THE LISTENING POST

IT IS APPARENT that there is much interest in the plan of closing all places of business in Fulton on Wednesday afternoons during the month of August. The Leader was asked to see how much interest there was in the suggestion, and without any pressure or effort several firms have expressed their willingness to cooperate. Of course the surface has not been scratched as yet, and not enough have expressed themselves to form any accurate estimate of the situation. But enough interest has been manifested to make certain that many firms are keenly interested, and I believe now that if some of those interested would form a committee to call on the entire town something might be accomplished. It would be a splendid thing to try this plan out during the month of August, and nobody would be hurt in this brief time. The trial period would enable us to know whether it would be worth while next summer or not, and I really think that some concerted effort should be made now to carry the plan through to completion in order that the closing period might start next Wednesday. The Leader will be glad to cooperate in every way possible, for this newspaper thinks the plan is something worth while. Let's get the thing done!

TOMORROW WILL be the biggest day of the season at the local baseball park. Union City, under a new and popular manager, leading the second half pennant fight, will clash with the local Eagles, who seem to have recently shaken off a losing streak and headed for a higher berth. Union City will send hundreds of fans over for the game, and Fulton will turn out 100 per cent to show the visitors a good time. Only one game will be played, starting at three o'clock, and the last game of the series will be played Monday. The local baseball association has planned to handle the largest crowd of the season, and if the weather is favorable there is little doubt that attendance records will be broken.

I DO NOT believe that I ever saw as much ceremony about voting as was the case at the polls today. Being a country boy, I have not been required to register in many years. Every time I went to vote the clerks would begin to search through the registration books, and I let them look. Then, when they gravely told me I could not get a ballot because I was not registered, I would urbanely tell them I did not need to register, inasmuch as I was a country boy. They would then agree and my vote would be cast. But this year being a country boy did not help any. Entering the polling place I ran smack into the registration booth, and some charming ladies took down the vital statistics of my misspent life. For the first time in many years I am now duly registered as a Democratic voter. They know how long I have been a citizen of this Commonwealth, how many years I have voted at a certain place, how much I weigh, and perhaps how much I owe, and where I am going to spend my vacation—when and if I spend one, which is doubtful. Then, after being duly set down on a neat card by a charming lady, I went on and voted as usual, save that I did assure the voting folks that I was a duly registered voter in the county of Fulton, state of Kentucky, so help me.

W. H. McGEE, the urbane drug man, came in the office this morning to collect a bill. Mc was all dressed and had somewhere to go, to judge from the statement file he carried. He wore a nifty straw hat, and as he turned his back to me I saw great curls of black hair peeping out beneath the hat. Knowing he was as bald as a billiard ball, it surprised me, and I asked him if he had been using some hair medicine that really brought the hair back. He removed his hat, and everywhere save at the spot just under his hat the head was still slick and shiny. But when he put his hat back on he seemed to a fellow with a full head of hair. I guess I'd never seen him except when he was bareheaded. Anyhow, he's got more hair on his head when he has a hat on than any baldheaded man I ever saw.

SHIRLEY TEMPLE EXTORTION PLOT SNARES BOY, 16

NEBRASKA HIGH SCHOOL YOUTH
ADMITS WRITING DEMAND
FOR $25,000

Washington, July 31.—(AP)—J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, announced tonight that Sterling Waldron Powell, 16 year old Nebraska farm boy, had confessed he had written an extortion letter demanding $25,000 from the father of Shirley Temple, child movie star.

Omaha, Neb. July 31.—(AP)—R. A. Alt, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation here, said Sterling Waldron Powell, 16 year old farm boy arrested at his home one mile south of Grant Neb. late today, has confessed to writing an extortion letter asking $25,000 of George F. Temple, father of Shirley Temple, juvenile screen actress.

Powell was being taken tonight by agents of the Omaha bureau to North Platte Neb., where Alt and he will be arraigned before United States Commissioner A. F. Streitz.

Alt asserted that when confronted with the letter, Powell admitted writing it but denied he ever went to the spot he had named to look for the money.

He and his agents, Alt said, were unable to establish a motive for the youth's action. They described him as small for his age, and said his parents, who have lived on a farm near Grant for the last four years, were in comfortable financial circumstances. Powell was a sophomore last year in the Grant high school, Alt said the youth told him he was not an ardent movie fan.

