THE PLANTS OF THE WILLYS-OVERLAND CO. ARE THE LARGEST, MOST COMPLETE AND BEST EQUIPPED. THE TOLEDO PLANT ALONE COVERS OVER 30 ACRES. THE FIVE OVERLAND CHASSIS ARE ABSOLUTELY STANDARDIZED. NO MAKER IN THE WORLD WORKS TO CLOSER LIMITS IN FINENESS OF FIT.

NO MANUFACTURER CAN PRODUCE THE CAR DESCRIBED BELOW, SELL IT AT THE PRICE WE ASK, AND MAKE A PROFIT. THIS IS A FACT WHICH COMPARISON WILL PROVE. CERTAIN IT IS, THAT NO MAKER GIVES AS MUCH FOR SO LITTLE. 25,000 OVERLAND OWNERS KNOW THIS FROM EXPERIENCE.

These headlines contain statements which, if true mean EVERYTHING to the buyer who wants the most a given amount will buy.

If this advertisement will cause you to act—induce you to make an investigation of the claims we make for OVERLAND Cars and compare them with others, it will have accomplished its mission.

Make your comparisons thoroughly, part by part. The more thorough your investigation, the stronger your conviction that the OVERLAND is the car to buy.

Your comparison will prove, first that you get in the OVERLAND, the largest, handsomest, most luxuriously finished car, that you get a power plant not equalled for efficiency, reliability, quietness and flexibility in any car selling at less than $2,500. Compare the motor in Model 52 OVERLAND with the best car you know selling at $1,700, $2,000 or $2,500.

Compare the springs and riding qualities, the speed, the hill climbing ability, the wheelbase, the frame, transmission, brakes, rear wheels and axle; steering gear. Compare the finish, upholstery, the body design and workmanship. You'll find that OVERLAND fore door models are designed and built as fore door models, not old bodies patched up to meet the prevailing style with shifting lever and emergency brake outside and out of reach. See the detail cut to the left, showing OVERLAND center control, the approved practice in all up-to-the-minute, high class cars.

Consider, and bear this point in mind ALWAYS, that the OVERLAND is a MANUFACTURED car, every part and every piece made by us, after our design, by our own men, in our own plants.

You'll find, too, that the OVERLAND is a thoroughly standardized car. Each operation is made by an expert workman on that particular part, by machinery in a special "jig," from the best material.

Each eye, each hand, each tool, each machine, in the final assembly.

On parts like pistons, cam shafts, work as close as one one-thousandth part of an inch. In the final construction, no tolerance is common.

Unlimited production of exact standardized duplicates, an ideal organization built up, controlled and directed by one man—John N. Willys—enables us to make the minimum price on the maximum of motor car efficiency.

We could make them more extravagantly, but we cannot make them better.

The production of OVERLAND cars for 1911 will be 20,000. We make ONLY five chassis—22 body styles, with or without fore doors. No extra charge for fore doors.

We have prepared a sheet of comparative data, tabulating specifications of OVERLAND Cars with America's best in their class. Write for this sheet and our catalogue.

There are 22 models of OVERLAND for 1911. The perfection of the automobile craft is found in these cars, and the accompanying illustrations are just a suggestion of their beauty. Yes, OVERLAND cars are as nearly perfect as brain and money can make them. Look them over. Note the stability of construction, the quality of the finish, the graceful lines, their flexibility and utility. They fairly bristle with good points, from radiator to differential, and besides which visible points of superiority (of which we could mention a score or more) you'll find a real surprise beneath the hood, and so on throughout the car.

Look at the suspension of the motor—supported on three points. The big valves and the adjustable valve stems. The five big liberal bearings of the crank shaft which insures long service. Note the offset crank shaft which gives maximum turning power and avoiding the dead center at the time of firing. The spiral art motor gears which make for noiseless running. The low hung carburetor insuring at all times sufficient gravity for the gasoline, especially on the hills. Look at the system of ignition—the very highest type. The suspension of the radiator carried on swivel bearings, obviating all danger of leaks or straining. Observe the method of control—simple safe and certain. The brake equipment is wonderfully efficient, capable if necessary, of locking the rear wheels instantly. The long large springs insuring solid comfort. The transmission assembly is splendidly worked out—A solid, satisfactory piece of work and quite in harmony with the balance of the car. The body is a masterpiece—every little detail carried to the point of absolute perfection. Yes, OVERLANDS are good cars.

FULTON COUNTY

The Garden Spot of the "Purchase," Rich Lands, Versatile Soil, Living Streams, People Prosperous and Happy.

FULTON COUNTY COURT HOUSE.—W. H. SPRADLIN, BUILDER.

President James Monroe on January 17, 1819 ratified the treaty made by Andrew Jackson and Gov. Isaac Shelby with the Chickasaw Nation, whereby was granted to the National Government forever that portion of Kentucky now divided into the counties of Fulton, Hickman, Graves, McCracken, Marshall and Calloway, together with twenty counties in West Tennessee. This portion of Kentucky and Tennessee is now known as the "Jackson Purchase," and nearly in the geographical center of it lies calm and serene the county of Fulton, conceded to be the most fertile spot in the "Purchase."

The first settler of which there is any account was a man named Mills, who in 1819 came down the Mississippi, tied up his boat and called the place Mills Landing. It is now known as Hickman, and is the present county seat of government. Fulton county was named in honor of the inventor, Robert Fulton. It contains 184 square miles of territory, and its organization as a county dates from April 1, 1845.

The first legal transaction of which there is record is one wherein Goodrich, and others transferred to Greenbury Watson 190 acres of land, being the northwest quarter of section 18, township 1, range 5, for the consideration of $500.

In May, 1845, the site of a court-house was selected, and it was authorized that a suitable structure be erected for which $4,000 was to be paid, but it was not until 1848 that the building was completed and ready for occupancy. In 1846 a log house was erected and used as a jail until 1860, when it was replaced by another of the same kind. This latter, from the fact of lying idle, fell down one day, and in its place now stands a substantial modern jail.

Being the garden spot of the Purchase Fulton county is in the midst of one of the finest agricultural sections of the entire south. The average elevation above the sea level is 400 to 500 feet. There are a few hills to the northwest of Fulton which reach an altitude of probably nearly a thousand feet. The surface is mostly a rolling level inclining toward the Mississippi river.

The soil is as versatile as it is rich and will grow corn, wheat, all the cereals, clover, grasses, tobacco, the dark variety, fruits, potatoes and vegetables of all kinds.

While a great deal of timber has been cut in recent years in the county much valuable hardwood timber can yet be found in the county, particularly in the bottoms.

Fulton county is a splendid stock section, on account of the freedom with which the grasses flourish here. The county is well watered by living streams. It would be hard indeed to find any county in the country that is well adapted to so many leading crops, to stock raising and all kindred lines of agriculture. The county is inhabited by a happy, prosperous, progressive people.

Fulton County Officers

DORA M. SMITH.

The young lady whose picture is reproduced has the distinction of being the first of her sex to hold the office of Superintendent of Public Instruction of Fulton county. She is now serving her third term which testifies to the unqualified success she has achieved in discharging the duties incident to this important office.

GOALDIER JOHNSON.

Sheriff of Fulton county was born in Hickman in 1885 and will be 23 years old in May. He is the youngest and most efficient sheriff in the State. Mr. Johnson proved his popularity in the last Democratic primary when he only lacked 13 votes of getting as many as all of his other four opponents and getting more than three times as many as his closest opponent in the race, led the Democratic ticket in the general election.

W. A. NAYLOR.

W. A. Naylor was born Nov. 1867, near Cayce in Fulton county where he resided until moving to Hickman to take charge of the office of County Judge. He is serving his second term, and during his brief administration has built more steel bridges and good roads than all his predecessors, introducing into this county the road drag, etc., in so doing he is laying a foundation for future good roads as well as for his own future.

J. W. RONEY.

J. W. Roney was born January 7, 1877, and has resided in and near Fulton and Hickman for 25 years. Jim was educated in the printing offices of Fulton and the schools of this city, finishing his schooling at Huntingdon, Tenn. He was admitted to the practice of law in this county in January, 1902; served four years as Police Judge of Hickman, and is now serving his first term as County Attorney. From the general satisfaction he is giving now he will no doubt have no opponent at the next election.

S. T. ROPER.

The subject of this sketch was born and reared on a farm near Cayce, in Fulton county, Kentucky. At the age of twenty years, he engaged in the mercantile business which he continued for eight years. In 1905, he was elected to the office of Clerk of Fulton County Court and is now serving his second term.

A. HUDDLESTON & CO.

Hardware Dealers.

One of Fulton's Oldest and Most Popular Mercantile Establishments.

