EXONERATED

Grand Jury in Written Report
Declares Charges Against
Cook and Smith False.

A special to the Louisville Times of Saturday from this place says:

Brief, but to the point, was the report of the grand jury exonerating both Judge Thomas P. Cook and Prosecuting Attorney Denny P. Smith, of being night riders or having any connection with the lawless bands that have infested this and other counties in this judicial district for the past seven or eight months. The members of the jury, in their report, declared that they had made a complete and thorough investigation and could find nothing on which to base an indictment.

"There was not a scintilla of evidence to warrant an indictment," was the way S. C. Holcomb, foreman of the grand jury, expressed it. "I am glad, too, that the investigation vindicates the men whom we elected to office."

Friends of Judge Cook and Mr. Smith declare that the reports circulated against them originated in the minds of political enemies and were circulated for political purposes. The fact that the judicial election is approaching, they say, caused the enemies of Judge Cook and Mr. Smith to charge them with being night riders in the hope that it would injure their chances for election.

For more than three days the grand jury has had the case under investigation. The body was directed to make the investigation under special instructions of Judge Cook, who dramatically declared in open court that he had been accused of being a night rider. Judge Cook declared that the report had been circulated all over the district, and he wanted the grand jury to indict him and Mr. Smith, or vindicate them before the people.

County Attorney Napoleon Bonaparte Barnett conducted the investigation and examined the witnesses before the grand jury. County Judge Crumbaugh and County Attorney Krone, of Lyon county, were brought here to give testimony. Dr. B. F. Berry, J. D. Sexton and W. L. Whitnell, all prominent citizens of Murray, also testified. It developed in the grand jury room that Dr. Berry first circulated the report in Murray, directly charging Judge Cook with being connected with the night riders. Dr. Berry based his statement on information furnished him by County Attorney Krone, of Lyon county, who told him that he had seen an affidavit made by Sanford Hall, in which the latter said that Mr. Smith gave him the countersign of the night riders and that Judge Cook was also a member of the order. Dr. Berry told Mr. Sexton and Mr. Sexton told Mr. Whitnell, and that is how the report became circulated, so Dr. Berry said today, talking to The Times correspondent.

County Attorney Barnett opposed a written report. He advised the members of the jury to dismiss the subject when he found that the evidence did not warrant an indictment.

"The investigation was thorough and complete," said Mr. Barnett, "and the evidence did not warrant an indictment. There were general rumors of Judge Cook and Mr. Smith's sympathies being with the night riders, but there was no proof connecting them with the lawless element. I opposed a written report because I did not want to mix politics with legal matters."

When the grand jury reported it turned in several indictments, among them one charging Kelsie Kirk, Jasper Garland and two others with burning the barn of Smoot Hendricks. Judge Cook directed the Sheriff to examine the indictments "to see if there were any returned against Tom Cook or Denny Smith."

"The reason I wanted the Sheriff to look over the indictments," Judge Cook explained, "is to prevent the report from being circulated that indictments were returned against me and I suppressed them."

It was late when the jury was finally discharged; so late that most people had gone home, believing that the report would not be made until this morning, and there were few persons in the court room.

Judge Cook thanked the members of the jury and said that he hoped they had made no mistakes. "If you made a mistake it may have been in not indicting me and Denny Smith," Judge Cook remarked.

The report of the grand jury is as follows:

"We, the grand jury of Calloway county, August, 1908, have investigated the report regarding Judge T. P. Cook and Commonwealth's Attorney Denny P. Smith concerning night riding and have found it to be absolutely false and no truth in it. This we find after investigating thoroughly."

"S. C. HOLCOMB, Foreman."

Association Sales.

The local market disposed of 43 hogsheads of association tobacco this week at prices ranging from $8 to $10.

About 500 hogsheads of tobacco were regraded here two weeks ago on account of damaged condition and over-typeing.

The total number of hogsheads stored here this season is 4,154, with sales to date of about 1,875.

Served as coffee, the new coffee substitute known to grocer's everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee, will trick even a coffee expert. Not a grain of real coffee in it either. Pure healthful toasted grains, malt, nuts, etc. have been so cleverly blended as to give a wonderfully satisfying coffee taste and flavor. And it is "made in a minute," too. No tedious 20 or 30 minutes boiling. W. W. McElrath.

SMITH TALKS.

In Public Interview Makes Explanation of His Official Conduct.

The following is an interview given out by Denny P. Smith, Commonwealth's Attorney of the Third judicial district, at the conclusion of the investigation of the report that he and Judge Cook were closely allied with night riders. The inquiry resulted in an exoneration.

Mr. Smith defends himself as follows:

I AM CONTENT AS A RULE TO TRANSACT THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS IN THE COURTHOUSE, and to let my official acts speak for themselves, but in view of the fact that criticism of my official conduct has been so severe as to result in a grand jury investigation, it becomes incumbent upon me to depart from my usual custom and to make a public statement.

FIRST I DESIRE TO SAY THAT I AM NOT A DETECTIVE. IF THE DUTIES OF MY OFFICE HAD REQUIRED ME TO BE I SHOULD NEVER HAVE ASKED FOR IT. IF THE LAW WERE TO BE SO CHANGED AS TO REQUIRE THAT I NOW BECOME A DETECTIVE ALONG WITH MY OTHER DUTIES, I SHOULD IMMEDIATELY RESIGN.

Since the first outbreak of night riders in my district I have labored with every grand jury and done all that I could to have indictments returned against the night riders when the proof in my judgement justified an indictment. When the proof did not justify it, in my opinion, I have unhesitatingly advised the grand jury not to indict.

In one instance in a special investigation of the raid upon Hopkinsville, one witness swore that to the best of his knowledge and belief he saw a man named Crenshaw in the Hopkinsville raid, and that was all the proof against him. I advised the grand jury not to indict, and they did not. For that I was harshly criticised in Hopkinsville, and the Governor, in a message to the Legislature, criticised both me and the grand jury.

A subsequent grand jury, without consultation with me, indicted Crenshaw upon the same proof. When the case came on for trial the same witness for the Commonwealth swore the same thing he had always sworn, viz.: to the best of his knowledge and belief he saw Crenshaw in the Hopkinsville raid. That was all the proof. I at once in open court submitted the case and requested the trial jury to return a verdict of not guilty, which they did. I have heard no criticism of that action, because my acts were seen and known of by all.

But before that, neither the people nor the Governor gave me credit for an honest purpose. In Hopkinsville, as I now remember, six indictments charging persons with night riding have been returned by the grand juries, including the case of Crenshaw above mentioned. Four of those cases have been tried and acquitted. In each case the only proof of the Commonwealth connecting the defendant directly with the crime charged was the testimony of a single witness, who claimed to recognize the defendant, in some cases with a mask, in others without it, but all in the night time. In three of the four cases, the Commonwealth had no circumstantial facts at all against the defendant. In the other case the circumstances proven amounted only to a suspicion of guilt. Each defendant made a strong defense. Hence, I say, that under the proof in those cases, no just criticism can be made of the verdict of the jury in either case. At the same term of court in Hopkinsville, I tried and convicted a man named Wood for sending a threatening letter, and his punishment was a fine of $100 and three months' confinement in the county jail. Only one other night rider case has been tried and that resulted in a hung jury at Murray. In Trigg county, nine persons have been indicted for night riding and two for sending threatening letters. About fifty persons have been indicted in Calloway county.

With the investigations made by the Fire Marshall, with the soldiers here, with detective work said to have been done, and with all the investigations made by the grand juries since these disorders began no other cases have ever been brought to my attention except in a few instances where parties have been held over to the grand juries by inferior courts and not indicted, and some cases in Lyon county where the grand jury failed to indict upon the uncorroborated confession of an accomplice. All the said cases in Lyon and other counties not indicted by the grand juries were continued, and the defendants each held on their bonds for their appearance before the next grand jury.

The fact that these offenders select the darkness and wear masks has been the chief trouble to the courts. The courts have been further hampered by the fact that these crimes have grown out of an industrial war. One side not being inclined to give proof at all, and the other side insisting upon indictment and conviction upon vague and uncertain proof. Neither side treating the courts fairly, those anxious to prosecute often hamper the impartial administration of justice as much as those not inclined to give evidence. But notwithstanding these conditions, when proper proof of guilt can be had, juries can be found who will convict and send night riders to the penitentiary in my district in, perhaps, as large a percentage of cases as they do murderers.

