Fall Conference of First District

P. T. A. Held at Science Hall

The Science Hall here was the scene of the Sixth Fall Conference of the First District Kentucky Branch of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, last Thursday, October 11. Mrs. Herbert H. Richardson of Paducah, district president, presided over the meeting.

An address was delivered on "Worthy Home Membership," by Mrs. James G. Sheehan, state president, in which the problem of how to interest parents in the work was discussed. At noon a buffet lunch was served in the school cafeteria. An interesting program was carried out during the day.

Following were the committees:

Program—Mrs. Lon Berninger, Mrs. George Roberts; Registration—Mrs. L. J. Engert, Mrs. George Roberts, Mrs. W. C. Valentine; Decoration—Mrs. J. P. DeMyer, Mrs. Sam Winston; Publicity—Mrs. George S. Lawrence, Mrs. J. O. Lewis, Mrs. Hoyt Moore; Hospitality—Mrs. Russell Travis, Mrs. Garnet Price, Mrs. T. J. Kramer, Mrs. W. H. Purcell; Pages—Frances Brady, Sara Helen Williams, Jane Lewis, Katherine Koelling.

PROMINENT CITIZEN DIES HERE LAST FRIDAY

Charles G. Fields, 73, died Friday morning at the Fulton Hospital following a brief illness. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon from the First Methodist church by Rev. C. N. Jolley, assisted by Rev. L. E. McCoy. Interment followed at the Palestine cemetery near Fulton with Winstead-Jones & Co. in charge.

Mr. Fields was a native of this section, having been born in Fulton County in 1861. He was one of the leading farmers of this vicinity until his retirement, when he located in Fulton. While residing here he took an active part in community work, and had gained a warm spot in the hearts of his many friends. He was a member of the First Methodist church, and had served as a member of the board of stewards for many years. He took a prominent part in the church work, having served as secretary of the quarterly conference at one time.

Mr. Fields is survived by his widow, Mrs. Blanche Fields; two brothers, Jim and Tom of this city; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Collins of this city and Mrs. Mattie Fields of Mayfield; two sons, Guy Fields of Jackson, and Roy Fields of Fulton; a granddaughter, Martha Ann of Jackson. Two brothers, Lewis and Smith Fields preceded him in death several years ago.

Active pallbearers were A. G. Baldrige, Boyd Bennett, Lawson Roper, Vodie Hardin, Roper Fields and Smith Atkins; while the honorary pallbearers were composed of the entire official board of the First Methodist church.

THE LIONS CLUB

Rev. C. H. Warren, who closed his fifteen years here Sunday as pastor of the First Baptist church, spoke before the Lions Club last Friday. He pointed out that in that time Fulton has built a modern sewerage system, concrete streets, a new high school building and several new church edifices. He predicted that Fulton has better days ahead yet. Rev. C. N. Jolley paid tribute to Rev. Warren's work here in a brief talk.

LEGION INSTALLS OFFICERS

Installation of officers was held by the American Legion last week. Jess Jordan replaced Louis Kasnow as commander; Marvin Nolan is the new vice commander and Hartwell Parker the adjutant. An entertainment committee composed of Bob Lamb, Bob Harris and Wilson Martin, was appointed, and surprised those present with a delightful buffet supper.

People differ. Some object to a fur dinner. Others to the fur.

There are many things you can do with your leisure. But don't take up another person's valuable time.

SOUTH FULTON SCHOOL

The Seventh Grade have organized a Better English Club, which will meet on Thursdays. The purpose of the Club is to improve the written and spoken English of the class.

Pictures were taken last week of the Junior Class by Omar Taylor, a member of the class. There were four taken, one of the whole class, one of the girls of the class, one of the King and Queen, Larry Taylor and Louise Jones, and one of the class officers.

The Seniors have elected their King and Queen to represent them at the Halloween Carnival, the 31st of this month. They are Everett Jolley, King; and Florence Pickle, Queen.

The Seniors will give a measure party in the Home Economics room Thursday night Oct. 18. Everyone is invited.

Teachers of South Fulton attending the Obion County Teachers' meeting at Union City, Saturday, were Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Priestley, Mr. Roberts, Miss Williams, Miss Corley, Miss Stokes and Miss Pickle. Assembly was conducted Thursday by Mr. Moore. Mr. Roberts presided, singing with Margaret White, Warren playing the piano.

State High School Inspector A. D. Holt, visited South Fulton last Thursday. He stated that he was well pleased with the organization, discipline and work of the school. The school has been given an advance in rating by the State Department of Education.

The Hi-Y Club members have had two informal meetings to decide the meeting time and to make plans for plays to be given this year, with Prof. Orvin Moore as advisor. They are looking forward to a successful year of work. The club is planning to give a play on November 28. The Hi-Y boys sponsored the new curtain in the Auditorium last year and did a good job.

The Freshman Class of South Fulton gave a measure party Friday night in the Home Economics room for the Halloween king, James Dedmon, and the queen, Mary Jolley. Many games were played and at a late hour refreshments were served to 58 people.

As South Fulton is not attempting a football schedule this year, basketball has been started. The first games will be played at Troy on Friday night and the teams will meet the Obion boys and girls in a doubleheader on the local court on October 26. Eleven doubleheaders have been scheduled and other games will be secured to complete the season.

There is no prospect for a championship team at South Fulton this year, but both teams look better than they did last season. For the boys team, Coach Roberts is working with Ferguson, Jolley, Brundage, Johnson, McKinney, Lancaster, Hall, Mansfield, Mills, Todd, Jonakin, Palsgrove and Dedmon. A large group of girls are trying to make the Angel team. Among them are: Allen, Williams, Margaret and Cecilia Manard, Doran, Eleanor and Dorothy Pickle, Taylor, Milani, Coley, Mills, Payne, Frances and Helen Greer, Weeks, Stubblefield, Scott, Roll, Alexander, Robey, Cook, Jolley, Maupin and others.

The six weeks honor roll for the upper six grades is as follows:

First Honor Roll—Helen Parker, Shannon Murphy, Mildred Cook.

Second Honor Roll—Harry McKinney, Elizabeth Ferguson, Kathryn Morris, Edith Robey, Bonnie Ruth Ross, Iris Sanford, Mildred Scott, Hafford Miltstead, Thad Parish, Louise Freeman, Lucy Harger, Martha Roach, Russell Palsgrove, Louise Jones, Dorothy Legg, Opal Williams, James D. Hall, Robert Lee McKinney, Irene Todd, Eva Williams, Edwinna Garrow, Mable Virginia Todd, Rosetta Burrow, Dorothy Arnold, Margaret Stephens, Williams Allen, Charles Cannon, Harry Reams.

NEWS BRIEFS

At a recent election of officers of the Fulton County Club at Murray State College, W. P. Burnette, college photographer, was chosen president; Gladys Homra, vice president; Louise King, secretary; Alton Thacker, reporter.

Mr. Thacker was formerly employed with The Fulton County News, before he resigned to attend college at Murray.

What a coincidence! No births, no deaths—score's tied. That's the record for Obion County during the month of September, according to a report made by D. P. Peoples, Registrar for the 16th Civil District of that county. Since he has been registrar for the past fifteen years, this is the first time for such an occurrence, he says.

Mrs. W. E. Speight of near Fulton has an old Odd Fellows lodge apron and sash which are past 80 years of age. The apron is made of velvet and is trimmed with gold tinsel. She also has a glass lamp which was used by her father and mother more than 70 years ago. And she is still using this lamp.

The Fulton Bulldogs played the Sharon team here last Friday night and were defeated 19 to 8. It was a highly interesting game, filled with colorful playing throughout.

A good time was had by St. Louis business men who brought them to Fulton on Tuesday, October 30th. Their special train will arrive at 11 A. M. and they will remain in the city until 1 P. M. Many of St. Louis' business men and industrial leaders will be in the party. It might not be a bad idea to "sell" Fulton to them, while they are "selling" St. Louis to us. A group of St. Louis business men should greet them.

The Kentucky Highway Commission will open bids today (Friday) for low type surfacing of 3.89 miles of the Duketown-Fulton Highway. This sector of road is in Graves, Hickman and Fulton counties.

Kentucky farmers, in a statewide poll, voted in favor of continuing the corn-hog adjustment program. Approximately 24,000 Kentucky farmers signed corn-hog adjustment contracts.

The Elks Club has extended its membership drive two weeks longer. Scores of new members have already been initiated. The club rooms are being thoroughly redecorated. The exterior is being repainted to add another bright spot to Lake-st.

Paul Morris, proprietor of the Shokhouse, tells us that he has just installed a 24-foot long foot-rail at his emporium. It is the first to appear in Fulton in 32 years, being the only one in West Kentucky outside of Paducah. What a job to keep it polished and shining!

William D. Wade, 75, died Tuesday at 5:30 P. M. at his home in Crutchfield, following an extended illness. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon from the Crutchfield Baptist church by Rev. Moore, pastor. Interment followed at the Union church cemetery west of Fulton. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Etta Scates Wade; one daughter, Mrs. Ernest Carver of near Fulton; two sons, Robert D. Wade of Union City; and Thomas Scates Wade of Memphis; one brother, D. Wade; one sister, Mrs. Fannie Herring of near Fulton; other relatives and friends. He was a member of the Crutchfield Baptist church, and had many friends who will regret to learn of his death.

Dr. J. A. Howard, 72, died Friday morning at his home in McConnell, Tenn., after a long illness. Funeral services were conducted at Chapel Hill church Sunday afternoon by Bro. Mayo of Dresden, assisted by Bro. Frey and Bro. Smithson. Interment at the cemetery there with Winstead-Jones & Co., in charge. He is survived by his wife; three daughters, Blanche, Lou Leila and Mrs. A. T. Fowles; three sons, William Edward, Harold and James Weaver; other relatives, Mrs. Pearl Weaver and family of Fulton.

District Legion Conference To Be Held At Fulton On November 8

MISS CULTON, HOME DEMONSTRATION AGENT, WEDS ABE THOMPSON

A wedding of much interest in Fulton and Hickman counties took place at Danville, Ky., Sunday afternoon at four o'clock, when Miss Anna Culton, Home Demonstration Agent of these counties with offices in Fulton, became the bride of Mr. Abe Thompson of Hickman. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's sister, in the presence of only immediate members of the families.

Miss Culton, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Culton of Parkville, Ky., has been Home Demonstration Agent for Fulton and Hickman counties for the past three years, having made her home in Fulton. During this time she has made her home in Fulton. During this time she has made many friends here and throughout the two counties, who will extend to her the warmest of congratulations.

Mr. Thompson, who is manager of the Kentucky Utilities Co., at Hickman, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson. The groom's father is present sheriff of Fulton county. The Thompson family formerly lived in Fulton and has many friends here. The groom at one time served as a deputy sheriff for the county.

Following the ceremony the couple left on their honeymoon to points not designated.

Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson, Mrs. Ed Thompson and son Robert Thompson of this community, attended the wedding.

CRUTCHFIELD

Mrs. Cleo Newberry is very sick.

Mrs. John McClanahan, Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Holt attended the District Conference at Martin, Tenn., on Wednesday of last week.

The Missionary Society of the Crutchfield Methodist church is to put on a play in the near future. The title of the play is "Kentucky Bells." Watch The News for the exact date.

H. M. Rice who works at Wickliffe, spent the week end at home with his family.

Rev. A. E. Holt filled his regular appointment at the Methodist church Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Wade and daughter, Jessie, moved to their new home in Crutchfield Monday. People of Crutchfield welcome them here.

Arvel Green spent Saturday night and Sunday at home with his family.

The M. E. Missionary Society met on Wednesday of last week with Mrs. Mary Newberry. Those present were as follows: Mrs. Lucy Turner and daughter, Rachel, Mrs. Jess Cashon, Mrs. Pearl Elliott, Mrs. Arvel Green, Mrs. Moore and daughter, De'mar, Mrs. Mary Thompson, Mrs. Lorena Howell, Misses Pauline Yates and Gertrude Howard; in the afternoon Mrs. Chatman, Mrs. O'Neal and Mrs. H. M. Rice were also present.

Miss Ruth Noblin spent Sunday night with Miss Louise Pate.

Reaunon Guill spent Thursday night with Kathleen Rice.

Several women met with Mrs. Craig at the Methodist church Monday afternoon to receive instructions on how to clean and re-shape hats.

Kathleen Rice spent Saturday night with Louise Brown.

Miss Linda Mae Elliott spent Sunday night with Miss Dorothy McClanahan.

