"The Eternal Question."

Discussion and Wholesome Advice from Different Viewpoints.

The Farmers and The Trust.

EDITOR OF LEDGER.—As you have knocked the "eternal day-lights" out of "Old Pide" and her few special friends I will drop the "Old Reliable" a few lines on The Farmers and The Trust, as that is the hardest proposition that the farmers have got to go up against, and up to the present time it has been a hard fight. They had to go into the fray without money and but few friends. To the editor of the Ledger the farmers of Calloway county owe a great deal.

When we were called to arms to engage in this great warfare against the tobacco trust, who had in defiance of the written law, put their heels on the breast of the farmers and proceeded coolly to crush out every vestige of opposition in order to rob the grower by arbitrarily setting the price, declaring itself monarch of the tobacco industry, at first it looked like we could never get on our feet as our enemies were great and powerful. Many of our fellow farmers would not put their shoulders to the wheel but aided the enemy. The dark picture of despair almost stared us in the face. There is no one who can truthfully say that the Ledger has not been with us through all of this trying fight and without money and without price the editor has stood heart and hand with us, and it is the only paper in Murray that has had the courage to stand by the association, until lately when by his aid, we had gained the victory. Why didn't those little guineas that are now "potaracking" around about Jennings being a demagogue enlist with us before now in this life and death struggle? Of course you see the hand writing on the wall now and have got enough sense to read it. If advocating a cause like the Ledger has been fighting for makes a demagogue give us more of them please. Those farmers who have never joined the association should stop and consider the importance of this tobacco question. It effects every hearthside in our country. means meat and bread and clothes to the widows and orphans of our land, and a great many others who could never have paid their debts. It would have taken all they could have made to have lived. Now, my Bro. Farmer, who has stayed out of the fight and got the benefit of the high prices that you never assisted your neighbor to raise, and you said by your action that you was willing for the money kings to continue to make the women and children of our land work from early morn to dewy eve under the blistering rays of the summer sun, is not that enough to freeze the blood in any true man's veins? Be a man, be not like dumb driven cattle, be a hero in the strife. But money is the synonym of power. It charms, it fascinates, it is very alluring and it dazzles the eyes of the unwary. Strange to say most every son-of-a-bitch is ready and willing to help along the criminally rich by their mite to that end. But God for the thousands who their knee to I And I never will. I am the salt of the earth, they are the scum of the sea and liberty loving and law abiding. Who is responsible for all the night riding that has been in progress recently? Can you answer it? Think I can. The tobacco trust has been so oppressive and gradually squeezed the producer to the wall in the past, having never been curbed by the law, having run over us and trampled us under their feet as though we were its vassals, compelled to do their bidding at their will and pleasure, and having attacked our association from ambush by saying and writing hard things about us and opposing the association in every way, shape, form and manner imaginable, has by thus doing produced this reign of terror. Eliminate the tobacco trust and there will be no night riding, no lawlessness in the black patch, but peace, happiness and prosperity will reign supreme. ASSOCIATION FARMER, Lynn Grove, Ky.

PLEADS FOR RESPECT OF LAW.

J. W. Usher, chairman of the Graves county tobacco association, has addressed the following communication to the people of Graves county which has been published in the Mayfield papers: To the Tobacco Growers of Graves County, Kentucky:

The time has come for all good citizens to speak out. There is an organized mob, known as "night riders," going about at night terrorizing certain classes of citizens by burning property and whipping some individuals and otherwise frightening people.

Now this is very wrong and constitutes a high crime. I don't know who they are, but I do know that they are acting in the capacity of individuals, and as such are amenable to the law.

I have always condemned mob law. I have said publicly and privately that I was opposed to "night riding."

I have never considered it my duty to write concerning it until now. I have been credibly informed that the "night riders" have posted a threatening notice on Lawson's mill in Graves county (my territory).

I had hoped that lawlessness of this kind would never enter Graves county, but now my hope is gone, and I call on all good citizens to lend a helping hand to suppress all illegal actions of the above character.

I want every member of the Dark Tobacco Association to discourage everything that points to violence of any kind. Do not encourage even by word, a nod of the head or a wink of the eye.