As for the charges against me, they are untrue, and in many instances maliciously untrue. Much of the criticism has come from honest people because I have failed to look at things under their feelings of passion. Many say to me now is the time to become a Joe Folk, little dreaming that their appeals to my selfish ambition only cause me to pause and to more critically weigh everything that comes through the efforts of the impassioned and the excited in order to make more certain that only the guilty are punished and that the innocent are not drawn into the vortex of the turmoil and punished like the guilty.

I am not old, but have been too long in public service to be easily swept off my feet. I desire to prosecute the guilty and to protect the innocent. I regret that my honest critics see not things as I do. Into the teeth of my mercenary critics I hurl defiance. If any of them are after my political scalp they shall have a chance to get it. I am a candidate for re-election. I have been for the last six months considering the question of retiring from public life and resuming the practice of my profession.

I am now compelled to submit my official record for a verdict from my constituents. I want a free verdict of all the people in a primary election, either now or at any other time. If any night rider votes for me believing he will escape punishment by any act, word, deed, omission or desire of mine, he will be mistaken if I am re-elected. If any other person thinks by criticism, excitement, prejudice or passion I shall be hurried beyond the beaten paths of the law, he will be likewise mistaken.

O. J. JENNINGS,
Editor Murray Ledger,
Candidate For County Court Clerk

In presenting myself as a candidate for the office of County Court Clerk of Calloway County I do so subject to the primary election of November 3, 1908.

I want to add my personal endorsement of the action of the county committee in calling a primary election. It is a democratic measure and affords the humblest and the greatest citizen equal voice in the selection of party nominees. Again, the action of the committee in calling a primary for November 3, 1908, the date of the national election, is especially commendable. There can be no disputing the fact that the primary election will cause hundreds of democrats to vote for Bryan and Kern who would not have otherwise voted. The success of the national democratic ticket is paramount to any individual success, and all measures that will lend aid or cause more democrats to cast their votes for the great commoner, William Jennings Bryan, deserves the hearty endorsement of all true and loyal democrats.

I am not announcing myself for office because I feel that I have any CLAIMS upon the party. It has been my pleasure to serve the party for many years as a "A LOW PRIVATE IN THE REAR RANKS," but if you please I have always been a fighting private for both the principles and the nominees. I have been engaged in publishing democratic newspapers for about twenty years and have always placed my paper, together with my personal services, at the command of the party and labored both in and out of season for its success. What I have done was a pleasure, and I never received a penny in compensation nor did I expect reward. I never asked for office before in my life and do not now expect to become a chronic seeker. But every Democrat who believes in the fundamental principle of his party, "EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL, SPECIAL PRIVILEGES TO NONE," will agree that it is not unreasonable for every laborer to expect some reward for his hire. In other words I want to eat at the first table one time and be present when the pie plate is passed, and I am expecting a slice of the much coveted pie, too. I do not want the whole plate, just a small slice or so, that I might realize how good it has been to the other fellows who have had so much.

I have been a citizen of Calloway county about 14 years. The greater party of this time I have been the editor and publisher of the Murray Ledger. How well I have served the people of this county, and especially the working class, I am willing for them to say. I stand today as I have always stood for the common people who earn their bread by the sweat of their brow. I have no apologies to offer or excuses to make for any fight I have made in their behalf. I may have erred but not knowingly. I may not be rewarded with political preferment but I shall not be denied the right of championing the cause of the man who toils that he might live.

Possibly I flatter myself by saying so, but I believe I am amply qualified to discharge every duty connected with the office to which I aspire. To say the least I am willing to undertake the job.

I want to see every voter in the county before the date of the primary if possible and present my case for consideration in person. However, if I fail to see you give my candidacy due and careful consideration and I shall willingly abide by your decision.

Pledging my support to every nominee of the November primary, and with renewed faith in the people of Calloway County, I respectfully submit my candidacy to them.

Very respectfully,

O. J. JENNINGS.

THE TOPICS OF A WEEK

Following the gift of a $100 sidewalk which five local saloonkeepers built for them, members of the East Alton, Illinois, Methodist church are raising a $100 fund for the relief of wives and families of drunkards. The saloonkeepers recently built the sidewalk and after it was laid announced their identity, saying that the gift was in recognition of the splendid fight that the church made on the saloons at a local option election some months before. The church people were indignant, and at first talked of returning the money or of tearing up the walk. The latter plan was voted down as wasteful and the former was abandoned because no way to make the saloonists take the money was apparent.

It is stated that former Governor W. S. Taylor will return to Kentucky from Indianapolis this week for trial on the charge of complicity in the Goebel murder case, immediately after the November election. It is also considered probable that the case, upon change of venue, will be transferred to Louisville. Mr. Taylor has always stated his willingness to return to Kentucky and stand trial, provided he could secure a fair trial and would be granted bail. During his canvass for governor, A. E. Wilson stated Mr. Taylor would certainly return to Kentucky for trial if he was elected and that Mr. Taylor would be given a fair trial.

Sheriff L. E. Martin and Deputy Sheriff Charles Parker of Lincoln county, Okla., were ambushed by a crowd of 16 negroes in a negro neighborhood and both men were shot. They were driving in a buggy when they were fired upon by the negroes. It is reported that one negro was killed and another fatally wounded before the shooting ceased. It is not known how serious the wounds received by the officers are. Large parties of citizens are hurrying to the scene of the shooting, and a serious race war is threatened.

Judge Thomas B. Cook of Callaway Circuit Court, Paducah, Ky., Tuesday afternoon called the grand jury and charged it to investigate reports being circulated around Murray that himself and the Commonwealth's Attorney, Denny B. Smith of Trigg County are night riders and have taken the oath.

Mehamed Ali Bey, the Turkish minister to the United States, Tuesday admitted that he had received advice from his government recalling him from his post at Washington. His recall did not come as a surprise to the minister, as, in view of the changed conditions in Turkey, it was to be expected.

That Chief Justice "Bob" Williams of Oklahoma Supreme bench is to become a member of the United States Supreme Court, in case of Bryan's election to the presidency, is asserted at Guthrie, by the friend of Judge Williams.

While Fred Wall was working beside a lion cage at Atlantic Highlands, N. J., Tuesday the beast seized him with its claws, digging them into his neck. Employees, by jabbing a pitchfork into the lion, broke its hold.

Circuit Attorney Sager of St. Louis, has announced that five men had been indicted for primary election frauds there at the first day's session of the Grand Jury. Their names were not given out.

Because his wife made a sheath gown from every dress he bought her and then paraded the street near her home, John Sullivan of Loveland, Ohio, a real estate dealer, filed suit for divorce Tuesday.

The tusks, parts of the skull and probably much of the remaining skeleton of a prehistoric mastodon have been found in the railway gravel pit of an allotment several miles south of Lawton, Okla.

Dr. Charles Stipe, prominent physician of Ochsedale, Ga., was killed by lightning Saturday afternoon. He was just leaving a store when the bolt struck him. Several others were badly shocked.

Tuesday evening Wilbur Wright of Dayton, Ohio, made the longest and most successful flight of the series of aeroplane trials, which he is conducting at Lemans, France, remaining in the air three minutes and 44 seconds. The machine circled the field three times at the rate of 36 miles an hour. On passing the grandstand, Mr. Wright gracefully descended until within speaking distance of the spectators, who wildly applauded his exhibition of mastery over the aeroplane, after which he soared like a bird to new heights and continued his flight until he reached the starting point, where he gently landed.

The people of Constantine, Algeria, are still in a state of terror from the earthquake shocks of a few days ago and there is, in consequence, a steady exodus to the country. The Mohammedans, who regard the continuation of the shocks as a divine warning to the wicked not to sleep in damaged dwellings have assembled in the cemeteries, where they prostrate themselves and pray for hours at a time, until overcome by weariness, they fell asleep.

Chief Wilkie of the secret service purposes to test the law in relation to the right of persons to make "stage" money such as is freely sold in the form of a roll of $100 bills. A case in which one of these $100 bills was passed as lawful money has come to the attention of the secret service, and Chief Wilkie believes the issuance of such "stage" bills will be adjudged unlawful when a test case is made against one of its manufacturers.

While in mid-ocean, the Cedric, of the White Star Line, was stopped for nearly three hours Sunday afternoon of last week, so that a surgical operation could be performed on Mrs. Thomas Trebell of New York, a cabin passenger. On her arrival at New York Friday, Mrs. Trebell was taken to the New York hospital and Dr. Porter believed she was on the road to permanent convalescence unless new complications set in.

With a wait of nearly five weeks ahead of her, Miss Anna Rowe, 18 years old, has taken her place before the door of the United States Land Office at Duluth, Minn., and will camp there night and day until the Fond du Lac Indian reservation is opened for settlement. Miss Rowe is No. 6 in the line. She says she is going to be a farmer. She is well provided with reading material.

