Jailer,
GEORGE W. LONG.
Coroner,
DR. PARVIN BELL.

The Governor has signed 65 bills.
The Tennessee peach crop is reported as a failure.

John Bright is earnestly opposed to Gladstone's Land Purchase Bill for the relief of Ireland and considers the terms of purchase intolerable.

Democrats of Christian, go to your voting precincts on Saturday, May 1st, and vote for Grace and Garnett.

Two girls, a quadroon and a mulatto, fought a furious duel with dirk knives at San Angelo, Texas. They stabbed each other repeatedly. At last the mulatto seized the tongue of her fallen foe and cut it out by the roots.

All the street cars in New York save those on two lines stopped last Monday on account of the drivers' strike. The strikers are well organized and beat unmercifully all who attempt to take their places. The New Yorkers walk and black eyes and bloody noses are in fashion.

We hereby nominate James B. Garnett, of Trigg county, for the office of Attorney General. But, as the State election does not come off until 1887, we want to hold him in his present position until then and show by our vote Saturday, May 1st, 1886, how fully we endorse him as Commonwealth's Attorney for this district.

While complaints of dull business are so frequent it is cheering to know that the clearing houses of thirty leading cities of the country report, for the week ending April 17, an increase of more than 17 per cent over the corresponding week of last year. This while the strikes are on. Had it not been for the strikes the increase would have been much greater. The strikers have struck themselves a hard blow.

Since the raid on gambling-houses in Louisville, Jeffersonville, over the river, has been blessed with the opening of six houses devoted to keno and faro, and the town will become the Monaco of the West where fast men and soft snags can lose their cash quickly. A penitentiary is located at the same place which is a great convenience. A good many who enter the gambling-shops as freshmen continue their studies until they bring up at the zebra clothing house.

The Boston Knights of Labor seek the palm for stupidity above all their fellows. They are discussing a proposition to boycott all manufacturers who send their products over the Gould system. They want to instruct the public what railroads to patronize. If the Knights want to bring their order into general derision and contempt, they will try this boycott which would be the extreme of spite and malice, if it were not also the extreme of folly and stupidity.

Of course when the rest of mankind was on a strike, as the phrase is, the school boys in several cities got up a strike of their own. Why not? The child is father of the man and often a great deal more so. The boys of four of the principal public schools in Baltimore struck last week for four hours a day in school. They formed a School Boy Knights of Labor, but did not propose to study by night, and as little by day as possible. The boys posted handbills "boycotting" all boys who did not join the strikers, saying: "Unless you join the four-hour movement and strike on Monday you will be knocked out." Then they nailed up a school gate. Possibly a good many of those little Knights would be glad if they never had to go to school at all. So was this strange world. It is a striking picture.

Grace and Garnett.

The importance of a general attendance of the Democracy of Christian at the polls on the first of May should not be overlooked. While it is true that Hon. James B. Garnett has no contest for Commonwealth's attorney, the great ability with which he has discharged the duties of this office should be recognized by us in a full vote for another term.

For the Circuit Judgeship there are two candidates, Judge Eaves, of Mulenburg and Judge Grace, of Trigg county, the present incumbent. We believe the nomination of Judge Grace to the district is conceded, yet this should not and does not make it any less the duty of the Democracy of Christian county to go to the polls at the primary election and give him their indorsement. His long experience upon the bench in this district, has not only the better fitted him for deciding issues of law, but has given him an intimate knowledge of men in the several counties, whether as litigants, jurors or witnesses and the fairness, impartiality and wisdom of his official acts, is an evidence that such knowledge of men is essential even in the dispensation of justice. In addition to superior talent and acquirements for this office, and these are shown by the almost universal affirmation of his decisions by the Court of Appeals, Judge Grace has special claims upon the Democracy of this district and this county. He was solicited and urged to become a candidate for Judge of the Court of Appeals and also solicited to become a candidate for Judge of the Supreme Court. Either place was within easy reach of him, yet a large majority of the people of the district desired that he should continue to hold his present position as Circuit Judge and in deference to their wishes he declined the nomination which he had so justly earned. Let the Democracy of Christian county turn out in full force on Saturday, May 1st, and give to Grace and Garnett a rousing endorsement.

Co-operation.

