HOMEMAKERS TO STUDY VITAMINS

Miss Florence Imlay, Extension Specialist in Food and Nutrition from the University of Kentucky will conduct training schools for Foods Leaders of the Homemakers Clubs of Fulton and Hickman counties on Thursday, October 4th at Clinton, and Friday, October 5th at Hickman. The lesson which is the second one of the series on Keeping the Family Fit will be on Vitamins C, D, & G, and will be given by the leaders at each of their club meetings in October.

Leaders that will attend the meeting and the clubs they represent are Mrs. Chester Binkley, Mrs. Mary E. Taylor, McFadden; Miss Johnnie Seavore, Mrs. Daisie Bondurant, Cayce; Mrs. H. L. Berry, Mrs. W. M. Ward, Shiloh; Mrs. Julius Reese, Mrs. Myrtle Weatherford, Croyle; Mrs. Lou Bartlett, Mrs. Dan Briggs of Hickman; Miss Alice Sowell, Mrs. T. J. McMurry, Jordan; Mrs. Eric Dultin, Mrs. Martin Condon, Sassafras Ridge; Mrs. Gus Donoho, Mrs. Leslie Nugent, Palestine; Mrs. Alma Williams, Mrs. Irvin Jones, Oakton; Mrs. W. R. Magruder, Mrs. J. H. Lawrence, Clinton; Mrs. W. V. Little, Miss Gladys Moore, Crutchfield, Mrs. John Wright and Mrs. Ralph Brady, Enon.

The lesson for September has been on Vitamins A & B. Members have learned that Vitamin A is used to build up a resistance against infections of the eyes, ears and sinuses, colds and diseases of the respiratory system. This vitamin is found in thin green leafy vegetables, yellow colored vegetables and butter fat, whole milk, egg yolk and cod liver oil, and is not affected by ordinary short time cooking but is destroyed by cooking two hours or more. The addition of soda hastens the destruction of this vitamin.

Vitamin B might be called the anti-irritable or anti-nervous vitamin as it builds up a resistance against digestive disturbance, loss of appetite, nervousness and stunted growth. This vitamin is fairly well distributed in most fruits and vegetables, whole cereals and in milk and egg yolks. It is probably lacking in most diets as it is water soluble and if the water is thrown away that vegetables are cooked in, half of vitamin B content is thrown away with it. It is also destroyed by the addition of soda.

FOOD DISPLAY IS UNUSUALLY ATTRACTIVE

If food and a variety of fresh meats were ever tempting they surely were at Kroger's last Friday and Saturday. Both the grocery and meat departments, under the supervision of Mr. Owen and Mr. Moore, respectively, were unusually attractive. Besides being beautiful arranged, neatness and sanitation were an infinite part of the sales appeal.

CITY COUNCIL HOLDS ACTIVE MEETING MONDAY NIGHT

The city council met in regular session here Monday night with all members present. After the routine business meeting, various matters were taken up with the committees appearing before the body.

R. E. Kemp, Mrs. Hilary Alexander and Marshall Cole, representing KERA, spoke before the council. The city was asked to pay half the cost for the building where the relief office is located from August 1. This was approved. Co-operation of the city was sought in carrying out a proposed relief project here, by the establishment of a mattress factory employing women. This factory will operate for the next three or four months, and the mattresses will be distributed among the needy in this area. The council approved this program, and agreed to rent a building for location of the factory.

The much discussed traffic problem that exists in Fulton, was taken up before the council. A committee from the Rotary and Lions Clubs appeared before the body to discuss the problem. Vodie Hardin, J. O. Lewis and Ernest Fall, as spokesmen for the committee, laid before the council their views of the traffic problem. Mr. Lewis spoke of the dangerous condition existing near the school, and asked the co-operation of the council and police department in regulating traffic and handling the problem of keeping the school children from walking in the streets. Ernest Fall spoke on the parking situation, and also the hazard of parking in front of businesses. It was stated during the discussion that traffic regulation would simplify driving, and protect and safeguard the lives of children and citizens. The council was asked to take immediate steps for enforcement and control of traffic in the city.

Along with the program for traffic regulation in Fulton, the city council has taken steps to have four school zone signs erected. Two signs will be placed on Second-st, one between College and Park, another between Pearl and West; a sign on Pearl between Second and State Line and on Pearl between Second and Green. These signs are to warn all drivers to drive carefully at a speed limit of ten miles an hour, violation punishable by law.

Downtown the parking areas will be re-marked, and "no parking" signs erected adjacent all fire plugs.

General Johnson Resigns and Richberg Rules the NRA—Textile Industry Board Named—The America's Cup Is Successfully Defended.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
© by Western Newspaper Union.

GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON steps out of the picture and the NRA is turned over to Donald Richberg and other "left wing" members of the New Deal management. President Roosevelt announced the greater part of the reorganization plan for the national recovery body, naming first the policy making board, with Richberg as its chairman and Secretary Ickes, Secretary Perkins, Harry L. Hopkins and Chester Davis as members. A fifth member was yet to be selected, he to be the chairman of the new administrative board. Five other members of this latter body are S. Clay Williams, head of the Reynolds Tobacco Company; Arthur D. White, president of Dun & Bradstreet; Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers; Leon C. Marshall, labor specialist; and Prof. Walton H. Hamilton of Yale. Two executive members are Blackwell Smith, assistant general counsel of NRA, and Leon Henderson, chief of the NRA division of research and planning under Johnson.

The judicial branch of the NRA was still under consideration. Mr. Roosevelt indicated that its duties might be assigned to a special department of the Department of Justice. The recommendations of the new policy making board are subject to the will of the President, but under the terms of the executive order these recommendations must be submitted to the President by the director. Thus, Richberg will have the final voice before the President himself approves or disapproves the board's decisions.

The board was further empowered to "promulgate administrative policies, to appoint, to employ, discharge, fix the compensation, define the duties, and direct the conduct of the personnel necessary for its administration, and to exercise all those powers heretofore conferred by executive orders upon the administrator for industrial recovery."

RESIGNATION of General Johnson, as accepted by the President, is not effective until October 15. Until then he will be busy compiling his final report and also, it is said, writing the story of his life. It was learned that he has been offered the management of industrial and labor relations of a large group of midwestern manufacturers.

