A BRIEF HISTORY OF THIS CHURCH AND ITS BUILDINGS

It was in the year 1878 that eighteen devoted and far-seeing Baptists saw the need and prospects of a church in this community. That was forty-four years ago; the ground on which the present building stands and the territory surrounding it was an open field. Fulton was at that time a small village. The church was organized in the "Old Academy" near the corner of Fourth and Lake streets. At the time of the organization of this church there stood on State Line road about two miles west of the city, a log building in which the congregation of "Old Buckingham" church held services. It was not long after the organization of the church in Fulton that old Buckingham disbanded and her membership moved to the church in Fulton. The present site was donated to the church by Mr. Billy Carr and his wife. The first building erected by the congregation was a one-room brick structure some time in the early eighties. This building stood for about twenty years. During these years the blessings of the Lord were abundant upon the work and it soon became obvious that a larger and better building was needed to take care of the work. Then it was that about 1901 the first building was torn away and a new building was begun. Much of the material of the first building was used in the construction of the second South Fulton, Tenn.

Will Vote on $40,000 Sewerage Bond Issue on Oct. 1, 1926

On October 1, 1926, the citizens of South Fulton, Tenn., will vote on a $40,000 bond issue for sewerage system. A vote was taken on the issue in July, 1925, but the election was contested and recently decided in favor of the contestants, therefore, at a recent meeting of the South Fulton City Council, an ordinance was passed and approved, calling for an election to be held on October 1.

The City of Fulton, Ky., is now on their sewerage system, for which $70,000 was voted and will soon be completed. South Fulton, by all means, should vote the issue of $40,000 bonds overwhelmingly at the October election so there will be no further delay in keeping pace with her sister city across the line.

Ferguson Contests Gregory Nomination

Gross Fraud in Graves Ballot Count Charged

Charging in a long series of counts that "gross and palpable fraud were knowingly committed by the election officers in each of the precincts in Graves county and Mayfield," State Senator Garth K. Ferguson, of La Center, filed suit in Graves circuit court, Friday afternoon, against Judge W. Voris Gregory, contesting the right of his opponent in the recent primary race to retain the Democratic nomination to Congress from the First District.

Legal notice was also filed in Graves circuit court, advising Judge Gregory and J. A. Olive, clerk of the Graves county court, that the contestant's attorneys will proceed to Wickliffe and enter a motion with Judge H. H. Hester, judge of the First Judicial District of Kentucky and judge of the Graves circuit court, "to move the ballots, ballot boxes, stub books and official registration books of the primary election," from the custody of the Graves county clerk to the "custody of some person or persons not interested in the outcome" of the contest suit.

The contest petition alleges the wholesale counting for Judge Gregory of spoiled ballots cast in Graves county precincts, the permission to vote of many non-registered persons

"many Republicans, Independents, non-resident and other ineligible voters," all of said votes being counted for Judge Gregory, while many votes cast for Senator Ferguson "were wrongfully rejected and marked spoiled by the officers of election."

The petition further cites four specific cases where names of voters not qualified to vote were voted.

Everybody Enjoyed The Fair.

The Fulton County Fair last week was a brilliant success from start to finish and the officials are to be commended on giving the people good wholesome entertainment and amusement the entire week, both day and night.

The splendid exhibits in every department were admired by the great crowds and especially by visitors from a distance who marveled at Kentucky's wonderful products.

The races were the best ever witnessed on the local track and the free acts, music and all entertainments were greatly enjoyed.

After the first day not a drop of rain fell to mar the occasion. It was cool and pleasant.

POULTRY SHOW AT FAIR THE BEST EVER

Probably the most popular exhibit at the fair last week was the poultry show, if one may judge by the many expressions of appreciation by the visitors. One thing is certain, there was a unanimous expression of its spaciousness and the orderly arrangement of the whole department.

The judging of the birds was more thorough and closer to the Standard of Perfection than ever before, and even some of the owners of birds that were disqualified by the judges expressed their satisfaction at the desire of the judges and officials to raise the standard of birds to be shown here in the future.

Space will only allow of the mention of the first prize winners, though there were many features that should be given more publicity. The winners of first prizes were as follows: Mrs. Z. R. Shanklin, Dresden, two Barred Rocks; Mrs. W. W. Preuett, Hickman, S. C. White Rocks, two old birds and two young; J. T. Watkins, Fulton.