I want to advise those who are not members to not provoke violence by threats, or by purchasing guns and ammunition and making public announcement of how many you can kill before they can get you.

The notice that is posted on Lawson's mill orders certain "Hill Billies" to not deliver their tobacco.

I will say to all persons that have said that are not members of the Association: Deliver your tobacco according to contract, and do it in the day time.

We have closed the books of the Association and there is no way for any one to join at this time, so there is nothing left for the non-Association man to do except to sell outside.

Any demand that prohibits outsiders from selling is unjust and will not be tolerated. I want to say to all "night riders" and those that may become members of the band: You certainly do not know what you are doing. You are committing felony after felony, and felonies are indictable for all time to come. The Scriptures say: "Be sure your sin will find you out," and some of you may go to the pen, ten years from now. I have an idea that some of the band are boys who are led astray by older persons.

My advice to all young men is, keep out of all such things.

My plan is to persuade men to come into our Association, and help to win good prices for our tobacco by conducting the business in such a manner as to win the confidence of all men.

Public sentiment molds all law, mob or legal. I find that some members of the Association are afraid to raise their voices in opposition to "night riding."

What I have said may cost me my barns and tobacco, and maybe some hide, but I have said what I believe to be right and I am not afraid. Right will prevail. Respectfully,
J. W. USHER, Chm.

JOIN THE TOBACCO ASSOCIATION.

We are now entering upon another tobacco season. That is the preparation for the next crop has begun. Many, if not most of the plant beds have been sown. Many farmers who have not heretofore raised tobacco are making preparations for a crop this year.

The Courier has from the beginning counseled conservatism. It has advised against violence on the one side and against a spirit of retaliation on the other.

We have always advocated a profound respect for the law, believing that this was the best for all. We could have no interest in this or any other matter, except, the best interest of the people of this county. We have always advocated those policies and principles that will bring the greatest amount of good and the least harm to our people. At the very beginning of the 1908 crop of tobacco we want to offer a friendly suggestion. The farmers as a class above all others should be friends and neighbor with each other. They should stand together in a common cause for the common good, and dwell together as brothers.

In nearly every community there now exists an unfriendly spirit among neighbors, most of which arises out of the fact that some farmers persist in staying out of the Association and refuse to enlist with the majority of their neighbors in an effort to protect the price of tobacco. Those who do not join say, they are only exercising their constitutional rights to join or not as they desire. For the sake of the suggestion which we want to make, let us grant that under our free form of government, every man has the right to join or not join. In the exercise of his rights no citizen wants to do any injury to himself or his neighbors. On the contrary every man wants to do that which is best for himself and his neighbors.

No man will say that the Association has not done much good for the tobacco planter, and this work has insured to the benefit of the non-Association planter. All have enjoyed better prices for their tobacco.

Now, if this is true, let us suggest that all who intend raising a crop of tobacco in the year 1908, in good faith join the Association and pledge his tobacco. No man can be hurt by this and no citizen's liberty can be effected. The Association that has done so much for the tobacco farmer, deserves the commendation and support of all who are engaged in that business, and if all who are thus engaged will join hands and be friends, how much better it will be for all.

Stewart county for one hundred years and more has been a law-abiding county. Her people have been conservative in business, in politics and in religion. Her reputation has been such as to reflect credit upon all of her citizens. That reputation is of value to all. It has been handed down to us from our fathers. Let us hand it down unsoiled to the generations to follow us. This can be done by following the suggestion herein made, in the interest of all our people.—Dover, Tenn., Courier.

Not Connected With Others.

To Directors, Prizers, Salesmen, and Graders:

Dear Sirs.—I deem it necessary to say to you that an effort is being made to misify the members who are not fully informed, as to the rules of the association, as to what comprises the Planters' Protective Association.

I have been informed a number of times of late that another association advocate has said to his association: "It is all the same thing." In some instances they would say, "In some sections it is called the Planters' Protective Association and in other sections it would be called something else. Just come on sign, it will be all right."

This association has never antagonized any other association, we do not want to, in fact, are in sympathy with them, but I admonish you of the danger of this effort.

