WHO TO BLAME?

J. B. SWA

Does Your Heart Beat

Yes, 100,000 times each day. Does it send out good blood or bad blood? You know, for good blood is good health; bad blood, bad health. And you know precisely what to take for bad blood—Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Doctors have endorsed it for 60 years.

The frequent cause of bad blood is a sluggish liver. This produces constipation. Poisonous substances are then absorbed into the blood. Keep the bowels open with Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney nerves. The kidneys, like the heart, and the stomach, find their weakness first in the organs themselves, but in the nerve that controls and guides and strengthens them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor of the kidneys alone, it is a waste of time, and of money as well. If your back aches or is weak, if the urine smells, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other disease of the kidneys, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month. Tablets or liquid—will see what it can do and will be for you. Druggists recommend and sell.

BETTER THAN GOLD MINE

Enormous Amount of Money in Earnings of Thoroughbred Racing Sire of Worth.

A great feature in racing during the last five and twenty years has been the enormous amounts that have been gained by thoroughbred sires, and consequently their extraordinary value.

It can scarcely be conceived, says Bally's Magazine, that in 20 years St. Simon's stock have won in stakes the monstrous total of £510,247 11s., that his stud fees during that period amounted to £227,692 10s.

This is £737,840 1s. to the credit of one horse, and he is alive now, looking hearty and well at 26 years, with a full complement of foals this spring and with every promise of some usefulness to come.

I have paid a visit to St. Simon within the last month and I have never seen a veteran of his age look fresher. On his toes as usual, all life, and with the quick, sharp manner of a game cock, the old warrior looks every inch a gentleman, and he is well worth a journey to see the unbeaten hero of the racetrack, the gamer of over three parts of a million, with one of his sons disposed of for 30,000 guineas, a daughter for 12,000 guineas and 10,000 sovereigns refused for another son.

It is no wonder that great prices are paid for thoroughbred sires, as they are worth fabulous figures.

GLIMPSE INTO FUTURE.

If something cannot be done to relieve the situation in regard to household service, social life will be driven to three conditions, says a writer in the Watchman. Those families which are able to pay large wages and keep a number of servants sufficient to do their household work without excessively long hours of labor will continue on that plan of life. Families which cannot pay the wages demanded and cannot afford more than one servant will be obliged to attend to their own housework or go to boarding houses; or they will be driven to the third alternative, which we believe offers the best solution of the problem of living for families of moderate means—the establishment of cooperative kitchens.

LIFE'S BEST SCHOOL.

Life's best school is living with people. It is there we learn our best lessons. Some one says, "It is better to live with others even at the cost of considerable jarring and friction than to live in undisturbed quiet alone." It is not ideally the easy way. It means oftentimes hurts, wrongs, injustices, many a wounding, many a headache, many a pang. It requires self-forgetfulness, self-restraint, the giving up of one's rights many times, the overlooking of unkindness and thoughtlessness, the quiet enduring of things that it would seem no one should be required to endure from another. But it is best.—Forward.

SHE STOLE HIS SUGAR.

An actor in a London lodging house, who had discovered his landlady's propensity for "swiping," numbered and listed his things. One night he roused the landlady by shouting down from his attic a demand for "No. 8."

"No, 8?" shouted the landlady back. "What is No. 8?"

"I want cube No. 8 of my lump sugar," he replied.

Thenceforth the provisions in his cupboard were unmolested.

HIS DAY OF PLEASURE.

Sir Henry Taylor used to relate how on one occasion he went to see Lord Hammond, then the under secretary for foreign affairs, of whom it used to be said that he was never absent from his post. On this day, however, he happened to be away, and when the doorkeeper was questioned on the subject he said, "His lordship has gone to a funeral, sir, and it's the only day's pleasure he's had for two years."

WORK FOR THE SCIENTISTS

Much Remains to Be Done to Bring Wireless Telegraphy to Pitch of Perfection.

Wireless telephony has been making steady progress of late, although its achievements are still far behind those of wireless telegraphy. The range of practicable wireless telephony is as yet only ten miles or so.

One reason for this, says the Review of Reviews, is the feebleness of the electric currents used in telephonic conversation over wires as compared with those that are capable of being used in telegraphing either with or without wires.

Telephonic conversation has never yet been successfully carried to a distance of 100 miles of submarine cable under the ocean. The limiting telephone range over such cables has been about 60 miles. Consequently wireless telephony does not have to be carried to many times its present range in order to beat wire telephony over land.

The conditions are, however, very different over land. Wire telephony is commercially practised up to distances of 1,500 miles, and is capable of being extended by sufficient expenditure of money on the wires to 2,500 miles, or even more.

Wireless telephony has therefore to be vastly extended in range in order to beat the record of wire telephony over land.

STRICT INTERPRETATION.

A number of small North Delaware street girls had opened a lemonade stand at the edge of the curb. The drink was in a large glass pitcher with sliced lemons floating appetizingly at the top. One small girl, with a red crayon, had lettered the world "artificial" and leaned it against the pitcher.

"What's that for?" inquired a passerby.

"Pure food law," said the girls in chorus.

"But why should you label it?" Are not the water, the lemons and the sugar pure?"