High School Notes

The Fulton City Schools opened Monday, September 6. Freshmen and Sophomores will register in the morning and Juniors and Seniors in the afternoon. The book store will be open Thursday and Friday from eight until five o'clock. It will be open from eight to twelve on Saturday for the sale of books and supplies to colored children.

A general faculty meeting will be held on Saturday at 2 p. m. All faculty members will be present and the general program and policies of the year will be discussed.

Manual Training and music will be added to the curriculum this year. Both will be in charge of competent instructors. Music will be required of all grade pupils and will be offered as an elective in high school. Solid geometry will also be offered.

A school for janitors will be held Wednesday for the purpose of instructing the janitorial force in their duties for the coming year and also of working out a plan for a uniform janitorial service.

The library facilities of the high school will be improved this year by the addition of many new and much needed books.

Football prospects are splendid. Dr. Hughes will again direct the energies of the Fulton High team and is expecting a large turnout for practice next week.

ENTHUSIASTIC FARMERS MEETING

The farm meeting at the auditorium on Tuesday afternoon was not as well attended as could have been wished for but the farmers who were present were 100 per cent for a County Agent, and elected A. M. Nugent chairman of a committee to canvass the county and procure members for an association to obtain an agent for next spring. Chairman Nugent was empowered to add to his committee as many as the considered necessary to accomplish the desired ends.

Mr. E. J. Kilpatrick, field superintendent of county agents in Western Kentucky, was introduced by Mr. Nugent, and gave a brief outline of the work being done in other counties of the state and explained what could be accomplished in Fulton county if the proper man was obtained, and gave a lot of facts about what can be raised in this section and that without any very great amount of initial expense for the average farmer.

Naturally, he told some unpleasant facts, but they were told in a spirit of helpfulness, and were taken in the same spirit. Several of the farmers present spoke of the great improvement that would be derived from having such a man in the county, and told of personal experiences in improving soil conditions on their own farms, and expressed the wish for an agent and their willingness to assist financially in procuring one.

Enoch Browder, E. E. Hancock, J. E. Fields, Dr. A. C. Boyd, John Finch and others spoke and were unanimous in their expressions of appreciation of the work of county agents.

Mr. Nugent will immediately appoint the members of his committee, making selections of men located in various sections of the county, such as Hickman, Cayce, Jordan and other points and start as soon as possible making a canvass of the entire county, so that ample time will be had to make a selection of a competent man for the place.

The state will assist in paying the salary of an agent up to $1,200.00 per year, and the county will have to procure funds to an equal amount. The state also provided postal franking privileges for all printed matter that may be sent out to the farmers, so that expense is saved to the members. The state also provides for other expenses so that the major part of the money raised can be used in paying the salary of a first class man.

The newspapers will cooperate in giving full publicity to the project and the farmers will be kept informed on all efforts to obtain the needed membership of the organization.

W. H. Powers Victim of Heart Failure

Funeral service for W. H. Powers was held from the residence Thursday morning conducted by the Rev. J. V. Freeman, interment in Fairview cemetery. The beautiful floral tributes attested the love and esteem in which he was held.

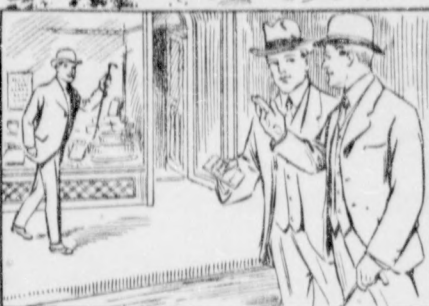

Mr. Powers died suddenly early Wednesday morning at his home on Third street. He was a native of Clarksville, Tenn., where he was born in 1843. Before coming to Fulton about 35 years ago, Mr. Powers had been in the general mercantile business at Harris, Tenn. He was not only a successful business man, but one of the pillars upon which our social fabric rests. For years he served on the city council and was active in banking circles, as well as mercantile business. Associated with him in business was his son-in-law, W. J. Willingham, and for more than a quarter of a century the firm of Powers & Willingham has been one of Fulton's substantial mercantile establishments.

The city has lost a good Christian man and one of its best citizens, but the people will forever preserve a grateful affectionate memory for W. H. Powers.

He is survived by two children, Mrs. W. J. Willingham, of this city, and Lester Powers, of Memphis; one granddaughter, Mrs. Hal Taylor, of Crenshaw, Miss.

The Company You Keep

Just as a man is judged in a personal way by the company he keeps, so is he judged in a business way by the banking connection he makes.