The hardware firm of A. Huddleston & Co. on Main street, is one of Fulton's oldest and most popular mercantile establishments. It was established in 1893 and is today the second oldest mercantile firm without a change in the city. The firm has been in the same building on rather buildings, since 1895.

The proprietors of the firm are Messrs. Arch Huddleston and George T. Beadles.

The senior partner, Mr. A. Huddleston, was born and reared in this community. He belongs to one of the old and honored families of Fulton county. He is one of Fulton's most popular and progressive citizens. He is always on the outlook for any good thing that will help this city.

Mr. George T. Beadles the other member of the firm was born and lived at Mayfield till he was 16 years of age when he came to Fulton. He has made one of the city's best and most substantial citizens and a safe conservative business man, highly respected by all.

Starting in a modest way the firm has steadily increased its business until now they carry one of the best and most complete stocks of hardware to be found anywhere.

They do not carry farm implements but lighter garden tools, hoes, rakes, spades and similar utensils. They have the best equipped tinshop in Western Kentucky, make tin gutters, do all kinds of tinware work and carry a complete stock in that line.

They are agents for the famous Boss Range, the best in the market, and handle the popular Leader line of stoves. They also keep the Detroit gasoline stove, the best made.

This firm carries a full line of baseball goods.

A complete stock of refrigerators, ice cream freezers, wire screening, etc.

They keep the best makes in shot guns and rifles and carry all kinds of ammunition.

They carry probably the largest line in the city of glassware, stoneware, queensware, decorated ware, and fine imported china and all kinds of enamelware.

They carry a full line of cut glass and silverware of the best makes and guaranteed.

They sell the celebrated Klans shears, the best brands of razors and fine cutlery.

Their stock, in all kind of shelf goods is unsurpassed. They enjoy a fine local trade, because they have the confidence of the people.

Be sure to give them an opportunity to show you their goods and quote you prices when you need anything in their line.

CHARLES BEADLES

Mr. Beadles is the assessor of Fulton county. He was born and grew to early manhood in Madison county, Tennessee. He came to Fulton county about 30 years ago and has made a progressive citizen. He is a Democrat to the manner born, and his popularity was shown in his nomination and election a year ago. He is serving his first term and it goes without question that he will be endorsed when the time comes for another election.

J. A. NOONON.

Uncle Joe Noonon was born in this county February 3, 1837, it being called at that time Hickman county. He is the senior of Fulton county officials, both as regards age and term of office, having been jailer since 1897. Before assuming his duties as jailer he was a farmer and later a resident of Fulton where he served as councilman and street commissioner. His many friends hope that he will be spared many more years to discharge the office he now holds.

World's Best Ear of Corn for 1910.

Modern Woodmen of America.

The Giant of the Fraternal Insurance World.

On the 5th, day of January 1883, a little coterie of the foremost fraternal insurance men of the day met in the little city of Lyon, Iowa, and organized Camp No. 1, Modern Woodmen of America, with 22 members. This society was not organized for the purpose of making money, but to furnish reliable insurance to its members at absolute cost. It was to be owned and managed by its members. These principles together with its strong and attractive fraternal features, its beautiful and instructive ritualistic work, and a truly representative form of government, at once appealed to the American citizen, and its marvelous growth has been one of the wonders of the age. From the small beginning of one camp and 22 members it has grown until today it has 1,500 local camps and nearly a million and a quarter members in good standing.

The society's death rate last year was only 5.71 per 1,000 members, which speaks well for the rigid medical examination that applicants are compelled to undergo. During the year just passed $10,857,084.55 was paid to beneficiaries of deceased Modern Woodmen, and the total paid since organization reaches the enormous sum of $94,122,350.93, all of this was paid out of the benefit fund. In addition millions have been paid by the Head Camp and local camps for the relief of members who have been overtaken by misfortune. When the news of the great San Francisco earthquake was flashed over the wires, the Modern Woodmen through their executive board at once appropriated a substantial sum of money, appointed a committee to disburse the same for the relief of unfortunate members and their families, the same policy was carried out in Kansas City. During the great flood at Galveston when that city was devastated by a tidal wave and in other instances, the Modern Woodmen has shown its great fraternal heart beats in sympathy with its membership in distress.

It is an undisputed fact that with the single exception of the Masonic Fraternity, the Modern Woodmen has more members of state and national reputation than any fraternal society in America, such men as Ex. Gov. W. J. Bryan, Hon. Champ Clark, Ex. Lt. Governor Northcott of Illinois, and hundreds of other well known public men are enthusiastic members of this order. The present Head Consul is the Hon. A. R. Talbot, who for years was associated with Hon. W. J. Bryan in the practice of law. Mr. Talbot is today recognized as the greatest fraternalist of the age, under his wise leadership the Modern Woodmen has flourished as never before. In his great brain which literally teems with schemes for the betterment of social conditions surrounding the people at large and the Modern Woodmen in particular was born the idea of a Great Modern Woodman Sanatorium.

Realizing the fact that with its immense membership it could undertake and carry to a successful issue, plans that would seem impossible to smaller societies, the Modern Woodmen has a fine example of this in the 2,000 acre land at Colorado Springs, Colorado. On this land they have erected a great sanatorium for the treatment of tuberculosis, or what is more popularly known as the "Great White Plague." According to the testimony of leading physicians and experts on pulmonary diseases, the climate, altitude and general conditions of that part of Colorado, make it an ideal location for the treatment of this dread disease. This great institution has been erected and is maintained by voluntary subscriptions and the small assessment of ten cents per capita levied on the membership semi-annually. Any Modern Woodman in good standing who is suffering from tuberculosis is taken in and treated free of charge. Here with ideal climate and surroundings, the best and purest of food, fresh milk from a herd of Jersey cows maintained on the premises, and specially constructed canvas-walled tent cottages, together with a staff of expert physicians and trained nurses, hundreds of Woodmen have been not only benefited, but absolutely cured. Many Woodmen all over the land, who have been told by their physicians that all hope was gone, are looking towards this sanatorium as the storm tossed mariner looks on the lighthouse that will guide him into a safe harbor. In building and maintaining this splendid free sanatorium, the Modern Woodmen has shown to the world that its motto "Par Autre Vie" (For Another Life), is no meaningless phrase, but is the prevailing sentiment of the society.

The Local Camp.

Kentucky Home Camp No. 11,351 Modern Woodmen of America was organized October 5th, 1903, with fifteen members, and the following officers were elected: Consul Dr. J. C. Yates, Adviser Frank A. Cole, Banks Van Milam, Clerk Hugh Callahan, Escort H. J. Riddell, Watchman W. A. Love, Sentry L. Mattingly, Managers O. R. Harvey, W. L. Mansfield, and George Fowler, Physician Dr. J. C. Yates. With this splendid set of officers the future of the camp was assured. Its growth has been steady and healthy it has never offered any "bargain counter" rates to secure members, but charged the same initiation fee at all at present nearly two hundred members in good standing and applications are voted on at almost every meeting.

Many of our prominent citizens are members of this order and they never fail to speak a good word for it when an opportunity offers. Since it was organized over eight years ago, the camp has lost four members by death, the beneficiaries of these deceased members join in praising the society for the promptness with which their claims against it were settled. The camp meets every Tuesday night at their hall in the Brown block and harmony and goodfellowship always prevails. On numerous occasions the members of the order have shown that they understand the art of entertaining and the banquets, smackers and other public functions given under the auspices of the camp are always well attended and greatly enjoyed. The present officers are, Consul W. H. Falwell; Past Consul, V. C. King; Adviser, S. P. Etheridge; Banker, E. M. Lucas; Clerk, F. A. Cole; Escort, J. H. Sullivan; Watchman, W. N. Stallins; Managers, Dr. R. T. Rudd, Thomas Dalton and W. T. Thompson; physician, Drs. Rudd, Cohn and Slayden. The officers and members are striving to make this the banner year in the history of the camp. The campaign for new members is on. Would you like to be a Modern Woodman? Would you like to be one of over a million "Neighbors" joined together in bonds of fraternal confidence marching shoulder to shoulder under the flag of this great fraternity? Are you a male person between the ages of eighteen and forty five, of good moral character, not engaged either directly or indirectly in the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquors, not working at any of the occupations classed by the society as hazardous, then you are eligible for membership, they will welcome you at their camp fire, they will try to help you in a social and fraternal way, and then when you are taken by the relentless hand of death, the amount of your benefit certificate will come like a ray of sunshine into your darkened home. Any officer or member will take in your petition, you can insure for $500, $1,000, $1,500, $2,000 or if not over 41 years of age for $3,000. The rates are the lowest, see about it at once.

P. H. WEAKS ONE OF THE OLDEST FIRMS.

Continuously in Dry Goods, and Clothing Business in City. A Splendid Business.