MARRIAGE

Mr. Paul Cook of this city was married last week to Miss Verlo Laughlin of Charleston, Mo., the ceremony taking place there. Mr. and Mrs. Morris Hardin of Fulton accompanied the couple who will make their home in Fulton.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere appreciation for the many kind acts of sympathy and for the beautiful floral offerings during our recent bereavement.—Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Putman and Family, Mrs. Nannie Gregory and Family.

The First District Conference of the American Legion Auxiliary will be held here on November 8, it was announced during the regular monthly session of the Auxiliary last week. Mrs. Joe Hogard of Marion, district committee woman, was present, and outlined plans for the district meeting. Mrs. Lydia Gilmore, state president, and Mrs. Alvin Lindsay of Princeton, first vice president, are expected to be present at the district meeting here.

The following committees were appointed to arrange and plan for the district conference:

Mrs. B. O. Copeland, chairman of the Cabin; Mrs. Jess Nichols, Hospitality; Mrs. C. C. Parker and Mrs. R. L. Harris, Registration; Mrs. J. T. Price and Mrs. Earl Taylor, Pages; Mrs. Ramsey Snow, Decoration; Mrs. H. B. Houston, Luncheon; Mesdames Shelton, Nichols and Taylor were chosen as official delegates. A committee, with Mrs. R. L. Harris chairman, was appointed to meet with a similar one of the Legion, to plan the Armistice Day program.

SOCIALS

JUNIOR MUSIC DEPARTMENT

The Junior Music Department of Fulton met last week at the home of Phyllis Kramer on Second-st with Misses Mary Mozelle Crafton and Phyllis Kramer as hostesses. The president, Mary Elizabeth Paschall, presided over the business session. Miss Margaret Clark was elected treasurer. Twenty seven old and new members were present. The new members were Joe Treas, Elmus Lynn Houston, Dorothy Jane Cook, and Bonnie Lou Leip. The program was as follows:

Jane Purcell, the sponsor, Sara Butt, discussed the plan for their program during this year. An article was given by Miss Purcell on "How Music Began." The following musical program was enjoyed:

"Ronde Burles"—Kullback by Miss Betty Jordan; "Valse Etude"—Lemont, played by Sara Nell Alexander; "Bobolink Polka"—Wolcott—played by Martha Ellen Duley and Sara Mae Evans; "Sea Gardens"—Frances Cooke, Norman Davis; "Soldiers March" played by Joe Treas accompanied by Miss Sara Butt; "Pansie for Thought"—Grey, played by Martha Nell Houston; "Robins Call"—Friedmann, played by Ellen Jane Purcell.

At the end of the program delicious ice cream and cake were served by the joint hostesses.

ATTEND DISTRICT MEETING

Misses Betty Norris, Sok Weaver and Julia McCampbell, Sneddon Douglas, Hugh Pique and Mr. Morelock of Fulton motored to Union City Wednesday night and attended the district Young People's Union at the First Methodist church. Sneddon Douglas of Fulton, president of the Union, presided over the meeting. Mr. Chapman presented a most interesting motion picture, "The High Road." A social hour was then enjoyed.

FAREWELL PARTY

A farewell party planned for the Warren was given Tuesday night at the First Baptist church with over 350 present, each family bringing a lunch. After the dinner a social hour was enjoyed, following which a baptizing was held in the church auditorium. The Warrens received lovely gifts, among which was a beautiful friendship quilt presented to Mrs. Warren.

TUESDAY NIGHT CLUB

Mrs. Ed Heywood entertained her regular bridge club Tuesday afternoon at her home on Green-st. Mrs. L. O. Bradford held high score and received lingerie as a prize. Sandwiches and tea were served. Visitors to the club were Mrs. V. Freeman and Mrs. Nail.

CLUB WITH ETHEL DUNN

Miss Ethel Dunn was hostess to her bridge club Wednesday night at her home on Walnut-st. Two tables of guests were present. Sandwiches and hot chocolate were served.

GOING PLACES!

Growing! That's what every business and community should do.

And the way to grow is to strive continually toward growth—adopt a systematic plan that will encourage that growth. No phase of life remains at a standstill. We either go forward or slip backward. Concentrated efforts and business acumen carry an individual or a community forward.

If you have anything to sell, from a paper of pins to a road wagon, advertise it. You merchants were never so anxious to sell as now, and yet sometimes you hesitate to insure the sale by adding one-half of one per cent to the cost price in the form of newspaper advertising.

Regular, consistent advertising goes hand in glove with good mechan-dising.

ADVERTISING is not an expense
—it's an investment, one which has paid big dividends for thousands of users.

Ninety-five per cent of the firms which failed last year did not advertise. Five per cent only of the failures were advertisers.

A community must be advertised —its good points heralded to the world, and in quarters where it will do the most good. The same applies locally to an individual merchant who offers service or some community to the people of this section.

The Fulton County News offers wide-spread circulation in the homes of this trade area, carrying the news and merchandising messages of the business firms.

This newspaper does much class

Job Printing. And in order to better equip ourselves, we have just installed another press, a lot of new type and other material for turning out quality commercial printing. Mr.
G. D. Capps, formerly of Union City and a printer of 40 years experience is now in charge of the job printing department.

Yes, we are growing—and the growth of community is of prime importance to us and you. We solicit your patronage, and strive to please you always.

CONGRATULATIONS

With much interest we have followed the work of the Homemakers of Fulton and Hickman counties,
and their annual meeting at Carce last week was indeed a high spot in their program this year. Miss Anna Culton (now Mrs. Abe Thompson) Home Demonstration Agent for these counties and the various leaders in the club work, are to be congratulated upon the splendid progress that has been made by the Homemakers.

Homemakers are the foundation of civilization. The work being carried on by the Homemakers clubs better prepares the wives and mothers for their domestic tasks.

SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTIST CHURCH OPENS IN FULTON

The Good News Tabernacle people organized into a church here
October 12, with Elder V. G. Anderson, president of the Kentucky-Tennessee Conference of Seventh-Day Adventist, in the chair. The new church opens with thirty-two members, with twenty-two receiving baptism Sunday afternoon at 2:30 in the pool at the First Christian church. The other members were admitted by letter.

The new church will be known as the Fulton Seventh-Day Adventist church, and will be located upstairs over Fall & Fall Insurance office on Main-st., formerly occupied by the Christian Science church. Elder H.
A. Guber was elected to the pastoral ship of the new church, and he announces that he will conduct ser-

ROBBERS' ROOST

SYNOPSIS

Jim Wall, young cowpuncher from Wyoming, in the early days of the cattle industry, seeks a new field in Utah. He meets Hank Hays, who admits being a robber, and tells Wall he is working for an Englishman, Herrick, who has located a big ranch in the mountains. Herrick has employed a small army of rustlers and gun-fighters, and Hays and others are plotting to steal their employer's cattle and money. Hays gets into an argument with a gambler over a poker game. Wall saves Hank's life by bluffing the gambler out of shooting.

CHAPTER II—Continued

"H—i—you say," panted Stud. But that ringing taunt had cut the force of his purpose.

"You've got a gun in each inside vest pocket," said Wall, contemptuously.

The gambler let his hands relax and slide off the table.

Stud shuffled to his feet, malignant and beaten for the moment.

"Hays, you an' me are even," he said, gruffly. "But I'll meet your new pard some other time and then there'll be a show-down."

"Shore, Stud. No hard feelin's on my side," drawled Hays.

The little gambler stalked to the bar, drank and left the saloon.

Hank Hays turned round.

"Jim, that feller did have two guns inside his vest. I never saw them, till you gave it away. He—would have killed me."

"I think he would, Hays," returned Wall. "You were sitting bad for action."

"Right you are, Jim, and I'm much obliged to you. I'd like to know something."

"What's that?"

"Did you bluff him?"

"Hardly. I had him figured. It was a pretty good bet he wouldn't try to draw, but if he had made a move—"

"Ahuh. I'd been all day with him. This gambler Stud has a name out here for bein' swift on the draw. He's killed—"

"Bah!" cut in Wall, good-humoredly. "Men who can handle guns don't pack them that way."

Presently they bade Red good night and went outside.

"Where you sleepin'?" asked Hays.

"Left my pack in the stall out back with my horse. What do we do to-morrow?"

"I was thinkin' of that. We'll shake the dust of Green River. I reckon to-morrow we'd better stock up on everything an' hit the trail for the Henrys."

"Suits me," replied Wall.

"Wal, then, good night. Breakfast here early," concluded Hays.

A red sunrise greeted Wall upon his awakening. When, a little later, he presented himself at the back of Red's house for breakfast he was to find Hays, Happy Jack and Brad Lincoln ahead of him.

They had breakfast. "Brad, you fetch your pack horses round back," ordered the leader when they got outside.

"Happy, you get yourself a horse. Then meet us at the store quick as you can get there. . . . Jim, you come with me."

"Hays, I'm in need of some things," said Wall.

Hays drew out a handful of bills and pressed them upon Wall.

"Shore. Buy what outfit you need an' don't forget a lot of shells," replied Hays. "If I don't miss my guess we'll have a smoky summer. Haw! Haw! . . . Here's the store."

A bright young fellow, who looked to be the son of the proprietor, took charge of Wall. A new saddle blanket was Wall's first choice, after which he bought horseshoes and nails, a hammer and file, articles he had long needed, and the lack of which had made Ray lame. After that he selected a complete new outfit of wearing apparel, a new tarpaulin, a blanket, rope, and wound up with a goodly supply of shells for his .45 revolver. Likewise he got some boxes of .44 rifle shells.

Half an hour later the four men, driving five packed horses and two unpacked, rode off behind the town across the flat toward the west. Coming to a road, Hays led on that for a mile or so, and then branched off on a seldom-used trail.

Towards sunset they drew down to the center of a vast swale, where the green intensified, and the eye of the range rider could see the influence of water.

Hays halted for camp at a swampy sedge plot where water oozed out and grass was thick enough to hold the horses.

"Aha! Good to be out again, boys," said Hays, heartily. "Throw saddles an' packs. Turn the horses loose. Happy, you're elected cook. Rest of us rustle something to burn."

Jim rustled far ahead to collect an armload of dead stalks of cactus, grease-wood, sunflower, and dusk was mantling the desert when he got back to camp. Happy Jack was whistling about a little fire; Hays knelt before a pan of dough, which he was kneading; Lincoln was busy at some camp chore.

"Wall, I don't like store bread," Hays was saying. "Give me sourdough biscuits. . . . How about you, Jim?"

"Me, too. And I'd like some cake," replied Jim, dropping his head.

"Cakes! Wal, listen to our new hand. Jack, can you bake cake?"

"Sure. We got flour an' sugar an' milk. Did you fetch some eggs?"

"Haw! Haw! . . . That reminds me, though. We'll get eggs over at Star ranch. None of you ever seen such a ranch. Why, fellers, Herrick's bought every dern' hoss, burro, sow, steer, chicken in the whole country."

"So you said before," returned Lincoln. "I'm sure curious to see this Englisher. Must have more money than brains."

"He hasn't got any sense. But Lordy, the money he's spent!"

Jim sat down to rest and listen.

"Queer deal—a rich Englishman hirin' men like us to run his outfit," pondered Lincoln, in a puzzled tone. "I don't understand it."

"Wal, who does? I can't, thet's shore. But it's a fact, an' we're goin' to be so rich pronto thet we'll jest about kill each other."

"More truth than fun in that, Hank, old boy, an' don't you forget it," rejoined Lincoln. "How do you aim to get rich?"

"Shore, I've no idee. Thet'll all come. I've got the step on Heeseeman an' his pards."

"He'll be aimin' at precisely the same deal as you."

"Shore. We'll have to kill Heeseeman an' Progar, sooner or later. I'd like it sooner."

"I don't like the deal," concluded Lincoln, forcibly.

Presently they sat to their meal, and ate almost in silence. Darkness settled down. One by one they sought their beds, and Wall was the last.

He Felt an Overpowering Sense of the Imminence of This Region.

Dawn found them up and doing. Wall fetched in some of the horses; Lincoln the others. By sunrise they were on the trail, which about mid-afternoon led down through gravel banks to a wide stream bed, dry except in the middle of the sandy waste.

"This here's the Muddy," announced Hays for Jim's benefit. "Bad enough when the water's up. But nothin' to the Dirty Devil. Nothin' at all."

"What's the Dirty Devil?" asked Jim.

