THE LISTENING POST

TALES FROM "INFORMATION"

(Selected)

My voluntary war work takes me every morning to the London Information Bureau of the New Zealand Forces Club in Charing Cross Road. Although most of the men who come to me are New Zealanders, there are others from such widely separated places as Bengal and Brazil, Jamaica and Malaya, Sydney and the Outer Hebrides.

It was a man from rugged, isolated Barra who confided a Gaelic dictionary to my care, remarking that, although he had been to the University at St. Andrews, there were many words for which he did know the English translation.

Although demands for accommodation, bus routes, train times and entertainments are everyday queries, many of the men have other needs. There are buttons and badges to be sewed on, gloves to be mended, or ribbons that tell of heroism, to be stitched in place.

A red-bearded man leaned over the desk. "I'm not a New Zealander," he said, "but perhaps you will help me. I'm getting married in a few weeks' time and have made all arrangements at the church, but meanwhile I must have an address in the parish. May I use this club and leave a small suitcase?"

"How do you spell McCorkquodale?" asked a man, looking up from writing.

"This'll stump you," said another, putting down a small envelope. "I looked—a—nd I've broken the key." Our spare keys had long since gone for salvage—but no, we were not "stumped" for presently the lock yielded to the turn of a borrowed key.

Then a soft sing-song Welsh voice came lifting over the desk. It was from a little Welsh girl and she asked an unexpected question. "Con you tell me, please, where I can find the London headquarters for training peck mules and peck horses?"

"Have you a telegram for me?" It was a very youthful "Sub" who eagerly ripped open the yellow envelop. With a joyous yelp he leaped across the high desk, implanted a hastily salute on my astonished cheek, and dashed from the club.

A little bunch of men wearing khaki and the familiar wide-brimmed hats with dented crowns, entered. On their shoulders was the white shield of the crusaders. They were "Monty's Men"—"Desert Rats" from the Middle East and they kept together as if conscious that the years in sun and wind and sand which had lined and aged and yet strangely ennobled their faces, had set them apart as strangers among their fellow men. They wanted directions in this land which all New Zealanders call "home."

"Have you seen the Illustrated London News?" asked an old friend. "No? Well, I'm in it!" With a shy smile on his youthful face and a manner that was almost off-hand in his desire not to appear too eager, he found the page on which was a photograph of the crew of a returned bomber seated round a table, while he, as captain, read the report.

CARD OF THANKS

Although words cannot express my appreciation to the good friends and neighbors for the kindness shown me in my hour of sorrow, may I say thank you. Especially to all for the beautiful floral offerings, to Bro. Mischke for his consoling words, to the choir for the beautiful hymns, to the Hornbeck Funeral Home for their kind service, and to everyone. May God bless you when sorrow comes to your home.

Carrier Raid On Truk Sinks Nineteen Ships And Destroys More Than 200 Planes In 2 Days

All Air Defenses Seemingly Knocked Out By Stunning Blow

Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor.—U. S. carrier planes sank at least nineteen ships, probably sank seven more, destroyed 201 enemy planes and damaged fifty others in a two-day attack on the Japanese Truk Islands naval base, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

Only One of Our Ships Damaged—Our losses were seventeen planes lost and one ship "moderately damaged."

"The Pacific Fleet has returned at Truk the visit made by the Japanese on December 7, 1941, and effected a partial settlement of the debt," Nimitz said at the beginning of the triumphant communique.

The Japanese air defenses were knocked out of existence and offered no opposition whatever on the second day.

The carrier task force which carried the Pacific offensive to a base 2,100 miles south of Tokyo shot down 127 Japanese planes and destroyed seventy-four on ground. More than fifty additional planes were damaged on the ground.

Shore facilities on the principal islands, including airfield runways and installations, were thoroughly bombed and strafed, the communique added.

Admiral Raymond A. Spruance commanded the operation and Admiral Marc A. Mitscher, former captain of the carrier Hornet, which raided Tokyo, directed the carrier attack on Truk.

Admiral Mitscher's force remained within 200 miles or less of Truk for two days, which probably means each of our torpedo planes and dive bombers and fighters made three and possibly four runs over their targets.

Some fighters necessarily had to be held out of the attack to protect our surface force against possible enemy aerial action.