Becoming angered at his wife, John Goolsby, a well-to-do farmer living near Oxford, Miss., knocked her down and while she was lying prostrate, saturated her clothing with oil. He then set fire to the clothes. The screams of the woman attracted the attention of neighbors, who rushed in and extinguished the burning garments. The woman, however, was badly burned.

A telegram relative to detail of ship movements was sent to Admiral Sperry, commanding the Atlantic fleet, by the chief of the Bureau of Navigation at the Navy Department and an answer came 43 hours after sending the first message. The cable was used to Suva, Fiji Islands, and thence by wireless chain the message went to the flagship Connecticut and back.

An echo of the campaign against Mormons was heard Tuesday when W. H. Russell Sr. began taking evidence at Covington, Tenn., in a suit against Uncle Sam for claims of $3,000,000. This amount, he says, is due for supplies furnished Gen. Albert Sidney Johnson, then a colonel of United States regulars.

More than 50 automobiles and taxicabs were destroyed Wednesday in a fire which consumed the one-story brick building, at 1710-1718 Indiana avenue, Chicago, occupied by C. A. Coey & Co as a garage.

The United States schoolship Itasca arrived at Corunna, Spain, Wednesday. This is the first vessel of the American government to call at Corunna since the Spanish American war.

As a result of a street fight at Chillicothe, Tex., at 5:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Thomas Robbins and Barnett Smith are both dead from knife wounds inflicted upon each other in the combat. The men were brothers-in-law.

The entire town of Taft, Mont., with the exception of the postoffice, one grocery store and a saloon was destroyed by fire Thursday. The blaze started from a forest fire.

Michael Reilly, a puddler at Danville, Ill., caused a small panic when he swallowed his false teeth. When Reilly's teeth became lodged in his throat, he dropped his puddling bar and without a word dashed from the mill. Workmen standing nearby, not knowing what had occurred, and thinking Reilly was seeking safety from an accident in the mill, joined in the flight. The fleeing men were joined by the whole mill force. At top speed Reilly ran for the office of a doctor, and on the way hundreds of curious persons joined in the chase. Then the minimized Marathon ended, for in the meantime a doctor was probing for Reilly's molars.

Despite protests of the Fort Worth Federation of Women's Clubs, Police Commissioner George Mulkey Saturday put women prisoners to work on the rock pile. No other city in Texas employs this system of punishment, but Mulkey said the city prisons are filled with women and only the dreaded rock pile will keep them out of jail. Ten women were given large hammers Saturday and worked 10 hours breaking up stones under a torrid sun. Four of the women were white and three were not out of their teens. The hard work exhausted them, but they were forced under the eye of a guard to continue their labors.

Although the river where his body went down was dragged all Friday night the body of Dr. A. K. Smith, who was drowned in the Chattahoochee river at Keith's Ferry, Ga., Thursday afternoon, has not been recovered. He was seen with a party of friends when he was drowned.

Henry Johnson, a negro assailant of a four-year-old girl, was hanged shortly before noon Saturday at Memphis, Tenn. Sheriff Shipp's rope, which had already seen service at 109 hangings at Chattanooga and elsewhere, was used. The negro's last two meals on earth, in accordance with his desires, were of chicken.

The body of Joseph Farello of Detroit, Mich., who gave his life in saving the Michigan Central train from being wrecked Saturday, was taken to Wyne. The railroad track west of there is undergoing repairs and several rails were unsafe when the fast train was due. Farello was sent to flag the train. Noting that the train did not slow down in response to his frantic signaling, he remained close to the track, misjudging the speed of the train, and did not jump until the locomotive was nearly upon him. One of the cylinder heads struck him as the engine passed, killing him instantly.

Mrs. Douglas Gilbert, aged 73, of Pana, Ill., the oldest person to participate in the annual world's spelling match in connection with the Winona Lake Assembly program at Warsaw, Ind., won first honors and will be awarded a prize of $20. Without hesitation she spelled "concatenation," on which A. B. Curry of Memphis, Tenn., and Helen Servoss of Muncie, Ind., who carried off the second and third prizes, failed. Other words that proved stumbling stones to the 80 contestants were erysipelas, surrogate, prerogative, plebeian, chaotic and impenetrable.

A mine of point is to be established on the old Jenkins farm near Cottage Grove, Tenn. Will Jenkins, now a leading merchant of Chattanooga, once resided on the farm and says that when a boy, by mixing oil with a certain soil on the farm he manufactured a water-proof paint. A chemist says the soil is worth from $3 to $5 per pound.

Roy Harrison, 9 years old, who lives near the range where the national shooting tournament is being held at Camp Perry, O., was struck in the back with a revolver bullet Tuesday and is believed to be fatally injured. The accident occurred during skirmish fire by the Thirteenth United States Cavalry. The bullet evidently glanced when it struck a stone, as the victim was to one side of the range when he was hit.

Erie Poole, postmaster at Cardwell, Mo., is under arrest at Poplar Bluff, charged with a shortage of $1,200 in his accounts with the government. The arrest was made by Federal Marshal Willis, who took Poole before the commissioner at Poplar Bluff.

The original battleship Dreadnought, the pride of the British Navy for many years, has been sold at auction as junk for $115,000.

EVA MONTAGUE MYERS, EXPIRES IN DENVER.

WAS LEADER IN SUN WORSHIP FAITH

Funeral Will Be Conducted by High Priest, With Peculiar Religious Rites.

Denver, Aug. 18.—Mrs. Eva Montague Myers, high priestess of the Sun Worshipers, whose peculiar beliefs and practices have been the subject of investigations by the police and medical fraternities of several cities, is dead at her home, 1235 Gaylord street. She was the personal representative in Denver of Rev. Dr. Otoman-Zar-Aduh-Hanish, founder of the sect, who has been driven out of Denver several times and has been haunted by the police of various other cities. The funeral will be one of the most novel ever seen in Denver. Mr. Hanish himself will conduct the services, and the date of the funeral has not been set, pending his arrival from Chicago today. The body will be temporarily laid to rest in Palmyra Cemetery, but it is said to be the wish of Hanish that the last resting place of the high priestess shall be a mountain top, where she will be nearer to the sun she worshiped.

BLACKHANDER IN A TRAP.
New Orleans Suspect Caught in Chicago on Way to Cade.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—Vincent Crapaglia, alias Ciparelli, 44, a Sicilian, of New Orleans, said by the police to be one of the leading spirits of the Italian Mafia in this country, was captured Monday by Detectives Longabardi and Bernachi, while in the act of getting a box supposed to contain $1000, which had been placed under a sidewalk at Eighty-eighth street and Cottage Grove avenue by Benedetto Caro, a wealthy Italian grocer.

Longabardi and Bernachi had been waiting in the bushes in the rain and mud less than an hour when Crapaglia made his appearance. When they placed their revolvers at his head, Crapaglia showed fight and attempted to draw a knife, but was he quickly disarmed and placed under arrest. He pleaded to be shot.

SUPERIOR WIRELESS PHONE.
Enables Exchange of Words a Distance of 310 Miles.

Paris, Aug. 18.—Naval Lieutenant Colin, Jeanes and Mercier, the inventors of a wireless telephone which recent tests have been found to be superior to anything existing, achieved remarkable successes with their new instrument Sunday, when they communicated with the wireless station at Rade Seine, department of Finistere, a distance of about 310 miles. The transmitted words were somewhat faint, but could be plainly discerned, and the officers are confident that they can make great improvements in the apparatus which has been the result of only four months' experimentation, enabling the exchange of conversation up to six or seven hundred miles.

Motor Cyclist Thrown to Death.
Paterson, N. J., Aug. 18.—At the Clifton cycle stadium Sunday "Sonny" Bridge, 23 years old, a motorcycle and former lightweight pugilist, was thrown from the motor cycle, which he was testing on the track, and instantly killed. Bridge, whose home was in Waltham, Mass., had been scheduled to ride a 20-mile race with James Moran.

Makes a Whaling Record.
Victoria, B. C., Aug. 18.—The world's record for a week's catch by any coast whaling station was broken last week by the Kyquoot station, to which 26 whales were taken by the steam whaler St. Lawrence. The best catch known heretofore was 22, a record also made by the St. Lawrence. The Kyquoot station has taken 234 whales since the season began.

When he saw South Louisville, however, he grinned and said: "Gee, I'm glad to be here." Rhea took his prisoner to the jail and said that the trip was uneventful. The people obeyed, and not even a skirt was torn.