The oldest merchant in the dry goods business continuously in this city is Mr. P. H. Weaks, the well known and popular merchant at the corner of Lake street and Commercial avenue.

He came to Fulton 16 years ago, engaged in business and has been merchandising here ever since. He has done business in the splendid building shown above for the past 13 years, having moved into the building when it was erected. Mr. Weaks did not build up his present splendid business with a mushroom growth, but through the years that have intervened by careful business methods, by buying and selling honest goods at reasonable prices he has won the confidence of the public and has steadily built and held a trade that embraces a large per cent. of the best people of Fulton and all the surrounding section.

He has one of the best and most dependable stocks of dry goods, notions, clothing, shoes, hats etc., to be found in any house in Western Kentucky. He occupies the entire first floor of the big building with a large balcony running the full length of both sides and the entire rear thus virtually having two floors.

Mr. Weaks holds his customers by straight forward business dealings and by selling goods on a live and let live business. Another strong feature in the success of his business is that he employs people in his different department who know the business and always give courteous attention to the customers.

The following popular salesmen are employed in the store: Messrs. R. E. Stille, J. H. Stone, Charlie Donoho, Geo. Bruce and Mrs. Maudie Stone.

Mr. Weaks is one of Fulton's foremost public spirited citizens. He is a valued member of the Board of Education, is a director of the bank of Water Valley, and interested in other enterprises.

He is chairman of the Board of Stewards of the First Methodist church and a leading member of that church.

His beautiful home in West Fulton appears elsewhere in the 1911 edition.

JIM PIRTE CAMP NO. 990 U. C. V., FULTON

ROLL OF MEMBERSHIP ALIVE AND DEAD.

Was Organized Here in May 1897. Last List Of Heroes—Wearers Of the Gray.

The most interesting picture in this special souvenir 1911 edition is that of the Confederate reunion held in Fulton last year under the auspices of Jim Pirtle Camp of this city. That gallant band of heroes who wore the gray and forever immortalized Southern valor is growing fewer in number as the years roll on, and soon the reveille will sound for the this side and all will have crossed to the other side to be with Jackson and the others gone before and "rest under the trees."

The following is the roster of Jim Pirtle Camp No. 990 organized in Fulton in May 1897, furnished us by E. R. A. Browder, an honored member.

Those who are dead are so marked, as far as known, some having moved away from Fulton.

PALACE BARBER SHOP

Fulton's Leading Tonsorial Establishment Is a Credit To the City. Up-to-date in Every Respect.

No city of Fulton's class in the country has a better appointed tonsorial establishment than "The Palace" on Lake street of which Mr. J. E. Hannephin is proprietor. It is a credit to the city. It is neat and inviting from the in at The Palace since March 8th, 1908, and has made a host of friends in the three years he has been there and is considered one of the best artists in his line any where.

Mr. Clyde Copeland has been with The Palace since August 1910 and front door back to the clean, well kept and sanitary bath rooms. It is a luxury to have your tonsorial work done at The Palace. Mr. Hannephin has been in the business 8 years in Fulton and he is well and favorably known not only in Fulton and surrounding country, but to most of the visitors to this city. He keeps everything in a clean and sanitary condition, has the best in all departments for the public and keeps only the best workmen. Any lady bringing or sending children is guaranteed the best of attention and will find an inviting orderly place. Any visitor or stranger will find a welcome at The Palace and the best attention.

There are six chairs at The Palace. The following are a few of the up-to-date features of service to be had at this shop, not usually to be had outside large cities:

- Olive Oil Shampoo.
- Crude Oil Shampoo.
- Fitch Shampoo.
- Ed Pinard's Hair Tonic.
- Ed Pinard's Face Lotions.
- Electric Face Massage.
- Electric Head Massage.

Besides these the services of the best talent in all styles of hair cutting and shaving can be had at all times.

Mr. A. H. Kindred has been work-has served the Fulton trade about 4 years. He is also popular and a splendid workman.

The small boy, (weight about 225) on the 1st chair on the left, with the smile that won't come off has made lots of friends since he has been with The Palace and they are always glad to find his chair empty when they come around for their work. Mr. Short is always there with the goods. Another pleasant feature of The Palace which is appreciated by the public is the porter service, and Zealons and Hatus are on the job and ready to serve you when you need anything in their line.

Main Street Shop.

The Main Street Shop, which is also owned by Mr. Hannephin is managed by Mr. H. C. Craig and like "The Palace" is neat, well kept and the best workmanship, and courteous treatment to all customers. The cut above shows this tidy inviting place.

Mr. Craig has worked in Fulton 5 years and is well and favorably known to the public and is an adept tonsorial workman. He is assisted by Mr. Lewis Newton, who also has many friends. He says if they are fortunate enough to get in his chair he will do the rest in a manner that will thoroughly please them.

The Farmers Bank of Fulton

One of the financial institutions of Fulton County, The Farmers Bank, organized in 1908, with a capital of $35,000, and today aggregating about $16,000 surplus of $7,500.

On April 1st the capital is to be increased to $50,000 and the surplus to $10,000. It has been a paying investment from the start to the stockholders. The bank was first established on the East side of Church street in the building now occupied by the McDowell Ladies' store and later moved to its present location on the west side of the street opposite the postoffice.

It has a splendid corps of officers and directors, numbering some of the best business men and most successful farmers in the county. They are: Prof. J. C. Cheek, president; W. H. Powers, vice president; E. H. Ligon, vice president; J. V. Hefley, Cashier; S. D. Davis, assistant cashier.

Directors: W. H. Powers, W. D. Morgan, J. C. Cheek, Charles Brann, J. W. Jolly, B. B. Jonakin, J. A. Ferrell, Jno. R. McGehee, E. H. Ligon, J. V. Hefley.

The bank is not only popular in business circles, but is strong in the county and with the agriculturists of all the surrounding section.

PROF. J. C. CHEEK.

Superintendent of Fulton Schools and President of Farmers Bank.

The handsome gentleman whose picture appears at the head of this article is Prof. J. C. Cheek, Superintendent of the Fulton schools and also president of the Farmers Bank of this city. He fills that rare combination, known as a successful school man and a successful business man. He has never failed at anything in life, which he has undertaken to do.

He is one of the most successful school men in Kentucky. Has been superintendent of the Fulton schools ten years and was, prior to coming here, superintendent at Hickman, in this county, seven years. He also successfully conducted the city schools at Ripley, Humboldt, and Milan, Tennessee, and was a bank director and active in the banking business at each of these places. Under his management the Fulton schools have taken high rank with the best public schools in the south. He is a native of Paris, Tennessee, and has the snap and activity of a much younger man than he really is, though we are not going to tell his age just here. Prof. Cheek, at the last annual election of the Farmers Bank of Fulton was elected president of that popular and prosperous institution. The bank is taking on new life and is rapidly growing and expanding in business.

B. H. FREEMAN.

You know when a newspaper gets out a special edition showing pictures of people and houses and the like, they always have write-ups of the various fellows around town who constitute "Our Leading Citizens." Of course these write-ups are modestly prepared—that is they are modest as far as is practicable to have them modestly prepared without destroying their intent and purpose, which is nothing more nor less than a detailed account of the subject's enterprise and virtues.

As a matter of fact or as a matter of general interest, it doesn't matter a snap where or when I was born. The fact remains undisputed that I am here, and am digging every day the best I can dig to make a living. I am in the fire insurance business here and have in my agency some of the representative companies of the world. They have to pay part of nearly every loss we have here from fire, accident or theft, and they pay promptly, and justly. You have helped me put my business up to where it is, and I am grateful to you for it. If you don't believe it, give me an opportunity sometime to prove it and I will convince you. If you have any doubts about my companies, ask the fellow that had the fire—any fellow that had any fire—and he will tell you that he was shown every courtesy and assistance possible until the loss was finally settled.

After working five years in an insurance office larger than my own, and after working my own insurance business three years, I feel that I am pretty well prepared to have my policy correctly written, and I am sure that I can do with the justice of losses. I have seen more or more often that an agent can say "fire comes."

There are the few things I want you to know, and that is exactly why I am writing them. About the "enterprising and progressive" part, that's all right too, but I am advertising my fire insurance business in this article, and don't care to argue the question of enterprise or progress in these columns. I want to write as much of your fire insurance business as you are willing for me to have, and what of it I do write will be correctly written in good, old line companies, and if you should happen to have a fire, you'll get the money. So I have finished. My picture is here because an Industrial Edition isn't worth getting out without pictures. And besides, there might be some poor, misguided cuss in the world who had never seen me, and this might enable him to locate me. And I will say this: if he does locate me, and I do write his insurance, and he does have a fire, HE WILL GET THE MONEY.

Yours very truly,
HAYDEN FREEMAN.

John Huddleston

Our Leading Plumber, Keeps Complete Stock of Plumbing Materials and Bath Outfits.

