WHERE THERE IS A WILL THERE'S A WAY.

"Where there is a will there is a way." Perhaps not one under the sound of my voice can remember the first time they ever heard this old proverb, yet it is just as true to day as it was when it was first uttered. It takes a will for us to find the way—to accomplish anything. Strong men have wills; weak ones wishes. Any one can drift, but it takes a will to stem the current. Let us consider the meaning of the word "will." It is a power-endowed to us by the great and good eternal being; and, as it is a God-giving faculty, if we do not make the right use of it, we may expect to answer for it when we come to the judgment. It is our faculty of choice, if we choose to overcome an obstacle. If we choose to accomplish a feat, it comes to our aid and enables us to endure difficulties; and, in the dark hours of adversity, it whispers in our ears that some day our names will be numbered with those who are successful, that same day we will rise from obscurity to a position of honor and trust, when our influence will be felt for good and that we have not lived for naught. Our will is our command, our testament, our determination. While all possess it, we fear but few make the right use of it. Our lives are given us to enjoy, to live for some grand and noble purpose. We may be assured that we can not ease, on days it takes a will to stem the current of life, and without it we can accomplish nothing. Of course there are, sometimes, mountains of difficulty in the pathway of human life that the most indomitable will can not ascend, but nine cases out of ten when the will is called into vigorous action these difficulties pass into nothingness. It is the key to success. It leads us through the gateway to knowledge, and points to the road that leads us to the height of our ambition. In the lives of great and good men who have their names emblazoned on the rounds of fame, it is the predominant trait. If Columbus had not possessed this will, he would never have found the way to America. He would not have waded through the discouragements which he met from time to time, won the title of being the discoverer of our beloved continent. If Henry Clay had not had the determination, he would not have been seen making his early oratorical display to the cattle of his father's barnyard. There were possibilities locked within his young breast, of which this act was a signal, which would, in maturer years inspire the hearts of his land's countrymen for liberty in an hour of great peril. His name crowns history today as being one of the greatest orators America ever knew. If Cyrus W. Field had not had this will, he would have given up the project of laying the submarine telegraph. Attempt after attempt were made; thousands after thousands of dollars were spent before it proved a success, but it was a success and it makes the name of Mr. Field famous today. An intuitive will was the ruling trait of Andrew Jackson, who rose from comparative obscurity to execute the highest office within the gifts of the American people. Let us next consider the lives of our martyred presidents, Lincoln and Garfield. They rose from poverty and indistinction to the highest of honors. They were not blessed in their early life with as good opportunities of received instruction as many who today trample the advantages under their feet as though they were trifles. They being reared under such circumstances, we know from the height they reached that they were possessed with a will, and a determination, which meant to excel. Garfield once said "I never met a ragged boy in the street, but that I feel that I owe him a salute, for I do not know what great possibilities may be buttoned beneath his coat."

No doubt this great man spoke from experience. Perhaps he thought of his boyhood days when he ran about the streets a ragged urchin while little did the observers think that some day that boy would be president. Considering the lives of nearly all great and good men, we see they have risen from poverty to wealth and honor, and we know they were men of passions like we. Then let us take courage and profit by their example. We know that the way to our success is not paved with soft mosses, nor lined with bright flowers. We may expect to climb the hills of toil and be stung with the nettles of ridicule. Let us think that life is meant for us, and that we, even we, can be something and do something in this world. Let us live in the hearts we leave behind which is not to die. Let us so live that when we come to quit the stage of action that the world may be better for our having lived. Dear school mates, as this closes our session for this year, let us write with one accord and return to our worthy and excellent instructor our sincere gratitude for so faithfully and nobly performing the many perplexing duties which devolves upon him as a teacher. Let us assure him that he is appreciated and that his work among us is not in vain. Let us improve our school-days, for ere long they will pass out of our reach and leave us to regret the time we spend in idleness. And while we sail on life's tempestuous sea, tossed by the waves of discouragement and buffeted by the storms of adversity, let us ever remember this old proverb, "where there is a will there is always a way."

Real Merit

Is the characteristic of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it is manifested every day in remarkable cures this medicine accomplishes. Druggists say: When we sell a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla to a new customer we are sure to see him back in a few weeks after more—proving that the good results from a trial bottle warrant continuing its use. This positive merit Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses by virtue of the peculiar combination, proportion and process used in its preparation, and by which all the remedial value of the ingredients used is retained. Hood's Sarsaparilla is thus peculiar to itself and absolutely unequalled in its power as a blood purifier, and as a tonic for building up the weak and weary, and giving nerve strength.