FOODSTUFFS MAY BE POLITICAL HOTBED

Washington.—Vast reserve stocks of food accumulated for emergency war purposes may become a political and economic hot potato this election year for those charged with the responsibility of allocating the nation's food supply.

It appears clear today that officials of the War Food Administration fully recognize the situation. They realize that every move relating to the distribution of food, particularly supplies from the emergency reserve, will be subject to close scrutiny for any possible effect on the November election.

They know, too, that the food trade will be watching closely for a clue as to whether the war may end with price-depressing stocks over-hanging the markets.

Low Production Farmers To Be Called In Draft As Manpower Shows Decrease

Washington.—Selective Service decreed today that draft-age farmers who are not contributing their full share to 1944 crop production shall be made available for military service.

Local boards, which are running far behind in meeting over-all quotas for the draft, were directed immediately to reopen the cases of some 1,700,000 men in the two farm classifications which have permitted deferment.

Draft Director Lewis B. Hershey linked this announcement at a press conference today to the fact that only about 200,000 men, including 60,000 to 70,000 pre-war fathers, were inducted in January. The aim had been 300,000.

Somewhat offsetting this picture of draft shortage, Secretary of War Simonson disclosed at his press conference that the Army is now approaching its planned maximum of

SNELL SHORTAGE DID NOT BOTHER THIS CRACK SHOT

Pfc. Penn Shotgun shells are scarcer than German victories so when Gifford Nielsen, steady type for the Edge Dispatch-Herald, bagged five rabbits with one shot, everybody said, "how!"

"Easy," explained Nielsen. "I find at them and missed. The noise frightened them and they dashed into the nearest hole. I smoked them out, catching them alive, one by one, as they emerged."

LOCAL GIRL NAMED EDITOR "LANTERN"

The following article was taken from the Lambuth "Messenger" and is of interest to Fultonians: The staff of the college annual, "The Lantern," has finally been completed with the appointment of Caroleen Gardner of Fulton, Ky., as Editor-In-Chief, and Nell Faust Gallagher of Jackson as business manager, Helen Gilbert of Obion, Tenn., as assistant editor.

The appointments were made much later than usual on account of the recent resignation of Nancy McMillan, Editor-In-Chief, and the heavy schedules during the spring quarter.

This Annual will be smaller than usual but the staff expects to make up for it by a higher quality of workmanship.

The editor, Miss Gardner, is in an especially favorable position to obtain good results since her parents operate the studio which has made the photographs for the book for several years.

Owing to the war conditions it is extremely difficult to finance the "Lantern" and the seniors are to be congratulated for their decision to continue it. Although the usual sources of revenue have been greatly curtailed, all the members of the class feel that the satisfaction of having a book of college memories during their later life was worth the extra trouble and expense which they might be put to now.

Miss Gardner is a senior at Lambuth this year.

Mr. Thomas, business manager of the college, stated that the present annual staff has done more work in a week getting the year planned and a working schedule made out than had been done before in a month.

Pfc. John W. Reed, Veteran Of Tarawa And Guadalcanal Is Happy To Be Back Home

Pfc. John M. Reed, United States Marine Corps, was all smiles last night at the Fulton Service Center, as he awaited transportation to go to his home near Latham, Tenn., for his first visit home in three years, and it was obvious that the U. S. A. looked pretty good to him after eighteen months in the South Pacific War Zone. He arrived on an early train here last night, and had to catch a ride home with a neighbor, so he dropped in the local Service Center for a cup of coffee, while he waited.

It took lots of questioning to find that Pfc. Reed had been through the Guadalcanal campaign, was at New Zealand for a time, and later was in the "thick of the fight" at Tarawa, where he was wounded. He was sent back to the States, where he arrived on December 28th, and has been in a hospital at Oakland, Calif., since that time, and after a thirty-day furlough to be spent with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Reed, at Latham, Tenn., he will be transferred to a hospital at Millington, Tenn.

He has evidently seen considerable action during his service with the Marines, for he had received a Presidential Citation, the Purple Heart, and he wore three major battle stars.

The Marine seemed reticent to tell of his experiences in the war theater, and was much more anxious to hear of the home town news. "Eighteen months overseas, and home looks awfully good to you", he said.

His parents were not expecting him last night and as he left the Center, he grinned as he said, "I bet mom will be awfully surprised when I wake her up tonight."