There are people who seek to accomplish us in any possible way. Warn every member of our association to watch this latest effort of the enemy most carefully. Sign no pledges or deliver no tobacco until the fact is conclusively proven that it is the Planters' Protective Association.

Yours truly,
F. G. EWING, Gen. Mgr.

An Explanation.

EDITOR LEDGER.—For fear it may be communicated to you in the wrong light, relative to the burning of my smoke house on last Saturday night, I thought I had better write you stating the facts in regard to the matter. It was not done by any night riders or incendiary, as some one would have you believe, but to the contrary. It caught from a box that was being used to put ashes in after they had got cool, as we thought. We were awakened at one o'clock Sunday morning by the roaring and cracking of the fire, just in time to see the roof and walls fall in, so it was a total loss with all its contents, such as is usual to be in a smoke house. No insurance. Very respct,
L. E. RADFORD.

CAN PLEDGE CROPS AT ONCE

NON-ASSOCIATION GROWERS CAN SIGN PLEDGE
AGREEING TO BECOME MEMBERS.—
CALL AT THE LEDGER OFFICE.

The Ledger has been attempting for several weeks to secure a way for all non-association tobacco growers of Calloway county whereby they might make known their intention to become members of the association as soon as the books are open in case they so desired. Success has crowned our efforts, and we are today in receipt of a pledge from the headquarters of the association through Mr. Swann, and it is now ready for signatures at this office. The Ledger will publish the names of the signers each week. We believe this step will do more towards stopping night riding than any other action that is now possible. Every farmer who is not a member of the association should avail himself of this opportunity. Come out on the side of your fellow farmers; stand up for your neighbor, stand up for your own rights, present a solid front to the robber trust and forever remove the possibility of any character of lawlessness. The pledge is as follows:

"We, the undersigned, desire to become members of the Planters' Protective Association, of Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia, and we state that we will, and hereby agree, to pledge our tobacco to the association for the length of time the directors prescribe; that the next pledges shall be signed as soon as the books are opened, and we agree to sign the pledge required by the association, and in all respects be governed by the rules and regulations of same."

Are Still Riding.

A small band of night riders were riding on the east side of the county last Monday night, calling upon non-association growers and advising with them regarding the disposition of crops grown by them. No damage has been reported and no person visited was molested and only treated in a kindly and neighborly way.

Mr. J. M. Thornton, who lives near Pottersville, was visited by the riders and requested to grow a crop and to sell it, together with the remainder of his crop not delivered, through the association. He makes a statement which is published herewith regarding their visit.

Information reaches this paper that the telephone lines below Pottersville were cut but how true this is we failed to learn.

We also publish herewith a statement from three citizens of the west side regarding their future intentions. We do not know whether these men have received any warning regarding the matter and only have their statement:

TO THE PUBLIC.

On last Monday night, March 9, 1908, I was visited by the night riders and was told by them that there were about 100 of them and from across the river. They told me to raise a crop of tobacco this year and put it in the association and to put the remainder of my present crop in the association. All of this I promised to do and will do. They told me to do publish the fact of their coming to my house. They treated me very kindly, not offering to hurt me or any member of my family.

Respectfully,
J. M. THORNTON.

We want to make this statement. We have sold our tobacco and hauled it off. If it, the remainder is for the association and will be put in when we can. We made this decision some time ago, and the rest that grows on our places is for the association. We thought that it was the best to make an open statement about it. From now on we are association men.

Barn is Burned.

A tobacco barn belonging to Glenn Rogers, who lives on the west side of the county between Linn Grove and Browns Grove, was burned last Saturday night. There was no tobacco in the barn. A new wagon placed in the building under shelter was destroyed.

We did not learn any particulars of the fire.

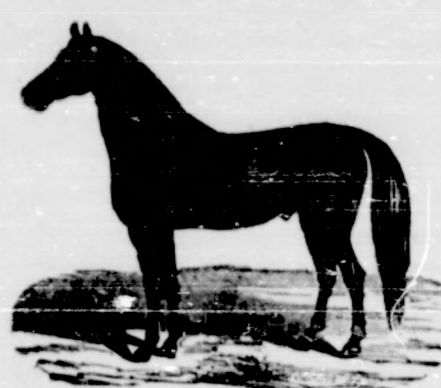

If you would like to fool some wise Coffee Critic, who "knows fine Coffee on taste and flavor", quietly make for him a batch of Dr. Shoop's "Health Coffee" and serve it piping hot. It deceived Mrs. Shoop, and will I believe deceive any one. And there is not a grain of real Coffee in it. Health Coffee is made from pure toasted grains, malt, oats, etc. Made in a minute—no 20 or 30 minutes tedious boiling. 1 1/2 lbs. 25c. W. W. McElrath.

