A. M. Nugent Dies In Franklin, Tenn.

Former Fultonian Was Cashier Of Old Farmers Bank Here; Was Well Known In Community

A. M. Nugent, 65, former Fultonian, died last Saturday morning at his home in Franklin, Tenn., after an illness of several months. Funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon at the Regan Funeral Home there with the Rev. Frank Calhoun, pastor of the Methodist Church officiating. The body was brought back to Fulton, and a short funeral service was held at Hornbeak Funeral Home by Rev. W. E. Michke, pastor of the First Methodist Church of this city. Interment followed at the Palestine cemetery in charge of Hornbeak Funeral Home.

Mr. Nugent leaves his widow, Jean Nichols Nugent; one daughter, Mrs. Jason Moore; three sisters, Mrs. Morgan Davidson of Fulton, Mrs. Foster Butler of Roseburg, Oregon and Mrs. M. J. Browder of Salem, Oregon; one brother, Leslie Nugent of Fulton; four nieces and eight nephews.

Mr. Nugent was the son of the late David Crockett and Frances Pewitt Nugent, and spent his early life in the Palestine community. He attended Kentucky State College, now the University of Kentucky.

On December 29, 1904, he married Miss Jean Nichols and to this union was born one daughter, Mary. For many years Mr. Nugent was connected with Armour & Company, and then was cashier of the Farmers Bank here. In 1935 the family moved to Franklin, Tenn., to make their home, where he operated and owned the Ben Franklin Store.

He was a man of sunny disposition and made friends easily. He was a member of the Methodist Church and the Lions Club at Franklin.

Aged Water Valley Man Takes Own Life

Fires Shotgun Into His Head; Found Dead At Barn. Had Been In Ill Health For Some Time

Brooding over continued ill health is believed to have caused Phillip Wilson Harrington, 71, aged farmer of near Water Valley, to take his own life last Sunday night by firing a shotgun charge into his head. The shot was heard at the barn by the family and when they went to investigate they found him dead as a result of the discharge.

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon at Liberty Baptist Church by the Rev. Bob Covington, with interment in the cemetery there. Mr. Harrington, born April 13, 1875, in Hickman, had resided for many years in Union City and Jordan neighborhood, and was well known in this section.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Mary Lou Harrington of Water Valley; three sons, Ardell of Water Valley, Edward of Hickman, and Howard of Water Valley; four daughters, Mrs. John Pinion and Mrs. James Sanger, of Hickman, and Miss Ruth Harrington of Water Valley; one sister, Mrs. Pleas Hutchinson of State Line.

HOME TOWN THOUGHTS

The person who is a good friend to the home town, finds the home town a good friend to him.

Advertising makes goods cost less, since it increases the volume of goods handled and sold. When more goods are sold the work and overhead costs of selling are about the same, the expense of selling each article is reduced.

The stores of Fulton did a grand job in wartime, in supplying the people through a period of great difficulty. They can be depended upon to keep up this good record, and always to give courteous and intelligent service.

21 NEW FACTORIES

LOCATE IN K. U.
TERRITORY IN 1945

Twenty-one manufacturing or processing plants were established in seventeen communities served by Kentucky Utilities Company during 1945, it has been announced by Washington Reed, vice president. Approximately 2,800 persons will be employed.

"This record is sufficient proof that the business leadership of our Kentucky cities and towns is doing a splendid job of industrial development," Reed commented. "Many of these plants were secured in competition with neighboring states."

"Even so, there is reason to believe greater opportunities lie ahead. If all Kentuckians get behind the development of our state, giving full support to local civic groups, the list of new factories will continue to grow. Small, diversified industries benefit everyone, including the farmers, through the taxes they pay into state and local funds and through increased purchasing power of their pay rolls."

Lexington obtained four new factories during the year and Lebanon two new enterprises. Several of the plants, including a large clothing factory at Somerset, will get into operation sometime in 1946.

The list follows, with the type of product: Carrollton, cheese; Cave City, clothing; Cynthiana, clothing; Dover, shoes; Eubank, toys; Georgetown, pencils; Lancaster, clothing; Lebanon, clothing and stone products; Lexington, auto lamps, filaments, metal trim and water heater; Liberty, seat covers; Marion, creosoted products; Moorehead, tire finishing; Paducah, paper cups; Princeton, concrete blocks; Somerset, clothing; Versailles, shirts; Winchester, clothing.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Spirit" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, February 10, 1946.