It is proposed in various quarters that to avoid future troubles about wages, laborers shall form co-operative companies to run large factories and workshops. The theory looks well but laborers had better be cautious how they commit their fortunes to a ship so uncertain. A few years ago an Englishman travelled through the Southwest to organize co-operative societies among the working classes for manufacturing and trading. He got large amounts of stock paid up in various towns and the "co-ops" as he called them, started off finely. In less than six months every one of them collapsed and closed its doors, and the workmen lost all they had put into the traps set by the Englishman. If twelve "co-ops" are started this year, it is safe to say that eleven of them will turn out utter failures, and the twelfth one a disappointment and vexation, for the plain reason that it is not safe to ride in a buggy which is drawn by a team of twenty horses. The probability is that at least one will take fright and throw the whole team into a panic and smash-up. The only successful co-operative societies in this country are the Shakers who after all are controlled by a few shrewd leaders while the rank and file are passive laborers without a voice in the control of affairs.

Mr. Richard P. Trevellick, the general lecturer for the Knights of Labor, states in the address that he is making through the country that seventeen-twentieths of the laboring population of the country are not thirty days ahead of the she-wolf of hunger. At the same time Mr. George D. Amler, a prominent Knight of Labor of Chicago, was asserting that 410,000 were away from Chicago to the strikers of St. Louis and the Southwest last week, and that as much more would be sent shortly; that $2,000 a day was now going to the strikers, and that the Knights can easily raise $500,000 a month for the strikers if necessary. If these figures are correct labor can not be so badly off as Mr. Trevellick thinks, and if they are correct they show that if the Knights of Labor would let strikes alone for awhile they could soon accumulate capital enough to build railroads and factories of their own all over the country. At the rate of $500,000 a month, a few years of accumulation would give the Knights as much money as Jay Gould commands, and then they could easily buy him out.—Commercial.

It Works Both Ways.

Boycotts have their amusing and unexpected aspects. The widow Gray, a New York baker whom the boycotters tried to ruin, is overrun with customers and making a fortune. The other day a body of Chicago "workmen" began to boycott Lotholtz a butcher. Lotholtz's shop was filled with customers next morning, and the busy butcher declared that any number of new patrons had come to him since the boycott. "We actually have all we can do to fill orders," said he, "and if the boycott continues I think we shall have to rent more commodious quarters."

The New York World says: "About the funniest boycott now going on in the city is that of the Bohemian Bakers' Union against the German bakers in the employ of Widlow Landgraf, of Second street, who bake Bohemian bread as well as German yeast bread. The object is to force Mrs. Landgraf to employ a genuine Bohemian baker to bake her Bohemian bread." What a farce.

The Louisville papers of Monday say that at least ten thousand people witnessed the base-ball game between the Louisville and Cincinnati clubs the day previous. This was a larger crowd than attended services in the largest churches in that city. Louisville should build bigger churches, as people will go somewhere on a bright Palm Sunday.

The Greeks and Turks seem bent on fighting each other with as much fury as they did in the days when Bazaar was charged the Mohammedans in their "guarded tents" at midnight. At the latest dates they were fighting at each other at Skaros II-lights on the plains of Larissa.

The Democracy of Christian county owe it to themselves, to law, order and justice to go to the polls on Saturday, May 1st and vote in full strength for Grace and Garnett.

A dismissed priest made a bloody celebration of Palm Sunday in Spain by shooting the Bishop of Madrid fatally as he was entering the Cathedral to celebrate mass.

The House of Representatives has defeated the bill to establish a bureau of Labor Statistics, to establish a State weather signal service, and to make seduction a felony.

The farm renters at Kidgess, Ireland, do not relish Mr. Gladstone's Land Purchase Bill, which they say is only a plan to pay the land-owners a large sum for unprofitable lands. The renters argue that as they have no capital on which to begin the Gladstone bill falls short of giving relief. The Earl of Beaconsfield has offered a relief measure of his own by reducing his rents from one-tenth to one-fifth, and nearly all his tenants have accepted his terms.

This is an age of reform schemes called out by the wide-spread labor question. Senator Ingalls of Kansas has a pet one which he thinks will be a sovereign balm, in the shape of a bill which provides that no one shall be permitted to hold, own or lease more than 640 acres in the United States. If parties own more they shall sell within three years. If not sold within three years the surplus shall revert to the Government. Aliens are not to be allowed to hold real estate in the United States. They are to sell their lands. Homesteads of 160 acres are to be inalienable for debts. What he would do with people who refuse to keep the farms left them by inheritance he does not say. Multitudes of them flock to the cities and squander their fortunes in a short time. There is no legislation in a republic which will keep rich men from drifting into poverty. That depends entirely on individual prudence.

