MR. AND MRS. JEFF KETCHAM DIE IN SUPPOSED SUICIDE AGREEMENT HERE LAST NIGHT

SEARCHING PARTY FINDS BODIES AT 7:30 LAST NIGHT

ONE SHOT WAS HEARD IN NEIGHBORHOOD ABOUT 3 P. M.

Evidently victims of a suicide pact, the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Ketcham, each about 40 years of age, were found at 7:30 last night in a wooded tract known as Walnut Woods, a mile north of the city. Mrs. Ketcham had seemingly been dead for several hours, while the husband's body still retained some warmth. Position of the bodies indicated that the wife had knelt before her husband to receive a shot from a shotgun, and had then turned backward. The husband, presumably after some time, fired a load into his own chest by placing the butt of the gun against a tree stump and pulling the trigger with a forced stick. This was the story as reconstructed by officers and helpers who began a search at 5:30 after being told of a note left in the little home where the Ketchams lived. The bodies were about one-half mile from the Middle Road in a section which is thickly wooded, and had to be carried to the road where an ambulance from the Winkfield and Jones Company awaited them to bring them back to the city.

General services for the couple will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the First Baptist church. Rev. C. H. Warren, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will conduct the services, and burial will follow at Fairview Cemetery.

The Ketchams, who lived in Highlands, possibly a mile from where they met their deaths, left the home at about 12:30, according to neighbors who witnessed their departure. It was presumed that Mr. Ketcham was going squirrel hunting, and nothing was thought of it. About three o'clock in the afternoon one shot was heard, but no attention was paid to it, as shots are frequently heard from those woods. Later the two daughters, Maurine and Elaine, aged nine and eleven respectively, came home from school, and found their parents gone. They went to a neighbor's home, Mrs. Buckinham's, and reported that their parents were not at home. Little was thought of it at the time, but when they did not return the neighbors went back to the Ketcham home and after entering found a note which had been left for the children. It was evidently written by the mother, as it was said to have been in a woman's handwriting. It read:

"CHILDREN: We are going to the woods where papa does his squirrel hunting. You will find us there. We want you to be good children. Do not take up bad habits. Keep yourselves under control at all times, and you will have a much happier life than your mother and father. Be good and forgive us for leaving you. MAMA AND PAPA."

After the discovery of the note and learning that the couple had started toward the woods, the neighbors called Mrs. George Hantel, who is a niece of Mr. Ketcham. She at once called Chief of Police Bailey Huddleston, and she started a search at 5:30. Going to the scene he called Jack and "Spud" Edwards and Claud Shelby, who live in that section, to aid him, and they started toward the woods. After a search that lasted until 7:30 the bodies were discovered, lying close together. Mrs. Ketcham's body was drenched from the heavy downpour of rain that had fallen during the afternoon, but Ketcham, who wore a heavy hunting coat, was dry underneath this outer coat. His back was still warm, and

It is believed by investigators that he first killed his wife and waited for some time before killing himself.

Mrs. Ketcham was foreman's clerk at the Illinois Central roundhouse here, but had been laid off a day or two ago. Mrs. Ketcham had recently been released from the state sanitarium at Hopkinsville after treatment for several months. She was said to have been in a very nervous condition for the past few days.

Two other notes were found in the Ketcham home. One was addressed to Ketcham's aunt and the other to Mrs. Ketcham's mother in Lebanon, Tenn. The contents of these notes were not made public.

Clear Norman in Death Case

HEARING HELD YESTERDAY IN DEATH OF M. V. HARRIS

O. E. Norman, American Railway Express cashier, who was arrested November 11 on a charge of involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of M. V. Harris, who was killed by a stray bullet near the express office, was acquitted yesterday afternoon when his case was heard before County Judge McMurray. The hearing developed the fact that there was no certainty that Mr. Harris was killed by a bullet from Norman's weapon, as three persons were known to be firing the same type weapon near the spot where Mr. Harris was killed. It was said that the fact could not be substantiated that Norman's weapon fired the fatal shot.