The Golden Text is "The Spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God." (I Cor.)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "No man seen God at any time. If we love one another, God dwelleth in us, and his love is perfected in us. Hereby know we that we dwell in him, and he in us, because he hath given us of his Spirit." (I John 4)

YOUR PATRONAGE APPRECIATED

ALL THEY ASKED WAS AN EVEN BREAK

Building a new country was no easy job. But there were men and women willing to tackle it—to turn their backs on the safe and sure way of life and their faces toward new frontiers. All they asked was an even break.

Free enterprise is another way of saying "an even break." Free enterprise is not a political catchword. It's the basic American principle of vision and personal initiative. Just give an American an even break—a chance to get ahead—and he'll go on from there.

But when government goes into business, in competition with its citizens, the American ideal of an even break is destroyed—for government in business enjoys special privileges that are denied the people.

Take the case of government-owned power systems, like TVA. They pay few, if any, taxes; often get money from the U. S. Treasury at little or no interest; make up losses out of the pockets of the taxpayers.

On the other hand, America's business-managed power companies, like Kentucky Utilities Company—owned and operated by millions of folks like you—are on their own. They pay their full share of taxes, and they pay fair interest on any loans.

The same forethought and experience which furnished electric power for a global war will assure America dependable and cheap—electric service for a post-war world. There are still new frontiers in electric living to be opened. And business men can do the job better than bureaucrats.

Mrs. B. G. Lowry and Mrs. Clarence Green went to Fulton Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Carr visited Mr. and Mrs. Pern Grissom Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Yates and son spent Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. John Yates.

Jimmie Allen Lowry spent the week end with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernal Lowry.

ROUTE THREE

P. J. Brann and wife, are the proud parents of an 8 lb. boy born Jan. 29th at the Jones Clinic—he was christened Paul David, both baby and mother are doing fine.

Herbert Butler had an acute attack of appendicitis Wednesday and was operated on in the clinic by Drs. Walters and Jones. He is doing fine at the last report.

Mrs. T. W. Weems has been quite sick the past few days with tonsillitis and sore throat.

Mr. and Mrs. Hester Bennett spent Friday night with J. C. Foster and wife.

Mrs. Susie Bennett, spent the past week with Mrs. Onie Lowry.

Carl Foster, wife and little daughter, Shelby, had a narrow escape on the Fulton and Dukedom highway Saturday. They were hit by a passing car. The truck is smashed up pretty badly, but only a slight injury to the child sustained.

The funeral of Mr. John Terrill was held at Mt. Moriah Friday. He was a member of Sandy Branch church. Cayce Penecost conducted the services.

W. A. Crittendon and wife moved to their new home near Old Bethel church Wednesday.

A miscellaneous shower was given for Marion Jones and wife at their home Monday. Refreshments were served and a nice time was observed by all.

As showers are in order, one is to be given this week for Mr. and Mrs. Theron Jones. The date is not set. Theron is a returned veteran. They will live at what is known at the Jim place 1 mile south of Oak Grove church. They have bought the farm.

Messrs. Grady and Printice Goodrich of near McConnell visited T. W. Weems Wednesday.

Don Starks has been on the sick list most all winter. We hope he is going to feel better when the birds begin to sing with the advance of spring.

Mrs. Belle McClure is at present staying with her daughter, Mrs. W. T. Foster.

E. C. Lowry has in some new groceries—salmon, washing powders that have been so hard to get. Visit him.

Mrs. Edith Yates, Mrs. Ira Raines, Mrs. Alma Lowry and son, Jimmy, Allen, and Mrs. Ella Green spent Friday with Mrs. B. H. Lowry.

Barkley Parrish and wife, Mrs. R. S. Gossom and children, Jerry Wayne and Larry, spent Sunday night with B. H. Lowry and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Powell and daughters of Winchester, Ky., were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Williams and family.

Mr. Pat Campbell has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Williams recently. He spent 18 months in the South Pacific.

Mrs. W. B. Cole, Mrs. Lessie King, and Joe Cole and family were Sunday guests of Andrew Williams and wife.

A commendable half day was spent by T. W. Weems, Jack Foster, Dean Williams, Elmo Foster and J. C. Foster, dragging the roads in these parts. Mr. Flippo is no going to drive over roads where birds refuse to fly over.

