caesar Becomes Model Student

By Eugene Mitchell

Since Bobby has been away on his vacation, Caesar has been lonesome. But who wouldn't get lonesome with no one to play with? He stood the slowly passing time for three or four days, and as the only alternative he decided to go to college. Caesar did not go for the sake of an education, which the philosophers tell us is the only course open to those who desire something better, but for companionship from the standpoint of people going and coming.

Caesar loved people. He loved to be the center of attraction, to hear his name called, and to see the expression on a friendly face which showed that he was liked. From his babyhood he had never been separated from Bobby for a single night, and though Bobby had explained to him he could not go; he did not understand. He was heartbroken.

He had always been healthy. In fact, he had seldom missed a meal. But now he refused to eat for Bobby was not there to feed him, and the food others gave him he would not eat.

Seeing that Caesar could not be confined longer, Mrs. Chambers, whom Bobby had left to take care of Caesar, let him go with her to classes. In the class-room Caesar seemed to be perfectly contented. When the bell which ended the period rang, Caesar, like the students, was ready to leave. He made little noise in the class and laid serenely at the feet of Mrs. Chambers.

To the teachers he was a novelty, and when they found that he belonged to little Bobby Hester, son of the registrar of the college, they did not object to his attendance at class. In fact he was a model student. They never had to fill out absence cards for him.

Bobby is coming home next week. Then Caesar will be happy again, for he prefers to play with Bobby rather than to come to school. Friends of Caesar who have met him in the past week feel that if Bobby had known how lonesome he would be that he would have been allowed to go along to visit the aunt near Lexington, Ky.

WILSONIANS HEAR MUSIC PROGRAM

Largest Gathering of Association
This Summer Convened Tuesday, August 5.

The largest gathering of the Wilsonian Society this summer was entertained by vocal solos and trios, and by instrumental solos and quartets Tuesday morning, August 5.

The program was opened with a vocal solo by Miss Melbie Scott. She was accompanied by Mrs. F. S. Kelly. Miss Scott sang "Just That One Hour" by Avery Werner. Four members of the Kentucky Stomper orchestra, Gilbert Williams, Paul Payne Bryant, Garvie Douglas and Joe English entertained the members with two selections. Their numbers were "Whispering" and "I Miss You."

Garvie Douglas, former student of the college, gave a banjo solo, "A Cottage for Sale." He was called back for an encore number.

Two members of the old college quartet, Norman L. Galloway and J. B. Cox, critic teachers in the Training School, and a member of the present quartet, R. T. Parker, Training School student, sang "Don't Be Knocking Him Around" and "Dis Train." For an encore number they gave with the aid of an improvised orchestra, "Let the Rest of the World Go By."

Mrs. Lottie Doran Miller, president of the society, expressed her appreciation for the co-operation given by the Wilsonians.

MISS WYMAN GIVES ADDRESS TO GROUP

Mayfield Instructor Is on Program of Christian Association on August 3.

Miss Florence Wyman, Mayfield, instructor in the English department of Murray State Teachers College, gave an address to the members of the Christian Association at the college Sunday evening, August 3. Her subject was "Perfect Influence."

Miss Wyman, regular instructor in English in the Mayfield City Schools, discussed the theme from three angles, in connection with the life of the individual. They were: (1) the inward expression or being; (2) the outward impression, that of doing or activity; and (3) the liberation of the powers of others in search of the ideal.

According to the speaker, no one except the divine being can have a perfect influence. She continued by saying "I believe that we are influenced most by people who do it unconsciously, by people who have learned to live, and by watching them solve the problems that come into their lives."

ENGLISH DIRECTS JUNIOR BAND IN CHAPEL PROGRAM

Ralph Churchill Is Heard In Vocal Solos On July 31

DEAN CARR SPEAKS
BRIEFLY TO STUDENTS

The Training School band, directed by Joe English of Mayfield, vocal solos by Ralph Churchill, and a short talk by Dean John W. Carr constituted the chapel program at Murray State Teachers College Thursday morning, July 21.

Mr. English, member of the college band and the Kentucky Stompers, and his band were enthusiastically received in one of the best programs of the summer semester. The audience was surprised and delighted with the progress made by the youthful musicians, in their first public appearance. The rhythm and volume of their music would have been a credit to a much older organization.

Ralph Churchill of Murray, who is studying voice in Detroit, sang "Sunshine of Your Smile" and "King for a Day." He was accompanied by Mrs. Italy Grippio Conner.

Following the musical numbers, Dr. Carr arose in a reminiscent mood and stated: "Seven years ago today I started for Murray to open the Murray State Normal School. There was nothing to open as the land, on which these buildings now stand, was covered with stumps."

"I have been engaged in school work all of the active years of my life," said Dr. Carr, "and my greatest experience was the opening of this institution."

After telling of the phenomenal growth of Murray State Teachers College Dr. Carr gave three factors which have contributed largely to its success: the good will and co-operation of the citizens of the community; the excellent faculty; and the fine quality of the student body.