Mr. John Huddleston Fulton's leading plumber has been a citizen of Fulton since 1890. He was born and raised in this county. He was in charge of the Fulton Water Works ten years, was six years with the Webb & Son foundry and established his plumbing business in 1905. He is located on Commercial avenue in rear of the DeMyer jewelry store which faces Lake street. The cut shows a picture of the interior of his inviting plumbing show room. He carries a full line of all kinds of plumbing materials, complete bath outfits and his work is guaranteed to be first class in every particular. He puts in country water works and the underground system.

Get him to make your estimates before putting in bath tubs and outfits. He will give you satisfactory work and make the prices right.

Fulton Daily Leader

THE DAILY LEADER.

As we are saying much about other people, about Fulton and Fulton enterprises, we have thought it would not be amiss to speak a word about the Leader in the special edition.

The first issue of the Fulton Daily Leader made its appearance on the streets of Fulton on the afternoon of June 25th, 1898, founded by Col. Mott Ayres. The paper was a success from the beginning and in the following month of July the Fultonian-Democrat, the oldest weekly in Fulton, came under the control of the Leader. Since then a number of daily and weekly newspapers have arisen and flourished for a season and have either been absorbed by the Leader or have put out their lights and passed into oblivion.

The Leader has pursued the tenor of its way, sometimes even, sometimes uneven. Its greatest addition was when it secured the Fulton Commercial and Farm Journal, our big weekly, the leading farmers paper in Western Kentucky.

The Leader has always been progressive and full of virility. We do not believe in going to sleep on the job and we have labored to give the people a live newspaper. We have stood for a straightforward, moral civic policy, without being an extremist or a follower of isms. We believe the voice of the people should control the public policy and in politics we are Democratic to the core. The Leader gives the news and gives it while it is news. We don't expect to, neither do we claim to compete with the metropolitan dailies in giving all the news but we do give the news of Fulton and surrounding section and such general news as we feel will be of special interest to our people.

The Leader office is equipped with the latest improved No. 5 model linotype, two revolution Campbell printing press, Gordon and Universal jobbers, Boston wire stitcher, and the latest and most up-to-date job type.

The matter for the special edition has been prepared and edited by Messrs. J. M. Simmons and R. S. Williams, who have had the assistance of quite a number of our citizens in securing historic and other data.

The company is incorporated under the name of The Fulton Publishing Co. The officers are Mott Ayres, president; Herbert Carr secretary and treasurer; R. S. Williams, business manager.

We desire to thank those who have contributed to the success of the special edition with their liberal advertising or assistance in any other way.

The importance of Fulton as the leading city of the county, was shown in 1904 when a branch of the Fulton County Circuit Court was established here. The court room is on the second floor of the City Hall building. Regular terms of court in session are held here. Just as they are at the county site.

FULTON SCHOOLS RANK AMONG THE BEST.

In the State Of Kentucky. Prof. J. C. Cheek, Superintendent, One of the State's Foremost Educators. Splendid Corps of Teachers. Schools Pride of the City.

Fulton is not surpassed by any city in the State in her public schools, which rank among the best. They are the pride of the city. For many years, Prof. J. C. Cheek, one of the foremost educators in the South, has been at the head of the Fulton schools and under his management and his splendid corps of assistants the high water mark has been reached. During that time the schools have grown from 8 teachers and one house, to 13 teachers and three houses; from 40 in High School to 100 and a relative growth and improvement every way has been made. When Prof. Cheek took charge graduates could not enter college. Now twelve grades are taught and last year two high school graduates entered the Kentucky State college; two entered the Illinois State college; one entered Vanderbilt University; one entered the Kentucky State Normal; and one entered Belmont college.

Half of the High School is made up of boys, an unusual thing. The enrollment the past two years has been over 90 per cent. of the scholastic population, which is a most remarkable per cent.

The Carr Institute and High School is a splendid building situated in West Fulton. The other two schools are the East side, well located in East Fulton, and a school at Riceville. The East side teaches through the 4th grade and Riceville school through the 4th grade.

The total enrollment of these schools is above 650. There is also a colored school with an enrollment of about 200.

South Fulton has the Tennessee College an enrollment of over 400 and a colored school with nearly 300 enrolled.

The following is a list of the splendid faculty of the Fulton schools:

J. C. Cheek, superintendent, served for the past ten years Carr Institute. Miss Alma Givens, has taught 4 years in high school. Miss Gemma Hopkins has taught 1 year in high school. Miss Macon Sebastian, 8th grade taught 2 years. W. C. Underwood, 7th grade has taught 3 years. Miss Jessie Lee Reed, 5th and 6th grades, has taught 4 years. Miss Bessie Rice, 4th grade has taught 5 years. Miss Lillian Kirkland, 3rd grade, has taught 2 years. Mrs. R. A. Herring, 1st grade has taught 5 years.

Since the above was written Miss Sebastian resigned on account of her health being somewhat impaired and is now at her home in Martin, Tenn.

Miss Jane McConnell, from near Jordan, this county, was elected in her place to teach the 8th grade and assumed the position March 20th. She has taught some time in the Fulton County schools.

Terry-Norman school—East side. Miss Hettie Collins, 6th and 7th, grades, taught 12 years. Miss Vivian Hall 3rd and 4th grades, taught 6 years. Miss Kate Hill 1st and 2nd, grades has taught 5 years.

Riceville—Prof. R. A. Herring, principal, for 4 years, teaches all the 4 grades taught at this school.

DR. W. T. BOLLING, D. D.

Rev. W. T. Bolling, D. D. was born in Green county, Alabama, May 25th, 1846 and moved with his parents to Tennessee in 1855. In April 1861 he entered the Confederate service as a member of the Harris Zouave Cadets from Memphis, Tennessee forming Co. D., 154th St. Tennessee infantry, Col. Preston Smith commanding. Serving four months, he was discharged as too young for service and enlisted with his young comrades in Co. C., 2nd Tennessee infantry, Col. Wm. B. Bate commanding, with which regiment he served until the close of the war, being in all the engagements, save one, in which this command participated, including Perryville, Murfreesboro, Chickamauga, Ringgold Gap, the entire Atlanta campaign, from Dalton to Jonesboro, Franklin and Nashville, where he was captured and sent to Camp Chase prison, near Columbus, Ohio, where he remained confined until the close of the war. He was wounded three times, at Chickamauga, Lost Mountain, and Nashville, and from one of these wounds came very near losing his right arm.

In the fall of 1868 Dr. Bolling entered the Methodist ministry in which he has labored continuously until the present and during these many years has filled a number of the most important places, including Hannibal, Mo., Denver, Col., Lexington and Covington, Ky., Shreveport, La., Jackson, Miss., and Central church, Memphis, Tenn.

At the last session of the Memphis Conference he was assigned to the pastorate of the First Methodist church this city, where he preaches to large and interested congregations.

Dr. Bolling first received the degree of D. D. from the St. Charles College in Missouri in 1886, and from the University of Nashville and Peabody Institute for Teachers in 1909.

Dr. Bolling is a young old man, looks on the bright side of things, and is universally liked by young people. He likes Fulton and Fulton likes him, and the Leader joins the many who hope that he may remain long with us and that his ministry may be abundantly blessed.

GROUP OF FULTON CHURCHES

First Baptist Church.

First Christian Church.

Cumberland Presbyterian Church.

History of Some of Fulton's Churches

THE FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

The largest church in point of membership and probably the oldest in Fulton is the First Methodist church, which embraces many of the prominent citizens of the city and of the surrounding section.

This church was organized in 1870 in the old Seminary building, a two-story frame which stood about where Smith & Roach's, American Office is now located and which was used for church services, school and by the lodges of the city. The church has had some of the best men and ablest members of the Memphis Conference as pastors.

Rev. T. L. Beard was the pastor who organized the church in 1870. The following have followed him: Rens. J. T. C. Collins, J. M. Spence, J. S. Peshaw, F. Pynum, J. W. Knott, W. H. Armstrong, O. B. Whit-ten, C. F. Moore, A. E. Scott, J. R. Bell, P. B. Johnston, W. C. Sellars, G. W. Wilson, E. K. Bransford, J. M. Scott, J. G. Clark, E. B. Ramsey, W. G. Hefley, W. A. Freeman, H. B. Brooks and the present pastor, Dr. W. T. Bolling, a sketch of whom appears elsewhere.

Of the 18 charter members there survive to this time only five. They are: Mr. J. B. McDowell, Mesdames, J. B. McDowell, R. A. Browder, Jesse P. Bransford and Ella Anderson.

The first church house erected was by the Methodists in 1871 and stood on State Line street where Dr. Alexander's Sanatorium is now located.

The congregation moved into it that year, but it was not completed until 1873.