This is not the time or place to estimate General Johnson's achievements as administrator of the NRA which was largely his own creation. He certainly worked hard and accomplished much, whether for good or evil. His mistakes were admittedly glaring, and not the least of them was his recent assertion that during his administration he had been in close touch with Justice Brandeis of the Supreme court. As that tribunal will have to pass on the constitutionality of NRA before long, this statement created a sensation and was dismaying to the friends of Justice Brandeis. Of course, the jurist could take no notice of it. The "low down" is said to be that Johnson did consult the Justice when he was formulating the NRA and received some informal advice which he disregarded, and that later Mr. Brandeis told him he had better resign.

ORGANIZED business and the President are not at all satisfied with each other. Business leaders are nervous, and Mr. Roosevelt feels that they have too many "inhibitions" and are not doing what they should to aid recovery. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States, seeking a clear statement of the President's future intentions, sent him a list of questions on expenditures, budget balancing, currency stabilization and the government's part in business, politely requesting categorical replies. Mr. Roosevelt received the questionnaire with a smile and a joke, and there was no indication of his intention to answer it. It was revealed in Washington that the President also received not long ago a set of resolutions adopted at a secret meeting of 120 leading industrialists and financiers. These men asserted that the policies of the New Deal, along with the uncertainties of the future, are threatening economic recovery in the United States. The resolutions were not intended for publication and the President made no mention of them in his press conferences.

Still another hard rap at the New Deal came in the form of a statement by the federal advisory council, composed of leading bankers. It was contained in a set of recommendations for the federal reserve system and severely criticizes the administration's monetary and economic policies, demanding a return to what the council considers sound principles.

The federal advisory council is a statutory body created by the federal reserve act to advise the federal reserve board concerning technical banking matters and general business conditions. It is composed of one prominent banker from each of the twelve federal reserve districts, plus a secretary.

SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR ICKES, as head of the federal public works administration, announced an ambitious family housing project for Chicago which, at a cost of $125,000,000, will abolish a "slum area" of 37 city blocks on the southwest side and replace demolished buildings with small apartment houses for 3,000 families. Condemnation proceedings were started in the Federal court in Chicago, and Mr. Ickes said if the property owners are reasonable in their demands the project will go through speedily. The area to be rehabilitated is inhabited now almost entirely by persons of Italian descent and, far from being a typical "slum," contains numerous neat, well-kept homes and several large apartment houses. The plan of the PWA for its rebuilding is very similar to housing projects in Moscow and Vienna, with the government supplying social and nursery facilities as well as dwellings. The work will be done through the federal housing corporation, which concern the government owns.

MISS GRACE ABBOTT, for years one of the government's most faithful and useful servants, has resigned her position as director of the children's bureau, to the grief of her associates in Washington and the regret of every one who knows about her fine work there. Miss Abbott now becomes professor of public welfare administration in the University of Chicago and editor of the Social Service Review.

AMERICA'S Cup remains in the United States and T. O. M. Sopwith, latest British challenger, goes home defeated and disgruntled. Harold S. Vanderbilt skipped the defending yacht Rainbow to four consecutive victories over Sopwith's Endeavour after the latter had won two races and seemed likely to carry the old trophy back to England. In the third race Sopwith flew his protest flag, claiming Rainbow had technically fouled Endeavour, but the racing committee refused to hear the protest because of a minor infraction of the rules. Sopwith was not the only person displeased by this action of the committee. In fact, general opinion was with him, and the races have left an unpleasant taste in the American mouth. However, it is probable the victory went to the better yacht, or the better crew, or both.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S request that the great textile strike be called off and that the workers be taken back without discrimination, after he had received and approved the report of the special mediation board headed by Gov. John G. Winant of New Hampshire brought to him a bitter struggle that had cost 14 lives and millions of dollars. The union leaders ordered the strikers to return to the mills, and all the way from Maine to Alabama the lions hummed again.

The next step was the appointment by the President of a board to adjust disputes between the workers and the employers in the industry. He named the three veteran arbiters who served in like capacity as members of the steel labor relations board—Chief Justice Walter P. Stacy of North Carolina, Admiral Henry A. Wiley and James Mulenbach of Chicago.

The executive order stipulated that the board is "authorized and directed" to investigate wages, hours and other conditions in the industry to determine whether code provisions are being violated. If necessary, the board may refer its findings to proper governmental agencies for appropriate action.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted
by William Bruckart

Washington.—Major party strategy in the present congressional-senatorial campaign resolves G. O. P. Has itself into a decision. Democrats to hold the two-thirds majority they have in the house of representatives and an equally determined drive by the Republican high command to break the "strangle hold" there of the New Deal party.

The holding of this majority is of vital importance to the Democrats because, with a two-thirds vote they will be able in the next congress to continue "tag" rule which was involved in the last congress and under which it was possible to pass administration measures with a minimum of debate and effort.

In the light of the outcome in the Maine elections and in the face of the size of Democratic votes in the primaries in a number of states regarded as rather safely Republican before 1932, the G. O. P. leadership apparently has a hard task ahead. In the last congress the Democrats had 312 members, or 22 more than a two-thirds majority and generally were able to command most of the five votes of the farmer-labor membership as well as the votes of several Republicans from Wisconsin and from one or two other of the northwestern states. Assuming a farmer-labor membership in the next house as great as that in the last, the Republicans would have to register a net gain of not less than thirty seats in order to break Democracy's "strangle hold."

Even with such a gain the Republicans would have to muster their full strength on every vote in order to prevent "tag" rule.

The Democrats are certain to make substantial gains in the senate, and they are by no means overlooking a single senatorial contest. Democratic leaders in headquarters here have been mentally kicking themselves ever since the Maine election that they did not put on a vigorous drive against Senator Frederick Hale in that state. They explain privately that they did not do so because they never had an idea there was a possibility of defeating Mr. Hale because a Hale in the senate has been Maine tradition for generations. They detected the flaw in their reasoning when Mr. Hale came through with only a very scant majority, and this fact has caused them to redouble their efforts in other states, and particularly in Ohio where Simon D. Fess, former chairman of the Republican national committee, is up for re-election. In Maryland, New Jersey, Rhode Island, New York, Missouri, Indiana, Delaware, Connecticut and Michigan, Nor are they even overlooking that citadel of Republicanism, Pennsylvania, where David A. Reed is up for re-election.