"It's a river an' it's well named, you can gamble on that. We'll cross it tomorrow some time."

Next camp was on higher ground above the Muddy. Here Hays and Lincoln renewed their argument about the Herrick ranch deal. It proved what Wall had divined—that Brad Lincoln was shrewd, cold, doubtful and aggressive. Hays was not distinguished for any cleverness. He was merely an unscrupulous robber. These men were going to clash. That was inevitable, Jim calculated.

Early the next day Jim Wall had reason to be curious about the Dirty Devil river, for the descent into the defiles of desert to reach it was a most remarkable one. The trail, now only a few dim old hoof tracks, wound tortuously down and down into deep canyons.

The tracks Hays was following faded and he got lost in a labyrinthine maze of deep washes impossible to climb, and seemingly impossible to escape from.

Lincoln got off his horse and went down the canyon, evidently searching for a place to climb up to the rim above. He returned in an assertive manner and, mounting, called for the others to follow.

"I hear the river an' I'm makin' for it," said Lincoln.

Jim had heard a faint, low murmur, which had puzzled him, and which he had not recognized. They all followed Lincoln. Eventually he led them into a narrow, high-walled canyon where ran the Dirty Devil. The water was muddy, but as it was shallow the riders forded it without more mishap than a wetting.

Still they were lost. There was nothing to do, however, but work up a side canyon. Hays led them to a camp-site that never could have been expected there.

"Fellers, I'll bet you somethin'," he said, before dismounting. "There's a roost down in that country where never in Gawd's world could anybody find us."

"Ha! An' when they did find us, only our bleached bones," scoffed Lincoln.

There never had been any love lost between these two men, Jim conjectured.

After supper Jim strolled away from camp, down to where the canyon opened upon a nothingness of space and blackness and depth. The hour hung suspended between dusk and night. He felt an overpowering sense of the immensity of this region of mountain, gorge, plain and butte.

While Jim Wall meditated there in the gathering darkness he was visited by an inexplicable reluctance to go on with this adventure.

CHAPTER III

Next morning they got a late start. Nevertheless Hays assured Jim that they would reach Star ranch towards evening.

The trail led up a wide, shallow, gravelly canyon full of green growth. They rode on side by side. The trail led into a wider one, coming around from the northeast. Jim did not miss fresh hoof tracks, and Hays was not far behind in discovering them.

"Woods full of riders," he muttered.

"How long have you been gone, Hays?" inquired Jim.

"From Star ranch? Let's see. Must be a couple of weeks. Too long, by gosh! Herrick sent me to Grand Junction. An' on the way back I circled. Thet's how I happened to make Green River."

"Did you expect to meet Happy Jack and Lincoln there?"

"Shore. An' some more of my outfit. But I guess you'll more'n make up for the others fellers."

"Hope I don't disappoint you," said Jim, dryly.

"Well, you haven't so far. Only I'd feel better, Jim, if you'd come clean with who you air an' what you air."

"Hays, I didn't ask you to take me on."

"Shore, you're right. Reckon I figured everybody knew Hank Hays. Why, there's a town down here named after me, Hankville."

"A town? No one would think it."

"Wal, it ain't much to brag on. A few cabins, the first of which I threw up with my father years ago. In his later years he was a prospector. We lived there for years. I trapped fur up here in the mountains. In fact I got to know the whole country except thet Black Dragon canyon, an' thet hellhole of the Dirty Devil. . . . My old man was shot by rustlers."

"I gathered you'd no use for rustlers. . . . Well, then, Hays, how'd you fall into your present line of business?"

"Haw! Haw! Present line. Thet's a good one. Now, Jim, what do you reckon that line is?"

"You seem to be versatile, Hays. But if I was to judge I'd say you're reloaded people of surplus cash."

"Very nice put, Jim. I'd hate to be a low-down thief. . . . Jim, I was an honest man once, not so long ago. It was a woman who run me what I am today. Thet's why I'm cold on women."

"Were you ever married?" went on Jim, stirred a little by the other's crude pathos.

"That was the h—l of it," replied Hays, and he seemed to lose desire to confide further.

They rode into the zone of the foothills, with ever-increasing evidence of fertility. But Jim's view had been restricted for several hours, permitting only occasional glimpses of the gray-black slopes of the Henrys and none at all of the low country.

Therefore Jim was scarcely prepared to come round a corner and out into the open. Stunned by the magnificence of the scene he would have halted Bay on the spot, but he espied Hays waiting for him ahead.

"Wal, pard, this here is Utah," said Hays, as Jim came up, and his voice held a note of pride. "Round the corner here you can see Herrick's valley an' ranch. It's a bit of rich land thirty miles long an' half as wide, narrow'n' like a wedge. Now let's ride on, Jim, an' have a look at it."

Across the mouth of Herrick's gray-green valley, which opened under the overcast from which Jim gazed, extended vast level green and black lines of range, one above the other, each projecting further out into that blue abyss.

"Down in there somewhere this Hank Hays will find his robber's roost," soliloquized Jim, and turned his horse again into the trail.

Before late afternoon of that day Jim Wall had seen as many cattle dotting a verdant grass, watered valley as ever he had viewed in the great herds driven up from Texas to Abilene and Dodge, or on the Wind River Range of Wyoming. A rough estimate exceeded ten thousand head. He had taken Hays with a grain of salt. But here was an incomparable range and here were the cattle. No doubt, beyond the timbered bluff across the valley lay another depression like this one, and perhaps there were many extending like spokes of a wheel down from the great hub of the Henry mountains. But where was the market for this unparalleled range?

Lesson for October 21

THE CHRISTIAN AT PRAYER

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 6:5-15; Ephesians 2:14-21.

GOLDEN TEXT—Rejoicing in hope; patient in tribulation; continuing instant in prayer. Romans 12:12.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How to Pray.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Prayer Jesus Taught His Disciples.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Learning How to Pray.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Prayer as Fellowship with God.

I. False Prayer (vv. 5, 7, 8).

1. Praying to be seen and heard of men (v. 5). To go through the act of praying with such an object is to play the hypocrite. In praying, the soul is dealing with God; therefore, to engage in it to attract men's attention is blasphemy. Many of the prayers uttered in the public sanctuary are false, for there is more consideration given to what the people think than to what God thinks. Men who thus pray get a reward, but not from God.

2. Using vain repetitions (vv. 7, 8). This does not mean that we should ask but once for the thing desired, for we have examples of Christ and Paul praying three times for the same thing (Matt. 26:39-43; 2 Cor. 12:7, 8), but rather it means the use of meaningless repetitions, their repetitions being empty sounds. To thus pray is heathenish. The heathen nations in their worship of idols engage in senseless babble, an example of which we see in the priests of Baal on Mount Carmel (1 Kings 18:26).

II. True Prayer (v. 6).

Since true prayer is a definite transaction of the soul with God, the communion of the human personality with the divine personality, we should have a real desire for fellowship with God and then go to meet him in secret.

Life for its fullest development needs both solitude and companionship. Solitude alone makes one more rose, while constant companionship makes one shallow. God who made us know what our natures required, therefore he commands both public and private prayer (Heb. 10:22; Matt. 6:6). We should have our closet prayers, when all the world, its cares and pleasures, is shut out, and we are shut in with God. We should also meet with God's children to pray.

III. A Model Prayer (vv. 9-13).

This was given in response to the disciples' request that the Lord would teach them to pray (Luke 11:1). It is not, therefore, strictly the Lord's prayer, but the model prayer for the disciples. It involves:

1. A right relationship (v. 9). One must be in such relationship as to be able to say "Our Father." Only those who have become children of God by faith in Jesus Christ (Gal. 3:26) can pray aright.

2. A right attitude (vv. 9, 10). "Hallowed be thy name." When one realizes that he has been delivered from the power of darkness and translated into the kingdom of his dear Son (Col. 1:13) by being made a child of God, he cannot help pouring out his soul in gratitude and praise, intensely longing for the kingdom—that is, the righteous rule of Christ on the earth.

3. A right spirit (v. 11-13).

a. That of trust which looks to God for the supply of daily bread. We are dependent upon him for our daily food. With all man's boasted progress, he cannot make a harvest.

b. That of love which results in forgiveness of others. God will not listen to the prayers of the one who has an unforgiving spirit.

c. That of holiness which moves one to pray not to be led into temptation. Such a one longs to be delivered from the Evil One.

IV. Paul's Prayer for the Ephesians (Eph. 3:14-21).

1. To whom made (vv. 14, 15). It was to the Father of the Lord Jesus Christ.

2. For what he prayed (vv. 16-19).

a. For the strengthening of the inner man by the Holy Spirit (v. 16).

b. For Christ's indwelling (v. 17). The human personality needs the quickening of the Spirit in order that it might be a fit place for Christ to dwell.

c. That they might be rooted and grounded in love (v. 17). The only way that real love can flow from the human heart is through Christ's indwelling.

d. The apprehension of Christ's love (v. 18, 19). This love, in its depth, breadth, width, and height, transcends human understanding.

3. The triumphant assurance that this will be realized (vv. 20, 21). This realization, which is beyond human ability to even think, is to be accomplished by the indwelling of the Holy Spirit.

What We Live For

We may say what we will, and profess what we will, that which we live for determines whose we are and what we are. "For me to live is Christ," cried St. Paul. As other men live for gain or pleasure, the Christian is meant to be a man who lives for Christ.

Trouble Within

Today I have got out of all trouble or rather I have cast out all trouble, for it was not outside, but within and in my opinions.—Marcus Aurelius.

EVERYDAY NEW YORK

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK.—The old-fashioned brownstone boarding house appears definitely erased from the Manhattan scene. More modern quarters shouldered them out with scant sympathy. Yet to those of us who found sanctuary there as new-comers to New York there is a nip of nostalgia.

Their third or fourth floor up rooms were the settings for many a romantic Orison Sweet Marden dream. Irvin Cobb once wrote that every outlander eventually became a "paying guest" in an old brownstone on West 57th. I was one of the caravan.

The front of my old stand is still there but its interior is cubed into a hair-wave parlor, a tap dancing studio, valet shop and on the windows from which I gazed nightly at Broadway's pink flush are gilt letters of Mile. Somebody, who gives astrological readings "by appointment" only.

The stoop where boarders sat in the dusk is also gone. And I wonder what fate has done to the dull-eyed, sub-morose slave, Sophie, who seemed in constant crouch from the imperious landlady's bark. Sophie who fussed with life, reading Love Confessions surreptitiously between scorings of rickety hall stairs.

There was a pathetic pretentiousness about the old-time boarding house. A doleful collection of Grade A second raters many begged from the faded goat. I remember sending a telegram to myself to give impressiveness to the little pile of mail at my dinner table plate. Opening it in casual offhandedness and returning to the soup provided a fleeting spark in the spot. A gentleman of importance!

Julia Sanderson was trilling "They Didn't Believe Me" at the Knickerbocker and I had splurged for two seats, third row balcony. Several nights later, stopping to watch after theatre crowds drift under a Rector canopy, Miss Sanderson stepped from a hansom. Her roaming glance accidentally fell on me and I gave a sudden start which she mistook for a nod and generously smiled. A fellow of the boarding house happened also among the loiterers. At my window an evening or so later I heard a voice from the front stoop say: "That new boarder in No. 12 is a friend of Julia Sanderson's. Next night I carried Variety to the dinner table."

Board and front room for two with bath down the hall was $18. Now and then on pay day you left Alex, the colored waiter, 25 cents, a gesture that not only sent him to the kitchen grinning but was rewarded with a larger cut of pie or a heavier blob of ice cream. Alex came from Orange county, Virginia, and if you stood in called you "Cunnel," I never got beyond a Captaincy.

We came down to breakfast one morning and found Alex strangely quiet. Out a window I noticed several camera tripods on the curb. "It was the foreign lady," Alex sotted. Noon editions went into fuller details. The English actress, who said "Chaw-ming, really!" went to the roof in the night and in aimless sickness of heart leaped into the dark. Her show had closed that evening. West 57th street achieved thick head-lines.

Doraldino, hula dancer from Ft. Wayne, was noting temperatures at Reisenweber's a stone's toss from our house. Windows up you could hear the orchestra's barbaric blare. The typewriter repairer at our table, who read Jane Austin and smoked cubers, heard sandwiches were 60 cents and after 1 o'clock you had to "crack wine." I visited Reisenweber's years later with a show-off who snapped fingers at waiters, called the hat girl "Little Lady" and rowed over the check, so I was never much of a fan for the place.

