VOLUME XXXVIII—NO. 269.

THE LISTENING POST

MRS. ISBELL HOPE of Friar, Texas, has arrived in Fulton to take care of the WPA Work Center Room at the Court House, replacing Mrs. Hubert Greer. Mrs. Hope formerly held this position the early part of the year for several months. She assumed her duties Monday.

"EVERY CHILD in Kentucky is entitled to a chance to learn how to write," says the "Kentucky School Journal" of this month. "When teachers were required to take county examinations for a license to teach, penmanship was one of the required subjects. Of course, we are all glad the county examination is gone. It is now an assumed obligation of the teachers' colleges to train teachers in the technique and methods of teaching handwriting. Kentucky has 131,545 illiterates. Out of this number 43,000 are mothers. Bowling Green would have to increase its present size eleven times to take care of all the illiterates in Kentucky. If all the illiterates in Kentucky should join hands and stand in a line, the length of that line of unfortunates would be 1233-4 miles," says this journal. Fulton schools stress penmanship more and more each year, and if each student takes advantage of these lessons, it is safe to bet that Fulton will not increase the number of persons in our state who do not write more than a "fairly good" hand.

MRS. LON BERNINGER has been appointed chairman of a committee for the purpose of collecting juvenile books for the Carr Institute and Junior High libraries. She says that if you have any of this kind of books suitable for this purpose, if you will call her over the telephone, she will gladly call for them.

R. C. JOYNER, proprietor of the Joyner Retail Whiskey Store, said this morning when he found that a thief had stolen a pint of liquor out of his show window, breaking a $50 plate glass window, obtaining same, that if he had known anyone wanted a pint that bad, he'd have given it to him.

JUDGE STAHR of Hickman was in town this morning and said that any person who wanted a job could get it at Hickman; that they were begging folks to work down there, and that if that wasn't proof of the efficient manner in which the present administration had been handled, he'd eat his hat, or something equally as indigestible.

ANOTHER ONE of those unique parties is to be given by the members of the Woman's Club tomorrow night, starting at 7:30. This is to be a progressive party—but you are all wrong—no one will play bridge. It will be called "The Voyage of Life," and guests are requested to meet at the Cumberland Presbyterian Church for the first step in life, from which place they will go to the Passenger Station where they will depart on streamlined, air-conditioned coaches for "Baby Days," at Mrs. Bob White's home on Fifth street. The next step will be "School Days," at the Boy Scouts Cabin in East Fulton "Sweetheart Days" will be spent at Mrs. R. H. Wade's on Carr street. Wedding days will be at the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, and the golden "Sunset Days" will be passed at the home of Mrs. Enoch Browder on Third street. An interesting program has been arranged and prizes. The largest family present will receive a 24 lb. sack of Queen's Choice flour, donated by the Browder Milling Company of Fulton. Everyone in Fulton is cordially invited to attend both the Field Day meet and the play.

A FIELD DAY will be held at the Welch High School at Dukedom, which was recently destroyed by fire, on Oct. 23, followed by a play "Plain Jane," to be given that night. During the meet, which will start at 9 a. m. athletic contests, a baby show and basket ball games

NEW DEAL HAS TAMPERED WITH PRINCIPLES OF DEMOCRATS, GOP NOMINEE SAYS

Los Angeles, Oct. 21.—(AP).—Gov. Alf M. Landon accused the New Deal of "undermining" individual liberty and "tampering" with basic Democratic principles tonight in demanding that President Roosevelt be ousted in behalf of a "return to our Constitution."

Rexall Streamlined Train Here Oct. 29th.

Much interest is being created in the coming of the Rexall streamlined train which will arrive here Oct. 29 and will be open to the public between 1 o'clock and 2:30.

The Rexall stores of Union City and Clinton are also in the area which the train here will accommodate and with the crowds from these two places, hundreds are expected to view the train. Tickets are being given at the Evans and McGee store here and the Rexall Stores at Clinton and Union City.

Hundreds of things of interest are to be learned about the train with a visit to it. Things of truly lasting interest things that are educational. It will be truly a worthwhile event and not a strictly advertising event. Besides the wonder that will be created in the beauty of the train both exterior and interior, you will be pleased with the many unique features offered.