The members of the Training School band and their instruments are:

First cornets—Ralph Brauns, Y. Bennett, and R. Rowland; second cornets—J. Outland, R. McCulston, J. McElgin, J. Kelly; baritone, Parks; alto, J. P. Wilcox; R. Patterson, R. Robertson; clarinets—M. Wyatt, and J. Holcomb; saxophone, B. Myers; basses—P. Moore, and J. Williams; drums—F. Lassiter.

The following numbers were given: "Dot and Phil," march; "Rosebud," waltz; "Hymn Tune," choral; "Magdalen," waltz; "Jodel," march; "Genduso," march. A duet was given by Joe English and Gilbert Williams. Their selections were: "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise," and "Coronado." Paul Payne Bennett accompanied them.

Eight Grade Gives Impromptu Program

To prove that they are versatile at least, the eighth grade students of the Training School gave an impromptu program Monday morning, August 4, in their home room.

The class sang "America," then listened to a solo by Margaret Buchanan who sang "Ya So Wah Ton Wah."

The following readings were given: "A Negro Speech" by Elizabeth Smith; the first verse of Longfellow's "Bridge" by Hazel Simmons; "Mary Had a Little Lamb" by Lena Gray Gibbs; "A Negro Who Wanted Insurance" by Julia Hart; and "Jack" by Miss Omega Cox, a visitor.

George Erwin told the story of "Enoch Arden," and Miss Buchanan gave some incidents in the life of Scrooge, a character in the "Christmas Carol" by Dickens.

Miss Smith concluded the program by giving a synopsis of "Sir Galahad."

The Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Fowler and daughters, Elizabeth and Beulah, visited Anthol Fowler at Wells Hall Saturday, August 2. They were on their way to Milan, Tenn., where the Reverend Mr. Fowler will hold a revival at the Methodist Church.

she concluded.

The program further consisted of a vocal duet by Misses Tennessee and Frances Parker. They sang "Never Leave Jesus Behind."

Does a Fish Add Weight to Water?

By James Sanders

Does a tub of water weigh any more with a fish in it than without? This was a question that has been decided for all time at Murray State Teachers College and the Collegiate Inn.

Among the loafers, customers, and proprietors at the Inn, one can find someone who will argue either side of any question. The fish question came up and sides were quickly found. Heated arguments followed for several days with Prof. L. J. Hortin leading the negative and Raymond Hamlin and Charlie Hays supporting the affirmative.

Finally someone suggested that a good way to find out would be to get a fish and try it. There were not any fish in town except canned ones, so a search was made.

On Saturday, Charles Hay, Joe Munger, and James Sanders went to the Tennessee River and returned with a two-pound catfish. A tub of water weighing 99 pounds was placed on the scales in front of the Collegiate Inn and the fish was then dropped in. The scales went up to 101 pounds.

Miss Elizabeth Crutchfield, sophomore in the college, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Crutchfield of Wingo, Ky., over the week-end of August 2.

DRAMATICS CLASS TO STAGE PLAYS

Three One-Act Productions To Be Staged August 14
At 7:30 P. M.

Three one-act plays will be presented by the play production class of Murray State Teachers College Thursday, August 14, at 7:30 in the college auditorium under the direction of Miss Inga Faar Leine, instructor in dramatics.

The plays and the students who will act in them follow: "Mannikin and Minnikan"—a travesty by Misses Opal Wright and Camille Parsons; "Losers"—a drama by Thomas Brantley and Miss Ella Mae Megary; "Suppressed Desire"—a comedy by Miss Barbara Penno, Miss Ruth Tucker, and Elwood Gordon.

The piquant characters in the first play endeavor to straighten the angles of love. Being inanimate, this is perhaps less difficult and more whimsical. Wise Mannikin utters disparaging truths of animate creatures. "They always love somebody else, but you and I Mannikin will love each other always."

In the second play the "Losers" offer a dramatic contrast to the above play. Here one has a glimpse into tragedy developed through dishonesty on a home which was endowed with comfort and happiness. Characterizations of Mr. and Mrs. Aldred are well portrayed by Miss Megary and Mr. Brantley.

"Suppressed Desire" is a gay farce in two scenes. The subconscious is the theme. The situations are clear and brisk.

"What is a vacation? I never heard of that before," answered Prof. Price B. Doyle, head of the department of music. "I'm undecided as to whether or not I'll take a vacation. It all depends on the weather, but if it stays this hot I'm not stirring at all, but I will sit in the shade with a big lemonade by my side all the day."

Professor Doyle will resume his duties as head of the department of music again in September.

Prof. J. B. Cummings, instructor in the geography department, and wife, will visit his mother, Mrs. J. B. Cummings, and his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Travis, both of Trenton, Tenn. Societies may come and societies may go, but suspicion goes on forever. The weather may become too hot for societies, but it is never too hot for the free expression of augmented suspicion. From the moment your friend whispers, "Lean over, I want to tell you something," until you know all the sordid details of the heat is forgotten. Besides bringing the coolness of oblivion it is much more entertaining and less expensive than golf.