Under the late revenue law all boarding-house keepers who take boarders by the day are deemed tavern keepers, and required to take out a license from the county clerk. The license is $10 per year.

Chamberlain & Co., Des Moines, Iowa, desire to inform the public that they are manufacturers of the most successful preparation that has yet been produced for coughs, colds and croup. It will loosen and relieve a severe cold in less time than any other treatment. The article referred to is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is a medicine that has won fame and popularity on its merits and one that can always be depended upon. It is the only known remedy that will prevent croup. It must be tried to be appreciated. It is put up in 25 cent, 50 cent and $1 bottles. For sale by R. H. Starks.

When the number of pensioners on the rolls exceed the number of soldiers who were in the federal army, it is time to ask "where are we at?"

Mr. William T. Price, a justice of the peace, at Richland, Neb., was confined to his bed last winter with a severe attack of lumbago; but a thorough application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm enabled him to get up and go to work. Mr. Price says: "The Remedy cannot be recommended too highly." Let any one troubled with rheumatism, neuralgia or lame back give it a trial and they will be of the same opinion. 50 cent bottles for sale by R. H. Starks.

SOME RICH GIRLS OF NEW YORK.

The recent engagement of several New York belles to foreign noblemen has given rise to a great deal of gossip concerning the wealth of numerous American girls.

New York is considered quite the best matrimonial mart in the world, just the haven for the titled gentlemen from across "the pond" whose family coffers have become depleted.

Notwithstanding the fact that Miss Gammell, of Providence, the richest girl in America, has been secured, the chappies need not be discouraged, for there are hosts of other girls whose papas' bank accounts are way up in the pictures.

There is, for instance, Miss Pauline Whitney, the daughter of ex-Secretary and Mrs. William C. Whitney, and the niece of Col. Payne, of the Standard Oil Co.

Mr. Whitney, among his many talents, possesses the faculty of making money, and Miss Whitney will be able to write about five figures against her fortune. She is a sweet, pretty girl, who has been educated abroad, and is very intellectual and cultured.

Miss Maud Lorillard is another girl who possesses both money and beauty. Like Miss Whitney, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Lorillard has been brought up abroad, having only just returned to this country. She will have a fortune of several millions, but that is unnecessary as "Suffy" Taylor, whom she is to marry, has enough for himself and his future bride.

His sister, Miss Fanny Taylor, has her share of good looks and will have a good share of Papa Edward N. Taylor's fortune, which is by no means small.

Miss Grace Wilson, whose engagement to Cecil Baring has just been broken, will doubtless make a brilliant match some day, for the Wilsons have a faculty of making excellent marriages. Her brother Mr. Orme Wilson, married the youngest daughter, Caroline, of the late William B. Astor; Belle Wilson became the wife of Ogden Goelet, while another married the Hon. Michael Herbert, of the British diplomatic service. With her extreme beauty and wealth, Miss Grace Wilson should be able to do quite as well as any of these.

Miss Cornelia Martin, the daughter of Mr. Bradley Martin, whose engagement to the Earl of Craven has just been announced, will doubtless be provided with a generous dot when she marries. Her mother is the daughter of the late Isaac Sherman, from whom she inherited a fine fortune.

Another rich girl was until Wednesday last Miss Antoinette Pinchott, when she became the wife of the Hon. Allan Johnstone, of the British Embassy. She will have a large fortune from her mother's side of the house, the latter being the daughter of Amos R. Enos, the owner of the Fifth Avenue hotel, New York.

Miss Helen Stokes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anson Phelps Stokes, is a wealthy girl and an exceedingly nice one.

Miss Edythe Shepard, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Elliott F. Shepard, has a number of millions and a fair share of good looks. Her cousin, Miss Adele Sloane, is also one of fortune's favorites, being possessed of a nice little pile of millions.

Miss Helen Gould, the eldest daughter of the late Jay Gould, will, after her season of mourning, be one of the wealthiest young women in society. Besides her share in her father's immense fortune, Miss Gould has the two family residences, that at Irvington-on-the-Hudson and the Gould town house, on the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Forty-seventh street, at one time the home of ex-Mayor Opdyke.

Miss Ethel Barbey and Miss Rita Barbey are two girls of considerable wealth. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Henry I. Barbey, and the latter is a sister of Pierre Lorillard.

Miss Edith Kip, daughter of

Col. and Mrs. Lawrence Kip, of 452 Fifth Avenue, New York city, is a beautiful girl, besides being a rich one. Her mother is also a sister to Mr. Lorillard.