The arrest came after weeks of work by operative from the Omaha office. He envelope missing the letter, written on common stationery in long hand, was turned over to Bureau of Investigation agents in Los Angeles after it was discovered, Alt related.

Through the Bureau's Washington laboratories, he disclosed the stationery was traced to a drug store in Grant.

"Railroad Night" At First Baptist Church

Tomorrow night will be "Railroad Night" in the services at the First Baptist Church. All railroad employees and their families will be the guests of honor during the service. These guests will sit in the center section of the auditorium which will be reserved for them. A duet will be sung by Gerald Parham and Elaine Vaughn. The pastor will preach using as the subject of his sermon: "Life's Railway."

A similar service was held about a year ago in the Baptist Church. The railroad men were so well pleased that they have decided to have another service of the same type tomorrow night.

A capacity crowd is expected to be present for the special night. If you have not heard about it or seen one of the circulars consider this article an invitation and come at 7:45 tomorrow night.

C. C. Austin Dies Suddenly At Home

C. C. Austin, age 77, died suddenly last evening about seven o'clock at his home two miles north of Fulton. Mr. Austin had seemingly been in his usual good health, having been in town yesterday afternoon and eating supper as usual. Leaving the supper table, he went into the yard and sat down. The fatal attack came as he was seated in his chair and death came in a few minutes.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 at the home, conducted by Elder Bun Ross of Martin, Tenn. Burial will follow in Enon Cemetery.

The deceased was born and reared in this section and has been a prominent farmer of this community for many years. He was a member of the Primitive Baptist Church, having his membership at Old Bethel since boyhood.

He leaves to mourn his passing his wife, Mrs. Laura Austin, four sons, Ben, Sam, Wales, Pell of this city; two daughters, Mrs. Ruby Slayden of this city; Mrs. Lilly Rich of Louisville; a brother, W. W. Austin of Dodd City, Kan., a sister, Mrs. Mary L. Williams of Akron, Ohio, two half-brothers, Bob Austin of this city and Louis Austin of Lynn Grove, a half-sister, Mrs. Dick Ray, 10 grandchildren and 4 great grandchildren also survive, besides a host of other friends and relatives.

Winsted-Jones Funeral Home has charge of the funeral arrangements.

Steel Industry Still Humming

THIS SUMMER'S RECORD IS BEST IN SIX YEARS

New York, July 31.—(AP)—Leaving behind a trail of bright second quarter earnings reports, steel men looked forward today to another month of sustained activity to help clinch this summer's record as the busiest the industry has seen in six years.

Eugene G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel Corp., has added his voice to those forecasting brisk times for steel mills.

The executive chief of the industry's second biggest producer, however, did not go as far in his forecast as Charles G. Dawes, Chicago banker and former vice-president of the United States, who said operations would be near capacity early next year.

But Grace described the outlook as "encouraging" and said third quarter results of his company would come up to or better the second quarter showing.

For the three months ended June 30, Bethlehem reported net income of $3,341,391, equal to 40 cents a share on the common stock after allowing for preferred dividends. That compared with net income of $603,065, of 65 cents a share on the 7 per cent preferred, in the first three months and $1,800,900, or five cents a common share, in the second quarter last year.

Plane Salvaged

ONE BODY OF FOUR MISSING IS FOUND IN LAKE

Essex, N. Y., July 31.—(AP)—A cabin airplane that crashed into Lake Champlain June 27 presumably carrying four persons to their deaths was salvaged today and the body of a man believed to be Steve Kaye, pilot, was recovered.

John L. Halpin of the conservation department, whose employees located the plane today, said that the body was strapped in the pilot's seat.

Checking of the operations from Albany, Halpin said Game Protector William Winters reported that two other bodies, believed a man and a woman, fell from the wreckage as it neared the surface.

WHEN CHAMP MEETS CHAMP!

Unknown Negro Boy Found Dead Here

An unidentified negro, was found dead this morning on the I. C. tracks about a mile north of Fulton and near the overhead bridge on highway 51. He was found on the Edgewood line and the body was badly mangled.

He was found about seven a. m. by Mr. Creason and a group of section men. He had apparently fallen off of a southbound freight train at three a. m. and had been crushed by the cars.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict that the colored boy, who appeared to be in his early twenties, was hobnobbing and met death by being crushed by a train.