Conceived by the United Drug Company to hold conventions of Rexall agents in 109 cities and towns in every state in the Union and in Canada, the train is revolutionizing sales technique by taking the convention to the dealer's doorstep instead of asking him to travel long distances and take off several days from his business. The schedule is so arranged that few Rexall leaders need travel more than 100 miles from their stores. As a result over 90 per cent of dealers in the territories already visited have attended conventions held aboard the train.

Designed especially for convention purposes, the train includes four cars for merchandise exhibits, two cars which comfortably accommodate 250 in convention sessions and are used at night for dancing by those attending the convention, a caterer-dinner serving lunch and dinner for Rexall agents and their guests at the meetings and a lounge car for their convenience. The entire train is air-conditioned. A power car—the first built by the Pullman Company for such an enterprise—two cars with sleeping accommodations and a private car for the United Drug Co. executives compose the remainder of the train. A permanent crew including the company's sales officials of 50 is carried on the train.

are scheduled. The play begins at 7:30 p. m. Several worth-while prizes are to be awarded winners of the contests, with Fulton merchants furnishing a large portion of the prizes. The largest family present will receive a 24 lb. sack of Queen's Choice flour, donated by the Browder Milling Company of Fulton. Everyone in Fulton is cordially invited to attend both the Field Day meet and the play.

Dukedom Youths To Entertain Young Men's Demo. Club

Young Democrats of Dukedom will be hosts to members of the Young Men's Democratic Club of Graves County next Saturday night. An interesting program has been arranged and free eats will be served. It has been announced by W. H. Crowder, Jr., club president.

Beelerton News

The big musical contest Saturday evening, October 24, promises to be one of the biggest programs of the school year. The program is arranged so as not to be in the least monotonous and so that every individual can hear his favorite kind of music. Many musicians have promised to be with us for the occasion. About $30.00 in prizes and money will be given away. Come out and enjoy the evening with us.

The P. T. A. held its first regular meeting of the year last Friday evening. A large crowd attended and everyone seemed to enjoy the program, which was furnished by the school. Albert Bard, the president of the P. T. A. for the school year 1935-36 presided at the meeting and the program was begun promptly at 7:30, as scheduled. The program was as follows: Invocation, Rev. E. C. Nall; song by audience, "America," Biography of Eugene Field, Brown Clinton; Reading, "Little Boy Blue," Charlotte McNeely; Reading, Helen Pharis; Folk dance by primary grades; Play, "Call the Doctor," Sunshine Society. After the program, officers for the current year were elected. Cecil Binford was elected president and took charge of the further election and procedure. The following officers were elected: Vice President, Virgil Pharis; Secretary, Guy Brown; Treasurer, Mrs. Capitola McAllister. Mr. Binford appointed the following program committee: Pauline Henderson, Lowell Weatherspoon, Mettie Gdyn, Mrs. Guy Brown, and Mrs. Bert Walker. It was decided to have the meetings on the second Wednesday night in each month. The students and faculty appreciate very much the interest manifested and the large attendance at the first meeting of the P. T. A.

Rev. E. C. Nall had charge of the chapel program Tuesday. His remarks were educational and inspirational. He believes in boys and girls and his attitudes give them courage to push forward.

Mr. McDaniel and the debating society will have charge of the chapel program next Tuesday morning. The subject for discussion has not been announced yet.

Don't forget the big musical contest Saturday evening, Oct. 24.

The boys are getting busy trying to get in trim for their first basketball game of the season. On Friday evening of this week they will meet the Columbus team on the local floor. Even though Beelerton was unfortunate in losing most of the members of its teams by graduation, fans are expecting to see the younger boys play their more fortunate neighbors a good game.

Dennis McDaniel and Lowell Weatherspoon attended the football game at Murray Saturday.

We'll be looking for you at the musical contest Saturday night, Oct. 24. The program starts at 7:30.

OFFICIALS ACCUSED IN DEATH

James A. Reilly, District Attorney James A. Reilly of Uniontown, Pa., left, his assistant, Harry W. Byrne, right, and five others have been charged with murder in the death of Frank C. Monaghan, hotel man, by "third degree" torture. The grand jury indictments, holding the seven responsible for the death of Monaghan or with helping those responsible to escape arrest, thus brought to a close the long investigation into Monaghan's death on Sept. 12. Monaghan died in the Beelerton room of the county courthouse while being questioned in regard to the stabbing of County Detective John C. Wall.