The new Brann baby is quite an attraction in these parts, and P. J. is busy, oh me. And what about Grandma?

E. C. Lowry and wife venuted out for an airing recently. Hope it won't make them sick again.

Dean Williams and family spent Saturday night with W. A. Crittendon and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Foster visited Mrs. P. J. Brann and Herbert Newton Saturday at Jones Hospital.

KNOW YOURSELF!

by Ruth Taylor

The one person you can't dodge is yourself. The one criticism you can't dismiss is that of your own self knowledge. The one charge you cannot argue against is that before the bar of your own conscience. The one person you have to live with is yourself.

Know yourself and your capabilities. If you spent as much time and energy trying to live up to what you want to be, as you do putting on a front for the benefit of others, you'd really get somewhere.

In an organization to which I belong, there is one man who knows himself. Everyone looks up to him, for no matter what the circumstances, they know that he will decide according to what he thinks is right for him to do, with the result that he is always fair to others.

There is a great deal of difference between being egotistical and being self-contained—just as great a difference as that between isolationism, which is the egotism of a nation, and self-sufficiency. One is the front, the others a future. Know yourself and live up to yourself. Be yourself. You will feel fear vanishing because you are sure. Be your own master. It isn't easy, but its rewards are great. Therein lies the only real freedom from fear, because the solution to any and all problems lies within one's self.

Find out what you believe and why. Then you won't be swayed by momentary emotion or by unreasoning prejudice. You will be sure and secure, able to go ahead because you know where you are going.

To be self contained, independent and self-reliant is to belong to one's self. It means that you will not need to lean on others or to depend on what they can do for you, or to feel that to get ahead you must push others aside.

And don't be afraid to change your mind. It doesn't make any differences what your opinion has been—get right. The war changed our significance at last. We have begun to see things in their global bounded by where we can drive, nor are our lives bounded by our recreations. We are citizens of a world and that world will be not only what we make it but what we ourselves are.

Know yourself!

The rooster may think he bosses the flock of hens, but they may tell him what to say when he crows. People talk about what is the best perfume. Pop says nothing beats that of pork chops.

The complaint is made that few things are free in this country. But anyway the people get a lot of free advice.

Fear is expressed that some day the brown skin races will overtake the world. Anyway last summer the brown skin girls pretty well overran the summer resorts.

New Paths for Long Distance!

To take care of the continued heavy volume of long distance calls, thousands of miles of long distance circuits are being added to the South's telephone network.

As construction work progresses, calls now sometimes delayed, will begin to find new paths. In the meantime, if your call happens to be delayed, we hope you will understand. We are faced with a big job that will take a lot of time and money to complete. But we are going at it eagerly and efficiently with every resource at our command.

MILK COW NUMBERS SHOW GREATEST GAIN IN SOUTHERN STATES

Southern farmers now keep about twice as many cows as they did at the turn of the century, according to economists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. While dairy farming has increased in the country generally, milk cow numbers have gone up faster in the south.

On the other hand, the economists say, Southern states now have a smaller share of the total number of hogs, beef cattle, and chickens in the United States than they had 45 years ago. Southern farmers raise only about a fourth of the Nation's hogs now, as compared to about a third in the beginning of the century. While beef cattle production has tended upward the country over, there has been no perceptible upward trend in beef cattle numbers in the South.

Silo Simpkins Says

Hard work pays in farming, but guess-work doesn't.

Grade livestock is especially good if it is steadily on the upgrade.

A hungry hen leaves her owner hungry, if he depends upon her for breakfast.

The best gauge of the feed given to a good cow is found in the milk pail.

Not all the eggs of a poultry enterprise are in one basket if hatching eggs are produced.

Maximum unit production at minimum unit is the goal for would-be successful farmers.

Member County Court Adds Praise To Retonga

Pains In Legs Relieved,

Farm Again, Says Magistrate. Discusses Case

W. H. Higginbotham

Well-known men and women continue to come forward with praise for Retonga. One of the latest is Mr. W. H. Higginbotham, Route 4, Winchester, Tennessee, one of the most prominent men in his county. Mr. Higginbotham taught school for 35 years, has taught the same Sunday School Class for over 40 years, Demyer's Drug Store.

is a Magistrate of the 2nd District and Past Master of his Masonic Lodge. Speaking of Retonga he gratefully stated:

"For about a year acid indigestion, sluggish elimination and excruciating pains in my arms and legs gave me no peace. I was almost afraid to eat. I was a slave to laxatives and my head often swam from sluggish elimination until I could hardly get about. The pains in my legs became so severe I was forced to use crutches.