"Yes."

"Well, what's artificial about it?"

"The ice!"—Indianapolis News.

LIVES OF OLD VIOLINS.

Strange, indeed, are the "lives" of the old Italian violins. For years or decades they either repose in the amateur's velvet lined case, or sing with their own peculiar incomparable sweetness to multitudes of admiring listeners, adored by their fortunate possessors, coveted by all whose love of their fascinating qualities is far greater than their material means. And then, when it is last expected, some Strad or Guarnerius, known the world over, is tenderly placed in the hands of a new master or mistress, and a new chapter in the history of its long life is begun.

COULDN'T FOOL HIM.

Barlie—Come in, sister's expectin' you.

Mr. De Latestayer—How do you know she is?

Barlie—She's been sleepin' all the afternoon.

THE MODERN HERO.

"He is wonderfully handsome," said the impressionable girl. "He looks like the hero of a novel."

"Not at all, answered Miss C...," "he is neither a gentlemanly burglar nor an adept in slang."

AS TIME ROLLS ON.

He (after a year's absence)—I suppose you and your husband are still living happily together?

She—Oh, no; we are now living happily apart.

INSTRUCTING YOUTH.

Little Willie—Say, pa, what is a warlike manifesto?

Pa—One kind, my son, is when a woman says there is no use talking.

SHE DIDN'T WANT MR. RYPUN

And for One Horrible Moment the Girl Thought He Meant to Propose.

"Miss Minnie," began the elderly caller, clearing his throat, "it is true that I have known you only a short time, comparatively speaking, but I have taken a strong liking to you. It is true, also, that I am old enough to be your father, and—"

"O, don't say anything more, Mr. Rypun," hastily interrupted the young girl, a deep flush mantling her cheek. "I should be sorry to give you pain, but it can never—"

"Why, what do you mean, Miss Minnie? I was only going to say that my age and my liking for you ought to give me the privilege of advising you to abandon the idea of being an actress. You haven't the voice or the physique, my dear young friend. Besides, it's a hard and exacting life. Try teaching, or stenography, or bookkeeping."

"I—I thank you, Mr. Rypun. I'll bear your advice in mind. Horrible weather, don't you think?"

LARGE SAFETY DEPOSIT VAULT.

A New York trust company has just ordered constructed a safety deposit vault which, when completed, will be the largest in the world. It is being built by the Bethlehem steel works for a newly organized Gotham company. The specifications call for a vault which weighs 1,215 tons. It will be two stories high and will have an elevator and a stairway. The lower vault is to be 100 feet long, 30 feet 6 inches wide, and 9 feet 4 inches high. The main doors weigh 40,000 pounds each. The biggest of the steel plates which will be used in the construction of the huge vault weighs 27 tons, is 124 inches wide, 239 inches long, and 1 1/2 inches thick. The whole is built of armor plate such as is used in the construction of battleships.

PINEAPPLE CIDER.

Pineapple cider is the new fashion in Australia. A beginning was made recently with the new industry at Toowoomba with three tons of small pineapples. Ninety gallons of cider were manufactured and put aside for maturing. The pineapple cider, it is declared, will make a magnificent sparkling summer drink, and when a bottle is uncorked the aroma of the fruit penetrates the room. It is proposed to manufacture six grades from a concentrated essence which can be taken by travelers in a flask for mixing with water to a mild cider for home and field.

HIS TRUE VOCATION.

An actor said at the New York Players' club:

"It is always a delight to tour with Eddie Foy, or Foy-Fitzgerald. I certainly wish I was going out with the dear fellow in 'Hamlet.' Once in the town of Keweenaw, Foy and I went into a barber's to get shaved. When the barber got through with him, Foy applied his handkerchief to his face and said: 'Young man, you have missed your vocation. You ought to be an oyster opener.'"

HONORS ANCESTOR'S MEMORY.

Mrs. Russell Sage has given $10,000 to the high school at Sag Harbor for an athletic field and playground, having already given $100,000 to the school. The school is named in honor of Ezra Pierson, who was one of the ancestors of Mrs. Sage. She has purchased an old mansion near the school and is having it put in order. Ezra Pierson has been called the father of the improved public school system of the state.

ANY PORT IN A STORM.

"Thought you weren't living with that artist husband of yours," they said to the little grass widow. "See you out dining with him the other night. Going back to him again?"

"Certainly not," said she. "I haven't the slightest idea of it, but these hard times are likely to go out to dinner with most anybody that asks you, aren't you?"

CLUB WOMEN'S HUSBANDS.

"The club women of Chicago have met and voted that marriage is a failure."

"I read about it."

"I wonder what their husbands think about that?"

"I guess they agree with them."

—Puncheon Post.

S.S.S. HEALS OLD SORES

No old sore exists merely because the flesh is diseased at that particular spot; if this were true simple cleanliness and local applications would heal them. Whenever a sore or ulcer refuses to heal readily, the blood is at fault; this vital fluid is filled with impurities and poisons which are being constantly discharged into the place, feeding it with noxious matter and irritating and inflaming the nerves and tissues so the sore cannot heal. These impurities in the blood may be the remains of some constitutional trouble, the effect of a debilitating spell of sickness, leaving disease germs in the system, or the absorption by the blood of the fermented refuse matter which the bodily channels of waste have failed to remove. Again the cause may be hereditary, the diseased blood of ancestry being handed down to posterity, but whatever the cause, the fact that the sore will not heal shows the necessity for the very best constitutional treatment. There is nothing that causes more worry and anxiety than an old sore which resists treatment.