3 Subs Sunk Trying To Slip Past Gibraltar

Pack Fails To Reach Anzio Beachhead In Italy

London.—British planes and warships destroyed three enemy submarines and damaged several others in a pack which attempted unsuccessfully for seven days to slip past Gibraltar into the Mediterranean, the Admiralty said today.

Apparently the U-boats were trying to slip through to harry Allied shipping around Anzio, Italy. Allied headquarters said some submarines already were active there and the Germans have claimed sinkings of transports and warships at or near the beachhead.

PRODUCTION OF HEAVY TIRES IS TIGHTENED

Dewey Acts To Ease Severe Shortage In Nation

Washington.—Tightened controls on manufacture of heavy tires for trucks, buses, trailers and farm implements were announced today by Rubber Director Bradley Dewey, acting to alleviate a severe shortage of heavy-duty tires for both military and industrial transport.

New regulations require the War and Navy Departments for military tires, the War Food Administration for farm tires, and the Office of Defense Transportation for civilian truck and bus tires—to submit estimates of their needs for each three-month period to the Office of the Rubber Director.

To Allocate Tires—Dewey will allocate tire quotas to the agencies in much the way that the War Production Board allocates critical metals to them. Immediately afterward, Dewey will issue a directive to each tire manufacturer giving him a production schedule covering all the types of tires he will produce.

The first allocation and directives will be issued for the second quarter of the year, starting April 1.

Schedules "Frozen"—These production schedules will be considered "frozen." Tire producers may not depart from them even if later orders come in having a higher priority rating.

The effect, said Dewey, will be to insure maximum planned output by the rubber industry.

So far as the ultimate civilian customers for the tires are concerned, there will be no changes in the procedure previously followed for obtaining tires. Passenger car tires are not covered by the plan.

Enemy Flank Smashed By U. S. Armor

Dazed Foe Is Driven Back By Heavy Tank Attacks

Allied Headquarters, Naples.—The Allied defense has turned the Second German all-out drive against the Anzio beachhead into a costly failure and tonight the enemy was reported retreating back in disorganization under powerful Allied counterblows.

American armored columns smashed into the German flank and have driven two miles toward Carroceto.

Planes Swarmed Over Beachhead—Allied and Axis aircraft swarmed above the beachhead, attacking opposing lines and opposing squadrons in maneuvers that were approaching record proportions until worsening weather limited their operations.

Allied aircraft aloft ranged from Flying Fortresses to Cubs, German strength was equally evident, with packs of thirty to forty or more enemy planes cutting into the crowded sky lanes.

The tide of battle has turned, and "the beachhead was never more secure than today"—the date reportedly set by the Germans for its extinction—Associated Press correspondent Daniel De Luce said in a front dispatch written at 12:30 p. m. today.

The mauled Germans relaxed the initiative, he declared, and the U. S. armored thrusts, biting into the eastern flank of the Nazi salient gained "as much as three kilometers (two miles) in the direction of Carroceto." These blows by tanks and infantry began at 6:30 a. m. Saturday, and continued today.

MRS. AUTREY'S BROTHER IS GERMAN PRISONER OF WAR

The brother of Mrs. E. A. Autrey, former Fulton woman, who was reportedly missing in action, is now a prisoner of war in Germany, according to a message received here this week. Mrs. Autrey is the wife of Chaplain E. A. Autrey of Chanute Field, Ill.

Reich Hard Hit By Heavy Bombers Of U. S. Eighth Air Force In Blows At Plane Plants

More Than One Thousand Bombers Try To Raze Factories

POLICE CHASE STEAKS, CHOPS ALL OVER BRIDGE

East St. Louis, Ill.—Ration points ran wild on the MacArthur Bridge here recently when twelve chubby pigs and ten wild-eyed steers scattered from an overturned trailer.

Exasperated police played tag with the prospective steaks and chops for more than three hours before they caught the last one. A crowd of spectators alternately cheered both sides, adding to the policeman's woes with shouts of "There he goes!" and "Tally Ho!" One officer, who missed a flying tackle, "slipping pigskin, brushed him off and glared at the onlookers. "Did you ever try to catch a pig?" he demanded.

For Gordon Huddleston, driver of the truck, the price of meat rose sharply; his loose livestock did $75 worth of damage to the bridge.