My preference was for the red glow of Faust's on Columbus Circle, where musicians wore Mephistophelean costumes and flames seemed dancing from the waistcoat. One night I saw Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson, authors of eminent sobriety lot, these many years, at a table. But this large evening they were tiling the gin mills, as it were. They tarried but a moment, and I followed to the door, where I saw them, as was their invariable custom, on the loose, motion the driver into the cab; gravely, if mayhap a shade teeteringly, mount the box and clomp-clomp for new adventures. I went back to my boarding house more resolved than ever to try to become a writing man.

Early Roman Blondes

The Romans were mostly dark haired people, but the desire to be blond led some Roman ladies to experiment with dyes and other preparations.

New Zealanders Have Longest Life Expectancy

New Zealanders have a longer life expectancy than the people of any other country in the world, according to statisticians of a prominent life insurance company.

The average male infant born in New Zealand can expect to live to the age of sixty-five, while the average female infant can look forward to living within six weeks of sixty-eight years, says a statistical bulletin of the life insurance company.

The corresponding figures for white babies of the United States are 59.31 for boys and 62.83 for girls.

An exceedingly low mortality for New Zealand babies during the first year is reported in the bulletin. It is only 38.35 per 1,000 for males and 25.48 for females. The corresponding figures for the United States in 1920 were 60.89 and 48.21.

Why the Sudden Change to Liquid Laxatives?

Doctors have always recognized the value of the laxative whose dose can be measured, and whose action can be thus regulated to suit individual need.

The public, too, is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that a properly prepared liquid laxative brings a more natural movement without any discomfort at the time, or after.

The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The wrong cathartic may often do more harm than good.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription, and is perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna—a natural laxative. The bowels will not become dependent on this form of help. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is obtainable at all druggists.

BEDTIME STORY FOR CHILDREN

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

A GREAT COMMOTION

A GREAT commotion had broken out in the Old Orchard. Instantly Skimmer the Swallow flew over to see what it was all about and Peter Rabbit followed, lipperty lipperty-lip, as fast as his legs could take him. He was just in time to see Chatterer the Red Squirrel dodging around the trunk of a tree, first on one side, then on the other, to avoid the sharp bills of the angry feathered folk who had discovered him.

It Was Their Nest.

ered him trying to rob a nest of its young.

Peter chuckled. "Chatterer is getting just what is due him," he muttered. "It reminds me of a time I got into a Yellow Jacket's nest. My, but those birds are mad!"

Chatterer continued to dodge from side to side of the tree while the birds darted down at him, all screaming at the top of their voices. Finally Chatterer saw his chance to run for the old stone wall. Only one bird was quick enough to catch up with him, and that one was such a tiny fellow that he seemed hardly bigger than a big insect. It was Hummer, the Hummingbird.

Hummer followed Chatterer clear to the old stone wall. A moment later Peter heard a humming noise just over his head and looked up to see Hummer alight on a twig, where he squeaked excitedly for a few minutes, for his voice is nothing but a little squeak. Often Peter had seen Hummer darting from flower to flower and holding his long bill into the heart of a flower to get the tiny insects there and the sweet juices he is so fond of. But this was the first time Peter had ever seen him sitting still. He was such a mite of a thing that it was hard to realize he was a bird. His back was a bright shining green. His wings and tail were brownish with a purplish tinge. Underneath he was whitish. But it was his throat on which Peter fixed his eyes. It was a wonderful ruby red which glistened and shone in the sun like a jewel.

Hummer lifted one wing and with his long needle-like bill smoothed the feathers under it. Then he darted out into the air, his wings moving so fast that Peter couldn't see them at all. But if he couldn't see them he could hear them. You see, they moved so fast that they made a sound very like the humming of Bumble the bee. It is because of this that he is called the Hummingbird.

In a few minutes he was back again and almost at once was joined by Mrs. Hummer. She was dressed very much like him but did not have the beautiful ruby throat. She stopped only a minute or two and then darted over to what looked for all the world like a tiny cup of moss. It was their nest.

QUESTION BOX

By ED WYNN... The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I just received a letter from my nephew, who lives in England. He writes me that his wife is suffering with "water on the brain." Can you tell me what that means?

Sincerely,

U. TELMER.

Answer: When a woman has "water on the brain" it simply means she has a notion (an ocean) in her head.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I live in a boarding house. I pay $20 a week but the food they serve is not fit for a pig to eat. What shall I do?

Truly yours,

I. BETTY KNOWS.

Answer: If the food is really not fit for a pig, just sleep there and get your meals some other place.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

My birthday was January 4. My girl sent me a pair of gloves for a present but they are too large for me. What shall I do?

Truly yours,

A. R. SEEDER.

Answer: Just pour about a half ounce of Scotch whisky on them. If it's the kind of Scotch they're selling now, a half ounce will make them tight.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

My wife returns home next Saturday from the hospital bringing with her our triplets just five weeks old. I am surprising my wife, as I have just had a nursery fitted out for our new babies. It is a beautiful room and I would like to have a suitable name painted on the door instead of "Nursery." What do you suggest?

Yours truly,

POPE PAUL.

Answer: Three babies, five weeks old, in one room? If I were you I would call it the "Bawl-room."

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I got a job last Monday in a department store in the shoe department. At the end of the first week I was discharged. Can you tell me why? I swear to you I didn't do anything.

Sincerely,

I. STAUL.

Answer: That's why you were discharged.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I just moved into a new neighborhood. This morning I passed one of my new neighbors and bowed to her, but she did not return the bow. What would you do in a case like that?

Yours truly,

SHIEZZA KATT.

Answer: That should be a warning to you. She may be the kind of a neighbor who never returns anything.

Mother's Cook Book

SEASONABLE DISHES

THE bride of today with all her equipment in culinary knowledge has no fear of failures in cookery. Up-to-date cook books with clear directions for preparing even the simplest foods gives assurance to the most inexperienced.

Here is one which any bride will like to try:

Fancy Biscuit.
Take two cups of flour, four tea spoons of baking powder, one-half tea spoon of salt, one tablespoon of sugar, two tablespoons of shortening, one egg and two-thirds of a cup of milk, one-third cup of sliced dates, four tablespoons of peanut butter and one egg yolk. Sift the dry ingredients, work in the shortening with a fork until well blended, add milk and well beaten egg to form a soft dough. Roll out on a floured board and cut small rounds. Spread one with peanut butter, place one or two slices of dates and cover with another round. Press the edges together to enclose the butter and dates. Brush with egg diluted with a little milk or water and bake in a hot oven. If preferred cut the round larger and put the butter and date on one-half and fold over, pinching the edges together.

Mocha Frosting.
Take one-fourth cup of butter, one tablespoon of cocoa, two cups of confectioner's sugar and three to four tablespoons of strong coffee infusion. Cream the butter, add the

FOR A GOLD STAR MOTHER

By ANNE CAMPBELL

THE first point of the star is Memory.

The recollection of his baby ways. Upon the road to yesterday we see The shining candor of his infant gaze; The touch of velvet cheek, the clinging hands, The cunning accent making sweet demands.

Service to him, the next point of the star. The days and nights were busy in his care. There is no rest where little babies are For mothers who are happiest to share The beating of their hearts with their small sons. They concentrate their lives on these dear ones.

Love is the third point of the star of gold. In blest affection, all the stars converge. Only a mother knows how hearts can hold.

So much of love; it is her life's chief urge. Her love will follow him across the world, And past the gates where his lone flag is furled.

The fourth point of the star is sorrow. The star is falling. . . . Shadowed is its light. Only a mother's faith holds valiantly Against the coming of the final night. Now hurtling into space the gold star goes, Its cargo all the heartbreak mother knows.

Only the fifth point keeps the star from wheeling. Forever lost in midnight's empty space; But still upon the sky a faint light stealing. Shows it upheld within its lawful place. Sorrow upon the heavens see it ride, A gold star swinging by its fifth point—PRIDE!

Cocoon. Stir in the sugar and coffee gradually. Beat until smooth and spread on the cake.

Coffee Ice Cream. Scald one and one-half cups of milk with one-third of a cupful of finely ground coffee, strain through a double cheese cloth, add one cup of sugar, the beaten yolks of four eggs, one-fourth teaspoon of salt; cook over water until thick, adding one-fourth cupful of sugar and one cupful of cream; cool, add three more cups of cream and freeze. Serve garnished with marshmallow cherries.

A Preserved Cathedral. The cathedral at York, England, has been well in the preservation of its old glass. Every window in the nave and aisles, except four, retains its ancient glazing, the earliest in point of date being that of the Twelfth century.

ICE TO THE ESKIMOS

Voice over phone—Are you the blankety-blank sales manager who sent that salesman to my office to sell your blankety-blank?

Sales Manager—Yes, yes, but, my dear man, why—?

Voice—Well, I gave orders to all of my staff to admit no one to my private office, and your man was so persistent that they were forced to get a gun—

Sales Manager—My goodness, man, they didn't shoot him, did they?

Voice—No, but my bookkeeper wants his gun back.—Nagara Falls Review.

HAS FISHITIS

"You say your husband is very nervous?"

"Yes, he shakes like a jellyfish."

Seemed Like a Good Idea

"I hear you installed a gasoline pump in front of your store," said he to the local grocer.

"Yes. And what a dumb ox I was!" exclaimed the grocer.

"Why dumb?" he asked.

"Because," replied the grocer, "none of the people who owe me money for food has the nerve to come to my place and pay cash for gas while adding to his grocery bill."

Promoter

Two college girls were having lunch together.

"My dear," said one, "why do you always call your mother 'the mater'?"

"Because," answered the other girl, "she managed to find husbands for all my seven sisters."

Answer

Teacher—Can anyone tell me the meaning of the word collision? No one knows? Well, it is when two things come together unexpectedly. Now, can anyone give me an example?

Johnny—Twins!

An Observant Child

"Mamma, I must have a new dress for my doll."

"Why, dear?"

"Cause I quarreled with her, and now that we've made up I must give her a new dress."

Seeking Seclusion

The Waiter—Yes'm. Double portion boiled dinner, two dozen corn on the cob, French pastry, ice cream, and pot tea. Anything more, lady?

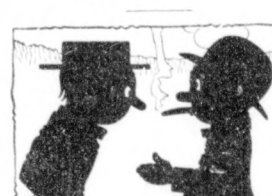

The Plump Person—Yes. You may put a screen around my table.

That Won't Prove Anything

Gloria—Was your uncle's mind vigorous and sane up to the last?

Harold—I don't know. The will won't be read until tomorrow.

BAD ENOUGH

"Anything serious at your house? I saw the doctor call every day this week."

"Serious! I should say so, he called to collect a bill."

Difficult Indeed

"And how are you getting on, Mrs. Mumble?"

"Not too well, Mrs. Grumble. My poor husband has had a parallel stroke and we are having a time making both ends meet."

No Sign of a Breakdown

Disgusted Parent—How much longer do you expect me to go on supporting you?

Son—Well, father, you know you are in the pink of condition.

Safe

"Hard work never killed anybody," said the father.

"That's just the trouble, dad," returned the son. "I want to engage in something that has the spice of danger in it."

Their Worry

"Able, have you done anything about that blackhand letter?"

"Oh, ain't I, though? I turned it over to my insurance company. They got $20,000 tied up in me—let them worry."

Practical House Frock

PATTERN 9083

The nice thing about this frock—one of the nice things—is that you can wear it buttoned up some days and opened on others. If you face the reverse with a contrasting color, as in the illustration, it makes a great deal of difference whether you see the inside of it or not—it really makes a different frock of it. It is one of those house dresses which may be worn out of doors in the country or for shopping in the mornings. The inverted pleat makes the sleeves most flattering. Very attractive in a plain fabric as well as a printed one.

Pattern 9083 may be ordered only in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 4 yards 36-inch fabric and 3/4 yard contrasting.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 232 West 18th Street, New York, N. Y.

HOMEMAKERS HELD SEVENTH ANNUAL MEETING AT CAYCE

The Seventh annual meeting of the Fulton-Hickman Counties Homemakers Association was held at Cayce High School Auditorium last Wednesday, Oct. 10. It is estimated that 150 Homemakers and friends were in attendance.

Mrs. Birdie Pewitt, County President, presided at the meeting. Presidents of all but one club answered

Roll Call by a report of their club activities for the year. The morning session was spent by the County Leaders in giving reports of the various projects the clubs have been studying, and the results achieved during the past year. Reports of all special activities were included.