Thief Turns Over $4.00 Pint Of Whisky To Steal $1.10 Pint

A very conservative burglar, but one with a taste for good liquor, broke into the Joyner Retail Liquor Store on Church street here early this morning and succeeded in stealing only one pint of Crab Orchard whiskey.

A plate glass show window was broken in one of the show windows and the thief, in reaching through the opening to seize the pint of Crab Orchard, knocked down a $4 pint of Yellow Stone. An empty carton in the window as found beneath the hole in the glass which had the appearance of containing quite a number of Yellow Stone whiskey, which would indicate that the thief probably had a champagne taste but not even a beer pocketbook.

About 175 pints of whiskey were in the window at the time of the robbery, worth, according to the proprietor, R. C. Joyner, around $200.00. The robbery is believed to have occurred shortly before day, as local policemen stated it had not been done at five o'clock when they made the rounds on that street. It is believed the thief was scared away before he had time to take more of the whiskey in the window, as the hole made in the glass was large enough for the thief to have reached for and stolen quite a number of the bottles.

Mrs. Green's Condition Is Greatly Improved

According to a statement made by Fred Dunn after his arrival here this morning, the condition of Mrs. Green was improved, and that she had regained consciousness shortly before he left there to accompany the two bodies to Fulton. He intimated that her injuries were not as serious as they were at first reported, and that attending physicians held out hope for her recovery. He stated that the little boy was only painfully hurt.

As to his injuries, Mr. Dunn stated they were not of a serious nature. The conductor on the train bearing the two bodies and Mr. Dunn to Fulton stated that he stood the trip very well, and that he had received every consideration which the railroad company could give him.

A wire received here this morning by Mrs. Billie Cooper, daughter Mrs. Green, stated that she was greatly improved and that the little boy was doing nicely.

1st. Colored Farm Bureau Organized

Five communities have organized community Farm Bureau organizations and elected Presidents, Vice-presidents and Secretaries-Treasurers.

The colored farmers of the bottom section of the county were called together by Hattie Bethea the colored home agent of this county at Ledford school house, October 19th. After Roscoe Stone explained the purpose of the organization and how it was working for every farm family in the country regardless of color or size of the farming operation, those present elected Huls Walker as president, E. N. Sowell, Vice president and Hattie Chrisp as Secretary-Treasurer.

This is the first community of colored people in the state to set up a Farm Bureau organization and probably the first in the United States. Since the Community organization is an experiment that is being tried in the eight purchase counties by the Kentucky Farm Bureau.

The purpose of these organizations is to keep the members better informed on the accomplishments of the state and nation federation and at the same time increase the membership of the county.

BODIES OF VICTIMS OF FATAL WRECK ARRIVE HERE TODAY

FUNERALS HELD HERE TODAY—GREEN BODY TO LONE OAK

The bodies of Mrs. Fred Dunn and Leonard J. Green, who were killed early Monday morning in an automobile crash near Pecos, Texas, arrived in Fulton this morning at 10 o'clock. Fred Dunn, who suffered severe injuries in the crash, came with the bodies, and was immediately taken to his home on arrival of the train here. The two bodies were taken to the Winstead-Jones funeral home, and Mrs. Dunn's funeral was held at 11 o'clock from the First Baptist Church, with Rev. Woodrow Fuller in charge. Burial followed in Greenlee Cemetery. Funeral services for Mr. Green were held from the funeral home at 1 o'clock, with Rev. Fuller and Rev. Beaman in charge. The body was then taken to Lone Oak, near Paducah, for burial.

Hundreds of Fulton people were at the passenger station this morning to pay their last tribute to the two whose lives ended in tragedy so soon after starting a vacation journey to California. Fred Dunn, husband of the dead woman, was the only one of the party of five who was able to return with the bodies. Mrs. Green and her 12 year old son are still in a hospital in Pecos, Texas, and will be there for some time. Mr. Dunn was not able to be interviewed, having suffered severe injuries, and was barely able to make the sad return journey. Extent of his injuries are not known.