Million Dollar Show for 50c

THAT IS WHAT IS BEING OFFERED HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

A million dollar show for 50 cents sounds impossible, doesn't it? Yet that is what experts figure the benefit show here Friday night to be, for it is estimated that well over one million dollars will be spent to stage these shows in the 20,000 theaters of the country. This show will be presented at Warner's Grand Friday night, November 20, the proceeds to be turned over to the local relief committee which will handle the unemployed situation here this winter. The tickets are now on sale and cost only 50 cents.

For your part in this movement, it is a nation-wide movement, and some 35,000,000 persons are expected to attend these benefit shows on that night. Let Fulton do her part.

Grandi Meets Hoover Today

"SKY'S THE LIMIT," HE SAYS OF CONFAB'S POSSIBILITIES

Washington, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Lifting Armament business from the world tonight assumed a place of predominant importance in President Hoover's conversations with Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy.

The two statesmen will meet at the White House tomorrow for the first of a series of talks in which they will seek to determine how their nations can best cooperate for the improvement of world conditions.

The foreign minister today described the present as "high time" to carry the world disarmament movement to a "practical result." He made this statement at a conference with newspapermen in the middle of a day devoted to diplomatic formalities and private talks with American officials.

Most Important, He Says
"I think the question of disarmament is the most important existing in the relations between countries," he said. "It is high time for everybody to seek a practical result."

At the outset, the minister expressed his appreciation for the reception America has given him. He said his visit was directed toward peaceful cooperation among the nations with a view to their economic recovery and general welfare.

Asked specifically about the possibility of a French-Italian naval settlement, Grandi said he was hopeful for such an accord. "Italy feels such an agreement would be good. It would be welcomed by everybody in Italy. I have worked for it and I hope for a practical result," he said.

"Sky's The Limit"
In commenting on his hopes for general disarmament, the minister remarked that it was a desire for such a result that prompted his proposal at Geneva for one year's armament holiday.

"The practical result of that truce has been achieved," he said. "If that is achieved it is because all nations and first among them the United States, supported the idea."

TRADE TREND FOR MONTH OF OCTOBER WAS ON UP-GRADE

RESTORED CONFIDENCE SEEN BY A. F. L.; ALL FACTORS ENCOURAGING

Washington, Nov. 17.—(AP)—A favorable October trade balance of $35,000,000 for the United States combined well today with the conclusion of the American Federation of Labor that "business sentiment is distinctly better at present."

Its monthly survey of business conditions, the Federation saw a return of confidence from a month ago when it said "there was on the verge of panic."

"Since then the beginning of organized effort to meet depression problems has steadied the public mind," it said.

The President's call organization to check bank failures has increased confidence at home; conferences between ministers of the leading nations have facilitated measures to deal with world problems and improved world confidence; the President's plan for a fund to liquidate farm real estate investment is hailed as another constructive measure.

Outspoken optimism on the part of legislators returning for the approaching session of Congress continued. Representative Hawley of Oregon, head of the important House Ways and Means Committee in the last Congress, said he saw signs in a trip through the West that business was returning to normal.

Aiding with the trade figures, from the Commerce Department, heavy withdrawals of gold, but that it had been definitely stopped. Not only that, but the flow has reversed itself, a Department authority said.

Reaching its lowest point in years during August when there was an unfavorable trade balance of $1,200,000 the trend changed in September with exports exceeding imports by about $10,000,000. In October, exports approximately $205,000,000 and imports $194,000,000.

The flow aboard of one of the largest cotton crops ever grown was an important reason for the October balance. Shipments were about $25,500,000 over September.

The number of unemployed was estimated at 6,200,000, with November layoffs throwing 600,000 additional persons out of work.

Boy Is Injured By Automobile

ROBERT GROGAN, 14, IS IN CURLIN-NEILL HOSPITAL

Robert Grogan, 14 year old son of Herschel Grogan, received serious injuries yesterday afternoon when struck by a car on Second and Edgington streets. The youth was riding a bicycle, and the accident was said to have been unavoidable. The car that struck the boy was driven by a man from River, Tenn. The injured youth was taken to the Curlin-Neill Hospital, and it was said at noon today that his injuries were not thought to be very serious, although it would be necessary to wait for some time before extent of his injuries could be determined.