Mrs. C. L. Clarke, County Vice President, in her report told that three clubs have been added to the Homemakers since last Annual Day, and the enrollment has increased from 215 to 241 members. She also gave a report of the Core Card that has been kept by the Vice President for the past year and announced Croley Club of Hickman County, as having the highest score. Hickman Club score second, and Palestine Club, third.

Mrs. Erie Dublin, County Foods Leader, in her discussion on "The Homemakers Meets Food Problems of the Day," told that as result of the foods lesson, the Homemakers have been carrying, that 107 reported improving their method of meat cooking, 179 improved their general preparation of vegetables and forty-seven planted new vegetables. So that their families might be well fed this winter, 20,498 quarts of vegetables, 12,559 quarts of fruit and 1,415 quarts of meat have been canned, despite the drouth, which caused gardens to be very poor. This is an increase of about 10 per cent over last year. Mrs. Dublin reported that 34 new pressure cookers have been purchased by Homemakers in the Counties during the year.

Mrs. Dean Collier, in her report on Homemakers Home Are More Attractive, showed that members of Homemakers Clubs have spent much time to improving their own homes this summer as well as preparing the Homemakers Demonstration House. Fifty-eight rooms have had their walls repapered or repainted, seventy-one floors refinished and seventy-five rooms have had their furniture re-arranged in order to conform to the shape and size of the room; 65 pieces of old furniture have been refinished.

Mrs. Ed Thompson, County Exterior Leader, told of the many improvements in the lawn and exterior that have been made by the Homemakers.

Mrs. Clyde Burnett, County Clothing Leader, had charge of a style show that included renovated dresses, coats and hats.

Mrs. Gus Browder discussed the recreation phase of Homemakers. Mrs. W. R. Magruder, County Junior Leader, told of Junior Work for the year. Mrs. Julian Reese, in a talk on the Homemakers Visits to the University, told about a trip to the Annual Farm and Home Week, and Mrs. Roy Cromwell, told of Homemakers Camp in a talk of "The Homemakers Take a Vacation." Mrs. Myrtle Weatherford, told of the interest that had been created by the classes on Child Care and Training, that Miss Imlay had been conducting. Mrs. W. V. Little gave a report of the District Meeting.

Miss Anna Culton, Home Demonstration Agent, gave a report of the Agents Activities, which included goals for the coming year and achievements of the past year. Mrs. Morgan Davidson, gave a report of the nomination Committees and the following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. J. H. Lawrence; Clinton; Vice President, Mrs. Ed Thompson, Hickman; Sec'y-Treas.,

Assassination of King Alexander and Louis Barthou Alarms All Europe—Spanish Revolt Suppressed—CCC Will Be Continued.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

© by Western Newspaper Union.

TWO men of great importance in the maintenance of peace in Europe were removed from the scene by the bullets of the assassin, Petrus Kalemenev, who slew King Alexander of Yugoslavia and Louis Barthou, French foreign minister, in Marseilles, "Another Sarajevo?" was the question in every mind, and, indeed, there was some slight danger that the crime would start another great war. Alexander was just beginning a "good will" visit in France, which was closely tied up with Barthou's plan for an accord between France and Italy, and Barthou was soon to go to Rome to further the scheme. Yugoslavia is allied to France but is not at all friendly to Italy, and Alexander hated Mussolini personally, believing that the duke gave moral support to the rebellious Croats. But the king did not want war and was willing to help along the proposed accord if it was not inimical to his country.

King Alexander

If trouble does follow after the assassinations it probably will start with revolution in Yugoslavia. Only by assuming and exercising dictatorial powers was Alexander able to keep peace in the kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes, otherwise Yugoslavia, and it is not certain that there is anyone else there who can do it. Civil war might tempt some other nation to intervene and grab part of the realm, and in that case a general conflict might be precipitated.

Alexander's eldest son Peter, who was in school in England, was promptly proclaimed king and, being only eleven years old, will rule under a regency of three men who were named in the political will of the murdered monarch. Whether these three can hold the kingdom intact is a question. Only the Serbs are really loyal to the royal house, though all the people had admired the strength and bravery of Alexander, whose life had been attempted four times before.

The death of Alexander was held especially important to Germany by the statesmen of that country, for they had looked to him to curb to a considerable extent the alleged ambitions of Mussolini. He was considered a close friend of the reich and a potential ally.

France was not only worried by the possibility of trouble in the Balkans, but also deeply mourned the death of Barthou, one of her ablest statesmen and, indeed, one of the ablest in Europe. He had been working assiduously on his pet scheme of a security pact for eastern Europe; and, although Germany had scored him for trying to build a diplomatic and economic ring about the reich, last June he personally negotiated an accord between France and Germany that was believed to give assurance of peace.

Petrus Kalemenev, the assassin, who was quickly killed by the French police, was found to have been traveling on a forged Czech passport. Two men who accompanied him on his mission of death were captured near the Swiss border and another was being hunted down in Fontainebleau forest. Where they came from and what organization was back of the assassinations had not been learned at this writing. The police thought they belonged to a secret Macedonian revolutionary society.

CIVIL war in Spain was precipitated by the radical elements, starting with a 24-hour general strike which was declared by the Socialists and Communists in answer to the formation of a conservative government by Premier Alejandro Lerroux under the domination of reactionary Catholics. Within a few hours bloody conflicts broke out in many regions, and Catalonia, the northeast corner of the country, decided this was the time to establish itself as an independent republic. Luis Companys, president of the state, announced: "Catalonia is breaking off relations with the rest of Spain. I demand complete discipline from everyone." He called on Gen. Domingo Batet, commander of the garrison at Barcelona, to swear allegiance to the new regime, but that wily soldier spared for time, and before an hour had passed he received orders from Madrid to declare a state of siege. His troops battled with the Catalans, and soon had Companys and his fellow leaders cowed up in the presidential palace. Reinforcements for the government forces arrived swiftly by land, sea and air.

Then the artillery opened up, and after the palace had been thoroughly shelled, Companys and his colleagues surrendered and were marched to a prison ship in Barcelona harbor. The revolution was over and the new Catalan republic went out of existence. It was rumored the collapse was partly due to a dispute between Companys and former Premier Manuel Azana, a co-leader in the revolt. Azana was found in hiding and arrested.

Surrender of Companys did not end the fighting in northern Spain, for the revolutionists in various regions continued their desperate efforts, but the government considered the revolt really had been suppressed. There was no telling how many had been killed or wounded, but certainly the casualty lists were terribly long.

GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR, chief of staff and now in command of the G. H. Q. combat air force and also of the ground forces, is planning to develop a fighting fleet of super battle planes. The first step will be the organization of the G. H. Q. air force of at least 1,000 planes grouped in five "wings" based on both coasts and in the Middle West. This would bring the army corps up to about 2,300 planes, making an aerial fighting fleet approximately the equal of any in the world.

GOV. GIFFORD PINCHOT of Pennsylvania has in the past been in sympathy with much of President Roosevelt's program, but he has now definitely broken away by coming out in favor of the re-election of Senator David A. Reed, anti-New Deal Republican whose defeat would be most welcome to the administration. Immediately after Pinchot announced his stand in a speech at Wilkes-Barre, Postmaster General Farley conferred with Mr. Roosevelt and then, as chairman of the Democratic National committee, gave out a stinging attack on Pinchot. In it he referred to Senator Reed as "perhaps the most outstanding foe of the President's policies," who, if elected, would "do everything in his power to hamper the President's program and to make a mislead out of the New Deal."

It is said that the Pennsylvania Democrats are importuning the President to take a hand personally, and perhaps make a speech in the state, in an effort to win over rock-ribbed Pennsylvania and retire Senator Reed in a defeat which could also be construed as a slap at Pinchot and Andrew W. Mellon.

Gov. Pinchot

GOVERNMENT crop benefit checks for more than $352,000,000 have been paid to farmers participating in the production adjustment program, according to figures compiled by the AAA. Some $575,000,000 additional is scheduled for payment under programs now in effect, nearly 60 per cent of it before the end of this year. Thus, the farmers' stake in the AAA approximates $1,000,000,000.

Payments already made or to be made before January are included in the estimate of the bureau of agricultural economics which places 1934 cash farm income at about $5,000,000,000 compared to $5,000,000,000 last year and $4,333,000,000 in 1932.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has made it plain that the Civilian Conservation Corps, one of the least criticized features of his recovery program, is to be continued indefinitely. He wrote to Robert Fechner, director of the corps, saying:

"I have been greatly interested and encouraged by the fine report from your visits to CCC camps in many parts of the country.

"This kind of work must go on. I believe that the nation feels that the work of these young men is so thoroughly justified and, in addition, the benefits to the men themselves are so clear that the actual annual cost will be met without much opposition or much complaint."

Mr. Fechner had reported to the President that the cost of the CCC during its eighteen months of operation had amounted to $443,000,000.

THERE is an interesting report circulating in Wisconsin, especially in Madison. It is to the effect that President Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin is looking toward the Republican Presidential nomination in 1936 and that this idea explains his refusal to permit Lloyd K. Garrison to remain in Washington as head of the national labor relations board.

The Madison Capital Times said it understood Doctor Frank feels the Republican party is in need of a "liberal" candidate, yet not a "dangerous" liberal, and believes he is in a position to qualify.

To interviewers Doctor Frank declined to comment on the newspaper story. He said his insistence that Garrison return to his duties as dean of the law school was solely in the interests of the university.

RHODE Island Republicans are quite satisfied with Felix Hebert as senator and have renominated him. For governor the state convention named Gen. Luke H. Gellan, a veteran of the Spanish-American and World wars.

Another Royal Murder
Mr. Rockefeller Starts
Propaganda Work
Mussolini Winks

King Alexander of Yugoslavia, landing at Marseilles, beginning of a "good will" tour of France, was killed by an assassin, and Louis Barthou, foreign minister of France, who had gone to Marseilles to meet the king, was shot down at the same moment and died later from loss of blood. Their car was "spattered with bullets." Louis Barthou, seventy-two years old, one of the ablest of French statesmen, had looked forward to the visit of the Yugoslavian king as the beginning of an era of peace in Europe.

As a result of the king's assassination on foreign soil it might have been feared that another war would be precipitated. The great war started with the murder of the Austrian archduke, Vienna published rumors that the Yugoslavian government had ordered mobilization of its army on the Italian and Hungarian frontiers.

It happens, however, that the murderer in this case is a certain Petrus Kalemenev, thirty-five-year-old Yugoslav, one of King Alexander's own subjects, so that no international complication is suggested.

Kalemenev, captured after firing the shots which killed Barthou and Alexander, attempted suicide by shooting himself in the mouth, but was cut down by police sabers and died from the deep gashes inflicted and from police bullet wounds.

John D. Rockefeller, not delaying this year, has started for Florida accompanied by his son, John D. Jr. There is longer life in sunshine. Some day swift air transportation will make it possible for millions of old men and women and young children that now fight cold and colds in the northern winter to spend that winter somewhere in the United States' sun parlor, that stretches from Florida on the east, west along the gulf coast, and north along the Pacific ocean.

Los Angeles reports industrious "reds" trying to corrupt sailors of the United States navy. One plan seeks to bring young, attractive university girls that have not been elected to sororities. They take advantage of their hurt state of feelings to make Communists of them and send them to make Communists of sailors. Propaganda work is also done in high schools by Communist students to "raise and demand colored teachers in the high schools."

Special attention is paid to young college graduates lacking jobs that have enlisted in the navy. Their feelings also were hurt and they are expected to respond to the song, "Arise, Ye Prisoners of Starvation," although men in the navy are well fed.

Mussolini, talking with "amplifiers" to 500,000 Italians in the Cathedral Square of Milan, remarked, "Relations between Italy and France are notably improved," and winked as he said it.

The huge Italian crowd roared with laughter. Mussolini says the corpse of disarmament can never be resurrected, which means that European nations will continue arming against each other more and more extravagantly.

Money changes its so-called "value" and those supposed to control it do not always realize how it is changing.

We rejoice over increased government receipts, forgetting that the government is now taking in 50 or 60 cent dollars. In England, where the pound, normally worth more than 124 francs, sells for 74 francs, a drop of 40 per cent. And in England gold sells above 142 shillings an ounce, or at a premium of 60 per cent.