Members of the local post of the American Legion served as traffic officers at the railroad station and on the streets leading to the Baptist Church, aiding the police department in every way possible.

COMMISSION TO EYE TELEPHONE STRUCTURE ANEW

PUBLIC SERVICE GROUP IN STATEMENT DECLARES ORDER OF OCT. 8 IS SET ASIDE

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 20.—(AP).—The State Public Service Commission rescinded its telephone rate order late today, leaving the entire question of rates to be reconsidered.

The announcement came after a day of conferences between members of the commission and leaders of a group which had formally protested yesterday against charges on inter-exchange calls. The commission called a meeting of the interested parties at its office at 10:30 a. m. Friday to agree on procedure for future hearings.

The October 1 order required the Southern Bell Telephone Company to reduce its charges for rental of telephone approximately 12 3-4 per cent and allowed the company to charge five to ten cents, depending on the distance, for calls made between exchanges which hitherto had been free.

COMMENT

NOW TAKE COLLARDS—

A long time ago, when I was about ten years of age, I had a severe case of pneumonia. By the grace of a good old fashioned country doctor and perhaps of the Almighty, plus the most devoted nursing that a mother could give, it was decreed that I should live, and I have lived ever since.

When I got up I was very, very thin and weak. But I did have an appetite, and I well remember the first meal I ate after getting out of bed. A great dish of turnip greens was on the table, and although I had never before eaten that particular food but it looked like manna from heaven to me that day. I ate so much that the family finally had to drag me away from the table. On that day I discovered turnip green. In succeeding days I was to find it the most succulent food I had ever tasted. As stated, I had never eaten it previous to that time, but in the succeeding years I have made up for lost time. I now claim that for one who got a late start I have eaten

WHAT'S WHAT AT A GLANCE

WASHINGTON WORLD

By CHARLES F. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Uncle Sam no longer can find shelter in Washington for all the government staffs which are supposed to have their headquarters here.

There simply are not enough buildings in the capital to accommodate the full number of federal employees.

Baltimore is getting the overflow. That is to say, if one visits Washington from elsewhere on government business, taking it for granted that here is the place to transact it, one may find oneself referred to branch offices in the Maryland city instead. It is no great trip—Baltimore being merely 40 miles away—but it serves to concentrate one's attention upon the proportion of the expansion of federal activity in recent years.

WAR STRUCTURES

It does not seem as if Washington should be under-built from the government's standpoint.

There was plenty of room for all hands before the war. The war, however, so inflated Uncle Sam's demands for office space that temporary buildings were rushed up, to the number of at least a score.

The "tempo's" were occupied mainly by sub-divisions of cabinet departments or by independent commissions of various sorts—the census bureau, the public health service, the federal trade commission, et cetera.

But two entire departments—justice and commerce—were housed in rented buildings. They were not "tempo's". They were good buildings, but they were paid for at the kind of rentals with which landlords usually soak the government—pretty stiff.

Under the Coolidge and, more particularly, the Hoover administrations it began to occur to federal planners that it would be wise for Uncle Sam to replace his "tempo's" with substantial structures and to terminate his role of tenant.

GOVERNMENT HAD LAND

The government went at it. It had the land. Down near the Potomac the government owns a tract known as the "triangle", originally intended to serve as the site for federal buildings. It is a triangle about one-half mile across, at its base, about three-quarters of a mile long.

The idea was to fill this area full as many, or as much, turnip greens as all mankind in the civilized world. And I have gone long to of government buildings—enough to take care of them all.

The "triangle" now is covered with government buildings.

The commerce and labor departments have been provided for. The postoffice and interior departments, which already had buildings of their own, get new ones. Two or three dozens of commissions, offices, administrations, corporations, boards, councils, committees, bureaus and authorities similarly have been housed.

But no previously governmentally-occupied building has been evacuated by the government.

You're Telling Me!

By WILLIAM RITT
Central Press Writer

THE PROHIBITION party expects little success in this election because, in regard to the dry group's campaign, the public appears mostly indifferent.