Hopkinsville, Ky.—Notwithstanding unfavorable weather conditions, the indications are that bumper crops will be realized, this being especially true of corn. Owing to the wet spring the farmers were delayed in preparing their land, and did not get it out in anything like the usual time. It was feared that the crop would be very short because of its failure to mature before cold weather. Recent soaking rains, though, have given it a great boost, and it is now growing with such rapidity that it is believed it will prove equal to the records set by any former years. Other crops are looking equally as well.

RACE RIOT AT SPRINGFIELD

TROOPS ARE RUSHED TO ILLINOIS CAPITAL TO AID IN MAINTAINING ORDER.

NEGRO IS SPIRITED AWAY

George Richardson, Who Assaulted Mrs. Hallam, Is Removed to Bloomington by a Nurse of the Sheriff's.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 15.—Springfield is in the hands of a mob of enraged citizens, who began last night to exact vengeance on negro residents for an assault committed Friday by George Richardson, a negro, on Mrs. Hallam, a white woman.

Gov. Deneen was asked by Sheriff Werner to furnish him with all the troops he could. He sent orders to the following commands to come at once:

Companies G and L, Fifth infantry, Peoria.
Company D, Fifth infantry, Bloomington.
Company A, Fifth infantry, Pekin.
Company F, Fifth infantry, Decatur.
Company F, Third infantry, Pontiac.
They will arrive here in the morning.

Orders were also sent to the following companies to be in readiness to come to Springfield at any time:

Company M, Fourth infantry, Champaign.
Company A, Fourth infantry, Arcola.
Company B, Fifth infantry, Taylorville.
Battery A, Danville.

East End in Flames.
At 1 o'clock this morning the whole east end of the town burst into flames, the torch having been applied to several negro houses by the desperate men.

Two men are dead and probably two score others are injured, mostly negroes.

The rabble is sweeping through the streets attacking every negro met. All the local militia are on duty, and half a dozen companies from other cities are rushing here on special trains. Still other companies are ordered to hold themselves in reserve.

The fire department is helpless to combat the flames in the negro quarter on account of the threatening attitude of the mob toward firemen.

Dead: J. S. Scott, Louis Johnson. The injured are: Fred Ramsey of the Gatling gun section of the Illinois national guard, struck on arm by stone.

Oscar Dahlkamp, policeman, struck over eye by rock.

Albert Biedler, employed at post office, shot in hip by stray bullet.

Philip Pollock of Chicago, badly lacerated while aiding Mayor Reed in escaping from mob at Loper's.

John A. Shell, shot in shoulder by negro.

Elwin Bingham, struck on head with brick.

Prohibition Candidate Injured.
E. W. Chafin, candidate for president of the United States on the Prohibition ticket, struck on head with brick.

Rev. T. D. Logan, struck on head with brick.

Richard and another negro wanted for murder were stealthily taken from the Springfield jail Friday evening and rushed to Bloomington, whence they were later taken to Peoria.

It is thought that with the arrival of the out-of-town troops the streets will be cleared and order will be restored.

Negroes in various parts of town have been attacked, and in some cases have turned with considerable effect on their assailants.

Cavalrymen Are Disarmed.
A cavalryman of Troop B attempted to separate the combatants and was nearly overpowered by those in pursuit of several negroes.

A call for help brought several other cavalrymen to the scene, but they were all disarmed and their guns carried away by the rioters. Most of the members of Troop B of Taylorville are on guard around the jail, whence Geo. Richardson, the negro who assaulted Mrs. Hallam at her home, was removed early Friday to Bloomington.

The rioters who had gathered in front of the jail following the incarceration of Richardson were enraged by the race practiced by the sheriff in removing him.

A company of firemen was sent down the street in front of the jail in a spectacular run, attracting the attention of the crowd while Richardson and another negro, charged with a murder, were stealthily taken from the jail, across the Sangamon river, and placed on a train bound for Bloomington.

Negro Resorts Looted.
Finding that the negroes were gone, the mob amused itself for a time by looting negro resorts in Washington street. The amusement of the mob was tragically for the negroes many of whom were roughly handled and beaten with pieces of their own furniture.

The situation became so serious that Gov. Deneen sent hurried orders for extra troops. The local militia had been called out earlier in the evening to prevent trouble that was feared at that time.

The Springfield militia, after the shooting of the two white men Friday night, seems powerless to control the rioters and when the automobile which had taken the two prisoners from the jail to the train across the river returned to Springfield driven by its owner, Major Harry T. Loper, commissary of the Second brigade, Illinois national guard, a large number of the rioters assembled around the machine in front of Loper's restaurant.

Mob Wrecks Restaurant.
Despite a guard of police and members of the Fifth infantry with a Gatling gun, the crowd wrecked the restaurant, tearing everything to pieces, demolishing the automobile and setting it on fire. The fire department was summoned to extinguish the burning automobile and another struggle ensued when the militiamen tried to drive back the rabble to allow the firemen to play a hose on the burning machine. Three members of the Gatling gun squad were injured during the melee and the rioters took several guns from the soldiers.

These captured guns were used to finish wrecking the restaurant. When the mob reached the bottom of the stairway, leading to the buffet of the restaurant, they found the dead body of Louis Johnson, 16 years old.

A doctor who examined the body said the boy had been shot in the neck, where there was a wound, but another doctor who came up later said that the boy's death was due to a broken back.

MOB OF 300 ATTACK PORTSMOUTH (VA.) JAIL.
Norfolk, Va., Aug. 15.—A mob of 300 men attacked Portsmouth jail at 2 o'clock this morning bent on lynching William King and Henry Smith, both negroes, who were held on the charge of criminally assaulting Mrs. Katherine Powell, an aged white woman, last Monday.

The negroes had been removed to Norfolk jail earlier in the evening for safe keeping.

The mob for the doors of the jail, but were met by Deputy Jailer Heubert and half a score of officers, of whom the cell keys were demanded, and refused. The crew was forced back by policemen with drawn weapons and the fire department was called out to disperse the mob with the hose.

At 2 a. m. the crowd had left the vicinity of the jail, and it is reported that they are congregating elsewhere, and intend to march to Norfolk and attack the jail in the hope of securing the prisoners.

ALMOST ESCAPED DETECTION.
Kansas City Negro Came Near Making Good $8,500 Theft.

Kansas City, Aug. 15.—George Wilcox, a negro formerly employed as a janitor in the National Bank of Commerce, Tuesday night confessed to the theft of a package containing $8,500 from the bank on April 25, 1907.

Wilcox was arrested Monday. The evidence against him was laid before the grand jury and an indictment returned against him a few hours before he confessed. After the confession Wilcox led the officers to his home, where he dug out of the cellar a tin box said to contain $1,000 of the missing money.

Immediately after the disappearance of the money from the bank, Wilcox was suspected, but for a long time no evidence was found against him. He was more frugal in his habits than before and even borrowed money from bank shares. In September of last year he left the service of the bank and since then has worked only one week. He bought a few lots and built a modern home, furnishing it to a costly plane. This extravagance led to his arrest.

They were in charge of Foreman Hollahan and when they failed to send word after a reasonable time he started down the manhole to find out the reason. He was quickly driven back by the fumes and shouted for help.

Police reserves, firemen and fellow workmen, each in turn was overcome and soon had to be drawn back by the rope to which he was attached. The bodies of the two men were recovered after the gas at that point was shut off.

The losses of the adherents of Mulai Hafid are estimated at 300 killed and 500 wounded. An immense amount of booty, including a large number of cattle, was captured. The booty was so great that the victors were obliged to sell at a quarter of the market price to get rid of it.

PRINCE TAKING WORK CURE

SON OF EMPEROR WILLIAM IS WORKING OFF SUPERFLUOUS WEIGHT.

LEADING THE SIMPLE LIFE

Exact a Full Day's Work from the Gardeners and Workmen on the Estate Every Day in the Week.

Berlin, Aug. 17.—Prince Eitel Friedrich, second son of the emperor, has decided that hard work and plenty of it is the best cure for his threatening obesity.

At the present moment he is staying at his summer residence in Genheim castle, near Charlottenburg, where, from morning to night, he engages in the most strenuous labor. He applies himself with the utmost assiduity to gardening, tree felling, cutting hedges, sawing wood, carpentry and the building of potting sheds.

The gardeners and other workmen connected with the estate, which consists of a fair-sized natural park on the banks of the Havel, obtain little leisure while the prince is at the residence, as he exacts from them a full day's work every day in the week.

Princess Remonstrates.
For several weeks he has taken a leading part in the construction of a riding school, and on one occasion during the great heat was gently remonstrated with by the princess for working so hard. "Oh, I think work is a splendid cure for obesity," and continued his task, as though he were a paid laborer.