It is impossible for any man to be perfect and infallible. Mistakes are made and errors committed by men in every vocation in life. It would be strange indeed if Judge Grace, during his official life, had not made mistakes and committed errors. When such occur there is no doubt but justice is done, whether intentional or otherwise. But we venture to assert that no man ever had a less number of such incidents to occur in the same period than is shown by the record of Judge Grace's business in the Court of Appeals and Superior Court of this State. Reasonable men make proper allowances for such and for the differences of opinions between interested parties. A litigant in a late suit at this bar, spoke of Judge Grace's decision in his highest degree, yet he says it is so rare that he commits such errors that he would accept Judge Grace over any man in the district.

The language of some of the speakers and writers on the labor question in the East shows the spirit and purpose of robbers and free-booters instead of honest friends of labor. There is a Workington's Rifle Corps organized in the city of New York which is so full of zeal for the rights of labor that it holds a regular military drill. It proposes to achieve a great reform by force and bloodshed instead of reason and argument. In a recent address the editor of the Volks Zeitung told the Corps to arm themselves at once and prepare for future troubles. He said that rifles were $6 apiece and ammunition was cheap, and the so-called workmen cheered him loudly. It is doubtful if there is one workman in the whole Rifle Corps. Honest laborers do not use nor applaud such infamous language which is a virtual threat to pillage, burn and murder whenever there is a chance for plunder. There are some thirty or forty thousand professional thieves, highwaymen, burglars and pick-pockets in New York who have drifted there from all parts of the world, and the scum and dregs of society. It is these outlaws who propose to fight the battles of American workmen with the weapons of pirates and assassins. All honest men should shun fellowship with these foes of society.

Farm Hints.

An old potato grower says it injures seed potatoes to sprout before planting. Potatoes left in large bins in dark cellars will quickly grow long white sprouts a soon as warm weather comes. All the substance in these shoots must come from the potato, and detracts from the nourishment stored for the young plant when it begins to grow. Second-year sprouts will start from the base after the first are broken off, but they are never as strong as the first. As soon as the buds begin to push on the surface of the potato, they should be put in a light room where the temperature until planting will not be more than 40 or 50 degrees. Buds will start from potatoes thus treated, but they will be green, and with care in planting will be so much start for the crop. In this way early potatoes will be advanced a week or ten days over those planted with seed taken from the potato bin.

Failure of clover seedling on sandy soil is often due to lack of potash. Wood ashes in such cases are quite as helpful to the clover crop as gypsum, and whenever both can be had they should be sown together.

The wool of this year's clip is several millions of pounds less than that of last year, and prices are ridiculously low now. Plant potatoes deep says the National Farmer. By level culture the crop is not nearly so much affected by droughts and that is the natural condition of the potato to grow under the level of the surface and not above it. Every farmer's family should have a bed of asparagus. It is a delicious and healthful vegetable. A bed once set and properly cared for will last for years, and grow better with time. Rows four feet apart are better than narrower and plants two feet apart in the row. With rich soil, as an asparagus bed should always have, the plants will soon occupy the entire room and produce finer shoots than if crowded.

THURSDAY, APRIL 22, 1896.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

I had been settled in Rochester some ten years as a merchant when, as I sat one morning quietly reading the paper in my office the following advertisement met my eye:

ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS REWARD will be paid to any person who can give precise information as to how the late James Smithson met his death on board the William Curtis on the night of the 21st of August, 1894. Address, JACOB SHARPE, Esq., No. 26 Fulton street, New York.

You will wonder why this made me turn pale and sick, but it did, and for this reason: I knew the late James Smithson. I was his fellow-passenger on board the William Curtis, and I was one of the persons who last saw him alive. We were coming from England. I to make my fortune, he to return to his native land, and I had felt for him an instinctive repugnance that I little pains to conceal.

I remember one day after dinner we were sitting in sullen silence over a grog, when a sudden lurch of the vessel sent the scalding fluid out of my glass all over his clothes.

"Curse you," he exclaimed, "you awkward fool—what are you doing? Can't you pour like a man? If you want to vent your spleen, and not throw boiling water over me like a dangle, pour it down your throat!"