Miss Millie Whiting, whose engagement to John H. Davis was announced almost simultaneously with that of the latter's daughter to Lord Terence Blackwood, is a rich woman and an attractive one.

Miss Kemp, daughter of George Kemp, of Florida water fame, and the owner of the Buckingham and Belgravia hotels, is one of New York's richest girls.

Mrs. Alexander Cox, who until recently was Miss Coralie Livingston Gardiner, is a beautiful young woman of wealth and long descent.

Miss Madeline Le Roy Satterlee and Miss Laura Satterlee, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. F. Le Roy Satterlee, are two exceedingly nice young women, who are amply provided with money.

Miss Brice, the daughter of Senator and Mrs. Calvin Brice, of Ohio and No. 693 Fifth Avenue, is quite pretty and very rich.

Miss Edith Edgar King, who on November 3 married at New Port Mr. Louis Butler McCragg, is immensely wealthy.

Miss Elsie Clews, the lovely daughter of Mr. Henry Clews, the banker, is a charming girl and one who has large wealth. Fortune was indeed kind to her.

Miss Mary Havemeyer, who is soon to marry Mr. Tiffany, will have a large slice of the Theodore A. Havemeyer millions. She is very pretty. A younger daughter, Dora, will not emerge from the nursery for some years to come.

Miss Mary daughter of Mr. Robert Hoe, who has just made her debut, has a nice little fortune.

Miss Edith Morton and Miss Lena Morton, the charming daughters of Vice President Morton, are sweet, pretty and cultured girls and have large fortunes.

Our Police Situation.

Since open saloons have been in operation in our town it is almost daily illustrated the weakness of our city as well as our county laws to punish the offenders and violators of the law.

Hardly a day passes without there being more or less disturbances in the way of breaches of the peace, loud cursing, black guarding, fights, running horses, and many other unpleasant occurrences, and yet but few are arrested, and fewer are punished. We have no police judge and part of the time no town marshal, and the other officials pay but little attention to any of the usual violations of the law, besides if a person commits a grievous breach of the peace he is only fined a small amount or acquitted, and if fined he only pays the fine and leaves the officers to sweat for their cost. The officers are not paid any salaries and can not collect any cost and of course no one will serve for nothing, and as a result Benton will soon be the paradise of the roughs and toughs, and the haven of the violators of the law. This is the present and awful condition of the police status of the once quiet and civil town of Benton. We hope nothing more serious than from three to five fights will occur each day, yet we fear rough times are a head of us. There is really no law in force here, and if the people of the town desire any protection they must attend to it themselves. Until our people prefer law and order to what we have now they can only rest on their own muscles.

THE DUTIES OF THE COURT OF CLAIMS.

Would it not be a step in the right direction for our court of claims to make the necessary appropriation to buy coal for all the county offices and employ some old man or person who needs the money to make and keep fires in all of the offices for the accommodation of the people? For a small amount of money the offices can all be kept warm, clean and comfortable at all hours during the day, so that when a person has business in any of them, he can go and attend to it in perfect comfort. We are informed that each county officer is required to furnish coal and make fires at his own expense. This is a poor way to do and is unsatisfactory to the taxpayers who have occasion to go to any of the offices to transact business. The time has come in the history of the men who are called upon for so much money to pay the taxes that they are beginning to demand some of the comforts and conveniences that should properly belong to them. A close, stingy policy is not a wise policy, but the liberal, conservative course in public affairs is generally attended with a more economical administration of the county government than any other. We do not believe in extravagance, yet we are not one of the taxpayers who want our public offices kept in the way they are now. As it is, when an officer is not in his office, there is no fire or water, and as a result when a citizen from any part of the county comes to the county seat on any business connected with any of the county officers, he must go to some other place in town in order to get warm or become comfortable before he can attend to his business. We don't hold any county office, nor do we expect to, but we don't believe that it is right to force the county officials to buy the fuel used in the public buildings any more than it is right for a merchant to force his clerk to buy the fuel used in the store. We hope the court of claims will soon look after the interest of the people, whom they serve, enough to provide for them the necessary comfort during the cold weather in the winter time, about the court house. Of course the county officers do, when in their offices, provide fuel and keep fires. We are not complaining at them, we are only demanding comfortable quarters at the court house for the people at any time whether the officers be present or not. If the offices were at all times kept in a warm, comfortable condition the officials would be in them more. Try this for two or three years and see if the people of the county would complain.

WED. EVENING, JAN. 11.