Every symptom suggests pollution and disease—the discharge, the red, angry looking flesh, the pain and inflammation, and the discoloration of surrounding parts, all show that deep down in the blood there are morbid and dangerous forces at work, constantly creating poisons which may in the end lead to Cancer. Local applications are valuable only for their cleansing and antiseptic effects; they do not reach the blood, where the real cause is located, and can therefore have no real curative worth. S.S.S. heals old sores by going down to the fountain-head of the trouble and driving out the poison-producing germs and morbid matters which are keeping the ulcer open. It removes every particle of impurity from the circulation and makes this life-sustaining pure, fresh and health-sustaining. Then as new, rich blood is carried to the place the healing begins, all discharge ceases, the inflammation leaves, new tissue and healthy flesh are formed, and soon the sore or ulcer is well. S.S.S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers and finest of tonics, just what is needed in the treatment, and in addition to curing the sore will build up and strengthen every part of the system. Special book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice desired furnished free to all who write.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

I want to recommend S.S.S. to any who are in need of a blood purifier, and especially as a remedy for sores and obstinate ulcers. In 1877 I had my leg badly cut on the sharp edge of a barrel, and having on a blue woollen stocking the place was badly poisoned from the dye. A great sore formed and for years no one knew what I suffered with the place. I tried, it seemed to me, everything I had ever heard of, but I got no relief and I thought I would have to go through life with an angry, discharging sore on my leg. At last I began the use of S.S.S., and it was but a short time until I saw that the place was improving. I continued it until it removed all the poison from my blood and made a complete and permanent cure of the sore.

MURRAY DUSTER CO., Murray, Ky.

Stephen A. Douglas, the "Raleigh Man," has Moved to Murray.

I am now living on the east side of town, 2 blocks east of A. R. Boale's store. Look for sign: "Raleigh Remedies." I will at all times carry a full line of their remedies on hand. Our line consists of a full line of Medicines, Flavorings and Toilet Articles and Stock Food. Our remedies are all guaranteed under the pure food drug law.

This is an age of wonderful accomplishments. Wonderful discoveries are a daily occurrence, never before was the public more wide awake—more anxious to obtain the benefits of new discoveries in all lines of industry. The grain reaper of 15 or 20 years ago was considered a great improvement over all previous methods of harvesting. But its days were short, the self-binder took its place. Now it not only does the work of scores of men but does it better than the self-raking reaper on the market 20 years ago. Notwithstanding that there have been just as great improvement in medicine some of our competitors still cling to the formulas which were used even 30 and 40 years ago. I have always felt that quality above everything else should be considered when it comes to buying medicine for after life itself depends on the prompt action of a medicine. Our medicines have always been of the highest quality, made right, labeled right and sold right. So you see it was easy for us to comply with the pure food and drug law. Our medicines and extracts are made from the purest and freshest drugs, they are the best, goes without saying they are beyond competition, are giving satisfaction to three million customers. If you haven't used any of our remedies let this be your invitation to try them. Thanking my customers for their liberal patronage.

Yours respectfully,
STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS, the "Raleigh Man."

The Murray Ledger

O. J. JENNINGS, Editor and Owner.

Entered at the postoffice at Murray, Ky., for mailing through the mails as second-class matter.

DIRTY AS FILTH.

A dirty fling at the Ledger, purporting to be an excerpt from a recent issue of the Paducah Sun, has been printed in circular form and secretly sent out through the mails over this county. The Paducah Sun is dominated by a political clique that serves the party of trust robbers, and we believe trust money paid for the printing and mailing of these circulars in this county. Regardless of the contradictions of trust agencies, papers and the smirking hypocrites who pretend fidelity to the association, a herculean effort is being made to destroy the tobacco growers organization and to destroy the Ledger's influence is the first attempt in this county. We do not believe the people of this county can be made to believe a lie, and if all the calumny, abuse and vilification that is heaped upon this paper and its editor by the dirty buzzards and commercial vampires who have robbed the farmers of this county for years, and if they will confine their accusations to this writer and quit their tirade aimed at organized labor we'll smilingly submit. But the world, the flesh and the devil can't stop us in our fight for the association.

Isaac Miller, one of the county's aged and respected citizens, died Monday at his home a few miles southwest of town. He was about 73 years of age and had been ill for some time. He is survived by seven sons and one daughter. The burial took place Tuesday at South Pleasant Grove.

The Confederate Home.