The Democrats now have sixty members in the senate—four short of a two-thirds majority—and they are confident that November will see this membership increased by a minimum of five, or one more than a two-thirds majority. And when they get down to cases, Republican leaders somewhat naturally admit privately that Democratic expectations are likely to be fulfilled.

brought into the open until after the November elections.

The fate of the progressive party in Wisconsin as organized by Robert M. La Follette, Jr., and his brother Phil, can be expected to have a considerable bearing on the plans of those who are viewing the field to determine whether a sizeable public sentiment can be marshaled behind the third party movement. Many political strategists both in the National Capital and elsewhere believed, and gave expression to their views at the time, that Senator La Follette made a major political error when he came out openly for President Roosevelt in 1932. This made certain that the Democrats would carry Wisconsin—the state many regard as the birthplace of the Republican party—and it was equally certain that the astute James A. Farley, as chairman of the Democratic national committee, would lose no time in building up a formidable Democratic organization through the power of patronage and his disposal as postmaster general. The strain and anxiety of depression years, with values tumbling, may have had something to do with Mr. Rockefeller's illness and death, not because of any love for money, of which he had plenty left, but because of the strain in fighting financial disaster.

Whatever the Democratic majority may be in the next senate, the New Dealers are certain to have two flies in the ointment, when heretofore they have had only one. Mississippi is sending to the senate its former governor, Theodore G. Bilbo, to join Louisiana's irrepressible Huey P. (Kingfish) Long. Mr. Bilbo, who became a newspaper clipper in Washington under the New Deal, has promised his constituents that if they would send him to Washington he would "raise more h—l than Huey Long." He has set for himself a very sizeable job because admittedly Mr. Long has raised more h—l since he has been in the senate than was raised by even those two theretofore incomparable h—l raisers Cole Blease of South Carolina, and Tom Heflin of Alabama. They constituted a real team from the South during their stay in the "world's greatest deliberative body," but unquestionably Long and Bilbo will put their record to shame—that is if they team up together. Senator Long has demonstrated that he likes brief stints in the senate that he likes to hold the center of the stage with a silent cast about to admire. Whether he will take kindly to another "h—l raiser" within his own party ranks remains to be seen.

Democratic leaders do not overlook the possibility that if these two team together they might create a schism within the party ranks. Senator Long has far outstripped any of the New Dealers in some of the proposals which he has made, and Mr. Bilbo apparently is determined to keep pace with him if not surpass him. There are several Democratic senators who might conceivably go along with them, as they are not wholly satisfied with what they regard as the "conservative radicalism" of the administration.

Two pieces of legislation enacted by the last congress with a view to aiding the farmer seem destined for the scrap heap. They are the Bankhead compulsory cotton control law and the Capper-Frazier farm mortgage bill. Strange enough it is Senator Bankhead of Alabama, author of the cotton law, who leads the revolt against that measure, which limited cotton production to ten million bales with each state allocated its respective share of this total. It so happens that the total yield was only nine million bales, a million less than permitted by statute. But, peculiarly enough, some of the southern states had superb weather and raised more than they were permitted to raise under the allotment made by the Agricultural Adjustment administration. There is a penalty of $50 on every excess bale raised in any state and taken to market. Mr. Bankhead would have this confiscatory tax waived, setting up the argument that since only nine million bales in all are available it is senseless to keep any of it off the market in the face of a crop shortage.

The Lemke-Frazier bill, in the first test case brought in the courts before Federal District Judge W. Calvin Chestnut, in Baltimore, has met the fate which its opponents predicted it would meet. It has been declared unconstitutional. The purpose of this measure was to declare a moratorium on farm mortgages for a period of five years.

It will be recalled that this was one of the measures which was passed by the senate in the hectic closing hours of the last session, and it is no secret that many Democrats voted for it in the belief that Mr. Roosevelt would veto it and that even if he did sign it—which he did—the courts would declare it invalid. This was merely another one of the many cases of passing the "buck" which are to be found in the annals of the congress. Mr. Roosevelt declined to take the "buck" so the holders of farm mortgages were left only recourse to the courts.

BRISBANE THIS WEEK

The Cup Stays
Percy Rockefeller
Never Is a Long Word
Money Is Useful
Rainbow has won the fourth race and the America's Cup stays in America.

Both yachts came in flying protest flags, but Sopwith later withdrew his protest.

Next time, perhaps, our patriotic millionaires, instead of building a toy sailboat, will set this government a good example by building a really fast and powerful flying ship and go over and show Europe that the country that invented the airplane does not propose to remain forever last in the air.

Percy Rockefeller, second son of the late William Rockefeller, who was John D. Rockefeller's brother, died recently, only fifty-six years old. He was a highly intelligent man and a hard worker.

Like other men of great wealth, Mr. Rockefeller suffered heavy losses in the 1929 shrinking of values, losses so great that he described them to the senate stock exchange committee as "terrible, perfectly horrible, losses."

Professor Millikan thinks that no man will ever go twenty miles up into the atmosphere. "The present record of about twelve miles probably will stand forever," said he. "Forever" is the longest word in any language, and one that rarely comes true.

If men want to go up five hundred miles above the earth, and look around outside of our atmosphere, they will do it. Twelve thousand years ago, men living in the late Stone Age had no weapons but sharp flints and bows and arrows. They have ahead of them hundreds of millions of years on this planet, as Professor Millikan knows. You cannot limit their accomplishments with any "forever" or "never."

Two had, but what can you do about it? The great Samuel Johnson said no man ever wrote well except for pay, and it is certain that many brilliant minds have gone to waste because their owners happened not to need money.

CALL ON BRAINS FOR SUPPORT

"Regimented" Propaganda Is Modern Idea.

Established Order Bolstered by Intellectuals.

No conscientious student of letters has been inclined to take too seriously the alarm that has been felt over the future of literature in Russia's proletarian state. After all, it was only a natural part of the revolution that the intellectuals should have been "regimented" for propaganda purposes.