A tobacco can and sack and a nickel were found on his person, and no papers that would lead to his identification could be discovered.

Sapp funeral home was called to take charge of the body.

Boy, Deaf Six Years Hears; Noise Strange

Milwaukee, July 31.—(AP)—His hearing suddenly restored during a minor operation, six year old Carl Thein, Jr., today sought to bridge the gap between six years of deafness and a new world of strange, harsh sounds.

Totally deaf since he was three months old, the boy was taken to a hospital last Friday to have his tonsils and adenoids removed. As the anesthetic wore off, his mother spoke to him and he suddenly asked:

"Mother, is that a voice? Is that what you told me a voice was?" The mother, who had taught him to speak and to understand others by lip-reading, burst into tears of happiness.

Carl, however, seems happy only while his ears are protected by cotton. Laughter and voices of children are exceptionally harsh to his sensitive organs.

UNCLE QUIZZED IN CO-ED SLAYING

Professor W. L. Clevenger

Professor W. L. Clevenger, 54-year-old bachelor uncle of Helen Clevenger, New York university co-ed found slain in an Asheville, N. C., hotel room, was "detained for investigation" in connection with the mysterious case. Clevenger teaches animal husbandry and dairying at North Carolina State college, Raleigh, N. C. Clevenger is the one who reported finding the girl's body in her hotel room when he went to call her for breakfast on July 16. At North Carolina State college, his superiors said that Clevenger is "highly regarded as a teacher and by those who know him". Police have held one person after another for investigation—and then have had to admit failure to find a clue.

One Woman Seriously Hurt In Accident

A blow out that occurred five miles of Fulton on the Hickman highway was responsible for critically injuring one and painfully hurting two others. The wreck occurred at seven p. m. last night, when a tire blew out and overturned the car in which six ladies were riding.

Mrs. G. I. Lindenblade, who was the driver and resides near Cayce, was in the Fulton hospital this morning, the extent of her injuries undetermined. Miss Lela May Oliver, also of Cayce, received numerous cuts and bruises of the face and head. A Miss Scott, teacher at Mayfield, was painfully hurt and suffered the loss of seven teeth.

Miss Josephine Smith, of Cayce, Miss Ross and Miss Griffin, both of Mayfield, were unhurt in the spill. The ladies were en route to Cayce from Mayfield when the accident occurred. Mrs. Lindenblade was brought to the hospital in a Hornbeak ambulance while the others were brought in by Dr. Ward Bushart, who had been previously summoned to the scene.

Much Interest For Closing In Grocers

Grocery managers seem to have considerable interest in the plan of closing all local stores on Wednesday afternoons, according to messages telephoned this office during the past few days. H. L. Hardy, Ferguson's Grocery, Griffin & Walker Grocery, all suburban stores, express their willingness to cooperate in the plan, and I. B. Cook, manager of the U-Tote-Em Store also pledges his support. As a matter of fact, the time seems ripe for an earnest canvass of the town to see if the plan cannot be accomplished.

Any others who would be glad to cooperate are asked the notify this office. An effort is being made to see how much sentiment there is for the plan.

PENNSYLVANIA VOTES $3,000,000 TRANSFER OF FUNDS FOR RELIEF

Hardsburg, Pa., July 31.—(AP)—The Pennsylvania legislature tonight approved the transfer of $3,000,000 from special funds to revive emergency relief for the unemployed, shut off more than a week ago.

The resolution was rushed to Governor Earle a short time after it was approved by the House and Senate without debate.

The resolution was introduced in the House a few hours after Democrats and Republicans agreed upon a program for $50,500,000 mostly for relief.

Approval of the transfer, providing for a loan of $2,000,000 from the state stores fund and $1,000,000 from the liquid fuels tax fund, was greeted with boos and peers from the "jobless army" in the gallery.

"Stop gaps are not enough," they should in sing-song fashion, ignoring pleas for order from Lieut. Gov. Thomas Kennedy. They subsided, however, at a signal from their leaders.

AIR PASSENGERS SEE SNOWSTORM OVER JERSEY

New York, July 31.—(AP)—The Transcontinental and Western Airways told today of a July Snowstorm over New Jersey, encountered by an airliner swooping to a landing at Newark, N. J.