The Confederate Home Messenger, published at Pewee Valley, gives the following account of the Home which will be pleasant reading to the friends of the veterans who are spending their last days there:

As the summer months draw near those inmates of the Home who have friends or relatives take a furlough and get out for a visit. Some twenty-five left in April, but will return for cold weather. Those who haven't friends to visit can be happy in the assurance that there is no more comfortable spot in all Kentucky than is the Confederate Home. As one who has traveled said, "The grounds are more beautiful than those enjoyed by the Queen at Windsor Castle." The rooms beautifully clean, airy and full of sunshine. The table abundantly supplied with good, wholesome food; comfortable clothing, and all the care and attention one could need in sickness and in health. Surely this is a privilege deserving the highest appreciation by the Confederate Veterans.

Why

have a torpid liver when Herbine, the only liver regulator will help you? There is no reason why you should suffer from Dyspepsia, Constipation, Chills and fever or any liver complaints, when Herbine will cure you. F. C. Robertson & Bacy will sell Ice Cream Freezer at cost plus 25 cents and the Murray Ice Co. will give 50 pounds of ice with each freezer bought before June 15, 1908.

DECIDE.

The Opportunity is Here, Backed by Murray Testimony.

Don't take our word for it. Don't depend on a stranger's statement.

Read Murray endorsement. Read the statements of Murray citizens.

And decide for yourself.

Here is one case of it:

Mrs. H. B. Miller, living in Murray, Ky., says: "I had such severe pains in my back that I could not stoop at times, and whenever I lifted anything, sharp twinges would dart through my loins. My kidneys were affected from an attack of La Grippe, and I suffered from it for over twelve months. My back ached at night, and in the morning when I arose, I would be very lame. During the day I became easily tired, and occasionally suffered from nervous spells. Headaches also disturbed me, and I was bothered with attacks of dizzy spells. There was a sediment in the secretions, and the kidneys were so frequent in action that I was forced to arise three or four times during the night. Learning of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box at Dale & Stubblefield's drug store, and they gave me relief in a short time. I continued using them and was cured. At the present time I am glad to say the cure has been permanent. I, however, always keep Doan's Kidney Pills in the house, and think very highly of them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

CONTINUED.

Trials of Alleged Night Riders Are Continued Till August. Term of Court.

All seven of the cases against the alleged Night Riders that was called in the circuit court Tuesday of this week were continued till the August term of circuit court. The accused men whose trials were set for the present term were Ed Thompson, Jake Ellis, Joe Bell, Jack Elkins, Carlos Elkins, Damus Miller and Bob Duncan.

It was generally conceded that the cases would be continued, and as a result only a small crowd was in town and present in the court room when the cases were called.

Wells' Pot of Gold.

Since Charles H. Wells found the pot of gold containing $5,500, while digging at a sawmill, near Woodville, Ballard county, he has been widely advertised through the press of the country, and as a result has received many letters.

Several coin collectors wrote, asking him the dates of his coins found in the old bean pot, and telling him to hold them as some of them would be worth twice as much, or more than the face value.

One collector of rare coins G. T. Thomas, of Hartford, Mo., has been in communication with Mr. Wells for the past few days regarding the coins, and after learning some of the dates on these gold and silver pieces, made Mr. Wells an offer of a premium of $3,500 on the full amount, making a total of $9,000 for Mr. Wells' $5,500. However, Mr. Wells has declined to accept this offer, knowing that among the vast lot of old money he now has, there must be many of them that have a big premium on them.

It is indeed lucky to find so much money but it is far more so to find money that is worth twice as much as its face calls for.

The Ladies' World for May has a very interesting article by Charles M. Alexander, the singing evangelist, on The Power of the Gospel Hymn. The author tells the story of the most popular of the songs sung at the revival meetings, and gives incidents where they have touched the hearts of hardened listeners. As Mr. Alexander and the Rev. Wilbur Chapman have just held a very successful meeting in Philadelphia, the article is most timely. The fiction in the number is high class and varied enough to suit all tastes. Elliott Flower describes the painting of a porch in a way that keeps the reader quietly chuckling when not laughing outright, while Susie Bonchelle Wight tells with tender pathos a love story which centers about a musical composition.

The Romance of Washington Irving, the Legend of the Flying Dutchman and the continuation of The Captain and the Maid are all good, while the children have special treat in the opening chapters of Elsie and the Arkansaw Bear—a fine combination of Albert Bigelow Paine and Frank Verbeck. The fashions for the month will appeal strongly to the ladies for themselves and the children, and the dressmaking lesson will be appreciated. Household matters are fully considered and in a very sensible kind of way, and in addition there is Fancy Work, Music, Contributions on Health, The Children, Good Looks and many other things [New York: Fifty Cents a Year]

A Cure for Sciatica.

"Some years ago, while stooping over, I was taken with sciatica in my left hip, from which I was laid up, helpless, for over six weeks," writes Mrs. Julius Scott, of 10825 Columbia Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio. "I could not lie on my left side, and my left leg was swollen and became so much shorter that I had to have five lifts put on my left shoe."

"Every winter for a number of years I was laid up in this way and suffered excruciating pain. I tried everything and all the consolation I got from people was that sciatica could not be cured."

"After trying everything else, as a last resort I got a dollar bottle of Sloan's Liniment and was amazed when I found that it gave me relief. I used a second bottle and the swelling went out of my leg and it was only necessary for me to use a part of the third bottle."

"Sloan's Liniment has certainly done wonders for me, and if you wish to refer to me you can do so."