History shows that it is the part of the intellectuals during stability to support the established order and when that order becomes insupportable to express, in varying ways, the intellectual ferment that precedes all fundamental shifts in political power.

Thus the writers in Russia long ago became revolutionary propagandists. And when the revolution came they extolled the new regime more blatantly, but not less effectively, than the writers in a capitalistic state bend their art toward support of the homely virtues whence capitalism draws its strength.

Writers know this. Somerset Maugham, in the preface to "East and West," takes pains to inform his readers that the editor of the magazine where his stories mostly appeared never told him what to write or what not to write. If it were not at least suspected that writers are "regimented" under whatever political system, such declarations of independence would be superfluous. But there are degrees of regimentation, as of everything else. During a revolution the subtle concealment of propaganda under a layer of art disappears and the skilled writer becomes a newspaper columnist as any hack publicity agent. That is what happened in Russia, when, in the phrase of Max Eastman, the artists were put in uniform.

The Russian revolution is now an accomplished fact. The need for obvious propaganda lessens. The diehards may still believe that there is an unlimited distinction between true proletarian writers and bourgeois intellectuals. But Karl Radek, one of Communism's most powerful propagandists, eventually defeat its own ends. At a congress of all-Soviet writers in Moscow, Iudek said that the bars must be let down and that the old theory of "the who is not with us is against us" would no longer rule in the arts.

And so it may soon be that the writers of Russia will lay aside their uniforms and the Russian artists in turn will find new means for expression. Out of the chaos of revolution may appear the needed serenity which is the basis of all art. At the same time it may be well to speculate on the theory that the reason why literature has so lagged in the 300 years of America is because of its "regimentation" under such banners as Puritanism and Materialism. The growing determination of our writers to work under different standards and to talk openly of the place of propaganda in art is a significant as Radek's movement in the opposite direction.—Washington Post.

Sea Collisions Minimized

The danger of collisions at sea on foggy nights can now be minimized by a new invention which shows with luminous spots and arrows on a compass-marked screen—the location and direction of every ship within a radius of ten miles. It is a cathode ray device which is operated by the radio signals sent out by other ships every twenty seconds. Pilots watching it know, practically by a mere glance at the chart, when and how much to change their courses.—Collier's Weekly.

Why Liquid Laxatives are Back in Favor

The public is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that the right dose of a properly prepared liquid laxative will bring a more natural movement without any discomfort at the time, or after.

The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. A child is easily given the right dose. And mild liquid laxatives do not irritate the kidneys.

Doctors are generally agreed that senna is a natural laxative. It does not drain the system like the cathartics that leave you so thirsty. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a liquid laxative which relies on senna for its laxative action. It gently helps the average person's constipated bowels until nature restores their regularity.

You can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drug store, ready or use.

BEDTIME STORY FOR CHILDREN

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

PETER DISCOVERS SOMETHING STARTLING

NOT far from the Old Orchard grew a thorn-tree which Peter often passed. He never had paid particular attention to it. One morning he stopped to rest under it. Happening to look up, he saw a most astonishing and startling sight. Fastened on the sharp thorns of one of the branches were three big grasshoppers, a big moth, two big caterpillars, a lizard, a small mouse, and a young English sparrow.

Do you wonder that Peter thought he must be dreaming? He couldn't

"You're wrong, Johnny Chuck. You are altogether wrong."

Imagine how those creatures could have become fastened on those long, sharp thorns. It was a dreadful sight. Somehow it gave him an uncomfortable feeling. He didn't want to stay around there, yet it was hard to tear himself away. However, finally he did and hurried over to the Old Orchard, bubbling over with desire to tell someone of the strange and dreadful thing he had seen in the thorn-tree and to try to find out what it meant.

Sitting on his doorstep under the big apple tree in the far corner of the Old Orchard he found Johnny Chuck and at once hurried to tell him the strange news. Johnny didn't interrupt once. When Peter had finished his story, Johnny quite frankly told him that never had he heard of such a thing, and that he thought Peter must have been dreaming and didn't know it.

Now, Peter knew that he hadn't been dreaming. He knew that he had seen with his very own eyes that dreadful sight in the thorn-tree and he grew quite indignant with Johnny Chuck for doubting him. But Johnny persisted in refusing to believe and repeated that he was certain Peter must have dreamed it.

Do YOU Know—

That the first wearer of a top hat was John Hetherington, who strutted the streets of London in 1797, and created such excitement that he was arrested for disturbing the peace. The summons accused him "of wearing in a public thoroughfare a tall structure of shiny lustrous, calculated to frighten timid folks."

© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate WNU Service.

"You're wrong, Johnny Chuck. You are altogether wrong," Peter hasn't been dreaming at all," said Skimmer the Swallow, who lives in a hole in the tree just above Johnny Chuck's house and had been sitting where he overheard everything.

"Well, if you know so much about it, please explain," said Johnny Chuck rather crossly.

"It's simple enough," replied Skimmer. "Peter just happened to find the storehouse of Butcher the Shrike. It isn't a very pleasant sight, I must admit, but one must give Butcher credit for being smart enough to lay up a store of food when it was plentiful. When you come to think about it, I don't know why one who eats that kind of food shouldn't store it up the same as some others store up other kinds of foods. Of course, those things won't keep long, but they will keep from one meal to another, and probably that is all Butcher wants."

"Who is Butcher the Shrike," demanded Peter. "He's new to me."

QUESTION BOX

By ED WYNN... The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn: A friend of mine told me he knew a married woman 53 years of age who sleeps in the same room with cats. Do you believe this?

Truly yours, N. ACKTING.

Answer: Sure, I believe it. Your friend probably is referring to Mrs. Katz.

Dear Mr. Wynn: I live in a town and to go to work I must take a ferry over the river. Why doesn't the city government build a bridge?

Yours truly, MRS. SHIPPE.

Answer: They're afraid it will make the people cross.

Dear Mr. Wynn: I am eight years old and am in the fourth grade in school. I have to write a story about a "Southern Planter." What does the teacher mean by a "Southern Planter"?

Yours truly, L. PUPIL.

Answer: A "Southern Planter," my child, is an undertaker who operates only in the South.