"I finally tried Retonga and the relief it gave me was far beyond anything I expected. My appetite is splendid and I eat anything I want. I discarded the crutches and no longer need harsh laxatives, and back superintending my farm and teaching my Sunday School Class. Retonga is far ahead of anything in my experience."

Retonga is intended to relieve distress due to insufficient flow of digestive juices in the stomach, loss of appetite, Vitamin B-1 deficiency, and constipation. Thous- sands praise it. Accept no substitute. Retonga may be obtained at

A New Year's Message to Farmers and all Pulpwood Workers

FOR THE FIRST TIME in four years the New Year's bells ring out in a peaceful America. A year ago our pulpwood went chiefly into instruments of destruction—smokeless powder, V-boxes, supply parachutes—in fact 100,000 military items.

Today pulpwood is going into plastics, textiles, chemicals, building material to rebuild a shattered world. It is going into paper to help bring broader understanding to all men. It is helping to restore American industry to normal production by supplying packaging for reconversion.

DON'T WASTE PRECIOUS TIME ★ ★ CUT ONLY TOP QUALITY

The loyal efforts of this pulpwood community did much toward winning the war. Now, our job is to maintain the peace.

In order to play its part in the recovery period, this mill must have a continuing flow of pulpwood; which means jobs for returned servicemen and war workers as well as prosperity for all in the community in the new year ahead.

BALANCING THE BUDGET

A considerable difference of opinion has appeared in answer to President Truman's recent statement, in his message to Congress on the "State of the Union," that the nation's budget would be balanced in the coming fiscal year.

Some have criticized the President's estimates on the ground that his calculations won't work out in practice. Others are equally sure that the President is correct and that the budget will be balanced in the fiscal year of 1946-47.

Only time will settle this argument. The most important fact in these "human" differences is shown in the healthy alertness of the American public to matters of national concern.

This alertness also indicates a healthy kind of American thinking—a belief in the fundamental importance of "sound" business management in all things—a kind of thinking that has gone a long way in giving this country the highest standard of living in the world.

The balanced budget idea runs through all of American life. The housewife balances the budget of her household. The farmer has his own budget to balance. And so does every businessman, every worker, every partnership and corporation.

Actually, every phase of American life must meet the tests of the balanced budget. Farmers must meet the nation's food requirements with enough food to give everybody all they need without having a dangerous surplus hanging over. That is true in steel, in automobiles, in sewing machines, and in everything else that goes into production, consumption and distribution.

That is why the current program of expansion taking place in the pulpwood industry is so important. The nation is going to need more paper, paperboard and other pulpwood products during the next twelve months than every before in history, to provide packing and packaging for new peacetime articles, and to provide stationery, business records and all the other paper needs of the American system of free enterprise.

It is for that reason that mills in this area are in such urgent need of more top quality pulpwood NOW.

It is also for that reason that every effort should be made to free the pulp and paper industry place new workers in woods and mill jobs.

Without enough pulp and paper to go around, the budget of American prosperity can't be balanced in 1946.

INDUSTRY AND LAZINESS

It would probably sound like disloyalty to my rearing, but my honest opinion is that we were not at times as we seemed to be. We got up early, of course, we toiled long hours, we talked about work all the time but; down under the surface there was a tendency to keep up the appearance of work sometimes when we were not doing any too much. Certain seasons, naturally were more labor-full than others, such as cutting tobacco. Work got pretty common then. But in the slack days between the busy seasons we pretended to be working our heads off, when half the time we were merely killing time. The hours of daylight just had to be consumed; if there was nothing planned, we made some work anyway. My memory tells me, though, that there were hours upon hours when I bored with time, when I had read and reread all my books, when nobody came in to relieve the monotony. I would have been afraid to say in those days that I was not working hard, for there was no forgiveness for laziness.

Work as such was practically all our religion. On Sunday we sang lustily:

"Must I be carried to the skies
On flowery beds of ease,
While others fought to win the prize,
And sailed through bloody seas?"