When not working in the grounds he and the princess set out for long rides on horseback, leaving the house before 7 o'clock in the morning without a groom, taking with them light lunch, which they eat in the forest and return to the castle just in time to dress for the evening dinner. Other times they drive together in a dogcart with a tandem team and picnic in the woods.

The princess takes her sketch book with her and, as she is a trained artist, she has made quite a collection of landscapes of her own work.

On these occasions the prince, after his return, always applies himself for some hours to manual labor at the castle.

Life in the castle, on the whole, is very simple, there are no superfluous lackeys in attendance and the household is conducted more in the manner of a villa than that of a prince of the royal blood.

FLEET LEAVES AUCKLAND.
Pandemonium Reigns as Americans Hoist Anchor and Steam Away.

Auckland, N. Z., Aug. 16.—The American Atlantic fleet departed for Sydney at 8:15 o'clock this morning. The weather was fine and large crowds were ashore and aloft to bid farewell to the Americans. Excursion craft loaded to the rails dotted the harbor.

As anchors were hoisted and the flagship pointed her nose towards the mouth of the harbor pandemonium reigned.

The shore batteries belched forth parting salutes, which were answered by the American ships and the whistle and sirens on the excursion flotilla resounded across the harbor and were echoed by the distant hills.

The American ships were kept busy dipping their flags in answer to the salutations of the New Zealanders.

THE GRAND JURY REPORT.

As a result of a thorough and searching investigation of the report circulated that Judge T. P. Cook and Denny P. Smith were connected with the night rider organization of Western Kentucky the grand jury of this county submitted the following written report:

"We, the grand jury of Calloway county, August, 1908, have investigated the reports regarding Judge T. P. Cook and Commonwealth's Attorney Denny P. Smith concerning night riding and have found it to be absolutely false and no truth in it. This we find after investigating thoroughly."

The report was signed by the foreman, S. C. Holcomb, and every member of the jury. This investigation came about upon demand of Judge Cook, who delivered a special charge to the jury after he learned the report was being circulated.

The origin of the false and slanderous reports regarding Cook and Smith is a mystery. It was stated that County Attorney Krone, of Lyon county, was the originator of the accusations. However in an interview published in the Paducah Sun of the 13th Krone denies the charge as follows:

"I have never made the statement that Judge Cook or Commonwealth's Attorney Smith had taken the night rider oath or were members of such a band," said County Attorney Walter Krone, of Lyon county, when asked concerning charge of Judge Cook to the Lyon county grand jury in which the declaration was made that two Lyon county officials had started a report that both he and Mr. Smith had taken the night rider oath.

"Everybody seems to regard it as certain that Judge Cook referred to Judge Crumbaugh and myself, but I have not and I am quite sure Judge Crumbaugh has never made such a charge against Judge Cook or Mr. Smith."

The circulation of such slander is regrettable. The editor of the Ledger is Judge Cook's neighbor, and while we have not in the past been his political champion we believe in fair play and honest dealing toward every man. The charge that Cook and Smith are night riders is the same character of damnable lies that have been charged against the editor of the Ledger. There is no foundation for them. They spring from the minds of contemptible blackmailers and are circulated through envy and hate.

Every man who refuses to do the bidding of a few trust purchased puppets, every man who champions the cause of the common people and every member of the tobacco association is libelously accused of being a night rider. However, the people are going to rule regardless of all lies and all liars.

"Of course, the courts are greatly hampered on account of the fact that night riding has grown out of an industrial war between the people and the trust. Like other wars it had two sides to it. The honest farmer upon the one side does not endorse crime. The trust upon the other side committed the first crime against all the people. That honest farmer knows it. While he does not endorse any crime and is not a night rider, he cannot see why the governor and the trust beneficiaries and the soldiers and everybody else are after the night rider and nobody goes after the trust. The people who have been harmed by the night rider, the people whose business has been interfered with by reason of the change in the manner of handling and selling tobacco and all the outside world call that honest farmer a night rider because he asks, 'why don't you go after the trust, too? So there it is.'"

Commonwealth's Attorney Denny Smith struck the nail on the head in the above statement in his recent interview. Every man who stands for the farmer, every farmer who stands for the association is termed a night rider. But regardless of the backbiting, regardless of the carping of the trust harlots the association is going to live. Its destruction can not be purchased with a damnable lie, it will take the life blood of patriots, and every drop of it, too, to purchase its annihilation. The tobacco association is going to live, it must live, it will live.

We do not see how any man who is honest with himself and loves his fellow-man can criticize in the least what Joel Forte said about Gov. Willson in his speech here Monday. Willson has insulted every tobacco raiser in the State by saying that as a rule he lives in a hut and is naturally lawless. It was for this abuse that Joel Forte trimmed him, and he would be unworthy of the hearty welcome he always receives when comes to Trigg if he had not done it. The man who loves happiness and home, who is interested in the welfare of his fellow-man and wants to see plenty and prosperity everywhere, will not criticize the man who has the courage to defend an honest people against unwarranted abuse and slander, even though it should be necessary to hold up to scorn a man who occupies the executive chair of a great State like Kentucky.—Cadiz Record.

A special from Danville, Va., says: "Capt. William H. Robinson, for thirty years a leader in the Republican party here and who is presidential elector from the Fifth district, came out in a letter to-day repudiating Taft and announcing his intention of supporting Bryan. He gives as his reason for leaving the party that Taft is a Unitarian. He says: 'All the money in the world could not induce me to vote for a man for President who does not believe in Jesus Christ.' He speaks of Bryan as being a Christian gentleman and appeals to all Christians to support The Commonwealth. Capt. Robinson was prominently mentioned for the postmastership here. He was the leader here of that faction of the party called the 'Lily Whites.'"

Ira D. Sankey, known as an evangelist throughout the Christian world, died at his home in Brooklyn. Mr. Sankey was 68 years old and for the past five years was blind. His death resulted from complications brought on by overwork. Among his most famous hymns are "The ninety and nine," and "When the Mists Have Rolled Away." His songs are said to have a circulation of more than 50,000,000.

The fellow who criticizes everything the Association does and yet claims to be its friend, is deceiving nobody. The same fellow would be its avowed enemy if he were not too cowardly to let the public know that he is as mean as the devil.—Cadiz Record.

Chronic Diarrhoea Cured.

"My father has for years been troubled with chronic diarrhoea, and tried every means possible to effect a cure, without avail," writes John H. Zerkle, of Phillips, W. Va. "He saw Chamberlain's Colic, Colera and Diarrhoea Remedy advertised in the Philippi Republican and decided to try it. The result is one bottle cured him and he has not suffered with the disease for eighteen months. Before taking this remedy he was a constant sufferer. He is now sound and well, and although sixty years old, can do as much work as a young man." Sold by Dale & Stubblefield.

Hardy Rodgers.

Fellow citizens of Calloway county, in announcing myself as a candidate for Assessor to be voted for in primary, November 3rd, 1908, I take this opportunity of soliciting the vote of every man in the County as I will be unable to see as many of you as I desire. I live in Swann precinct and have always supported the principles of the Democratic party, and no member of my family has ever before asked for assistance from the people among whom we have always lived. I would not now be a candidate were it not for a serious accident that befell me a few months ago which makes it impossible for me to labor on the farm as I have always done. I believe I am qualified to discharge the duties of the office, and should you consider me worthy and every way qualified for Assessor of this county, I would appreciate your vote more than I can here express. Should I receive your votes sufficiently to elect me, I will try to make you a faithful officer, and will always feel grateful for your assistance to me and my family. Yours truly,

HARDY RODGERS.

GOOD OLD CALLOWAY.

Her fair name besmirched by the public slanderer, conditions that are deplored but distorted and magnified to the outside world, still the home of as splendid and courageous citizenship as the proud commonwealth of Kentucky boasts, the garden spot of the earth, a land of milk and honey and beautiful Italian skies, a land dimpled with fair valleys and crowned with fertile hills, is splendid Old Calloway. The "Pearl of the Purchase," with head pillowed in the lap of Proud Graves and dainty feet dabbling in the placid waters of the beautiful Tennessee she is envied by Beargrass, Bluegrass and Mountains.

It's good to live here. We want to live always, and if a generous creator will permit us we will take chances with eternity right here in Old Calloway. But if we must die it's 'neath the sod and soil of the best county on top side of this mundane sphere we want to be laid by the best and bravest and truest and kindest and gentlest folks that inhabit this great round globe, that our dust might mingle with the best and richest and most productive dirt anywhere found on mother earth. If we possessed an estate growing only roses and alder and honeysuckle and jessamine vines we'd garner the whole parcel and lay them at Old Calloway's feet and then fall on bended knee and weep tears of regret that our tribute was so trivial.