LOCAL POSTOFFICE GETS NEW TRUCK

The local postoffice today received a brand new Model A Ford Truck, in lieu of the old Model T which has served so long to deliver the parcel post packages in Fulton. Assistant Postmaster Sugg states that the department is retiring the old Model T's as fast as possible, and replacing them with newer models. The old truck was traded in on the new one, and Sugg says they got a good trade.

800 JAPS KILLED MANY CAPTURED IN CHINESE DRIVE

GENERAL MA REPORTED TO HAVE ROUTED ENEMY ALONG RIVER ZONE

Mukden, Nov. 15.—(Wednesday)—Two thousand Chinese cavalrymen attacked the Japanese position at daybreak today in the Hun River sector below Taitshai.

Reports reaching here said that the clash continued during the morning. The Chinese attacking force is from the Heilongjiang Province army under command of Gen. Ma Chan-Shan.

Casualties were reported to be extremely heavy as the main body of Chinese and Japanese forces were engaged north of Taitshai in the Taitshai area.

Shanghai, Nov. 15.—(Wednesday)—Gen. Ma Chan-Shan was reported in official Chinese advice from Harbin to have routed Japanese forces in the Hun River Zone today, killing 800 Japanese and capturing 200.

Battle of Three Days
The reports said that General Ma's troops scored decisive victories in hostilities which lasted three days and were at their peak Monday when Chinese cavalry and infantry repulsed a strong Japanese attack north of the Hun River and inflicted the casualties.

The entire Japanese force was reported to have been driven eastward.

Barges Seek Low River Rats

FREIGHT WAR INVOLVES STRUGGLE WITH RAILROADS FOR CARGOES

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 17.—A struggle between two major transportation systems, comparative to that which occurred half a century ago when railroads drove the river packet boats from business, is in progress and may result in radical changes in the business methods of the Mississippi Valley.

The contest is between the railroads and the barge lines, who are assisted in a minor way by truck lines from inland cities to river ports.

Economic conditions which cause merchants and business men to attain economies in their business are largely accountable for the struggle.

The barge lines and packet ships always have been a minor contestant for freight in the Mississippi Valley but only recently has this struggle become so apparent.

War Department Hearing

Public attention was attracted to it recently when a hearing was held here by a referee of the War Department. He was asked to determine whether the Government should be permitted to offer a rate on cotton shipments from here and other river ports to New Orleans which would be about half of that offered by the railroads. His report and the decision on the case is expected shortly.

CURLIN-NEILL HOSPITAL

Mrs. J. W. Shepherd, Jr., who has been in the Curlin-Neill hospital for the past few days was able to return to her home in the city this afternoon.

Mrs. John Vanderford who underwent a serious operation recently in the Curlin-Neill hospital, left yesterday afternoon for her home in the city.

John C. Browder of west of town underwent an operation in the Curlin-Neill hospital this week and is doing well.

Heavy Rains Sweep City

WILL BE OF MUCH BENEFIT OVER SECTION

After a long period of dry weather, Fulton was visited by a heavy rain yesterday and last night, and the prospects are for colder weather before tomorrow. It had been several weeks since a real rain fell here, and the downpour yesterday will be worth much to the entire section.

Japanese May Extend North

NEW CLASH WOULD PUT LINES TO TEST, SAYS COMMANDER

General Honjo, Japan's Manchurian commander, told the Associated Press Monday that if a major conflict develops in the Nonni area, he may push his line as far north as Taitshai, Chinese stronghold. Assessing chaos would result if Japan evacuated the general said the next move depended on Gen. Ma Chan-Shan, whose army confronts the Japanese "in a menacing manner."

There is no direct proof that Russia is helping General Ma, General Honjo said, but there is "much reliable evidence" that indirect aid is being furnished.

The council of the league of Nations, meeting in Paris on the day when Japan's evacuation was to have been completed, pressed peace negotiations in private after a brief public session. There was no indication of change in Japan's position.