The election of keeper of paupers resulted in the selection of Mr. J. H. Lawrence for another year, and the rate was fixed at $60 for adults and $30 for children. There are only nine inmates.—Cadiz Telephone.

It will be seen that other counties get their poor cared for as cheap as Marshall. The above prices are low enough for any man to receive for keeping a pauper one year.

The Railroad Commission which has been in session for several weeks past have completed their labors and made public their report. The report shows that the increased valuation of roads over 1891 is $2,267,297. The mileage reported by the commission in 1891 was 3,020. This includes 15.70 miles then under construction, but only completed in May '92, by the Ohio & Big Sandy, and mileage of about the same length has since been abandoned. With the exception of this there were no new railroads constructed during the year ending June 30, 1892, the time to which reports to the Railroad Commission were made.

The valuation per mile of the Kentucky Central is, Covington to Paris $18,000, Paris to Richmond $15,000, Richmond to Lexington $9,500, Lexington to Maysville $7,600, Richmond to Stanford $4,500; total valuation $2,260,474. The valuation per mile of the Richmond, Nicholasville, Irvine and Beattyville railroad is $9,000; total valuation $552,580.

It now seems to be a foregone conclusion that Mr. Carlisle will accept a cabinet position under the new democratic administration, and if he does a United States senator will be to elect, and in such a case it would not be wise on the part of the press of the state, even if it could do so, to induce so many men to enter the contest before the people and the legislature for United States senator. Of course nearly all the districts in the state have congressmen, any of whom would make a good senator, but unless these men actually want to enter the race, in case a senator is to elect, it is not good policy to continually hold their names before the country. So far as the first district is concerned it has a congressman that is now in a position to do all the good for his party that any congressman could or can do, and unless he is intending to enter such a contest it can now do no good for the press to be continually holding him before the people for a position that is not yet in sight, or that he may not seek. Capt. Stone's friends would like to see him United States senator, but his 15,000 supporters would very much dislike to give him up as their congressman at this particular time. We are not prepared to say what the intentions of the captain are, in this respect, but so long as he makes the people a satisfactory congressman he will remain at the head of the democracy of the "Old Gibraltar."

Another Whisky Fight

R. B. Fair, of Hardin, made application here before the county court last week for an hotel license with whisky privileges, but it is claimed that local option was voted in that district about 15 years ago, and upon that the judge refused to grant the license. An appeal is taken to the higher courts on the ground that when the boundary lines of the old districts were changed to make the new ones made the old law of non-effect. This will be another pretty fight on the liquor question. Both sides claim a victory, but we will wait and see what we shall see.

School Resolutions.

Whereas, After another session of the public school at Oak Level, which closes today, and as we must separate with our teacher and schoolmates; and as this has been one of the most prosperous sessions this district has enjoyed, taught by one of the best teachers in the county, be it therefore Resolved, That we, on this, the last day of the session, return our sincere thanks to Prof. J. N. Henson for the able and impartial manner in which he has conducted the school.

2d. That while we part with him today as our public school teacher, we will ever hold in high esteem his efforts to advance us in our studies, and that we commend him to any and all people as a gentleman of the highest rank and a teacher of more than ordinary capabilities.

3d. That this school tender him a copy of these resolutions as a memento of the esteem in which they hold him, and that we will strive to emulate his example so that the world may be better; that we have lived for the grand and noble purpose of being useful to ourselves, our country, and our God.

JUDGE DUPRIEST

And His Sureties Sued by H. M. Heath, County Attorney.

H. M. Heath, county attorney, on last Friday evening filed with the circuit clerk a suit against Judge Dupriest, as county judge, and his 16 sureties, for $500 damages for false imprisonment. Below we give the petition and its amendment in full as it is now on file in the clerk's office. The style of the suit is H. M. Heath vs J. J. Dupriest, W. M. Foust, G. W. Dunn, R. A. Stroud, J. M. Chandler, F. T. Foust, W. B. Hamilton, J. C. Jones, Wm Davis, J. W. Liles, B. F. Peck, J. A. Stringer, J. G. Vaughn, H. Washburn, J. B. Fletcher, J. A. Alford and Isaac Washam.

The plaintiff, H. M. Heath, says that J. J. Dupriest is judge of the Marshall county court and that the defendants, W. M. Foust, G. W. Dunn, R. A. Stroud, J. M. Chandler, F. T. Foust, are his sureties, that on the 6th day of Jan. 1893, the said J. J. Dupriest arbitrarily and without authority of law fined the plaintiff $3 and ordered him to jail, greatly to the humiliation of plaintiff, done in the presence of divers persons, and to the damage of plaintiff in the sum of $500. Wherefore plaintiff prays judgment for $500 and his cost herein expended.