I had already begun to explain, but was silent for a little after this attack, and then merely said: "There was no intention to insult or offend, and the occurrence was merely accidental."

"Hang accidents! I've found accidents happen very conveniently sometimes, and you shall pay for this one," he said, and out of this accursed tip. If you are a man—which I doubt—you shall give me a meeting for this, I promise you. I'll try whether you can handle a pistol as well as you can throw glasses, you cowardly Britisher."

"If you use such language to me I'll—"

"Throw another, won't you, plucky bandit!"

"I was maddened beyond all endurance, and I rushed at him and struck him full in the face as he stood up. He fell, and as he rose drew out his pistol and aimed it at me. I stood, and the ball shattered the wine compass in the skylight; he raised the revolver again, but the steward and captain having by this time arrived, the pistol was taken from him."

I explained the circumstances, and the captain at once said that unless we would give our word not to renew the dispute in any way he would put us both under lock and key.

After some little demur we agreed to this.

I went to my state-room and turned in, and determined that I would not again speak to the brute. In the morning I met the captain at breakfast, and he cautioned me in a friendly way against Smithson.

"Mind what you're about; don't give him a chance. He would think no more of dropping you overboard or putting a knife into you than I of cutting this bread. Don't go too near the rail, and see that there is a bit of rope over the side if you go forward; and if you do find yourself a mile away from the quarter—some distance—don't say I didn't warn you. Clear away, steward!"

"Mr. Smithson hasn't set down yet, sir."

"Never mind, he's sleeping, perhaps, clear away."

I went on deck and came down again at dinner time. We were all seated; but it was the chief officer, steward and myself—when we missed Smithson.

"Call Mr. Smithson, steward. We mustn't spoil our dinner with his sulks."

The steward opened his door and came back.

"He's not there, sir."

"Not there? Where is he, then? Has anybody seen him this morning?"

Inquiry was made and no one knew anything about him. The men had been hung forward at about eight bells, but no one had set eyes on him since.

"Where can he be?" said the captain. "He must be in the ship, unless you took my hint the wrong way, and put him out of my way, youngster."

"I can assure you I never left my room until breakfast time this morning, captain."

In a further search we failed to find any trace of the missing man except one. A large brass belaying pin was discovered jammed between the iron that supported the starboard foremast and the vessel's side. It must have been thrown overboard, and by one of those mysterious chances that sometimes occur, lodged it self there. It did not have been put there, for the man who saw it could not reach it without the assistance of two others. It was brought on deck, taken to the cabin and examined. Nothing was found on it; it was as clean as if it had never left the rack. Where did it come from? It was soon found to be one of the spare pins round the foremast rail. The two things looked like foul play. I could not deny it. The steward remembered that Mr. Smithson drank a good deal after I left the cabin the night before, and the man at the wheel thought he seemed a little uneasy, but he lost sight of him as he went forward.

The entries were made in the log, and he went on in his old course, except that he was regarded with a suspicion and mistrust that made me envy the victim or suicide who calmly slept in the sea beneath me.

The voyage ended, the whole story was laid before the authorities at New York, and after a merely formal examination it was told that there was no evidence against me, and I left the place, vowing never willingly to set foot in it again.

It is no wonder, then, that knowing all this, I should be startled to see this advertisement. It had for me the horrible fascination of the snake. I knew that out of me would spring misery and trouble unending, and yet I could not take my eyes off it. The ten years' interval shrank up into a dream time, and the feeling was as if I had but that moment heard the steward's voice. "He's not there, sir." It spelt me for the day. I could do nothing.

I had not long to wait the fulfillment of my prophetic feelings. About a fortnight after the date of the advertisement, I was waited on by an extremely polite person, who said: "I have called to settle this little account of Messrs. Wilson Brothers. Will you give me a receipt?"

I sat at the desk, wrote out the receipt, and signed it; he looked over my shoulder all the time. When I turned the line over my name, and put the dot at the end, he touched me on the shoulder and said: "I thought so. I arrest you for the murder of James Smithson."

"I am—"

"You know I shall have to repeat all you say, so don't say anything. How's business in these parts? It's rather dull in New York."

I was stunned; I made no answer.