A checking or savings account with a good reliable institution like this one reflects good business judgment. It builds prestige.

So choose wisely and soon.

First Baptist Church

building. The second building was completed in 1902 during the pastorate of Rev. M. E. Dodd.

Twenty-two more years rolled by, during which time the work had continued to grow and prosper before the present building was planned and begun. It was clearly apparent long before this time, however, that either the house must be enlarged or the congregation cease growing. Of course, the latter was unthinkable, so there was no alternative; a larger and more commodious building became a necessity.

It was in 1916 that the conviction for the new building began to take on concrete form, when a few of the members began to make regular contributions to a building fund; great praise is due these faithful souls for their faith and persistence. The first problem before the church at that time was to acquire real estate sufficient for the enlargement of the house. At that time the property consisted of one lot, 50x140 feet, on which stood both the church house and the pastor's home. A vacant lot adjoining the church lot on the east side was apparently available. Under the leadership of Rev. P. P. Gatlin, an attempt was made to procure this lot. It seemed at first that there would be no trouble in procuring a title to this property, but it belonged to an estate which had not been settled. The price was agreed upon and the deed written but when the time for the deal to be confirmed it was found impossible to make the deal so matters had to stop and we were at a standstill for three or four years.

During the service of Rev. E. F. Adams, as pastor of the church, other attempts were made to begin the erection of a new building but the fact of not having the adjoining lot and many other obstacles were encountered; but the fund for the new building continued to grow, slowly but steadily.

The present incumbent as pastor, Rev. C. H. Warren, came to the work the first of May, 1919. Among the things agreed upon between him and a committee of men from the church, one was that a suitable building for the future growth of the church would be erected.

The new pastor had not been on the field long before he discovered some barriers to the building program. One of these barriers was the status of the deal for the lot next to the church. Another was the post war inflation in the prices of building material; but the worst of all was a sentiment of reaction against the whole proposition. Some did not believe that it could be done; some did not believe that it ought to be done and some were determined that it should not be done; but there were others, and many of them, too, that believed that it ought to be done and that through faith in God could be done and that "by the grace of God" it must be done.

Our first problem then was to obtain the lot, if at all possible. It was a long and tedious undertaking. Negotiations were reopened with the heirs of the property. Mr. J. E. Warren, an attorney of Mayfield, and brother of the pastor, was engaged to look after all the legal matters. He freely and cheerfully gave of his time and service in procuring titles and straightening out all legal tangles. In about one year a title in fee simple to the lot was secured. The next problem was to remove the pastor's home from the lot on which the church building was to be erected to the lot just secured. This was begun in July, 1920. The removal and remodeling of the home necessitated the raising of considerable money. About forty-five hundred dollars was raised and paid out in paying for the lot and remodeling the home and liquidating all outstanding indebtedness. This phase of the work was completed in the autumn of 1920.

For the next three years work was carried on in the old building, but sentiment continued to grow for the new building and contributions for this cause continued to come in. Several special offerings were made for the work during this time, to which the people gave generously. By the middle of the year 1923 it was plain that something must be done to relieve the congested conditions of the Sunday School and B. Y. P. U. work to say nothing of the fact that people were being turned away from the preaching services for want of room. Again some conscientious objections was registered against starting the building. As a last measure it was decided to erect a temporary structure on the rear of the church lot to house a part of the Sunday School and the B. Y. P. U.'s. This building would have cost considerable money and would have put us no nearer the desired goal so it turned out that on the third Sunday in September by unanimous vote, the church authorized the appointment of a building committee and instructed this committee to dismantle the old building, and prepare the ground for the new one. During the week following, the organ and furniture were removed and stored. The services were held on the fourth Sunday in the City Hall at which time the pastor announced that he was leaving the next morning for a meeting in Arkadelphia, Ark., and called for voluntary labor to raze the old building. For the next three weeks the most loyal crew of men that ever laid hands to a task worked day and night in removing the building and preparing the ground for the contractors to begin the work.

During the remainder of the fall and during the winter the work on building the basement was prosecuted with vigor. The months that followed from September to the next April was one of the greatest tests of loyalty ever experienced by a congregation but there was no letting down in the work. Every department of the church continued to grow.