Association Sales.

Salesman Hood reports the sale of 17 hogsheds of hogs and leaf for the past week, at prices from $7 to $11.

Association tobacco is being received in great quantities by the prize houses throughout the county and is being rapidly placed on the market.

TURKEY OUR NOBLEST BIRD. Crossing with the Wild Turkey to Improve Market Product.

The most notable American bird in the farm category is the turkey, growing as he does to the great weight of 30 and even 40 pounds, and losing nothing in flavor and toothsome.

Likewise, the most regal of our remaining game birds is his blood brother, the wild turkey, from which he has descended.

There is perhaps no instance where domestication has scored so little improvement as with the turkey. In fact, in some respects the taming and breeding have hurt instead of helped the species.

No prize domestic fowl is ever so beautifully marked or so resplendent with feathers of black shaded with rich bronze and illuminated with a lustrous finish of burnished copper as is the typical wild turkey, while the color and vitality of the wild bird is such that to this day we strengthen the most virile of our bronze turkeys by an infusion of the wild blood.

Rhode Island stands for the best in turkey production. The last census shows less than 7,000,000 turkeys in the United States and only about 5,500 produced annually in Rhode Island, yet, according to a turkey expert, if all the turkeys of the country were of such good quality as Rhode Island's, their total value would be doubled.

According to the department of agriculture, the growing of turkeys has greatly improved during the last few years as a result of a determined effort on the part of producers of "standard breed" turkeys to demonstrate that it is much more profitable to use pure breeding stock than the smaller and less vigorous stock of times past.

The wild turkey is also being used to infuse further new vigor into the bronze flocks. Inbreeding is the fatal defect among the practice of many turkey growers.

The fact that turkeys will from the time that they are six weeks old until winter, gain the greater part of their entire weight from bugs, insects, grasshoppers and waste grain makes their existence during this period at little or no cost to the grower where there is a sufficient range for the birds.

Nineteen-Hour Days.

"Our hours," said a nature student, "are nothing to the birds. Why, some birds work in the summer hours a day. Indefatigably they clear the crops of insects."

The thrush gets up at 2:30 every summer morning. He rolls up his sleeves and falls to work at once. And he never stops till 9:30 at night. A clean 19 hours. During that time he feeds his voracious young 206 times.

The blackbird starts work at the same time in the thrush, but he lays off earlier. His work day he gets about 17 hours before his kiddy's.

"The titmouse is up and about by 3 o'clock in the morning, and his stopping time is at night. A hard worker, the titmouse—works of caterpillar mainly—in the long, hard, hot day."

Senator Pettus' Library.

The late Senator Pettus of Alabama was a "forty-niner," going overland to California in the early days and engaging in placer mining. He took with him on that long and tedious journey three books, the Bible, Shakespeare and Burns' poems.

He said of them at one time not long since: "I read the Bible from cover to cover; I read the side notes; I read the captions of the chapters; I learned great parts of it by heart, and I haven't forgotten them yet. I learned many of Burns' poems by heart and much of Shakespeare in the same way."

Such reading of these three books in place of modern literature is not likely that many miners engaged in that search for wealth spent their leisure in as profitable a way.

Goshawk's Changing Plumage.

I know no bird which passes through so many changes of plumage and color of eyes as the goshawk.

A young one, which I have seen, is about the size of a small hen and is covered with white down. His eyes are pale blue. I colored the eyes exactly from life. When fully grown the first plumage is dark brown above and the eyes are pale yellow. This being a goshawk—he had only seen adult birds.

Later it changes to the dark shady blue of the adult, and the eyes, after passing through all the intermediate phases in color from straw yellow, orange yellow and pink, finally assume the deep rich red of the adult.