Even while we were supposed to be resting from a week's work well done, we sang of toil and planned the next week's duties. Looking back at it all now, I wonder that we did not get more done, for we were eternally at it. I suspect that our religion of work did not necessarily include adequate plans and adequate results. Work itself was good for the soul. Laziness dragged the soul downward; work lifted it upward or at least kept it out of mischief. Wordworth "wise passiveness" had little vogue where I lived. When I strayed away on Sunday afternoons alone in the woods, there were plenty of the neighbors who thought that I must be up to something. When a growing boy walked out book in hand and returned four or five hours later, what more natural than to suspect him of queerness or even mischief? The only other person in our neighborhood who did this was the blacksmith, and nearly everybody felt that he was "tetched in the head." If he was, then I was, too.

The worship of work for its own sake had no better devotees than the family where I boarded when I taught my first rural school, back in 1907. Besides the farm owned by my landlord, he operated two others, for elderly widows. I actually believe that he would have felt disgraced if the sun had shown on him in bed, even on Sunday morning. We rose long before the lark might even have stopped dreaming, we ate breakfast on the longest summer days by coal oil lamp, we ate supper by the same lamp. When the July and August temperature was 100 in the shade the boys of the family and the hired hands were following four-mule plows through waist high ragweeds, breaking wheat ground. In spite of the fact that the work was so severe that men and mules alike almost succumbed neither group was allowed sufficient sleep and rest at night. "Up and at it" seemed to be the man's motto. He drove himself, his hired hands, and his entire family as if all were in Purgatory and killing work alone would get them out. I hardly need to say that the poor wife was always sick and under a doctor's cure. She could not figure out what could ail her, for she was a rather young woman and strong as an ox. It never occurred to her to question the four-o'clock breakfast and the nine-o'clock supper. When she washed dishes or cooked breakfast I never knew, for I was asleep between those two times. In fact, after I ate my four-o'clock breakfast, I returned to my room and slept two or more hours before starting a mile or more across the field to my school. I know now that the boys and the hired hands, and I hope the mules, took every possible opportunity to rest in the shade while their grilling work went on. I hope that the landlord never knew this, for he would not be happy in death if he learned that the clock-work schedule that he worshiped had enemies right in court. Nearly forty years after, I am wondering just what good came of it at last," in Southerly's words. A little less labor for its own sake might have saved his wife from an early death, might have made his boys love farm life enough to remain where they were reared, might have brought a little more ease of manner and less military tenseness to a family that was potentially the very salt of the earth.

HOME COMING VETERANS

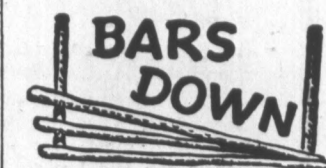

Eager hearts of returning servicemen are sailing across the great oceans. They look at the endless rolling billows and think with joy that each day's run brings them nearer home. As their vessels approach our shores, they star in their eyes, hoping for the first glimpse of the dim coastline through the misty air.

It is with a thrill of happiness that they land on the dock of some American city, and tread again the fortunate soil of America. There's a rush for the telephones to talk with the home folks. The familiar voices make a very sweet sound.

The happiness felt by these men and their loved ones when they meet goes beyond description. It is like a gorgeous feast for the home folks to see the beloved face again. One can only hope that life in our country will measure up to the expectations of the returning men, and that they return to the experiences and struggles of civilian life.

Even if the home burg is a simple sort of place, it will seem a good deal like heaven to one who has been through the desolations of Europe and the coarse life of primitive Pacific people. He will bless God for America. Even plain and homely scenes will seem full of happiness and opportunity.

The UAW-CIO strike against General Motors, steel strike and continued labor unrest in other segments of labor is getting the country in a mess and rushing the day when there will be an accounting, for the laws of Nature are not influenced by labor leaders or government.

Brotherly love, and the so-called peace we were going to have ever so fast, seem to be wishful thinking. Selfishness, money the root of all evil, and power and more power, have taken precedence over everything else from Capitol Hill in Washington down through the ranks of organized labor.

Many people who have been working in metropolitan centers are coming back to the rest and quiet and peace of "home." They are weary of the labor strife, and the dictatorial powers of labor leaders who call strikes and make hundreds of thousands without an income.

Take the automotive industry alone—it generates 7,000,000 jobs or one out of every seven in the country. There's much more to making cars, parts and accessories. It takes 1,500,000 men to sell and service cars.