Ambassador Dawes for the United States took an important part in the private talks. There were reports of a "Dawes plan for Manchuria."

Tokio delivered a note to China saying the League resolution, calling on Japan to evacuate by yesterday had no standing because it was not adopted unanimously. Only Japan voted against it.

PARENTS ARE INDICTED FOR TORTURING CHILD

12-YEAR-OLD GIRL FOUND IMPRISONED IN CLOSET

Washington, Nov. 16.—(AP)—A father and step-mother were indicted today on charges that they "tortured and cruelly beat" 12-year-old Edith Riley.

At liberty on bail since their arrest two weeks ago after Edith was found imprisoned in a windowless closet, Mr. and Mrs. Harry N. Riley have denied the charges.

They told police the little girl was mentally abnormal and it was necessary to confine her at times. Roth said they had refused to send her to an institution, in order that they might care for her at home.

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Governor-elect Faby Laffoon conferred with party leaders at the capital today but made no announcement as to his appointments.

The governor-elect said he had made no decision as to appointments.

Judge Laffoon was accompanied to Frankfort by Mrs. Laffoon and their daughter, Miss Leda Laffoon. They came here from Covington where they visited Judge Laffoon's cousin, Folk Laffoon.

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 17.—(AP)—A three day search for Miss Rose Mary Pamela Gilding, daughter of a London banker, who disappeared from the home of Professor and Mrs. Hamilton C. Mac Dougal in Wellesley, ended here this afternoon. Miss Gilding was located by police officers in a rooming house.

She said that she had become homesick in Wellesley and sought to return to her England home. She had saved a few dollars from her allowance and planned to obtain employment somewhere to earn enough to pay for her steamer passage.

Discovery of the young woman's whereabouts came about through her application for a place as houseworker. The women to whom she applied noticed her likeness to pictures of the missing girl and advised police.

COMMENT

By the Commentator

ENGLAND TO USE TARIFF WEAPON

Two news articles in yesterday's papers, although not directly related, should afford some food for thought.

One article set forth the fact that the Republican party had practically come to the conclusion that higher taxation was necessary to meet the federal deficit which is daily growing more alarming.
The fact that the Republican party,
facing a general election next year, is willing to increase taxation, proves that this country is facing a serious problem. Increasing taxation just before a presidential election has generally been thought suicidal, but Republican leaders have no choice in the matter. They probably believe that increased taxes would do less damage than the tremendous deficit
that must come otherwise.

The other article concerned condition in England, where some form of tariff is now being planned. Unlike the United States, which is firmly committed to high tariff
under the present Republican tariff law, England will not pass a tariff law which is all-embracing. Rather, a few leaders in the Empire
will be empowered to levy a tariff or any articles at any time. As I understand the matter, this tariff
can be laid for a time and then removed, and laid on some other article. Naturally, with such a weapon as this, this country will feel the weight of it heavily, for England has been suffering from the present American tariff law.
While the news article did not specifically so state, I gather that the tariff proposition in England is to be used principally against this country, because our tariff has cut heavily into the English. Nor should the action be construed as unfriendly. It is to be a mere matter of business, and surely it is needed. England has long frowned on tariffs, and the fact that they are coming to it now must mean that they have found it necessary.
I have never blamed the tariff wholly for the present stagnation of world trade, but have believed that it did have quite a lot to do with such a condition. I personally have always leaned to the free trade idea, but when I get to wading around in the tariff question I usually get in water beyond my depth and have to come up for air.
During the last presidential campaign I was rather lost, for on this occasion the Democratic party forgot its ancient doctrine on the tariff question, and one could hardly tell the difference between the two parties on this very important question. I am hoping that a simple, old-fashioned Democrat like myself will get more comfort out of the Democratic platform next year—but I don't know. Things are changing so fast these days
that one hardly knows what to expect next. When you see the party in power agreeing to raise taxes
just before an election, and when you see England preparing to impose a tariff, flexible though it may be, these old-fashioned Democrats don't know what to think.