Five Hundred Lives are Lost.

New Orleans, La., April 27.—Probably half a thousand or more persons were fatally injured, many times this number painfully hurt, together with a property loss running up into millions, is the record so far of the cyclone which originated in the West a few days ago. Sweeping across Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee, Georgia and Alabama, it has left death, desolation and want in its wake, seriously interrupted business accumulated between the cities in the South and brought about chaotic conditions in many smaller towns.

Mississippi which has already suffered from more than one cyclone this year, has again borne the brunt of winds and rains. Reports received from that State indicate the loss of life to be far the greatest within her borders.

Estimates on the number of those who lost their lives as a result of the cyclone in Mississippi, place the list of dead between 150 and 190 with a thousand or more injured.

In Texas, Louisiana, Alabama and Georgia, the death lists are also large with serious loss. In Oklahoma, Texas and Tennessee, authentic information in many instances is lacking owing to the supplied facilities for communication at the lack of time to form any like an accurate estimate of the damage done in many sections. Latest estimates:

	Dead.	Injured.
Louisiana	108	350
Mississippi	183	650
Alabama	31	113
Georgia	25	100

Total... 347 1,213
Property loss impossible to estimate, but will reach into millions.

D. E. Booker, of north of town gave out a call Thursday. Mr. Booker is one of the leading young teachers of the county and will teach the Edge Hill school this year. This is one of the largest and best paying schools in the county and the fact that Mr. Booker was chosen from among several applicants for the place shows that, although somewhat young in the cause, his services are in considerable demand. —Hazel News.

Over 30,000 Hogsheads.

J. T. Myles returned Friday night from Guthrie, where he has been kept busy for the past several weeks grading tobacco for the association. At the last sitting 3,200 hogsheads were graded which now makes a total of 30,878 hogsheads in all which have been graded. The number sold will reach 7,000 hogsheads and they have been sold at scheduled prices and some above it. Mr. Myles said that the general tobacco market was very brisk. —Mayfield Messenger.

The Ledger only $1.

GROUND HOG CHILLED PLOW.

Do you like to get your moneys worth every time you trade, and treat the man you trade with good and nice, and make him feel good, and praise the article the article you buy? Now if you do you buy a Ground Hog Plow. It is the latest plow out, it has better suction, the repairs cost a good deal less than some other plows.

You will say that I have never tried one of them, and let us answer that for you, who was the first to try the Avery, the Oliver and the Vulcan plows? As time has moved on improvements have kept pace with time, and the GROUND HOG CHILLED PLOW is the very latest plow out, and has improvement above all the rest. So to see this plow is to buy it, so if you need a plow ask your merchant to get one of these Ground Hog Plows for you, that is if it is not convenient for you you to come to our store after it.

Light Snow Fall.

A beautiful, but, to growing vegetation, a dangerous condition presented itself Thursday morning to this community. Following a cold rain of Wednesday and Wednesday night a light snow fell early Thursday morning covering all vegetation. The spectacle of seeing a red rose peeking through a coat of snow, young snap beans trying to keep their heads above the covering of a winter mantle, the ripe and festive strawberry wallowing in what looking like whipped cream was dangerously beautiful. The damage to fruit and early vegetation is not yet apparent.

Almo RFD No. 2.

ED LEDGER. As I pen this to our dear old paper, (the Ledger,) my mind runs to various thoughts and one is this. Is there a place on this green earth where people try to live happy for one another and in a state of gratitude more than the people of Almo? No night riders, soldiers or trouble on the minds of anyone that we know and it is because we all read the Ledger.

No deaths to report.

J. A. Belcher, of this place, is prizing lots of tobacco for the association. About 300 hogsheads already. His tobacco is selling well. About 37 loads delivered here Saturday.

Herbert Hatcher has his new house about completed.

James Hendricks and Mrs. Nannie Hendricks were married a few days ago. Best wishes to the gentleman and his lady.

I notice in your last week's Ledger that Mr. Wells found a pot of gold while hunting a job. Hurrah for Mr. Wells, he is a nice young man and deserves the find. But I always get cold while hunting a job.

With best wishes for O. J. Jennings and his worthy paper will sign. No. 2.

WE HAVE THE GOODS.

And our aim is to sell them, and to do this we have put a price on them that will surely move them. We have the largest and the most up to date line in the town of Murray. Everything brand new. You will get no old goods if you buy from us. We carry everything that you could wish for in Ladies, Mens and Childrens wear. As our stock is brand new you will come nearer finding what you want with us than you will at other houses and at prices less than the other folks.

10,000 Yards of the best brands of Prints to go at 5 cents per yard.
10,000 yards of Hoosier Domestic to go at 4 1-2 cents per yard.

Miss Gammie Baker

Recognized as one of the best trimmers in Western Kentucky is in charge of our millinery department. We will say to you that we will sell you Ladies and Childrens hats at half the price you have been paying. This is big talk but we have the goods to back up our talk.

Undersell

Now, for us to tell you that we will undersell our competitor is of no use, for you know our motto is to "Sell and Sell Quick," and to do this we sell for less profit than the other fellow.