With the above considerations in mind, if any, and with the belief that such beneficial activities would be improved by organization, a society for the promotion of suspicion has recently been founded. It will be known as "Super-Suspicious Society." The charter members are not known but are suspected, as the writer has his suspicions. The meetings are held intermittently at various places including here and there and the Collegiate Inn. The godfather of this suspicious order is none other than Plato himself. The reasons for the choice may come from Platonic friendships or from the famous statement, "Know thy neighbor."

The meetings are opened with five seconds of silent suspicion, after which the ladies fight over the privilege of selecting food for the men, if any. Before eating, the members bow or rather lean over the table to the God of Gossip. The entire meal is flavored with the juicy fruits of suspicion. If a member overheard John Jones use the word "Mary" that member would be expected to report without hesitation that Jones accused Mary of stealing the lamb, or he might say that the convicted John Jones was trying to make a fool out of Mary. In this manner the meeting continues until all are convinced that John must be a terrible person. Oh! if his wife only knew this. Oh! then follows nominations for the object of suspicion 'till the next meeting. For the beauty of the organization lies in the feature of concentration of the aroused suspicions of the entire group on one individual. This is a vast improvement over old common method of everyone suspecting everyone else.

To be eligible for membership you must have recently been the object of suspicion. You must renounce all belief in Platonic friendships. You must be able to magnify your suspicions. You must always read between the lines, otherwise the space between the lines would be wasted, and always read the worst, for no doubt the writer had some sinister reason for leaving space between the lines. And above all you must not cultivate the friendship of the suspected person, for you run the risk of discovering your suspicions groundless. Since this would break up the society this sin has been called the "sin qua non."

If you grow weary in doing your neighbor well, just doing of the pleasure he will get from knowing his actions bring relief from the heat and furnish entertainment more entertaining and less expensive (to you) than golf.—Contributed.

RED HOT WEATHER

The greatest advantage of the hot dry weather is that it is a good topic for conversation.

One writer has said "that more is said about the weather and less about anything else than any other subject".

It can be discussed from any angle to suit the occasion.

It gives the pessimist a chance to sigh and grumble. It also gives the optimist a chance to display his coveted disposition by saying "It is certainly hot and dry, but it could be worse".

Students do not seem to appreciate the fact that the hot weather is their best excuse for not studying. Teachers forget that it is 110 degrees in the shade when they read their lists of assigned reference books.

The farmers and business men will have innocent expressions on their face when they fail. If the congregation is small in number, the faithful minister will not dare to blame anything but the weather.

Mr. Blank would probably get well if the hot weather would cease. No fault of the doctor.

People in every occupation use the weather as an excuse for their work, failure to work, methods of dress, and as an unending subject of conversation to their fellow citizens.

TRAVEL VIA BOOKS

All aboard! Get away from the crowds. Travel, but not along the beaten tracks of the tourists. Choose the path of literary men.

How and where are you going to spend your vacation? Do you want to travel, but haven't the money? Then the chance you want is here without spending your last cent.

Perhaps you would like to speed over the ocean in ease and luxury. Then read "The Ocean and its Mysteries" by A. Hyatt Verrill.

In this age many people are air-minded. Travel with Richard Evelyn Byrd, in "Skyward".

Nothing could be more appealing when the weather is 110 degrees than the "Polar Regions" by Major-General A. W. Greely. Boys of eight and men of eighty will enjoy this experience, "Train, Tracks, Travel" by T. W. Van Metre.

Just a few more books may be included: "Gulliver's Travels" by Jonathan Swift, "The Jungle Book" by Rudyard Kipling, "Winter at Cloverfield Farm" by Helen Fuller Orton, "The Children's Buildings", Lorinda Mendensohn Bryant.

An imaginary trip was taken by one of the library assistants of M. S. T. C. She came back with the following stickers on her bag:

"Join This Game and See the World", "Road to Acomac", "Travel Trails", "Alaska", "San Antonio, a City of Sunshine", "Dutchess of Sutherland", "Magic of Yellowstone", "Your Kind of Vacation", "Canada Has It, What?"

See the world at the expense of your library.

THE NEW VOGUE

The new vogue around the campus now is to be able to motivate at least a Ford with four wheels, a spare on each fender, and a great number of horns not to exceed the square of four. Also a sextet of lights placed diagonally across front, center, and rear.

Their flowing ambition is to entice the campus daily, exhibiting their driving ability and exhaust performance.

All dormitory girls have been requested to watch their flight while passing from the dormitory to the Collegiate Inn as there is a chance for a modest proposal.

This fad has been growing for many years, but the drought appears to have produced an over-supply. If drought causes the over-production, the desire for '31 is many showers.

STILL NO CHANGE

The Training School has not, so far as the College News is able to ascertain, made one step toward changing the design and color of its letters and sweaters.

Does silence give consent?

The College News is convinced that the college varsity lettermen deserve to be distinguished from the Training School lettermen.