Pilot and passengers reported they sighted a dense snowstorm swirling between two layers of clouds to the northwest.

The line attributed the storm and chill to a "cold mass" of air lying over the Eastern United States.

FASCISTS IN ON CAPITOL; USE 4 COLUMNS

CRUCIAL BATTLE OF TWO WEEKS' OLD REVOLT NEARS
AS LOCALISTS GET SET

Madrid, July 31.—(AP)—Troops of the rebellion announced tonight they were marching against Madrid and it appeared the crucial battle in the two week's old revolt was near.

Broadcasts from Fascist stations asserted four columns of rebel forces were converging on the city. One was within artillery range, 15 miles, ready to hurl destructive shell-fire against Loyalist defenders.

Prince Carlos, brother-in-law of Prince Juan of the Asturias, heir presumptive to the non-existent Spanish throne, was reported in Spain near headquarters of Carlist rebels at Pamplona.

The latest recapitulation of Americans here tonight revealed 74 still living at the embassy, 101 in their own homes and 111 evacuated to the coast. The last six who desired to go left for the coast tonight.

Miners Join Loyalists

Miners bolstered Loyalist troops for a new siege of the northern city of Oviedo, but delayed direct attack to space the city further damage. The city had changed hands at least twice during heavy fighting of the past three days.

Catalan troops thrust at Zaragoza, important northern city held by rebels, in a series of fierce encounters. "Many casualties," were reported.

Aged Baptist Cleric Dies At State Home

FUNERAL FOR H. M. WHITSON
TO BE HELD TODAY

Jackson, Tenn., July 31.—M. H. Whitson, 88, retired missionary Baptist minister whose church work has been in Kentucky, his native state, in Texas and in Tennessee, died here today at the home of his daughter, Mrs. T. H. Wooten.

He leaves six children: Mrs. Wooten, Mrs. T. V. Fleming, Vardaman, Miss; Mrs. Joe C. Oliver, Enterprise, Miss.; Mrs. Mable H. Hardin, Jackson, W. E. Whitson, Trimble; E. H. Whitson Martin. He will be buried in Martin tomorrow where he formerly made his home for 14 years.

Rev. Whitson was the grandfather of Mrs. Hartwell Parker of this city.

Former State Man And His Wife Found Slain

San Diego, Cal., July 31.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Hooper, formerly of Lexington, Ky., were found shot to death at their home here today.

Police Chief George Sears said Hooper, known as Henry L. Ferguson, apparently shot his wife and himself. Sears said a brother, John Levy Hooper, was in the county jail awaiting return to Nashville, Tenn., charged with selling stolen automobiles.

John Hooper was here under the name of James Ferguson, police said. Attorney Arthur Deremier, told authorities Jesse Hooper came here a year ago from Lexington, where he was an insurance broker, and assumed the name of Henry Ferguson.

COMMENT

THIRTY-SIX YEARS

There was something vaguely familiar in the postmark on the postal card as I picked it up, for the name on it seemed a remote echo of some almost forgotten memory. But for a moment it failed to register and I turned it over and read the message.

"This town is not like it was thirty-six years ago. The railroad station is almost the only landmark that I remember. The church and parsonage have disappeared—been rebuilt in another part of town. Thus did a connection become restored which has long been broken. The message was from my brother, who has been vacationing in Texas, and drove sixty miles on a sentimental pilgrimage to see a town where we spent one unhappy and homesick summer far back in 1900.

Van Alstyne, Texas, in the year 1900. A hard-bitten, sun-drenched town on a flat treeless plain. In the heart of the black land region of Texas, with a sun that beat down with relentless cruelty, and with wind that blew all day and all night from the far-off Gulf. My father, then about my present age, serving his first town pastorate, and not liking it any too well. The people were good and kind—but they were not the sort we knew back home. Their ways were not our ways and ours were not theirs. Nor did the climate and water agree with us. There was much sickness, and for the first time in my life I saw my father ill. We remained throughout that hot summer of 1900, but when a chance came to return to Tennessee the family rejoiced mightily.