CLOTHING, SHOES, FURNISHINGS, ETC.

Our Clothing, Hat and Shoe Department for men, boys and Children was never better. We took great pains in selecting the nobbiest things the market afforded, and we are safe in saying that we can save you from $1 to $2 on every suit you buy from us. We are not doing this because we love you, it is that we figure that we can make more money for ourselves by selling goods for small profit and more of them. Now it is up to you to come in and get our prices, and you will be convinced that every word of this ad is true.

A. Q. KNIGHT & SON.

The Sapphire Locket

By GEORGE T. PARDY

(Copyright by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

"How goes it, old fellow?" asked Lieutenant Richard Gilfray, as he sat down by his comrade's cot in the hospital at Manila. The atmosphere of the room was close and heavy, and scarcely a breath of wind came through the shutters, for the burden of intense, stagnant heat lay heavily on the torrid, burnt earth. Sinclair's eyes opened and a forced smile distorted the corners of his pain-racked mouth.

"They got me sure this time, Dick," he responded, weakly.

Gilfray raised a protesting hand. "Oh, come now, Norman," he said, in a vain attempt to speak lightly. "Things aren't so bad as all that. Wait until we get back to God's country and we'll have many a chat and laugh yet over our campaign among the festive Maabes."

But even as he spoke, he knew that the passing of Norman Sinclair to the land of shadows was only a question of scant time. The sick man shook his head feebly.

"Not this trip, Dickie," he said. "I could tell from the moment I felt the shock of the bullet that it wasn't like the other chips I got. This one went to the spot."

Gilfray regarded him with anxious eyes. They were both young men, but old in friendship, their attachment dating back to the care-free college days at Yale, when they abandoned the mimic war of the gridiron to join the volunteers that assembled to work Uncle Sam's will in Cuba.

But this taste for warfare had only served to whet their appetites. Therefore, when the volunteers were enlisted out of the service, they enlisted, by mutual agreement, and in the course of time were assigned to the forces engaged in the wearisome task of trying to subdue the restless little brown men of the Philippines.

Later the rosate hue of martial life took on a more prosaic and somber tinge. They learned to know the hideous discomforts of campaigning in a tropical climate, the lurid flames of a black-and-blooded sun that beat mercilessly upon their unaccustomed heads, the miseries of inferior rations and the burning thirst that had perfume to be quenched at pools of stagnant green water, during monotonous "hikes" through swamp and jungle on the heels of an exceedingly active foe. They had experienced the fiery clutch of the fever fiend and the grinding pain of slowly healing wounds, but through it all they had lived on, and won the rewards the government saw fit to bestow upon them. These latter came in the form of promotion, Gilfray receiving help for his bruises in the shape of a first lieutenant, while Sinclair was correspondingly grateful for second place.

There were times when both wondered what neither would have openly confessed, whether such snuff-burners were worth the sufferings they entailed. Gilfray, especially, had often debated the question with himself. Back in New York, a young wife was awaiting his return from the field of glory and frequently his heart longed for her and home, with all that the word implies, became very real and insistent. There were moments when he reproached himself for his selfishness in leaving her alone after the return from Cuba, singly because he was carried away by his martial ardor. They had been married but two years, and out of that time they had spent scarcely six months together.

Had it not been for Sinclair he might not have taken the step. The latter had not persuaded him to come, but Gilfray's dreams of military renown and his extreme reluctance to allow his claim to go alone were potent factors in determining his future course. For those were days when the veil of pleasant illusion still draped the grim realities of war. The San Juan episode had been too brief and exciting to impress him with the seriousness of the thing. Sinclair single and, as far as any of his acquaintances knew, heart whole and fancy free, had more of an excuse for going, but Gilfray's impetuous spirit refused to brook any distinction between them.

Yet, now that the flat had gone forth invalidating him home, he admitted that he would be riotously glad to see civilization again. But never had he calculated on a return to his native land unaccompanied by his best friend, and to-day he knew that this was the contingency he must face.

As though the slight exertion of speaking had exhausted his remaining strength, Sinclair's eyes closed, and the watcher by the bedside saw that he had passed into one of those brief periods of slumber which so often occur during the closing stages of a fatal illness. He moved restlessly in his sleep, and Gilfray, bending over him, rearranged his pillow with a gentle hand. A round, glittering object rolled from underneath the cover as he did so and Gilfray picked it up with a half-suppressed cry of despair. It was a simple trinket, a small sapphire-studded locket, but the sight of it drove the blood from the finder's cheeks and caused his pulses to throb violently. There was no mistaking its identity, it was surely the same that he had given his wife on her last birthday and which she usually wore suspended from her neck by a slender gold chain. For a moment Gilfray's brain reeled in a mist of maddening conjecture, then his thumb pressed a spring and the lid flew open. A photograph of Alice's delicate, oval face stared back at him.

Sinclair stirred uneasily and his eyes opened slowly. As they rested upon Gilfray's stern, ashen features and caught sight of the locket, he uttered a half-articulate cry. "You—you have seen—" he gasped. The sentence was not completed.

Gilfray sank back in the chair, his hand still grasping the accusing trinket. "Yes," he said, hoarsely. "I have seen—good God! what does it mean?" His tone was half-appealing, half-threatening, in its despairing cadence.