The Training School athletes likewise deserve to be distinguished from the college men.

Will Murray State Teachers College permit another football season to open with no distinguishing insignia for the Thoroughbreds?

IS IT A LOST CAUSE?

"It is a lost cause," remarked a staff member to an editorial writer of the College News in speaking of the movement to have the parking hazard removed from the drive in front of the library and administration buildings.

The College News believes that the officials have seen the necessity to stop parking and to prohibit fast driving on the narrow drive. That the officials see the danger to the student body.

The College News does not believe that it is a lost cause and intends to publish more reminders of the danger, because it believes that administration officials will remedy the situation as soon as a solution presents itself. The officials have always made every effort to better conditions for the student body.

VACATION ONE MONTH

The grind of the wheels of the school's educating machine will slow down to a dead stillness for one month beginning August 22.

Repairs, readjustments, and overhauling will be made so that when it is cranked up on September 22, it will puff away smoothly at its task.

The College News bids you "Adieu" and a happy vacation.

Haircut, Shave, and Shampoo for 10 Cents

By Ruth McKee Hancock

John Henry Yates, who makes his home at the Graves County poor farm, visits Mayfield every day that he can possibly prevail upon a passing motorist to deposit him anywhere near the court square. John Henry points with pride to his place of residence and says that there is no one in Graves County who has a better home.

John Henry usually wears a dilapidated swallow-tailed coat and a battered brown derby. If any unthinking citizen is so careless as to stop within the range of John Henry's voice he immediately begins a conversation from which there is no escape.

One day in the spring, John Henry entered a barber shop, and after carefully surveying each barber, took his seat in the chair of one he had not seen before.

"I want a haircut, a shave, and shampoo," said John Henry. The barber warmed to his task for he saw that there was a chance to make his reputation as there was much room for improvement in John Henry's appearance.

When something like an hour had elapsed, John Henry rose from the chair and after viewing himself with a satisfied smile, donned his coat and, tipping his hat at a rakish angle, started for the door. As he passed the chair he nonchalantly laid a dime in the outstretched palm of the barber.

"Here!" ejaculated the astonished barber, "We can't furnish all that service for 10 cents."

John Henry turned slowly and with a cunning grin said, "Well, Sonny, you did do it, and with that he made his way to the street.

Sphinx Made of Soap by Artists

By Hazel Thomas

Miniatures, miniatures of everything is the fad today. A cake of soap, a nail file, and soon a miniature of the world renowned Sphinx will be watching the students in the art department of the Murray State Teachers College through the ages to come.

Gradually, day by day, under the skilled hands of Miss Bennett and the supervision of Miss Woolridge, the soap is wearing away; the Sphinx is taking form.

If that ancient figure, that tireless, sleepless rock that has watched through the ages and caused man to marvel could see this miniature of himself, he would marvel too.

Miss Mildred Ellis of Wells Hall and Otto Pards of Lola, Ky., motivated to Paducah Sunday, August 3, to visit Miss Ellis' sister, Mrs. Talmage Champion.

FEAR VS HOPE IS DEBATED BY CLUB

Albert Greer and Charles Feltner Win Over F. C. Pogue and Truman Carney.

Man is not more influenced by fear of punishment than by hope of reward, according to the decision won by Albert Greer and Charles Feltner, negative debaters, Tuesday morning, July 29, in the regular meeting of the Henry Clay Club. Prof. L. J. Horton, sponsor of the club, acted as sole judge. The losing affirmative speakers were Forrest C. Pogue and Truman Carney.

Mrs. William Grogan was unanimously elected to membership. Pogue, first affirmative speaker, defined fear of punishment as "anything to be avoided".

"A thief refrains from stealing," he contended, "because of fear of punishment, not because of hope of reward. People fear law."

"A child is a natural thief, but he fears punishment. If hope of reward has more effect than fear of punishment, why is it that man has to have rules and regulations before he will obey?" asked Mr. Pogue.

"Laws are made to inform, not to instill fear," answered Mr. Greer, who last winter was one of Murray's varsity debaters.

The modern trend in education is to refrain from punishing children, the negative showed. Modern educators, they asserted, provide hope of reward as the chief incentive to study.

In attempting to prove that fear of punishment is more influential on human conduct, Mr. Carney, debate coach of Sedalia High School, explained that the Bible contains twice as many statements using fear as it does statements using hope of reward. Hence, he concluded, since the Bible is the most influential book in the world, fear of punishment is more influential than hope of reward.

Mr. Feltner, second speaker on the negative, replied that the Bible could be used to prove anything and that in this particular case it was not conclusive evidence.

The rebuttals of all four speakers were spirited and thought provoking.

TOLERANCE URGED BY CLAY COPELAND

Editor of College News Gives Address Before Christian Association Sunday, July 13.

"Tolerance" was the subject of a speech of Clay Copeland, editor of the College News and varsity debater, before the Christian Association Sunday evening, July 13.