Dear Mr. Wynn: There is so much talk about "Society's" changing in the last twenty-five years. If this is true, can you describe the change?

Yours truly, L. M. A. CLIMBER.

Answer: Twenty-five years ago you married into "Society." Today you divorce into it.

Dear Mr. Wynn: On my recent trip through the West the train stopped at a little town in Arizona. The conductor of our train pointed to a rough looking man on the platform and told me that the man was pointing at had killed twenty men. Do you think cowboys are really as bad as that?

Truly yours, O. PINSPPACES.

Answer: No, I don't. In fact the fellow you saw in Arizona was not a cowboy but a taxi driver from the East who was in Arizona on his vacation.

Dear Mr. Wynn: I gave my son, who is twelve years of age, a job to break a big rock which was in our back yard. He hammered away at it for four hours without any result. I took the hammer and broke the rock with the first blow.

YOU AWAY?

By ANNE CAMPBELL

YOU'VE gone away? Ah, no, you are still here in every room that treasures your sweet grace.

I linger in your chair and feel you near.

Your mirror seems to miss your absent face.

The curtains meet the breeze, their creamy lace

Waving like phantom arms to bid you come.

Your loved books wait in their accustomed place.

Outside there is the town's familiar hum.

You've gone away? Ah, no, you could not go

Beyond my heart's pavilion. You are there

With the bright lamp of friendliness aglow,

Sending its beams to light me up life's stair.

You will be with me whether joy or care

Is my companion in the days to be.

Absent or present, you are everywhere!

You are away, perhaps, but not from me!

Mother's Cook Book

THE VERSATILE BANANA

AS the banana is a fruit always on the market, it is a constant source of comfort in time of emergency when a hurry-up dish is necessary.

Banana Whip.
Cook three mashed bananas in a double boiler with one-third of a cupful of sugar and one tablespoonful of lemon juice until scalded. Add a few drops of vanilla, a pinch of salt, and cool. Whip one cupful of heavy cream until firm, then add the banana mixture gradually. Set aside to chill. Serve piled high in sherbet glasses with chopped pistachio nuts for garnish.

Banana Tapioca Cream.
Peel and scrape three bananas and cut into slices. Prepare a custard by scalding two cupfuls of milk with three tablespoonfuls of tapioca and cook until the tapioca is clear. Add two egg yolks mixed with three tablespoonfuls of sugar, one-third of a teaspoonful of salt. Cook for two minutes, cool and add a few drops of vanilla. Beat the egg whites until stiff, adding three tablespoonfuls of sugar and a tablespoonful of lemon juice. Pour one-third of the custard into the serving dish, cover with bananas, add more custard and more bananas. Pour the remaining custard over the remaining egg whites and top the dish. Garnish with banana slices.

Boston Banana Cream Pie.
Break a large egg into a measuring cup, add softened butter (two tablespoonfuls), fill the cup with milk. Turn into a mixing bowl, and beat with one and one-half cups of flour sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Bake in two layer pans. Whip a cupful of cream, sweeten to taste, flavor with almond, and spread over the layers, cover with sliced bananas. Top the upper layer with cream sprinkled with chopped nuts.

Banana Pancakes.
Mix and sift three-fourths of a cupful of flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Beat one egg, add one cupful of banana pulp, one-half cupful of milk and two tablespoonfuls of butter. Beat until smooth. Cook on a hot griddle. Serve with currant jelly.

Griddle Cakes for Dessert

Delicious Served Either With Crushed Berries or With Shaved Maple Sugar; Scrambled Eggs and Salad Complete a Well-Planned Meal.

The dessert for today's quick meal is pancakes. In making them, says a dietitian, I often use the flat griddle which comes with the grill underneath to concentrate the heat, and use a larger griddle on the top. Sometimes I start this to heat on the gas stove and transfer it to the grill.

A ready-made pancake flour can be used for the batter, or your own or my favorite recipe for griddle cakes may be mixed very quickly. Whatever recipe is used, the batter should be as thin as cream and there should be plenty of melted fat added.

The cakes depend upon the amount of fat for their tenderness, and this also prevents their sticking to the griddle, which will need no greasing if plenty is used in the batter. I can even make good eggless pancakes if I am lavish with fat.

Waffles or pancakes may be served with the usual sirup, or with honey, marmalade, shaved maple sugar or with fresh crushed berries. Or you may prefer them plain or with whipped cream.

Pancakes may be rolled after being spread with marmalade or jelly. Sometimes large cakes are baked; these are spread and piled on top of each other and then cut into pie-shaped pieces.

which may be served at short notice for the hurried supper or the picnic lunch can be included in a list of staple supplies.

Bacon is one of the essential foods to keep in stock, for it serves not only as a substantial food in itself but as a flavoring to many types of dishes. Beginning with breakfast, bits of bacon give a different touch to muffins. To two cups of flour use two tablespoonfuls of bacon drippings and one-half cup chopped crisp bacon.

When making sandwiches grind a bit of bacon with other meat, mix with butter or dressing and seasonings until the right consistency to spread. If the sandwich is toasted and served with cucumber and tomato slices on lettuce, the luncheon menu is ready. When using cottage cheese spread it on graham bread, add sliced bacon with lettuce and the result will be new and pleasing.

NEWS SPOTLIGHT

AT FULTON HIGH SCHOOL

Freshman News, Kathleen Winters
Prof. Cheek of Fulton spoke to the student body Tuesday morning exhibiting several different species of shells and inland wood, which he collected for the museum of Murray College on his trip to the coast. The collection was in the basement and everyone enjoyed it.

The Freshmen elected two new cheer leaders Tuesday. They were Billy Williams and Peggy Williams, the former being head. Those going out of office were Dorothy Ann Pearce and Glenn Williams.

There was a pep meeting Friday morning and it was a good one. The Freshmen have found the answer to their prayer for a good cheer leader. Friday afternoon school was out 20 minutes early for a parade, pep meeting and snake dance. The parade was led by the fire truck and there was a car making radio announcements of the game Friday night.

Our Freshmen boys didn't get to play much in the game Friday night but what little playing they did do was good.