WAR FOOD CONFERENCE FOR WESTERN KENTUCKY

Problems of war food production will be discussed at a meeting of farm men and women at the Western Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station at Princeton, March 2. County and heavy production of most farm products is needed this year; that there may be food for the people of this country, for the armed forces and for the peoples of other nations as they are released from oppression.

Supt. S. J. Lowry of the Experiment Station has arranged a program which will be of interest and value to all men and women who plan to "back the attack" with all possible production this season. What food products are most needed, how to produce under circumstances now existing, and other subjects of vital interest will be discussed.

Speakers will include Dean Thomas P. Cooper of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station; J. E. Stanford, secretary of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation; Miss Myrtle W. E. state leader of home demonstration work, and Dr. H. B. Price, Dr. W. P. Gartung and W. C. Johnstone all of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics. The meeting will begin at 10 o'clock and end at 3:30. All farm men and women, students of vocational agriculture and other persons concerned with the production of more food in the interests of an early victory are invited to attend the meeting, Mr. Lowry said.

Now is a good time to renew your subscription. To the Leader.

High Court Tells Taxpayers They Must Use Official Federal Forms

Washington.—The Supreme Court had a valiant time today for Joe Taxpayer: You've got to fill out the tax forms Uncle Sam provides—not some substitute—no matter how formidable the task seems.

The Court ruled that Congress authorized the Internal Revenue Commissioner to prescribe the forms and it is the duty of taxpayers to comply by filing these forms.

The unanimous opinion by Associate Justice Robert H. Jackson applies only indirectly to this year's intricacy of the forms. Specifically the decision was given in upholding the Board of Tax Appeals' decision that the Technicraft Engineering Corporation of Los Angeles, as a personal holding company, should have filed two separate returns for the tax years of 1934, 1935 and 1936. The Government contended that the single return which the company submitted was inadequate.

The Court also held that the Statute of Limitations did not bar assessment in 1939 of the tax for three years nor the imposition of a 25-per cent penalty for the years 1934 and 1935. However, it set back for further consideration the application of the penalty for the year of 1936.

The Court said the purpose of requiring certain prescribed returns "is not alone to get tax information in some form but also to get it with such uniformity, completeness, and arrangement that the physical task of handling and verifying returns may be readily accomplished."

The decision was directed against the Lane-Wells Company, successor to Technicraft and liable for its taxes.

London.—United States daylight raiders bombed Leipzig, Ascheneber, Bersburg, Brunswick, Gotha and Tutow today in record-breaking assaults, it was announced by headquarters of the European theater of operations. Fighters accompanying the raiders shot down sixty-one enemy planes. Twenty-two heavy bombers and four fighters are missing.

London.—American's great four-engined bombers—possibly as many as 1,000 of them—swarmed over Nazi industrial centers today to attack major factories producing Hitler's fighter planes. The raids, greatest of the war, followed a 2,576-ton R. A. F. night assault on Leipzig in difficult weather at a record cost of seventy-nine British bombers. Invasion Resistance At Stake—The number of American planes lost today was not announced immediately. A U. S. headquarters statement said the thundering attack against a large portion of Germany's remaining fighter aircraft industry was "the largest, most important and most hazardous operation ever undertaken."

"At stake, to a great degree, is Germany's ability to resist the coming invasion," the statement continued. "The ultimate objectives not only are to complete the domination of the air when the invasion comes with a resulting reduction in ground and naval casualties, but also the increased freedom for bombers to make precision daylight attacks on war industries and communication."

LOCAL MARINE INTERRUPTED BY FALLING COCONUT

Somewhere in the Southwest Pacific—(Delayed)—Marine Corporal D. O. Davis, of Fulton, Ky., corralled himself against a coconut tree and prepared to tell a tale. "Help me," he began, "if this isn't the truth may I be struck."

That's as far as he got, for a coconut plunked squarely on his head.

RIGHT OF ASYLUM

One of the tricky things about the Axis-Argentine situation is the South American theory of right of asylum. This right, written into the laws of most of the southern countries, springs out of their theory of revolution as being a good way to change governing powers. When a revolutionary push does not succeed, and leaves a few would-be rulers out on a limb, or when it does succeed and the former leaders are in the same unenviable position, if they can get as far as the legation of any other Latin-American country, they are safe. The legation takes care of them for a few days, until things have quieted down a bit, and then escorts the saddened ones to state to the border, under its own flag. They go safely out of their own country, and can plot in peace—for war—outside.