"How will you go? Quietly, I suppose, most gentlemen do, but just as you please," and he pulled out a certain page, seemed to have taken this most unusual course because I have at this moment only received from the witness, whom I shall put in the box, a communication which is of the greatest moment to my unhappy client, the prisoner at the bar, and I have to beg that your honor will be pleased to summon the jury—your room—to hear the statement of this witness."

"A most unusual request," said the judge. "We will consult with the other judges in the other courts and let you know," and he left the room.

What could that girl, who sat so silent and so pale, have to do with me? I traced back and thought of every face I had seen, but hers was not there. I had never seen her before.

What a weary time it was. Messengers hurried to and fro; the officer who had arrested me, and had since proved my friend, was everywhere. First he came in with a thick quarto volume, over which my counsel and his junior and the girl looked, and, glancing over it, certain page, seemed quite satisfied and happy; then he pushed up near the witness-box an individual who looked like a well-to-do tradesman. The ushers cried "Pray, silence in the court."

"I have consulted with the other judges, who think that under the circumstances you may recall the jury."

The jury came in, looking, in their surprise, like men wakened out of sleep. "Gentlemen of the jury," said the judge, "the counsel for the defense wishes you to hear a witness who has suddenly presented himself."

"Hear him, your honor."

"Hear him, your honor," said the judge, "the counsel for the defense wishes you to hear a witness who has suddenly presented himself."

We published to-day a short sketch and an excellent one of the late James Richardson, of Paducah.
For Sale—A number one second-hand rockaway, cheap for cash. Call at Fritz Bros. livery stable.
Farmers have been busy engaged at home for the past few days in corn-planting. The ground is in fine condition.
For Sale—A new custom made top buggy and good set of harness. Inquire at this office.
Rev. Montgomery May, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, left yesterday for Owensboro, to attend the regular spring meeting of Louisville Presbytery.

Rev. E. N. Dicken, for a number of years pastor of the old Baptist Church at Paducah, has accepted a call to the Fairview Baptist Church and will enter upon his duties next Sunday.
Jerry Humphreys living near the Trigg county line, lost an $80 cow. He found her hide at a butcher's shop in this city. He traced the matter back and accuses a man named Foley with the theft, who is now in jail awaiting trial.
The meeting at the Christian church still gathers in converts. Tuesday night nine persons made "the good confession." About one hundred and twenty-five persons have united with the various white churches here in the past two months.

I am receiving a large lot of the latest style boys' youths' and men's clothing, for spring wear. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.
M. LIPSTINE.
Policeman Witte and Biggs came upon a three card monte sharp yesterday morning. He hears the euphonious name of Tucker Palmer, and had just succeeded in beating an old crook brother out of $15. The police man him give up the money and drove him out of town.
Mr. J. M. Sauner, Jailor, of McCracken county, was in the city yesterday for the purpose of taking to Paducah Harvey Doty, colored, who was wanted in that city for false swearing. Mr. Sauner says he has been an officer for 30 years and this is the first prisoner who ever escaped from him. Doty is a bad character.

Tuesday night the hospitable home of Mrs. R. C. Thurman was the pleasant scene of a social gathering. A number of gentlemen from this city were in attendance. Dancing, feasting and merry making was the order of the evening. After further but moderate indulgence in the outside whirl the party quietly dispersed to their homes, highly gratified with the pleasure afforded.
Mr. R. B. McKeen, one of the live farmers of Newstead, was in the city yesterday. He reports several dangerous and almost impassable mud-holes on the old dirt road which continue to be an eye-sore and a serious loss to our farmers and warehousemen. The dirt roads of this county are a great institution and furnish a rich theme for newspaper observations, warehouse obligations and farmers' imprecations.

Just received a fine lot of stylish spring goods, which I am going to sell at bottom prices. Gents' clothing and ladies' furnishing goods in all styles. Call and examine my goods and you will purchase.
M. LIPSTINE.
Mr. Clark Sharp, one of our thirty and enterprising brick masons, is building a neat, eight-room brick cottage in Jessup's addition to Hopkinsville. He will erect two more in the same block as soon as brick can be burned. The handsome Seventh Street bridge has made this addition one of the most attractive and convenient residence portions of the city. It is within two squares of main street and will develop with the growth of trade.