Forest and Stream.

Long Overdue.

"What?" queried the very young man, "was the happiest day of your life?"

"It hasn't come yet," answered the oldest inhabitant, sadly.

"Hasn't come yet?" echoed the other in surprise. "When do you think it will come?"

"When people cease to ask fool questions," answered the old man.

He'd Failed So Often.

"Mr. Timid has asked if he might call tonight. I think he wants to tell me that he loves me," said Miss Yerner.

"Oh," replied her sister, "that goes without saying. I think he wants to tell me that he loves me," said Miss Yerner.

"Yes, and I'm afraid that he will," said Miss Yerner.

TRACKS EVIL DOERS

WOMAN DETECTIVE FEARLESS IN HER WORK.

Ethel King Responsible for the Breaking Up of Many Gangs of Criminals—Able to Take Care of Herself.

Should you meet a good-looking sailor boy, with a complexion something too good for one who follows the sea, take a second look at him. It may be Ethel King, the woman detective of Philadelphia, in one of her many disguises.

Take a searching glance at the messenger boy who runs, with head down, to deliver a message. It is possible that the female sleuth may be hiding her identity within the blue suit.

Look around you in optimum-scented Chinatown. The dapper woman who trips past the lookout at the gambling joint, with a side glance at the closed door, may be pretty Ethel King in the costume of her sex, but sent on a mission that is very unusual to a woman.

At home Miss King lives a quiet and secluded life. Few of her associates in the boarding house at which she has her room know what a distinguished personage is the girl who is so frequently away on mysterious trips.

Absolutely without fear Miss King has accepted any dangerous work that has come to her in the line of duty. She has donned the uniform of a United States sailor and hunted the docks and navy yard vicinity in search for information regarding sailor criminals.

Being a small woman and looking rather diminutive in dress, clothes, Miss King had no difficulty in assuming the character of a district messenger. She readily assumed the fargon of the corps, as well as the uniform of the messenger boy, and did valuable work in breaking up a series of pilferings and other swindles that the youngsters had carried on for years at the expense of the company and its customers.

She learned that the boys were in the habit of meeting in the street and exchanging cards, so that should a complaint be made of money collected on prepaid messages, or of each missing from envelopes entrusted to the boys for delivery, it would be easy to establish an alibi. Miss King assumed the management of the company by her revelations concerning the tricks of the messenger boys and enabled the regular sleuths of the concern to checkmate the systematic pilferings and guard against a repetition of them.

As a scullery girl Miss King assisted in the arrest of a notorious woman thief who had been in the habit of hiring out as a domestic for the purpose of allowing her criminal friends to enter and rob the house at night.

The woman sleuth washed dishes and watched the other woman, and when the critical time came, and a "Lone" was raided in the dead of night, the woman would be caught in a trap.

Miss King has assisted in the suppression of the epidemic of gambling in the gambling dens of Chinatown, and she has made friends with the yellow man and in due time betrayed him to the police. She has been threatened time and again, but has not so far been taken.

Those who know her, however, and any one who has talked with her for a time is impressed with the idea that in a tight corner she could well take care of herself, for, as she says:

"A woman is as good as a man in a gun fight, and I am always ready."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Snake Killing Kitten.

George Forwald, substitute mail carrier, Bloomsburg, owns a cat which, strange to say, will not catch a mouse, but spends its time in the yards hunting for snake enemies.

The cat so far this season has caught three snakes and brought them to the house, and after laying a snake down on the porch it goes back again in the yard to hunt for more. Two of the snakes the cat has caught were captured in one day, while the other was caught a day later. These three are the only ones Mr. Forwald has seen, yet some of the neighbors say they often see the cat with a snake in its mouth.

Whether or not the animal would tackle anything larger than a garter snake is hard to tell, yet from the fight it puts up when it gets hold of one of these smaller species it is evident that it would probably be able to get away with a larger one. The snake-killing cat is not very large and is still nothing more than a kitten.

THE HARDBITING GILA.

Creature to Be Feared and Avoided, Says Writer.