The United States does not recognize this right, but when some pushed-out or not-pushed-in person demands asylum at its doors, the Legation is said usually to stand by for an hour and two out of courtesy until some other diplomat, summoned by telephone, can come to the rescue.

It is likely that certain members of Axis leadership think of right-of-asylum applies to them, too, and if they can get to some pleasant southern land, they can stay there forever. But the United Nations will have something to say about this. Argentines are generous with citizenship but the people are not so pro-Axis as some of their leaders. They can be pushed just so far.

E PLURIBUS UNUM

It is not yet quite clear to most Americans, whether the division of the Soviet Union into 16 federated states is meant as an effort to split up a national Union that is so big as to be unwieldy, or to bring 16 existing groups closer together. The world will learn more about that as the Soviet Union proceeds with her latest experiment.

If the latter alternative is intended, it will suggest a procedure well known to Americans, and indeed a part of our national structure. For it is stated in the preamble to our own federal Constitution that its aim is to form a more perfect union.

Looking at the Russian experiment in this fashion naturally leads to another historic suggestion. The assembling of many separate governmental units into a single strong combination goes back to the bases of ancient Rome Republic, from which the wide empire and much of our own law developed.

The symbol of Roman unity and strength was the "Fascis," a bundle of rods or fagots bound together, each of them weak in itself, but the whole bundle symbolizing strength and power. It is too bad that the Roman word for unity has so degenerated in meaning in our time. The Russians, however, seem to move away from Fascism, not towards it, as their effort at improving government proceeds.

Your Federal Income Tax

No. 39

NONTRADE AND NONBUSINESS DEDUCTIONS

Many taxpayers have income and expenses which do not relate to a trade or business but concern the production of collection of taxable income, or the management, conservation or maintenance of property held for the production of income, such as occasional rental properties, or investment securities. Formerly these expenses were not deductible, but now they may be deducted in arriving at the net income for 1943 subject to normal tax, surtax, and the victory tax.

Expenses of this kind must be reasonable in amount, and must bear a reasonable and close relation to the income or the income-producing property.

Fees for services of investment counsel, custodian fees, clerical help, office rent, and similar investment expenses may be deducted if they are shown to be ordinary and necessary expenses of producing investment income or caring for investment property.

Expenses which may not be deducted as nontrade or nonbusiness expenses include personal items such as commuters' expenses, cost of taking special courses of training, and expenses for improving personal appearance. The rental of a safe-deposit box used for storing jewelry and other personal effects is not deductible. Traveling expenses incurred in seeking employment, or in placing oneself in a position to begin rendering personal services for compensation are not allowable. No deduction may be taken for campaign expenses of a candidate for public office, bar examination fees and other costs of securing admittance to the bar, and similar fees paid by physicians, dentists, accountants and others for securing the right to practice their respective professions. Furthermore, no deduction can be allowed for expenses which are disallowed generally by specific provision of law.

If expenses are incurred in producing both taxable income and income that is not subject to tax, only the expenses relating to the taxable income may be deducted. The allowance for nontrade or nonbusiness expenses does not include capital expenditures, nor expenses of transactions carried on primarily as a sport, hobby, or recreation. Whether a transaction will be regarded as constituting a sport, hobby, or recreation, on the one hand, or as relating to the production of taxable income or the management, conservation, or maintenance of income-producing property, on the other, depends not merely on the intent of the taxpayer but on all the circumstances, including the record of prior gains or losses resulting from the activity, the relation of that activity to the

BILL WANTS RESOURCES GIVEN STUDY

Council Sought To Investigate
State Problems

Frankfort, Ky., —A Kentucky economic council to study the state's resources and recommend their development and investigate its industrial, agricultural and other problems, was proposed in the General Assembly today.

The council, authorized to investigate any State agency and to employ experts and other aid within a $25,000 appropriation to last until June 30, 1946, would consist of:

The Governor (or someone designated by him as his representative); State conservation commissioner, director of the agricultural experiment station at the University of Kentucky, State superintendent of public instruction, state highway commissioner, State health commissioner, and six citizens of the state named by the Governor.

No more than three of the latter could be of the same political party.

The bill was offered in the house
by Representative G. M. Knudde, Bell County Republican, and in the Senate by Senator J. J. Thomas, Owingsville, and Strother Melton, Paducah, both Democrats.

