THE STARLESS CROWN.

"They that turn many to righteousness shall shine as the stars forever and ever."—Daniel 12:3.

Wearied and worn with earthly cares I yielded to repose,
And soon before my raptured sight a glorious vision rose:
I thought, whilst slumbering on my couch in midnight's solemn gloom,
I heard an angel's silvery voice, and radiance filled my room.
A gentle touch awakened me, a gentle whisper said:
"Arise, O sleeper! follow me;" and through the air we fled.
We left the earth so far away that like a speck it seemed,
And heavenly glory, calm and pure, across our pathway streamed.

Still on we went: my soul was wrapped in silent ecstasy;
I wondered what the end would be, what next should meet mine eye.
I knew not how we journeyed through the pathless field of light;
When suddenly a change was wrought, and I was clothed in white!
We stood before a city's wall most glorious to behold;
We passed through streets of glistening pearl; o'er streets of purest gold.
It needed not the sun by day, nor silver moon by night;
The glory of the Lord was there, the Lamb himself its light.

Bright angels paced the shining streets, sweet music filled the air,
And white-robed saints, with glittering crowns, from every clime were there.
And some that I had loved on earth stood with them round the throne:

"All worthy is the Lamb," they sang "the glory his alone!"
But fairer far than all beside, I saw my Saviour's face.
And as I gazed He smiled on me with wondrous love and grace.
Lowly I bowed before his throne, O'erjoyed that I at last
Had gained the object of my hopes; that earth at length was passed.

And then, in solemn tones, He said, "Where is the diadem
That ought to sparkle on thy brow, adorned with many a gem?
I know thou hast believed on me, and life, through me, is thine,
But where are all those radiant stars that in thy crown should shine?"

Yonder thou seest a glorious throng, and stars on every brow;
For every soul they led to me they wear a jewel now;
And such thy bright reward had been, if such had been thy deed—
If thou hadst sought some wandering feet in paths of peace to lead.

I did not mean that thou shouldst tread the way of life alone;
But that the clear and shining light which round thy footsteps shone
Should guide some other weary feet to my bright home of rest,
And thus, in blessing those around, thou hadst thyself been blest."

The vision faded from my sight, the voice no longer spake;
A spell seemed brooding o'er my soul, which long I feared to break.
And when at last I gazed around in morning's glimmering light
My spirit fell, o'erwhelmed beneath that vision's awful might.

I rose and wept with chastened joy that yet I dwelt below
That yet another hour was mine, my faith by works to show
That yet some sinner I might tell of Jesus' dying love,
And help to lead some weary soul to seek a home above,
And now, while on earth I stay, my motto this shall be
"To live no longer to myself, but Him who died for me;"
And graven on my inmost soul, this word of truth divine,
"They that turn many to the Lord, bright as the stars shall shine."

[The above was read by Miss Mollie Treas to the Sunday School Union at Hardin, Ky., November 5, 1892, and was handed to us with the request that it be published in the Tribune.—Ed.]

CAPITAL CAPERS.

WASHINGTON, D. C. Dec. 2.—The extra session pendulum swings back and forth from day to day. Last week for a time it seemed that the sentiment in favor of an immediate extra session was overwhelming among prominent democrats, as for several days about nine out of every ten senators and representatives that arrived and were willing to express a decided opinion were in favor of an extra session at the earliest possible moment. Then there was a change the other way and about the same percentage of arrivals opposed an early extra session, although many of these opponents of an early extra session think it would be an advantageous saving of time to call an extra session about September or October. If a poll of all the democratic senators and representatives now in Washington were taken on the question of an early extra session, it is extremely doubtful which side would get a majority, so evenly divided has the sentiment become.

Hon. Channey F. Black, of Pennsylvania, president of the national association of democratic clubs, is here to confer with Secretary Gardner as to the association's future work, particularly that relating to the campaign of 1896, which he says is already commenced. Mr. Black called attention to the manner in which the Walker tariff of 1846, which was one of the most satisfactory the country ever had, was prepared, and asked a good many democrats if the next democratic tariff could not be better prepared in that way than in any other. He was surprised to find that very few people remembered, if they ever knew, how the Walker tariff bill was prepared. It was prepared during a recess of congress by Robert J. Walker, President Polk's secretary of the treasury, and when congress met in regular session it was substantially as prepared enacted into a law and brought credit and honor both to its author and to the democratic party. If that plan succeeded so well then, why not try it again, by letting the democratic secretary of the treasury to be selected by Mr. Cleveland prepare a tariff bill to be submitted to congress when it meets? is now being asked on all sides. Ordinarily the officials of the treasury department who have to deal with importations are better posted on tariff matters than outsiders, even among those who have devoted much time and study to the complication question, and are consequently better prepared to arrange the details of a tariff schedule, but it must not be forgotten that nearly or quite all of the tariff experts now in the employ of the treasury are hide-bound protectionists, and that it might not be altogether safe to trust them with the work of making a new tariff bill on reform lines.