"The greatest of us believe a thing because our parents do, then attempt to say that we are right and others are wrong. We form a conclusion first and then try to reason that we are right instead of reasoning to a conclusion in the logical way.

"Don't judge a person by one incident," advised the speaker. "To have given a judgment on Jacob when he demanded the birthright of Esau would have been unsound generalization. Look at the whole life of Jacob before rendering a criticism.

"Just as changes have been made in the past so will they in the future, so let's be tolerant toward others' views and be ready to accept a truth," concluded the editor.

Miss Avanelle Greene presided in the absence of President Pat Brewer. "Love Lifted Me" and "Help Somebody Today" were the songs sung by the congregation. Forrest Pogue pronounced the benediction.

Golf Continues To Be Most Popular Pastime in Murray

By W. E. Mitchell

"All work and no play makes the college student dull" was the slogan which J. R. Oury advocated when he was building the La Petite golf links east of the college campus. Since the completion of the 18-hole course May 31 the sport has grown to be extremely popular.

Although it costs 25 cents to play, the student players are enabled to make golf friends of the business men of Murray, and to become acquainted with the would-be national sport in a miniature form.

The greatest rival of the Collegiate Inn does business both day and night. During the day the game is played under oak trees, and at night under the bright rays of electric lights.

Everyone is welcome on the golf links. Visitors are welcome because they might be bitten by the golf bug and succumb to the terrible golf plague. Players are welcome because every ball and stick costs 25 cents. After the game the players go to the Collegiate Inn and refresh themselves with Coca Cola and ice cream.

The Murray golfers were defeated by the Paris team in the first tournament held in Murray, but won in the meet at Paris, Brown, Houston and O'Daniel give promise of finishing the season with best scores.

Some of the best players gain free games if they can find partners who in weak moments agree to play on the condition that high man pays for both games. Others make holes in one, but the majority continue to pay their own fee, and get high scores.

Par is 48, but it has been made in 38 by Clifton Brown. Free games are given those who make the course in 42.

Miss Solomon Named As Princeton Teacher

Miss Bethel Solomon, graduate of Murray State Teachers College, has been elected to teach in the first grade of the Princeton City Schools, Princeton, Ky.

New Instructor

Miss Lillian Watters, whose picture appears above, and who has been elected a member of the music faculty of Murray State Teachers College for next year, comes directly from the Chicago Musical College, from which institution she is receiving a music degree this summer. Prior to that, she was graduated from Union University, Jackson, Tenn., and has had several years of experience in teaching in public schools and colleges.

As a member of the faculty at Murray, Miss Watters will teach courses in sight singing and also in music appreciation. This latter course, in its new organization, will be a non-technical course, the aim of which will largely be to further enjoyment of music on the part of the many who have not had opportunity for serious study of the subject.

Miss Watters will also introduce, in the Training School, class piano. This phase of music instruction, which has gained a great impetus within recent years, brings to the children, without cost, a basis for any further music training they may undertake. It has many advantages over individual instruction, especially for little children.

Thoroughly trained and experienced in this line of work, Miss Watters hopes for a large enrollment, and the administration asks for a hearty cooperation on the part of the parents of Training School children.

In addition to the work outlined above, Miss Watters will be available for private lessons.

'Gator Eats Snakes

By Eugene Boyd

The alligator, one of the live mascots of the biology department, still reigns as king of the room even if he did suffer from a full stomach of live garter snake devoured at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday.

The snake was captured by a workman on the campus and brought to the laboratory. Since there was no permanent residence for the reptile it was asked to share apartments with the 'gator. The older resident of the cage started acquaintance by beginning a quarrel.

A fight ensued and the snake tried to escape. His efforts were in vain, and the alligator conquered. As if starved he devoured the snake.

Prof. G. B. Pennebaker, biology instructor, says that the alligator suffered from a plain case of indigestion. He was just like the little boy with too much popcorn, peanuts, and pink lemonade at the circus.

Rumbles

Well, these Rumbles are going to get someone killed yet.

Already your columnist been flogged by three different persons.

But at that there is a bribe. One gentleman (?) an authority, said that the only good things about the paper were the things written in this column and the things that the rival columnists leave out.

Correspondence

Again the Dean is taking an interest in your honorable columnist. Recently a letter was received saying:

Dear Sir: This is to inform you that you lack (1) perseverance, (2) incentive, (3) endurance, (4) methods of study, (5) daily preparation, (6) eight hours sleep, and (7) a good roommate in a certain course.

Sleep

A certain long-eared, sleepy-looking gentleman (?) from the Purchase yawned, blinked, and drawled "I wish I had four more courses so I could get four more hours sleep each day."

This same person reminds us that when he takes a course one more time he will have a major in (101).

Tennessee River

After camping at Pine Bluff over the week-end two students in no mild terms described the endurance of Tennessee chickens. According to Mr. C. and Mrs. R. those chickens can run all day and swim the Tennessee river.

Endurance

Just why so much noise is broadcast about this endurance business is hard for the average college student to see. When you consider how long some stay in the same class this view can be easily understood.