It is one of the ironies of life that when one grows tall enough to reach the jam on the pantry shelf the craving for jam has disappeared.

When a man shivers these days you don't know whether he is catching a cold or quivering with delight at the prospect of buckwheat and country sausage.

Who said women do not possess greater courage than men? Look at their new fall hats!

There is always a field for new ideas. For instance, why hasn't someone worked out a way to market the advertising space on bald heads?

A New England seamstress laughed so hard at a joke the other day she fell against her sewing machine and was injured. Must have been a swell gag; it left her in stitches.

"I don't know about gagging for columns," writes a correspondent, "but I do know I'd like to gag all columnists."

Now we know why statues of great military leaders are made of stone. They are hard and cold.

A book attacking Mussolini can't be sold in Italy. Old Benito won't let the author make a live out of him.

discover the other greens, too. Mustard is almost as good as turnip greens—perhaps better—and spinach will do if the others are not available. But turnip greens remain my favorite. There is something about a great mound of turnip greens, surmounted by a handsome boiled egg, that wakes the poetry in my soul. You take a generous helping from the big dish, then crop up a bit of onion, then take a slice of cornbread or a muffin, and pour about one half-pint of potliker (that's my spelling and I stick to it) over the cornbread, and then, ladies and gentlemen, life is worth living!

So much for turnip greens. I have now found a rival that is fully worthy of turnip greens, and truth to tell, from first experience, my faith in turnip greens is wavering slightly. Perhaps I have not been as alert as I might have.

Take collards, for example. All my life I have been thinking that collards mean some form of cabbage. I don't know where I got the idea, but I had an idea that collards meant something like Brussels sprouts. It's hard to write about turnip greens and collards, for I never know whether to use the singular or plural, and one's mouth gets to watering so much that it distracts the attention.

But I found out the other day that I had been wrong. The Authority in Charge served collards, and at first glance I thought it was turnip greens. When I was told it was collards I immediately prepared myself to dislike it, for I wanted no rival to turnip greens. But the taste won me over. It tasted like turnip greens, only more so. There was the same faintly bitter tang that I like well in turnip greens. There was more tenderness in the green leaves. There were fewer stalks, and when the cornbread had been properly prepared with potliker, there was the same heavenly taste that I had anticipated always in turnip greens.

Yes, if one likes turnip greens, that person will find the same delight in collards.

Flexible Lighting Is a Feature Of This Modern Recreation Room

Totally indirect three-light lamps for cards and other table games combine with ornamental wall brackets and removable ceiling fixtures to make the lighting in this recreation room adequate for all occasions.

By Jean Prentice

NO matter what the weather may be like outside in the blackness of night, there's fun and laughter and eye comfort . . . in a well-lighted recreation room.

A lighting scientist worked out for a friend of his the illumination ideas shown in the picture, and I am happy to pass them along to you. They are not elaborate or costly, but simple and straightforward.

If you do not have a recreation room you can apply several of the ideas in other parts of the house where games are enjoyed.

For card tables there are totally indirect three-light lamps. One of these may be seen in the illustration. It is to be used in combination with the general lighting throughout the room, and gives three different amounts of light at the turn of a switch. There is a total absence of harsh glare upon cards or chessboard.

You can play for hours in perfect contentment (unless you're losing!) under a generous light like this. The prize that will take your eye, however, is the removable lighting above the ping pong table.

These deep shades, with their 150-watt bulbs, are hung on screws in the ceiling, and their wires plugged into the ceiling outlet. The ping pong ball is whizzed back and forth under the abundant lighting with more skill than you realized you had.

And now someone turns up the radio at the other end of the room. It is time for dancing. Card tables and floor lamps are removed. Away goes the ping pong table. More quickly than that the fixtures above the table are detached. The ceiling is now cleared, and adds to the spaciousness of the room. All the lighting that remains is from eight double indirect wall lights in balanced pairs on the four sides of the room.

This soft medium level of lighting throughout the room is something of an achievement, since the low ceiling makes impossible the usual method of indirect lighting. As it is, dancing and conversations find a smooth companion in the soft balanced lighting from the indirect wall brackets. Whether it be ping pong, anagrams or a swing tune, there's an interesting and comfortable quality of lighting available to fit the recreation.