Sophomore News, Virginia Whayne
The R. V. C. H. Warren made a talk in chapel Tuesday. In the course of his speech he said that Sophomores were "wise fools." Maybe all of us aren't that way.

Junior News—Leon Daws
Charles Cooke was back in school after being out Monday from a sore knee which he received in Friday's game.

The Junior class had a class meeting Friday morning and had a re-election of cheer leaders. Mickie Marsh was given the position on account of school regulations and Louise McAnally alternate.

The Junior class did very well selling candy and cold drinks Friday night, considering the crowd that showed up to see the game and the shower which followed.

Mr. Holland was well pleased with the way that the crowd stayed to the last minute.

Senior News, Virginia Fleming
Surprising interest has been taken by the Senior boys in football this season. Though they have had very little experience these boys have done excellent work under the able supervision of Coach Powell.

Members of the Senior class who have participated in the two games which have been played here are:

Curtis Hancock, center; Naylor Ward Burnett, tackle, Paris Campbell, guard; Freeman Dallas, tackle; Williams McDade, substitute; Gus Dyeus, who will be remembered as a valuable member of the basketball team, has not been able to exhibit his prowess on the field this year due to a dislocated knee. Harry Reaves, who was lost to the team by the introduction of the eight semester rule, is sharing the management of the team with Billie Stephenson.

SOUTH FULTON SCHOOL

A great deal of activity has been taking place in the Home Economics room during the first month of school. In addition to the work of the largest classes to enroll in the courses as they have been washing windows, cleaning woodwork and getting organized for the Courses, other groups have been using the kitchen as a place to prepare and sell sandwiches, pies and ice cream to raise money for the Halloween Carnival.

Idell Batts, a graduate of Fulton High School, has enrolled in the Home Economics classes. She is working in the office and library. During the past two weeks the books in the library have been given a dust bath, checked and rearranged. Considerable interest has been shown in the assembly periods this year. At a recent chapel the time was largely given over to song practice with Myrtle Williams at the piano and A. J. Mansfield leading. It is planned to have interesting speakers. Class and Club programs and other worth while material for the Assembly Periods.

Friends of the school will be interested to know that Mrs. Nell Exum is organizing an expression Class among the pupils.

The Sophomore girls, winners of the class basketball tournament, clashed with a team composed of Pickle, Rhodes, Priestley, Williams and Tucker, on Friday and came out winners by the score of 2-4. The entire Sophomore team of Sharp and Todd at guard, Stubblefield and Williams at center, and Allen and Doran at forward worked smoothly and well.

Late study hall has had a great increase in attendance since the classes have settled down to hard work. At present the loudest complaints of difficulties have come from chemistry, American History and English pupils. One consolation however lies in the fact that others have done the same tasks and lived.

The following pupils of the primary and intermediate grades made the honor roll for September:

First Grade, first honor roll—Billy Rice Alexander, Ray Browder, Charles D. Jones, Ernest Kaykendall, Bob McGee, Ben Clifton Taylor, Lela Ruth Allen, Martha Sue Campbell, Mary Frances Davis, Rudell Harris, Sammie Lou Hutcheson, Maxine Sutherland, Edna Maxine Taylor.

Second Grade, first honor roll—Charlene Sanford, Joyce Elam, and Helen Rogers. Second honor roll—Billy Lee Clark, Ivan Jones, Nettie Allen, Louette Stoker, Jimmie Green.

Fourth Grade, first honor roll—Jimmy Clement, Luther Ladd; Second Honor roll—Raymond Chapman, Billie Easley, Margaret Garely, Eva Harris, Audrey Hefflin, Edna East and J. P. Adams, Joseph H. Adams, Webb.

Fifth Grade, first honor roll—James McKinney.

Attendance in the first six grades averaged 94.3 percent for September. The fourth grade led with a percentage of 96.9. Grades 7 to 12 had a percentage of 95.3 percent attendance. The average daily attendance and percentage of attendance for September show improvement over the same month last year.

A faculty committee composed of Miss Alma Whitaker, Miss Lena Stokes, Miss Naomi Rhodes, Miss Mina Lee Corley and Mrs. H. J. Priestley are working out plans for the Halloween Carnival.

FULTON PLAYS TORNO DO AT PADUCAH FRIDAY NIGHT

The Bulldogs of Fulton High defeated the Humboldt squad in a pitched battle at the fair grounds park here last Friday night amidst a downpour of rain. The score at the end of the final quarter was 19-18 in favor of Fulton. Captain Edwards did most of the ground gaining for the Bulldogs, and his brilliant playing enabled his team to capture the game. The local squad was a smoothly working machine, and the visitors were unable to check their onslaught in a mud-bath field. The victory Friday night was the second for the Bulldogs, having previously won from Hornbeak.

The Bulldogs journey to Paducah Friday night, where they take on the Blue Tornado at Keller Field. This game is looked forward to with great anticipation by the local team, and Coach Powell has been putting his boys through an acid test this week in preparation for the battle of the season. Many Fulton fans are expected to follow the Bulldogs to Paducah to cheer them from the sidelines.

Miss Jewel McAnally spent last week end in Fulton with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McAnally on College-st.

ROBBERS' ROOST

CHAPTER I by ZANE GREY Copyright—WNU Service.

One afternoon in the spring of 1877 a solitary horseman rode down the long, ghastly desert slant in the direction of the ford at Green River.

He was a young man in years, but he had the hard face and eagle eye of one matured in experience of that wild country.

At length he rode into a trail and soon came in sight of the wide band of green cottonwood, willow and arrowweed, and the shining, muddy river.

Under a cottonwood, some distance ahead, the rider espied a saddled horse, head down, cropping the grass.

He proceeded more slowly, his sharp eyes vigilant, and was certain that he saw a man on the river bank.

The rider sat his horse, aware that the man he had observed had stepped behind some willows. Such a move might have been casual.

"Howdy," he said, laconically. "Howdy," replied the rider. He became aware of a penetrating scrutiny which no doubt resembled his own.

"Yes, I see a ferry boat over there." But on the moment the rider was watching his questioner. Then he swept a long leg over the pommel and said to the ground, without answering in the slightest from a direct front.

"Noticed that, fine boss. Wal, I've been hangin' around for an hour, waitin' to go over. Reckon he'll be along soon."