House Speaker Harry Lee Waterfield said today he was against appropriation of the customary bonus for employees of the House and Senate after a resolution to provide $9,000 for the purpose was introduced in the lower chamber.

PAPER SHORTAGE CHANGING STYLES

Chicago. —Newspapers of the future will be more compact, interesting and streamlined as a direct result of the current newspaper shortage, John F. Lux, publisher of the Joliet, Ill. Herald-News, said Tuesday.

"I have queried more than a dozen newspaper publishers and executives on the subject of newspapers of the future," Lux told the Inland Daily Press Association, Incorporated, "and this poll indicated the lost art of compact, clear writing will be revived out of sheer necessity."

Opinions expressed in the poll, Lux said, indicated newspapers of the future will:

Be geared for speed with more room for pictures, the time element ringing use of planes and helicopters into newsgathering; better world news coverage; resurgence of interest in politics and political news; radio and newspapers working as complements, not rivals;

Use tabloid size, with much growth in advertising, particularly in the classified section; "pay more attention to women," not only to their reading habits, but to their employment in branches of the paper where they have never been used, before.

Lillian Cooke And William Cate Pledge Vows Saturday Evening At First Christian Church Here

Before a candlelighted altar, Miss Lillian Cooke, daughter of N. G. Cooke of this city, became the bride of William R. Cate, United States Naval Reserve, of Nashville, Tennessee, in an impressive single ring ceremony, Saturday, February 19, 1944, at eight o'clock in the evening at the First Christian church. The Rev. and Kelsie Martin, pastor of the First Christian church officiated.

Baskets of mammoth white snapdragons and seven branched candelabra holding white cathedral tapers stood at the altar, which was flanked with southern amilax and Woodwardia fern. In each window were white candles and smilax.

A program of nuptial music was furnished by Mrs. Charles Gregory, vocalist, and Mrs. Lloyd Emory of Paducah. Mrs. Gregory sang, "Because" and "The Sweetest Story Ever Told." Mrs. Emory played "Theta Lips," a song of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, and "Serenade." The traditional wedding marches were used.

Miss Jane Alley of Milan, Tenn., was the maid of honor, and she wore a gown of ciel blue, fashioned with a tight fitting satin bodice and a full net skirt trimmed with two satin bows. The sweetheart neckline was outlined with a net ruffle, and the tight fitting sleeves were three quarter length. She wore a half hat of satin, edged with a net ruffle, and carried better times roses and white freesias, styled semi-colonial with garlands of red roses.

Mrs. Edward E. Heer, the matron of honor, and Misses Clara Galtney of Corinth, Miss. Anna Marie Cate and Betty Bruce Cate of Nashville, Tenn., sisters of the bridegroom, the three bridesmaids, all wore ciel blue dresses with matching half hats, identical to that of the maid of honor. Little Miss Harriet Heer, daughter of the matron of honor, was the flower girl and she wore a ciel blue frock, fashioned similarly to those of the bridesmaids. Each carried bouquets of better times roses, colonial style, with garlands.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was beautiful in a wedding gown of ivory satin, styled with a drop shoulder marquisette yoke, and a slender basque bodice, with long net sleeves ending in points over the hands. The full skirt, ending in a long circular train, was gathered on each side with orange blossoms, and there were tiny orange blossoms on each shoulder of the dress. From her calot of antique lace fell the fingertip veil of illusion, edged in wide antique lace matching the calot. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom. She carried a bridal bouquet of snow white roses and adiantum.

Syd Halley of Nashville, Tenn., attended the bridegroom as best man and the ushers were, Pfc. Ed Anderson of Chattanooga, Tenn., Pfc. Lynwood Herrington of Georgia, Pfc. Tom Zerfass of Nashville and Bill Galtney of Corinth, Miss.

Edwin Cook Rice, Jr., of Springfield, Mo., and David Galtney of Corinth served as acolytes.

Mrs. Cate, mother of the bridegroom, wore azure blue chiffon with beaded trim around the sleeves and the neckline. She wore a purple orchid.

Miss Inez Binford, aunt of the bride, wore black crepe, studded with sequins and a corsage of gardenias.

Mrs. Edwin C. Rice of Springfield, aunt of the bride, wore a gown of black crepe, with a black net bodice over pink with sequin trim.