The Grumbler

Looking steadily at a dish or something for breakfast, he asked: "Is that meat in that dish or am I drunk again?" It was neither. It was his imagination.

Pratings

Philosophy All Gone

The weather continues hot, and all thoughts of philosophy have gone from the office. Very little idle chatter is left. What there is I will let the public in on it.

Insurance Agents

The College News philosopher says that the College News office operates under the policy: "Every one is ignorant, a thief and a liar, and that the greatest of these is an insurance salesman."

Hogs

A member of the News Staff in speaking of the Education Day watermelon feast said that being on time was a mark of a gentleman. Having seen him rush to the watermelon, the author reminded him that it was also the mark of a hog.

Sleep

The sports editor of the College News snored so loudly in the library the other day that he caused occupants to awake. Guess what he was perusing? His instructor tells me it was History 101 (Bassett's short history).

Someone told me why he never took his own advice. He knew that it is bad.

PRESIDENT WELLS WELCOMES GUESTS TO MURRAY STATE

Characterizes Meeting As Most Important in History of Institution

MELONS ARE PROVIDED

okes, Murray, ex-regent of the college; and Mrs. W. H. Mason, Murray, regent of the college.

78 Board Members Present.

Of the 181 visitors registered, 78 were board members, 20 county superintendents, 13 city superintendents; 17 principals, 1 editor, 1 rural trustee, 1 ex-state superintendent, and two ex-county superintendents.

The delegates came from the states of Kentucky and Tennessee, and visitors were registered from New Mexico, Michigan, New York, Georgia, and Mississippi.

Delegations who registered from Kentucky counties were: Calloway 21, McCracken 8, Lyon 9, Hickman 3, Ballard 7, Marshall 11, Caldwell 6, Henderson 2, Hancock 4, Christian 14, Graves 15, Livingston 6, Trigg 2, Webster 2, Franklin 1, McLean 5, Carlisle 9, Crittenden 14, Union 5, Fulton 1, Muhlenburg 4, Fayette 1. Delegations from Tennessee counties were: Obion 5, Weakley 5, Carroll 13, and Henry 2.

Directed by Prof. John Burnham, band leader of the college, the 60-piece band of the college gave a 30-minute concert.

For the morning entertainment, Prof. Price Doyle, head of the college music department, sang two vocal solos. The women's quartet directed by Mrs. Italy Conner, sang two vocal selections, and were called back for an encore number. The members of the quartet are: Misses Louise Quetner, Agnes Johnston, Martha Sue Gatlin, Goldie Page. Miss Mary Evelyn Eaves, instructor in the piano department, gave a piano selection.

"Seven years ago," began President Wells, in welcoming the visitors, "Jersey cows and Duroc hogs were grazing out here on the campus. The growth of the college has been brought about by some of the best business talent and the finest co-operation from persons in the college and in the community."

That the college was well located geographically was evidenced when the speaker showed that Murray college was located in an area which was 150 miles from the nearest state institution.

The history of the college was traced from the time it opened its doors September 22, 1923, until the present time.

That the college abolished its normal department three years ago, the first teachers college in the state to take such action, was announced by the president.

The admission of the college to membership in the Southern Association in its fifth year and its membership in the American Association of Teachers Colleges and the Kentucky Association of colleges was shown to be a record unsurpassed by any college in the United States.

That students could get work in the college in the pre-medical and other pre-professional fields was shown by the president to be an advantage to students of the state.

Dr. Wells praised the faculty of the college and its modernly equipped laboratories and buildings for the high standard of work turned out by the college. He announced that in the academic field Murray college ranked with any college in the United States.

Visitors Introduced

After his address Dr. Wells called the regents, ex-regents, county and city superintendents, and the chairmen of the county and city boards and principals to the platform. He introduced them to the audience and told their positions.

Having given instruction that alternate classes which were not meeting at the 11 o'clock period, should meet, the president announced that in order that the visitors might see for themselves the standard of work turned out by the college, they should go on a tour of inspection of the laboratories and classrooms of the college.

Accompanied by instructors who did not have classes at that period the visitors were divided in groups in order that they might inspect the grounds. Many of them commented that they "were agreeably surprised at coming to such a great institution."

At 12:15 the group assembled at Wells Hall, college dormitory for women, where they had their dinner. They were entertained during this hour by the Kentucky Stompers, Murray novelty or-

Women Are Not More Anxious to Wed Than Men, Debaters Prove

That modern women are not more anxious to get married than men was the decision given in the Henry Clay Club Tuesday morning, July 15, at 8 o'clock when Jesse Pryor and Albert Thacker defeated Herman Perdew and Eugene Wayland Mitchell.

The decision was given by a 2-1 vote of the judges, Leslie Murdock, Barber Rogers, and Reanos Newton to the speakers on the negative side of the question: "Resolved that the modern woman is more anxious to get married than men."

Basing their contention on the argument that women have emerged from the state of slavery into freedom, the negative side successfully showed that women are no longer required to marry, first because of her economic independence, and second because of her educational advancement.