H. M. HEATH.

Marshall Circuit Court.
H. M. Heath, Plaintiff Amended vs J. J. Dupriest, &c., Defendants. The plaintiff, H. M. Heath, amends his original petition herein and says: That his original petition was drawn in great haste and the name of all of his sureties on the bond of defendant, J. J. Dupriest was not set out in his original petition and are as follows: (here he names the sureties) That each and all of them together with those mentioned in his original petition are sureties on the bond of J. J. Dupriest and liable on said bond, a copy of said bond will be filed herewith, and made a part hereof, marked "A." Plaintiff now says that said order fining him $3 and ordering him to jail was wilfully done in violation of plaintiff's rights and done in presence of divers good citizens, purposely and arbitrarily to injure plaintiff, wherefore plaintiff prays as in his original petition.

H. M. HEATH.

It will be seen by the above that there is no good feeling existing between our county judge and County Attorney Heath. There is not that dignity and respect shown each during the sittings of our county judge's court as should be. This suit will doubtless be a surprise to many people in this and surrounding counties, but unless there is better order and more respect shown each other in court this will not be the last suit of the kind.

EXAMINING TRIAL

Of Jesse Loftin and John W. Crouch.

Saturday was the day for the examining trial of these two gentlemen for the murder of Joe C. Greer, which took place at his home on the night of the 24th of December 1892. The day was cool and cloudy, but notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, the people from all parts of the county wanting to hear the evidence in the case came in, and long before the time for the beginning of the trial the large room in the court house was filled jam full of people.

At ten minutes to 11 o'clock the judge called the court to order and asked if the commonwealth was ready. It being so near noon and there being so many witnesses the court adjourned to give the attorneys an opportunity to confer with the witnesses until 1 o'clock, when the case was called again and the attorneys for the commonwealth announced not ready for trial. The court was inclined to try the case, but by agreement of council for both sides the case was continued, and Monday, January 16, set for trial. H. M. Heath, Reed & Oliver and Fisher & Bean represented the prosecution, and Maj. Josiah Harris and John G. Lovett the defense. There were a great number of witnesses recognized on both sides—60 or 70 in all—and more yet are to be summoned, we understand, who will be required to be present at the next day of trial. Attachments were asked and awarded by the court for witnesses who were summoned and did not appear on the day of trial, but the court is determined to have all the witnesses present on the next day set for trial. The crowd was the largest present since the trial of Anderson and Roberts for the murder of Peter McCain, and if the weather will permit there will be a large crowd present on the day set for the examining trial. We withhold any comment or give any information we may have heard concerning the guilt or innocence of the accused until after they have had their examining trial.

The interest is increasing in the assassination of Joe Greer, and by the time the trial comes off every citizen in the county will feel more or less interested in the examining trial of Loftin and Crouch.

A motion was made by the commonwealth for the court to "quash" the bond on which the defendants were held, and assigned two reasons, viz: That the bond was taken to appear before the quarterly court, and that the court had no authority to take the bond. The admissibility of bail was ably argued by the attorneys on both sides. The judge finally decided that the case was bailable, but that the bond taken by him on the Sunday previous was void because it required the prisoners to appear before the quarterly court instead of the county court. He fixed the bail of each at $1,000 but the prisoners could not give the bond, in default of which they were remanded to jail to await the examining trial on Jan. 15, but Monday morning they gave the bond and were again liberated.

OAK LEVEL.

ED. TRIBUNE.

As I have seen nothing from this part of God's moral democratic vineyard for a long while, and thinking our part of the vineyard should be represented through the columns of your very able and staunch democratic paper, concluded to once more give in detail some of the happenings of this community.

To begin with, we have had very severe holiday weather; nevertheless, the severity of the weather, there were certain things that had to be attended to which caused some exposure during cold nights, as our very able and worthy Dr. Hall is a witness to, but after the hardships were over, the parties most interested are happy. For instance, at Mr. Tom Griffith's it's a 9 lb girl; at Mr. Frank Brinkley's a 10 lb girl; at Mr. Bob Austin's a 11 lb boy, and able to make a mill whistle for his new mill just put up; and all this within a radius of one mile and a period of seven days. Whose neighborhood can beat this?

Health is unusually good for the season. Hope it will continue.