Trouble continues in Spain, with troops guarding the parliament and inconceivably savage outrages reported in the war against religion. A priest and two civil guards are said to have been killed in a Catholic church, the pharange dynamited in an outbreak of terrorism and religious hatred in northern Spain. The Associated Press reports many churches burned, and fifty-two soldiers killed when a military truck was blown up.

Urged on by the belief that Upton Sinclair will be elected governor of California and proceed to give every old man a pension of $50 a month for the rest of his life, many $20 and $25 second-hand automobiles, fully loaded, are said to be on the way to California. One well-informed says: "Everybody can raise $25 or $50, and buy a car that will run. Is bound for California to get some of that Upton Sinclair money."

This is written to advise those gentlemen to turn around, go back and enjoy their newly bought cars nearer home. You cannot "give everybody" just $25 a month unless you have the $50 to give.

The bureau of agricultural economics tells you to prepare for a change in diet.

It will be made necessary by the drought for all but the "predatory rich" and the fairly well off.

The real rise in food prices will not come until next spring; then meats, dairy products, poultry, will go up. Fourth of July skyrack fashion.

You will eat vegetables.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted
by William Bruckart

Washington. — Whatever may be gleaned from recent developments in Washington, it can be stated with certainty that President Roosevelt has now set his mind definitely to continue the National Recovery administration as a governmental unit. It may well be that the organization will be changed as to form; it may be possible that the name will be revised and that there may be revision of methods. But there can be no equivocation about the fact that Mr. Roosevelt intends to maintain NRA and that he has acted at this time to give notice of his decision in advance of the convening of congress.

Observers here have taken note of the unusual emphasis placed upon the President's part in NRA reorganization plans. They think this was done at the behest of the Chief Executive with the thought in mind that it would serve as a reassurance to hundreds of thousands of people throughout the country. I believe there can be no doubt that a good many people, some influential, some just the nine-run, have questioned the flying qualities of the Blue Eagle. Their dissatisfaction and distrust has been shown in many ways and thus it appears logical that Mr. Roosevelt would seek to allay their fears.

Under the new set-up of NRA, the President has taken active leadership. Of course, he has been the leader heretofore, but there has always been the disposition on his part to allow the former administrator, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, to guide his own ship. Despite the fact that Mr. Johnson was given a free hand, it was easy for Mr. Roosevelt to take control because, after all, he is President of the United States.

By dividing management of NRA among the heads of three boards, it is generally believed that the President has made it easier for himself to assert his influence and his ideas more directly than has hitherto been the case. This is particularly true when the personality of the former administrator is considered although the President had only one man with whom to deal under that circumstance.

Politically minded people in Washington seem to be wondering, however, at the effect will be on Mr. Roosevelt's suggestions have been heard that by taking a direct hand in NRA Mr. Roosevelt has put himself "out front" where, some seem to think he may be the target for some of the "rotten eggs" about which the bombastic General Johnson spoke so frequently. The retiring administrator said frequently he did not mind being the target, but many times Mr. Roosevelt has taken occasion to fight back at his critics by calling them Tories, unawakened Rip Van Winkles, and other such descriptive terms.

It is yet too early for a general reaction to be evident among conservative business men on the President's NRA reorganization program. Those who have given voice to their feelings thus far, however, have indicated that the right wing group in the country are finding small union from the new program. Indeed, the undercurrent of information which we get in Washington is to the effect that there are more secret meetings and definite moves among business interests to ward off any left wing swing by the administration than there has been at any time since Mr. Roosevelt took office.

The President's recent radio speech to the country was generally understood as a conciliatory move on his part and it seems not to take a stretch of the imagination to link that speech and NRA reorganization with these various movements against the overhanging threats of such liberals as Donald Richberg, former Chicago labor lawyer, who is certainly the most influential man in the new NRA set-up.

Everywhere I go, I find that business interests are accepting the reorganization of NRA as notice of its continuation and it may be possible that one result of this interpretation of the President's act is the growing opposition movement mentioned above. Business generally is minded that the matter of continuing NRA must be decided by congress. They recognize that the present recovery act expires next June and that the President will lay before congress a comprehensive program early in January after congress returns. Their efforts in opposition, therefore, naturally will be directed to the congress in an effort to accomplish some of the changes in the law which they believe advisable to permit free and untrammelled commerce and industry.

With regard to the President's determination to continue NRA it needs to be pointed out only that if he had wanted to scrap that unit of his recovery set-up, the retirement of General Johnson afforded an excellent opportunity. It was then that he could have allowed the organization to disintegrate and could have transferred to various agencies of the government that are permanent in character such functions as he desired should continue. But he did not do that. He acted with dispatch. This is best shown by the chronology of events. It appears that the President made up his mind over one week-end. He received General Johnson's resignation on a Monday and announced it on a Tuesday. His return to Washington on Wednesday was followed immediately by conferences with Mr. Richberg and a quick announcement of the new program. It is evident, therefore, that when the President decided something had to be done, he moved at once to get rid of General Johnson and to start the new machinery through orders issued to Mr. Richberg.

Formulation of industrial policies heretofore are regarded as likely to be more on the basis of trial and error than heretofore has been the case.

Banking and other financial interests of the country are apparently quite disturbed over the trend toward easier bank examinations.

Mr. Roosevelt lately has told the treasury that the bank examiners were too hard-boiled in going over loans held in portfolios of banks and that he was anxious to see a more uniform system developed than the examining methods long in use.

The fear seems to be that the bank examiners will relax too far in granting approval for loans outstanding. Heretofore, banks have had to toe the mark and any questionable papers or any loan that gave evidence of not being liquidated in accordance with its terms was promptly called to the attention of the bank management with instructions to make corrective adjustments on the books. If, as some financial authorities expect, bank examiners become too lenient it is suggested in many quarters that the banks again may find themselves with paper upon which they cannot realize just as occurred at the beginning of this depression. It was bad loans that forced the closing of many banks.

Then, too, many observers are finding it difficult to reconcile the President's attitude with the frequent criticisms he has made of banking practices heretofore employed. I am reminded also of the stinging rebukes that have come from the senate committee on banking and currency after its investigation of the banking structure. Time after time that committee, which proceeded with its investigation with a blessing from the White House, has attacked banks and bankers because of bad loans and worse judgment in dealing with the borrowers. The question has been asked several times lately whether banks are going to be willing to make loans that are in some respects a gamble even under the President's urge it, later, they will be subjected to attacks in the halls of congress.

On the bank loans the President is convinced that bank examiners have been throwing out a lot of loans that are perfectly good. They have been forcing the banks to charge off this paper as a loss. In other words, Mr. Roosevelt believes that under the old rules of examination a too stringent attitude was adopted by the administrative authorities in the treasury and the bank examiners carried out these rules literally.

In the background, it is to be remembered, however, there is the federal deposit insurance corporation. This agency guarantees that the depositors will be repaid in full up to a limit of $5,000 on each account. It would seem to be that the existence of this insurance corporation ought to fend off any particular fear. But bankers know and a good many of the political and administrative leaders recognize that the corporation could not withstand wholesale bank failures. It draws its funds from assessment of member banks and, therefore, when its present reserves are exhausted banks must dig up more. Following this line of reasoning, one cannot help arriving at the conclusion that a series of bank failures, resulting from bad loans, would throw more of a burden upon the good banks than they can carry. Thus it is made to appear that a high percentage of bankers in the country after all are going to continue to exercise their judgment on the type of loans they make and will not be influenced materially by administration wishes. Some, of course, will extend credit with abandon, and it is this group of bankers who eventually will witness the deposit insurance corporation paying off their depositors.

Consumers must look to a change in their diet as regards some items of food during the coming winter, according to a statement from the Department of Agriculture. Through the bureau of agricultural economics the department said that it expected some increases in prices between now and the end of the year but that the climb in price levels likely would be more gradual and not so large as has occurred in the last three months. This fact, it appeared, was traceable to the shortage of some kinds of food resulting from the drought in the central states and a superabundance of some other kinds produced in the eastern half and far western sections of the United States.

The department suggested that the full effect of the drought on retail food prices will not be felt until next spring. At that time, supplies of meats, dairy products and poultry products will have been reduced.

Says WILL ROGERS

BEVERLY HILLS.—Well all I know is just what I read in the papers, or what I see as we stroll. One of the best ocean trips I have had in all my messing around these various oceans, was the one I took away back when I first started out on this trip. It was really in two parts. One leg of it was from the mainland to Honolulu, and the other was from Honolulu to Yokohama on the Empress of Canada.

We had a fine bunch on the Canada. We wasn't out long before we all had kinder got acquainted. I think I wrote you one day about the Ambassador from Brazil who was on his way to his new post in Japan. He had been in Copenhagen, those guys have a great life. He had been for four years in Russia before the big war, then in Austria during the war. Then all over the place, he and his wife and two cute children. They move to Japan just about like we would think of moving across the street.

Then of course we had the old mysterious fellow on there about 76 years old, in this case. Nobody knows where he is going or why. The purser said he makes these trips often. And that one time at the Japanese immigration, they asked him what he was doing, he said he was going to buy ammunition for Manchuria. Well on account of Japan at that time annexing Manchuria that didn't sound so "hot." But these mysterious ones are on every boat I ever saw. I think the lines have em along to keep the passengers amused and in arguments about who and what they are. These one had whiskers, that made him all the harder to dope out. We had quite a few Britishers, and of course saw more dress suits than we had seen in years. When that dinner bugle blows an Englishman is just like a fireman. He jumps for his dress shirt, pumps, and high collar, and he is ready for the blaze. But they look well in em, and you can't blame em much. Maybe if I didn't look like a mule with a lovely horse blanket on, I might be right there within one.

Then there was an old gal from Kansas City, she had prowled these oceans, said she just didn't have anything else to do, that she only had at home her "Negro maid and a dog" and she would get tired looking at em, and have to leave. She knew everybody on the boat or off it. And everybody in Kansas City. Said she met me at Fred Harvey's one night at Kansas City. She was a likable soul. Headed for China, and if the Chinese kidnap her, they will get what's coming to em.

An English capitalist on here, that I had met on the boat one time from Hong Kong to Singapore. He was telling me about the Japanese manufacturing so many different things. He is in the chemicals and medicines, said he thought the British had the asparin trade sewed up, and here low and behold, comes along the Japanese one day and unloosed a mess of asparin. He seemed to think there was nothing that they wasn't doing, and doing pretty good. And away underselling anyone else.

Well what can you do about it? You got to give em credit. We used to do it. Now we can't, so we got no right to holler. Of course it's with low wages, but there is India, you can't get lower wages than they have there, and here the Japanese are underselling the British with cotton goods that they have bought in India, shipped away from there, manufactured at home, then shipped back, and undersold them. Well there must be some economical management in there somewhere, outside of wages, you can't lay it all onto wages. You could eliminate the whole amount of the wage and then they could do it still. So they must just be doing the whole job in a mighty economical way. I doubt if any of their stock in on a market, and if the company managers and directors are getting any big cuts out of it.

Well anyhow that's going into what they call economies, and when you go into that, you have entered the forest without an axe or a light or a compass. You just argue around in circles. The only thing you can go by is results, and the Japanese are getting em now. So that stops all the arguments right there. We don't ever want to even try to compete with their cheap labor. So we have to figure out some other way to cut our costs. Anyhow I don't know anything about it, I just happened to think of it. And I assure you I won't do it again.

Uncertain, Coy and Hard to Please

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

They ain't no reg'lar bath tubs, but me an' John every Sunday strips off, shipboard an' pours buckets of water over each other.

"Yep," said the old boat builder, "brother John an' me is out of the tourist business. We figured, there bein' not much doin' in our own line that we might put up log cabins on the old place for folks to stay in overnight, or maybe a week at a time. Most everybody that's got a piece of ground between here an' Machias does it, an' makes money, so they tell me, but I guess the women folks does the most of the fadin' to it. I thought once that puttin' a boat together so she would ride the water like a duck was quite a leetle trick, but it ain't nawthin' to fixin' up a camp so it will please a woman."

"Bein' mechanics from boys up, buildin' the cabins wasn't no trouble. We just drew along the rud a piece an' see what the shanks that the farmers had built was like; then we come home, got the lumber from town, an' built us five of 'em. There they be now. Take a look at 'em an' tell me if you ever seen anything that could beat 'em for the right draft an' beam. They's everything into 'em. Hot air stoves for chilly weather, pictures of the world's biggest battles that we got out of a history book our grand dad left us when he died an' an' all the tin ware an' chiny things needs to get a meal together with."