On the first Sunday in April, 1924, we entered the basement of the new building. From that time to the present we have had opportunity to test and demonstrate the loyalty and faith of the congregation. They have been great but strenuous days. We have entailed some serious losses, for which the writer of this sketch is profoundly sorry—some by death, some by removal and some who have quit the church outright. Those who have died we grieve for; those who have moved away we miss, and those who have fallen out of duty we invite and urge back into the work.

Early in the year 1925, the Lord had brought things to pass that made it possible for us to begin building the main auditorium and the building above the basement. The contract was let to Valentine Bros., the latter part of May to complete the walls and put the building under roof. In July it was decided to purchase the windows. This contract was let to Jacoby Art Glass Co., of St. Louis, Mo., on August 1. The windows did not arrive until January, 1926. Soon after the windows were installed, it was decided to complete the building and install and enlarge the pipe organ. Valentine Bros., was again awarded the contract for this work of completing the building and Joseph G. Ciprian was given the contract of rebuilding the organ. It was at first contemplated to use the pews from the old church and improvise additional seating for the auditorium and not purchase new pews until all other indebtedness was paid. This was soon seen to be impractical so that on March 13 a contract was made with the Manitowoc Church Furniture Co., of Waukesha, Wis., for pews and pulpit furniture and with the Peabody School Furniture Co., for chairs for the choir and balcony.

As the building now appears it represents the expenditure of approximately fifty-five thousand dollars and much prayer and sacrifice.

A matter of interest to the people of Fulton in connection with the beautiful building on the front cover of this paper is the fact that not one dollar was spent for either material or labor that could be procured in Fulton, outside of the city. We believe that Fulton merchants and workmen are as good as are to be found elsewhere; then why not patronize home industries? It is alike complimentary both to the church and to the local banking institutions that throughout our entire building program the work has been financed by the local banks.

Fulton was visited last Monday afternoon by the special agricultural and industrial train of Mississippi, which has been touring the northern states for the past week or more, advertising the many advantages of that state for investment by those seeking new homes.

While hardly any one knew of their coming, as the train entered the yards from the direction of Mayfield, the whistles sounded and nearly everyone thought at first that the town was afire, but it soon discovered the long train of twelve coaches coming slowly down the yards and thronged to the tracks on Walnut and Meadows crossings to learn what it all meant.

The train carried a 29-piece band and 192 Mississippians whose object in life for the moment, is to boost "Old Mississippi." Lieut. Gov. Dennis Murphy headed the party as general chairman, with Dr. J. E. Underwood in charge of the health exhibit; agriculture, R. S. Wilson; transportation, J. Ed Ruff; Industries, P. P. Garner, with Rev. W. L. Stormont as chaplain.

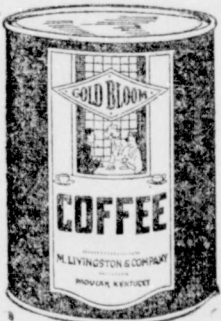

The exhibit most talked of during the few minutes that the train stopped here were Miss Inez Harden, of Drew, Sun Flower county, and Miss Gladys Hughes, of Moorehead, also Sun Flower county. These two young ladies are said to be as nearly as possible, two perfect human beings of the male persuasion.

The members of the party were lavish with printed matter, telling of their native state's many advantages, and next to Kentucky, they may be right in claiming they have the finest state in the south.

When Business is Good

SATURDAY night is a mighty good time to ask yourself
this question: "Is our community sending more money out of town than is coming in each week?" Of course the only safe answer is "NO!"

This means that we folks in this neighborhood must patronize local supply men and merchants if we expect our town to prosper and "stay on the map."

Frankly, it means that every citizen will find it most profitable to read the advertisements in this paper every issue, and to follow their good advice.

Our advertisers are all personally interested in this town—and in YOU. They are helping you build a better home community.
When business is good, their profits are being shared with you in an endless chain of co-operative betterment.

FROM PRIVATE TO MAJOR GENERAL WITH THE
U. S. ARMY

Major General Brown, Commanding Officer of the First Corps Area, Boston, Mass., entered the army in his youth, from a Kentucky town at the foot of the Cumberland mountains, in 1894, and within two years he had qualified for a commission and on March 26, 1897, he was discharged from the army while holding the grade of corporal to accept appointment as a second lieutenant of infantry.

In those days, preparatory schools for soldiers studying for commission, such as are in operation all over the army, today, were not available, but West Point graduates even then had established the custom of teaching ambitious young men of their command.