Times are prosperous, and all on account of the incoming democratic administration. So we think Cleveland an honest man, and will make a good president. Once in, turn the rascals out, and in so doing, fill their places with democrats good and true, and no one can think of more able, suitable and qualified to be postmaster at Benton than ye editor. It is conceded by all that he should have it. And as his Honor Judge Bishop has to make a master commissioner for old Marshall, we would say that in the person of R. L. Shemwell there could be no better material in the county. As it has been to some extent a custom for it to go with the clerk's office, we would think it quite likely for him to receive the appointment in case he applies for it. Fearing my letter will require too much space, will close by saying these lines will reflect the will of

MANY DEMOCRATS.

Prof. Taylor Still Absent.

The mysterious disappearance of Prof. Taylor is now no better understood by his wife or friends than when he left. So far he has never been heard of except that Rev. Cason saw him in Jackson, Tenn., yesterday one week, but he did not know that the professor had left in the way he did and never heard any cause or explanation of his sudden leaving.

His wife was here a few days and left for home Monday morning, but before leaving she had not heard of her husbands whereabouts or the cause of his unexplainable departure. She is in great trouble and says that there never was any trouble in any way between them, and has no explanation of his strange conduct. He has never written a word to any one here of why he left or where he is. Some think he is crazy, while others think he ran away from his wife and to get rid of his debts. So far as has been heard there is no stain upon his character, whatever, in any place he has ever lived which makes his curious leaving without an explanation. His whereabouts is not known to his wife or friends. If we hear of him at any time we will so inform our readers.

To be Encouraged.

Mr. J. Y. Johnson, representing the United States Building and Loan Association of Louisville, Ky. is in town for the purpose of organizing a local board of that association. He comes well recommended and with powers to make an immediate loan, the application for which is made. The company guarantees to loan at least two dollars for every one contributed by this local board.

The advent of such a Building and Loan company should be hailed with delight by our people for the opportunities they give for safe investments and building of houses.

It is a fact that the ownership of a home is conducive of good citizenship, and a man who saves something is living within his income. A number of prominent citizens have signified their intention of becoming the first officers of the local board and will look after the interest of the shareholders and the company in appraising security and approving the applications for local loans.

The prospectus of the company contains many new features where in the shareholder receives benefits not allowed in other associations. In fact, it is managed in the interest of the shareholders exclusively. Mr. Johnson will call on the public, and would be glad to explain the features of the company as well as take subscription for stock, and the larger the amount of stock taken the greater will be the amount spent on building up the town of Benton.

Wanted Elsewhere.

Dr. B. T. Frank and Ben Rhinehart recently had a difficulty in which young Rhinehart threatened the doctor's life. The doctor had him arrested on a peace warrant for the purpose of making him keep the peace. He was tried here last Friday before Judge Dupriest and in default of $1,000 bond the amount fixed by the court the young man went to jail, but early next morning the sheriff of Montgomery county, Tennessee, came and took him back where he came from. He is wanted as an important witness and also all understand for murder. If the sheriff had not come after him he was in a fair way to remain in jail for some time.

It Breaks the Record.

The new "Washington Limited" train inaugurated by the N. C. & St. L. Ry. between Nashville and Washington City, makes the run in the unparalleled time of twenty-five hours, leaving Nashville 7:30 a. m. daily, arrives at Chattanooga 12:25 p. m., Knoxville 3:45 p. m., Washington, eastern time, 9:30 a. m., and New York, eastern time, 3:00 p. m. It is one of the finest trains in the country, having Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Car through from Nashville to Washington, with magnificent new Dining Car and Day Coaches from Chattanooga, making the run five and a half hours quicker than by any other route. It is truly a record breaker, and will be a blessing to the people going east.

THIS INSTITUTION has become widely known and noted, for its strict discipline, thorough training, high standard of scholarship, moral and social culture, and refining influences upon its students of both sexes. The most thorough work is done in the Languages, Mathematics, History, Literature, and the Sciences. Music and Elocution are specialties. Prohibition town and county, by vote of the people. No safer place for the youth of either sex. The Boarding Hall for Young Ladies is one of the best arranged for health and comfort. To the other Courses of Study has been added this year, a Complete Commercial Course, consisting of a thorough course in Book-keeping, Type-Writing, and Short-hand. Also a special course for Teachers will be organized after Christmas. All expenses reduced to the lowest practical point. For catalogues and all information, address the Principal, or H. F. FAIR DEALING SCHOOL.

I will begin, on the First Monday in January, a Sixteen weeks term at the Maple Spring or Fair Dealing school-house.

PRACTICAL.

I shall spare no labor to teach thoroughly and practically every branch studied, teaching pupils to apply what they learn to the everyday affairs of life.