We understand that the flowers planted on some of the graves in the cemetery by the hands of loving friends of the dead have been of late plucked and destroyed by wanton visitors. These graves are decorated with love and the flowers should be left to bloom unmolested. There is certainly little reason why strollers and pleasure-seekers should destroy the beauty of our cemetery and these beautiful symbols of affection.
Mr. Tibbs, the Southern Express Agent, like a large majority of his patrons irrespective of party affiliations, affectionately broiled chickens. Knowing his weakness a Cadiz friend sent him the other day a newly hatched Leghorn with four legs, all provided with full-size drumsticks. The excellence of this feathered quadruped for a broiler is a legacy to housekeepers. It can grab the roost with one pair of claws and catch on the eye of the depraved chicken thief with the other pair. Its four spurs would make it a terror in a cock-pit. The Cadiz bird has been placed in the window with Garner's Wild Goose, under whose fostering wings it may perhaps develop a double wing and an extra pair of wings.

The Post Office Robbery.
The news that the Hopkinsville post office had been twice robbed was received by our citizens Monday with great astonishment. For prudential reasons Judge J. I. Landes, and Postmaster Randle requested the news-gatherers of this city to keep the affair quiet for a day or two until the evidence against the party responsible had been fully obtained. Tuesday afternoon we found Mr. Randle at his post of duty, and when asked if he could tell the particulars of the robbery, he said that at last his lips were unsealed, and he was willing to give the information. He said that on the night of April 6th the office was burglarized to the extent of $111.75. The partition at the money order department was the window in the north side of the house in the middle. The thief had raised this window and by prizing the partition a little out of position was enabled to squeeze his body around it and gain a entrance to the interior of the post office. He then picked the lock of the drawer in which the registered letters were kept and abstracted therefrom four letters. Mr. Randle's theory is that he took these letters to some place in the city and, after carefully unsealing them and pecking the contents, he saw carefully resealed them, brought them back and deposited them in the drawer. These letters were directed to the following parties and contained the amounts indicated below: Planters bank, $95; Eugene Mills, $6; Baptist Monitor, $5; Wm. Mason, $10; total $111.75. The morning after the theft occurred Mr. Randle came to the office as usual. The letters were called for and delivered. Soon the parties returned with the information that their letters did not contain the amounts called for. At a moment Mr. Randle saw that a skillful robbery had been committed, and letting the police into the secret they entered at once upon an investigation. They suspected one I. P. Vinson, a former employee of the office. It was soon found that he had been seen with as much as $100 in money. On the morning of April 8th Vinson left the city on the early train. The parties who saw Vinson with the money said that he claimed that a woman of a bad character with whom he had been intimate had given it to him. This did not throw the officers off the track, however, and they still continued their effort to discover his whereabouts. Nothing further was heard of him till April 17th, when a gentleman in this city received a letter from him at Memphis, which letter was shown to Mr. Randle. The work of accumulating evidence went quickly on. The police were on the lookout for anything that might enable them to make out a case. Last Saturday night Vinson arrived in the city on the 9:30 train. During the night policeman Witte saw him at several places and about two o'clock a. m. he met him coming out of the post office. Mr. Witte heard a noise in the office and had started to see what the matter was, when he met Vinson coming out. Vinson appeared nervous and made evasive answers to the questions asked him. He was not seen any more that night, but it was found out that he on the early train Sunday morning.

While Campbell who sleeps in the back room of the office, says that about 2 o'clock he was aroused by some one moving around in the room. The individual had put out the lamp in his (Campbell's) sleeping department and had almost extinguished the lamp in the post office. Campbell jumped out of bed and saw a man trying to open the door. As soon as the fellow saw him rush towards the door, he jumped around the end of the partition and ran out the front door making considerable noise in his exit. It was so dark in the post office that the man could not be recognized. That Sunday morning Mr. Randle was furnished the particulars of the second attempt at burglary, but upon investigation it was discovered that the thief had been frightened off. Before he could secure any money.

Monday morning Mr. Randle received a letter from Vinson post marked Nashville, in which he said "I had secured a permanent situation in Memphis and expressing his regrets that he did not have time Saturday night to see him." The writer had heard that he "Randle" had suspected him of stealing money from the office, which was untrue as he was able to prove." Now "the strange part is Mr. Randle had never told a soul that the money was missing, and Vinson's knowledge of that fact and his gratuitous excuse seems to be strong evidence against him.

Mr. Biggs telegraphed to the chief of police at Memphis to arrest Vinson and an answer was received Monday saying he had been secured. It is probable he will reach this city today. Vinson went into the post office as a postal clerk in September, '84, and left in November, '86. He is a bright young man and was the best recommended of any of the applicants for the position. He attended the public schools here and always led his classes.

