Pennsalt To Spend Huge Amount of Money For Expansion at Calvert City Plant Site

The Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing Company, which has spent approximately $30,000,000 on plant expansion since the end of World War 2, will add another $10,000,000 worth of new plant by early 1953, it was revealed today in the company's 101st annual report.

In addition to these expansions the report showed, Pennsalt has now been further increased by the acquisition of Sharples Chemicals Inc., thus giving the traditionally inorganic chemical producer an established position in the field of synthetic organics.

Expenditures for expansion in 1951 totaled approximately $6,000,000. Additions now under construction include a new unit for producing chlorine, caustic soda and anhydrous hydrochloric acid at Calvert City, at an estimated cost of $6,000,000, and a doubling of Pennsalt's ammonia production to Wyandotte, Mich., at a cost of approximately $2,200,000.

"With sales prices controlled by the government while certain costs are continuing to rise, it appears certain that operating margins will be lower, and corporation income taxes will further reduce profits available for dividends and improvement to the company," said George B. Beltzel, president, in his letter to shareholders.

"The only way the company can maintain or improve present earning levels," he added, "is through expanded and more efficient production and greater sales."

Mr. Beltzel reported that Pennsalt's 1951 sales of $47,554,688 represented a gain of 19 percent over sales of $39,981,080, and that earnings before federal and state income taxes of $10,180,590 were 28 percent greater than the previous year.

Because of the recent southern tornado disaster the funds to be raised here have been increased.

If all concerned — solicitors and donors — will resolve to do their parts, the goal in this county should be reached.

Contributions can still be mailed or brought in to Mark Clayton in the office of County Court Clerk.

HOMEMAKERS NOTES

Take a few extra minutes to bring a bit of spring to your family meals. Tables can be more colorful. Favorite dishes can have added garnishes.

To add cooked eggs for garnishes to make an old dish new or to color for Easter eggs. Wash eggs, place in pan of cold water.

Allow one pint of water for each egg. Place on stove, bring slowly almost to boil. Remove from heat and let simmer for 15 minutes. Never boil eggs, this high heat makes the egg tough.

Plant one new vegetable in your garden this year.

Look around at your neighbors' front yards. What do you like about them? You notice the old tree, the broken fence, the lack of a walk in their yards. Now take a look at your own yard.

Oak Level has the radio program for April. Listen each Thursday at 2 p.m. over WKYB.

Some Homemakers club in this area will have the program.

I would like the names of any families in Marshall County that all members at the Seven Basic Foods each day.

Observations

(Old Kodger's Column)

SEVERAL WEEKS AGO we explained in this column how hesitant we became at times in issuing compliments; how disappointed over a period of years it made us, when so often those complimented made us feel sick later—sick 'way down deep in the stomach; for the space wasted, and

IT WAS ALSO POINTED OUT that many compliments appeared so conventional—just so much formality, so much mouth-wash empty, hollow, and meaningless; that after all, the person who does a good job knows it and doesn't need this sort of orthodox formality, or told about it. However, this is meant as sincerely and truthfully as we now know how to present it . . . not with empty words and high-sounding phrases, and with a belief that it will be just another disappointment in later years.

OUR OWN SHELBY McALLUM has just completed his first session in the Kentucky State legislature. There he showed us the stuff he is made out of—the type of young men needed all over the world. Let us hope he never forgets. Ordinarily it takes a freshman Representative at least one or two terms to begin to find out how to get around the spacious halls and corridors of the State Capitol . . . not to mention about getting in and he is noticed by other law-makers. Not so with Representative McCallum . . . he just seemed to inherit the "know-how" to begin from the first to the last day.

NOT VERY OFTEN DO WE have the opportunity to send men to the Capitol as well equipped as Shelby was. He is not only a student of state, national, and international affairs, but has the seasoning of a man many years older. His record was good in attendance, in voting, and in taking an interest in bills introduced in both houses. His work on the Labor bill alone and its successful passage by both house and senate, show he was on the job and knew what he was doing.

IT HAS BEEN SAID BY several responsible people that the labor bill was one of the most important pieces of legislation passed in Kentucky in many years. If this proves to be true, our Representative has distinguished himself, not wholly upon this one law, but by his record as a freshman Representative of the Marshall-Lyon district. He also assisted and sponsored other bills that were of vital interest to the district.

SO, WE NOT ONLY TAKE our hat off to Shelby, but our own clean shirt also; break our rule of being cautious with our compliments, but plug for the young man for what we believe was a job well done. We are not alone in this—the Lyon County Herald has also spoken highly of his first record and points with pride to his achievements in honestly representing the citizens of the sixth legislative district.

IN THESE DAYS OF corruption by lawmakers, not only in Frankfort but in other high places, it is good to know that we can still produce young men who can live up to the hopes and ideals of others; that we still have a few left who can be sold on principles instead of graft and privilege.

Visitors From Many Parts of the Country Are Expected to Be In Benton for the Big Day

The lowly "yaller yam," Florida yam, and the ordinary sweet tater becomes king for a day again next Monday when thousands of Marshall countians and former residents, together with visitors from other parts of the country, come here to buy, sell, swap, and renew acquaintances for more than the 100th time.

"Tater Day" has been an unusual and spectacular day longer than the oldest residents of the county can remember. It has been celebrated by many generations as the "trade day" of the year. "Tater day" is the day when farm folks earnestly begin to think of the season's farm work. It is a sort of signal to get ready for work: buy all needed supplies, trade horses, and buy seed potatoes.