DISCIPLINE.

I shall endeavor to be firm but mild in my discipline. Relying upon the honor and integrity of my pupils, I shall strive to make them realize that it is to their own ultimate good to discipline themselves.

Pupils may be entered at any time, but it is greatly to the interest of the pupil that he enter on the first day and attend regularly till its close.

We have the best, and the best furnished, country school-house in the county.

Good board can be had convenient to the school-house at reasonable rates.

NEW YORK SOCIETY.

It Has Some Queer Ways of Entertaining Itself.

The Horse, Food and Flower Shows and the Class of People Who Visited Them—Bogus Swells in Profusion—Philosophic Plaits.

(Special New York Letter.)

WITH the horse show following directly upon the heels of the flower show, Madison Square Garden has been very gay. Society—a small part of it—that is, the contingent of well-to-do nobodies who are not in society but who want to be; a fair sprinkling of men about town, and a large assortment of that class of women who affect yellow hair and drug store complexions, combined to make an audience at the horse show fully as interesting as the show itself. For, candidly, the newspaper gush to the contrary notwithstanding, the array of horses at the horse show was nothing phenomenal. There was plenty of good stock on exhibition, the jumping was fair and the parade of the mounted police was interesting. Further than that little can be said of the show to justify the wild enthusiasm of the reporters who have made a lot of well meaning, decent, amateur horse breeders masquerade as society leaders and have mistaken Anonyma for Lady Clara Vere de Vere. Not that there are no real swells in the Horse Show association—there are, but this year they stood away. The Vanderbilts, the Astors, the Belmonts have all had deaths in their families during the past year, and furthermore the crowd has not been such as to attract the genuine. Four Hundred. Horse young men whose knowledge of stable matters is confined to dressing like a bad imitation of an English groom on his day off, and whose manners would procure the instant dismissal of the groom of any well regulated English family, saucer short-haired snotties and a mob of impossible society aspirants constitute just the sort of an audience that the genuine Four Hundred delight in staying away from. The contrasts in the character of the visitors to the food show, the flower show and the horse show were comical and instructive.

The food show was an advertising fakement on a gigantic scale. Cannons of tinned tomatoes, manufacturers of chocolates and confections, vendors of blended teas and coffees, grinders of spices, makers of baking powders and curers of hams were all there. They had their little booths upon which their wares were artistically displayed and liberally advertised, and in many cases pretty girls in neat caps and aprons distributed free samples of the goods. The bulk of the audience at the food show was staid, middle-aged matrons with the inevitable hand bag, which every staid, middle-aged matron carries; into this bag she would carefully store the samples of such goods as could be taken away. Other concerns served their comestibles to be eaten on the spot, and it was at this pleasing occupation that the staid matron shone in effulgent glory. I saw one rather delicate, motherly-looking woman, one who was quite old enough to know better, drink three cups of tea—different brands—eat a large chunk of that peculiarly battery cake known as angel's food, swallow samples of four different kinds of canned soup, followed by two flapjacks made with somebody's baking powder, then, in rapid succession, two cups of chocolate, a teaspoonful of condensed milk, a biscuit, a pickle, a few dried apples, a teaspoonful of sirup, a bit of cheese, and then I lost count. I had to stop watching her. It was rapidly giving me dyspepsia to look at her; at the same time her bag was jammed with samples of goods, enough to start a fancy grocery store.

Not that there were no young people at the food show. The pretty girls in charge of the booths attracted a goodly contingent of the crutch and toothpick brigade, and a good many of the girls enjoyed their innocent flirtations hugely. There was one tea concern which had a very artistic pagoda built of bamboo, presided over by an extremely fetching Ceylonese girl, round, plump, large eyed, dressed in the picturesque Oriental garb and thoroughly au fait in every flirtatious art known to her fairer-skinned sisters. I was getting on famously with her and had quite made up my mind to learn to speak the lingo of Ceylon when her husband appeared—a hopelessly fierce East Indian with his broad belt stuck full of a varied assortment of scimitars, crooked stab knives and other lethal weapons. He looked at me suspiciously and I went down into the basement to inspect the model dairy by an exit. Following the food show came the flower show, and the garden was transformed into a wondrous scene of beauty. There were rose days, and orchid days, but the pièce de résistance, so to speak, was the corymbosum. Great ragged yellow ones as big as a child's head and little solid fellows no bigger than a vest button, the flower of Japan was there in all shades, sizes and colors. The flower show was really fashionable and the very best people in town attended it. Somehow it did not attract either the fast set of society or their followers.