Mrs. D. K. Galtney of Corinth, aunt of the bride, wore pale blue crepe, trimmed in fuschia.

The bride was graduated from Fulton High school and Stephens college. She received her degree from Vanderbilt University at Nashville in 1943. She was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta social sorority.

The groom, who is the son of Dr. and Mrs. William R. Cate of Nashville, is a graduate of West End high school in Nashville and was graduated from Vanderbilt University, where he was a member of Phi Delta Theta social fraternity and Phi Chi medical fraternity. He is also a member of Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic fraternity. At the present time, he is a member of the United States Naval Reserve, and is continuing his medical studies at Vanderbilt.

They will make their home in Nashville, at 1606 Stokes Lane.

Reception Follows Ceremony
After the wedding, a reception was held at the home of the bride's father, N. G. Cooke, on Third street.

Greeting the guests upon arrival was Mrs. J. D. White, and in the receiving line with the bride and bridegroom and members of the wedding party, were Mrs. L. O. Bradford, Mrs. Edwin C. Rice, Mrs. D. K. Galtney, Miss Inez Binford and Dr. and Mrs. William R. Cate.

The lovely wedding cake was surrounded by gardenias and flanked by large silver candelabra on the dining table. Ice cream and cake were served the guests. Assisting in serving were Mrs. R. V. Putnam, Jr., Miss Barbara Perkins of Louisville, Miss Virginia Love Graves of Nashville, Miss Treva Whayne and Miss Winnie Price.

On the buffet in the dining room was a silver bowl of white gladioli. The mintel in the living room held a low bowl of blue iris, pink tulips and amelia.

The bride and bridegroom left immediately following the reception for a short wedding trip.

For traveling the bride wore a brown and white suit, with brown accessories and a green topcoat.

Out-Of-Town Guests

Out-of-town guests at the reception included: Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Cate, Anna Marie Cate, Betty Bruce Cate and Tommie Cate, Mr. and Mrs. Syd Halley, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Lynwood Herrington, Mary May Paschall, Mrs. Erwin Jackson, Mary Lane Bell, Martha Bryan, Corinne Howell, Florence Tompkins, Ruth Holcomb, Edith Davis, Peggy Ann Fox, Virginia Love Graves, all of Nashville; Martha Oursler of Birmingham; Mrs. J. O. Connolly and Betty Connolly of Memphis; Gertrude Murphy and Rob Murphy of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Rice and Edwin C. Rice, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Ed Heer and daughter, of Springfield; Clara, David and Billy of Corinth, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Brummitt, Miss Jane Brummitt of McKenzie.

JOYCE BONDURANT COMPLIMENTED AT LOVELY PARTY

Miss Joyce Bondurant who will be married Sunday to Eugene Waggoner, U. S. Navy, was the honoree at a lovely party Friday night given by Miss Ruth Fields, Mrs. D. George Alley and Miss Katherine Williamson at the home of Miss Fields on Pearl street.

The house was attractively decorated with spring flowers and the ice draped dining table held a bowl of forsythia—as a centerpiece. Games of bridge and rummy were enjoyed at five tables.

Miss Bondurant wore a tulle frock of black crepe with a white trim.

Prize winners were Miss Elizabeth Butt, high for the bridge players, and Mrs. McClay, rummy winner. Miss Fern Snow cut consolation.

Late in the evening, the hostesses served a dessert course to the guests.

Those present were: Miss Bondurant, Mrs. Henry Thomas, Mrs. R. W. Burrow, Mrs. Jean Poe, Mrs. McClay, Miss Mary Merlin, Mrs. Hugh Pique, Mrs. Walter Voelkel, Mrs. G. B. Butterworth, Miss Ruth Lytle, Mrs. Joe Bennett, Jr., Miss Elizabeth Butt, Miss Ann Valentine, Mrs. G. H. Duley, Mrs. Martin Nall, Miss Lee Ella Lowe, Miss Fern Snow, Mrs. Charley Payne, Mrs. Louise Buckingham, Mrs. E. C. Grisham, and the hostesses.

JACK ADAMS SURPRISED ON BIRTHDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Adams were hosts to a delightful surprise birthday party for their son, Jack, on his fourteenth birthday, at their home on Paschal street.