The present handsome and commodious structure on the corner of State Line and Plain streets was erected under the pastorate of Rev. H. B. Johnson in 1889.

A Sunday school was started even before the church was organized and prospered under the leadership of Rev. J. T. C. Collins and Dr. S. G. Patterson. Other superintendents who have followed them are: F. M. Holladay, R. S. Murrell, R. A. Browder, S. A. D. Steele, Turner Gagner, R. M. Bollinger, W. P. Feltz, and D. W. Hughes. Mr. Hughes is the beloved and efficient superintendent, now and has served in that position for a number of years. Under his management the school has nearly doubled and at present numbers about 450, including home department and cradle roll. The school pays $200 for sustaining a missionary in Mexico. Mr. Hughes is also secretary and treasurer of the official board of the church.

The membership of the church is now over 600 and it is a live mission church maintaining a missionary to Mexico, Miss Rosa Brooks at $600 per year. She is the lovely daughter of Rev. Warren Brooks, late pastor of the church. She is located at El Paso, Texas, where she teaches in the Mexican Mission.

The church was never in a more flourishing condition than now. Substantial improvements, repainting, etc., are to be made on the church this summer, to cost probably $1,500.

The following is the Board of Stewards of the First Methodist church: P. H. Weals, chm., D. W. Hughes, secretary and treasurer.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

To give a history of the Christian church in Fulton, Ky., a period of previous history must be stated. The first preaching by representatives of this people was done by Eld. Jesse Sewell about 1855 in the yard of one Daniel Huddleston. As the fruit of his labors a congregation was set in order and a log house built. This meeting house was known as Mont Rose. The second Sunday of May 1874 a number of the Mont Rose church with others, forty in number, were set in order as a church by Eld. R. A. Cooke. In the spring of 1875 the house of worship was built and remained until remodeled in 1909. Part of the historic building can be seen as a part of the present edifice. Four of the charter members, W. T. Carr and wife, Mrs. Fannie Eddings and J. T. Stubblefield are still with the church. Of those who united soon after the organization are: Mrs. Charlotte McCall, Mrs. H. A. Burns, M. S. M. J. Hubbler, J. P. Huddleston and wife and H. F. Taylor and wife. The church has in the 37 years had about 1,500 members.

The early congregation had many of the experiences and hardships that come to all young organizations. The spirit of its people was dauntless and difficulties were but stepping stones upon which they rose. The spirit was that of the pioneer and prominent families whose influence, liberality and zeal for good works has given to Fulton this organization. Among those who, as preachers helped to fight the battle of success were: R. A. Cooke, F. M. McKibbey, J. H. Roullas, R. W. Dunlop, Brown Godwin, E. M. Walte, Evangelists who held meeting were J. C. Creel, J. W. Higbee, W. E. Hall, C. C. Cline, Wm. Cooke, O. A. Carr, H. L. Calhoun, W. H. Sheffer, Wallace Sharp, E. L. Powell, J. W. McGarvey, J. B. Briney, Geo. E. Flowers, E. C. Dingle. These men are God's noblemen, men of culture and ability, some of them leading spirits in the pulpit of the brotherhood.

The congregation in the past has been blessed with the lives of men and women, whose influence, good works and liberality were richer than Norman blood. While the personnel of the congregation has changed from its early form, there are those upon whom the spirit of the past has fallen. The present congregation is made up of people from all the ranks of honorable life. In the congregation those, who with their children and children's children, and others who have joined them are living stones, material for an edifice more pleasing than the line of the visible architecture.

The present membership of the First Christian church is about 225, with a home of $18,000.00 value and a seating capacity of nearly 400. The Bible school has an enrollment of 130.

C. K. Marshall is the pastor now in charge.

FIRST CUMBERLAND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

The history of the First Cumberland Presbyterian church in Fulton is quite brief and like most churches in their infancy it had dark days as well as bright ones and many obstacles to overcome. When the people began talking of organizing a church the good friends of the Christian church offered the use of their house of worship for that purpose. With grateful hearts the offer was accepted and on June 20, 1887 the church was organized by Rev. G. H. Shel-drake with 18 members. It was received under the care of Obion Presbytery in March 1888 at Newbern, Tenn. In 1889 the old Methodist church was purchased and made a mission, until September 1898. At that time Obion Presbytery met here and Rev. J. H. Thomas was ordained to the full work of the ministry and immediately called to the pastorate of this church for half time and continued until March 1903. At this time the membership had grown to nearly 50.

In 1900 the old church was sold and began at once to plan for a new one. Mrs. Ada Clemmons donated the lot. The contract was let and work began.

In the spring of 1901 the church was dedicated. The first sermon being preached in June. The cost of the new church was about $4,500.

In March 1903 Rev. W. H. McLesky was called half time and in Sept. 1903 was called full time, this being the first full time preaching and he continued to Sept. 1906.

In Oct. 1909 Rev. J. H. Zwingle was called and was the pastor until July 1910.

The membership is composed of a devoted band of Christian workers.

At the present time they have only had three superintendents, the first being Mr. W. F. Coburn, who served faithfully and at his death was succeeded by Mr. Joe Wade, who held this office for a number of years. The present superintendent, Mr. Ed Heywood, has been in active service for the past eighteen or twenty years and has won the love and respect of all who have come under his supervision during these years.

Since the erection of this church there has been a number of ministers in charge, many who still linger in the minds of Fulton people for some good deed done. Their last minister, Rev. C. L. Price, was rector for thirteen years, and during his stay here won the good will of the people of Fulton, and the members have felt themselves lost since his removal this year to Florence, Ala.

At the present time the members of this church are in correspondence with the Government for the sale of their lot, and if this deal is made, there will be a modern and pretty Episcopal church built on a better location.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

The First Baptist church of this city is located at the corner of Second and Eddings streets and in one of the handsomest residence sections of Fulton.

The church was organized in the year 1878. The organization was the outcome of a meeting held here by Evangelists Hobbs and Butler, Baptist missionaries working in this part of the state. The organization was made up of just 19 members, of whom Mrs. J. M. Freeman and Mrs. Jessie Whitsett are now living in and near Fulton.

The first pastor called to the care of the church was Elder J. N. Hall, one of the most noted polemicists among the Baptists, and an able man in every sense of the word. His salary was fixed at $150 per annum, and he accepted the work to preach to the church one Sunday each month.

It is of interest to note the names on the original subscription list to the expenses of the church. Among them appear the names of Norman, Crutshfield, Shaddock, Booker, Meadows, Hicks, Atherion, Workman, Freeman, Murrell, Terry, Wright, DeMyer, Snowden, Finch, Cunningham, Green, Winston, Johnson and others.

For four years the church worshipped in the old Seminary building on Lake street. At the end of this time the church had grown to such strength as to make it possible for an effort to be made toward the building of a house of worship. This encouragement was further strengthened by the liberal gift of a lot for this purpose by Mr. W. T. Carr, and the gift of brick for the building by Mr. Jesse Whitesell. With these liberal gifts the pastor, then Eld. W. G. Reeves, and Bro. M. I. Norman began putting the material on the ground for the erection of the building. A modest little brick house was soon completed, which served as a home for the church for the next twenty years.

About the year 1898 there was begun in the church the agitation of plans for a new and more suitable building. For some years the agitation was kept up and under the ministry of Eld. W. D. Turnley the present handsome structure was erected.

There have been in all 14 pastors during the thirty-three years of the existence of the church, Revs. J. N. Hall, dec'd; W. G. Reeves, Judson Tyler, dec'd; W. H. Williams, W. S. Roney, B. M. Bogard, Martin Hall, R. D. Wilson, W. J. Bolin, J. H. Wright, W. D. Turnley, Rev. M. E. Dodd and the present pastor, Rev. M. E. Staley.

The late Dr. T. T. Eaton, of Louisville, beloved by the entire Baptist denomination who was stricken and died at Grand Junction, Tenn., on his way to Mississippi, preached his last sermon in the First Baptist church here.

The debt on the church building was wiped out under the ministry of Rev. M. E. Dodd, one of the most successful in the church's history, the last note of $1,500 being burned in the presence of a large audience of 700 people on Sunday Sept. 8, 1907, a great day in the history of the congregation and the day when the church was dedicated Dr. E. Y. Mullins, president of the Theological Seminary, Louisville preached the dedication sermon at the tabernacle, all the churches uniting in the service, Rev. W. D. Turnley, the former pastor, came from Ft. Dodge, Fla., to be present at the dedication.

The church property now consists of one of the best equipped church buildings to be found anywhere, being perhaps the handsomest church building in this city. It is equipped with modern baptistry, pipe organ, golden oak furniture, carpeted throughout, heated by steam, lighted by gas and electricity. There is also on the church property a convenient and comfortable pastor's home. It is estimated that the property of the church is worth about $10,000.