The affirmative produced statistics to show that more women have been married than men. This argument was given to prove that women are more anxious to get married than men. Frequent examples from the faculty were used to substantiate the fact that women are more anxious to wed.

The negative stated that there were 21 unmarried women instructors, while only five men had escaped the bonds of matrimony. The affirmative then replied that these women were anxious to get married if they were only given a chance.

Prof. L. J. Horton, journalism instructor and forensic coach, acted as timekeeper, and Miss Tommie Tolbert acted as chairman.

Mrs. Conner Sings

The afternoon session opened with a vocal solo by Mrs. Italy Conner, "The Street Fair." Miss Mary Evelyn Eaves gave a piano selection. Miss Inga Faar Leine, instructor in the public speaking department, entertained with two readings, the first, a poem, "Mercy Please," and the second a sketch with three scenes.

The college mixed quartet, consisting of Miss Goldie Page, Mrs. Frank Kelley, R. T. Parker, and Stum Wells, sang "Bird of Paradise," and a negro spiritual, after the speeches of Mr. Webb and Mr. Richardson.

Mr. Webb of Mayfield in his address outlined the growth of education in the state. He advised that the boards of education reduce the number of rural schools and consolidate.

Mr. Richardson of Paris emphasized in his speech that the superintendent should know his teachers as well as the members of his board, and should therefore appoint the teachers directly, without the interference of the board. He stressed the need of raising requirements and stated that one year's college training should be the minimum requisite for graded school teachers, and two years the minimum for high school instructors.

Urges Consolidation
H. W. Peters, Hopkinsville, advocated consolidation as a means of advancing rural education. He praised the passing of the equalization bill.

That the rural districts, more than any other districts, needed college graduates, was the declaration of E. H. Edwards, Huntingdon, Tenn. The raising of the standard of requirements was emphasized.

Directed by Misses Elizabeth Lovett, and Lida Muse, approximately 25 students in the home economics department gave a fashion show.

Students who took part in the show were: Mrs. Ada Gibson, Misses Eppie Wilcox, Erma Herning, Louise Swann, Geneva Bell, Carolyn Graham, Velma Beale, Mary Frances Bradley, Eula Mae Workman, Zelma Pillow, Ruth James, Sue Bell Nance, Mary Donoho, Niva Jones, Beatrice Jones, Mary Belle Clark, and Mona Rials, as models. Barbara Douthitt, Naomi Lee Whitnell, Billie Jo Caudill, W. E. McWhirter, John Dee Houston, and Emma Sue Gibson displayed children's clothing.

J. H. Richmond, high school supervisor, Frankfort, represented Supt. W. C. Bell in addressing the assembly. He explained that school boards were no longer qualified to select teachers and advocated that the teachers be selected by city and county superintendents.

Mr. Richmond explained the workings of the equalization bill, showing how the counties must meet certain requirements to get their share of the fund. He approved the speeches of those before him who favored consolidation.

"Co-operation, loyalty, proper and wise management are the things that go to make any institution," stated S. J. Snook, member of the college board of regents in the concluding address of the day.

After Mr. Snook had spoken, Dr. Wells adjourned the meeting and the visitors were directed to the campus to enjoy a watermelon feast.

Wilsonians Will Not Disband, Leader Says

Two readings and plans to attract more members to the society constituted the program of the Wilsonian Society at Murray State Teachers College Tuesday morning, July 22. Mrs. Lottie Doran Miller, president of the society, denied the rumor that the society was to disband.

Mrs. William T. Grogan, Wingo, gave a reading, "Asleep at the Switch." Miss Jessye Pryor, Lovelaceville, gave the reading, "Mr. Brown Gets His Hair Cut."

Prof. G. C. Ashcraft, sponsor of the society, urged that more students attend the society. He announced that although the attendance was not as good as it should be, it was very much improved over that of the last meeting.

Suggestions were made that artistic posters be placed on the different bulletin boards, and that the next meeting be on the campus in the shade of the trees.

Miss Maurine Duncan and Jean Moon were appointed to make the posters. Holman Jones was appointed leader of the Wilsonian male quartet.

Mrs. Lottir Doran Miller, president of the society, stated "The rumor that has been circulated over the campus that the Wilsonian Society is to disband is only a fake. We have no intentions of disbanding."

PROF. E. H. SMITH PRAISES BALLARD

Teachers Are Required To Have 64 Semester Hours of College Credit.

"One of the most progressive steps in education ever taken by any county of West Kentucky"—This was the opinion given by Prof. E. H. Smith, director of extension at Murray State Teachers College, in commenting on the recent action of the school board of Ballard County in raising the standard of qualifications in the public common schools.

Teachers in Ballard County hereafter are required to have at least two years of standard college credit or 64 semester hours of standard college credit, according to action of the board of education. Members of the Ballard board are W. H. Terrell, Dr. Ezra Tisworth, J. V. Rials, E. L. Fraser, and H. C. Moore. All voted in favor of the motion which was moved by E. L. Fraser and seconded by J. V. Rials.