The only noticeable types, outside of the well-groomed, correctly-attired New Yorker, the society man, were the hard-handed Scotch gardeners. Why the best gardeners should be Scotchmen is a matter which I have never seen explained; the fact remains all the same. There were lots of pretty girls with great bunches of corymbosums at their belts, and lots of trim, clean-cut young fellows peering out from behind great corymbosum bougainvillae, apparently selected on the principle: "The larger the flower the greater the swell."

This rage for big "mums," as they are called colloquially, has been carried to such an absurd length that the real "tip-topper" wears a white or yellow blossom as big as a small cabbage, and nowhere have they been seen in greater profusion than at the horse show. The real, genuine fashionable element of New York society dresses, as a rule unobtrusively. It is the nickel-plated imitator of swiftdom who sports the loud suits, the "howling" ties and the big floggers, and it is the nickel-plated imitator who constitute the bulk of the audience at the horse show. Young fellows who never sat in a saddle in their lives appear in yellow covert coats over their evening dress, a combination about as appropriate as spurs would be on dancing pumps. If there is one thing which exasperates me more than another it is to see a young dude with the tails of his swallowtail sticking out a couple of inches below the abbreviated narrative of a covert coat.

A covert coat is designed for the purpose of covering over the "pink" when going to the "meet." It is made short and the tails are slit up at each side in order that it may hang easily over the saddle. It is no more suitable for evening wear than a bicycle suit would be, yet I will venture to assert that six out of ten of the would-be young swells who visited the horse show wore covert coats. Then to hear them talk horse! A cyclone of horse slang has struck the town. A young woman is not a pretty girl, but a "likely filly," she is not stylish, but a "bitch stepper," and so it goes until the reasonable man begins to hate the whole equine race.

AT THE FLOWER SHOW.

This season and nobody seems to have any very definite idea of what will take its place. The genius who will invent a new amusement will receive the blessings of society. Possibly Mr. De Koven's Vaudeville club may fill the bill, but I doubt it. ALLAN FORMAN.

Thus the American Was Gulled. Many stories are current about Fresh-water and Haslemere as to the ruses Tennyson adopted to escape visitors. People used to wait for him for hours on end, mostly Americans, whose pertinacity irritated him greatly. The servants were always on the lookout for such people, and quickly conveyed information to the poet. Hesoon came to understand that most of them were quite content to see him walking in the garden and go away boasting of the circumstance. He would occasionally dress one of his laborers up in the historic slouch hat and velvet coat. The rustic would saunter along the garden paths assuming as dreamy an expression as his intellectual condition would admit, and the visitors would gaze with reverence at him from their station on the high road or elsewhere.—Boston Gazette.

He Told Too Much. He—Will you marry me? I have a bachelor uncle who is worth a million. She—No; but you might introduce me to your uncle.—Demorest's Magazine.

Wealth in England. One-half the wealth in England is in possession of 1,000 individuals.

Travelers may learn a lesson from Mr. C. D. Cone, a prominent attorney of Parker, Dakota, who says: "I never leave home without taking a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with me, and on many occasions have run with it to the relief of some sufferer and have never known it to fail." For sale by R. H. Starks.

The continual succession of boils, pimples, and eruptions from which many suffer, indicates an impure state of the blood. The most effective remedy is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It expels the poison harmlessly through the natural channels, and leaves the skin clean and clear.

There are 300,000 more so-called soldiers drawing pensions now than there were soldiers in active service at any time in all the armies of the government from the beginning to the close of the war. The democrats are pledged to reduce this burden to an honest basis, by lopping off the name of every scamp who is living off the bounty of the government, without right or reason.—Courier Journal.

Children of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Soller, Altoona, Pa.

Both Had Eczema In Its Worst Form

After Physicians Failed, Hood's Sarsaparilla Perfectly Cured.

Great mental agony is endured by parents who see their children suffering from diseases caused by impure blood, and for which there seems no cure. This is turned to joy when Hood's Sarsaparilla is resorted to, for it expels the foul humors from the blood, and restores the diseased skin to fresh, healthy brightness. Read the following from grateful parents: "To C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: 'We think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most valuable medicine on the market for blood and skin diseases. Our two children suffered terribly with the Worst Form of Eczema for two years. We had three physicians at that time, but neither of them succeeded in curing them or even in giving them a little relief. At last we tried Hood's Sarsaparilla and in a month both children were perfectly cured. We recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as a standard family medicine, and would not be without it." Mrs. and Miss M. M. SOLLER, 1412 2nd Avenue, Altoona, Pa.