A delicious dinner was served to the following friends of the honoree: Ronald Mac Fields, Damon Shankle, Kenneth Hatcher, Bobby Bynum, Charles Fields and Angela Arnn.

waiter in a Sixth avenue delicatessen, has sold almost $3,000,000 worth of war bonds in a one-man campaign on which he was launched by AWVS customers to whom he served sandwiches right after Pearl Harbor.

Last month, Schwartz heard that his son-in-law, Lt. Thomas Berschig was a prisoner in Germany after 40 missions in a P-47 Thunderbolt.

He hurried out to the Farmingdale, N. Y., Republic Aviation Corp. plant, took a good look at the Thunderbolts and announced that he had set himself a new quota of $2,500,000 to put 33 more of them in the air by July.

Schwartz's waiter jacket is decorated with insignia of every recognition of his bond-selling. Recently, he added the only male membership badge of the AWVS and he has just become a WAC.

Lend-Lease Is Slowing Down As War Seems To Nearing Its Climax

Washington. — Virtual elimination of capital goods shipments to Britain under Lend-Lease is understood to have been agreed upon by British and American supply officials here. The decision is one of numerous adjustments being made to keep Lend-Lease exports closely geared to military needs.

For several months the quantity of machinery going to Britain has been decreasing steadily, largely because British plants now have about all they need except for occasional replacements.

The approaching climax of the war in Europe has brought a tightening up of the policy of limiting all Lend-Lease supplies to those needed primarily for war purposes. Lend-Lease officials apparently are determined not to leave themselves open for congressional criticism that they have supplied other countries equipment having more use in the postwar period than in the months remaining to victory.

This is understood to be in keeping with a view President Roosevelt has expressed to some of his aides that there must be a clear break between expenditures under Lend-Lease and those designed to help other nations reconstruct their industries once the war is won. Beginning on the day of victory or as soon afterward as possible Lend-Lease shipments will stop and capital goods exports will be made on either a cash or credit basis.

Efforts already are being made to return exports to regular possible. One result is that textiles, drugs and chemicals for the middle east are no longer handled by the Lend-Lease administration. This change back to normal business methods was made possible by the improved shipping situation, and several hundred tons of shipping a month are now allotted for delivery of textiles, drugs and chemicals to that area.

The defeated Axis nations into the merchant marine field. German vessels with Hamburg as a home port had the bulk of the Holland-Belgium trade prior to the war.

U. S. MAPPING PEACE TRADE

Ship Route To Belgium And Holland Proposed

Washington. — Establishment of American-flag merchant shipping routes from the Atlantic coast to Holland and Belgium in the postwar period was proposed by the U. S. Maritime Commission today in another short step toward a crack modern U. S. merchant marine after the war.

The commission solicited proposals from American citizens for the acquisition of modern, American-flag vessels now owned by the Government.

Such tonnage, if the purchase plans proposed were approved, would be used on the Holland-Belgium run, which the commission said it considered "an essential long-range trade route."

The solicitation of proposals to operate merchant service on the Holland-Belgium route is the first asked by the Maritime Commission for the inauguration of foreign service after the war.

Prior to 1937, American-flag ships to Holland and Belgium were operated by the Black Diamond lines. This concern has not entered into contracts for postwar operation over the route and the commission is seeking concrete propositions from ship operators or adequately-financed outside groups to take over the runs.

It was indicated that the commission's tentative program does not envision that peace terms will permit any considerable re-entry of battle. The two-way traffic which has carried millions of soldiers abroad also has returned 200,000 of them to U. S. shores, not counting sick and wounded, Secretary of War Stimson disclosed today.

In the European, Caribbean and Alaska theaters, a rotation system of furloughs is in full swing. Stimson said. Lt. Gen. Millard Harmon said two weeks ago some try starts had been made on the system in the Southwest Pacific and that it would be expanded as manpower and facilities permit.

Men Get 3 Weeks

Theater commanders decide which troops have earned a rest. The minimum service to be eligible is eighteen months in the North African theater and two years in Alaska and the Caribbean, Stimson said. Two years also is the basic factor for consideration in the Southwest Pacific, Harmon said.

The 200,000 already back in this country include some listed simply as "returned" and requiring no specific replacements.

The battle weary, once they are here, get three weeks' leave which may be spent anywhere they choose. After that, they are not to be sent overseas until they have had duty of unspecified length in this country.