It was a happy choice, anyway.

greatest in sound or silent. Mod-

Robert Z. Leonard, who makes

Invent Tiny Microphone That Fits Coat Pocket

Engineers have devised a microphone so small that it can be worn on the lapel of a coat or kept concealed in the breast pocket. With this, a speaker can move around freely and yet continue to project his voice through loudspeakers or over the radio. He no longer has to stand directly in back of a stationary microphone.

The new device is connected with its amplifier by a pair of flexible wires. The speaker trails these with him. He can walk as far as he likes as long as he has enough wire.

In developing this system for the Western Electric Company, the Bell Telephone Laboratories had to cut down the rumble of sounds coming from the chest. They provided an electric filter which produces the proper balance between these sounds and the voice.

Sergius P. Grace, well-known lecturer on the marvels of the telephone, has frequently mystified his audiences by using this microphone.
He wears the wires down the inside of his trouser leg. His listeners, hearing his voice coming over the loudspeakers, look in vain for the familiar microphone. The mystery deepens as Mr. Grace walks freely about the platform. Finally, he takes the tiny instrument from his pocket and explains.

Hear Flier Get Orders From Ground While Seeing Him Obey In Mid-Air

For the first time in aviation, spectators at the National Air Races
in Cleveland listened in on instructions radiophoned to a flier while simultaneously seeing him obey. On command, the plane dove, rolled and twisted and ended with an inverted falling leaf from 3,000 feet up.

A novel combination of Western Electric apparatus enabled the announcer to address both crowd and flier. His microphone was connected to the loudspeakers and to a radio transmitter. The plane caught his words on its receiving set.

The photographs show Cy Cast-
well, aviation notable, "phoning up" instructions at the microphone, and Lieutenant "Al" Williams, noted flier, who obeyed the voice from the ground.

at the designated hour of meeting
for the Junior-Senior P. T. A. yesterday afternoon, approximately twenty were present, which emphasizes the value those concerned place on these meetings and the work that is being carried on through this organization.

Mrs. Windsor presided over the meeting and after calling same to order Rev. J. B. Robinson, pastor of the church, conducted a devotional.

The program for the afternoon
consisted of a very forcible discussion of the "Benefit of A School Library" by Miss Marian Wright,
and a reading by Master W. I.
Shupe.

Superintendent Lewis gave an interesting report of the recent ed.

poned.

There will be no regular meeting of the P. T. A. organization in the month of December, the next scheduled meeting being in January.

Pure food, pure milk, pure water—
in all the things you eat or drink,
you want absolute purity.

Purity counts in cigarettes, too

Making cigarettes as pure as they can be made is our business. And it's your business, too—because you smoke them.

All the materials that go into the making of CHESTERFIELD cigarettes are tested again and again by expert research chemists to see that they are absolutely clean and pure. Just like the things you eat or drink.

The tobacco is pure. The right kind—mild, sweet and ripe! Handled throughout by the most modern machinery.

The paper is pure. Clean. White. The best cigarette paper that money can buy.

There is cleanliness in every step of CHESTER-FIELD's manufacture. Old-fashioned methods have been discarded, and CHESTERFIELDS are made and packed in modern sanitary factories where even the air is washed, and changed every four-and-one-half minutes.

Every day more men and women are changing to CHESTERFIELD. And changing for good!
Four big reasons clinch the choice: Milder—
Taste Better—Pure—Satisfy.

Coffee Shows Value in Aviation

Nurse Jean Hessler, diet expert, serves coffee to aviator Beverly Tustin before taking off on a flight from Los Angeles to Seattle.

AVIATORS cannot afford to have jumpy nerves, slow mental reactions and sluggish muscles. Their lives, and the lives of other people, too often depend solely upon their ability to act quickly and surely. And most aviators are coffee-drinkers, which forcefully indicates that coffee is a valuable article in the diet, as psychologists and biologists have often demonstrated.

On two of America's greatest air lines, Western Air Express and the mighty Boeing system, hot coffee is served at airports and also to passengers in the air. A recent survey showed that on these two lines an average of nine out of ten passengers drank hot coffee during flights of 300 miles and over.