The present pastor, Eld. M. E. Staley, is now in the fourth year of his ministry with the church, is very popular and the church is growing in strength and power with God and the people. The membership is about three hundred.

OTHER CHURCHES.

In addition to these there are the First Presbyterian church on Walnut street, which has been without a pastor some time, but numbers some of our best people in its membership. Also the Primitive Baptist church on State Line street in South Fulton, which has some splendid people for its membership.

The colored people also have five churches in and around Fulton and some with large membership.

IRBY BROS.

Leading Firm of Druggists With Established Reputation and Fine Business.

One of Fulton's most solid business firms is Irby Bros., druggists on Lake St., about midway the business section of that busy thoroughfare.

There are not two more popular business and Christian gentlemen in the city than Mr. T. H. and G. F. Irby, the proprietors. They were born in Hademan county, near Whiteville, and both in early life went to Bolivar, the county site to engage in business. About 8 years ago Mr. T. H. Irby, the senior member came to Fulton and engaged in the drug business with Dr. W. J. Cox. Two years later, the junior member, Mr. G. F. Irby came here, Dr. Cox's interest was purchased and the present firm was formed, of Irby Bros. They did business for several years in the old Dr. Bennett stand, just west of their location now and in November of last year moved to their present stand where they have one of the prettiest, best arranged drug stores in this section.

Besides being experienced druggists themselves they have as pharmacist Mr. Milton W. Paris, a registered prescriptionist of six years experience and one of the most competent men in his line in Western Kentucky.

The firm carries a full line of fresh drugs of all kinds, proprietary remedies and carry a big line of X-castie paints, all colors. Besides their main store they have a big warehouse just at the rear across the alley.

In addition to their drug business Irby Bros. do the soda business of the city. They have one of the handsomest and most elegant soda fountains in the State and serve all kinds of delicious cold and hot sodas, ices, mineral waters, etc. Polite dispensers are always ready to serve the public when you are weary or thirsty and need to be refreshed, just drop in at Irby Bros. and get one of their delightful drinks. It will make life appear better and all will go happier with you.

Mr. Alvin J. Burrow

Well known Music Dealer, has been Engaged in the Piano business Here Thirty Years.

One of the best known and most successful business men of Fulton is Mr. Alvin J. Burrow dealer in Pianos, Organs and all kinds of musical instruments. Mr. Burrow is a native of Carroll county, Tennessee, and came to Fulton in 1874, making him a citizen of this city 37 years, but he does not look much older than that now.

Mr. Burrow is one of the most successful music dealers in all this section. He buys the instruments direct from the factory and is thus prepared to give his customers close figures on all purchases. His leading instrument is the Knabe and the Story & Clark pianos and he has placed them in hundreds of homes in Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi, Arkansas and Missouri. He has also furnished organs to numerous churches as well as other instruments to individuals and societies throughout this section. His instruments always come up to his promises and that is another reason for his splendid success in the music line.

In addition to his music business Mr. Burrow is raising thorough-bred Jersey cattle. He is proving as successful in this line as in the musical business.

Mr. Burrow has just completed a handsome, up-to-date residence on Third street in West Fulton, which is one of the prettiest homes in the city. A splendid picture of it appears in this edition.

His only child, Miss Mamie Burrow, is an accomplished musician, and has a host of friends who admire her splendid talent in this line. She has a large room fitted up as a studio in her beautiful new home and gives instruction on violin and piano.

JOE WADE & COMPANY, Incorporated.

ONE OF FULTON'S OLDEST AND MOST SOLID BUSINESS FIRMS.

Joe Wade & Co., Furniture Dealers and Undertakers, was established in 1874. The founder of this establishment, the late Joe Wade, came from England in the early seventies, and in the latter part of 1873 came with his family, to Fulton, which was then, just a station, with a few scattered residences and three of four frame store along the railroad on what is now known as Lake street.

After viewing the landscape of Mr. Wade pitched his tent on the State Line, Tennessee side, and erected his residence with a one room store connected, on one corner of the lot. Here Mr. Wade began the Furniture and Undertaking business on a small scale, and after battling with early hardships, his sales rapidly increased, and the demand called for larger store rooms. These have been added to from time to time, until Wade's Furniture Store now occupies the entire lot. The building, owing to its unique construction, has caused considerable comment and criticism, especially by strangers, but the people of the surrounding country have come to regard it through long years of trading there as the one place of all others and do not think of going elsewhere in that line. During Mr. Wade's business career in Fulton, until his death, which occurred two years ago, he had seen many similar enterprises spring up and fall, but none ever enjoyed the extensive business of his store. Since the death of Mr. Wade, the business has been incorporated, and continues under the same name, Joe Wade & Co. Those connected in the incorporation are not new and unfamiliar people with the firm, but are Mr. Wade's children and years' associates in business. They are, J. W. Wade, Mrs. C. A. Fall, Paris, Texas, H. E. Wade, and Ed Heywood, of Fulton. Mr. Heywood, the business manager has been with this firm for the past twenty years, as Embalmer, and has won many true and lasting friends for the firm throughout the Fulton territory. His name stands as a tower of strength, for honesty and fair dealing and the people know when they go to him they get just what they pay for and no higher compliment can be paid a business man.

Joe Wade & Co., are the largest importers of Japanese and China Mattings in Western Tennessee and Kentucky. Their line of furniture will compete with any in larger cities and towns anywhere in this section of country. They employ the best salesmen who know the business and customers always receive prompt and courteous attention. Their Undertaking Department is complete in every detail, having in this service, three Licensed State Embalmers for Kentucky and Tennessee. Their embalmer for the colored people is Bob Blythe, who has been in this service for the past twenty years. The names of working force for this establishment, are as follows: Ed Heywood, business manager; Miss Coralie Green, bookkeeper; Ed Wade, collector; E. M. Lucas, S. P. Etheridge, P. C. Jones and Wyatt Horton, salesmen, all proficient in their line. Be sure to visit this big furniture establishment whenever you need anything in this line. You will find it.

SUPERINTENDENT J. J. GAVEN AND HIS STAFF OF ASSISTANTS

THE ILLINOIS CENTRAL RAILROAD, FULTON'S GREATEST SINGLE ASSET.

WE ARE SITUATED AT THE GREAT CARDINAL POINTS CROSSINGS OF THE SYSTEM—OVER FIVE HUNDRED EMPLOYEES HERE—VAST IMPROVEMENTS PAST FEW YEARS—IMMENSE PAY ROLL—SUPERINTENDENT J. J. GAVEN, HEAD OF DIVISION AND HIS STAFF OF ASSISTANTS.

No individual firm or corporation employs as many people or has the property interest in Fulton that the Illinois Central Railroad Co. has. Fulton sits at the crossing of the two most important arms of this great railroad system, stretching to the cardinal points of the compass, north, east, south and west and making this city the gateway to the south, and about the center of the system.

The fact is Fulton is a kind of protegee of the Illinois Central and we expect some time it may make this place the base of some of its most important offices and work shops.

The company a few years ago expended a large sum of money in improving its trackage through the city of Fulton, building its division headquarters; a large roomy office building, improving its depots and establishing a system of beautiful little parks in the heart of the city adorned with flowers and shrubbery, which are kept up by a landscape gardener and assistants and which are a joy to the eye and present a lovely attractive and restful scene through all the spring and summer and fall months.

In addition to this the company built what is known as the New Yards, out in the northwestern suburbs, or Riceville, and which are the finest yards in the south. Here is also located roomy shops for round house and repair of engines requiring quite a force of men. Here the equipment for the southern division is inspected.

All these improvements represent more than a hundred thousand dollars.

SUPERINTENDENT J. J. GAVEN.

Here are located division headquarters at the head of which is Superintendent J. J. Gaven, one of the best equipped and most successful railroad men in the south.

Superintendent Gaven was transferred from the position of superintendent at New Orleans, La., to Fulton, June 27th, 1903, this being a promotion it being the most important in the southern division of the system. It has been under his administration that all the changes above mentioned in the way of train yards, shops, buildings etc., have been made, representing an expenditure of more than $100,000.

Mr. Gaven's splendid executive ability was recognized and that was the reason he was placed here to have these improvements made. He has also identified himself with the local interests of Fulton and is one of our most progressive and esteemed citizens.

Big Payroll and Hundreds of Employees.

The importance of the I. C. R. R., to Fulton is manifest in the large number of employees and the payrolls.

The average monthly payroll for the Fulton employees proper, is $25,000.

The average monthly payroll for the trainmen, engineers, etc., running in and out of Fulton is about $70,000.

The number of employees who reside in Fulton is about 500; of these 51 are located in the division office building. The present heads of the various departments in the division headquarters and in the city are as follows:

J. J. Gaven, Superintendent; Guy

Thomas, private secretary; H. Cully, Chief Clerk.