A tinge of red dyed Sinclair's pallid cheeks and his lips whitened convulsively. "It's not—not what you think, Dick," he whispered. "Listen, man, listen till I explain. I always loved Alice from the first day I saw her.

"Early in the seventeenth century there was a favorite haunt of smart women known as the New Exchange situated on the south side of the Strand, London. It was a sort of arcade of little shops, where gloves, perfumers and fans were sold, and here a girl called Anne Clarges kept a 'wash hall' and glove shop. Anne's father was a blacksmith and her mother a washerwoman, and she had married in 1619 a man named Radford, with whom she refused to live. One of the people whose linen Anne's mother washed was no less than Gen. Monk, then imprisoned in the Tower, and Anne used to take his linen thither. The general took a fancy to Anne and married her after her husband's death, and, as he eventually became duke of Albemarle, the washerwoman's little daughter became a duchess. The duchess was no beauty, and a vulgar woman into the bargain. Peppys once dined with the duke and duchess, and records his impression thus: 'April 4, 1667. Dirty dishes, and a nasty wife at table, and bad meat, of which I made but an ill dinner.'

"The severest looking woman on the car didn't move to get out her change when the conductor approached. The conductor when he got up to where she was just gave her a sort of queer look, hesitated, but only for an instant while she glared at him, and then he passed on rapidly to take the fare from the next passenger."

"That conductor forgot to get your fare, didn't he?" whispered the little woman at her right.

"Forgot nothing!" said the severe-looking woman, "that fellow's my husband and he don't catch me taking a nickel out of my allowance, and giving it back to him."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"I forgive him, of course, Alice," he said, at the conclusion of his story. "Poor old Norman! Who would have dreamed that this had been his secret sorrow? The best, the truest friend the world ever knew. But I don't blame him for loving you, dear. Nobody could help that."

Alice Gilfray smiled a troubled little smile as her husband finished his complaint with an affectionate kiss. She made no response, however, and Gilfray, unwilling to mar his home coming by the discussion of a painful topic, spoke of other things. But later, in the seclusion of her bedroom, Alice gazed wearily at the reflection in the mirror of a face that was tense and drawn with conflicting emotions.

"So he was loyal to the last," she said aloud. Her graceful head sunk upon her arms and she burst into a passion of subdued weeping.

"The world will never know how we loved each other," she sobbed despairingly, "and now God help me I love his memory more than ever for the he told to shield me!"

In the silence that followed her confession of vain regret, a familiar step awoke the echoes of the corridor outside. Hastily springing to her feet, she dried her eyes and removed the traces of tears with a hurried application of her powder puff. The door opened, she turned to greet her husband with a wistful smile of welcome.

The Cause of Many Sudden

There is a disease, prevalent in our country most dangerous because it is so common, and it is called "Bright's Disease." It is a disease of the kidneys, and it is often the result of kidney trouble. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance, the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Bright's disease almost always results from a derangement of the kidneys, and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmor's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scaling pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go to the toilet, through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmor & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmor's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

IT'S always a mistake to try to economize on shoes; especially when the best shoes you can buy can be had for $3.50, $4 or $5.

We'll sell you Selz Royal Blue shoes at those prices; varying according to style and leather, and we promise you the best shoe you ever put your foot into at any price.

They're well-made of good leather; they fit.

Fighting the Farmers.

We unhesitatingly affirm that there was and is yet abundant and urgent reason for the formation and perpetuation of the Dark Tobacco Planters' Association. One of the most convincing proofs of the urgency and wisdom of the movement is the fact that since the organization of the association tobacco has advanced to three times its former price. The blessings that have come to all classes of our people in consequence can scarcely be numbered. Before the organization of the tobacco growers, when the farmer was at the mercy of the agents of the tobacco trust, poverty and privation sat beside the hearthstone of many a home in the region around Fulton. There were homes where the very necessities of life had to be discarded, where the sick had to die for the want of medicine and medical treatment, where the parents had to stay away from church and the children from Sunday school for the want of decent clothes to wear. Isn't it different now? Who says it is not? There is scarcely a man or woman in this entire country who does not believe and say the Farmers' Tobacco Association has brought about these blessings. But is it not strange that there are farmers, tobacco growers, who recognize the truth of this, and yet are fighting the organization? Men who have profited by and are yet enjoying the benefits resulting from the efforts of the association. They say they believe in the association; that it is a good thing and yet they give aid and furnish the means that enable its opponents to continue their warfare upon it. We must make allowance for the selfishness of men, but we must also reprove when selfishness obliterates principle. If the association is right, it is wrong to encourage opposition to it. If it is a blessing to all classes of the community it is right to support it and discourage all attempts to destroy it. Hence with the utmost sincerity we exhort all classes of our people in town and country to support and encourage the tobacco growers' association and frown upon and discourage every movement and influence that seeks or is calculated to weaken or destroy it. Especially do we exhort the farmers to join hand and heart in its support, pledging their tobacco to it and doing all things and everything in order that it may continue to enlarge the rivers of our content and strengthen the fountains of our prosperity. Don't listen to the promises and persuasions of men who would keep you out of the association in order that they may make money. They would kill the association in order to have a free field for their operations. And when they have killed it, woe to the tobacco growers. Let this truth be burned into the souls of our farmers. If the tobacco growers' association is destroyed you return to the old state of things, when there was but one buyer and that buyer fixed the price of your tobacco and you had to take it or keep your tobacco. —Fulton Commercial.