Up to 1921, General Brown had served through every Commission grade to Brigadier General. During the World war he was successively Chief of Staff, 2nd Division; Chief of Staff, 4th Army Corps, Commanding General, 3rd Division, and Assistant Chief of Staff, Advanced Headquarters, Germany. This included service in battles near Chateau Thierry, Soissons, Saint Mihiel and the Argonne-Meuse.

General Brown said in telling of his experiences that the army trained man knows his trade and he knows service; Opportunity is where you find it, and how you seize it. There is opportunity in the army for any man with ambition to succeed. This is the way this general who is up from the ranks, sees it.

Not only General Brown, but General Harbord, who also came up from the ranks, and numerous other commissioned officers, who are on active duty and holding ranks from Second Lieutenant to Major General, are all up from the ranks. Today the United States army is building men, not only in education, but in character and physique as well. The army holds open at West Point, each year, one hundred and ten vacancies for men who desire to qualify for entrance to become commissioner officers. Men are accepting the many opportunities that the army presents them today—trades, elementary, preparatory, high schools and colleges—the road of success is open to you.

Men who have accepted these opportunities in the past few days are as follows: Lige M. Robinson, age 21, Milan, Tenn., and John Luman, Chicago, Ill. Robinson going to Fort Humphreys, Va., and Luman to 11th Infantry, Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind.

Call at the Recruiting Office, and get full information on the Soldier and the Army of Today. Recruiting Office, Fulton, Ky.

ATTENTION, FARMERS!

We can insure your tobacco while firing (in Tennessee only). Why take a chance on losing your year's work when by paying a small premium you can save it. If we fail to see you, call us or come to our office. Fall & Colley, Fulton, Ky.

RAILWAY TAXES MOUNTING

The railroads are constantly seeking economies that will improve their service, reduce their rates or strengthen their earning power. That they are successful in such efforts is indicated by the fact that not merely one but all three of these important and worthwhile benefits have resulted from the notable railway economies effected in the last few years.

One item of railway expense has been going up, however, while most other items have been coming down. The taxes levied upon and collected from the railroads constitute one expense over which the railroads exercise no control, and railway taxes are increasing steadily in the face of reductions in nearly every other item of railway expense.

Going back ten years, railway taxes for 1916 amounted to approximately $430,000 a day. Every year since then they have increased over the preceding year, and for 1926 they will exceed $1,000,000 a day. In the last five years, a period of great economy in railway management and operation, the daily tax bill of the railroads has increased on the average more than $47,000 from year to year.

Not only are railway taxes constantly increasing in the aggregate, but it takes a greater portion of total railway revenues to pay them. In 1920 it took 4.4 cents out of each dollar the railroads received to pay their taxes. In 1925 it took 5.9 cents. This year, present indications are, it will take between 6 and 7 cents.

Part of the increase in railway taxes is due, of course, to somewhat increased railway earnings and to improvements which have added to the taxable value of railway property, but the greater part of the increase is the result of new taxes and of increases in state and local tax rates. More than three-fourths of all railway taxes are levied by state and local governments, and the necessity for additional money to meet principal and interest payments on indebtedness contracted by these governments has been a considerable factor in making for greatly increased railway taxes. In the six years, 1920 to 1925, inclusive, state and local governments increased their debts approximately six and three-quarter billion dollars. Principal and interest payments on outstanding bonds now consume about 10 per cent of state and about 20 per cent of local government expenditures.

The railroads ask neither favored treatment in tax rates nor exemption from any part of general taxation. They are willing to pay their share of taxes. But, since they practice economy themselves with such good results, they feel it is proper to urge economy in government, which benefits everybody. Most of the taxes that are levied on railway property are also levied on farm lands and buildings, stores, manufacturing plants and other forms of private enterprise. Taxes must come out of the productive activities of the country, and they are shared, indirectly, if not directly, by everyone. The public, which pays all taxes in one form or another, is the ultimate beneficiary of all movements for tax reduction.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

C. H. MARKHAM,
President, Illinois Central System.

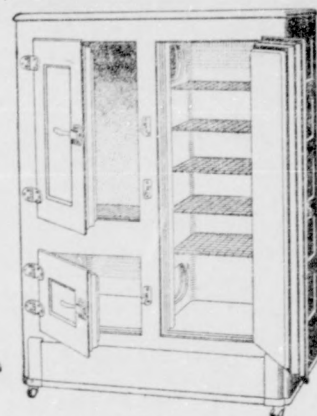

CHICAGO, September 1, 1926.