Of some of the strange ways of the gila monster, that little-known creature of the southwestern deserts, a correspondent writes: "I have had some experience with gila monsters and can state that, no matter what scientists may claim, the gila monster is a good thing to shun. Indians and Mexicans have a horror of them and fear them more than a rattlesnake. I believe that the bite of the gila monster is dangerous because of the creature's habit of eating lizards, bugs and rodents, and then lying on sand so hot that it blisters the hands and feet of men. The heat causes the food to putrefy in the stomach, evidenced by the fact that the teeth are often covered with a fermented, putrid froth from the food. A bite has the same effect as the cut of a dissecting knife used on a cadaver; in other words, the inoculation of a deadly poison."

"When frightened or angry he can move quite rapidly. That short, thick, stubby tail is used in jumping, just as a kangaroo uses his tail. The gila monster bites like a bulldog, and has the tenacity of a snapping turtle. I once saw some men teasing a gila monster brought to Tucson. A string was tied around its neck. The gila monster was crawling around on the ground, trying to get away, but was pulled back by the string. This was carried on till the creature became furious. The crowd around the gila monster knew nothing of his power to spring. Suddenly he sprang up and bit a man among the crowd on the hand, peeping fully two feet from the ground."

"Another instance, this of a man whose chief object seems to have been a foolish display of fearlessness. He was holding back one of the monsters in his hand by the back of the neck, so he could not bite him. He dropped his hand to the side of his leg. The gila monster shut his teeth down on his heel, ducking overalls, taking a double piece out where the cloth folded, as quickly as a pair of scissors could have cut the fabric, and as cleanly."

Retort of Indian Chief.

A distinguished army officer tells a story on himself which relates to the days when he was a young lieutenant in the far west a good many years ago. He was of a party who had come to see the Indians at Spokane falls. Among the Redskins was Chief Moses, who was fairly well educated and spoke a capital English. The young lieutenant addressed Chief Moses in the Indian tongue, saying: "Moses, I have often heard of you and I have seen your picture and your name in the newspapers, but I have never before seen you. I am glad to meet you."

Moses scanned him from head to foot, and as the young man stood with outstretched hand and the lieutenant's silence and stolidity of the chief were becoming painful when old Moses at last and with great deliberation said in English: "Young man, I have never heard of you before and I have never seen your picture or your name in the newspapers, but," he added lightly, "nevertheless, I am glad to see you," and accepted his hand.

Electricity in the Nursery.

Electricity has invaded the nursery. Within the past few months a device has been patented to rock the youngster's cradle, and the nocturnal pajama promenades are no longer a necessity. So, too, there has recently been placed on the market an electrical baby milk warmer and now when the youngster cries during the night for his food, all that is necessary is to turn a switch and the milk is warm by the time papa is up and found his slippers. Last but not least comes the starting intelligence with delightful significance to baby boys that an electric spanking machine armed with many hard wood paddles has been devised. It is predicted that schoolrooms which are already equipped with electric clocks, electric lights, electric tawny bells, etc., will adopt the new device for youthful chastisement. Heavy solid slippers can be used in place of the paddles if old time associations of childhood are desired.—Electric News Service.

Poets' Themes.

The cynics of our time have whitewashed many of the "poets." Poets like the earlier Swinburne practically praised lust as an expression of the love of life. Mr. Rudyard Kipling has found his poetry as an expression of the love of life. Poets like Mr. Henry and Mr. John Davidson have practically praised drunkenness, or violence, or obscenity as expressions of the love of life.—C. K. Chesterton in London Times.

A Financial Lesson.

She—Is it true that when you can get 150 per cent. on an investment it is a shady transaction?

He—My dear, in such fancy returns you violate a rule of good business and of good morals.

She—What is that?

He—Sacrificing your principal for your interest.

Too Roomy.

"Gracious!" exclaimed the economist. "I thought I had cut down this suit of your father's so it would fit you, but it seems entirely too large yet."

"Yes, ma," replied the bright boy, "especially the wide expanses."—The Catholic Standard and Times.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

Prevalence of Kidney Diseases.

Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalence of kidney disease. While kidney troubles are the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patient and physician, who content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease undermines the system.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and sealing pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cure of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Ringhamton, N. Y. When you write, mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Ringhamton, N. Y.