Maybe you don't like this good Old Calloway? Then it's your move, 'cause Old Calloway is going to remain right here till the crack of doom. Maybe you don't like the good, gentle folk who live scattered over this good Old Calloway? Then it's your move once more. These honest toilers are going to continue their abode here till called to a richer reward and a home in the skies. Next to the anticipation of this home in the skies they find greatest pleasure in wooing the soil of good Old Calloway to win their bread.

The Garden of Eden was infested by the serpent yet it was a beautiful paradise and fashioned by an Omnipotent hand. While Old Calloway has a few snakes to defile she possesses such a great preponderance of the good and true that she can be but little removed from a paradise. If you can't feel this way about good Old Calloway you'd better consult a doctor's year book or an almanac. Your liver is out of fix and your spleen is enlarged. Quit parading your troubles before an unsympathetic public. Take calomel or blue whistlers, the result is more prompt and decidedly of greater benefit. Get right with your neighbor, take at least a little sunshine everywhere you go, and if the prescription doesn't cure ask a court of inquiry to pass upon your sanity or a horse doctor to diagnose for amianity. Really, now honestly, isn't Old Calloway just a little too good for you, instead of your being too all-fired pious for Old Calloway?

Sit down on the west side of a high board fence one of these August afternoons and think this over coolly and deliberately. Locate the rotten spot, find the bad odor. It's dollars to doughnuts you will not be guilty of a trespass in so doing.

Libby Prison Diarrhoea Relieved.

Mr. Edward E. Henry, with the United States Express Co., Chicago, writes. Our General Superintendent, Mr. Quick, handed me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy some time ago to check at attack of the old Libby Prison diarrhoea. I have used it since that time and cured many on our trains who have been sick. I am an old soldier who served with Rutherford B. Hayes and William McKinley four years in the 23rd Ohio Regiment, and have no ailment except Libby Prison diarrhoea, which this remedy stops at once." For sale by Dale & Stubblefield.

Three Barns Burned.

A barn belonging to Tobe Roberts, who lives on the east side of the county between Shiloh and Faxon, and adjoining stables, were burned last Friday night between 9 and 10 o'clock by fire of incendiary origin. Mr. Roberts is one of the county's best citizens and one of the staunchest association members in the district. He does not express any opinion as to who the guilty persons are. Neighbors of Mr. Roberts made up about $75 to pay the expense of securing blood hounds for the purpose of apprehending the parties and Sheriff Edwards telephoned to Dyersburg, Tenn., for dogs but for some reason they never came.

Saturday night between 1 and 2 o'clock two barns on the D. M. Hendrick place, near the mouth of Blood River, were also burned by incendiaries. One of the barns was the property of Mr. Hendrick and the other belonged to his son, Smoot, who had another barn burned some few months ago. Mr. Hendrick and his sons are also members of the association.

A detachment of the state troops has been sent to the section of the burnings and will remain on duty there for some time.

Kelley Steele and wife returned to New Mexico Tuesday morning after a visit to relatives in the county for the past several days.

There has been a great deal said for and against night riding and night riders. Now we would like to ask a question or two.

How should we as citizens and as christians treat this subject? Should we say all manner of evil about these men because they have made a mistake and thereby commit a wrong ourselves, or should we treat them as neighbors should treat neighbor, trying to wield an influence over them for good by our actions and words? We say without fear of contradiction that the latter is by far the best way, and in fact, the only way that we as the people of God should treat this case.

Christ says "Ye are the salt of the earth." And this being true we should try to retain a saving influence. It lies as much in the hands of the christians of this county to bring about peace and good feelings as it does in the hands of our land, for without the prayers and concerted actions of the people of God the law can not accomplish the good it is intended to. So christians let us do as Christ would do if he was here on earth, and when we all do this we will surely have a peaceable, law-abiding country. We know these men have done wrong, but we can not right the wrong by doing wrong ourselves. Neither should we try to take the law in our own hands. We want it distinctly understood that we are not writing this in the interest of any man or set of men but in the cause of our Master and for the good of our country and for the good of every man in Calloway county. We write this in love and without fear of incurring the ill will of any one. We have no ill will toward any man, hence we are not afraid to do our christian duty by offering these few suggestions. Our motto is "peace on earth, good will to all men."

TOM TINKER.

We are presenting today the above named gentleman as a candidate for re-election as county superintendent of schools. Mr. Langston is one of the very few superintendents who opposed the passage of the present school law, his opposition being based upon the fact that under its operation it is possible to elect negro trustees. He is thoroughly conversant with the work of the county schools and during his term of office has devoted his whole time to the betterment of our public schools. He is a tireless worker and has been of great benefit to the institution of learning in our county and he desires a careful inquiry into his record as superintendent. He is popular throughout the county and especially among the teachers, who are acquainted with his work. Investigate his claims before casting your ballot.

Cured Hay Fever and Summer Cold.

A. S. Nusbaum, Batesville, Indiana, writes: "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever, and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case, and I took several medicines which seemed only to aggravate it. Fortunately I insisted upon having Forley's Honey and Tar. It quickly cured me. My wife has since used Forley's Honey and Tar with the same success." Sold by all druggists.

All Liars Look Alike.

Referring to Judge Cook's charge to the Lyon county grand jury the Paducah Sun says:

"Following the usual line of his charges to grand juries, Judge Cook created interest by his strongly worded denouncement of two officers of Lyon county and officers and citizens of other counties, who circulated reports that he and Mr. Smith were members of a night rider band. He said that a baser falsehood had never been uttered against mankind and that men who would circulate such rumors are worse than brutes and worthy of the darkest cell in the penitentiary. All criminals plead not guilty, he reminded the jurors, and charged them to look carefully into the evidence against all accused, and if it was sufficient, indict them."

THE PINE NEEDLE TRAIL

By VIRGINIA M. CORNELL

(Copyright, by Shortstory Pub. Co.)

"There it is again," said the man riding in front, "there at your left, see?"

His companion seemed to look at the spot indicated. "It hasn't raised a rod since we struck it back where the road comes up the mountain," he said. "Stinson," turning to address the third man, who acted as guide to the other two, "you know all things, what's the meaning of this phenomenon?"

The guide's eyes took in the object of interest—a broken twig of pine by the roadside—noting with a casual glance of comprehension the green spikes strewn at intervals behind and ahead of them.

"Oh, that," said he, "that's Pine Needle Jim's trail. He's come up the mountain at the gap back yonder. Been in town givin' himself up again, likely."

"Givin' himself up?" questioned the other.

"To th' law, you know. You gentlemen never hear of Pine Needle Jim in your travels?"

"Oh, unfold your tale, Stinson," interposed the man who had first spoken. "I allowed—if you'll excuse my vernacular—that you'd have one."

A slight lighting of the eyes in the guide's bearded face indicated his acceptance of the charge.

"Most people hereabouts could tell you about Jim," he observed. "We'll pass his shack farther on at the side of Island Creek Basin. We can go by an' take a look at the Basin if you'll wish to; strangers generally are fond of seein' it."

He did not add that strangers were often fond of listening to his own voice and speech; possibly he did not know it, yet it was true. He was a typical example of the finest of mountaineer manhood, splendid of physique, with a contrasting unconscious grace of address and movement, and a voice that had the semblance of something silvery and sweet in tone. Coming out of his powerful chest, this was agreeably noticeable, as was his habitual grave gentleness, as the two men prospecting in the interests of the Alabama Coal and Iron Company had found him surprisingly companionable, and he had relieved the tedium of many long mountain rides for them.

"He lives all by himself, his shack almost hangin' over th' edge of the Basin," Stinson continued, "like it might fall in any moment. He spends a lot of time by it lookin' over. Some day he'll tumble in."

"Jim killed a man once at the foot of th' gap you recollect passin'. The two 'd had words an' both men had their guns. As soon as it came to him what he'd done he rode into town an' give himself up to th' marshal, tellin' him he'd just killed Polk Harbook, an' his body was a lyin' by the big spring at th' foot of th' gap."

"I done it in hot anger," he told him, "but hit's done an' done, an' I'm willin' to pay the penalty."

"He lay in jail for months, an' hit 'peared to wear on him power-ful—See, there's his trail again; he's crossed to the right here—specially as his sister Rainie, who'd been Polk's wife, an' was the one they'd had the words over, died durin' the time without leavin' no kind of a message for him. He'd raised her from a baby, them two bein' all they was of th' family, an' hit was generally allowed that bein' Polk Harbook's wife wasn't akin to bein' in heaven." Stinson paused, the appreciative lighting of his face again showing.