I still remember vividly the morning we left that town. We had packed everything the day before, and spent the last night in the home of a neighbor. The train left early, and I rose before daylight. I still remember how relieved I felt that morning when I woke and realized that I was starting back

WHAT'S WHAT AT A GLANCE

WASHINGTON - WORLD

By CHARLES F. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, D. C.—Business is peculiar.
By all rules of the game it ought to be at least as flat as ever; even more so, maybe.
It is traditional that trade and industry always are below par in a national election year. It also stands to reason that a serious crop failure makes times hard. The threat of large-scale labor trouble by good rights should be a depressing influence. Of course, widespread unemployment is, theoretically, bad for all classes.

AND BUSINESS IMPROVES!

Well!
This is an election year. The drought, with its natural effect upon agriculture, is officially declared to have been the worst in the country's history. Bugs have eaten much of the crops that survived the dry weather. A big fight appears to be impending between steel employers and employees. It is likely to spread, too, as the vertical unionization campaign progresses in all lines of mass production. Unemployment has not been greatly reduced, either.

And business is improving like everything.

Real estate is moving. Building is picking up. Manufacturing generally is on the mend. The stock market is bullish. Retailers are thriving.
Not only government reports show it. They are open to the suspicion of being prejudiced, in the interest of making out a good case for the administration. But financial and trade publications corroborate them. Business men's associations issue statements to a similar purpose. Individual big business men hand out interviews to the effect that present conditions are pretty satisfactory. Dividends are gratifying; that's why the stock market is up.

The folk who broadcast this cheering information are not, with the exception of the government's own agencies, pro-New Deal.

To the contrary, most of big business remains bitterly "anti". When its spokesmen say that there is a great improvement in the times, they mean it. Indeed, they say it rather grudgingly, with the qualification that, but for the New Deal, the improvement would still be more pronounced and would have come sooner.

It is pointed out that the bonus payment has put a lot of money into circulation, that relief and miscellaneous bonodoggling have helped that day. Just as a hot sun broke over a cloudless eastern horizon the train pulled away from that sunbaked railroad station, and the last glimpse I had of the town was a tall grain elevator which thrust itself far into the brassy sky. Never have I been back, and never have I had the least desire to see that town—or any portion of Texas since that date. For I still remember that summer of 1900 as the hottest, dreariest, most homesick period of my life. I went there in high adventure, but found that I really did not go after I got there. And my family must have all felt the same way, for all of us were relieved when we started back to the green fields of Tennessee.

But while I did not like the place, I have always remembered it. I can still see it vividly as it looked in that summer of thirty-six years ago, and it came as a shock when I read the card to realize that it was no longer the same place. Probably it has changed like all towns. The age of the paved street and the filling station certainly did change the appearance of all towns; and no doubt this small Texas town which I have remembered so vividly has changed like all the rest. I thought in 1900 that I was an almost hopeless distance from the country I loved, and it seemed that I would never be able to go back. As a matter of fact, the distance is about seven hundred miles, and I imagine I could drive to that town very comfortably in a couple of days. Thus had distance been shortened.

Former Chandler Aide Denounces State Rule

Hopkinsville, Ky., July 30.—(AP).—Assistant Attorney General W. O. Keller, who served as campaign manager for Gov. A. B. Chandler here last year, spoke tonight in behalf of the candidacy of Senator M. M. Logan for the Democratic nomination.

Keller contended that Chandler who is supporting J. C. W. Beekham for the Senate, "is not the same 'Happy' for whom he campaigned last year. Attacking State Finance Director J. Dan Talbott, Keller charged that "Talbot will be attempting to control even county elections next year."

"I have not changed my ideas of government," said Keller. He charged Chandler allowed Talbott "to have virtual control of Kentucky."

Gladys Glad on BEAUTY

AMERICA'S MOST FAMOUS BEAUTY

BEAUTIFY YOUR figure by exercise. Bending, stretching, rolling—whatever you do—is all for youth and beauty. The exercises will keep the good figure trim and mold the poor one into pleasing lines. So says Miss Yvonne Armstrong, one of the glamorous yeamettes of the Great Lakes exposition at Cleveland, who describes her duties for a few moments to us a bit of routine on the lawn of the horticultural gardens. You can do your exercises in your own back yard, or even in your home.

Yvonne says that the best way to get results is to work hard; you won't get anywhere if you race through your exercise. When you think you have reached your limit in an exercise, do it just once more, for it is the bit of extra effort that will do the trick. Counting and timing are very important, and so is deep breathing. Of course I'm talking about women who are in good health, normally well and strong.