A tickling cough, from any cause is quickly stopped by Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers everywhere to give it without hesitation. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung-healing mountain shrub, furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Simply a resinous plant extract, that helps to heal aching lungs. The Spaniards call this shrub which the Doctor uses, "The Sacred Herb." Always demand Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Sold by H. D. THE KIDNEYS.

Their Unceasing Work Keeps Us Strong and Healthy.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys filter the blood. They work night and day. When healthy they remove about 500 grains of impure matter daily, when unhealthy some part of this impure matter is left in the blood. This brings on many diseases and symptoms—pain in the back, headache, nervousness, hot, dry skin, rheumatism, gout, gravel, disorders of the eyesight and hearing, dizziness, irregular heart, debility, drowsiness, dropsy, deposits in the urine, etc. But if you keep the filters right you will have no trouble with your kidneys.

J. T. Wells, Clothing Merchant, living on Cemetery St., Murray, Ky., says: "My wife had suffered a great many years from kidney trouble and although she tried a number of different remedies, and had doctored a great deal, nothing seemed to prove of benefit to her. She had severe pains in her back, her head ached intensely, and dizzy spells were of frequent occurrence. Finally upon the advice of a friend I obtained a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Dale & Stubblefield's drug store, and asked her to take them. She did so and from the beneficial results she received, can recommend them highly. They acted like magic in her case and a few boxes of this remedy gave her more relief than she had known for years. My wife is constantly recommending Doan's Kidney Pills whenever she has an opportunity."

Republican District Convention Hatches Out Pairs at Paducah.

Paducah, Ky., March 11.—

Although not exactly of a rough and tumble nature, the district convention held here yesterday by the Republicans was close akin to it, as the greatest excitement prevailed, while things were lively from the very outset. It was probably the first time in history of a similar gathering where a delegation that had been seated in the regular convention, actually bolted and held a small "rump" convention in one corner. This was what occurred though the bolters being led by Frank M. Fisher, Dr. Frank Boyd of this city; J. C. Speight of Mayfield, and other Taft followers. This they did on realizing they could not "run it over" former United States Senator William J. Deboe, chairman of the Republican Committee for the First congressional district. The court-room was packed for the occasion by several hundred delegates and onlookers, and the deep interest was of an exciting nature.

Both the bolting and regular conventions were held in the same room, and it was a regular cat fight in each side trying to make more noise than the other, but the Fisher-Boyd-Speight contingent lost in this effort. As a result of the regular convention and bolting meeting, there are two sets of delegates to go from here to the National Republican Convention, two candidates put in the field for congress, two men nominated for state central committee and two for presidential elector for this district. It was surely a treat for the many Democratic spectators present, while the Fairbanks people fairly yelled on seeing Frank Fisher and his contingent actually crushed out of existence from a political standpoint. Another amusing feature was to notice Fisher-Boyd-Speight over in one corner with their little crowd holding what they termed a "convention" of their own, while the Fairbanks people, who outnumbered the Taft men two to one, held the remaining space in the room.

IN CALLOWAY COUNTY.

The precinct conventions called for last Saturday by Chairman Redden were well attended and a solid Fairbanks delegation was sent to the county convention, which was held Monday. The Taft wing of the party refused to participate in either the precinct or county conventions and held a separate convention and sent delegates to Paducah. The Fairbanks delegation was seated at Paducah.

C. T. Johnson returned Wednesday from Texas where he spent the winter.

Must Pay for Tobacco.

Hopkinsville, March 10.—In an opinion handed down by Judge Fleming Gordon, the insurance companies are held for losses by fire growing out of night riders raids. The opinion is far reaching and if upheld by the court of appeals will probably result in many cancellations of tobacco risks in all parts of the State.

The suits decided by Judge Gordon grew out of the Princeton raid of December, 1906, and the companies sought to avoid payment on the ground that their policies provided that they should not be liable when losses occurred through insurrections, riots, invasion of armed forces, etc.

Judge Gordon holds that the clause does not include fires resulting from riots, insurrection, etc., and that the assembly and invasion of a band of masked incendiaries is not the kind of armed forces described in the policies. An appeal will be taken at once.