"That's the handle. You're a stranger hereabouts?" "I am that."

current, which caught it, and moved it across quite readily into the slack water on that side.

"Didn't like that, did you, boy?" the rider said, as he led the animal ashore. Hays slapped his mount, driving him off the ferry, while he watched the stout man lead his three horses along the guanalve of the boat.

"You're not very obliging," he said, gruffly, as he felt in his pocket for loose change. The ferryboy came ashore, followed by Hays.

The rider, amused and interested from his stand on the bank, saw something that made him start. Hays whipped out a gun.

"Throw up your hands! Suddenly yelled Hays.

"What's this? Robbers!" the stout man gulped. Hays reached for the man's wallet. Then he stepped back, but still with gun extended.

"Get out of here now," he ordered. And apparently he paid no more heed to his frightened victim.

"You'll hear from me, you glib-tongued robber!" replied the other, furiously, as he rode away.

"How'd that strike you, stranger?" "Pretty neat. It amused me," replied the rider.

"Any dance hall, worse luck. Any weakness for such?" "Can't say it's a weakness, but the last two I bumped into make me want to steer clear of more."

lerin that he wanted the sheriff 'cause he'd been robbed, why, Happy up an says, 'Hey, my friend, did he leave anything on you?' Then the feller up an' rode off."

It was this speech of Red's that decided several things for Jim Wall. "I want to look after my horse," was all he said.

This edifice was the last one on the street. The barn mentioned was some distance back, at the end of a pole fence. Upon turning a corner to enter the corral he encountered a loose-jointed young man.

"Hullo, here you air," spoke up Hays. "I was speakin' of you. Meet Happy Jack an' Brad Lincoln.

"You've the cut of it. Where you ain't for?" "No place in particular," replied Wall, guardedly. "Might try riding here, if I can get on some outfit."

"You're outfit?" queried Lincoln. "Yes. But I've not ridden the range much of late years," replied Wall. "You've the cut of it. Where you ain't for?"

"No place in particular," replied Wall, guardedly. "Might try riding here, if I can get on some outfit."

"You're outfit?" queried Wall. "No. I thought, friend, you have the cut of a gun-fighter. I happen to know the brand."

"You're outfit?" queried Wall. "No. I thought, friend, you have the cut of a gun-fighter. I happen to know the brand."

"You're outfit?" queried Wall. "No. I thought, friend, you have the cut of a gun-fighter. I happen to know the brand."

Says WILL ROGERS

BEVERLY HILLS—Well all I know is just what I read in the paper. Did I ever tell you about the time I steamed into Honolulu Harbor?

It was in late July of the year '34. It seems that Mr. Roosevelt picked that same time of the same year to go too. I don't know what he was doing there. Well yes I do he had really gone out there to see that wonderful place of ours. It is a kind of a freak place.

By that I mean that there is nothing just like it anywhere. While it might seem like a sad looking sight its a volcano that's been hit by a Republican depression. They just sorter sag in the middle, and all sides hang loose.

Its like everything else nowadays, its laying off. This depression has hit those volcanoes too. And if you ever saw a sad looking sight its a volcano that's been hit by a Republican depression.

I got to my hotel and I had twenty-eight of those things around my neck, and they were all of a different, and wonderful fragrant breed of flowers.

They started telling me the answers before they happen. But she hadn't exaggerated it at all. I didn't get mixed up in the ocean during the whole trip.

That night for him was given one of the greatest and most novel parades ever given on American soil. It was called a Chinese and Japanese lantern parade.

Temperatures Vary Widely The moon at noon is hotter than boiling water, but at night its temperature falls to several hundred degrees below zero.

Sow Mustard to Prevent Flood, Following Fire

In an effort to prevent flood damage to land recently robbed of its vegetation by forest fires, the United States forest service is starting in to cover it with a "mustard plaster."

To speed the revegetation of 3,000 acres of forest and brush land of the Arrow Keys watershed in the Angeles National forest in southern California, which burned over late in July, forest service workers are seeding it to mustard, a weed which roots quickly and grows rapidly even under unfavorable conditions.

Establishment of any kind of green cover greatly reduces the rapid run-off and washing of the loose soil by the winter rains, a situation which caused the disastrous Montrose flood near Los Angeles last New Year's eve, when many lives were lost.

Under the new plan the Devil's Gate dam at Pasadena. Much of the seeding will be done by the Civilian Conservation Corps, working under forest service direction.

Lesson for October 7

FELLOWSHIP WITH CHRIST

LESSON TEXT—John 15:1-16.
GOLDEN TEXT—Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; no more can ye, except ye abide in me. John 15:4.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus and His Friends.
JUNIOR TOPIC—How to Be Jesus' Friend.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How May We Be Friends of Christ?
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How to Live a Fruitful Christian Life.

Under the beautiful allegory of the vine and the branches, Jesus set forth the spiritual oneness of himself and his disciples. He showed them that though he was going away, they would be in vital touch with their unseen Lord, and that through them his life was to be manifested to the world and his purposes accomplished.

I. The Relationship of the Disciple to Jesus and the Father (vs. 1-3).

1. Jesus is the source of the disciple's life (v. 1). He is the true vine. Through the incarnation Jesus identified himself with humanity, and by virtue of his atoning death and resurrection it is possible for the believer to be a partaker of his life, so that between the disciple and his Lord there is a community of life. As the vine pours its life into the branch, so Christ pours his life into the believer.

2. The discipline of the disciple is in the hands of the Father (v. 1). The "Father is the husbandman." Just as the culture of the vine is in the hands of a husbandman, so the discipline of the believer's life is in the hands of the Father. He knows exactly how deep to cut with his pruning knife, and can be absolutely trusted to cut no deeper than necessary, for he is our affectionate Father. In this disciplinary process he

a. Removes the unfruitful branch (v. 2). He does not take the trouble to prune the fruitless branch—the nominal church member; the mere professor he removes.

b. Purges the fruitful branch that it may produce more fruit (v. 2). He restrains our natural tendencies and desires in order that the virtues of the Lord, the fruit of the Spirit, may shine forth.