Few, if any, schools in West Kentucky have as high standards as those set up by the recent action of the board, according to Professor Smith.

The resolution making the change in standards follows:

"Whereas, it is deemed by the Ballard County Board of Education to be of the best interest of the public common schools of Ballard County, that the standard qualifications to be possessed by the teachers who shall teach in the public common schools should be raised.

"And whereas the best interest of the public common schools of Ballard County and the improvement of same can be best served by increasing the educational qualifications or standards of the teachers to be hereinafter employed to teach in the public common schools of Ballard County.

"Therefore, be it resolved that all teachers who are hereinafter employed as teachers in the public common schools of Ballard County, who have not heretofore continuously taught in said schools, shall have at least two years of standard college credit or 64 semester hours of standard college credits, duly and regularly given by reputable colleges of accepted standard.

"That all such teachers who are not within the present system of public common schools of this county having taught in the said system for the past year or more, who do not have said credits or accepted college work, shall be eligible for positions as teachers in the common public schools of Ballard County, provided however, such teachers shall earn annually a minimum of six semester hours of college credits, either by actual attendance in some reputable school or by extension work done in such school, until they shall have acquired the total minimum of 64 semester college hours."

Prof. C. H. Bernard Tells of Oklahoma

By Mollie Scott
"Roasted mice is a relished dish among the more primitive tribes" declared Prof. C. H. Bernard, instructor in Murray State Teachers College, in an interview on the Indians of Oklahoma.

There are five civilized tribes in Oklahoma, the Creeks, Chocktaws, Chickasaws, Seminoles, and Cherokees. When the state was settled by the whites the government decided to give each Indian tribe a definite amount of land in proportion to the size of the tribe and the amount of Indian blood which the tribe possessed.

In the spring of 1901, the country was opened to be homesteaded by the whites of surrounding states. The settlers rushed and fought to get over the line first in order that they might have a choice of land. A few settlers had slipped in and were already plowing their fields.

Because of their haste they were called "Sooners." The University of Oklahoma, located at Norman, now calls its annual, "The Sooner." The state in general is called "Sooner," just as Texas is called "Longhorn" and Arkansas, "Razorback."

Indians Paid

The Indians not only received land but were also paid money for their claims by the government.

The majority of Indians have intermarried with the whites until only a few full-blooded ones are now in the state. Many of these yet wear long black hair plaited down the back, and tied with red strings.

The civilized Indians have modern homes and automobiles. They have money, but they spend it freely, now knowing the value of articles. Even though they have modern homes they still cook and eat in an old brush arbor.

The government has provided for the education of the Indians by establishing free schools for them. No one is allowed to attend the schools except Indians, but white teachers may be employed. Until 1928 all the land was untaxable. If Indians attend white schools they are taxed ten cents per day and this goes to the school fund of the district.

"In most of the state as a whole the Indian tracts are scattered," explained Professor Bernard. "There are more found in the northeastern part near Tulsa, in the Osage country."

Professor Bernard mentioned the fact that many Kentuckians thought of Oklahoma as a wild country with many "Daniel Boones" roaming about. He showed that this was the wrong attitude since much of Oklahoma resembled Kentucky. It is thickly settled except in the west where it is very dry.

Professor Bernard is a native Oklahoman, securing most of his education there. He has been in Kentucky only two years.

Albert Greer, senior of Murray State Teachers College, spent the week-end with his wife, Mrs. Lillian Greer near Whitesville, Ky., July 11.

Home Town Is Praised by George Gatlin of Oregon

Sponsor Speaks on Intolerance Sunday
to Vesper Group

"Intolerance is a sign of ignorance" was the opinion of Prof. J. G. Glasgow, as he addressed the members of the Christian Association of Murray State Teachers College Sunday evening, July 20.

"If you don't learn anything else in coming to this school, students learn to tolerate the beliefs of others," he continued.

Prof. Glasgow said that it was a mistaken idea that all the brains of a community were under one hat. It is a good thing to believe that you are right, but there are just as many chances of the other person's being right, he explained.

The program also included a reading, "Little Pataty," given by Miss Jessye Pryor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Pryor, of Lovelaceville, Ky.

The congregation sang "I Am Thine O Lord" and "He Whispers His Love to Me."

The benediction was given by Professor Glasgow, sponsor of the association.

HAS SPIKED ANKLE

"I have the toughest luck of anybody on earth. Friday I sprained my knee, and Saturday I got spiked," stated O. B. Springer, senior in Murray State Teachers College, when questioned as to the cause of his limping.

Mr. Springer received his injuries while playing baseball with wingo, Ky., Saturday, July 19. He was spiked on the ankle and later the wound became infected. Dr. E. B. Houston, Murray physician, treated the wound to prevent blood poisoning.

Next year Mr. Springer will be athletic coach at Dawson Springs, Ky.

All college students of the Moser boarding house with the exception of Prentice Shockley of Farmington, Ky. are staying through the summer term.