"At least those that hadn't never been hit thought so; Rainie herself seemed to 'low that if she couldn't be one she'd try the other; she'd drooped from the moment the news come to her. Droll, them kind of things are, aren't they?"

"Jim was cleared at his trial, the jury knowin' both men, an' lowin'. I reckon, that Polk needed his killin', but Jim was never right afterward; hit appeared he couldn't get it in his mind that th' law had really freed him from the charge of murderin' Polk, an' direct'y he got a habit of goin' about once a month an' givin' himself up, like he done th' first time. His idea in strewin' these bits of pine bresh is that th' officers can track him by them when they come out after him. He thinks the body's a layin' by the spring yet. Hit all appears to seem as real to him as it did the day he done th' shootin'—that's been 20 years ago, I reckon."

"Twenty years!" Both listeners gasped. "That's the biggest yet," said one. "Do you mean to say—"

"I was busy growin' a mustache an' gettin' ready to vote," the guide spoke reflectively, the momentary twinkle of his grave eyes lighting them. "I've celebrated my fortieth birthday since. Hit just seems to me like one of the things I've always been a knowin' to. Hit could not have been long after the first crazy spell struck him that he took to strewin' the pine bresh—leavin' his trail, he calls it. Yonder in th' middle of th' road's another."

Stinson leaned down to look aside with his riding whip a bunch of green spikes lying in the sandy road. "Tis kind of queer when you come to think of it how long he's been a doin' this," he said, reflectively.

Neither of the others spoke, and the three horses paced side by side, their hoofbeats falling soft and muffled in the sandy soil. The late part of the evening was approaching, and the creep of twilight could be felt in the air. In the woods, with the lonely road ahead, this was the more noticeable, and the slight rising wind in the leafless trees gave forth an odd, foreboding sound, that began to cast its spell upon the two least familiar with it.

"Confound you, Stinson!" said one of them, half laughing, but touching his horse impatiently, at which all three quickened their gait, "you get on a fellow's nerves with your crazy Jim and his 'pine bresh.' What a liar you are, anyhow?"

When they had gone a few rods farther, a distant murmur reached the guide's accustomed ears.

"Hear that rushin' noise louder'n the wind in th' trees?" he asked. "That's Island creek goin' over the falls. We'll come to th' ford direct'y; hit's just above. If you-all would love to call on Jim, his shack's just off the road on th' f.r. side. But the sightliest place for a view of th' Basin is about midway of it, this side th' stream. From that point hit looks round as a cup, an' the sides straight down. The creek starts off the mountain there; the first drop's about a hundred feet. You-all c'n hear it now, can't you?"

The two men caught the sound. "How far is it?" asked one. "Half a mile or about so. The water's low, an' don't make much fuss goin' down. After our heavy rains you can hear it boom'n like a cannon all over th' country."

A little farther and a rise of ground was observable through the thinning timber, and the rush of water sounded nearer.

"Straight ahead through the woods is th' spot I was tellin' you of," said Stinson. "The road bends to the right an' crosses th' ford. Jim's left it here," he added, "do you see?"

He pointed to where the clusters of green spikes ceased showing upon the yellow ribbon ahead, then reined his horse a little into the woods toward the left, his keen eyes taking at a glance a large scope of the leafy ground under the naked trees. "Here you are!" he said presently, and the two prospectors, spurring their horses, came up with him to look with interest at the freshly broken, jagged branch of pine lying upon the dead leaves. "Yonder's another," he said, pointing. "Now, with your gentlemen's permission I'll find out how good you are at followin' a trail."

The green-spiked branches were more irregular in distance here, and scattered as though strewn in the greatest haste. But, with the aid of the guide, the two men were able to go from one to another, and congratulated themselves upon their woodcraft.

"What would bring him out here, Stinson?" asked one. "Reckon he heard us and thought the posse was after him?"

"Took one of those 'running starts' we've been learning about, more likely," remarked the other, viewing their guide with good-natured sarcasm. "He'll run off the bank if he isn't careful, won't he, old man?"

"He might," replied Stinson, seriously. "Hit's a bad place for a start here." He was looking along the line of broken branches ahead, his gaze intent and troubled. But after a little, seeing nothing unusual, he returned to his easy, companionable manner.

"We'll have to make our look at th' Basin short," he observed. "Hit's goin' to be night direct'y, an' we've several miles of road ahead before supper an' a place to sleep at." Yet still, as he went on, accepting with quiet amusement the occasional foreshadowing references of the others to the "pine needle trail," the man to whom it was familiar continued to look through the fading daylight for another familiar sight—a stooping, pathetic figure with a grizzled beard and a slouched hat shading its face.

"Jim!" he called, after one of these long looks. "O, Jim!" "But Jim answers not," one commented, humorously. "And it's been some moments since we've found any 'pine bresh' as you observe. He's fooled us and gone home another way."

"We call your bluff, old man!" laughed the other. "You laid the trail yourself, and made your tale to fit it. I told you you were lyin'."

The guide shrugged his shoulders, smiling, then suddenly bent forward to listen. His ears had caught a sound other than the falling water. "Hush a minute," he said, "I heard a scream!"

He galloped ahead, and in a few bounds through the short, stunted undergrowth bordering its banks, reached the side of the Basin. Pulling up his horse, he slipped to the ground, and holding cautiously the bridle rein, took a step or two forward and leaned over the edge. The two others had followed him, and as they came nearer, alighted, leading their horses. At a gesture from him, they approached the spot where Stinson stood, and, startled, gazed with him far out and down the darkling waters of Island Creek Basin, to where, upon its foam-flecked ripples, danced an old slouched hat among clusters of green-spiked branches—the end of the pine needle trail! Then, with heads uncovered, they turned away.

Little Catherine has been boarding on a farm this summer, and many of the rural expressions are wholly unfamiliar to her. One day she chanced to hear her country hostess, praising the great qualities of a certain thrifty neighbor.

"He really ain't got much, compared to some folks," said the farmer's wife, "but he makes out wonderful well; he's so fore-handed."

That evening the man thus lauded happened to drop in, and Catherine immediately slid up to him, with curious eyes. Slowly she revolved about the chair in which he sat, and so persistently did she gaze at him that the farmer's wife finally noticed it.

"Well, Catherine," she said, "you seem to find a good deal to look at in Mr. B—; don't you?" "Why," replied the child, her little forehead wrinkled in perplexity. "I did want to see his two never hands, but I can't. Is he sittin' on 'em?"

Is Pe-ru-na Useful for Catarrh?

Should a list of the ingredients of Peru-na be submitted to any medical expert, of whatever school or nationality, he would be obliged to admit without reserve that the medicinal herbs composing Peru-na are of two kinds. First, standard and well-tried catarrh remedies. Second, well-known and generally acknowledged tonic remedies. That in one or the other of these uses they have stood the test of many years' experience by physicians of different schools. There can be no dispute about this, whatever. Peru-na is composed of some of the most efficacious and universally used herbal remedies for catarrhal diseases, and for such conditions of the human system as require a tonic. Each one of the principal ingredients of Peru-na has a reputation of its own in the cure of some phase of catarrh or as a tonic medicine.

The fact is, chronic catarrh is a disease which is very prevalent. Many thousand people know they have chronic catarrh. They have visited doctors over and over again, and been told that their case is one of chronic catarrh. It may be of the nose, throat, lungs, stomach or some other internal organ. There is no doubt as to the nature of the disease. The only trouble is the remedy. This doctor has tried to cure them. That doctor has tried to prescribe for them.

No other household remedy so universally advertised carries upon the label the principal active constituents, showing that Peru-na invites the full inspection of the critics.

India Gestion.

Here is a story the bishop of London told John Macvey the other day, says the Philadelphia Inquirer. They were holding an "exam" in an East-end school, and the teacher was explaining the chief products of the Indian empire. One child recited a list of comestibles. "Please, miss, India produces curries and pepper and cotton and chilies and chocolate and—"

"Yes, yes, and what comes after that?" "Please, miss, I don't remember." "Yes, but think. What is India so famous for?" "Please, m, Indigestion."

Warm Welcome Assured.

"And you say you haven't been home all the afternoon?" reprimanded the old lady on the bridge.

"No'm," confessed the small boy with wet hair.

"Well, why don't you go home right away? Your mother will be wearing her soul away for you."

"The little boy was thoughtful. "Yes'm, but if I got there before my hair dries she will be yeeving z shingle away for me. You see, I've been in swimming."

"Nails."

"Nails are a mighty good thing—particularly finger nails—but I don't believe they were intended solely for scratching—though I used mine largely for that purpose for several years. I was sorely affected and had it to do. One application of Hunt's Cure, however, relieved my itch and less than a box cured me entirely."