It takes nearly 4,000,000 men to drive trucks and buses.

It takes another 250,000 to build and maintain highways.

And even more people—run the tourist homes, motor courts, roadside stands and markets, enterprises whose existence depends upon the auto. The auto industry stimulates and benefits factories, farms and mines throughout the country. Automobiles use 75 per cent of all plate glass, four-fifths of all the rubber produced and 18 per cent of all the steel.

GM workers alone lose nearly $9,000,000 in wages every week, and the whole national economy is thrown out of gear. Despite the fact that war is over, and price on everything must be held down or we are heading for serious trouble, labor leaders demand 30 per cent wage increase or else. Meantime the country is crying out for more production.

Trend in our national government has much to do with the ills we face today. The huge national debt is demanding the highest taxation. While more taxes are needed to keep a lopsided bureaucratic government operating, the people faced with constantly rising living costs, are crying out for more money to pay off these taxes heaped on them, and to live in the style that war-inflated wages have encouraged.

It is a vicious cycle. The more we earn, the more taxes we pay, and the higher goes our costs of living—the things we buy. Wages cannot go up, and prices of merchandise stay down. The planned economy that started with the New Deal, is now starting to face the woes and difficulties of a national economy thrown out of gear. The law of production and demand is taking over whether the social-minded planners in Washington want it that way or not.

The quickest way to bring a readjustment of our national economy is for us to turn back to the ways that we once knew—turn loose the producers of the nation in factories and on the farm, and let them really produce. As long as there is such shortage of merchandise, food and clothing throughout the world, the cost of everything will continue to rise.

The planners cannot hold the line, and they are kidding themselves (and the people) when by false propaganda they succeed in staying in power to bring us closer and closer to the brink of national disaster.

The people themselves must speak and act for their own good. The time will come when the workers and earners will rebel against these false prophets—both in our national government and in the ranks of labor. It may take hunger, want or even national catastrophe, to bring the people to the boiling point. But it will come in one way or another—and the old order will be thrown out.

This change may be accomplished at the polls, or conditions may become so desperate that there will be widespread bloodshed right here in America—while the Communists and other foreign groups laugh up their sleeves.

PREPARE HOUSING FOR BABY CHICKS

To avoid a housing problem for baby chicks, start a week or 10 days before their arrival to have all in readiness, advise poultry experts at the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics. In Circular 157, "Brooding Chicks," these points are made:

1. If the brooder house has been used before, it should be thoroughly cleaned by sweeping the walls and ceiling, scraping the floor, scrubbing the walls and floor with hot-lye water, using one ounce of lye to a gallon of boiling water, and spraying the house and equipment with a good disinfectant, such as a 5-percent solution of a cresol compound. Dry the house thoroughly by operating the stove.

2. Cover the dry floor with a dry litter of straw, alfalfa leaves, crushed corn cobs, shavings, oat hulls, shredded corn stover or any litter that is clean and not musty.

3. Keep the fire burning in the brooder house two or three days before the chicks arrive, regulating the edge of the hover in a canopy-type brooder. If a brick or barrel brooder is used, check the temperature one inch off the floor and about 8 to 10 inches from the brooder.

4. Place chicks in the brooder house as soon as they are received feeding them immediately. Keep feed and water before them at all times.

5. Change litter when it becomes wet or dirty. Use plenty of litter, adding a fresh supply from time to time.

6. Should chicks crowd to the stove, they are too cool; if they crowd to the wall of the house, they are too warm.

Copies of Circular 157, "Brooding Chicks," may be had from offices of county or home agents, or from the college, Lexington.

GOOD FARM INCOME FOR BETTER LIVING TOPS POSTWAR AIMS

Maximum Unit Production At Minimum Unit Cost Is Keynote Of Peacetime Agriculture, Dean Brehm Says

Tennessee farm families, released from the pressure of all-out wartime production, will be urged to keep incomes at a fair level through efficient production, and to use increased incomes and savings for better living, it was agreed at the annual conference of Agricultural Extension workers in Memphis, January 14-18.

It was pointed out that an increase of more than 30 percent in farm products during the war gave little opportunity for soil building and conservation, or for the improvement of homes.