The relations of the comptroller of the currency with the national banks are so close that when a comptroller retires from office he usually enters the employ of a national bank, but all the same much surprise was caused when the annual report of the present comptroller was made public and it was seen that he had embodied therein an argument against the establishment of state banks with authority to issue currency. It is regarded as nearly akin to insolence for a republican official thus to attempt to tell the democratic congress that it should not carry out a plank of its national platform, which the country has just endorsed.

Gen. Rosecrans, register of the treasury, and about the only democrat now holding a prominent position under the government, struck the civil service law a knock down blow by stating in his annual report that the competitive examinations held thereunder were practically of no use in determining the competency of a clerk. Not that this statement was new or surprising but that it was made by a big official. It has been fashionable among officials for several administrations to bow down to this civil service mumbo-jumbo, and it is refreshing to find one that will speak what so many of them think.

The question of immigration legislation at the coming session of congress is being agitated, and if the joint committee which has been investigating the subject shall in their report which will soon be ready make any practical recommendations it is altogether probable that they will be embodied in legislation. Most democrats agree with the national platform, that industrious and worthy foreigners should be free to come to us, and all stand ready to vote to prohibit the coming of the unworthy.

Whether it is because the newspaper got the news first or because they really think there is nothing in it I cannot say, but anyway the state department people poolpooh the story about the French agent who controls the Panama railroad having violated the Monroe doctrine by discriminating against American shippers over that road.

ASK THEM TO RESIGN.

If the law that is now before the Kentucky legislature to dock an absent member $5 per day for being absent, passes, then it is time that all members of that body who are quietly under that law resign and go home. When a man is selected by his people to act as their representative in the capacity of a law-maker and then so far neglects his duty to them as to be fined by the high and honorable body of which he is a member, then he should at once offer his resignation to take effect at once and go home, so that his constituents would have an opportunity to select a member who would serve them and do his duty as an honorable representative of the people. It looks to us like begging the question for a legislature to pass such a law governing its own members when each one of them is responsible to his constituents at home for everything he does while he is their representative. If the representative of the people can have the nerve and backbone to draw his per diem when he is absent for other causes than the sickness of himself or family then his constituents should have the courage and backbone to publicly ask him to resign and go home. If the constituents of a member would do their duty they would make it warm enough for a member who does not work without any such law as is before the legislature. Whenever a people, who elect their public officers, can't have the courage to hold them responsible for their failure to be present on certain days except by a law to take away their salaries, then it is time to have them appointed, and not elected by the people. The salary of a representative is only a small consideration to the taxpayers of the state compared to the good for which he is expected to do in the way of his duty to his people as such representative. No people care to pay a representative or any other officer without work and when they refuse to do the work for which they were elected then the people should ask them to resign and go home so they can get some one who will faithfully represent them. The bill before the legislature is all bosh and buncombe and will never result in the saving of one cent to the taxpayers of the state; it is only to pander to a clamor from a people who are too cowardly to put the blame where it properly belongs on their own representative. If we employ a man to work for a certain salary and he don't work we don't only refuse to pay him but we discharge him and employ some one who will work. If our representative don't stay and do his work as he should let's ask him to resign and come home. This is our doctrine.

A PRIMARY

Called at Murray to Nominate a Postmaster.

N. T. Hale, chairman of county committee of Calloway county, has called a democratic postmaster primary election for December 24th, 1892, to nominate a candidate for postmaster for the town of Murray. No person will be allowed to vote that does not live within the delivery of that post office and who did not vote the straight democratic ticket at the last election. Such a course may suit the people there if there be no objection, but it is not a safe course for the county democratic committee to pursue, because it is meddling in a contest over which it has no control or power. In the first place, it is not an elective office that is to be filled and the position is entirely in the hands of the administration in power and is and always has been controlled by the party in power and always will be, and then what is the use of getting the democratic party into a squabble in a primary over which it has no control. Such an election is an impractical one, because there is no way to know the metes and bounds of the delivery. A person may live ten miles away and yet claim he gets his mail at Murray and ask to vote in such an election, or a republican or prohibitionist or people's party man or men might have a relative or a friend that they wanted elected whether qualified or not and would claim the privilege of voting. Some person might be selected who was the enemy of the man who dispensed the patronage in which case he might not give the appointment to the one he desired. Would it be right to ask Capt. Stone to recommend a man for postmaster who did him all the dirt he could in the late congressional primary? We say it would not. Capt. Stone should at once disavowance all such inroads upon the old time customs of the democratic party and prevent any further democratic complications. The democrats are now all united and happy and no side issues or customs should be allowed to creep into it. Stop it at once.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

WED. EVENING, DEC. 7.