PILES NO MONEY TILL CURED

USUALLY ARE SHORT-LIVED

Religious Partnerships Seldom Last Long When Both Are Earnest Workers.

Two men formed a partnership for the prosecution of evangelistic work in Manhattan and Brooklyn. At the end of two months they separated, and each proceeded to reform the world in accordance with his own theories.

"I could have told you in the beginning," said an experienced church worker to one of the men, "that it was useless to form a partnership with anybody, but it seemed best to let you learn the futility of the plan for yourself. Of all partnerships that men can enter into, the religious combination is usually the most short-lived. Earnest laborers in that field are particularly deep set in their convictions and are likely to resent advice. I have tried several such partnerships myself, and I have seen others try them, but none of the deals lasted long. Mr. Moody and Mr. Sankey traveled together for a good many years, but, with that exception, most persons who combine to conduct a religious campaign, whether preachers or singers, or both, soon become dissatisfied with each other's tactics and conclude that they can accomplish more by going it alone."

JUST WHAT HE WANTED.

"Did you tell young Stuyvesant that I intended turning off the gas at ten o'clock?"

"Yes, pa, and he said he'd come at ten past ten."

NOT HER FAULT.

It was in the drawing room after dinner that they discussed an absent maiden friend's bad points with the usual grin and scathing glee. Having thoroughly dissected her personal appearance, they next paid attention to her mental shortcomings.

"She is a very singular girl," spoke the one.

"Yes, indeed," responded her companion, "but then that is not her fault, for I never saw a girl so anxious to be plural." — London Opinion.

CONSISTENTLY CHEERLESS.

"I understand that you farmers are going to get most of the profits from crops this year."

"So I hear," answered Farmer Cornsack. "But we've got to be mighty careful. If we ever get to payin' dividends regular some captain of finance will get hold of us and we'll be organized an' syndicated an' merged, till there won't be any profits for anybody except a few fellows with a little office somewhere in Jersey City."

A SCOT'S CRITICISM.

The late Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, who was noted for his genial humor, was once severely criticized by a fellow countryman for his un-Scottish habit of joke making.

He had just been elected M. P. for the Stirling Burghs, and a disappointed Scot remarked with a sigh:

"He'll nae do for us, mon; why he can joke wi'oot decency," — Bellman.

THE HURRY FAD.

"Mr. Cleveland," said a Princeton lecturer, "had little sympathy with the rush and hurry that the American business man so complacently affects—no sympathy with train and boat detentions, with the lunch table telephone, the letter phonograph and the other bluffs."

"Don't rush so," Mr. Cleveland once said to me. "Lightning might do a great deal more if it wasn't always in such an awful hurry."

WHY HE WAS ANXIOUS.

Albert's Particular Reason for Inquiry That Worried Nurse.

Albert was a solemn-eyed, spiritual-looking child.

"Nurse," he said one day, leaving his blocks and laying his hand gently on her knee, "nurse, is this God's day?"

"No, dear," said his nurse, "this is not Sunday. It is Thursday."

"I'm so sorry," he said, sadly, and went back to his blocks.

The next day and the next, in his serious manner he asked the same question, and the nurse tearfully said to the cook, "That child is too good for this world."

On Sunday the question was repeated, and the nurse with a sob in her voice, said, "Yes, Lambie. This is God's day."

"Then where is the funny paper?" he demanded.—Success.

One by the Colonel.

Some one had been telling the colonel about weather so warm that eggs could be fried on the sidewalk.

"Call that hot weather?" scoffed the colonel. "Why, that's nothing, sah."

"Think not, colonel?"

"No, sah. Why, Ah have seen it so hot down south, sah, that the popcorn popped right on the stalks."

"Where?"

"And that's not all, sah. The juke in the cane in the next field turned to molasses, ran through the fence, mixed up with the popcorn and formed the finest combination of popcorn and molasses that ever crossed your line."

"Talk about hot weather? Huh!"

FATIGUED EXPRESSION.

"Ladies First."

In this age of leveling up and leveling down, and of attempting to place women on the same plane as men in everything, chivalry is nearly a dead letter. Many wish it were altogether so, regarding it as a bar to the full emancipation of women. There can be no traffic here with such wrong-headed and wrong hearted notions. In the healthy atmosphere of sport such notions wither and fade like exotic in an alien soil.

"Ladies first!" is an abiding principle with all who are sportsmen.—Fry's Magazine.

Many People Deceived by Coffee.

We like to defend our indulgences and habits even though we may be convinced of their actual harmfulness.

A man can convince himself that "visky is good for him on a cold morning, or beer on a hot summer day—when he wants the visky or beer."

It's the same with coffee. Thousands of people suffer headaches and nervousness year after year but try to persuade themselves the cause is not coffee—because they like coffee.

"While yet a child I commenced using coffee and continued it," writes a Wis. man, "until I was a regular coffee fiend. I drank it every morning and in consequence had a blinding headache nearly every afternoon."

"My folks thought it was coffee that ailed me, but I liked it and would not admit it was the cause of my trouble, so I stuck to coffee and the headaches stuck to me."

"Finally, the folks stopped buying coffee and brought home some Postum. They made it right (directions on pkg.) and told me to see what difference it would make with my head, and during the first week on Postum my old affliction did not bother me once. From that day to this we have used nothing but Postum in place of coffee—headaches are a thing of the past and the whole family is in fine health."

Postum looks good, smells good, tastes good, is good, and does good to the whole body. "There's a Reason."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Well-being" in pkg.

NO SURPLUS FUNDS THERE.

Beggar Satisfied with Evidence of Poverty in Sight.

Two old Hebrew beggars were traveling together through the residence section of Pittsburgh not long ago, in quest of contributions toward their joint capital.

Presently they passed a handsome residence, from which sweet sounds of music issued. It was like a turn and hopefully he ascended the steps to the front door, eagerly watched by Jake, who expected quite a handsome addition to their funds.

His consternation was great consequently when he beheld like returning crestfallen and empty-handed.

Anxiously running to meet him, he said: "Well, they, how did you make out with the good people?"

"Ach, Jakey," replied like, "there was no use asking in there, because they are very poor people themselves. Just think—two lovely ladies playing on one piano!" — Judge's Literary.

OF COURSE HE WOULDN'T.

"You certainly wouldn't marry a girl for her money, would you, Tom?"

"Of course not, neither would I have the heart to let her become an old maid because she happened to be well off."

In Your Youth.

And then there was the time you took her to the county fair. You wore that new $2.98 suit, had Dewey Mungler's best roadster and rubber-tired rig and a new whip with a red ribbon tied around it. She wore a white dress with a blue sash, and a string of blue glass beads about her neck. Mind those entries in your "daily expense" book—candy, 10 cents; peanuts, 5 cents; merry-go-round tickets, 25 cents; side show, 20 cents; Weiner-wurst sandwiches, 20 cents; lemonade, 10 cents; ice cream, 20 cents; shooting gallery, 10 cents; dainties—you've got 'em yet, you sitting sad and she standing with her hand on your shoulder—50 cents. Gee, but you thought you "blew yourself" that day, didn't you? Los Angeles Express.

BABY CRIED AND SCRATCHED

All the Time—Covered with Torturing Eczema—Doctor Said Sores Would Last for Years—Perfect Cure by Cuticura.

"My baby niece was suffering from that terrible torture, eczema. It was all over her body but the worst was on her face and hands. She scratched all the time and could not sleep night or day from the scratching. I had her under the doctor's care for a year and a half and he seemed to do her no good. I took her to the best doctor in the city and he said that she would have the sores until she was six years old. But if I had depended on the doctor my baby would have lost her mind and died from the want of aid. But I used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment and she was cured in three months. Alice L. Dowell, 4759 Easton Ave., St. Louis, Mo., May 2 and 20, 1907."

The Spider and the Fly.

In the long warfare between the spider and the fly, the latter has had the housewife for its auxiliary and friend. The flies have been tolerated, even fed and nurtured, while the spiders and their webs have been ruthlessly destroyed. This unremitting and unrelenting war against it keeps the spider population down, while the flies increase and multiply by the millions and ten of millions, almost unchecked. The spider is ugly and his web is unsightly in the estimation of most people, but spiders hurt no human creature. They feed on flies, which are the foes of mankind, and do mankind a service.—Philadelphia Press.

Dr. Edwin P. Pardee, of New York City, says: "For several years I have recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."

Dr. N. B. Sizer, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I object to what are called patent medicines, whose maker alone knows what ingredients are put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use."