3. The instrument by which the discipline is accomplished is Jesus' words (v. 3). If the believer's life is to be fruitful in character and service, the pruning knife, Christ's words, must be intelligently and regularly applied.

II. The Conditions of Fruit-bearing (vs. 4-7).

The supreme and grand object in pruning the vine is fruit. God's whole design in producing the vine and making men branches thereof was to obtain fruit, more fruit, much fruit.

1. Abiding in Christ (vs. 4-6). As the branches draw sap and life from the vine, so believers must abide in Christ, from whom they derive their purity, strength, and wisdom. Indeed, it is a mutual abiding—the disciple in Christ, and Christ in the disciple. It is really Christ's life expressing itself through the believer.

2. Christ's words abiding in us (v. 7). So mighty is the power of the one who abides in Christ and in whom the words of Christ abide, that Heaven can withhold no gift from him. In fact, the one who is united to Christ by faith and prayerfully meditates upon his words will be so led by the Spirit to pray as to have success without limit (Col. 3:16).

III. The Blessed Issue of a Fruitful Life (vs. 8-16).

1. The glorification of the Father (v. 8). The Father will be glorified through much fruit-bearing (Matt. 5:16).

2. Credentials of discipleship (v. 8). The way to prove that one is a child of God is to manifest the characteristics of God in his acts and service.

3. Abiding in Christ's love and keeping his commandments (vs. 9, 10). The way to abide in Christ's love is to keep his commands.

4. Fullness of joy (v. 11). The way to have fullness of joy is to have Christ's joy in us.

5. Loving one another (vs. 12, 13). The one who abides in Christ and has the life of Christ flowing into him will love his fellow man, especially his brother in Christ.

6. Friends of Christ (vs. 14, 15). Christ's friends do whatsoever he commands. Being thus obedient to him, we are taken into his confidence and have made known unto us the heavenly Father's will.

7. Perpetual fruit-bearing in love with power in prayer (v. 16). This enriched life becomes possible through the sovereign choice and ordination of Christ.

The Attitude of Hope

It is good and right to hope. It is the natural attitude of an immortal soul. Let us hope that some great happiness awaits us. Let us hope that past pain and sorrow may be forgotten, and that new ambitions, new goals may rise up before us with all their golden opportunities.

Dare to Venture

He who fears to venture as his heart urges, and his reason permits is a coward; he who ventures further than he intended to go is a slave.—Heine.

WHY ALL THE NOISE?

It was little George's first time at the opera. The conductor took his place in the orchestra pit and began to wave his baton, and the famous soprano started to sing.
 "What's the man shaking the stick at the woman for?" the boy asked his mother.
 "Keep quiet," whispered his mother. "He isn't shaking the stick at the woman."
 Little George was not convinced. "Well, then, what's she hollering for?"
 —American Legion Monthly.

FOR BIG TIME

Father—So, you are one of the star players of the home club.
 Young Hopeful—Yes, but I'm prepared to jump to the big leagues if they want me.

You Might Like a Snack

Gasworks Doctor (medically examining applicant for job)—Humph!
 "Fraid you won't do. Your teeth are too bad."
 Amazed Applicant—Teeth too bad? Well, what's it matter? I'm going to shovel coke—not chew it!—Bystander Magazine.

Teaching Tidiness

Mayor—I never saw the park littered so with paper as it is this morning. How do you account for it?
 Superintendent—The park commissioner had leaflets distributed yesterday asking people not to throw paper about.

My Mistake

Colonel—Disgusting to see a girl dressed like that!
 Sir, that's my daughter!
 Colonel—I am sorry, sir. I didn't know you were her father.
 I am not—I'm her mother!—Tatler Magazine.

Just Space

Friend—What's your son been taking up at college this year?
 Dear Old Dad—Space—nothing but space.

Supersupervision

"Do you think the stock market can be supervised?"
 "Certainly," answered Mr. Dustin Stax. "But inside information has speculative value, and what I want to know is who is going to supervise the supervisors."

Ignorance is Bliss

"You've discharged your bookkeeper?"
 "Yip."
 "Don't keep any account of how your business is going?"
 "No. I have been losing so much I didn't want to know about it."—Portland Express.

THAT'S SOMETHING

"Have you ever done any deep-sea fishing?"
 "Well, I became engaged on an ocean liner."

Some Comfort

"It is said when a man goes mad the first one he injures is the one he loves most," remarked friend husband.
 "Well," snapped his wife, "it's a comfort to know that if you go mad you'll be so busy injuring yourself I will have a chance to escape."

Do You Know Why?

Teacher—If one maid can clean a room in two hours, how long does it take two maids working together?
 Pupil—Four hours.—Pearsons' Magazine.

Controlled Ire

"I note with approval," said the constable, "that you are slow to anger."
 "You are mistaken," answered Senator Sorghum. "I try not to be demonstrative. But I have always found that the angrier you are, the more desirable it is to keep quiet and think hard."

The Home Wrecker

"That fellow spoiled my marriage."
 "How?"
 "Married my cook and now my wife loses the cooking."

Gives Emphasis to Pretty Lines

PATTERN 1837
 This frock has two ruffles over the shoulders which ripple refreshingly and a sash that ties its demure ends discreetly. It emphasizes the pretty lines of a young waist and the slimmness of a young figure, and is a thoroughly delightful thing in either a print or a plain fabric. Think of it, for instance, in peach-colored organdie—wouldn't it be charming? or in valie or dotted twiss—or fashion the yoke and ruffles of contrast.

 Pattern 1837 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30. Size 16 takes 3 1/2 yards 36 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

WHERE TECHNOCRACY QUITS

"What do you regard as the bone of the human race?" asked the gentleman professor.
 "Human vanity," answered the lady professor. "So long as men desire the acclaim of the crowd there must be people to provide it. Applause by machinery wouldn't mean a thing."

No Fascination

"Have you censured the motion pictures in 'Crimson Gulch'?"
 "We tried it," answered Charles Jow, "but the censor threw up his job. He said he couldn't find any pictures bad enough to make it interesting."

Rightly Named

Waller—Baker calls his farm the "Crazy Quilt."
 Wacker—Why?
 Waller—It contains an onion patch, watermelon patch, also potato and cabbage patches.—Brooklyn Eagle.