The keynote of postwar agriculture in Tennessee was sounded by Dean and Director C. E. Brehm, who said that the program must be based on "maximum unit production at minimum unit cost." Following are some points in the post-war agricultural program which will be promoted by county farm and home agents in cooperation with local leaders in every community of the State:

Encourage more efficient production through use of good farm management practices, with proper balance of enterprises adjusting to the farm as a unit, to provide increased income to be used for better living.

Promote soil conservation practices—winter cover crops, terracing, contour farming and other approved methods—to enable farmers to secure maximum crop yields with a minimum loss of soil fertility.

Expand and develop the dairy industry on a sound basis to meet the demands of an increasing population resulting from industrial development in the State.

Expand vegetable and fruit production in industrial areas where soil and climate are suitable, with special attention to strawberries, sweet potatoes and beans, in conjunction with development of canning, quick freeze plants and other market facilities for handling the crops when produced.

Livestock Adjustment
Adjust livestock production to the farm as a unit, when change in feeding practices to more dependence on grass, roughages and small grains as backbone of industry. Stress pasture fertilization, and sanitation and disease control.

Expand rural electrification to every farm home in the State as rapidly as possible as a base for rural home improvement and as a source of power for home conveniences and efficient production, conservation and processing of farm products.

Advise and guide farmers in the use, care and repair of more and better farm machinery, including power equipment for more economic and efficient production and harvesting of crops.

Aid in developing better marketing and purchasing facilities for farmers to reduce transportation, distribution and handling costs, and, thereby increase farm returns.

Expand home demonstration work to reach every rural family in the State with the best information available on foods, nutrition, and health, gardening, poultry, canning, clothing and home improvement, including special assistance in the planning of homes and other farm buildings for attractiveness and convenience.

Expand and strengthen 4-H Club work, in every community for the raising of boys and girls in improved farm and home practices, and, for leadership and citizenship as the future farmers and rural homemakers of the State.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

For the special desserts called for by February holidays, the shelf of home canned fruits will come in handy. Although cherries, strawberries and red raspberries might be first choice in this steamed fruit pudding suggested by Miss Florence Imlay, food specialist at the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics, other fruits may be used.

A secret in making this muffin is to work quickly and stir only until the flour is dampened. Over-mixing will make tunnels.

Steamed Cheery Pudding

- 1-2 cups canned cherries
- 1-2 cup corn syrup
- 1 cup flour
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 2 tablespoons baking powder
- 2 tablespoons melted butter
- 3-4 teaspoon salt
- 1-4 teaspoon salt
- 1 egg

Mix the sifted flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Make a well in the center of the dry ingredients and pour into it the beaten egg, milk and melted butter which have been mixed together. Stir rapidly until flour is dampened.

Combine cherries and syrup. Put one fourth cup of the fruit mixture in a buttered, deep custard cup or individual baking dish. Cover with a tablespoonful of the batter. Set baking dishes on a rack in a saucepan with boiling water extending about one third of the way up. Cover tightly and steam for 15 minutes without lifting the cover. Turn pudding into serving dish and serve with cream.

Menu: Beef roast, oven browned potatoes, baked carrots, tomato aspic salad, hot rolls, butter, and cherry pudding with cream.

As long as the federal government continues to finance its needs by heavy borrowing, directly or indirectly from the banks, it will increase the amount of money in circulation and the amount of new bank credit. This pours a constant stream of excess purchasing power into the economy, lowers the value of the monetary unit, and increases the upward pressure on prices and wages.

ridge to Wilson Cannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Cannon of Fulton, Route 3.

The double-ring ceremony was solemnized February 2 at eleven o'clock in the home of Rev. Harold Watson of Murray, with Bro. Watson officiating. The only attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Leon Faulkner, the latter being a sister of the groom.

The bride was attired in abeige gabardine suit with brown accessories. Her corsage was talisman roses.

Mrs. Faulkner chose black with black accessories, and she wore a corsage of red rosebuds.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held for the bridal party and the immediate family at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Winston. The bride's table held a three-tiered wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and groom.

Mrs. Cannon was graduated from Pilot Oak High School in 1941.

Mr. Cannon is a graduate of South Fulton High School, and served 23 months in the South Pacific. The popular young couple is well known in this vicinity, and have many friends who will wish them much happiness.

Mrs. Cannon was society editor of The Fulton County News for two years, prior to going to Detroit with her parents to take up war work.

On the index basis of 100 for 1926, the so-called "normal" year operating costs of American automobiles had declined to 50, or half by 1939.