That languid, lifeless feeling that comes with spring and early summer, can be quickly changed to a feeling of buoyancy and energy by the judicious use of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. The Restorative is a genuine tonic to feed, run-down nerves and but a few doses are needed to satisfy the user that Dr. Shoop's Restorative is actually teaching that tired spot. The indoor life of winter nearly always leads to sluggish bowels, and to sluggish circulation in general. The customary lack of exercise and outdoor air ties up the liver, stagnates the kidneys, and oftentimes weakens the heart's action. Use Dr. Shoop's Restorative a few weeks and all will be changed. A few days test will tell you that you are using the right remedy. You will easily and surely note the change from day to day. Sold by H. D. Thornton.

Hearticulture.

Oliver Herford and John Cecil Clay in the May Woman's Home Companion assert that Hearticulture is an exact science, and they give cultural directions for the use of lovers, young and old. Every one can imagine how delightfully Oliver Herford could describe such strange flowers as Aprilfoolia, the Valentine Plant, the Hope Vine, and Gossip Weed. The illustrations of these unique plants are in color.

WOMEN WHO BELIEVE IN PERUNA

Honest Women Who Are Not Afraid to Tell the Truth About Peruna.

MRS. F. E. HENDERSON

Caught Cold Easily.

Mrs. F. E. Henderson, 221 Ninth St., Milwaukee, Wis., writes: "I never had any faith in patent medicines until I tried Peruna, but my experience with this reliable medicine has taught me that there is one which can be trusted, and which will not fail in time of need. For the past few years I have found that I caught cold easily, which would settle in a most unpleasant catarrh of the head. I had to be especially careful about being out of evenings, and not to get chilled when dressed thin for parties, but since I have used Peruna my general health is improved, and my system is in such good condition that even though I am exposed to inclement weather it no longer affects me. I have a splendid appetite and enjoy life, being in perfect health."

Peruna Tablets.

For two years Dr. Hartman and his assistants have labored incessantly to create Peruna in tablet form, and their strenuous efforts have just been crowned with success. People who object to liquid medicines can now secure Peruna tablets. These tablets represent the medicinal ingredients of Peruna, and each tablet is equivalent to one average dose.

Who can set a money value on health? It is absolutely priceless. No one in good health can fully appreciate what it means to have poor health. The days are long and tedious. The nights are long and painful. Nothing goes right. Even the mind becomes deranged and injured by continued poor health.

Once liberated from the thrall of sickness words fail to express the joy and relief. Peruna has been the means of relieving more women than ill health in the United States than, perhaps, any other medicine.

A multitude of women stand ready to give testimony in favor of Peruna whenever occasion offers.

Dyspepsia Entirely Relieved.

Miss Lillie C. Martin, Shelbyville, Tenn., writes: "Everybody says I look better now than I have for two or three years, and I sincerely thank you for your kind advice. I believe your treatment has entirely cured me. I can eat anything I want. I believe your remedies will cure any case of indigestion or dyspepsia."

MISS HELEN SAUERBIER

Head and Throat.

Miss Helen Sauerbier, 215 Main St., St. Joseph, Mich., writes: "Last winter I caught a sudden cold which developed into an unpleasant catarrh of the head and throat, depriving me of my appetite and usual good spirits. A friend who had been cured by Peruna advised me to try it and I sent for a bottle at once, and I am glad to say that in three days the phlegm had loosened, and I felt better, my appetite returned and within nine days I was in my usual good health."

Work for Homeless Children.

One of every seven hundred and fifty human beings is a homeless child, says The Delineator. This means one hundred and sixteen thousand children who are homeless to-day in this country. Thirteen thousand of these are at present in homes under the care of the National Children's Home Society. Nearly one hundred thousand are in orphanages, asylums and various institutions throughout the country. There is still a great work before the National Home-Finding Society—and work which The Delineator is proud to share, for the work will be incomplete until every healthy, normal child has been placed where it will receive its greatest need, —father and mother love.

Indigestion.

With its companions, heart burn, flatulence, torpidity of the liver, constipation, palpitation of the heart, poor blood, headache and other nervous symptoms, yellow skin, foul tongue, offensive breath and a legion of other ailments, is at once the most widespread and destructive malady among the American people. The Herbine treatment will cure all these troubles. See bottle. Sold by Dale & Stubblefield and H. D. Thornton & Co.

Register Assigns.

James E. Wilhelm, president of the Register Newspaper Company, of Paducah, made an assignment to Cecil Reed Friday afternoon. The act was forced on account of numerous debts and liabilities which the company is unable to pay off. The assignment recites that the publication of both the Daily and Weekly Register shall be made until Mr. Reed can sell the plant. Afterwards the indebtedness of the company is to be discharged, as far as the assets will permit.