"Just to give the place a home like touch, we took a trip around some of the farms an' got some things to put 'em up, like tidies for the chairs an' artificial flowers an' wall mottoes. When we had everything ready an' invitin' we put up a sign: 'Camps, night, day an' weeks if you want 'em' out by the big rud and sure enough right away folks begun to come in."

"But they was a kind of folks that was different from any me an' John had ever see. The first was a woman about sixty with a husband a little older. Before she would even look at one of the camps she began to ask questions of me."

"Are these places clean?" says she.

"They don't look it."

"They're bran new, ma'am. I says. 'Never been lived in.'"

"Are the furnishings adequate?"

"They're the adequatest furnishings money can buy, I says wonderin' what she was talkin' about."

"Very well, I'll look at them."

"I was just thinkin' how pleased an' surprised she'd be, when back she come, hot foot."

"There's no bath in that first cabin," she says. "Have any of them bathin'?"

"Well, no, not exactly."

"Just what do you mean, by not exactly?"

"I mean they ain't no reg'lar bath tubs, but me an' John every Sunday strips off, ship-board fashion an' pours buckets of water over each other. They ain't nothin' like it for givin' you a appetite for breakfast."

"I don't know yet what made the old dame so mad, but she just red-dened up like she'd been insulted, says, 'Come on Henry' to the man, an' off they go to their car."

"I felt pretty low about the business for a while, an' then pretty soon another couple shows up."

"We want a cottage by the shore," says the woman, who was young an' kind of movin' pictur' lookin'."

"Not too near the shore," says the man."

"As close as it can be. What's the use of coming to a place like this if we can't see the river?"

"You won't be able to see the river for the fog in the morning, if you don't take that shack up on the hill."

"Very well. You can go there and I will take the cunning little one by the beach."

"Just as you say. But don't expect me to rescue you if a bear comes snooping around."

"Then what does the girl do but bust out cryin' an' says the feller is a wuss brute than any bear, an' as soon as she can get to a railroad station she is goin' home to her mother. So she hops into the car, an' he climbs after her an' that's all of that."

"It was beginnin' to look as if the business wasn't goin' to go so well when along comes two old ladies chuggin' down the road an' one yells to us if we have a camp empty."

"When she finds we have five of 'em she an' her friend starts to look 'em over, an' by an' by we hear high words about the furnishin'."

"It seems one of 'em was sore because they wasn't no hooked rugs on the floor, an' the other wanted a fire place. They thrashed that out, by an' by decidin' to go back to the first cabin they'd looked at, an' there they got into a dispute about whether the cook stove would draw or not. After ten minutes they decided to find out by lightin' a fire into it. It drew all right, but the old one claimed it only drew because the wind was blowin' down river, an' would smoke like a volcano when the wind shifted."

"Then pretty soon, when they had moved to another cabin we could hear 'em arguin' over why they ever come here at all, an' one of 'em said the other should of come to the place that was recommended to 'em by her Cousin Alec, an' the other said that Cousin Alec was only about three-quarter witted, an' that his trouble seemed to run in the family."

"Then they both of 'em comes out of the house single file an' stalkin' right past us they gets into the car, squabbles a while about who was robbin' to drive, and then up the rud they go."

"It was two days later before anybody else showed up, an' then it was a woman with three daughters, who was pleased with the first cabin, we showed 'em an' real sociable. They was all over the place, makin' friends with the dog an' the cow an' askin' all sorts of questions. They stayed the first night an' would of stayed the second all right if it hadn't turned foggy. It was about midnight when they was a rap on our door an' there was two of the girls standin' there shiverin' but terrible mad."

"Before I had a chance to say anything or ask 'em anythin' the oldest spoke up an' says: 'Why don't you do something about that cow. Listen to the poor thing!'

"I don't hear no cow, I said. 'The only cow we got is in the barn.'

"Well, it's somebody's cow, and we just can't bear to hear it crying that way. You must find out about it at once, or we shall leave."

"Well, I'd heard other fellers in the business say that guests must be pleased at any cost, so I slipped on some cloes an' went out with them. We started down the rud without hearin' nothing, an' then we come up over a little hill an' one of the girls says, 'There she is now, poor dear!'

"Where?" says I, pretty puzzled."

"Right out there. Do you mean to say you don't hear it?"

"Then of a sudden I knew what it was all about. Three miles up the river the fog horn was goin', an' them girls was out on an errand of mercy to get me to put it out of its misery."

"The next day I says to Henry: 'Henry! Tomorrow you an' me is goin' to take down that sign on the rud an' retire from the outdoor business. That feller that said the business is uncertain, coy an' hard to please was smarter than Solomon an' I can't put together.'

Use Tureens for Decoration

Brought Down From China Closet Shelf and Utilized for Decorative and Practical Purposes.

The soup tureen has been relegated for so many years to the highest shelf of the china closet, where it was not even so much as seen, that its return, not alone for its practical use, but as a decorative feature for a dining room is something of a surprise. But such is the fact. This turn of affairs, however, is quite in accord with the reappearance of any style that has been out. It comes back in some new guise, with some different twist, and so has its novel element as one reason for its renaissance. The soup tureen today finds itself in demand for many another dish than soup. What these are will be discussed in another article. Today it is enough to consider the ornamental possibilities of the tureen whatever its substance, silver, china, semi-porcelain, etc.

Soup tureens have always been prominent dishes, large in size, and often beautiful in shape and style. Much artistic ingenuity has been expended in fashioning them to be distinctive, so that they grace a table to perfection. One of the handsomest styles is the octagonal pedestal tureen with its separate standard having an indented place for the base of the spreading stem of the tureen to fit. These standards are not insignificant but large as chop dishes or medium sized platters, as belittles the holder of so conspicuous a thing as a tureen. Oval tureens are next in ornamental value in the regulation shapes. There are fantastic shapes in tureen ensemble wrought in silver which are choice and costly. But whatever the style a soup tureen is a piece of stoneware as it has a pedestal supporting the capacious container, which stem is in one with the tureen itself. It is the standard tray-like portion which is separate frequently, making the ensemble in three parts, standard, tureen, and cover, instead of the more usual two piece tureen of dish and cover.

A soup tureen, now, may be a centerpiece for a dining table during a meal or between meals, and give no other function other than that of ornament. Such a tureen must be decorative of itself. It may be of choice ware without ornamentation save for its beauty of form and tone, or it may be rimmed with a border contrasting in color or having a design on it also. Or again the tureen may be embellished over its entire surface.

When used for a centerpiece during a meal, the tureen may be flanked by two lighted candles, or have four about it. Or vases of flowers may be used instead of the candles, not that either candles or vases are necessary. They are merely attractive adjuncts. When the tureen is minus a separate standard, it may be on a mirror dolly which would reflect the shimmering light of candles or the gay beauty of flowers, if used with the tureen.

Tureens are also used as fruit dishes, in which case, the cover is of course omitted. A bowl may be put in the tureen so that less fruit is needed since only that on top is visible. Occasionally tureens are used for flower holders which may be a delightful purpose if flowers are in profusion in it.

Debunk Tradition; Poets Die Elderly, Say Experts

Another romantic tradition has been debunked by statistics. Poets, instead of dying early, have an average life span. In fact, they usually live as long as do mathematicians. An investigation made by one of the leading life insurance companies has revealed that poets, musicians and mathematicians live to about the same average age. The study included 81 musicians, 75 poets and 82 mathematicians. The average age at death of the poets was 64.05 years; that of the musicians, 62.27, and of the mathematicians, 64.26.

The idea that poets and musicians die young has been engendered perhaps by the early deaths of some famous representatives of these professions, such as Shelley, Keats, Chopin and Schubert.

ADVERTISED BARGAINS

OUR readers should always remember that our community merchants cannot afford to advertise a bargain unless it is a real bargain. They do advertise bargains and such advertising means money saving to the people of the community.

Villages Buried by Sand on Lake Michigan Shore

Giant sand dunes that travel by day and night have overcome and almost obliterated a number of small towns that once dotted the eastern shore of Lake Michigan. At Grand Haven, a few rotting piles are all that is left of the once extensive warehouses, docks and trestles of a railway and steamer terminal. Happy Hollow, the village in a small valley high in the hills back of a terminal where the workers lived, was abandoned half a century ago. Twenty years ago some of the roofs still could be seen, but they are gone now. Mills, camps and docks have disappeared along with villages.

Collegiate Glory

"Are you in favor of coeducation?" "Yes," answered Miss Cayenne. "But I don't think it is to be hoped that girls will ever learn to play football as well as boys."

Don't endure ugly, distressing, freckles and blackheads another minute! Now it's so easy to have a white, clear, flawless complexion. Right before bedtime cream your face and neck with Nadinola Bleaching Cream—no massaging, no rubbing. Then while you sleep, this famous formula begins its magic work. Day after day you see your complexion grow lovelier—ivory-white, satin-smooth, free from freckles, pimples, blackheads, blotches. No disappointments, no long waiting; tested and trusted for over a generation. Money back if not delighted. Get a large box of Nadinola Bleaching Cream at toilet counters, or by mail, postpaid, only $5c. NADINOLA, Box 25, Paris, Tenn.

Stop Chills and Fever!

Rid Your System of Malaria!

Shivering with chills one moment and burning with fever the next—that's one of the effects of Malaria. Unless checked, the disease will do serious harm to your health. Malaria, a blood infection, calls for two things. First, destroying the infection in the blood. Second, building up the blood to overcome the effects of the disease and to fortify against further attack.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic supplies both these effects. It contains tasteless quinine, which kills the infection in the blood, and iron, which enriches and builds up the blood. Chills and fever soon stop and you are restored to health and comfort. For half a century, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic has been seen relief for Malaria. It is just as useful, too, as a general tonic for old and young. Pleasant to take and absolutely harmless. Safe to give children. Get a bottle at any drug store. Now two sizes—50c and $1. The $1 size contains 2½ times as much as the 50c size and gives you 25% more for your money.

SOIL CONSERVATION

Soil Erosion Camps in Emergency Conservation Work in Western Kentucky are busily engaged fighting monsters that have been gnawing at the very vitals of mother earth, namely gullies. These monsters in many instances have been somewhat privileged characters until the advent of the E. C. W. At present the camps engaged in this work are located in the following places: Elizabethtown, Hardinsburg, Murray, Marion, Dixon, Madisonville, Cadiz, Benton and Clinton.

The evolution of gullies usually starts where mother nature has been weakened due to careless and excessive cropping methods, grazing and removal of trees and vegetative cover from the rolling and hill lands. Once they have obtained a start they have little respect as to where they go, how they look, or what they do. The loss to farmers of Kentucky, due to the ravages of Soil Erosion, has been estimated to be over $8,000,000 annually. To the casual observer the above loss is probably little noticed, due mainly to the fact that erosion is so widely scattered and that the marauding tactics are spread over all seasons of the year. Kentucky is throwing into her rivers millions of tons of soil which if concentrated in one county would probably mean the abandonment of this county for agricultural purposes within a period of two years.

Destruction of our farm lands by gullies constitutes a national menace to life and property and to our economic development. The realization of this has caused to be instituted a far reaching program designed to conserve our greatest natural resource—the soil. The first step in the control of gullies as carried on by the Emergency Conservation Work Camps is the replacement of check dams to hold the soil in place, check the runoff of the water, and prevent the deeper cutting of the gully. These dams catch up silt deposits which give favorable conditions for grass and tree growth.

The banks of the gully are then graded down to slopes suitable for the seeding of a cover crop and the planting of trees.

The soil erosion camps in Kentucky, under the supervision of Mr.
W. E. Jackson Jr., State Forester, Kentucky State Forest Service, have now constructed over 20,000 check dams, sloped over 3,000 acres of gully banks, have preparations made to sow over 165,000 pounds of seed this fall and to plant over 10,000,000
trees this coming planting season.
This constitutes a part of the Emergency Conservation work program being done in the reclaiming of gullied lands with the ultimate aim of flood control.

LEADERS OF HOMEMAKERS

in a meeting with home improvement leaders of the Fulton-Hickman Counties Homemakers Clubs at the Cayce high school Monday morning planned the work in home improvement that is to be done in these counties. The lessons will be a review of subjects studied during the past three years and are outlined as follows:

November, Accessories; December
Arrangement; January, Color Schemes;
February, Slip Covers and Chairs; March and April, Kitchens;
May, Pictures; June, Flowers.