A CARD.

After March 4, 1893, when the democratic party is in control of the national government, I will apply to the postmaster general for the appointment to the position of postmaster at this place. Many of the people living in different parts of the county and more especially those living within the delivery of this office have asked me to be an applicant for that position, and in due time I will ask their influence to assist me in securing the appointment. I think I am qualified as a democrat and a business man to properly conduct the business of the office to the satisfaction of its patrons, and if I receive the appointment I promise to make the people kind, courteous and polite. I make the announcement in this card that the people interested in the appointment of a postmaster at this place may know that after the 4th of March I will be an applicant. Respectfully,
J. R. LEMON.

OUR OPINION.

The new school book law that recently passed the legislature gives to the county superintendent the sole power of selecting and adopting the kind of textbooks to be used in the county. The plan of a uniform system of books is a good one for a county but we believe this is rather much power to be put in the hands of one man. The superintendent should have a voice in selecting the kind of books to be used, but it would be best to hold a convention composed of the teachers and trustees and all act jointly in adopting the books to be used for such a length of time the law requires. A centralization of power is dangerous and unsatisfactory to the masses.

Mr. H. W. VanSelden, the fighting editor of the Paducah Standard, in a card a short time since declines to be an applicant for the position of postmaster at Paducah. Mr. VanSelden has only been a resident of Paducah a few years, but since he came there he has not been an idler in working for the prosperity of the city or the success of the democratic party. He is a gentleman who believes in the upbuilding of both the city, the church, state and the party, and he never leaves a stone unturned to assist those around him. When he is a friend to a man or measure he is one of which to feel proud, but when he is opposed to a man or a public measure he is to be dreaded. Such a man never fails to do good wherever he may live. We are glad that by his prudent and sensible course the party in that city is more solidly united than ever before and in the future will wield a strong influence for the success of it in all political contests. The Standard did valiant work during the late campaign, of which its editors will be rewarded.

Speaker Crisp will doubtless be elected to the speakership without any opposition. This is as it should be and should be as it is.

Jay Gould died of consumption. It shows this disease kills the rich and poor.

Hill is not a practical politician and it was not in his power to have defeated Mr. Cleveland at this election.

Jay Gould was the richest man that ever died in the United States. Rich in this world's goods, but some say he died poor in spiritual gifts. He was an Episcopalian.

The legal voters of Princeton will vote on the repeal of the local option law on Jan. 24, 1893. A red hot temperance fight is expected over there between now and then.

The postoffice scandal at Metropolis caused the resignation of Mrs. I. B. Bomar and in her place Mr. P. H. Norris was appointed, all because she permitted some irregularities to occur in her office.

It is now certain that a majority of the democratic members of congress favor an extra session. If the democrats have entire control of all the branches of government they should meet as soon as possible and pass such laws as will relieve the people of any burdens they are now bearing.

Business will again be resumed at Grand Rivers. Thos. W. Lawson will soon resign as president of the company and go into business at Boston, while Mr. J. M. Searle, the present general superintendent, will succeed Mr. Lawson and continue the business as heretofore. The furnaces will soon be again started up.

After all the moralizing indulged in by the press, on the life of Jay Gould, it may be that during his life of high speculation he did as much good to the poor as he did wrong to the rich. Take the country as a whole, he was a great benefactor. His great wealth was only the result of the laws of our land.

Idaho Returns. The official returns from Idaho show that the senate will be composed of republicans 6, democrats 8, populists 4. House—republicans 20, democrats 10, populists 6. This shows that the democrats and populists will have a majority of one on joint ballot and will therefore elect a democratic United States senator.

Capt. W. C. Clark. The gentleman whose name heads this article is or will be an applicant for the honorable and responsible position of postmaster at Paducah after the 4th day of March. He is about the only applicant so far as we know and it would make no difference how many persons might apply the people of this county are soul and body for Capt. Clark. He made a good and honorable officer in that position once before and now in his declining years after meeting and enduring many reverses and after fighting in the thickest of the fight many anxious political battles, it is but the duty of the incoming administration to give him that position without any hesitation or delay. To have him postmaster of Paducah is the prayer of the entire people of Marshall county.

Jay Gould is Dead.