Other lines have the same story to tell—coffee is necessary to those who fly. Indeed, the leases of some airports contain a clause stipulating that hot coffee must always be ready when planes are arriving or departing.

No great air expedition within the last four years, with the possible exception of two, has been undertaken without the inclusion of hot coffee in the diet of the long grind. In the Army and Navy, flight surgeons unanimously approve coffee for airmen whenever they want it.

Miss Jean Hessler, dietitian for one of the largest air lines operating in California, has this to say of coffee: "Coffee has a psychological value which is often underestimated by those who deal strictly in calories and vitamins. In reality, it is a valuable tonic, and particularly among fliers who have found it to be of great benefit in the diet. I always prescribe coffee, both for pilots and passengers."

Famous Woman Flyer Is a Housekeeper, Too

HOUSEHOLD secrets of one of the nation's famous married couples will be broadcast to radio listeners when Amelia Earhart Putnam, first woman to fly the Atlantic ocean, is interviewed before a microphone by Miss Winifred Carter in one of her series of interviews with notable women. Tuesday, November 13rd, at 10 A. M. over WEAF and associated NBC stations.
Mrs. Putnam and her husband, George Palmer Putnam, are both adventurers. He has led expeditions into the Arctic, and is the author of several books about his experiences. Mrs. Putnam, in addition to her transatlantic exploit, has flown an autogyro across the continent, and is a leading figure in aviation today.

In her interview with Miss Carter, Mrs. Putnam will demonstrate that she takes housekeeping quite as seriously as she does flying. Among other things, she will tell what the favorite dish of her cuisine-writer husband is and just how it is prepared.

BOOK WEEK

Nation-wide observance of Book Week brings forth a number of "suggestive book lists" on the proper things for boys and girls to read. Many of the titles are new and the authors unfamiliar, but every list has a number of ever popular titles by our earlier American writers, whose books have charmed youngsters of the past generations. Mark Twain's books will always hold a high place in the estimation of boys. Such, for instance, as the "Adventures of Tom Sawyer" and "The Adventure of Huckleberry Finn," with their ripping fun and side-splitting situations.

Books treating on Indian life and early pioneers are often of interest to both boys and girls. James Fenimore Cooper's "Spy" and "The Last of the Mohicans" are always liked by older boys, while younger ones enjoy "In Kentucky with Daniel Boone," "Daniel Boone, Wilderness Scout," "In Texas with David Crockett" and "With Kit Carson in the Rockies," all of which have historical value and are helpful in forming a conception of pioneer life. No boy should miss the fun of reading "Gulliver's Travels" and Defoe's "Robinson Crusoe." Nor should he overlook "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow." All may be enjoyed again, and again.

Girls fall in line with "Rebecca of Sunny Brook Farm" Temple Bailey's "Judy" "Rainbow Gold" and "The Little Colonel" books. Girls often read and enjoy boys' books. Both may be found reading detective stories.

Much encouragement is felt because of the increasing discernment with which children select their reading matter. Book Week finds many youngsters busy reading worthwhile books.

GREAT DREAMS TO DREAM

He who gives a child a book. Gives that child a sweeping look Through its pages.
Down the ages... Gives that child a ship to sail, Where the far adventures hail, Down the sea Of Destiny— Gives that child a vision—wide As the skies where stars abide Anchored in The love of him. Gives that child great dreams to dream. Sunlit ways that glint and gleam, Where the sages Tramp the ages.

THOUGHTS IN BOOKS

Read not to contradict and confute, nor to believe and take for granted, nor to find talk and discourse, but to weigh and consider. Some books are to be tasted, others to be swallowed, and some few to be chewed and digested; that is, some books are to be read only in parts, others to be read, but not curiously, and some few to be read wholly and with diligence and attention.—Bacon.

He hath never fed of the dainties that are bred in a book; he hath not eaten paper, as it were; he hath not drunk ink; his intellect is not replenished; he is only an animal, only sensible in the dullest parts.—Shakespeare.