Leaders that attended the meeting are: Mrs. Margaret White, Mrs.
John Wright, Mrs. Clarence Caldwell, Mrs. C. L. Drysdale, Mrs. Ed

KY. COTTON ALLOTMENT

The state cotton allotment board at Lexington has been notified by C. A. Cobb, chief of the cotton section of the A. A. A., to warn growers and other persons against illegal transfer and ownership of cotton tax exemption certificates.

After growers have harvested and ginned their crop, they may sell in the county in which they are located any tax exemption certificates which they have left; consign them to the tax exemption certificate pool or hold them for use next year.

Transfers must be made through local assistants in cotton adjustment, and are not to be made from individual to individual without going through the cotton office, except where they are transferred on the same farm.

No one is entitled to possess tax exemption certificates except cotton growers.

Growers desiring to sell certificates should see one of the following adjustment assistants: H. B.
Kirkman, Hickman; Clyde E. Williams, Murray or Jack Johnson, Clinton.

These Folks Own
The Bell Telephone System

It is truthfully said of the Bell Telephone System that it is owned by the public it serves.

Of the more than 800,000
holders of Bell System securities, 381,000 are women, 210,000 of whom are housewives; 90,000
are clerks and sales people;
30,000 are manual laborers;
115,000 are telephone workers.
There are other thousands of doctors, lawyers, farmers and merchants. In fact, people in every walk of life, many of whom are doubtless your neighbors and friends.

Most of these folks are small investors. Eighty per cent
own twenty-five or less shares of stock, while forty per cent of the total own five shares or less. No one owns as much as one-fifth of one per cent of the outstanding stock of the Bell System.

It is this vast army of small investors whose savings have financed the telephone business.
Their savings have been attracted to the telephone industry because of their faith in the integrity of the management, and their confidence in the willingness of the public to pay a price for the service that will allow earnings sufficient to assure the best possible service at all times and to insure the
the business.

Time Lost is Money Lost

It costs money to be sick. You see it directly if your pay envelope is short. You lose out on some important work if you live on a farm or if you are one of the few who are not docked for lost time. You can't afford to show up on the job unless you are feeling fit. The boss wants re-

ALKA-SELTZER

The New Pain Relieving, Alkalizing, Effervescent Tablet.

It is called Alka-Seltzer because it makes a sparkling alkaline drink, and as it contains an analgesic (Acetyl-Salicylate) it first relieves the pain of everyday ailments and then by restoring the alkaline balance corrects the cause when due to excess acid.
Alka-Seltzer is pleasant to take, harmless, non-laxative.

BEELERTON

The faculty and student body of Beelerton High School enjoyed the Shiloh High School annual Fair Friday, October 12.

The high school students entered seven contests and won first place on six and second place on one. The grade students won several prizes and all of their prizes were classified as second places. The Beelerton basketball team started the season by defeating the Shiloh team by the score of 41 to 19. The Beelerton line up was: Marshall, Matheny, Richard Foy, Alton Henderson, Rayford Duke, Coy Matheny, Willard Weatherspoon, Almos Pharis, and Leslie B. Lewis. All eight boys were used in the game.

Friday night Oct. 19, the above

The P. T. A. met at the school building last week and reorganized for this school term. The following officers were elected: V. C. Pharis, President; Richard McAlister, Vice President; Pauline Brown, Secretary; and Alzo Hicks, Treasurer. Albert Bard and Leonard Pharis were the president and vice president of last year. The other officers were re-elected. The P. T. A. was very active under the leadership of Mr. Bard and we are looking forward to another year under the leadership of Mr. Pharis. Our regular meeting date is the first Wednesday night of each month. Everyone is invited to attend.

A large number from this community attended the singing convention at Jackson Chapel Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bostick and son, Benard, and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Presley were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Bostick of near Oakton.

Rev. Morelock filled his regular appointment at Wesley Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bard and daughter spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Binkley.

Mr. and Mrs. James Kimbrell spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Best.

Willard Weatherspoon visited Wayne and Warren Kimbrell Sunday.

Edwin and Martha Evelyn Presley spent the week end with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar McMorris.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Robey were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Murphy of Murray Monday.

James Conley spent Sunday with David Phelps.

Mrs. Arthur Eite and daughter, and Mrs. S. J. Walker spent Monday with Mrs. Dave Barnett near Fulton.

Mrs. Bettie McAlister is very low at this writing.

Mrs. Lowell Weatherspoon spent the week end in Clinton.

Myrtle Henderson was the Sunday guest of Effie Rilla Kimbrell Sunday.

SOCIALS

REV. WARREN HONORED

At the end of the Baptist Choir rehearsal last week a social hour was enjoyed in the choir room, honoring Rev. C. H. Warren and family. They were presented with a lovely silver bowl as a gift of love from the members of the choir.

CHEATHAM-JONES

The wedding of Mrs. Mozell Cheatham of Fulton to Mr. Harry Jones of Union City was solemnized Sunday morning in Fulton with Esq. S. A. McDade officiating. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Boss Jones of Union City.

ATTEND PADUCAH BANQUET

Charles Gregory, Sam Smith, C. A. Boyd Sr., Harry Gordon and Jim Stephenson were in Paducah Thursday night attending a D-X sales meeting of the Mid-Continent Petroleum Co. They attended a banquet given at the Irvin Cobb Hotel in honor of the salesmen present.

TUESDAY NIGHT CLUB

Dr. and Mrs. Seldon Cohn entertained their bridge club Tuesday night at their home on Carr-st. Three tables of club members were present with two visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hornback. At the conclusion of a series of games of progressive bridge high score prizes were presented to Mrs. J. L. Jones and Mr. Charles Binford. At a late hour a delectable salad plate was served.

BRIDGE PARTY

Mrs. Norman Houston was hostess to a bridge party Friday afternoon at her home on Bates-st. Three tables of guests enjoyed games of progressive bridge. At the end of the games Mrs. Fred Lucas held high score and received a prize, Mrs. H. B. Houston, second high, and Mrs. Paul Workman received the travel prize. Late in the afternoon light refreshments were served. Tea guests were Mrs. C. C. Weatherspoon, Mrs. Ernest Heathcott and Mrs. Duley Meacham.

MISS WARREN HONORED

Miss Mary Belle Warren was honored Monday night when Miss Agatha Gayle complimented her with a handkerchief shower at her home on Vine-st. Miss Gayle was assisted by Mrs. Don Gering. She was the recipient of many lovely handkerchiefs. Games and contests furnished much entertainment during the evening. A delicious salad plate was served by the hostess.

Those present were Miss Mary Belle Warren, Miss Katherine Williamson, Mrs. J. A. Humphill, Mrs. James Warren, Mrs. W. E. Frazier, Mrs. Joe Bennett Jr., Mrs. R. Coulter, Mrs. Don Gering, and Miss Gayle.

G. A. MEETING

The G. A.'s of the First Baptist church met Monday afternoon at the home of their sponsor, Mrs. George Winters, with Mrs. T. S. Humphries acting as hostess for the afternoon. Thirteen members were present with one new member, Miss Helen Bizzell. The program was in charge of Miss Lillian Stallings. She was assisted by Misses Luene Humphries, Aneda Gholson, Lucille Edwards, Kathleen Winters, Elaine KeKethum and Dorothy Morris. The program was a very interesting one and songs corresponding with the program were sung.

At the end of the program a social hour was enjoyed. Delicious hot chocolate and wafers were served by the hostess and sponsor.

DINNER PARTY FOR

C. H. WARREN JR.

Honoring C. H. Warren Jr., Miss Janice Puckett entertained Saturday night with a lovely dinner party at her home on Second-st. Four couples were present with one out-of-town visitor, Miss Josephine Thompson of Mayfield, the week end guest of Janice. Placards representing leaves of a memory book were placed at each plate. Every guest wrote advice on how to be successful in his new home on their placard and when put together, a most appreciable memory book was formed. A delicious dinner was served in two courses. Games and contests were played and enjoyed immensely.

Those present were Misses Ann Valentine, Tessie Chenier, Josephine Thompson and the hostess, Miss Puckett; Messrs. Ralph Cantrell, James Leath, Richard Williams and the honoree, C. H. Warren Jr.

HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Frank Marsh and Judith Hill were honored on their birthday Saturday night when Miss Mickle Marsh entertained a number of their friends at her home on Fourth-st. About twenty-two guests enjoyed dancing to the music of a radio for several hours.

Those present were Misses Patricia Robertson of Paducah; Judith Hill, Julia McCampbell, Louise McAnally, Sara Helen Williams, Betty Norris, Sook Weaver, Janice Puckett, Josephine Thompson of Mayfield, Roy Hamby, George Rodenhough of Paducah, Malcolm Hendley, Sneddon Douglas, Myron Weaver, Bill Chenier, Coffman Omar, Herbert Williams, Paris Campbell, Frank Marsh, Mr. Todd of Paducah and the hostess, Miss Marsh.

The dining table was centered with a beautiful birthday cake lighted with eighteen burning candles. Delicious sandwiches and drinks were served.

DAWSON-HUDDESTON

The wedding of Miss Eleanor Dawson of Louisville and Mr. Arch Huddleston Jr., of this city, took place at four o'clock Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Judge and Mrs. Charles I. Dawson. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Peter H. Plome.

The maid of honor was Miss Jean Maxwell Dawson, the bride's sister, and bridesmaids were Misses Martha Giltner of Eminence, Mary Moore Nash of Versailles, Prueilla Steele of Lexington, and Winston Byron of Owensville. Mr. Billy Carr of Fulton was best man.

The ceremony took place in the hall of the home, beautifully decorated in white and green and silver. The improvised altar of palms and ferns was placed in one end decorated with white dahlias and lighted with tall cathedral candles.

At the bride's table, which was decorated with white dahlias and glass candlesticks bearing white tapers, were seated the bride and groom and the members of their wedding party. The dining room was also decorated in white and green and silver.

The bride wore a white satin gown made on princess lines with a V-neckline and long, tight sleeves. The skirt flared into a long train. The tulle veil was adjusted in a cap with orange blossoms.

NOW you can have that electric range you've always wanted. A full-sized range, built more ruggedly—and more beautifully finished—than the most expensive electric ranges of a year or two ago.

The Kentucky Cardinal was designed to fit the times. Kentucky women told what they wanted in an "electric"—and this beautiful, efficient range is our answer.

It has the automatic features Kentucky women want — Built-in Watchman thermostat for direct oven temperature control—speedy Quick-Cook Units — and a most convenient, high, elevated oven which banishes back-breaking bending.

The convenient radio-type dial on the oven top permits oven temperature settings from 200° to 500° Fahrenheit, with easy, quick adjustments as close as 5 degrees.

We urge you to come to our showroom — witness a demonstration of this modern electric range. Our low price, easy terms and our new "2¢ range-step" takes electric cookery out of the luxury class and makes it common-sense thrift.

soms. On the tulle veil was appiqued a veil of lace which has a very romantic history, having been an heirloom in the bride's family for over 100 years. She carried a bouquet of gardenias.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids were beautifully gowned and carried bouquets of Japanese marigolds.

Mrs. Arch Huddleston of Fulton, mother of the bridegroom, wore a black chiffon gown with a shoulder bouquet of gardenias.

The ceremony was followed by a reception, after which the happy couple left on a motor trip to New Orleans and will return to their future home in Fulton.

Those from Fulton attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Arch Huddleston and Mrs. Harry Murphy.

GO TO FLORIDA

Mrs. Thomas L. Shankle and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rhodes of Martin left Wednesday night for Miami, Fla. While there they will attend the American Legion Convention. Enroute to Florida they will stop at many points of interest.

TUESDAY NIGHT CLUB

Miss Mary Swann Bushart was hostess to her bridge club Tuesday night at her home on Third-st. Two tables of club members enjoyed several games of contract. Miss Pauline Thompson received high score prize among the club members, and Mrs. Hendon Wright received guest prize. Late in the evening a delicious salad and tea were served.

JUNIOR SCOUT MEETING

The Junior Troop of the Girl Scouts of Fulton met Thursday night at the Scout Cabin on Vine-st. Twenty-two old members were present with three new members, Mary Norma Weatherpoon, Jean Jolley and Evelyn Hornback. The meeting was from five o'clock until 7:30. Wafers and marshmallows were roasted in the front yard at the cabin. A short business session was held, with the captain, Martha Kendall, presiding, assisted by the lieutenant, Marguerite Butts. Time was spent in teaching the youngsters the color ceremony of saluting the flag. Miss Aneda Huddleston was a visitor for the evening.