This famous pioneer died at his home in the city of New York last Friday morning at 9:15. He was without doubt the ablest money maker of the age, but like all men that die he could carry none of his immense wealth with him. He was born in Roxbury, Delaware county, N. Y., May 27, 1836. His father was a farmer and at the age of 14 he entered the Hobart academy and was book-keeper of the village blacksmith. He became a surveyor and was a fluent writer. He published the history of his native county, but in 1856 he began to buy up railroad stocks and has continued in that business ever since, devoting his entire time and attention to it, and at the time of his death his wealth could hardly be estimated, or at least no two estimates agree as to the amount of Mr. Gould's fortune. The most conservative figures place it at about $60,000,000, while some people in Wall street who think they know something about his accumulations figure that he must have gotten together fully one hundred millions. His known holdings of securities are about as follows:

Twenty-two millions par value of Western Union Telegraph, which at today's prices would fetch about $18,700,000; $10,000,000 par value of Missouri Pacific, which is now worth in the market $5,500,000. He is supposed to hold in the neighborhood of $8,000,000 par value and probably more of Manhattan stock worth $10,400,000. His holdings of all these stocks have been larger than this, but he sold them to either invest the money in new issues of bonds of the Missouri Pacific and Manhattan companies or to finance those companies until bonds could be issued. Excellent information is that he holds about one third of the bonds issued on the Missouri Pacific system, which would be about $30,000,000. His estate holds over $12,000,000 of Wabash stock, which shows a loss of between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000. As long ago as 1884 Mr. Gould was known to hold about $3,000,000 of first-class railway mortgage bonds upon roads other than those controlled or managed by him. Besides these items he had large investments in a great number of properties, concerning which the public knows little or nothing.

His holdings of Union Pacific and Kansas Pacific bonds, which have never been stated, must be large, but it is not believed that he owned, of late years, much in any Union Pacific stock. From the foregoing figures, which are approximately correct, it is easy to figure up in the neighborhood of $75,000,000. Of late years his fortune has increased rapidly, owing to his enormous income from his holdings of Western Union and Manhattan stocks, to say nothing of investments in bonds. His income from these three sources alone cannot have fallen under $3,000,000 a year, and has probably exceeded that amount.

BLACK-DRAUGHT tea cures Constipation.

We are in receipt of a letter from Representative Glenn saying that he had the bill fixing the time of holding circuit court amended so as to give us four circuit courts each year, to be held on second Monday in January, April, July and October. This will suit our people in every respect and from day and date we expect to hear no more complaint about the time of holding our circuit courts.

Ripans Tabules for sour stomach.

Next Monday will begin the last term of circuit court under the old law and constitution. This will also be the last court held by Judge Randle as our circuit judge and Samuel H Crossland as commonwealth's attorney. Judge Dupriest granted G W Riley coffee house license last Thursday. The granting was opposed by County Attorney Heath on the grounds that a ten day's notice had not been given, but the judge thought different and had the order made, from which an appeal was asked and granted to the circuit court, when it will be ascertained whether a ten day's notice is required or not.

McElree's WINE OF CARDUI for Weak Nerves.

It will be a long time before the members of the Christian church at this place will hear another series of as able sermons as were preached by Eld Brents. He closed his meeting here last Thursday night and left for home Friday morning, where he expects to remain the balance of his days. He thinks it extremely doubtful if he ever conducts another protracted meeting. He is now getting old and when he is called to his great reward he can say, like Paul, he has fought a good fight, is willing to risk his case with the God he has served so faithfully for the last half century. The longer he preached here the larger his congregations become and most of his meetings had slipped away before the people realized his great worth and power as an expounder of the difficult problems of the Bible. He went away leaving a warm place in the hearts of his brethren.

BLACK-DRAUGHT tea cures Constipation.

We are in receipt of a letter from Representative Glenn saying that he had the bill fixing the time of holding circuit court amended so as to give us four circuit courts each year, to be held on second Monday in January, April, July and October. This will suit our people in every respect and from day and date we expect to hear no more complaint about the time of holding our circuit courts.

Ripans Tabules for sour stomach.

Next Monday will begin the last term of circuit court under the old law and constitution. This will also be the last court held by Judge Randle as our circuit judge and Samuel H Crossland as commonwealth's attorney. Our people will be loth to give them up as they have become very much attached to them during the past six years in which they have held our courts.

Judge Dupriest granted G W Riley coffee house license last Thursday. The granting was opposed by County Attorney Heath on the grounds that a ten day's notice had not been given, but the judge thought different and had the order made, from which an appeal was asked and granted to the circuit court, when it will be ascertained whether a ten day's notice is required or not.

McElree's WINE OF CARDUI for Weak Nerves.

It will be a long time before the members of the Christian church at this place will hear another series of as able sermons as were preached by Eld Brents. He closed his meeting here last Thursday night and left for home Friday morning, where he expects to remain the balance of his days. He thinks it extremely doubtful if he ever conducts another protracted meeting. He is now getting old and when he is called to his great reward he can say, like Paul, he has fought a good fight, is willing to risk his case with the God he has served so faithfully for the last half century. The longer he preached here the larger his congregations become and most of his meetings had slipped away before the people realized his great worth and power as an expounder of the difficult problems of the Bible. He went away leaving a warm place in the hearts of his brethren.