Roadmaster—J. M. Egan.

Trainmasters—T. E. Galloway, Fulton to Memphis and R. M. Alford, Cairo and Jackson district.

J. B. Alvey, chief train dispatcher. H. B. DeZonia, assistant chief train dispatcher.

A. J. Jorgenson, W. T. Mays, T. K. Williams, H. W. Williams, G. L. Robertson, S. L. Brown, E. L. Shelton, train dispatchers.

Chief operator—J. E. Drenery.

R. E. Hubbard, Supervisor bridges and buildings.

C. B. Sellers, chief accountant.

B. F. Evans, chief time keeper.

J. M. Hoar, assistant engineer.

M. C. Payne, claim agent and J. L. Small stock claim agent.

W. W. Johnson, division claim clerk.

W. M. Woods, freight agent.

L. S. Phillips, ticket agent.

T. J. Travis, general yardmaster.

M. G. Rice, assistant general yardmaster.

W. H. Cox and J. M. Woodson, supervisors.

J. W. Shepherd, general foreman in charge shops at New Yards.

Jake Huddleston, round house foreman.

W. H. Newhouse, yardmaster.

T. J. Cronin, special agent.

Mace McPade, night watchman.

W. A. Love, foreman water works.

H. M. Moulder, landscape gardener.

THE FULTON ELECTRIC LIGHT AND POWER CO.

Established in 1895—Now Owned By J. H. Hooks—Up-to-date Lighting.

It was in 1895 that Fulton felt her self swell in importance by the inauguration of electric lighting, replacing coal oil, not only in the homes and business houses of the town, but relegating the ancient street lamps to the junk pile. The Morganfield Construction Co., Incorporated, of Morganfield, Ky., during this year put into operation in Fulton what was now, and has ever since been known as the Fulton Electric Light and Power Company.

The first plant of the company, which was owned by Morganfield capitalists, was erected in the building now occupied by Crunk & Stover, Main street, and was under the management of Fred Carden, an electrician of long experience, and, although when the dynamos first came tumbling in Fulton many disadvantages of the pioneers of the infant industry from the beginning the project is lent the endorsement of everyone. It was a great step towards modernity and was recognized and welcomed as such.

In 1909 a large brick plant was erected for the Fulton Electric Light and Power Company at the present location on Walnut street and during that time the company moved into their new home, enlarging the capacity of the plant somewhat. Two years later in 1911 Henry F. Oliver, of Morganfield, acquired the stock of the company and came to this city to take charge of his purchase, becoming active manager. The plant was by this time in a flourishing condition and was supposed to be a highly paying and valuable investment.

During 1904 L. W. Graham and others purchased the interests of Mr.

Oliver and the former was elected president of the Fulton Electric Light and Power Co., soon after assuming full control of its operations, acting as manager. From the first a general al dissatisfaction seems to have set up among the stockholders and suit after suit followed in an effort to oust Graham from his position as manager of the plant's affairs; finally by action of the court Mr. R. M. Chowning was appointed receiver for the company and in November, 1907 became the active manager of its destinies. During about three years of his control which followed the company was put upon a paying business and dividends declared.

J. H. HOOKS

The stockholders of the company finally secured an order from the circuit court judge that the property be sold at public auction to the highest bidder and in June of 1910 its present owner, Mr. J. H. Hooks, of Clarksdale, Miss., bought the whole plant, assuming control in July, last, since which time he has been in active direction of its management. He is thoroughly conversant with the business and has put the plant on an up-to-date basis, with the latest equipment in the lighting line.

The present condition of the Fulton Electric Light and Power Company is flourishing and prosperous and Mr. Hooks is living up to the reputation brought with him from Clarksdale, of being a live and clean cut business man. At all times he is on hand at his handsome offices in the upper story of the plant, and although exceedingly pleasant and courteous in his transactions fairly bristles with energy and is strictly business from toes to finger tips. He has associated with him as bookkeeper and office manager, Mr. J. M. Culver, a very efficient young business man, and as superintendent of the plant Mr. J. W. Stitts, who, since 1900, more than ten years ago, has been a valued employee of the company. Mr. Stitts is an able electrician and well liked by everyone. Mr. Milam Wheelis is engineer of the plant.

Although when first installed, in Fulton at the old Main street home the plant's capacity was only 125 horse power with a 60 kilowatt generator, its present capacity is 450 horse power, with a 277 kilowatt generator. It supplies light to all the streets of Fulton and South Fulton, to practically all the business houses and to a large majority of the homes of the city, as well as power for the many electric fans in town, and for a number of motors operating newspaper plants and other machinery. During 1910 the city council ordered are lights on Lake street and it is thought that the are system will at an early date replace the incandescent lights all over the city.

A tremendous money saver for the electric consumer has just been put into use by the Fulton Electric Light and Power Company in the form of the MAZDA LIGHT, which makes exactly three times the light of the incandescent burner at the same cost. It is fast popularizing electric lighting here and the MAZDA LIGHT is being used in home and business houses alike with equally splendid results. It is a beautiful white light, far superior to the old yellow burner and will eventually entirely supplant the latter.

Few cities of even much larger size than Fulton possess such an up-to-date electric lighting plant as this place and our people are well pleased with the plant under the new management and ownership.

MR. JACK HALL

The Poultry King of Kentucky and a Successful Business Man.

The above is a splendid likeness of Mr. Jack Hall, one of Fulton's handsomest citizens, known at Jackson, Miss., where he was in business 4 years as Uncle Jack, and the Poultry King of Kentucky.

Mr. Hall was born in Christian county, Kentucky, in 1856, moved to Graves county in 1861, with his parents and came to Fulton in 1881, when quite a young man. He first engaged in buying tobacco for the firm of Browder, Usher & Barry. He next embarked in the dry goods line with Jno. W. Hythe & Co., and was with them 6 years.

In 1890 he entered into the poultry business when it was in its infancy here. The first year he did a business ranging between $5,000 to $10,000. He is now doing a poultry business of $260,000 per annum. He ships an average of a car load of poultry a week to the cities of 52 cars per year, besides many hundred cases of eggs.

He has developed the poultry business into an important industry in this section. He raises and encourages the raising also, of fine strains of poultry of every description, adding many thousands of dollars to the wealth of the surrounding section.

He spent 4 years of his time in business at Jackson, Miss., but returned to Fulton at the end of that time. He is now the senior partner and leading member of the firm of Hall, Brooks & Boone, wholesale dealers and shippers of eggs and poultry. Their poultry house is just north of Lake St., where they have a large building and enclosure for the care of their fowls until they are placed in cars and shipped away.

Mr. Hall lives on Park Ave., near Third St.

His business has been worth much to the people throughout this section in giving them a market the year round at good prices for eggs and poultry.

Fulton is one of the best Poultry markets in the South, and all kinds of fowls are easily raised here at a handsome profit.

OSTEOPATHY—WHAT IS IT?

Something of the Science Which Is Becoming So Popular with Suffering Humanity.

As this is a comparatively new science, as such, having been established as a separate science, in the present generation, there is much inquiry about it, what it is and what qualifications are necessary for an osteopath for handling diseases. It takes practically the same length of time to make a full-fledged osteopath as it does to make a physician of the regular school. The course embraces almost the same class of subjects as are included in the course adopted by the Association of American Medical Colleges, the chief difference being the study of the principles of Osteopathy instead of the materia medica, all the other important branches being taught by both schools. The course is thorough covering the whole range of practice and the anatomy of the human system is made the features in Osteopathy.

Osteopathy is a scientific method of treating disease, which receives no assistance from drugs and depends for its efficacy on manipulations designed to restore abnormalities of structure to their normal position.

Osteopaths maintain, and the principle which lies at the foundation of their science asserts that function is dependent on structure, in other words, if structure is in any particular out of the normal, the function of some organ must suffer as an inevitable result.

The osteopath, then, is an educated mechanic of the human body, and his key to find out what is the structural misplacement which is causing the machine to run stiffly and to function poorly.

It is here that we see the essential difference in standpoint between the osteopathic and medical practitioner. The latter notes that an organ is functioning abnormally and hopes either by stimulating it, or in some way replacing the normal secretion to force the organ again to take on its function.

The osteopath, looks, not at the abnormally functioning organ, although, of course, symptomatology is important in diagnosis, but away behind what is apparent, and asks what is the cause.

In other words, the osteopath believes that normal functioning is inevitable, that it must take place if there is no structural abnormality preventing it from doing so.

No one puts this more forcibly than Dr. Still himself, the discoverer of the new science, when he says:

"If every part of the machine is adjusted and in perfect harmony, health will hold dominion over the human organism by laws, as natural and immutable as the laws of gravitation."