This is the evidence against Vinson as detailed to us by Postmaster Randle. A dispatch from Memphis states that Vinson and the woman above mentioned were stopping at one of the leading hotels in that city.

Trouble in Church.
The colored Baptist church at Gordonsville is in trouble. A church meeting was held on Sunday last to select a pastor. There were two candidates in the field, each being supported by factions of the brethren. During the progress of the meeting one brother rose to a "point of discussion." Another brother said his "point" was not well taken. This brought on words and a lively time generally and the meeting adjourned abruptly. One of the good deacons swore out a warrant for the arrest of the warring brethren, and Monday deputy sheriff M. M. Handberg arrested Bob Mason, Charles McNary, Will Hayes, John Hayes, Andrew Rutland and Ned Tolan. They will be tried Saturday.

A special from Clarksville to the Argonaut says: "A remarkable revival of religion seems to be in progress at the Baptist Church. No other instrumentalities are brought into use than the ordinary prayer meetings and Sunday services by Dr. Sears. Eight conversions have resulted lately, and six received the ordinance of baptism Sunday night, witnessed by a crowded house."

County Medical Society.
The County Medical Society held its meeting at Dr. Farleigh's office Monday. There was an average attendance of the members. Dr. J. C. Hascow, of Calcutta, was elected to membership. The announcement was made of the sessions of the McDowell Medical Society to begin at the Y. M. C. A. rooms Wednesday evening.

The following physicians were appointed to present the county society at the coming sessions of the American Association to begin at St. Louis, on the 4th of May: Dr. J. C. Hascow, Dr. H. C. Dolan, Dr. Dennis, Wallace and I. Scammon. The Society is entitled to send only six delegates. These physicians have indicated their purpose to attend. The Secretary read the medical essay of the day; and Dr. Ramsey was appointed Essayist for the next session.

SHILOH'S COUGH and Consumption Cure is sold by us on a guarantee. It cures Consumption. Sold by J. R. Armistead.
New Notes of Travel.
Montgomery, Ky., April 17, 1886.
Editor New Era:
Being absent from home for some days and prevented from sending to you my usual notes of travel, I concluded to send in a not so uninteresting one as I trust will find its way to your readers. I left my home on the first day of April, a pretty spring day, and arrived at Cincinnati, (called the Queen City, the morning after, at 8 a. m. In the midst of the winter storm I have seen this winter and spring I snowed there incessantly for two days and nights. On the third day a warm rain fell and the sun appeared as rapidly as it came. During the first day of this snow it was so very thick that the electric gas lights in all the houses and in many places on the streets, all over the city, were left burning all day. The city being a very dark during the snow storm, I remained three days and visited all the principal places and buildings of interest to House and Post office, County Court House, which has been building for ten years and cost a million of Uncle Sam's money that escaped the ruin of the great fire of March, 1854. I was in the city also on the night of that riot and saw the rioters and the great rival of New York. I saw the greatest rival of New York, and remained three days and nights, and remained three days and nights in the places of amusement and interest to tourists. It is a city of magnificent buildings, requiring the most lavish expenditure of money, and all that is possible for man and money to do is being done and being done. Many buildings are ten and twenty stories high and cost up into the millions. The north-western people, or Yankees, have the post office and the city hall, and when they have capital and money to invest in it. It is in Chicago that every one drives to excel and outstrip his competitor. It is this way from a cart driver to the millionaire. The city has a convention of front on Lake Michigan. The ships here from most any port in the world. Thirty-five grand trunk railroads and five grand trunk lines of the north and western country to draw upon Chicago now controls a world of trade that a few years ago went East. Chicago has no commercial influence. It is the way, while here, I noticed the modern residence of Potter Palmer. He is also owner of the Palmer House, and is a few proof from street to cellar. I also visited Lincoln Park, which is the most beautiful one in the city. It is very large and in full view of the lake. The most popular drive is Michigan Avenue, which runs for several miles along the lake, and Washington street. No street cars or any load-carrying cars or wagons are allowed on these parks to prevent the crowds from driving. While here some snow fell, and the strong winds from the lake made it warm in Kentucky. On the way home after a pleasant trip I received a telegram from the 10th to business again. A letter of local items.