To Keep Sterling Beautiful - Keep

Here's the ultimate in informal luncheon place settings. Smart hostesses use silver for formal dinners only, but use it for many occasions. They know that beautiful silver becomes and the less care it needs. In this picture from the note how the silver takes on the simplicity of the restrained leaf-patterned china, and the neatly edged place mat. The sterling here is Reed & Barton's "Veronica" with "Queensbury" china by Royal Doulton, and Fostoria's "Catalina Duet" glass made the place mat.

Doctor's Hobby

DOCTOR Luke is a man to whom we are all indebted. Without him, we in the church would have lost some of our finest hymns, the "Magnificat" and the "Nunc Dimittis;" without him, we might never have heard of the story of that first Christmas night when the shepherds watched and the angels sang. He was the only Gospel writer who remembered to tell us those matchless parables, the Lost Sheep, and the Prodigal Son, and many another. It is only from him that we know of Jesus' prayer at Calvary,—"Father, forgive them; they know not what they do." Furthermore, it is only Luke who conceived and wrote the book of Acts.

Some Hobbies Are Famous THE interesting thing is that Dr. Luke was not a professional writer. He was a professional physician. All the writing he did was what we today might even call a hobby; that is, he got no money for it so far as we know, he just wrote because he loved to write. Very likely he was a good doctor; he is called the "beloved physician," and we hope that enough people who loved him also paid their bills promptly so that he could make his living. But it was not the doctoring that endeared him to the church of Christ.

It was what he did in his spare time, it was his missionary work and his writing, it is the Gospel of Luke and the book of Acts that are his main claim to fame. Luke is not the first man nor the last to accomplish more by a "side-line" than by his main job. We remember David in the Old Testament, whose rise to power began not with his sheep-herding, which no doubt he did to perfection, but with his music, which his father may well have thought a waste of time. We remember Marcus Aurelius the emperor not for his military campaigns, which were masterly, but for the "meditations" he wrote in snatches of spare time on those campaigns. We remember the Apostle Paul not for the churches he founded (most of which folded) but for the dozen or so letters he managed to squeeze into his busy evenings.

Other Doctors LUKE was not the last Christian doctor who has found in what, for some, might be a "side-line" his finest means of service and best source of happiness. Dr. Howard Kelly of Baltimore was a cancer specialist of no small fame, but he was even better known as a scientist who not only saw no conflict between science and religion, but who brought his skill and his science to the service of Christ.

There was another doctor, a surgeon in a midwestern city, not many years ago, who was ready to retire. He had enough to live on in comfort, and the life of a successful surgeon in a great city is a wearing one. But instead of retiring, he went out to China, and in a remote province he spent his "retiring" years at his own expense, hardly knowing a word of Chinese, but having the time of his life and rendering himself, if it possible, more nearly indispensable out there than he had ever been back in the states.

Again there was the surgeon Alexis Carrel, who with another scientist first succeeded in keeping living tissue (a chicken's heart) alive for years beyond the time when it "should have" died—a surgeon who also believed in the power of prayer and whose book "Man the Unknown" is valuable as combining the scientific and the Christian view of man. Or there was Dr. I. J. Archer of Chicago and North Carolina, who operated two sanitariums more easily than some doctors can run an office, and yet who found his life's deepest satisfactions in the Sunday school class he taught for years.

Life Is More Than Making a Living MANY others besides doctors have made the same discovery. What is a "hobby," after all? It can be only an elaborate twiddling of the thumbs, something to "kill time"—horrible thought! It can be something done merely to relieve nervous pressure. It can be something not really worth doing. But what Dr. Luke found, countless others, including some readers of these lines, have also found: that even when we have to spare most of our time making a living, we can dedicate our "spare" time, under God, to making life.

Curlin Knows Road System; Crowe Has Varied Interests

Kentucky's Commissioner of Highways has held jobs at all levels of his department during the last 27 years and has seen the work of building and maintaining highways from all angles. William P. Curlin was named commissioner last winter after having been deputy commissioner since the Spring of 1948. The appointment culminated a climb through the ranks of the Department that started in 1925 when Curlin first went to work as a road man on a surveying crew in the Paducah district.

In 1936 he was made assistant engineer in charge of rural highways for the district. He resigned this post in 1942 to take a job with the U. S. Corps of Engineers. He returned to the Department of Highways as assistant district engineer at Ashland in 1947 and from there went to Frankfort. Curlin received his engineering training at the University of Kentucky and is a registered professional engineer. He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers. He is a native of Hickman and is 45 years old. He is married to the former Margaret Platt and they have a son and daughter. He is a Presbyterian.

Guthrie F. Crowe has been the Commissioner of State Police since the department was activated in June 1948. Prior to his appointment he practiced law in LaGrange. He served as city judge there from 1938-1941 and was a member of the State House of Representatives in 1942.

Crowe, 41, is a veteran of three and one-half years' service in the Navy. He is a graduate of Cumberland University, Lebanon, Tenn., and also attended the University of Louisville and the University of Kentucky. He is president of the Kentucky Association of Theatre Owners and is a former commander of the Kentucky American Legion. The CAXTON is a story and a half house that has two bedrooms on each floor. The stairway is closer so the second floor can be finished later. An open stairway can be substituted if the second floor is finished now. All rooms can be reached from the rear entry which has a lavatory and coat closet and leads to the basement. Kitchen cabinets occupy one end of the combination kitchen-dinette, with sink on exterior wall and refrigerator and stove on the side. On the second floor a lavatory is located in the rear dormer and attic storage, as well as closet storage, is well provided. Exterior finish is of asphalt shingles and wide siding except for the front living room wall which is faced with stone. Other features include a covered entrance, plywood dormers and front gable, and wrought iron rail.