Take a Shower

After exercising take a shower, or you can bathe in a tub, if you prefer. Miss Armstrong declares she knows better than to jump under an ice-cold shower just to prove she has stamina. According to her, such procedure is anything but beneficial.

One of the exercises recommended is to lie face down on the grass, then stretch the hands out in front of you as far as you can. Start bringing the hands and feet back at the same time, grasping feet with both hands; then return to first position. Do this about ten times, increasing as you go.

A graceful carriage is also necessary for beauty, for no matter how many other points of beauty a woman may possess, she is far from attractive if she is round-shouldered or has a drooping posture when sitting, standing or walking. There is an exercise for carriage, too. Lie down flat on your back, keeping arms straight out on the floor with palms down. Bring your legs up and above your head, supporting yourself at the hips with your hands, keeping elbows on the floor. After taking this position start to pedal as if you were riding a bike. Do this two or three minutes each day. It's a grand exercise to develop shapely legs, and also tends to reduce overdeveloped hips.

Queer as it may seem, the same exercises are used by those who want to gain and those who want to reduce. There is one difference, however, those who would gain must take their exercises slowly; those who are reducing should make them snappy and use a greater number of counts.

Watch your diet, says Yvonne. If you wish to gain weight, drink at least a quart of milk a day and eat such foods as creamed carrots, nuts and cheese, plenty of butter, fat meats, pastry, etc. If you want to lose weight, stick to such foods as baked apples, graham bread and crackers, salads, prunes, bran, potatoes cooked in skins, fowl, fish and lean meat. Reduce sensibly. If you have taken months or years to gain excessive weight, don't expect to take it off too quickly, or else the penalty surely will be wrinkles, poor health and nerves.

EDITOR'S NOTE: While it is impossible for Miss Glad to answer beauty questions by mail, she will be happy to send you a complimentary copy of "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" if you will write her, care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, and ten cents in coin for EACH, to cover cost of printing and handling. For her articles on "Care of the Hands and Nails" and "Care of the Feet and Legs," two cents in coin for EACH, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp. Personal questions on beauty will be answered through Miss Glad's daily column.

GRAVES CORN GOOD

Mayfield, Ky., July 31.—(Spl.)—Graves county's corn crop this year is said to be one of the finest in many years and is estimated by County Agent G. A. Williamson as 110 per cent normal. Williamson said the average yield would be about 30 bushels per acre.

Suggestions For Turkey Raisers

Artificial brooding of turkeys is suggested by the Kentucky College of Agriculture. The ordinary 10 by 12 brooder house, such as used for chicks, will provide for 100 to 150 poults. The coal-burning colony brooder stove or the home-made brick brooder may be used to provide heat.

Where turkey hens are used for brooding, a brood coop is recommended. The coops should be moved about and kept on clean ground. Good chick rations will do for poults. Dry mash should be available in self-feeders when the poults are removed to the brooder. Allow 5 feet of mash-hopper

"SUZY" AND THE TWO MEN IN HER LIFE

JEAN HARLOW, FRANCHOT TONE and CARY GRANT

The Jean Harlow of buoyant comedy, natural charm and sudden dramatic intensity are all combined in her new appearance in the title role of "Suzy," showing at the Gipsy Theatre, Sunday and Monday. The story of a chorus girl stranded in London at the outbreak of the World War and led into a second marriage under the mistaken belief that her aviator husband is dead, give this remarkable actress every opportunity to reveal her versatile talents. Franchot Tone and Cary Grant as the respective Number One and Two husbands, offer sterling support.

space and two 1-gallon "dunkers" and brooding are done by hens. The hens should be dusted with sodium fluoride in the morning, and a little melted lard put on the heads of the poults. If lice are troublesome

Lice and mites may require attention, especially where hatching Kentucky circular 275, "Profitable Turkey Management," contains practical information concerning turkey raising. Copies may be had from county agents, or from the College of Agriculture, Lexington.

Chesterfield

Wins

...because it has the right kind of Turkish tobacco in it

Turkish tobacco is expensive—that's true—every pound has to be imported 4000 miles.

But it's one of the biggest reasons why Chesterfields taste better.

It's another reason why you'll like the aroma—it's more pleasing and fragrant—the Turkish in Chesterfield is another reason why Chesterfield wins.