It is difficult at first to grasp the full significance of this thought, for its universal acceptance which he knew would only be a matter of time, must involve a radical and far-reaching change in the whole trend of thought of the world.

But one result could obtain from the constant reiteration of such a thought by such a man, namely the establishment of a school in which an attempt might be made to put his plans into practical application. It was in 1892 that such a school was started, with, we believe, 18 students. That school was the American School of Osteopathy at Kirksville, Mo., which at the present writing has graduated over 3,000 practitioners, has a student enrollment of 625 and presents a course of study which is equal to almost any medical college in the country.

This phenomenal growth has no parallel in the whole annals of medical history; it means that there has been born a method of treating disease which is based on the facts of anatomy and physiology.

It means too, that the public is beginning to appreciate this discovery and to hold out the glad hand of welcome to those who have graduated from this school, realizing that the practitioners of this science are coming into their midst equipped with a knowledge of inestimable value to themselves and of vital importance to the whole world.

DR. ANDREW TAYLOR STILL.

The discoverer of Osteopathy was born in Jonesboro, Virginia, eighty-two years ago. His father was a physician and preacher.

When still a boy his father moved to Missouri. In due time Dr. Still grew to manhood and graduated from the medical department of the Washington University at St. Louis. He located in Baldwin, Kansas, where he was a successful physician, but being dissatisfied with the effects of medicine, he began to study the body from a mechanical view. He frequently dissected Indians in order to better understand the mechanism of the human body and soon learned that readjustment of tissues, especially bony, would get the necessary nutrition for parts affected and would therefore cure the disease. He was considered insane because he dared to undertake to cure diseases without medicine, and was severely persecuted for many years, but is now living to enjoy the results of his labors.

Dr. Nora B. Pherigo

DR. NORA B. PHERIGO A TRUE HEROINE.

Story of the Life of A Fulton Woman Who Has Won Splendid Success By Her Own Efforts.

The story of some of our brightest statesmen and most successful men in all walks of life show that in early life they had to struggle with poverty and misfortune and by overcoming them proved themselves heroes and won lasting admiration and fame.

In this article we tell the life story, briefly, of a real heroine, whose experience has been no less strenuous, whose success is as fully deserving of praise and admiration as many of those who have become immortal. We refer to Mrs. Nora B. Pherigo, whose likeness graces the head of this article, and the story of her life should prove an inspiration to the young to study to win.

Dr. Pherigo was partially reared in a section where schools were scarce and it was difficult to obtain an education. When scarce fifteen years of age she was left an orphan. Unaided, alone in the world she had the ambition and determination to get an education and she seems to have been singularly blessed in her efforts. At the age of 17 years she had made such use of her opportunity that she was granted a license to teach school in summers and with the means obtained attend Normal School in the winters, thus securing a good education.

In the meantime, at the age of 20 years, she was married.

Studied Osteopathy.

The study of osteopathy appealed to her and in the fall of 1907 she entered the American School of Osteopathy at Kirksville, Mo., and graduated in the class of 111 in 1909.

She made many of the best grades in the entire class, and never failed in any of the examinations, though forced by circumstances to take two courses part of the time.

While in college Dr. Pherigo was president of the Y. W. C. A., also president of the Axle club, the largest Osteopathic club in the world. She is a member of the Kentucky Osteopathic Association and is on the program for an address at the next meeting at Louisville. She too, is a member of the American Osteopathic Association, which meets in Chicago this year. Dr. Pherigo delivered several public addresses to the students and did special work in women's diseases.

President Still, founder of Osteopathy, paid an unusual compliment to Dr. Pherigo, by predicting for her eminent success in the Osteopathic field. She was interned four months in the hospital and her work was highly commended by the faculty. Her success in practice at college was noted and the subject of favorable comment.

She graduated with honors and was elected orator of one of the college societies. No student has ever graduated at the American School of Osteopathy whose personal standing as a student and as a lady was superior to Dr. Pherigo's. She was a favorite among the faculty and student body.

those who but for her skill, science, and knowledge with good, honest, faithful work would today be helpless invalids or it may be, have passed beyond. Certainly her sleep is sweetened by the "Well done, etc." for the part she has played in relieving suffering among humanity.

Her life since coming among us has been an open book, easily read by all. Her friends are counted by the number of her acquaintances. Her practice is very large, in fact has grown somewhat overous for one person to do.

A physician who believes in the ethics of her profession; a lady in its truest sense; but nerve and pluck have changed the hardships of her earlier life and she has won deserved success. The clouds have rolled away; the sun is lending its brightest rays to her life. With friends in abundance her little ones doing nicely at college, her cup is filled to the level. Many will bless the fate which beckoned Dr. Pherigo and led her to become one of us.

FULTON POSTOFFICE

Its Rapid Growth—Business Has Increased in Past Few Years—Postmaster Robert B. Beadles Paid Out Over $35,000 in 1910.

The Fulton Postoffice is in touch with every home and every class of business in city and country.

The evolution and growth of the Fulton postoffice from a case with a hundred or so pigeon holes in the rear-end of a business house to its present importance as a live up-to-date office of the second class has been a feature, marking the growth and keeping abreast of it with the city of Fulton. The present efficient postmaster, Mr. Robert B. Beadles, has been in that position since July of last year, but he had been assistant to his father for a number of years, and the active moving spirit in the direction of the office for a long time. He has been connected with the office ever since the administration of President Benjamin Harrison when it was in the rear of the J. A. Collins store about where the DeMyer Jewelry store is located on Lake street. It was next moved to the Reed block on Lake street, where the Palace Barbershop now is. Under the McKinley administration it was moved to its present location in the Meadows block. The store room at the southwest corner of the Meadows block is being fitted up in good style and the postoffice will be moved into it in a very short while. It will remain there, in all probability until it moves into its handsome home, which the government will build for it on the lot purchased on Main street. Every removal has meant a better building and enlarged business.

There is no better thermometer of the growth and development of a town or city than the postoffice. The present postmaster, since his connection with the office, has seen it grow from an humble importance, employing two people a portion of their time until now, the employees are: Robert B. Beadles, postmaster; J. W. Beadles, Assistant postmaster; A. C. Bellow, chief clerk; W. C. Beadles, mailing clerk. Rural Route Carriers: B. W. Priddy, No. 1; J. H. Lowe, No. 2; Tom Winsett, No. 3; J. G. Finch, No. 4; W. E. Waggoner, No. 5; P. L. Wills, No. 6; J. T. Holmes, No. 7.

M. Barksdale, the faithful colored messenger has been with the office for the past 8 years and during that time has never missed getting a sack of mail to the train at the right time, though there are 14 mail trains a day through Fulton.

The postoffice will show sufficient business to entitle it by the 1st of July to have free delivery, and Fulton can get it as soon as the houses are properly numbered and the streets named.

The following figures for the year 1910 will show some thing of the magnitude of the business which passed through the Fulton office: money orders issued, 7840; amount $38,089.38; fees $364.78.

Paid money orders 4765; amount

$17,645.12.

Newspapers published and mailed at Fulton, 60,816 pounds.

Registered letters received 1855, registered letters dispatched 1760.

Amount paid postmaster, assistants, railway postal clerk and rural carriers, $35,184.42.

EX-POSTMASTER, HON. T. F. BEADLES.

One Of Our Oldest Citizens—Postmaster Many Years—Prominent Republican.

The above is a good likeness of one of Fulton's old and esteemed citizens, Hon. T. F. Beadles, ex-postmaster, who is 74 years of age, having been born in Graves county, Ky., in 1837. He came to Fulton May 9, 1887 and engaged in the hardware business and on June 4, 1889 was appointed postmaster of Fulton by President Harrison. In 1893 when President Cleveland became president the second time Mr. Beadles resigned and Hon. John W. Chambers was appointed. In November 1906 Mr. McKinley was elected president and in the following spring was inaugurated. He appointed Mr. Beadles postmaster, Mr. Roosevelt re-appointed him in January 1902 and again on June 26th, 1906. He served till last year when he retired and his son, Mr. Robert B. Beadles, who had been the efficient assistant postmaster under his father was appointed postmaster.

When Mr. T. F. Beadles took charge of the postoffice in 1889 was in a small room cut off in the corner of the dry goods store of A. Collins, on Lake street. Under administration the postoffice came to be one of the best second class postoffices in the State. It now consists of the postmaster, assistant postmaster, chief clerk, mailing clerk and seven rural delivery carriers.

The second rural route established in Fulton county was from Fulton office.

This city never had a more prominent and popular postmaster than T. F. Beadles, during the long years he served the public and this is the reason, that when he retired his place was appointed to continue in the position.

Mr. Beadles stands high in the councils of the Republican party in West Kentucky. He is a good citizen and is esteemed by all the people at home regardless of politics.
